THE STATE INTRODUCES EVIDENCE TO CONNECT ADAMS WITH HAYWOOD

As a Fellow Conspirator In Several Western Crimes.

Detective Pender From Ogden First Witness of Day.

Boise, Idaho, June 15.—The seats outside the bar were not more than half filled when court opened in the Haywood case this morning. J. T. Pender, the detective from Ogden, who arrested Steve Adams in a fruit car at Ogden, was recalled. Senator Borah stated to the court that in the statement made by Orchard and the testimony of Pender upon the stand yesterday that Adams sent a telegram to Haywood, thus linking Steve Adams as a co-conspirator with Haywood, the state had a right to introduce Pender's testimony as to his knowledge of the contents of the telegram. Judge Wood said he had no doubt as to the admissibility of the evidence, but ruled that the state must lay foundation to show that the original

DAY OF QUIET FOR MR. TAFT

Secretary Prevailed Upon to Spend Saturday in St. Paul.

St. Paul, June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary of War Taft, who became suddenly ill while reviewing the troops at Fort Snelling, yesterday, is much better today. When Dr. Sneve called on Mr. Taft, at J. C. Hills' home this morning, Mr. Taft told him that last night was the first time in three weeks that he had had a good night's rest.

J. C. Hill informed a representative of the Associated Press that Secretary Taft felt well enough to continue on his trip West this morning, "but," said Mr. Hill, "we have prevailed upon Mr. Taft to remain here quietly today, as we believe a whole day of quiet will fully restore him. Mr. Taft will leave tonight for Sioux Falls and other Northwestern points on his itinerary."

BIG SALE OF TIMBER

Will be Held at Cass Lake on July 17.

Government Announces Rules to Govern the Ten Sections.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rules and regulations were announced at the interior department for the sale and removal of the down timber on what is known as the "ten sections" in the state of Minnesota, which lands form part of what is commonly known as the "Minnesota national forest." These ten sections were selected by the forester of the department of agriculture under the provisions of the act of June 27, 1902, and the tracts all contain very valuable timber.

The ten sections are located along the east shore of Cass lake and around Pike bay and extend to the limits of the city of Cass lake. The timber to be sold amounts to 2,055,500 feet of merchantable down timber and 262 cords of unmerchantable down timber, which has been blown down by storms. This timber will be sold under sealed bids, which will be opened at the land office at Cass Lake on July 17, 1907, the timber will be sold to the highest bidder at not less than the minimum price of $4 per thousand for white and $3 per thousand for Norway pine. The rules governing the sale of this timber are substantially similar to those which have been provided for former sales of timber on the ceded Chippewa lands. Neither the lands nor the standing timber are involved in this sale.

THREE LIVES LOST IN STORM IN BLACK HILLS

Deadwood, S. D., June 15.—The Black Hills has been entirely cut off from communication with the outside world since the evening of the 12th. A rain and hail storm, lasting six hours, washed out railroad bridges and tracks and destroyed telegraph wires.

Three people are known to have lost their lives. Mrs. Anderson of Piedmont was alone with her two children in her home when a cloudburst swept down the canyon. The torrent cut a channel twenty feet wide and ten feet deep, sweeping away all buildings in its course. With no warning in time to escape, Mrs. Anderson and two children were drowned.

Reports of loss and destruction continue to come in from surrounding towns and mining camps, but until communication is again established it is impossible to know the loss of life or property.

From twenty to thirty railroad bridges are down and the road beds washed out in many places.

GUESTS ARE FRIGHTENED

By the Burning of Olympic Theater at Chicago.

Union Hotel Adjoins the Playhouse on the East.

Chicago, June 15.—The Olympic theater, the oldest vaudeville house in Chicago, was practically destroyed by fire at midnight last night. The loss will exceed $150,000.

The fire caused terror among the guests in the Union hotel, which adjoins the theater on the east. All were advised to pack their trunks and vacate.

Crossed electric wire between the first and second galleries are supposed to have caused the fire. The flames made rapid headway at first and gave the firemen a hard struggle, threatening for a time to spread to the Union hotel and the Ashland block.

Chief Horan, while directing his men at the Clark street entrance, was felled to the floor by a shower of debris and but for the helmet that was crushed down on his face probably would

KIDNAPED BOY FOUND AT LAST

Abducted From His Home Over One Year Ago.

North Baltimore, Ohio, June 15.—Herbert Sinclair, the 11-year-old son of a music dealer in Tyrone, Pa., has been captured after a years' abduction, if the story the youth tells is true. The child said he was taken from his parents by a tramp, who made him live the life of a vagabond, until he was finally taken into the home of a kind woman in McVeytown, Pa. He was shortly taken from this place, and has been moving about the country ever since.

The rescue of the child was brought about under peculiar circumstances. He was walking down the tracks, with his alleged abductors, who were unmercifully beating him. The arrest of the party followed, and the child told his story.

He was taken to the home of George B. Fulton, mayor of North Baltimore, where he will stay until arrangements for his return home have been completed. His parents were notified, and word was received from his father.

MUST PAY FARE.

Railroad Boys Can't Deadhead Their Friends to Hudson Outing.

Ashland, Wis., June 15.—The North-Western Railway company has decided that its car shop employes cannot legally have their friends accompany them on their annual excursion to Hudson today unless full fare is paid to the company. It has been the company's custom to give its employes full control of the train for their annual picnic, and allow them to take whom they wanted. Anyone not an employe of the company must pay full fare.

UNIVERSAL PEACE AND DISARMAMENT ARE NOT YET TO BE ATTAINED

Says President Nelidoff in Opening the Peace Conference.

Disputes May Be Adjusted Although Conflicts Are Unavoidable.

The Hague, June 15.—M. Nelidoff opened the peace conference today by affirming that universal peace and disarmament were unattainable. The deliberate utterances of the Russian statesman, although pessimistic to the extent referred to, were hopeful when later he said he believed that a better method for the judicial adjustment of disputes was possible, even though all conflicts between nations were no more avoidable than conflicts between individuals.

In the course of his address, M. Nelidoff greatly pleased the American delegates by the high tribute which he paid to President Roosevelt and Andrew Carnegie, not mentioning any other countries or rulers.

The references to President Roosevelt in the speeches of both Dr. Van Tets van Goudriain, the Netherland's foreign minister, and M. Nelidorff, were greeted with rounds of applause.

The whole ceremony lasted hardly twenty minutes, when the conference adjourned until Wednesday.

Tea was served in the main hall and the committee rooms after the adjournment.

A drizzling, overcast day ushered in the second peace conference. The depressing weather conditions, however, did not prevent the government of the Netherlands from trying to give the city a gala appearance. The red, white and blue flag of Holland, side by side with the orange standard of the house of Nassau, was hoisted over every public building, and many private residences flew the national colors. Fortunately the clouds began to break toward noon and the people were soon gathering to witness the arrival of the distinguished foreigners at the ancient portals of the Binnenhof, within the walls of which is located the old castle in which the sittings of the conference will be held, devoid, however, of pomp and glitter.

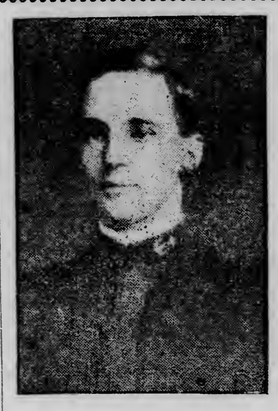

As upon the occasion of the first conference the government of the Netherlands in order to lay stress on the peaceful character and objects of the conference specially requested the delegates and military and naval attaches not to appear in uniform or wear any insignia of their rank.

New York, June 15.—Louise Lonsdale, a chorus girl, according to her own admission, is shortly to be married to Blaine Elkins, son of Senator Elkins, of West Virginia, and the engagement will be announced in a few days. It is also said that a sister of Miss Lonsdale is to be married to Richard Elkins, another son of the West Virginia senator.

MORE TIME ASKED FOR

By Committee Which is Investigating Douma Charges.

Want Until Next Monday Before Making a Report.

St. Petersburg, June 15.—The parliament committee which has been examining the indictment of the fifty-five Social Democratic members charged with conspiring against the government has decided that it is impossible to review all the evidence today and will ask the house to give it until Monday to report.

Premier Stolypin's attitude on the postponment is not yet manifest but it may result in deferring the crisis until next week.

M. Kameshansky, the prosecutor of the St. Petersburg courts is now before the committee furnishing explanations.

St. Petersburg, June 15.—The second Russian parliament, the Associated Press is informed on ministerial authority, will be dissolved tonight by an imperial edict which will be promulgated so soon as the lower house acts on Premier Stolypin's ultimatum. The possibility of the house granting the government's demand of the suspension of the fifty-five Social Democrats, members of the parliament, who are charged with conspiring against the present regime, is not being considered by either side.

The city has again assumed the ap-

TO CLOSE BIG STEEL MILL

Milliken Brothers' Receiver Can Buy Cheaper Than Manufacture.

New York, June 15.—The receivers of the Milliken Bros' corporation, which failed on Monday have decided to close the steel mill of the $7,500,000 plant on Staten Island, and have discharged 1,500 steel workers. Most of the workers will go to other steel centers to secure employment.

The reason behind the receivers' action in closing the mill was said to be their discovery that they could buy steel in the open market cheaper than they could manufacture it.

The receivers have decided to continue in operation the fabrication mill. Here the rough steel balls are shaped and made ready for use on the various buildings for which Milliken Brothers have contracts for the structural work. It was the erection of the $7,500,000 plant which crippled Milliken Brothers and forced the fifty-year-old contracting firm to the wall. It is emphatically denied by representatives of the Millikens that the discharge of the 1,500 men meant that a steel making mill so far from the steel district was a failure.

PIERCE BUTLER IS APPOINTED REGENT.

St. Paul, June 15.—Pierce Butler of St. Paul was yesterday appointed a member of the university board of regents to succeed E. W. Randall, resigned. Mr. Randall becomes dean of the state agricultural school.

SCORES ARE BADLY HURT

But One Man Thus Far Known to be Killed.

Gas Sets Fire to the Cars, Which Are Consumed.

Minot, N. D., June 15.—Great Northern passenger train No. 2, the Oriental limited, is burning up at Palermo, N. D., about forty miles west of Minot. At least one is reported killed and scores were injured. Among the killed was the fireman, whose name has not been learned. Engineer Lengavan, at first reported killed, was later reported to be alive.

The train, which was reported in Minot on time, reached Palermo about 5:30. It is not scheduled to stop between Williston and Minot, and was going at a high speed as it passed through Palermo, and as the train reached a short distance east of Palermo, it ran through a rail that spread, and the engine and every car plunged into the ditch. No sooner had the cars reached the ditch than they caught fire, through the explosion of gas. Word reached Minot soon after the wreck, and Dr. L. H. Kermott, with assistants and a wrecking crew, left for the scene on a special train of wrecking apparatus and several passenger cars, in which the injured will be brought to this city.

Conductor Rogers was in charge of the limited train, and it is not known wheher he was injured or not. Very few details of the wreck had reached Minot at an early hour, but enough came to indicate that the wreck is one of the most disastrous on this division of the Great Northern.

St. Paul, June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. Watrous of the Great Northern here says that no definite statement of the wreck of the Oriental limited had been received up to 11:30 today. They know there is a wreck, and that is about all he says. Mr. Watrous said their wires in that section were down on account of a storm or some other cause, and definite news would be late in coming to headquarters.

MAY BE GOOD FOR A WHILE

Graft Crusade May Benefit Frisco for Ten Years.

Will Forget Lesson in That Time, Says Former Mayor.

New York, June 15.—Former Mayor James D. Phelan of San Francisco, who is at the Waldorf-Astoria, is quoted in an interview today as saying that San Francisco will be good for ten years as a result of the graft crusade. Mr. Phelan said:

"San Francisco will have good government for ten years, or until men forget the lesson. Some one has said that memory takes a vacation every ten years. We have shown the rest of the world that we mean business and the moral effect of our probe on the entire country is bound to have a beneficial effect."

San Francisco, June 15.—This morning a formal motion for the release of Mayor Schmitz under bonds was argued before Judge Dunne, an informal motion to that effect presented by his counsel having been denied.

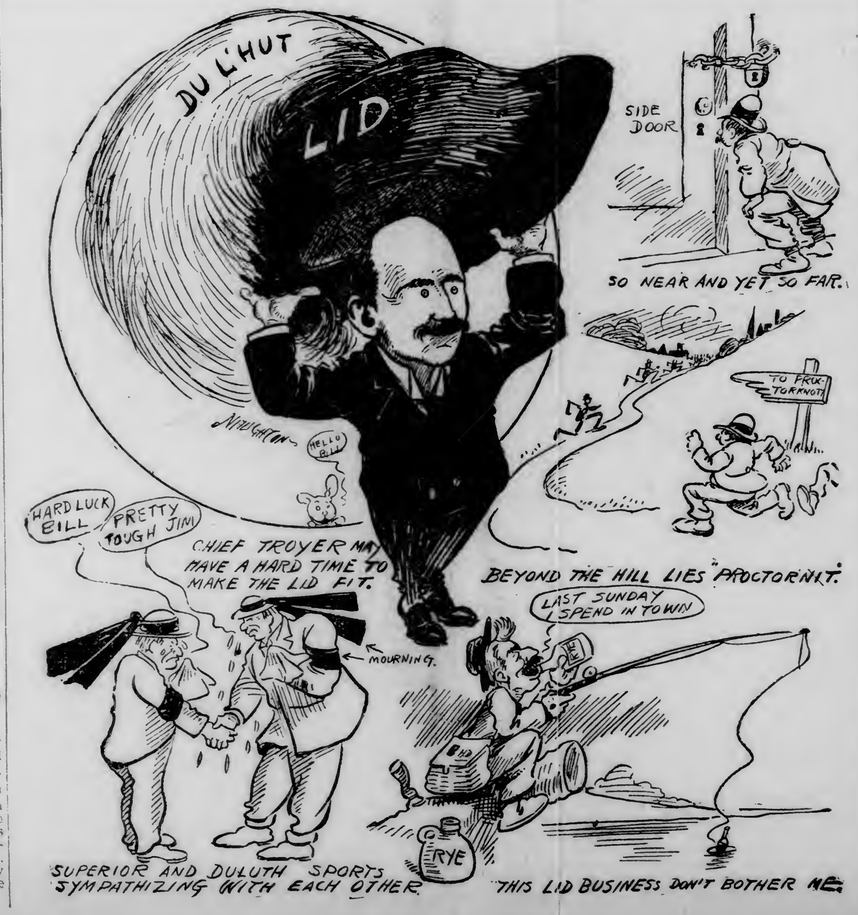

The motion for Schmitz' admission to bail in contravention of statute law will be based on the ground that he is charged with duties that he cannot perform if he remains in the custody of the sheriff.

The court in denying the informal motion advised counsel that while he would listen to argument on the formal motion if the prisoner chose to present it, that if any variation from the regular proceedure were granted by the court it would be only on an usual showing.

It is understood that the question of policy as well as law, will govern in.

KILLING MADE PEOPLE ANGRY

Prompt Action Prevented the Lynching of Franklin's Slayer.

Bemidji, Minn., June 15. — (Special to The Herald.)—Additional details were received here today from Spooner on the killing of August Franklin yesterday morning by Martin S. Munn and the steps that were taken to prevent the vengeance of an indignant people being meted out on the murderer. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin came to Beaudette last March, Franklin accepting a position with the Williams Hardware store, at Beaudette. Mrs. Franklin formed a copartnership with Martin S. Munn in the Home restaurant at Spooner. Franklin opposed the partnership between his wife and Munn after the building was leased, not wanting Mrs. Franklin to be at the restaurant. Franklin came home Thursday night and after talking with his wife concerning the restaurant business told her that he intended to leave, but before leaving would throw Munn out of the house. Mrs. Franklin had been sick in her bed for a week past. Yesterday forenoon while Mrs. Franklin was lying in her room she heard Franklin in an adjoining room say: "If you don't get out double quick I will kill you."

Munn demanded what wrong he had done to Franklin. Mrs. Franklin says she then heard a slap. She rushed towards the adjoining room and reached the door just as the report of a pistol shot rang out.

Franklin was leaning against a table with his hands stretched out while Munn was standing beside him, white as a sheet, with a smoking revolver in his hands. Mrs. Franklin took her husband in her arms and sank to the floor with him, where he expired. Munn rushed from the room into an adjoining building and said he had shot a man. Munn was immediately arrested. There were many threats of lynching the murderer, and in order to prevent any violence being done, the prisoner, Attorney George Erickson and Marshal Thomas Driscoll took him to Warroad and placed him in jail at that place. Franklin leaves a wife and three children.

HUSBAND TIRES OF HER.

Mrs. Joseph Burns Asks District Court for Divorce.

Claiming that her husband had treated her cruelly, that he has become tired of her, and intends to get a younger and better woman to take her place, Lillie Burns has instituted divorce proceedings in the district court against Joseph Burns. Mrs. Burns claims that her husband actually brought another woman to the house and introduced her as the wife's successor. She claims further that Burns has made threats against her life. Besides a divorce, Mrs. Burns wants $75 suit money and her share of their property at 1103 West Michigan street.

ARMAMENT QUESTION

Will Not be Brought Up by United States at The Hague.

Washington, June 15.—It can be stated on authority that the American delegates to The Hague conference will not bring up for discussion the question of limitation of armaments. That matter is regarded as a purely European question at present and as the result of a year's work by Prof. de Martens at the various capitals of Europe, has been to thrash out pretty thoroughly the whole matter and make evident the fact that at least four of the great powers are averse to the consideration of the disarmament question the Washington government regards itself as relieved from the necessity of bringing this matter to the foreign countries. It is the opinion here that the subject of limitation of armament will not now be broached by any of the powers represented at The Hague conference.

GRANDE IS PACKING UP

Expects to Start for California With Officers Sunday.

His Attorney Advises Him Further Fight is Useless.

Joseph Grande, who has been held at the county jail for the California authorities for several weeks past, and who has been fighting extradition through the district and state supreme courts, is packing his trunk today with the expectation of starting tomorrow for Stockton, Cal., with Deputy Sheriff C. C. Case of San Joaquin county.

When the state supreme court, a few days ago, sustained the order of the district court dismissing Grande's writ of habeas corpus, he declared his intention of carrying the case to the United States supreme court, a stay of ten days being given him to take the necessary steps.

It is said that Grande, dissatisfied with the efforts of local attorneys in his behalf, sent to Minneapolis for an attorney by the name of Odell, who defended Doyle, the bigamist.

Mr. Odell is said to have notified Grande that it was useless for him to fight extradition any longer, and the later has, figuratively speaking, laid down.

Two days ago Grande was boasting that he would never be taken back to California in irons, that he would kill the officer attempting to take him with irons, or, failing to do this, his wife would blow the officer's head off. He also declared that he would have trusted friends on the train, and every time he passed a state line he would refuse to go further, and begin legal fights against extradition in every state between Minnesota and California. He further promised that after he has finished with the California authorities he would come back to Duluth, sue the chief of police, the sheriff and others, and make the papers retract the things they have said about him.

BEER SALES HUMMING

Duluthians Are Stocking Up for a Dry Sunday.

This has been a great day for bottled beer in Duluth. The prospects of the "lid" tomorrow without a chance for a drink during the whole day, has boosted the sales of the amber colored refreshment amazingly and the breweries report a record breaking day up to 3 o'clock. And the worst, of course, is not yet. The majority of the orders caused by the fact that the lid will be on tight tomorrow, are due to come during the late afternoon, and it will not be until the last driver who gets in tonight submits his report, that the effect of the threatening lid is known.

Many of he breweries could not give very definite statements as to the increase in their business, as their drivers only report at noon and again this evening, but the noon reports showed an unusually busy morning, even for the usually busy Saturday, and they were all making preparations for an unusually large number of case orders this afternoon.

The retail dealers had not begun to feel the effects of the all day closing very seriously up to 3 o'clock. "We are counting on a record breaking night tonight right up to 12 o'clock," said one of the West Superior street bartenders this morning. "They will all wait until evening to stock up for tomorrow. Besides the bottled stuff which will undoubtedly be in demand, we are figuring on doing a good business across the bar, as fellows will tak a last drink to help them over the long dry spell until the opening time Monday morning. No, we have got no formal notice of the closing yet. I expect Chief Troyer's statements in the newspapers may be regarded as sufficient."

DAM GIVES WAY.

Great Alarm Felt for People Along the Caiche la Poudre River.

Fort Collins, Colo., June 15.—Great alarm is felt here over a report from up the river that the big dam at Chambers lake, which has been holding back 70,000 cubic feet of water, has gone out and that a wall of water five feet high is now rushing down the Caiche la Poudre river. It is believed that all the people living in the lowlands and on the river banks have escaped but it is feared that many fishermen may have been caught in the flood.

For Fond du Lac.

The steamer Newsboy will start tomorrow for the season on its regular trips to Fond du Lac, weather permitting. Lunch served on board, or at the grove adjoining Chambers, until such time as Chambers is ready. They will make two trips daily, 9 a. m. and 2 p. m.; 50 cents for round trips, and around the horn at 8:30 p. m. Get ready and spend a pleasant day up the river to beautiful Fond du Lac away from the heat and turmoil of the city.

FORESTERS NEXT YEAR.

Crookston, Minn., June 15.—The grand lodge of the Minnesota jurisdiction of the Independent Order of Foresters in session here has decided to meet next year in Duluth. The Zenith City has a large delegation here.

SUPERIOR NEWS

CELEBRATE THE FOURTH

Superior Will Have an Old Fashioned Holiday.

Sports in the Afternoon and Fireworks in the Evening.

The eagle will be made to scream at Superior, July 4.

The citizens of that place have determined to have a regular old-fashioned celebration of the nation's Independence day, and the preliminary steps have been taken by the appointment of a committee on arrangements, comprised of Levi Fulton, Bert Gallagher, Olaf Johnson and Frank Hinkel. The celebration will receive the support of the business men and the citizens generally.

The plans contemplate the use of Ogden avenue, between Third and Eighth streets, for the games, the avenue being paved with tar macadam.

The festivities will be rounded off in the evening with a big display of fireworks.

PICKED UP BOY

And Father Swore Out a Warrant for Assault.

The mishaps which attended the well-meaning Mr. Butt-in of comic supplement fame, are not in it with the variety of hard-luck of Charles Frank, a Superior employment agent, when he attempted a little Christian charity this morning.

A little 6-year-old boy came toddling past his place and, just as he was in front of the door, slipped and fell. Frank hurried out and picked the lad up to find that his nose was bleeding. Just as he was lifting the youngster from the sidewalk, J. Azinski, the father of the boy, came along and, seeing the bleeding nose, hastened to swear out a warrant for Frank's arrest on a charge of assaulting the boy. The little one was absent from home for some time, and his parents had been looking for him.

Frank was arraigned before Judge Parker this afternoon, and upon pleading not guilty to the charge, was released on $25 bail.

TIRED OF STRIKE.

Shipyard Men Will Probably Go to Work Monday.

The strike at the Superior shipyards will probably be settled Monday, and it is expected that such of the men as can find work will go back.

The company claims, however, that it is not in need of men, and it is not likely that all of them will be able to secure work. The company refuses to recognize the union, but many of the old workmen will probably be taken back on the old scale of wages.

The men are tired of the strike, and the officers of the union are expected to call it off tomorrow.

ANNOUNCES APPOINTMENT.

J. H. Holman Will Succeed Dr. Booth on School Board.

Mayor Linley yesterday announced the appointment of J. H. Holman as member of the board of education from the Fourth ward. He is to fill the place of Louis Weinstein, who was recently appointed by the mayor but who has submitted a letter to the chief executive stating that for business reasons he cannot accept the position.

Mr. Holman is not new to the business of the Superior school board as he served two three year terms some time ago being appointed in 1892. Mr. Holman, in taking Mr. Weinstein's place will succeed Dr. H. P. Booth who was appointed by Mayor O'Hare.

The delegation from the Eagles' convention returned home last evening happy in their successful fight for the convention next year. The fact that they secured the next convention for the Wisconsin city, means that over 2,000 members of the order from all parts of the Badger state will visit the town during the week of the convention.

THE GREAT RED PLAGUE---FIRE

By F. W. Fitzpatrick of Washington, D. C., Consulting Architect and Executive Officer of the International Society of Municipal Building Commissioners.

The country has grown to the point where everything about it is big; its commerce, its products, yes, even its crimes are colossal. Presumably to keep things harmonic we permit our fire waste, our national ash heap, to also be mammoth, incidentally losing sight of the fact, however, that it is, at the same time, idiotic. Our burnt offerings, our national ash pile, could well be called a tribute to the "merciless stupidity of the most enlightened nation on earth!"

The strange thing about it all is that so much is said in the daily and periodic press about life insurance abuses, the piccadilloes or more serious offenses of state and municipal grafters and all that sort of thing, indeed a wave of reform has made itself felt the country over, but so far little or nothing has been done to reform one of the greatest abuses, the costliest and most murderous of municipal ills, from which we suffer—fire. True, millions are spent in actually fighting fire, but a minute's thought is sufficient to convince anyone that an attempt at cure is futile. Preventive measures can be the only solution of the matter.

A normal year's losses (and, by the way, there are mighty few normal years, what with Baltimore in 1904 and San Francisco in 1906) mean $200,000,000 in smoke. At least another $150,000,000 is spent in alleged fire protection, fire departments, high pressure water plants, etc., beyond which we expend another $196,000,000 in attempting to get some solace via the fire-insurance route. The sum of those figures represents our annual normal cost of fire. In 1905 a phenomenally prosperous and busy year in building, we did in actual construction and repairs of buildings, $525,000,000. What think you of a nation that wastes as much as it produces? We burn up more property than a half dozen first class nations put together. Just fire, eliminating insurance, protection and everything else, merely smoke, costs us over $2 per capita a year; the average of all Europe is less than $0.33 per capital.

Incidentally we have destroyed over 6,000 human lives by fire in one year's time.

But all this is a normal year's record. See what we did in 1906. At no time or place on earth has there been so much building done. We passed the $600,000,000 mark in construction that year, but what with San Francisco and our "regular fires," we also destroyed over $500,000,000 worth of property! The cost of our alleged fire protection has also increased and we have gambled with the insurance companies in still heavier amounts than usual, so that our total expenditure for fire must be away in excess of $700,000,000. It indeed is a cancer eating at the very vitals of our economic structure, a devastating plague. The apotheosis of folly!

Few people realize the degree in which gambling penetrates the business fabric. We see the work of the gamblingbug but accept it as a matter of course. Rather than build a little better and thus avoid fire, we have built, to use a mild term, "rottenly," but have sought "protection" from the gentlemen who, banded together in that legitimate spoliation under the name of fire insurance, have graciously condescended to sit in the game with us and rake in our shekles. We have paid them in premiums since 1860, $3,622,000,000, or, just in the past ten years, $1,610,835,000. In 1905 we carried into the "house" over $196,000,000 in premiums and got back in salve for out losses a trifle over $95,000,0000. See how far that solace goes. Take San Francisco as an example; over $300,000,000 went up in smoke there. The loss in business to the city and to the country generally as a result of that fire very nearly reached $1,000,000,000; it is costing fully $12,000,000 to clear away the debris and $350,000,000, at least, and twenty years' time will be expended to repair the damage. Meanwhile the insurance companies have figgured their losses and find that they owe San Francisco $132,000,000. Surely it was a most unprofitable gamble for San Francisco.

Yet the insurance companies wrote a very low rate on San Francisco, because, forsooth, of its excellent fire department. People gauged the requirements of construction thereby and built just as shoddily as insurance regulations would permit. They and the people of the country at large have virtually been seduced into combustible, shoddy construction of buildings under false pretenses made by the non-prohibitive rates of the fire insurance companies.

Wood has been another curse of the country. It is almost a blessing in disguise that our forests are well nigh devasted by our extravagant ruthlessness, because even to the most obtuse it must be evident that the use of wood is no longer economy. A building of steel frame and hollow fireproofing tile, costs but a fraction over 10 per cent more in first cost than does the usual frame of wood with wooden joists and studs. The life of such framing is infintely longer than the old wood affair, the cost of maintenance is less, so is the insurance rate, and, all in all, in a very few years' time, good construction not only means safety, but an actual economy. The enclosing of stirways and elevator wells, the protection of windows and sky lights with wired glass, the making of a building fireproof in design costs nothing more in money than the cheap fire traps, but is merely the expenditure of a little intelligence on the part of the architects.

Millions are spent yearly in handling this plague, but only hundreds are doled out in steps to prevent its outbreak.

Looked at fairly, says the American Architect, the leading architectural journal of the country, it is the community at large that is the culprit, since it "suffers" fires to take place, when it really has the power to prevent them. It looks calmly on at the expenditure of millions annually, millions that come out of its own pockets, for the maintenance of imperfectly effective fire-departments, and yet if but half of the money spent in this way had been used in the difference in cost between combustible and incombustible construction, the greater part of our cities would now be indestructible.

It has been the assumption that a real estate improver, as a sane business man, should be able to perceive how much it was to his own ultimate advantage to build an indestructible building. The true theory is that incombustible buildings must be built. It is really immaterial to the taxpayer whether an individual collects let his building be destroyed by fire, but it is of very real interest to the public that the lives and property of other people shall not be jeopardized and destroyed at the same time. It is desirable to substitute unburnable for burnable buildings with the shortest delay possible, since a conflagration may occur any day, and the process can be better accomplished by coaxing than by compulsion.

The one thing for our municipalities to do is to arrange the taxation of property in accordance with the latter's permanency and indestructibility. A fixed rate on ground values and a sliding rate on buildings, the minimum on fireproof buildings and the maximum on firetraps would be perfectly equitable to all. It would put the burden of paying for the maintenance of fire departments upon those who needed the service, and would mean a lessened load of tax on those who are public-spirited as well as business like enough to build so as to not require such service. It is the one sane municipal solution of the problem the one way of extracting ourselves from under the yoke of the insurance companies; the surest means of stopping the ravages of the great red plague—Fire.

WOMAN ROBBED OF PURSE AT ST. PAUL.

St. Paul, June 15.—(Special to the Herald.)—Mrs. W. H. Orme, wife of W. H. Orme, principal of the Grand school, was robbed at Eleventh and Minnesota streets Friday afternoon.

She was walking with another lady and a man snatched a chatelaine bag she was carrying and ran away.

The bag contained an order on the German American National bang for her husband's salary, a gold watch and chain and a number of trinkets. As the thief ran he emptied the bag of most of its contents and everything except the order was recovered.

There is little chance of the order being cashed as the banks of the city have been notified not to honor it.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN AND PRESENT DAY POLITICS

No statesman is quoted so earnestly in America, for his supposed views on topics of our day, as Abraham Lincoln. It is a usual experience to see contemporary arguments based on the opinions of George Washington, but even he comes below Lincoln in this species of appeal. The name of Jefferson, of course is used daily to decorate the close and serious application to the question that is made of Lincoln's name. Marshall, Webster, Calhoun, Clay and the leaders generally in debating and developing the constitution are quoted less than formerly, and Hamilton, strong as he remains, is not a name to conjure with. Lincoln's opinions hold a place apart.

The reason for this is to be found not in superiority to the other statesmen in analysis of public questions. The domination of the Lincoln idea is a moral domination. It is his personality, his type, that the people worship and appeal to. That aspect of him which is most alive today, which will for centuries bear most fruit, is the quality of his spirit—his richness in those principles which are generally associated with the religion of Jesus. Universality of sympathy was his, and it belonged not to Hamilton, or Jefferson, or Webster, or Calhoun. Washington had an all-including sense of right and justice, but it sprang from his brain; it did not include great humanity of emotion. The key-note of the traditional Lincoln (which is in a large way true of the actual Lincoln) is charity, or love of all men—charity, which means sorrow, the sorrow of understanding, the sorrow of an open heart. A strong American, John Quincy Adams used the words: "In charity to all mankind, bearing no malice or ill-will to any human being, and even compassionating those who hold in bondage their fellow men, not knowing what they do."

Such would be the spirit in which Lincoln would perform his duties if he were alive today. He would take a position, firm and disinterested, on each important question that it became necessary to decide, but there would be for him no diatribe, no violence, no stirring of class hatred, no assumption that his opponents were inhuman villains or vampires. He would open his understanding and his sympathy to capitalist and laboring man, to socialist and reactionary, to Democrat and Republican, to white and black, to protectionist and free-trader, to those who disagreed with him as to his warm supporters. He would patiently and profoundly dwell upon every interest and every point of view. When he decided, he would act with decision, but as an enemy to none, as a comprehending friend to all.

NORMAN HAPGOOD.

The estimate of Lincoln's character and its application to present day needs is interesting, coming as it does from one of Lincoln's ablest and most noted biographers. That this great democratic spirit may never cease to be an influence for good with the American people, the Lincoln Farm association is planning to build on his birthplace in Kentucky the greatest memorial in the world. The humble surroundings which were familiar to his boyish eyes and the simple life from which he came will be so forcefully illustrated on these 110 acres which his father tilled that the youths of all generations to come who visit this national shrine will be inspired by the fact that great things are possible from small beginnings, and they will further appreciate the great truth that our national integrity, and future frame, rests upon character rather than magnificence. Realizing how much of a commoner (if we may use the term) was this great and true nobleman, the men who are directing the building of this great memorial believe that its success should rest upon the great American people rather than upon a few predatory rich, who might, in their own names give magnificent sums to this end. The Lincoln Farm association appeals to the individual patriotism, the whole people, asking every man, woman and child, in whose heart is the love of country and a reverence for the memory of Lincoln, to become a member.

Each member is called upon to contribute whatever amount he or she wishes, provided it is not less than 25 cents or more than $25, and to every members is issued a large, handsomely engraved certificate of membership, bearing the seal of the association, with the autographs of the officers and trustees. The name of the member is then entered in the permanent catalogue, which is to be kept forever in a place of honor in the historical building to be erected at the park. Thus the funds are being raised by popular membership subscriptions, and already the names are coming in by the thousands from every state in the Union, more than 30,000 having joined before March 1. The labor unions, fraternal orders, historical societies, women's clubs, and organizations of all sorts have pledged themselves to spread the work during the coming winter, and 75 per cent of the daily newspapers, recognizing the broadly democratic spirit and typical Americanism of the movement, have promised to give the tremendous weight of publicity to it.

Joseph W. Folk, president, governor of Missouri; Joseph H. Choate, ex-ambassador to Eengland; Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal; Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore; Edward M. Shepard, lawyer and author; August Belmont, director of Louisville & Nashville railroad; Horace Porter, ex-ambassador to France; William Travers Jerome, district attorney of New York county; Jenkin Lloyd Jones, director Lincoln Center, Chicago; Charles A. Towne, ex-congressman from New York; William H. Taft, secretary of war; Lyman J. Gage, ex-secretary of treasury; Norman Hapgood of Collier's; Ida M. Tarbell, biographer of Lincoln; Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain); Augustus Saint-Gaudens, scultor; Albert Shaw, editor of Reviews of Reviews; Thomas Hastings, architect; Robert J. SECULAR SHOTS AT PULPIT.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: On the pier at Coney Island 7,500 men and women took part in a euchre party for the benefit of a church. The receipts were orthodox in size.

Baltimore News: A Philadelphia pastor is fixing up a roof garden on his church for vaudeville performance. A song and dance by the progressive parson would be an appropriate feature.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Rev. Dr. Aked told his congregation last Sunday that man should not live by stocks and bonds alone. Nevertheless, there is a lot of interest in what he does live by.

Boston Transcript: A movement which has been for some time taking shape in the Episcopal church circles of this country came to the surface in Providence, when a mass meeting of members of the denomination was held to formulate plans for a great national laymen's thank offering for 300 years of English Christianity in the United States. This offering is to be presented at the approaching general convention of the church in Richmond, Va., next October to commemorate its tercentenary on American soil.

the matter of consenting that the convicted mayor be admitted to bail. If it be decided that public sentiment is in favor of permitting the mayor to go at liberty on bail, the district attorney's office will so recommend. If, on the contrary, the prosecution determines that it would be wiser to have Schmitz confined to the county jail, he will be refused bail by Judge Dunne. This latter course would necessitate the taking of the matter before either a judge of the court of appeals or one of the justices of the supreme court.

In the meantime and pending the decision of the court, Schmitz is in charge of the sheriff and last night he was confined in the branch county jail.

MORE TIME ASKED FOR

parance of an armed camp. The guard regiments last night left their summer camp at Krasnoye-Selo for St. Petersburg and throughout the night detachments of infantry and calvalry have been arriving here. The garrison of St. Petersburg is now double its ordinary strength, the guard regiments having been replaced by regiments of the line when the former went into camp. Long lines of transport wagons with camp equipages, etc., trundled through the main streets all morning, interspersed with occasional detachments of cavalry and infantry marching to their quarters. Otherwise the centre of the city bore its usual appearance but the industrial sections literally bristled with troops. Every railroad station was occupied this morning by two companies of infantry and two squadrons of cavalry and armored military trains were held in readiness, in view of the possibility of an outbreak of a strike, and all the reserves of all the regiments were confined to barracks. All the railroad stations were watched by secret police in order to prevent the escape of the revolutionary agitators.

Before the decision of the government to demand the suspension of the fifty-five Social Democratic members of the house was made known the central committee of the Social Democratic party issued a proclamation prohibiting members of the party from participating in highway robberies now so frequent, and the local organization was ordered to take measures to prevent acts of terrorism and to dissolve the fighting organizations of the party.

In spite of these alarming preparations, however, there is slight expectation among the reasonable elements of the population that serious disorders will follow the dissolution of parliament. Strikes in the factories and perhaps minor collisions in streets are anticipated, but the numbers of the troops are too great to permit of an armed outbreak.

With the exception of the official Roosia and Novoe Vremya the newspapers unanimously criticise the government's action and see in the demand for the suspension of the Social Democratic members only a pretext and not a real reason for the dissolution of parliament.

have been killed. Several of his men were hurt.

While the firemen were fighting the flames from the galleries, the whole interior ignited.

When the players who thronged the College inn and the Union hotel and restaurant became aware of the threatened loss of their belonging they rushed into the street and in front of the burning structure offered big rewards for volunters to carry out their things. When none appeared some of them descended the basement steps leading to the dressing rooms and carried as much of the materials as they could seize. Chief Horan ordered three men to assist in the work.

The theater is owned by the Ashland Block association. It was built in 1877. It has been conducted almost exclusively since its erection as a vaudeville house, and has been in recent years under the management of Kohl & Castle, on whom the greater part of the loss falls.

THE STATE INTRODUCES EVIDENCE

telegram had been destroyed. Senator Borah argued that there was no possible rule of law under which the evidence could be introduced.

For the sake of argument he admitted that Adams sent the telegram to Haywood when he was stranded and beating his way back to Denver from a mining camp in California, but maintained that this could not be strained to mean that a conspiracy existed between Steve Adams and Haywood. The court admitted the testimony as a declaration from Steve Adams, who the state sets up as a conspirator. The telegram read:

"W. D. Haywood, Denver, Colo.: I am in trouble. Send me $75 at once. —Steve Adams."

Pender was briefly cross-examined and left the stand.

J. C. Houston, assistant cashier of the First National bank of Denver was called.

Boise, Idaho, June 15.—A cashier of the First National bank of Denver was one of the first witnesses in the Haywood trial today.

Haywood did some of his banking business there and is well known to the officers of the bank and this documentary evidence is believed to be some of the most important that the state has to offer.

The state claims to have been taken by surprise by the results of the examination and that the testimony brought out by Mr. Richardson has afforded a remarkable opportunity to corroborate Orchard. This is especially true, it is said, of telegrams containing money and other documents mentioned by Orchard in reply to Mr. Richardson's questions.

The Postal and the Western Union Telegraph companies have been ordered to produce their records and it is expected that as the result of the evidence brought out on the cross-examination some of the telegrams that passed between Haywood or Pettibone and Orchard or Adams will be produced.

The state is also said to be in possession of a quantity of documents to support Orchard's story at different points.

Yesterday afternoon officials of the postoffice at San Francisco and Denver produced original records showing that in August, 1904, a registered letter was sent under the name of "J. Wolff" from the address of Pettibone's store in Denver to "J. Dempsey" at the Golden West hotel in San Francisco. Orchard swore that he stayed at the Golden West hotel under an alias that was either "Dempsey" or "Hogan," that Pettibone used the aliases of "Wolff" and "Patbone" and that under the name of "Wolff" Pettibone in the month mentioned sent him a registered letter containing $100 to pay his expenses while engaged on the Bradley murder. Police officials of Ogden established the arrest there in June, 1903, of Steve Adams and A. T. Williams. They were sealed up in an eastbound car loaded with fruit and when arrested for trespass each had a brace of revolvers.

When released, through the influence of a detective, who was a brother Mason of Adams, they went straight to the office of the Western Union and sent a telegram to Haywood, in Denver. The defense headed off an attempt to get the contents of the telegram before the judge, but the state indicated that it would return to the charge later and further develop the incident when it has broadened its foundation.

When the Ogden testimony was introduced, Steve Adams was brought into court under guard to be identified. Adams' name has run all through the trial, but this was his first appearance in person. Adams seemed in a defiant humor, and walked to a point directly in front of the jury and gazed steadily at the witness confronting him. Besides its work on the Pettibone-Orchard and Haywood-Adams lines, the state produced several witnesses who confirmed features of Orchard's story as to the Bradley affair, the first descent into the Vindicator mine, with the object of doing violence, the final success of the Vindicator plot, and the circumstances under which Detective Lyte Gregory was killed. Aside from its fight against the admission of all the evidence offered by the state on the general ground that it was in no way connected with the accused, the defense contented itself with showing that all of the witnesses had been located and interviewed by Pinkerton detectives, and that they had been given advances of expense money through Pinkerton agencies.

COPPER

ASSAYS SHOW 40 PER CENT

STRONG COMPANY FORMED.

From present indications, the next big center of copper production will not be in the West, Alaska, or British Columbia, but right here at our very door in Wisconsin.

Recent discoveries of rich deposits in the Kickapoo river district are attaining widespread attention among mining men all over the country. Many prominent mining engineers and copper experts are now on the ground seeking locations for their clients, the big syndicates and moneyed men.

The entire Kickapoo river district seems to be literally underlaid with copper. In the opinion of well posted engineers, the Great Lake Superior copper range, beginning at the famous Calumet & Hecla mines, extends down through this section.

As a matter of fact, the existence of these copper depcsits was known many years ago, but, for various reasons, mining operations were never undertaken on an active scale.

Recently a number of business men in Prairie du Chien learned of the existence of an old copper mine near that city and decided to investigate it. They found enough rich copper ore lying in the old tunnel and on the dump to satisfy them that a bonanza copper mine had been lying dormant right at their doors for nearly a half a century.

Specimens of this ore were sent to the well known assayers, Dickman & Mackenzie, Chicago, who immediately pronounced it Lake Superior copper, possessing all the features of the Calumet & Hecla ore. Assays showed as high as 40 per cent copper, as against only 3 to 8 per cent of the Calumet & Hecla product.

On the strength of this showing a strong company was formed and incorporated under the laws of Wisconsin, capitalized at 1,000,000 shares, par value, $1 each, of these 400,000 shares are treasury stock set aside for development purposes.

The Crawford Copper company is strictly a home company, which will place direct a sufficient number of shares to insure placing the mine on a producing basis. No promoter's fees or big expense for advertising will be incurred. Every dollar received on stock subscriptions, after legitimate expenses have been paid, will be devoted to the actual development work.

Tunnel is already run about 100 feet in ore. It is now only a matter of extending this tunnel, sinking shafts, running crosscuts, and getting the mine ready for the installation of hoisting machinery, drills, etc.

We advise all our readers who are interested in copper to write at once for full particulars direct to the headquarters of the company. Shares can be bought for a limited time at the low price of 15 cents cash or 17½ cents on easy payments. These prices, we are informed, by those on the inside, will be advanced rapidly to par, $1, as the actual development work progresses.

Address your letter to the Crawford Copper company, 536-F Marquette building, Chicago, Ill. Write them today.

MANY ACRES OF LAND ARE SOLD

Nearly 8,000 Acres Purchased in Aitkin County.

Aitkin, Minn., June 15.—(Special to the Herald.)—The state land sale closed Friday with nearly 8,000 acres sold. State Auditor Iverson spoke on the advantage of Aitkin county for the dairy and stock business at the beginning of the sale which seemed to stimulate the bidding and land that was appraised at $5 was bid up to as high as $13.50 per acre. Most of the land was sold to new settlers who will occupy and improve it or to settlers already here who wanted to increase the size of their farms. It was a good day for Aitkin and shows that the lands here are being appreciated for agricultural purposes by homeseekers. Heretofore much of the real estate transferred has been among speculators.

Afternoon passengers on Northern Pacific delayed here several hours on account of wreck of a freight at Rossburg in which three cars blocked traffic until the wrecker from Brainerd arrived to clear the track.

OF INTEREST TO HOMESTEADERS

Land Office Gives Information Regarding Second Entries.

Washington, June 15.—The general land office, with the approval of the secretary of the interior, has issued a circular to the local land office and the public generally, relating to the matter of second homestead entries. The only general law under which second homestead entries may be allowed is that of April 28, 1904, which is only applicable to those parties who made and lost, or abandoned their entries prior to the date of the act because of an honest mistake as to the character of the land, or an unavoidable complication of personal or business affairs. Full instructions are given in the circular as to the proofs which must be submitted by those who believe themselves entitled to second homestead entries. The department holds that it is without authority to allow second entries to those who forfeited their entries subsequent to April 28, 1904, or to allow second homestead entry in any case where a valid, original entry was made, in the absence of legislation expressly authorizing second homestead entries.

MANY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WILL BE INVESTED FOR IMPROVEMENTS OF ALL KINDS IN DULUTH DURING THE NEXT TWO OR THREE YEARS

Modern Steel Skyscrapers Are Replacing Old Brick Structures.

Coming Summer Will be Busiest in History of City.

Railroads Will Spend Millions of Dollars for Terminals.

The average Duluth citizen who does not keep in very close touch with affairs does not realize how rosy the outlook for the city is at the present time, and how many big plans are already under way.

There seems to be no doubt now that this summer will see Duluth take the greatest stride forward in her history. Steel skyscrapers will replace old brick structures; ground will be broken for many new industries, including the great steel plant, and possibly the shipyard at West Duluth; the Great Northern Power company will begin furnishing its power to the industries of West Duluth; work will be begun on new railroads running into the city, and apparently there will be unparalleled activity in all lines of business.

In a vague way most Duluth people realize these things, but for the purpose of summing up what has already been done, and what is actually under way at the present time, a general synopsis of the improvements is given Below.

No more material evidence of the fact that Duluth is on the dawn of an unequalled prosperity could be desired than a glance over the building inspector's records. Improvements in the way of buildings, aggregating millions of dollars, are already under way within Duluth's borders, and these are but a small part of the activities which are about to begin in the city. Residences, factory buildings, hotels, clubhouses, office buildings, warehouses, railroad structures, docks, churches, schools, apartment houses, flats, store buildings; in short, every variety of building designed for every imaginable use is being erected, or will be begun, during the course of the summer.

Col. Gillis, who is in charge of the construction work of the Wisconsin Central railroad here, has stated that work will be commenced on their big depot, west of Sixth avenue west, within the next three months, in all soon as the contract for the work can be let. The whole work of installing the $1,000,000 terminals of the great railway will be in full swing within the nextt hree months, in all probabilty, and from the time it is fully commenced until trains are running into the city will give employment to a big army of men.

The Herald last week announced the erection of a new, thoroughly-up-to-date, and handsomely appointed office building, nine stories high, on the site of the Merchants' hotel, Second avenue west and Superior street, and work on this structure will be begun during July in all probability.

Until the Steel corporation has placed itself in a position to announce the location of the great plant, no details of when work will be commenced on its installation can be learned, but it is fairly safe to say that ground may be broken for the installation of the first of the plants, which is to make Duluth the "Pittsburg of the West," before next fall.

The new courthouse will, of course, be a feature of the summer's building operations and the handsome structure will, during the course of erection, employ a large number of workmen.

Condemnation proceedings for the land for the new post office building, across from the present structure are now under way and this will possibly be commenced this season.

The Y. M. C. A. building, for which a permit for $150,000 was taken out, but which will in all probability cost nearly $175,000, is one of the most costly of the buildings now under construction and it will add in no small measuru to the city's architectural beauty.

The D. M. & N. coal dock in the West end, which was assessed by the building inspector at $100,000, is now in the full swing of construction work, and before it is completed bids fair to at least equal the Y. M. C. A. in cost. The big dock is being built largely of timbers from the oldest of the ore docks at Thirty-second avenue west, and this is being torn down as the new coal dock is built. The Y. W. C. A. has also begun cleaning the ground for its new $100,000 home.

The West end is getting more than its share of the building operations of a larger character, as beside the $100,000 coal dock, the Clyde Iron Works is now installing what is to be one of the finest and best equipped foundry plants in the West, between Twenty-ninth and Thirty-first avenues west. This big enterprise is to cover two solid blocks with its seven factory buildings and the cost of its structures alone, exclusive of the cost of the expensive machinery which must be installed, will be over $125,000.

Next to these in importance comes what is to be Duluth's finest residence, that now is under construction for Chester A. Congdon at Thirty-second avenue east near the lake shore. A permit for $70,000 has been taken out for this elegant home, but this is understood to cover but a portion of the entire expense and the cost of the residence alone will probably hit $100,000 before it is complete. In addition to this Mr. Congdon is planning extensive grounds which will be a revelation to Duluthians and no expense will be spared to make it one of the most perfect homes in the country.

The shoe factory now under construction for the Philips-Bell shoe company on Lower Lake avenue, is to be no small addition to the city's industrial structures and will cost considerably over $80,000 when complete. The foundation work is now in progress on this building. The new hotel being erected for the Leasehold Investment company adjoins the shoe factory and is to cost about $30,000 exclusive of interior finish and furnishing. The walls and roof of this building are already up.

Joseph Cotton's handsome residence now under construction at Twenty-third avenue east and First street, will be one of the model homes of the West and before it is completed it will probably approximate $75,000 in cost.

A permit was issued yesterday for the handsome new home of C. A. Duncan to be located on the northeast corner of Twenty-second avenue east and Second street, the walls and roof of which alone are to cost $20,000.

Other notable additions to Duluth's residences, which are now under construction are Z. D. Scott's new home on the corner of Twenty-second avenue east and First street, to cost $18,000. F. A. Brewer's residence now being built on East Fourth street, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth avenues east, which is to cost $9,500; Whitney Wall's brick dwelling on East Second street, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth avenues east, which is to cost $10,000; and five brick dwellings which S. Morterud is planning to erect on Fourth avenue east between Superior and First streets, which are to cost considerably over $5,000 each.

A number of fine apartment buildings are in the course of construction. The "Wyoming" apartments, which are being built by Whitney Wall, for outside capital, on Second street between Eighteenth and Nineteenth avenues east, will be three stories in height and accommodate six families. Their cost will be over $30,000. A second set of apartments is being erected by Mr. Wall at Twelfth avenue east and London road, which are to cost between $15,000 and $20,000. J. D. Zein is having a combined store structure and apartment building erected at First avenue west and First street, with 100-foot front, which will accommodate five stores on the ground floor and a number of families in the second story, and is to cost $40,000.

A permit was issued this week for an apartment building to be erected by Mrs. Caroline Kohagen on the north side of East Third street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues east, which is to cost $25,000, according to the permit but which will, in all probability run considerably over this sum before being completed.

The Sisters of St. Benedict are building a handsome stone school building at Kenwood Park. This structure will be one of the most handsome Catholic educational structures in the Northwest. A permit for a portion of the work, but which is not expected to cover the completed building, has been issued for $35,000.

The foundations for the new office building of the Duluth Street Railway company at Twenty-seventh avenue west and Superior street are now going in. This building will cost nearly $20,000.

A permit was issued some time ago for a brick dwelling for the teachers at the Catholic school and this structure is now to be located at Second avenue west on West Fourth street.

French & Bassett have commenced work on the one-story addition to their furniture store on Third avenue west, which is to cost $15,000.

A handsome restaurant is going in at the site formerly occupied by the Eagle Clothing store, J. and George Ware, a firm which owns a number of handsome high-class restaurants all over the country having taken out a permit for $10,00 alterations to the one-story building which they will occupy.

In point of rapid development as an important railroad center, few cities of the country can boast of a record as good as that of Duluth. With nine railroads having direct access to the city, three of them transcontinental lines, and a fourth transcontinental line, the Soo, building an extension to Duluth, the town can well afford to take on metropolitan airs.

More progress in railroad improvements will be made locally this year than for some time past, which is saying a good deal, for every summer for several seasons the different companies have expended large sums of money in extending their terminals in Duluth, and otherwise getting in shape to afford the public better service, both in the freight and passenger departments.

Aside from the projected extension of the Soo to Duluth the extension of the Wisconsin Central, and the extension of the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg line to this city from Virginia, the most important work now in progress is the enlargement of the Northern Pacific's Rice's Point yards. Perhaps this work should be placed ahead of all the others, for it will be of vast benefit to Duluth, relieving, as it will, the car situation at the Head of the Lakes and assuring better and more prompt service to shippers and receivers of freight. Last fall and winter the car congestion locally was of a very serious nature, convincing the railroad officials that the extension of the yards was urgently needed. Practically all the switching in Duluth is done by the Northern Pacific, so the enlarged terminals will benefit all the roads centering here. Work is rapidly progressing on the construction of the new yards. Fifteen miles of additional tracks are to be laid.

The Omaha is also planning on quite extensive local yard improvements. These will include a roomy yard for passenger coaches. The Great Northern will expend a considerable sum of money on this side of the bay in improving its terminals this year, and a portion of the expenditure will provide for the construction of a freight shed, an improvement that is quite badly needed.

In connection with the Northern Pacific improvements, it might be well to mention the rebuilding of the interstate bridge, connecting Rice's Point in Duluth and Connor's Point in Superior. The new structure will be double-tracked, and will have wider draws than the old. It will cost several hundred thousand dollars.

Work already has begun on the Wisconsin Central right-of-way from Grassy Point to Sixth avenue west. Occupants of buildings along the route required for the new line, have been notified that they must vacate by the end of June. Shortly after that date the work of tearing down buildings will begin, and it is expected the new depot at Sixth avenue west and Superior street, and the tunnel work through the rock at Twelfth avenue west, will be started before fall, although it is hardly expected that trains will be running into the city before next year. The completion of this line will give another direct route between Duluth and Chicago.

The Soo road, under the name of the Duluth & Thunder Bay Railroad company, has acquired property for terminals in Duluth, and actual construction work should begin this summer. A right-of-way from the east approach to the interstate bridge, on Rice's Point to Fifteenth avenue west, has been mapped out, and much of the property required has been secured. The rest will be acquired by condemnation proceedings which have been started. The Soo will probably begin work this year on its extension from Duluth to the Canadian Head of the Lakes, and there are persistent rumors that the Canadian Northern will also build to Duluth via Gunflint Lake and the Alger-Smith logging road, known as the Duluth & Northern Minnesota.

Extensive railroad yards will be required by the new steel plant, and the Wisconsin Central will also have extensive yards in the West end of the city.

The Duluth, Missabe & Northern has run a survey from Proctor to the supposed site of the new steel plant, in the vicinity of Smithville, and will, it is understood, build a line along the survey this summer. The Air Line route, which announces that it will build a direct line from Duluth to the Twin Cities, has surveyors in the field, and it looks very much as if the new road would become a reality in the near future.

The Duluth & Iron Range will build an expensive new ore dock at Two Harbors this year, which really comes within railroad improvements for Duluth.

It is roughly estimated that a total of upwards of $11,000,000 will be expended in railroad improvements in Duluth in the next year, within the city limits. Some estimates run as high as $15,000,000 and $18,000,000.

FIFTH YEAR OF NORMAL

Teachers and Students Scatter for the Summer Months.

Several Changes Will Take Place in the Faculty.

This week saw the close of the fifth year of the Duluth normal school's existence. The rapid development in all of the departments of the school during these five years has been marvelous. At the close of this year the enrollment was 367 students, and the faculty numbered sixteen.

Many improvements have been made during the year. A students' loan fund has been added to the schol, for the benefit of those students who wish to borrow money for school expenses. The domestic science department has been added since the school started, and it has proved to be a valuable addition. Washburn hall, the new, beautifully designed and exceedingly well constructed home for students, was ready for occupancy this fall. It was supplied by the state, and is controlled and operated by the school for the benefit of students who may be under the necessity of arranging for board and rooming places.

The library, laboratories and manual training departments have all added expensive equipments during the year for the benefit of the students. The walls of the building have been tastefully tinted, and casts and pictures form pleasing decorations.

The exterior surroundings of the building present a different appearance from the clinging red mud of five years ago. A perfectly terraced lawn, with flowering shrubs and trees, forms a splendid relief for the red stone and brick building.

By Thursday noon, the student residents of Washburn hall had left for their homes in different parts of the state. During the summer, Washburn hall will be open to the summer students. Many rooms have already been engaged. Miss F. Pettengill, the new domestic science instructor, will have charge of the hall this summer and the coming school year.

Before school commences in the fall, the attic will be finished into rooms and furnished for students, who will live there during the coming year. The hall will be filled during the coming year, as already many applications for rooms have been received.

The summer term wil commence June 18. The instructors for the term are: President E. W. Bohannon, Louis W. Kline, Harry C. Strong, J. W. Hubbard, H. Blair, Supt. Freeman of Grand Rapids, Mrs. Sinclair, Mrs. Evelyn Richard Lyons and Miss F. Pettengill.

Miss Dora Eaton, who has been at the head of the domestic science department for the past four years, ever since it was made a part of the school, curriculum and receptress of Washburn hall since its completion last fall, left June 13 for her home at Oak Park, Ill. Miss Eaton will not return next year as she has accepted a position as head of the domestic science department at Mills college, in California. Miss Eaton will be greatly missed in the school and at Washburn hall where she has been more than a preceptress to the girls who lived there during the year. Miss Eaton will be succeeded by Miss Florence D. Pettengill, who has been at the head of the domestic science department in the Superior Normal. Miss Pettengill will enter into her new duties at the commencement of the summer term, June 18.

Minnesota's Launch With Middies on Board is Discovered.

Newport News, Va., June 15.—With canopy-frame crushed, but canvas still tightly fastened down, the missing launch of the battleship Minnesota was located in twenty-seven feet of water, about 1,000 yards west by south of Fort Wool, yesterday afternoon, about 5 o'clock.

Across the little craft was a telltale piece of towing line, serving to convince the naval officers that they are right in their theory that the launch was run down by a boat of some kind in tow of a tug.

The diver who went down to examine the launch reported that the heads and arms of three men were protruding from beneath the canvas covering; the men having made a desperate fight for life when they were carried down like rats in a trap.

"EPIDEMIC" IN THE CITY

Twenty-Five Cases of Scarlet Fever Are Guaranteed.

While Unusual for Duluth, Situation is Not Serious.

Duluth is suffering from what, for a city of Duluth's health record, is an epidemic of scarlet fever. There are at present twenty-five cases scattered from one end of the city to the other, and while Dr. Murray says that in most cities this would be considered a rather low number for a population of 75,000, Duluth has become used to such a clean bill of health that the report of twenty-five cases of scarlet fever is out of the ordinary. There have been a number of deaths among little children during the past few weeks, but most of the cases were taken in hand and under control in time to prevent serious developments.

The health authorities are somewhat at a loss to locate the exact cause of the present epidemic, but are relying on the cellar inspection, which is going on, to assist in stamping out the disease.

Most of the cases are of children under ten years, but there is occasionally a case where the patient is much older and the disease is by no means confined to the little ones. The closing of the schools is expected to aid materially in stopping the spread of the disease.

Dr. Murray is emphatic in saying that the situation does not merit being called an epidemic, and it is a fact that in most cities of Duluth's size in the country, it would not be so rated, but Duluth has known times when three or four months have passed without one case suspected of being scarlet fever has been brought to the notice of the department, and Duluthians have grown to expect such a state of affairs to continue.

The breaking up of the lumber camps brought in a large number of patients suffering from contagious diseases this year, diphtheria being the most serious menace. There are now under quarantine thirty cases of diphtheria, but cultures taken this morning in sixteen of the thirty cases showed negative results, and when a second negative culture has been obtained from them these sixteen will be released. The influx from the camps has practically stopped now, so the disease is under control. The department has also been kept busy quarantining smallpox cases coming in this way.

Duluth has not suffered so seriously in regard to lumber camp contagion as have some of the smaller towns in the northern part of the state. Cohasset, Minn., is in the grip of a very dangerous epidemic of diphtheria, which was brought on in this way.

The inspection of the lodging houses along the Bowery is now practically complete and the authorities report that they found things in a much more satisfactory condition than they did at their general annual inspection a year ago. That was the first occasion when a general inspection was held and the effect has very evidently been beneficial. Beds, floors and walls, furniture and everything about the houses was found to be in a much better condition than it was a year ago.

FARGO MAYOR STRICKEN.

J. A. Johnson, for Five Times the City's Chief Executive, Is Dead.

Fargo, N. D., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is universal sorrow in Fargo over the sudden death of J. A. Johnson, for five times mayor of this city, who succumbed after a short illness yesterday.

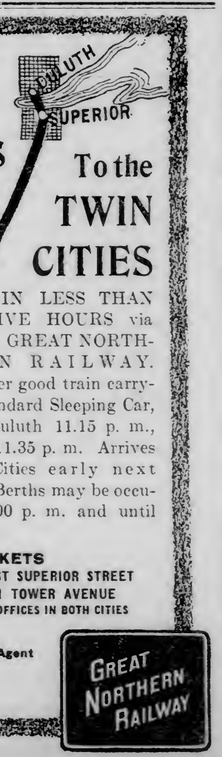

Nearly a year was left of his fifth term as mayor of the city, for which he gave the best years of his life. For many years, single-handed, he kept Fargo better advertised, and secured more state and national conventions for Fargo than almost any other city in the Northwest. He was also active many years in the promotion of the Tri-state Grain & Stock Growers' convention here, which attracted hundreds of farmers annually from both Dakotas and Minnesota. Three sons and two daughters, besides the widow, are left.

Mr. Johnson was born in Sweden 65 years ago.

POLL TAX IS FAVORED

Commercial Club Members Take an Important Action.

Committee is Appointed to Confer With Engineers.

Last night at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club action was taken which has drawn more commendatory remarks about town today than any in many months past. The club adopted a resolution favoring the levying of a poll tax on all residents of the city paying neither real estate nor personal taxes. The secretary was instructed to confer with the city attorney as to what steps should be taken to have the proposed tax assessed. It is probable the secretary will meet the city attorney next week, and further action will probably be taken next Friday evening.

The action of the club was generally discussed about West Duluth this morning, and the sentiments of the members of the club are universally shared. It is felt, as one businessman expressed it ,that people coming into the city for a short time, acquiring no property and being assessed on no personal holdings, enjoys police and fire protection and the other advantages of the street lights, care of streets, sewers and water and give nothing in return. A poll tax in such cases would not be unjust, but the one assessed would be merely paynig his just share of the city's financial obligations. The people of West Duluth believe that their lead should be taken up by other citizens of the city, and some arrangement made whereby taxes would be collected.

President L. A. Barnes announced that he had appointed a committee consisting of H. H. Phelps, M. J. Filiatrault, C. S. Weaver, J. W. Mann and P. H. Martin to confer with the United States board of engineers on harbor improvements. Mr. Barnes will also act on the committee. The engineers will be in Duluth Tuesday and they will meet committees from the Duluth and Superior Commercial clubs also.

The club was requested by the board of education to suggest the names of candidates for positions on the school board, succeeding J. L. Washburn, J. J. Moe and N. C. Hendricks. The club adopted a resolution favoring L. A. Barnes to succeed Mr. Hendricks, and a petition will be circulated in support of his candidacy.

STEAMER STRIKES ROCK.

The Angelia Finally Gets Off and Land Her Passengers.

Holyhead, Wales, June 15.—The Irish express steamer Angelia, with more than 500 passengers on board, struck a submerged rock in a thick fog, this morning. The passengers were greatly alarmed, but the officers maintained order, distributed the life belts, and prepared the boats for lowering. After half an hour the Angelia succeeded in getting off under her own steam, and the passengers were landed.

The Angelia's bows were stove in above and below the water line, but her watertight compartments saved her.

CRITICISM DENIED BY GOV. TERRELL.

Sends Long Telegram to President Disclaiming Such.

Oyster Bay, L. I., June 15.—President Roosevelt today received from Gov. Terrell of Georgia a telegraphic disclaimor of any criticism of the president incident to the celebration of Georgia day at the Jamestown exposition. The dispatch is as follows:

"To President Roosevelt, Oyster Bay, N. Y.

"The publication to the effect that Mr. Mitchell or myself feels aggrieved toward you or that you are responsible for the shortening of the Georgia day exercises at the Jamestown exposition is absolutely unwarranted. In explaining the hurried manner in which the program was carried out, I stated to a number of prominent Georgians and several newspaper reporters that the review consumed more time than was estimated. Hence it was necessary to cut out or cut off some of the afternoon engagements, and that after a hurried discussion we agreed it was better to shorten the time alloted for these engagements rather than cut out any of them and that I considerably abridged my remarks at the Georgia building and you did likewise. I had notified several prominent Georgians that if there was sufficient time I might call upon them to speak at the Georgia building when the silver service presentation exercises were held. Immediately upon our arrival at the building I took the necessary steps to notify them there would not be time for same, but that arrangements would be made to conclude presentation exercises on the battleship the next afternoon, which were carried out and perfectly satisfactory to everybody.

"Personally and as governor I wish to thank you for lending your presence to Georgia day and assure you that every true Georgian feels likewise. The sentiment of the official badges for that day expresses the sentiment of every Georgian whether at Jamestown or at home. 'Our country's president and Georgia's grandson.' I consider Georgia day at the Jamestown exposition a great success and that you made it so.

FOURTH SEASON ON WATER WAGON

T. L. Dunn Will Celebrate With Exercises at Mission.

Tom L. Dunn, the sturdy superintendent of the Star of Hope Mission, on the Bowery, will celebrate the fourth anniversary of his climb on to the waterwagon—a vehicle he has ridden ever since—at the mission this evening.

Ever since the departure of Rev. John Calahan, the founder, for wider fields in New York, Mr. Dunn has been in charge of the mission work, at 622 West Superior street, and he has been warmly commended for his good work, not only by the supervisors of the mission, but by the men with whom he has come in contact.

Servicse are held at the Star of Hope every evening, but the anniversary of the superintendent's change for the better in mode of living is always observed with special exercises, calculated to impress others who are still in the mire with the health and happiness of cleaner lives.

This evening Mr. Dunn will tell the story of his past life. His career has been varied and interesting, and he will set forth how he settled down to better things. As in the past, a number of local ministers will be present to assist in the exercises, and there will be special music.

CLOUDBURST DAMAGE IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

Rapid City, S. D., June 15.—A cloudburst near Tilford, a small station on the Northwestern railroad, fifteen miles north of this city, about 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, caused considerable loss to property and five lives thus far are reported lost. A general rain throughout the southern hills which lasted several hours and which is claimed by old settlers to have been the heaviest rain since 1883 raised streams out of their banks and both wagon and railroad bridges have gone out with the flood. Owing to several washouts on the main line of the Northwestern road traffic north of here has been at a standstill the past twenty-four hours. Telephone and telegraph wires are down and communication is cut off north and west.

VICTIMS OF WITCHCRAFT.

Norfolk, Neb., June 15.—Miss Frieda Jabens, a pretty blonde of 23, and her younger brother, Peter, children in a family of farmers in Boyd county, were brought to the state insane hospital, here, yesterday, because they believe in witchcraft.

For some years this family has caused annoyance in Spencer. They have accused neighbors of casting spells of witchery about them. They have taken their troubles into court and sworn out complaints for arrest of the bewitched beings. They called physicians to break the spell, and firmly believed that W. F. Kloke, clerk of district court, could dispel the strange spirits. Thewy were given baking powder as a remedy by one physician, according to his testimony in court, and this for a time broke the spell. A neighbor, named Johnson, testified that he had broken the spell for the family and received potatoes, etc., as his reward.

MINISTER INDICTED.

Rev. James Kaye Charged With Manufacturing Counterfeit Money.

Springfield, Ill., June 15.—A federal grand jury has returned an indictment against the Rev. James R. K. Kaye, formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Lincoln, and now editor of the Home Herald, published at Oak Park, a suburb of Chicago, charging him with manufacturing counterfeit money. Moulds for the manufacture of counterfeit dimes, quarters, half-dollars and dollars were found in the basement of the house which the Rev. Kaye occupied while pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Lincoln. When arrested he confessed to making the moulds, but explained that he was only experimenting with them to see if he could manufacture medals to be presented to the children of the Sunday school, as rewards for getting new pupils for the school.

Walker's Copper Letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial says:

"The copper market is mixed. Lake may be quoted all the way from 24¾ cents to 25½ cents, and electrolytic from 24 to 25¼ cents per pound. I know of a sale this week of 250,000 pounds of lake copper for immediate delivery at 24.8 cents per pound. The copper was supplied by one of the smaller producers. The significance of the sale was that the seller needed the money, and that the buyer could not obtain an equal amount of copper anywhere else at as low a price. The largest producers of lake copper are still asking 25½ to 26 cents.

"While the air is filled with reports of a coming concession in copper prices, and while speculative copper in London continues to decline steadily, there is still reason to doubt that there will be any immediate cut in prices. Producers will have no occasion to get frightened or worried for six weeks to two months to come, as they will have comparatively little copper on hand before late July or early August. On the other hand, the largest consumers are exceedingly worried over the situation. They have been talking about getting together with the producers and trying to arrange a price basis for the coming three months.

"Many of the consumers say that they fear a decrease in the consumption demand in the near future. They do not object to current prices for copper, but they are unwilling to buy large lots for distant advance delivery, unless they are practically guaranteed that prices are to be maintained.

"The present temper of the market is such as to encourage the belief that copper will not sell below 24 cents in July or August."

In his letter Mr. Mitchell states that the line runs across the Copper Queen tract at just the right locality. Surveyor Bacon and his men are now working toward Salmon City, from the Copper Queen. This place is about twenty-five miles from the Queen and when that distance has been surveyed, the entire right of way for the new line—the real sponsors of which are not known—will have been surveyed from Armstead, on the Oregon Short Line, to Salmon City, Idaho.

Except for the divide just east of Copper Queen, the entire length of the new line is quite level. With so much work already accomplished—the divide having been crossed—it is probable that the actual railroad building will commence soon.

The construction of this line means much to Copper Queen, as it will give the mine a direct rail route to Butte. Superintendent Mitchell writes that Surveyor Bacon is anxious to see Mr. Crosby and the latter will leave for the mine the first part of next week.

NORTH BUTTE ENTERS BERLIN

Vein of Latter Not Far From Face of Crosscut.

The long crosscut which the North Butte company is driving north of the 1,600-foot level of the Jessie mine to tap the Berlin vein has penetrated Berlin territory quite a way and is advancing rapidly. The exact distance from the present face of the opening to the vein is not known, but is supposed to be between 250 and 350 feet. The rate of advancement is more than 120 feet a month. According to reports, the Berlin vein was cut several months ago, but the reports were not true. Some other veins were cut, however, one of which traverses the Croesus, owned by the North Butte. This vein also traverses the Badger State and Aurarla, owned by the Boston & Montana company, and the latter is now sinking a deep shaft on the Badger State with a view of developing it in both claims.

North Butte is doing excellent work all along the line, and will soon be in position to not only increase its output of ore, but also its ore reserves. The sinking of the Berlin shaft to a point that will come in contact with the north workings of the company's property further south will greatly facilitate the operations of the company and insure a production of at least 1,000 tons a day more than the present output. This work has not yet been inaugurated, but will be started in the near future, and if everything goes right, will progress rapidly, for it will be prosecuted from the surface and the long crosscut simultaneously. The large engine that did duty at the main shaft prior to the installation of the present engine will be set up on the Berlin.

Coalition Is Mining Ore.

The property of the Butte Coalition company, or Red Metal, is no wyieiding more ore than it has at any period in its existence, the output being close to 1,800 tons a day. Some days it reaches the 1,800-ton mark. Of the 1,800, the Minnie Healey, Rarus and Cora are giving up about 1,500 tons; the remainder is coming from the Nipper. Red Penn and Red West veins, the latter being in Tramway ground, but operated through the West Colusa. The Red Penn contains a lot of copper glance.

In a short time the company will be in shape to increase its production from 600 to 1,000 tons a day. This will be brought about by the opening of the Tramway and Shohomish. The new shaft on the Tramway will soon be 1,400 feet deep, which will take it a long way into the ore zone in that section. Only half of the Snohomish and a third of the Tramway ore will go to the credit of Coalition, but the opening of this ground will enable the company to mine the ore bodies of the Minnie Healey on a much more extensive scale than ever before. Another shaft will afford an additional outlet for these bodies.

The new hoisting engine on the Tramway is rapidly assuming shape and will be ready for a trial run shortly. It is a monster piece of mechanism and will do rapid work.

Some new ore bodies have been discovered in the Rarus recently, the find having been made in driving channels for waste in the lower and intermediate levels. The company is enlarging the air shaft on this property in order to secure a more thorough ventilation. The lower levels are fairly well aired at present, but the current is not so cool as it will be when the enlargement is finished.

Development work is progressing in the Cora, but some time will probably elapse before the mine will be in first-class shape and be a large producer. There is considerable ore blocked out in the mine, but its grade is not so good as that of any of the other mines of the company.

CITY BRIEFS

Jury Returns Sealed Verdict.

A sealed verdict in the appeal case of Frank Erickson against the state of Mary Erickson, deceased, which was returned in the district court yesterday afternoon, will not be opened until Monday morning. Judge Ensign, who presided at the trial of the case left yesterday to attend the convention of the Associated Charities at Minneapolis, and will return before the court opens Monday morning. Erickson seeks to recover $1,533.

Auctioneer Arrested.

W. A. Alden, the Oriental rug auctioneer, was arrested yesterday and was arraigned before Judge Windom in municipal court, charged with conducting an auction without a license. He pleaded not guilty to the charge and the case was set for next Friday.

A number of the Superior street merchants entered complaints against Mr. Alden and, after sending Officer Barber to the sale to buy a rug at auction, which the officer did for $19.50, the chief swore out a warrant for Alden's arrest.

Police Veteran Appointed.

Capt. Samuel G. Thompson, formerly a member of the police force, has been appointed night watchman of the government premises around the canal piers and aerial bridge.

His duties will be to patrol the properties during the night, preserving order, looking out for petty thieves, and keeping watch for accidents.

New Setting of Cases.

Following is the new setting of jury cases for trial in the district court next week:

Praise Isle of Pines.

H. T. Mork, a former Duluthian, who has been engaged in the hotel business in the Isle of Pines for the past four years, is visiting his brother, John Mork of this city. Mr. Mork says that the Isle of Pines is a fine place, with many opportunities for young men, and that it is being rapidly opened up by American capital and industry. The natives, however, are a shiftless, dirty, immoral lot, according to the hotel man.

Inspect Steamer.

John Monahan and M. E. Chalk, the United States steamboat inspectors, have returned from Carp lake on the Canadian border, where they inspected the steamer Rambler.

The New York Orphanage is one of the oldest charitable institutions in this country, having been founded 101 years ago. It is a wealthy institution, amply endowed, and takes destitute orphans from New York city and gives them a thorough training for self-support. Dr. and Mrs. Reeder will attend the National Conference of Charities and Corrections at Minneapolis, where the doctor will read a paper next Wednesday.

Miner Wants Damages.

John Luoma has sued the Oliver Iron Mining company for $5,000 damages for injuries claimed to have been received from falling into a hole in the drift of the Winifred mine near Hibbing, Nov. 6 last. He claims that he was injured about the head and chest and fractured an arm. John Jenswold, Jr., is his attorney.

May Tie Up Work.

Contractor George R. King's bid for the Tioga street paving from Fifty-sixth avenue east to the Occidental boulevard is so high as to make a delay in the completion of the work possible. A number of the property owners along the line of the improvement are kicking strenuously and may make an effort to tie up the improvement when it comes up before the city council Monday evening.

King's bid was $2,000 higher than the engineer's estimate and he explains the difference by the fact that a long haul will be necessary to get filling material for the work.

Closing Exercises.

The closing exercises of St. Clement's school will be held Thursday evening, June 20, at 8 o'clock. The program includes a number of songs and recitations, a short operetta, and a drama entitled "St. Philoina."

Found Dead in Room.

A. C. Anderson, a woodsman, 40 years of age, was found dead in his room about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the proprietor of the lodging house where he was stopping at 110 St. Croix avenue. He was apparantly well when last seen and the coroner will hold an autopsy this evening at Stewart's undertaking rooms to determine the cause of death. Anderson had been working at Iron Junction and McKinley, on the D. M. & N.

Swanson Baby Dies.

Charles Leslie Swanson, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Swanson of 13 Eighteenth avenue west died at his home yesterday afternoon. The funeral will be held tomorrow at 1:30 from St. Clement's Catholic church and interment will be at Calvary cemetery.

Claims Trainmen Beat Him.

Claiming that the train crew assaulted and beat him wrongfully and maliciously, when he had a ticket calling for a first-class passage from Duluth to Ely, Adolph Johnson has sued the Duluth & Iron Range Railway company for $4,000 damages. He demands $2,000 for the injuries to his person and feelings and $2,000 exemplary damages. Johnson claims that his ticket called for a ride and for protection from all annoyances. John Jenswold, Jr., is his attorney.

BAD SHOAL IS REMOVED

Vessels May Now Pass Nemadji River in Safety.

The shoal at the entrance to the Nemadji river, near the Superior entry to the harbor, is no longer a menace to vessels.

The greater part of the shoal was removed by some preliminary dredging, which was completed this afternoon. Vessels may now run from the Superior entry into the Superior front channel, past the mouth of the Nemaji river, drawing eighteen feet of water. The available width of the channel at the narrowest point is 200 feet. The red star buoy No. 2 marks the north bank of the eighteen-foot channel off the mouth of the river.

The remainder of the shoal will be removed later in the season after the letting of the contract for which bids will be opened June 28.

HOW TO PROTECT SEEDS.

Garden: All seeds that rats, mice or birds esteem can be effectually protected by coating them with red lead.

Place the seed in a vessel considerably larger than is needed to contain it, add to it a few drops of paraffin or water, just enough (not more) to moisten every seed, and stir it well; then add a small quantity of red lead and stir again until each seed is thoroughly coated and separate. Vermin will sometimes attack seeds thus treated, but disgusted with the result soon pass on to other fare.

PEABODY'S DAUGHTER

Appears as Excellent Witness in Case Against Haywood.

Former Governor Testifies Briefly to Having Seen Orchard.

Boise, Idaho, June 15.—The prosecution in the Steunenberg murder case won its fight for the admission of the contents of the telegram Steve Adams sent from Ogden to the defendant, Haywood, at Denver, in June, 1903, and the state then produced and secured the admission of six drafts sent by Haywood to Jack Simpkins at various times in 1904, 1905 and 1906.

One was sent just before and one just after the Steunenberg murder, and the purpose for which they were introduced was to show the relations of Haywood and Simpkins, who aided Harry Orchard in the first attempt to kill Steunenberg.

The state next produced the fragments of the pistol and device by which the infernal machine placed in the Vindicator mine was set off and this led to a general discussion into the whole story of the Cripple Creek strike of 1903-4 in which the defense sought to show violence and incitement to violence by agents and officers of the Mine Owners' association and high-handed injustice by the militia after martial law was declared.

Then the evidence went back to the Peabody bomb to prove its recovery from the Coeur D'Alene river. Former Governor Peabody, Mrs. Peabody and Miss Peabody, who had seats within the rail, intently watched the production of the bomb casing which so long held tragedy for them.

Charles T. Roach, a plumber testified that he made the casing of what is known as the "Peabody bomb." It was made to order. He identified the bomb casing, examining it carefully. He said he did not think he could identify the person who ordered it; he did not know Orchard.

Miss Cora May Peabody, daughter of Former Governor Peabody, testified to seeing two men near her carriage during Governor Peabody's term of office. Her mother and sisters were with her.

Orchard testified that one night he waited to shoot the governor, but ladies got out of the carriage.

E. F. Richardson cross examined Miss Peabody closely. She was extremely nervous but answered every question without contradiction. Richardson's questions directed to an effort to show that the witness was endeavoring to bolster up Orchard's testimony.

Former Governor Peabody was the last witness. He saw Orchard in Canon City at the time Orchard said he went there for the purpose of killing the governor.

The relief train arrived there at 9:30.

INSECTS THAT TIPPLE.

Flowers and Blossoms That Intoxicate Flies and Bees.

It is not very obvious, from the human point of view, why the ivy should be called the plant of Bacchus, since no wine is made from its berries. Entomologists, however, have found that its flowers make a veritable Bacchanalian festival for a number of insects. They are wont to sally forth at night with lanterns to capture the intoxicated moths that crowd around the greenish blossoms. When the willow is in bloom they find a similar scene of dissipation around its yellow catkins.

The tippling insect may be used to point a moral by the temperance lecturer, says the London Globe, for rum not infrequently leads to its ruin. A distinguished entomologist after giving a recipe for the mixture for sugaring trees for moths—which included beer—said: "Add some Jamaica rum just before using; it is the rum which attracts them." After sipping the mixture the moths and butterflies fall from the tree intoxicated. If the entomologist is not there to capture them by and by they recover and get up again for another dip.

There is a fly so addicted to wine that Linnaeus named it the cellar fly, which appellation Kirby changed to the more appropriate one of the cellar wine drinker. This latter distinguished entomologist writes of it thus: "The larva of this little fly, whose economy, as it can witness from my own observations, disdains to feed on anything but wine or beer, which like Boniface in the play it may be said both to eat and drink, though, unlike its toping counterpart, indifferent to the age of the liquor, which, whether sweet or sour, is equally acceptable."

Kirby, who writes the above, does not, nevertheless, exonerate adult flies from a partiality for the cup that cheers. "That active little fly," he writes, "now an unbidden guest at your table, whose delicate palate selects your choicest viands, one while extending its proboscis to the margin of a drop of wine and then gayly flying to take a more solid repast from a pear or a peach." And there is another insect—a moth—which also loves the cellar and the wine bottle. But, strange to say, it takes its liquor as a mere flavoring to the cork on which it really feeds; the larva, that is to say, pastures on the corks of wine bottles, sometimes causing the wine to run out. The moth belongs to that troublesome family which works such destruction in clothes an furs.

There are other bees and other flowers whose random meetings result in the same curious phenomenon. On the single dahlias and gaillardias of our gardens bees are often to be seen in the same curious state, and these bees are more frequently of the black and yellow banded kind. Take up this one of the gaillardia. It remains on your hand indulging in those quaint antics or simply trembling in every limb for a few minutes.

Now it recovers and presently flies off quite strong on the wing. It goes straight to another gaillardia flower and in a very short time it is again in its former state of imbecility. You may pick it up again and have a repetition of the performance. The same bee, in fact, will thus entertain you several times in succession.

It is a curious fact that certain flowers should thus become wayside taverns at which certain bees can "put an enemy in their mouths to steal away their brains." We say certain, for it is only some bees and some flowers which can bring about this strange state of things, which has not yet been satisfactorily explained.

NEW FABLE FOR CRITICS.

Puck: A young mule who had been called a donkey by ignorant persons till he grew restive under the imputation, made inquiry of his mother as to any possible inheritance of mentality that might be coming to him.

"My son," said the aged-ass, "owing to your exceptional parentage, you cannot have both mother-wit and horse sense. The time has come for you to choose one of the two.

"I fail to see any difference between the terms, as commonly used," replied the mule. "I really cannot make a choice."

"I perceive," said the mother, regretfully, "that you resemble a famous ancestor of yours, who became mixed up with duplicate bundles of hay, to his undoing."

"I can support the consciousness of that fact," said the mule, "so long as it does not become noised abroad. Is there no way in which I can conceal it from the world?"

"There is," the parent responded, after a moment's thought, "and it is this: In case of a dispute, seize the first opinion that comes handy and stick to it till the crack of doom. In this way you will get a reputation for knowing your own mind, without necessarily knowing anything at all."

The young mule, being a level-headed young mule, acted upon the advice and made a name for himself as a synonym for firmness.

Moral—Utilize your limitations. If you cannot make money, you may attain to fame by pointing out the criminality of wealth.

BATHING IN THE DEAD SEA.

Detroit Free Press: "No sooner has one plunged into the water than one is whipped off one's feet and goes bobbing helplessly about like a wretched cork," says the Rev. Haskett Smith of bathing in the Dead sea. "In the effort to regain one's footing and to get back to shore, one's feet and shins are barked by the jagged stones and pebbles, and when at length one does emerge from its treacherous bosom, with the lower limbs bleeding and torn, one becomes aware of a horrible tingling and burning sensation in eyes, ears, nostrils, mouth, and almost every pore of the skin, from the brine and bitumen which have penetrated everywhere.

"Unless great care is taken, the bather in the Dead sea is liable to an eruption, which breaks out all over his body, and which is commonly known as the 'Dead sea rash.' The best antidote to this is to hurry across as quickly as possible to the river Jordan and take a second plunge therein. The soft and muddy waters of that sacred but muddy stream will effectually remove the salt that has incrusted the body."

ON THE IRON RANGES

ACTIVITY AT IRON MINES

Extensive Surface Improvements Being Made at the St. James.

Virginia, Minn., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Extensive improvements on the surface are the order of the day at the St. James mine of Corrigan, McKinney & Co., adjoining the townsite of Aurora. Thirty cottages, being erected by Contractor W. B. Shaver, are nearing completion, while the large residence with stone foundation, being erected by Superintendent W. J. Rashleigh, is also well along and will be ready to occupy in about a month's time. The stone foundations are also ready for residences for the mining captain and bookkeeper. The streets in the location are now being ditched and graded and sidewalks being laid. The foundation is just about completed for the large new power house and the boilers are now being placed. This will be one of the most substantial power houses on the range. An especially large shaft house has been erected over the shaft and drifting is now in progress in the ore body. While there is considerable water in the ore it is easily being cared for, and the mine will be in shape to begin shipments as soon as the spur of the Iron Range road is completed.

At the Meadow and Fowler mines of the Interstate Iron company, adjoining the St. James on the north opening of ground, is in progress in both shafts, and the ore is being placed in stock pile. The Iron Range spur to both these properties is practically completed and shipping will be started in a short time. Both properties produce an excellent grade of ore. So far the surface improvements have not been very extensive, consisting only of an office building, a boarding house and a small residence for the superintendent, but the intention is to erect a number of cottages for accommodation of the miners.

Pickands, Mather & Co. resumed the work of sinking the shaft at the Syracuse mine on the shore of Lake Embarrass on Thursday, the Foundation company having completed its contract. The shaft will be sunk but a short distance when drilling in the ore body will be started. The work is in charge of Capt. Johns, recently from Michigan.

At the Bangor property of the same concern to the eastward excellent progress is being made by the Foundation company in sinking the circular concrete shaft. It is now down ninety-six feet and but twenty-four feet remains to be driven. Recently a very fine sand, which is known as "glacial flour" was encountered. It packs so hard that it is impossible to force water through it and neither the clamshell dredge that was formerly used nor the orange peel dredge that was substituted would make any impression upon it. Hence, it was necessary to turn on the compressed air in order that "sandhogs" might go down into the working chamber and dig out the "flour." It is the same quality of sand that is encountered at the Monica and Kellogg properties between McKinley and Biwabik and which is causing so much trouble in sinking shafts there.

Now the compressed air has been turned on, it is expected that there will be no further trouble at the Bangor and the shaft when completed will no doubt be the most substantial and roomy of any on the range. A fine quality of gravel for the making of the concrete walls is found on the surface immediately adjoining the shaft, which makes the concrete work comparatively inexpensive. As the concrete forces its way downward more is constantly added at the top. The Foundation company recently took a contract to sink a shaft in Michigan and will move its plant from this range as soon as the Bangor shaft is completed, unless in the meantime more work is secured in this district.

About a dozen diamond and churn drills are still at work in the vicinity of the Bangor and Syracuse and the outlook is that a vast deposit of ore will be revealed. The property belonging to the Bradley heirs, lying between the Bangor and Syracuse, is known to contain ore, while three drills are now testing the ground further to the north.

The third attempt to sink a shart at the Kellogg property of the New York State Steel company, between Biwabik and McKinley, has resulted the same as the other two. As soon as the quicksand was reached the pumps were drown out and are all under water, one of them disabled. The flour-like sand is particularly hard on the pumps. The boiler capacity at the mine is not sufficient to operate any more pumps and consequently it will now be necessary to wait until another boiler and more pumps are added to the equipment.

The shaft of the Monica, adjoining the Kellogg, is also down to the quicksand strata, and the work of attempting to drive laths through twenty feet of this stuff to the ore was started on Thursday morning. The pressure is already becoming so great on the timbers of the drop shaft that an effort is being made to hold them up with a cable so that the washers on the bolts holding the timbers together will not pull through the wood, as they had already started to do.

PAPER AT AURORA.

Charles Gustafson, Formerly of the Tenstrike Tribune, Behind It.

Aurora, Minn., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Aurora is to have a newspaper in the near future. Charles Gustafson, for several years publisher of the Tribune at Tenstrike, Minn., was here this week looking over the field and decided to move his outfit to this place. It is expected to arrive today. Mr. Gustafson is postmaster at Tenstrike. Recently the greater part of the town was wiped out by fire and as there is little probability of its being built up again, Mr. Gustafson decided to seek a new location.

LLOYD DOWNING WEDS MISS CLARK

Virginia Mining Engineer is Married at Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 15.—(Special to the Herald.)—Lloyd Downing, a mining engineer from Virginia, Minn., and Miss Thirsa R. Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Clark of this city, were married at the parental home of the bride Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Besides the parents, there were present Mr. Kendall Clark of St. Cloud, and Mrs. B. F. Fuller of Mankota, brother and sister of the bride. The floral display and the wedding dinner were suitable to the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Downing left on the evening train for an extended tour to southern Minnesota, and to Iowa, where they will spend a few weeks in visiting relatives.

JAIL BREAKER AGAIN IN TOILS

Hibbing Police Nab Man Wanted for Series of Crimes.

Hibbing, Minn., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hibbing police killed two birds with one stone when they arrested Tony Webber, alias Veber, who after a preliminary hearing, was held to the grand jury for the theft of $340 rfom Tony Fritz.

The officers feel sure they have captured the man who twice escaped before, charged with the crimes of burglary and forgery. Two years ago the officers say he was arrested for burglary but escaped by digging his way out of jail.

Search was instituted and continued for a long time, but the fugitive successfully evaded the net. It is asserted that Veber returned to Hibbing, despite the serious charges hanging over his head and passed fully $1,000 worth of bad checks on a score of local merchants. The forger was arrested and taken into a saloon to be identified by one of his alleged victims, when he bolted the policeman who had him in charge. Another careful search was fruitless and nothing was seen of Veber in Hibbing until he came into evidence as the alleged robber of Tony Fritz.

STUDENTS PLAN VISIT TO RANGE

He says the thirteenth annual meeting of the institute will be held this summer on the iron ranges of Minnesota beginning July 24 and concluding July 27.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new ore dock to be constructed here by the Duluth & Iron Range railroad will be of steel and concrete and cost several hundred thousand dollars, according to the reports current. It will be known as Dock No. 6 and will be located immediately south of No. 5.

It is also learned that the Duluth & Iron Range will build another steel tower at its coal docks here, the third of its kind. It is said that the company will add 300 feet to the length of its coal dock to handle the vast local traffic.

Barring the races at the county fair the July meets promise to be the big racing events of the summer on the ranges, and a large delegation is expected from the range towns as well as from Duluth and other points.

The school board, to whom the citizens generally owe so much for the excellent manner in which the school matters of the district are handled, is composed of William H. Day, director; Richard Geary, treasurer; Arthur P. Stillman, clerk; Charles E. Young, superintendent.

The Lincoln high school was planned in the winter of 1905-1906. The site was secured, the plans adopted, and all of the preliminary arrangements made for the work to begin in the following spring. The construction was commenced in April, 1906, and pushed to completion as rapidly as possible through the summer and fall. The high school department moved into its present quarters on Dec. 1 last, and within three months more the building was wholly in use. The architect was C. H. Parsons of the firm of W. H. Parsons & Sons, Des Moines, Iowa, aad Duluth, with J. W. Ditwiler as supervisor of construction. The work was done under contract, and was awarded to the following bidders: F. C. Norlander, general construction, $70,297; Holt & Dahlby, heating and plumbing, $15,307; Empire State Surety company, electric wiring, $2,114; architect's commission $4,385.90; total, without furnishings, $92,103.90. CURRENT EVENTS AT HIBBING AND VICINITY.

Hibbing, June 15.—(Special to the Herald.)—On Thursday evening, June 20, Rev. E. C. Clemans, D. D., of Duluth, will preach at the Methodist church at 8 o'clock p. m. Dr. Clemans is a popular speaker. All are cordially invited to attend the service. The quarterly conference will be held at the close of the service.

CHISHOLM PLAYERS AFTER HIBBING NINE.

Chisholm, Minn., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Manager McNevin of the now-forming Chisholm baseball team expects to spring a surprise on the fans of the ranges when he jumps onto the diamond with his aggregation. No secret is made of the fact that Mr. McNevin is out after the scalp of Manager Brady of the Hibbing team, and he will gather the strongest bunch possible for that purpose. It is learned that four of the Kelley Hardware players of Duluth have been secured, and it is expected that that will do the business. Under ordinary conditions the Kelleys are in the high school class to the Hibbing bronchos, and it is expected at this end that the Chisholm outfit will not be able to make a respectable practice showing with the Hibbing team.

FITTING CLOSE TO EVELETH SCHOOLS.

Eveleth, Minn., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The high school was thronged last night with relatives and friends of the thirty-eight graduates from the high school and the eighth grade. There were five gradutes from the high school, while thirty pupils of the eighth grade received their certificates.

Abraham Selzman, president of the high school board, presented the school with a bust of Washington and a picture of the minute men, making an appropriate speech in connection therewith. Hilding Sholung accepted the gifts for the junior class.

The address of V. E. McCaskill, president of the normal school of Superior, was the event of the evening. He spoke on "The Fittest Boy," a subject that he handled in an entertaining and amusing manner, interpersing sound advice with humorous anecdotes that enlivened his address. The diplomas were presented to the graduates by J. H. Harding, a member of the school board.

Mr. Hurding said that he and the people of Eveleth were proud of the two classes, and expressed the hope that the graduates themselves, in the future would accomplish something that would make their relatives and teachers feel still more proud of them. He complimented the superintendent of the schools and the instructors for the interest they have taken in their work, and said that the high standard of these graduates was the best possible testimonial to them. The program closed with a song by the eighth grade.

NEW GIANT FREIGHTER LAUNCHED AT SUPERIOR

MISS MARY McFADDEN,
Who Christened the New Steamer George F. Baker.

A half hour later than was scheduled, or at about 12:30 this afternoon, Miss Mary D. McFadden of Duluth broke the traditional bottle of champagne over the bow of the great 600-foot freighter, George F. Baker, and the big craft slid quietly into the waters of the slip at the Superior Shipbuilding company's yards. W. W. Watterson, superintendent of construction for the Pittsburg company, came up to superintend the launching, and it went off without a hitch or mishap of any kind.

The ceremonies were simple in the extreme and strictly conventional. The tug carrying Miss McFadden, sponsor for the big craft, and Misses Lydia Poirier, Grace Sheridan, Alta Owens, Sybilla Hartman, Ruth Markell and Ruth A. Roberts, the maids of honor, left the Sixth avenue dock in Duluth about 11:30 this morning and arrived some time in advance of the launching.

The new boat, which is named after George F. Baker, president of the First National Bank of New York, is 600 feet in length, has a 58-foot beam, and is 32 feet deep. She is equipped with triple expansion enghies, 24, 38, 62, with a 46-inch stroke. Two big Scotch boilers, fifteen feet in diameter, furnish the steam. It is expected that the big boat will be ready to take out her first cargo about the middle of July.

BID FOR TUG REJECTED

Government Will Do Without Steel Tug This Year.

Bid Was $51,000 and Only $36,000 Is Available.

The government will buy no steel tug this year for harbor work here and at other points in the Lake Superior district.

Major Graham D. Fitch, the United State engineer in charge of the district, opened one bid for the construction of an 80-foot steel tug of the ice-breaking and heavy sea-going type at noon today. The bid was submitted by the Racine Boat Manufacturing company of Muskegon, Mich.

The government has about $36,000 available for the tug.

The Racine Boat company's bid was $51,000.

Major Fitch has forwarded the bid to the chief engineer at Washington, D. C., with the recommendation that it be rejected.

This is the second time that bids have been taken for a steel tug. The former bids were over $50,000 and the boat construction companies do not seem to have cut down their figures any since a year ago.

"QUEEN LIL" AND THE STOLEN GEMS

Poor "King O'Keefe" Star Made to Lose "Her Jewels.

"Queen Lil" is reported to have lost her jewels.

It is not hard to see in his report that the fine, Italian hand of T. P. Getz, familiarly known as "Tommy" Getz, throughout the show world. But the story is something of a disappointment to his friends, who looked for something newer and better from the veteran promoter and press agent.

Mr. Getz, as most people know, is helping the local lodge of Elks build a new home by putting on amateur productions, and naturally he is not inclined to shun the fierce glare of publicity or to hide the merits of "King O'Keefe" under a bushel. "King O'Keefe," by the way, is worth digging up a dollar to see, whether the owner of the dollar be an Elk, a Hoo-Hoo, a Democrat, an Episcopalian, or a member of any other lodge, party or religious sect.

But that is aside from the story, "King O'Keefe" doesn't need any more boosting. It is running nicely. The point is that Mr. Getz had to resort to the stolen gem story, and last evening to some newspaper men, he divulged the fact that Charles Dorrance had lost "her" jewel casket. Et tu Brute!

Mr. Getz is the kind of a showman who would take a circus to London and inside of twenty-four hours would have the members of the two houses of Parliament in a pitched battle on the question of whether or not it was in accordance with the sacred precedents to have the troupe give a special performance for the king and queen in Westminster abbey, and the prosy old journals of dear old "Lunnon" would devote columns of space to it, and comment upon it in weighty editorial style.

The length of his fall to a stolen gem story, is therefore the saddest part of it.

DULUTH AS IT IS TODAY.

The rapidity with which the long latent possibilities of Duluth are unfolding these days is almost bewildering, yet it is doubtful if many people, even among the citizens of Duluth, fully realize the breadth and stability of the new developments that are coming to the light every day.

The importance of these developments lies in the fact that nearly all of them mean new pay rolls. This means large numbers of new workmen that are to become citizens of Duluth, and it means continuous and profitable employment for those already here and for the others that are yet to come. That in turn means larger business for the merchants, the jobbers, the professional men, for everybody. Taken altogether the new industries already announced involve a sudden and almost miraculous growth in population and wealth.

Just for the fun of the thing, let's review a few of them, just to see how they look all together. None of them are new, all of them have been public property for weeks or months, yet it is possible that a group picture may furnish food for thought.

For instance, during the week the Minnesota Steel company was incorporated, with a capital stock of $10,000,000, to build a great steel plant in Duluth. This will involve the expenditure of millions of dollars and give employment to thousands of men. It will broaded the city's market field and herald its fame as a center of industries.

Then there is the water power, about ready for operation, which is not only a great industry itself, but is bound to become the prolific parent of many others yet unborn.

Then the Clyde Iron Works has lately completed plans for a new plant in the West end, involving the expenditure of several hundred thousand dollars and the employment of a large number of workers.

In West Duluth the carbolite works will soon employ several hundred men, the match factory, the brass works and several other concerns are giving steady employment to many men, and a plant for the manufacture of match-making machinery is projected.

The National Iron Works in the West end is employing nearly 200 men, and is crowded with all the work it can possibly do even with the aid of recent expansions.

G. A. Tomlinson is about to build a shipyard and drydock on the bay in the West end, and the drydock will be the largest on the Great Lakes.

Again, in the way of railroad development, always a sure index of growth and expansion, the Wisconsin Central is aiming for this city, and will shortly begin to tear down the buildings on a couple of downtown blocks for the construction of an immense passenger station. Besides, a north shore line from Duluth to Port Arthur is planned for early construction, and the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg is shortly to reach this city, providing a new line to the Mesaba range with a line to the busy developments at International Falls and on the Canadian border.

The Soo railroad is also headed for Duluth, opening up an entirely new territory for which Duluth will be the market. Among the older roads there is great activity in making plans to care for increased business. The Great Northern and the Northern Pacific are soon to make large improvements. The Great Northern will build a great freight shed costing $350,000, and the Northern Pacific will make extensions of its railroad yards involving a vast cost. The Duluth, Missabe & Northern will build down over the hill from Proctor to the site of the new steel plant.

In the way of building construction, aside from the great amount involved in these industries, St. Louis county is about to begin work on a courthouse that will cost nearly a million, the Y. M. C. A. has a handsome building nearing completion, the Y. W. C. A. is just beginning work on another one, a handsome, up-to-date office building of eight stories will be built at the corner of Second avenue west and Superior street on the site of the Merchants hotel, a new postoffice building will be constructed, and several other large projects are about ready for announcement.

Still more than this, hundreds of residences are planned or already begun, many of them of uncommon beauty and cost, though not less pleasing is the large number of humbler homes that are going up to house the thrifty and prosperous working men of the city.

This hasty review just touches the high spots, and the whole field between is thriving with activity and rosy with prosperity.

Looks pretty good, doesn't it?

MORE ACTIVITY NEEDED.

A line of useful endeavor upon which the commercial bodies of the city can and should busy themselves is to attract visitors to Duluth during its period of industrial development when it has so much of interest to show them.

It is a common custom among cities that are thriving, and that are adding to their prosperity by reaching out after all the business in sight, to arrange excursions from nearby towns on various occasions; but Duluth isn't doing it. The lack is due to inattention, and it is all the more noticeable because there is so much to offer the visitors in the way of interesting attractions.

Duluth must not be content to sit down and accept gratefully the good things that fortune brings, but must get up and hustle to make the most of the good things that come, and to make them attract others that will not come without a little coaxing.

Recently The Herald suggested that Duluth should celebrate the Fourth. This suggestion was made not only because it is the right and patriotic thing to do, and because it is always good to stimulate and keep alive the spirit of patriotism that sometimes lies dormant, but because a rousing celebration could be made the occasion of calling in visitors from nearby towns and giving them a good time.

This is but one way of attracting visitors, and there are many others. With new industries coming in, with a vast amount of building in progress, Duluth wants its neighbors to drop in and look the city over.

It has much to offer them in addition to these evidences of swelling prosperity. The lake, the bays, the drives, the boulevard, the parks, the scenic beauties to be reached by a step or a short car ride: all these things help to make a visitor's stay here pleasant and profitable.

Then there is the White City, on Minnesota point, which was planned for this very purpose, and which is to be enlarged and made more interesting this summer.

The Commercial club should take this matter up. It is one of the things for which it was created, and for which the business men support it. It should join hands with the other business associations of the city, and with the business men themselves, to arrange frequent excursions from the ranges and from the neighboring towns in every direction. Having arranged them, it should see that the visitors are made welcome and that they enjoy themselves. They will, of course, because there is much for them to see and much to do.

Perhaps it is too late now to arrange a suitable Fourth of July celebration, but it is not too late to arrange excursions during July, August and September or even later. Arrangements can doubtless be made with the railroads, which should be quite as much interested as any Duluthian in stimulating freedom of social and business intercourse between this city and its neighbors.

FROM A NEW ANGLE.

The LeSueur News, discussing this question, which has been going the rounds of the press for some time, says that this is no time for it, and its reason is worth thinking about, particularly in Southern Minnesota, where the News is published. Says the News:

> We don t know where the talk of dividing Minnesota into two states originated, but we do know that the present is no time to consider it. The south half of the state has all the advantage in past public improvements, the north half, until very recently, being undeveloped, except in localities here and there. If we ever must divide, to satisfy the politicians, let us at least wait until we of the south pay the debt we owe to those of the north, in public funds to be used in placing that portion in equally as good a condition as we enjoy, in drainage and roads.

That's the way to talk about state division. If more Southern Minnesota newspapers saw it from this angle, and if the legislators from Southern Minnesota could see it that way, too, so that Northern Minnesota would be a little less exclusively a place to draw taxes from and a little more often considered as a place to invest state money in, there would be far less unseemly sectionalism, and a stronger common spirit for the uplifting and upbuilding of the whole state.

The LeSueur News has said the most sensible thing yet said about state division.

MAN AGAINST MAN.

The other day a young man, well-dressed, well-groomed, and rather foppish in appearance, sat in a Duluth street car reading a newspaper.

The car stopped at a corner, and among those that entered it was a man with a tin dinner pail. His clothes were torn and soiled, his hands were calloused and grimy, and his face, though intelligent and kindly, was soiled with evidences of toil. He was clearly a workingman, probably employed in some factory or machine shop.

The young man turned from his paper, looked annoyed, and then abruptly got up and left his seat, making no attempt to conceal his disgust as he took hold of a strap a few feet away.

The workingman flushed under the dirt on his face, but looked the young man up and down with a clear-eyed, unashamed glance of contempt. The passengers viewed the incident with varying emotions.

Young man, that workingman whose contact disgusted you is a producer. What are you producing? From your appearance you are probably one of those fellows of whom the president spoke the other day, who prefer a "salary" of $12 a week to "wages" of $25 a week. And you probably put it all on your back, except what little you spend for board and room.

Even though the object of your disgust is a humble workingman, he is engaged in useful toil and the product of his labor goes to make the world wealthier and more comfortable. He is paying his way in the world by coining his muscle into wealth, of which he gets a small share back in the form of wages, while you are probably doing a work of much less importance to society, and receiving in return a lesser wage than his, which you prefer, however, because you can call it "salary" and keep your hands clean earning it.

That workingman, too, owns a home, and is a citizen and taxpayer of Duluth. Somewhere back on the hill you will find a neat, tidy cottage, surrounded by a well-kept lawn, with a little garden in the back. That is his home. How does it compare with your single scantily furnished room under the eaves of your boarding house? He votes at the elections, because he is a taxpayer and has an interest in sound, efficient and economical government. You vote, too, but your right to the privilege is far smaller than his.

He has four or five healthy, wholesome youngsters in his home, too, young man, with a good wife to keep them clean and well fed and to bring them up to be good citizens. You have no home, no wife, no child, and you will never have any of them so long as you think more of your clothes and your immaculate hands than you do of your duty to society and civilization.

Young man, this workingman with the soiled clothes and hands is an honest, valuable and productive citizen.

You are a cheap cad.

BUILD THAT VIADUCT.

How many more lives must be offered up as a sacrifice to sloth and laggard public spirit on the deadly Fifth avenue railroad crossing before a viaduct is built over the tracks?

It is the duty of the railroads operating there to build a viaduct at once.

It is the duty of the city to see that they build it, and that they build it strongly and of suitable capacity.

The supreme court has upheld the right of the city to compel such action several times, and the principle is well settled. To be sure, the railroads will probably test it again in the courts, and that will involve more delay and the loss of more lives, but the quicker the city starts to perform its duty in this matter the sooner it will be done.

And it should be a viaduct, not a foot bridge. A footbridge will be merely a weak, temporary makeshift, and will only relieve pedestrians from danger, while leaving teamsters and teams exposed as they are at present. A viaduct will replace it one day, and it is better to have the viaduct now, better in every way.

THE SOUL'S GARDEN.

The home-owner who takes pride in keeping his lawn smooth and green is much perturbed these days by the discovery that though the backward spring has been rather discouraging to nearly every other kind of growth, the crop of dandelions promises to be uncommonly large.

A little later, when the other pestiferous weeds that haunt civilization get their growth, he will discover that they, too, are not dismayed by backward seasons, but are growing with amazing vitality in spite of all obstacles.

All of which means that the home-owner must be unusually diligent in weeding out the unwelcome plant visitors and cultivating the sightly ones that he raises for the beautifying of his home.

It may make him irritable because by a strange law the undesirable things come uninvited and in disgusting health and strength, while the things he does want must be cultivated and coaxed; but such is the law, and he must heed it.

Perhaps it isn't such a strange law after all, because the things that come with effort and at the expense of pains are prized most highly, and the householder values his sightly home far more for the toil it has cost him. So that this law works after all, through devious ways, for human happiness and content.

Of course the story of the triumphant prosperity of the weeds is not brought in here for its own sake. It carries a lesson and furnishes a parallel worth thinking about.

For as it is with the weeds and the flowers in the garden and upon the lawn, so it is with the graces and the vices in human character.

The vices come unbidden, and grow rapidly and luxuriantly wherever the soil is left open to them. The graces grow by cultivation, and are won at the cost of unceasing vigilance and toil.

If you plant a flower garden and go away for the summer, when you come back it will be an unsightly mass of ugly weeds, with the flowers choked out and hidden from sight.

If you do the same scurvy trick to your soul, the result will be as evil. The weeds of vice and bad habit will troop in and flourish, growing rank and tall and ugly. The flowers of grace and gentleness will be choked out and covered up, and people gaining an insight into your soul will shudder and pass on.

If you come back from your summer's trip soon enough, you may be able to pull out all the weeds and revive the flowers by giving them light and air and careful nursing.

If you discover in time what inattention has done to your soul, you will be still able to root out the vices and give the graces a chance. But in both cases the safest and the easiest and the best way is to be right on guard all the time, and thus keep the weeds and vices out of garden and soul and give daily cultivation to the flowers and graces.

One great difference between the garden and your soul is that you can hire somebody to keep your garden fair, but if your soul is to be clean and beautiful you must keep it so yourself.

THE PASSING SHOW.

Undesirable citizens? How about Orchard?

Jingoism is a mighty sad imitation of patriotism.

The higher the meat trust raises the price of meat the harder it is for the public to do it.

If Orchard has the virtue of truthfulness it must feel pretty lonesome. It has little company of its own kind.

"Barkis is willin';" which is one point of resemblance between Barkis and Knox, Fairbanks, Taft, Cannon, Bryan et al.

No excuse for spelling faker, of the nature faker kind, with an "i." Faker is from the slang verb "to fake," and fakir is an Oriental monk.

Orchard should be given a chance, before the trial is over, to go back on the stand and make sure he has not forgotten a dozen murders or so.

Chicago had forty-five suicides last month. Of course it's hard lines to have to live there, but why commit suicide while the trains are running out of the city?

A charwoman employed by the Standard Oil company has been sent to jail for stealing a bar of soap. Served her right. It was an insult to the oil trust to steal so little.

The postoffice department has designated as the correct summer costume for letter carriers "a shirt waist, a necktie, and a neat belt." Yet the weather has so far not been hot enough to make such a scanty costume necessary.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

A shaggy-headed young man wearing a somber-looking derby hat and a collar that stood up all the way around, giving him a theological look, walked up to the cigar counter in the lobby of the Lenox the other day and addressed himself to the young lady ensconced behind it.

"What's your prices?" he asked.

"Oh, most any old price," said the girl, thinking to herself that a 'three-fer' would about do him.

"But what's the cheapest you've got?" persisted the young man.

"Well, nothing less than five," said the girl.

"That seems like a good deal, commented the stranger. Then apparently changing the subject, he inquired, "Whereabouts do you register?"

He went over to the desk the young lady pointed out and asked the clerk what was the cheapest room he could give him.

"The best I can do is $1 European or $2 American," came the reply.

"One dollar! That ain't so bad. That girl over at the other desk said the cheapest you had was $5. I thought she was stringing me."

"You've heard about the man who tied a string to his finger and then forgot what it was to remind him of," said a prosperous-looking individual leaning over the bar at the Spalding yesterday. "Well, he hasn't got anything on me when it comes to absent-mindedness. Here's what I did:

"About two weeks ago my wife asked me to make three or four little purchases for her, and, knowing that I would probably forget what I was to buy, reached into my vest pocket for a card to use as a memorandum book. All I found was a strip of about half a dozen street car tickets. I just used the back of those to jot down the three or four articles I was to bring home.

"When I arrived home that night my wife pointed out to me that I had forgotten one item. That set me thinking, for I didn't see how I could have forgotten anything when I had it down in black and white. 'Oh, sure enough,' I said, 'I gave that to the conductor.'

"'What!' she exclaimed, getting excited, you gave an expensive bottle of toilet water to the conductor?'

"Then I had to tell her that I had given him the ticket that must have had 'toilet water' scrawled on the back of it."

"JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA."

Detroit News: The presidential possibilities now embrace Governor Johnson of Minnesota, whose accession to the ranks is based upon his prowess as a Democratic victor in a Republican state. More remarkable things have happened than the sudden projection of a provincial hero, unknown outside the confines of his own state, into the full national sky, and a cursory examination of the Minnesota man's mettle justifies at least the enthusiasm of his neighbors, if not of all Democracy, north, south, east and west, with its jealous differences.

Governor Johnson is accredited with being moved by a political obsession that takes rise in other states not partial to the perennial candidacy of Mr. Bryan. Some Southern and Eastern Democratic leaders debate the probabilities that a Democrat who can carry a Republican state in a presidential campaign can carry the whole country. Governor Johnson is now discovered in the attitude of a receptive candidate, and may presently play the role of Taft to Bryan's Roosevelt.

Some of the elements demanded by the American people in their popular heroes enter into the Johnson mixture, and if humble parentage, obscure youth, struggling manhood and final rugged achievement still count for anything, Johnson's credentials will be accepted. "Your father died in the poorhouse," taunted political opponents when he was sweeping Minnesota's Republican majority out into the night. "He did. He was a drunkard, and my mother had to wash and sew to provide herself and her boy with bread," was Johnson's response, and it seemed eminently satisfactory to the people of Minnesota, where more than one Scandinavian boy with mud-cracked feet, and hatless tow-head, has used his heritage of health, industry and thrift to the conquering of the state.

Garfield driving the mules on the Erie canal, and Lincoln splitting rails on the farm, result in the association in the public mind, reasonably or unreasonably, of honesty, force and greatness with humble origin in politics. As the man who carried a Republican state, Johnson becomes a presidential possibility; but as the bare-footed son of a washerwoman he quickly amounts to a probability.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

At a meeting of the city council last evening, Aldermen Daugherty, Eaton and Bunnell were appointed a committee to assist in the entertainment of the members of the American Institute of Mining engineers, who will meet here on July 26. R. P. Edson was re-elected city attorney.

Capt. Inman is on the way from Port Huron with a new tug, the Mary Virginia, which he has purchased for use in the Duluth harbor.

The recent decline in the wheat market has brought disaster to several Chicago houses, and by their failures three Duluth concerns have had to succumb. Kershaw & Co. of this city, who were in reality a branch of the big Chicago house of the same name, were compelled to close last evening. It was learned the Chicago house will pull through and no doubt the Duluth branch will resume business. This morning Arthur Waters & Co. and N. D. DeWitt, both closed their doors. It is believed the later is solvent and will come out all right.

THE WEATHER.

This is June, real June. To attempt to describe such weather as that of this morning, with its soft and gentle beauties and its joyous charm, with just words out of the dictionary, is like trying to build a mansion out of straws. Let it suffice to say that the northeast winds, coolness and showers that conditions indicated yesterday had not arrived up to noon today, but that the weather, instead, was again perfection. The weather man expects local showers tonight and tomorrow, without much change in conditions otherwise. Yesterday's highest temperature here was 76 degs., the highest this season, and last night's lowest was 54 degs.

A year ago today the temperature was up to 76 degs. and it was theratening, but nothing came of it. A year ago tomorrow it was clear and fine, real summer weather.

The sun rose this morning at 4:12, at the same time that it has risen since the 11th and will rise until the 22d, and sets at 8:04 tonight, the same time it set last night, making 15 hours and 52 minutes of bright sunshine. Tomorrow evening the sun will set a minute later than tonight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The distribution of barometric pressure remains about the same as Friday, high over the lake region, upper Mississippi valley and Pacific states, and low off the North Atlantic coast and in the Rocky mountain districts. The low pressures caused high temperatures in the central valleys and showers also over the Dakotas, Saskatchowan, Montana, Nevada and Oregon. The slow Eastern movement of the Rocky mountain barometric depressions will doubtless cause local showers in this section during tonight and Sunday."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures as recorded by the weather bureau:

SMILING REMARKS.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Justice—Are you sure you didn't confound some other chauffeur with this one?

Victim—Yes, he was all alone and I confounded him good.

Chicago Tribune: "You will marry a rich and beautiful blonde," said the fortune teller, "and become the father of a large family."

"Then I'll have a long time to wait," said the young man, with a half sigh. "I married a rich but homely brunette a couple of weeks ago, and she looks good for fifty years yet."

Judge: "Moving?" inquired the neighbor as a furniture van stopped in front of Kerlect's house.

"No, indeed," replied Kerlect. "A friend wants to borrow our collection of souvenir postcards."

Philadelphia Press: "Yes, Dasher and his brother fell out the other day and now they don't speak."

"Well, well, fell out over politics, I suppose."

"No, out of their automobiles while going at the rate of seventy miles an hour."

Detroit Free Press: Husband (explaining his late home coming)—My dear, I couldn't help it. I just missed the last car and had to wait forty minutes.

Wife—Now don't blame it on the street car company. They've troubles enough without you.

Philadelphia Ledger: The Northwest was planning an exposition.

"Let us make it unique," said the management.

After pondering long, they decided to have the show ready to open at the opening date.

"It's a violation of precedent, we know," they admitted, "but this is the age of radicalism."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

On the Threshold.

Prettier even than clusters of June roses is the sight of bright faced boys and girls, young men and young women, lining up to receive diplomas as tokens of completed courses of study. They give distinction to this month as it passes, and they fill the thoughtful onlookers with measureless conndence and hope touching the future of the land. We cannot all be going to the bow wows; materialism is not going to be in the saddle so long as our colleges and schools continue to send out such material as this. Much of it to be sure is still somewhat "vealy;" but among these thousands of youths are many who have higher ideals than those of mere money getting, or even of professional success. Some of them have been dreaming dreams and seeing visions and they will "follow the gleam" in coming years, even though their way may sometimes be thorny and winding.

Congratulations first of all to the graduates! It is a great thing to complete a definite period of study. You have not mastered all the departments of science; but you are supposed to have become fairly proficient in certain branches. At least you have "passed" and that means a standing and record in which you may justly take pride. A partly completed course is always a source of disappointment to those who because of ill health or poverty, have been unable to go on and graduate with their classmates; but you have been spared this sorrow. You have preserved to the end. And as the bouquets and compliments are showered on you, you may take satisfaction in having earned by hard and persistent work the position you now occupy.

And yet your mood would better be one which emphasizes less your own share in the outcome and more the obligation you are under to those who have taught and guided you thus far. No college boy, for example, pays in his tuition fee more than a fraction of what it actually cost to educate him. Without the endowments or the appropriations from public or private treasury, few of the institutions now blessing the land could go on. You owe to many a modest benefactor whose name perhaps you will never know, more than you realize. You are indebted also to the historic traditions and spirit of the school for much of the worth that has passed into your life. Your chief obligation is probably a personal one to instructors who have borne with you in your dullness, perhaps in your obstinacy; but who with gentleness, tact and perseverance have succeeded in bringing out what was best in you, though it lay far below the surface.

When one stands on the threshold, he looks not only down to the spot on which his feet are resting and backward to the region from which he has come; but chiefly forward. Nobody thinks long of tarrying long on a threshold. He simply pauses a moment to peer forward and see if there is anyone to welcome him in the next room and what will be his pathway therein. The end of one period is inevitably the beginning of another. Why have you stored up knowledge unless now you are ready to put it to good use? Why have you enriched your character unless to make your life tell most in the next stage? That is an ideal life, which gathering up all that has been worth while in the past, forges forward courageously to the next task, the next opportunity. No education worth the name is an end in itself and the educated youth of the land should remember that the two things which the world expects of him are character and service.

Tarry not too long then, oh fair young graduates, on the threshold! Fear not to step over; move out into the world of action. We send you forth with our blessings and our prayers. And can you have any better motto than that of the Prince of Wales, "I serve?"

THE PARSON.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: If a girl has indigestion she thinks it's a sign of a great romance.

There are those you like and those you don't speak to by marriage.

It is better to be sorry that you didn't marry a girl than that you did.

Nobody could have much fun if there weren't laws, rules and regulations against it.

The easiest way to have a man get the best of you is to think you are smarter than he is.

A woman couldn't really have a good time away on a visit unless she could worry about how the children are at home.

SENATOR PHILANDER C. KNOX

By SAVOYARD.

(Copyrighted by E. W. Newman.)

Something more than ten years ago the Democrats were separated into goldbugs and silver cranks, and in 1907 the Republicans are become separated into progressives and reactionaries. President Roosevelt is chief of the former and the greatest politician of his generation; but a single battle brought to naught Hannibal's hundred victories, and if a reactionary shall be nominated for president by the Republican national convention of 1908, failure will be writ against the name of Theodore Roosevelt in the book of political destiny. Hence, we may ask: Will he take it himself rather than go down in defeat before the cohorts of reaction? And it is quite likely that it will come to that.

Never was there such a string of candidates, avowed and receptive. These are Fairbanks, Cannon, Foraker, Shaw, Cummins, La Follette, Spooner, Cortelyou, Root, Hughes, Crane, Scott, Taft, and Knox. There are others. In the convention progress and reaction will be face to face. At present Mr. Taft is the favorite of the progressives and strongly backed by the president. He may have to give place to Hughes, who may have to surrender the thing to the president himself to beat the mollycoddles.

Knox is a mighty dangerous man. For the first time in the history of the Republican party Pennsylvania will have a real favorite in a Republican national convention, in which there is a real contest, when progressives and reactionaries shall be lined up in opposing columns in 1908. Pennsylvania will have sixty-eight votes. New England is a reactionary, and New England will have eighty-two votes. New Jersey is another reactionary, with twenty-four votes in convention. And there are others. The unit rule does not prevail in Republican conventions, and that affords political genius a grand opportunity. Every "out," down South, will be a reactionary, and the "outs" down there outnumber the "ins." It will be as easy as it is natural for Knox to fall heir to Fairbanks and to Cannon. The greatest man in Iowa is George Perkins of the Sioux City Journal. He will see to it that Cummins does not cast the solid vote of that state to suit himself. Taft may get the bulk of Ohio; but the senators can be depended on to have several districts. There are reactionary districts in New York, and the Japanese business may be defeat the president's calculations in California. We may be sure that several Wisconsin districts are for Spooner, and if the state were solid for him his chances would be as good as any man's that could be named. Everybody recognizes his splendid abilities and his lofty character, and the day is not distant when the fact that a man is not distant when the fact lawyer will not render him ineligible to the office of the president of the United States.

It is easy to forecast the battle in the next Republican national convention. The victory will incline to the side that is the more skilfully led. Fairbanks may get it; Knox may get it; Spooner may get it; Cannon may get it. These gentlemen are naturalists; but will they be, like Dumas' immortal four, "All for one, and one for all?"

Pennsylvania has voted for more successful candidates for president than any other state. In 1796 she gave one vote for Adams and fourteen votes for Jefferson. Four years later she gave Jefferson eight votes and Adams seven. In 1824 she lost Jackson, who had a plurality in the electoral college. Fourteen times in succession, 1828-1880, both inclusive, Pennsylvania picked the winner, if we shall so class Hayes. Since 1880 Pennsylvania has lost but twice out of a possible six times. And yet, powerful, populous and opulent as Pennsylvania is and has been, she has furnished the Union but one president and one vice president, though it has been a saying since Jackson's time, "As goes Pennsylvania, so goes the Union."

And so, in a practical sense, Pennsylvania is the best politician in the Union. Republican Pennsylvania goes to the convention to observe and consider. When she has settled on the winner she springs like a tiger and holds on like a bulldog, though it is my recollection that her vote was cast for Blaine on the final ballot at Cincinnati in 1876, but there is nothing more certain than that Pennsylvania defeated his nomination then by withholding her support until what is called the psychological moment was past.

But Pennsylvania is going to the next Republican national convention with a candidate, a favorite son, and no second choice. Philander C. Knox is among the leading lawyers of the American bar, and, like all great lawyers, he is necessarily a conservative, a term that is now become confounded with reactionary and mollycoddle. No man can be a great lawyer who does not reverence the law, and here is all that law is—fidelity to obligation. This great government at Washington is a party to a contract expressed in the constitution of the United States, and things never get out of joint in a political way except when the government defaults and repudiates its covenant.

Philander C. Knox was born in Pennsylvania in 1853, and is only a few months older than the Republican party that was christened at Pittsburg in 1854. He was the son of a substantial citizen, who gave his boy every advantage and started him in life at the age of 19 with a classical education. He became a student in the office of a leading lawyer of Pittsburg and came to the bar in 1875. He was assistant United States district attorney in 1876, and subsequently his general practice was extensive and remunerative.

There is a popular belief that Knox is a "corporation lawyer." I do not suppose he would be any the worse if it were true. We have established a standard of patriotism and of morals in this country that reads out of respectable political society any lawyer who ever held a brief in a court of justice with a corporation for a client. Corporations are artificial persons created by the law. They have rights as well as duties, and one of their rights is to employ legal counsel. An honest corporation lawyer is a public benefactor if he have capacity to see the law as it is and the courage to expound it as he sees it. Cheap, low, and disgusting demagogy has created a popular prejudice against corporation lawyers and there is no easier way to kill off an aspiring politician than to call him a corporation lawyer. Unfortunately some corporation lawyers have prostituted their learning and their skill to enable dishonest corporations to evade the law, to shirk their duties, and to oppress the public; but it is as foolish to judge all corporation lawyers by the conduct of these rascals as it would be to condemn all ministers of the gospel for the conduct of the wolves in sheep's clothes who get into the church.

But Mr. Knox is not a corporation lawyer, though no doubt he is profoundly learned in corporation law, as is every other successful lawyer of this era. The truth is that Mr. Knox made his way in the profession and gained his reputation at the bar through his learning and skill in the conduct of cases for individuals against corporations. The corporations of Pennsylvania had Watson of Pittsburg, and Johnson of Philadelphia on their staff, and they didn't need Knox, and it was against these Knox contended, frequently successfully contended, and the dockets of Pennsylvania courts, superior and inferior, evidence it. There is not a hot-gospel orator in American politics who has done the corporations a tithe of the injury Philander C. Knox has meted out to them.

Next to a capable and an honest editor of a newspaper, a capable and an honest lawyer is the most valuable citizen of an American community. Mr. Knox was such a lawyer. He made his way at the bar by intellectual force, by industry, and by capacity. He became the president of the Pennsylvania Bar association, and that evidenced the esteem in which he was held by the bar of the state of Jeremith S. Black, William B. Reed, and the great Judge Gibson. He was actively engaged in the practice when William McKinley sought him out and brought him into the cabinet as attorney general of the United States in 1901. He continued in that office under President Roosevelt until Pennsylvania sent him to the senate to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Matthew S. Quay.

And, as attorney general, Philander C. Knox gained the greatest triumph in the supreme court that ever came to any American lawyer. He busted the biggest trust ever organized to monopolize the business of transportation in the United States or elsewhere. He met and overcame the strongest array of corporation lawyers ever brought together to plead a single cause. The issue was more momentous than that involved in the Dartmouth case, and like that, the judgment long wavered in the balance. It was a divided court, and the judgment was for the government by a vote of five to four, and one of the majority, so report speaketh, intimated that he could not be depended on to do it again. The day that judgment was rendered in the supreme court dissolving the great merger of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads, Philander C. Knox became presidential timber, and observing men have never left him out of the calculation when contemplating the presidential succession of 1908.

When John Sherman made the anti-trust law he declared that it was all the Constitution would stand. At that time most Democrats thought it was more than the Constitution could stand. A quarter of a century ago a search warrant would not have discovered a single Democrat who would have pronounced the thing Constitutional. Mr. Cleveland did not believe it Constitutional. The three Democratic judges on the supreme bench decided against the contention of Knox when the judgment was made. It is the most radical sort of "government by construction," and if persisted in and carried to its logical conclusion it is but a question of time when the reserved sovereignty of the states will be utterly annihilated. But it is the only wear now, and the leaders of the two parties—Roosevelt and Bryan—are convinced that it is not at all drastic enough.

Be that as it may, history records that John Sherman and Philander C. Knox are our greatest trust busters. Sherman made the gun, Knox loaded and fired it and put J. Pierpont Morgan and James J. Hill in his game bag. Look at this partial list of Mr. Knox's predecessors as the head of the law department of the union: Edmund Randolph, Theophilus Parsons, John Breckinridge, William Pinkney, William Wirt, Roger B. Taney, Felix Grundy, John J. Crittenden, Nathan Clifford, Reverdy Johnson, Caleb Cushing, Jeremiah S. Black, Edward Bates, Henry Sanberry, William M. Evarts, Ebenezer R. Hoar, Alphonso Taft, Wayne MacVeagh, Benjamin H. Brewster, Augustus H. Garland, Richard Olney, and Judson Harmon. Not one of these ever conducted so important a case as did Knox, and not one ever achieved so great a legal triumph.

The decision in the merger case vitalized the anti-trust law and augumented the power of the federal establishment. Mr. Knox put the machinery in motion in numerous circuits, and the octopus was chased from Dan to Beersheba. Every conviction since the merger decision is to the credit of Knox, who made the thing possible by his splendid management of the Great Northern Securities case. When Matt Quay died, Pensylvania hunted round for a real statesman to represent her in the senate, and she chose Knox, who resigned from the cabinet in 1904 to acept the senatorship. He took his seat in December of that year, and his term will expire in 1911.

When congress assembled in December, 1905, the president insisted on a chase of the railroad octopus, and the rate bill was fetched into the house of representatives and jammed through that body without anybody knowing or caring what it was. The senate took it up and the country was in hot water for weeks. Then it was the Republicans separated into progressives and mollycoddles. The Democrats, under the lead of Bailey and Tillman, went to the rescue of the president. Inded, Tillman was in charge of the chase. There was a great debate, the greatest the senate had heard in years. Perhaps Bailey's speech has not been equaled as a constitutional argument since Calhoun and Webster. Spooner was a foeman worthy his steel and Foraker put the country in mind of the senates of our golden age in forensic eloquence, and Daniel did as well.

After months of debate it became apparent that no bill could pass that Senator Aldrich found fault with. Now it was that Knox got the floor and made a speech that was only cumulative testimony of his great capacity as a constitutional lawyer; but he did more. He saved the bill and rendered incalculable service to the Republican party.

Knox was the real author of the Allison paper that brought Roosevelt out of the Democratic camp and put him at the head of the Republican chasers. Bailey and Tillman were engaged. One would have thought that red-coat, jumping critters, diamond-back rattlesnakes, brass-headed snapping turtles, and such had been turned loose on the Democratic side, while a chapter of the Knights of Annias was hastily convoked at the White House and a bunch of new candidates invested with the badge of that order—all because the Republicans got their president back again.

The bill passed. Every Republican voted for it but Foraker, and every Democrat but Morgan and Pettus. The octopus chase was concluded. Senator Aldrich went to Europe, the president to Oyster Bay. Mr. Bryan came home, suggested governmental ownership, and the country responded with a Republican majority in congress. But that is history.

Keep an eye on Knox and keep an eye on Pennsylvania. If Robert W. Mackey and William H. Kemble were but alive to take charge of the Knox forces there is nothing that there is doubt about more likely than that Philander C. Knox would be the Republican nominee for president of the United States in 1908.

TAFT GUEST AT BANQUET

Secretary of War Recovers Sufficiently to Attend Function.

Delivers Address to a Crowd of Enthusiastic People.

St. Paul, June 15.—It looked for a time as if the banquet which was given at the Auditorium last night in honor of Secretary of War Taft would not be graced by the presence of the secretary, who was taken suddenly ill while reviewing the troops at Fort Snelling, shortly after noon. The banquet was billed to commence at 6 o'clock, but it was not until 7:45 that the secretary reached the banquet hall.

Looking somewhat pale, but with his face wreathed in smiles, the secretary of war strode down the long line of banqueters, and the 2,000 seated at the tables, and as many more who occupied seats in the boxes and balconies, rose to their feet and cheered lustily.

To the Associated Press the secretary stated that he was feeling much better, and that his attack was merely a severe fit of indigestion, which undoubtedly had been brought on by the continuous series of banquets which had been tendered him since he left Washington on his Western trip.

The banquet which, except for the visit to Fort Snelling, was the only function which the secretary was able to attend, was given on the immense stage of the Audltorium. Plates were laid for 2,000 banqueters, while the boxes and galleries surrounding the stage were thronged with handsomely gowned women. Palms and potted plants were scattered in picturesque profusion about the banquet hall, while thousands of silk American flags floated overhead.

Secretary Taft could not begin his speech for some moments, being unable to quiet the vast audience, and while standing there it was plainly evident, from his drooping manner, that he felt weak, and the perspiration stood on his face, but when he raised his voice to speak, his voice was strong, and he was heard in all parts of the great Auditorium. He said:

"It has come to be my portion to receive the hospitality from a great many people; from those in the Philippines, many hundreds of miles away, from Panama, Cuba, Porto Rico, and to have, with Senator Clapp at my right hand, to run the risk of several winters in Washington, but it has remained for me to surrender to the Twin Cities of the North.

"The condition in which I find myself tonight is my own fault, and I can refer to Archbishop Ireland here for the truth of the saying, 'that you may bray a fool in a mortar among wheat with a pestle and his foolishness will not depart from him.' I don't know whether that is the St. James or the Douay version, but the substance is correct. The fact is that I caught a cold and added to my indiscretion by eating too heartily of the dinner provided for me at various stopping places, and I am confronted with a weakness that I ought not to confess. I ought not to be here now, but for a desire to come and witness this wonderful greeting, and I want to make this statement just as strong as if I were to make a speech for an hour, which I am not going to do. I had hoped to invite your attention to what has been accomplished in constructing the canal and to give you an idea of what we have been doing down there on the isthmus, but I must plead my condition and simply give you an outline of what has been done.

"That canal has been in the view of man 400 years, ever since Charles V sent his men to find a shorter passage to the East with the instruction that if they could not find a strait to make one. The French undertook that task in 1881 and they failed to do the work because of not understanding the difficulties to be overcome. We bought the interest of the French for $40,000,000 and in so doing we owe a duty to the French because of their failure we have learned where to stop. We could not build the canal unless we made the isthmus healthful. We had to make a war—the Spanish war—to show us the way. Then we had to preserve order. The French private corporation had no police and they had to depend on the Colombian army to police the strip and that was not a great success. Then, too, De Lesseps, who was not the right sort of an engineer for that purpose, came lightly over after building the Suez canal and spent $250,000,000 in an attempt to build a sea level canal thinking he could do the same in Panama that he had done in Suez, but he had not reckoned with the Chagres river."

Secretary Taft then outlined briefly the plans which were made for the prosecution of the work. He enumerated the thousands of cubic yards excavated by months until April, when he said:

"It's great evidence of progress to get to such a state that in April we excavated 850,000 cubic yards. Then in May we had a strike, but that has been amicably settled and we will take out a million cubic yards a month. That would mean 12,000,000 cubic yards a year, and at that rate we ought to complete the canal in four years, but I do not want to hold out that hope to you. If we complete the canal in seven years we will have demonstrated in record time what American energy can do. In the organization of this great work we had at its head a Minnesota man, John F. Stevens. He worked himself out under the strain and pressure, but we have now got to a point where we can do the work under the supervision of the army. In the direction of this great work we have a man who likes to see before him obstacles in order that they may be overcome. He proposes to put this through with all the emphasis and vim he can command and he will see it through. He is a master."

After a few words of excuse for cutting his address so short, Secretary Taft said goodbye and then before the cheering had subsided he was out of the door and into an automobile on his way to the home of J. C. Hill.

Preceding Secretary Taft, Hon. D. W. Lawler delivered a stirring address on the American flag and Senator Clapp spoke on American citizenship, localizing his remarks to the Roosevelt club of St. Paul and men of Minnesota. Senator Clapp closed his address by a brief introduction of Secretary Taft. After Secretary Taft, Mayor Haynes of Minneapolis and others of local fame spoke.

The Best is Yours When You

Purchase a Piano

From our stock. This is an especially pleasant thought when you reflect that a Piano lasts a lifetime and that it is the bright, particular object about which your household effects cluster.

Another Important Point

The great leading makes of pianos that we sell are actually less expensive than the inferior kinds.

The reason is a plain one—Age, Capital, Facilities, Correct Business Methods; all are represented in the great Pianos of the day.

Steinway & Sons make and sell a Steinway Piano for $500. You cannot secure its equal at any price. The same thing holds true in a lesser degree of the other pianos we sell.

Our Inexpensive Pianos

Of which we exhibit six different makes, are far superior to their closest rivals.

Where the sun shines 300 days in the year, where apples mature without a blemish, where they are better in color and keeping qualities than any other apples in the world. A valley where crops never fail and where pests are scarcely known, where the highest prices are paid for field and orchard products, where fertilization will never be necessary, where the inexhaustible soil is richer and deeper than can be found on the Pacific slope, where the water is pure and climate the healthiest, where wind or electric storms never mar the pleasure of living and where ideal conditions exist with regard to educational facilities, social advantages and good markets.

For a limited time you can buy a ten-acre farm or more in this valley at a price per acre you would be required to pay for ordinary farm land in the middle states. If you are interested, don't delay—prices will soon be advanced.

DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Prospects for Fall Distribution Brighten With Crop Prospects.

New York, June 15.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Despite some improvement, weather conditions have continued adverse for retail trade at most points and business is only stimulated by bargain sales. Prospects for fall distribution are brighter because of the better crop reports, and manufacturers receive liberal orders for next season. Current conditions, however, are not satisfactory and mercantile collections are below normal, except in sections where country store keepers have been enabled to make prompt settlements, because high prices attracted much marketing of last year's grain.

Record breaking production of pig iron, without causing accumulation, is ample evidence of unprecedented activity in the steel industry. Implement makers buy bars regardless of reports that crops are smaller, and the congestion at pipe and sheet mills is not relieved. New business in structural shapes comes forward steadily, the tonnage this week covering many buildings, viaducts and track elevations, while the local subway extension and much other contemplated work will soon be in the market.

Despite the activity of blast furnaces, output of coke has increased so much faster that pressure to unload cars brought lower prices.

Somewhat quieter conditions prevail in the primary market for cotton goods, although prices are higher where any alteration has occurred. A large sale of print clothes at high prices improved that section of the market. After a fair volume of business in serges and woolen goods that have been opened for some weeks, the market is quiet while awaiting the opening of medium priced lines. Weather conditions have retarded the movement of dress goods, few duplicate orders for the fall season appearing, although this business should have been completed some time ago.

New England footwear manufacturers report trade backward, although there are indications that fall orders will soon improve. Jobbers have delayed placing contracts later than usual, as the backward season has kept retail trade moderate, but the better weather has now begun to awaken trade in the American wholesalers. Salesmen returning from the West report conditions much more satisfactory than on previous trips.

Trade in leather is quiet with stocks gradually accumulating, although sole is firmly held, union and oak being as high as at any time this season. Glazed kid is still irregular because of recent large transactions at reductions and side upper leather is quiet. Tanners anticipate liberal purchases by shoe manufacturers early next month.

The tone of the hide market is weak, packers having accumulated considerable stock, estimated as high as a million hides. Foreign dry hides are also in excessive supply, the river plate take off this year exceeding last year's figures by 200,000, while stocks at Antwerp and Havre are over 300,000.

ELECTED FOR THIRD TERM

P. H. Martin Honored by Catholic Foresters of State.

Re-elected to hold the office of high chief ranger of the Catholic Order of Foresters for the third term, with the election made almost unanimous, was the honor conferred upon P. H. Martin of West Duluth at the eighth biennial state convention of the order which has just been brought to a close at Faribault.

When Mr. Martin has completed his present term he will have served six uninterupted years as chief executive of the Minnesota Catholic Foresters, and if his third term is administered in the same masterly manner as have been the two two-year terms already served they will be six of the most prosperous year in the history of the order. Mr. Martin has been president of the order for twelve years.

NOLAN HAD TWO WIVES

Spooner Man Admits That He Had Strong Mormon Proclivities.

Pleads Guilty to Bigamy and Receives Two Years' Term.

Bemidji, Minn., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Louis N. Nolan of Spooner has ben sentenced to two years in the penitentiary at Stillwater, on the charge of bigamy, to which he pleaded guilty before Judge M. A. Spooner.

Nolan was arrested at Spooner May 22, County Attorney Funkley having issued a warrant, charging bigamy. Nolan was given a preliminary hearing and bound over to await the action of the next grand jury, at the fall term of court, in November.

Nolan, a few days ago, requested to be allowed to plead guilty to the charge. Under the law adopted in 1905, whenever the county attorney will file the necessary information relative to a case, and the prisoner consents to plead guilty to the charge, he may make his plea at any time before the judge of the district court and receive his sentence, doing away with the tedious wait for the action of the grand jury. Nolan was, accordingly, allowed to plead guilty to the charge.

According to the information in the possession of the county officials, Nolan lived at Thief River Falls with a woman whom he married, and bore him several children. The family lived at Thief River until five years ago, when there was a mutual separation.

Nolan went from Thief River Falls to International Falls. Last fall he married another woman at International Falls, the license being issued from that place. The couple made their home in Spooner until this spring, when the attention of the authorities was called to the fact that Nolan had committed bigamy, as he had another wife living, and had not secured a divorce from Mrs. Nolan No. 1 before marrying wife No. 2. His arrest followed.

RED RIVER SHOWS RESULT OF RAINS

Rising Rapidly According to Report From Moorhead.

Moorhead, Minn., June 15.—The Red river is rising rapidly as a result of the recent heavy rains. The gauge on Sunday, June 9, showed 10.7 feet and Thursday at noon it stood at an even 16 feet. This represents a rise on an average of about 16 inches per day, but the rise during the past twelve hours has been very rapid.

It is reported that from Kent to Breckendrige very heavy rains fell the early part of the week, and the statement is made that the country between those points is in bad shape. Water stands upon all the fields and the roads are almost impassable.

The Buffalo continues high and is adding to the flood stage of the Red. This represents the usual June rise of the Red and is rarely serious.

FIRE DESTROYS TIMBER.

Forest Flames Are Playing Havoc With Holdings of Settlers.

Crookston, Minn., June 15.—George O'Reilly has received notice from the postmaster at Pequis, a postoffice midway between Roseau and Warroad, to the effect that Mr. O'Reilly's claim located near that place had been burned over by a forest fire which had devastated thousands of acres in that section, destroying practically every bit of timber on it. Mr. O'Reilly's claim was worth at least $2,000 for the cord wood which was on it, and as the line of the G. N. is surveyed and partly graded within four miles of his claim the wood could have been placed on the market in the very near future.

He is but one of scores who suffered severe loss. It is thought the recent rain must have extinguished the fire before this time.

Y. M. C. A. CORNERSTONE IS LAID AT ST. PAUL.

St. Paul, June 15.—The corner stone of St. Paul's magnificent new Y. M. C. A. building, at Ninth and Cedar streets, was laid Friday afternoon. Secretary Taft was scheduled to be present and make an address, but was unable to do so, on account of an indisposition. Addresses were made by Senator Moses E. Clapp, Prof. Arthur E. Haynes of the state university, who is chairman of the Y. M. C. A. state committee, and Arthur B. Driscoll, president of the St. Paul association. The new building will cost complete $350,000 and is to be finished one year from the coming July.

Fergus Falls, Minn., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a great glee in Fergus Falls over the assurance that Hon. Charles W. Fairbanks, vice president of the United States, and an avowed candidate for the presidency, will deliver the Fourth of July address here next month. Secretary Erickson of the Fergus Falls Commercial club has received a telegram from Vice President Fairbanks to the effect that he will arrange to deliver the Fourth of July address here.

The club has been working to secure the Indiana man, and is very much gratified.

IN NEW QUARTERS.

Sandstone's Postmaster is Serving His Patrons in Fine Style.

Sandstone, Minn., June 15.—Postmaster A. Parish moved his office to the Northern hotel building the first of the week and is now comfortably located in his new quarters. He has arranged the boxes so as to greatly facilitate the handling of the mail and they are also much more convenient for the patrons. They are arranged in the form of a V so that all boxes can be reached with very little walking. The lock boxes are on one side and the call boxes on the other and also some new ones in front. Besides the old call window there is one among the call boxes, so that two can deliver mail at the same time and the furthermost box is but a short distance from the window.

HIS SKULL VERY THIN

Dead Man's Head Not Very Hard According to Evidence.

Important Feature for Defense in a Murder Trial.

Green Bay, Wis., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Evidence that is construed to be very important for the defense has been introduced at the trial in the district court here of August Cecil charged with the murder of Ray Guthrie at Oconto. In the cross-examination of Dr. J. B. Atwood, the physician testified that Guthrie's skull was less than one-half the usual thickness, and that there was no inner plate to his skull. A slight blow, he said, might cause fatal injury. He testified to the fact that there was no bruises, only a slight puffing on Guthrie's head.

Under Sheriff Johnson followed Dr. Atwood, and testified that Guthrie held him so tightly to prvent his interfering with the fight between Burns and Morris that black and blue marks were left on his arms. He further testified that when Cecil arrived and tried to stop the fight that Guthrie made a rush at him.

The defense claims to have a number of witnesses to testify that Cecil defended himself in striking Guthrie.

Ashland — Ashland will have another small sawmill within the next month. Becker & LaFlamboy have purchased all the logs bearing the mark of the Keystone Lumber company and have a crew of men at work on the old Keystone site bringing up sunken logs. UPPER MICHIGAN

MANY LEAVE FOR EUROPE

June Witnessing Great Exodus of People From Upper Peninsula.

Negaunee, Mich., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a great exodus of people from the upper peninsula to Europe.

The railway and steamship agents handling the foreign business in this city will have a record-breaking month in June. In the neighborhood of seventy-five persons have already departed for the European countries, a large majority going to Finland. Others are now preparing to go. Business has come to the railway and steamship agents from sources where they least expected it. There has hardly been a day this month that two or more Negaunee people have not left for abroad, and one party of twenty left early in the month. Ishpeming leads Negaunee by nearly 100 per cent in the number going to Europe, the total from Ishpeming this month being over 125.

Many of the foreign-born residents of both cities are returning to their old homes with fat purses. There are very few going back without several hundred dollars in excess of the sum they will need for their actual expenses. A few have taken away more than $1,000, others over $2,000. One man, who has lived in Negaunee for several years, and who plans to return to this city in the fall, had $5,000 in his pocket after paying for his transportation expenses. This sum represents a fair-sized fortune in Finland, as the cost of living is much cheaper there than here. A man who has 30,000 marks, or $5,000 in American money, can get along very nicely in Finland, and is placed among the wealthy class.

KILLED IN MINES NEAR IRONWOOD

An Austrian and a Pole Meet With Violent Deaths.

Ironwood, Mich., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—A young Polish skip tender in Koshoft at the New Port min, was instantly killed while cleaning out a chute. The skip had been lowered to the mottom under the chute where the ore is dumped into it, and the boy was standing on the bake of the skip poking the ore in the chute to help to run it into the skip, when the skip suddenly started upwards by some mistake of the engineer, causing the boy to lose his balance and was crushed to death by the skip without a chance for his life.

Joseph Newauk, an Austrian miner working at the Norrie mine, was killed by being run over by a motor in a drift at the Norrie mine. It seems he was walking along the drift to the mouth of the shaft when he was struck by a motor and cut in two, the motorman not seeing him, on account of the darkness, until it was too late to reduce the speed of the motor. Joseph Newauk was 37 years of age, and a native of Austria.

ISLE ROYALE COOL.

Snow on Ground and Plenty of Ice for Fish Packing.

Houghton, Mich., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to Houghton people who were on Isle Royale during the week, the woods are still carpeted with from two to four feet of snow on the island, and there is little chance for it to melt for some time to come on account of the cool lake breezes and the denseness of the foliage. Ice is also reported on the north shore and residents of the island are said to be packing their fish for shipment in ice cut fresh every day instead of drawing on the store laid up for use during the hot months.

The locals will go to Ontonagon on the Copper Range train, leaving here Sunday morning, and will return in the evening. DAKOTAS

WILL OPEN UP COUNTRY

Proposed Extension of the N. P. From McKenzie North.

Fargo Has a Rumor the Soo is Coming Its Way.

Washburn, N. D., June 15.—Among the railroad extensions most certain to be built this year and one that will open up a rich country and give the means of transportation to a large number of settlers already otherwise prosperous and contented, is that of the Northern Pacific from McKenzie north into McLean county. The surveyors are now in the field, revising the survey of last year and it is likely that the line will run almost in a direct line to Turtle Lake, or a point very near that town on the Sykeston extension of the Northern Pacific. A valley extends from McKenzie northwestward almost the entire distance making it an ideal route for railway extension. The region is well peopled and the extension will add more wealth to the empire of McLean.

Fargo, N. D., June 15—Rumors regarding the building of a Soo line to Fargo are again flying about through the air. Last year it was stated that a crew of men were making a survey for a Soo line to parallel the Northern Pacific through Detroit to Fargo, but this was apparently a mistake.

Now it is said that a survey for a Soo line is being made to parallel the Great Northern somewhere in the vicinity of Fergus Falls.

Whether there is any solid foundation for the rumor cannot as yet be definitely stated, but the report comes from those who are interested in property along the proposed right of way and would seem to be rather substantial. It is pretty certain that the Soo will build a line through Fargo before many years and it is probable that steps looking to this end will be taken during the present summer.

DANDELIONS NOT FAILURE.

Bumper Crop of the Troublesome Weeds Assured Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 15.—Dandelions are out in formidable array. Their golden heads are everywhere. Fields and woods are abundantly decorated with them, while the householder has to make a determined fight to prevent the weed smothering his lawn. So well has the dandelion flourished that the grasses in the public parks look in places as though they had a blight.

There have been other years when the dandelion has been abundant, but it is doubtful if the unwelcome weed-flower has been so prominent as this season. Visitors from the East make the same report, so that there is every indication that the dandelion has gotten a strong hold generally. So far as Grand Forks is concerned the statement may be made that this season the dandelion is a banner crop.

McCLURE'S TRIAL ON NEXT MONDAY

Slayer of His Farmhand is to Face a Jury.

Valley City, N. D., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—What will be the defense of George McClure when he faces a jury in the district court next Monday on the charge of murder in having shot and killed Elmer Lewis last Friday is a question that is being freely asked here. One report has it that the socalled unwritten law will be invoked, while another is that the plea will be in self defense. McClure killed Lewis, who had been employed on his farm, after a quarrel said to have been instigated because McClure suspicioned Lewis had been too familiar with Mrs. McClure. The coroner's jury, however, failed to find there had been any undue intimacy. It is said that McClure had been drinking freely of late, and that when he abused his wife once too often Lewis took the woman's part, the tragedy resulting.

The jury that tried Sam Gaines returned a verdict of guilty. He was charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, Jan 14. He attempted to stab Charles Hollingshead and made three ugly gashes on his left cheek. The quarrel was the result of a dispute and took place in Mayor Wood's livery barn.

YOUTHFUL CAR THIEVES.

Two Young Men of Williston Are Arrested for Petty Thieving.

Williston, N. D., June 15.—Paul and Ray Larch, brothers, employed in the roundhouse here on night duty, were caught pilfering a Great Northern way car by Detective McKay and Agent Garrett. Their locker in the roundhouse was searched and nuts, crackers and numerous other things were found. Their room was searched and clothing of all kinds was found.

This kind of work has been going on for some time and Detective McKay was sent for to find out what he could do to catch the parties. He discovered a seal broken on the car and heard them inside. He went over to the roundhouse and got the night foreman and they ordered them out and to throw up their hands.

The Larch boys are young men, about 23 years old. They have a mother living in Culbertson.

The treasurer's report showed a very gratifying condition of the funds, with a balance in favor of the institution of $124,000. It is proposed to add to the subscription list so as to build a ladies' dormitory.

MUST ENFORCE LAW.

Supreme Court Decision Does Not Mean North Dakota is Wet.

Bismarck, N. D., June 15.—Attorney General McCue has issued a circular letter to state's attorneys in which he calls attention to the fact that because the temperance commissioner law was knocked out by the supreme court is no sign the prohibition law will not be strictly enforced in the state, and directs them to see that sheriffs do their duty, likewise that they are vigilant themselves. He offers his assistance when called for to put down blind pigging.

MILLIONS OF MONEY IN LEAD AND ZINC

Said: "Mining offers greater inducements than any other business in the world to make quick and great wealth."

The GOULDS and WHITNEYS
Say nothing but send their sons to learn mining in the Lead and Zinc camps of the Southwest.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER.
Is now investing many millions in mining stocks. Among all mining investments none stands ahead of Lead and Zinc for safety, permanency and profit.

Lead and Zinc Now Proven to Be the Most Profitable of All Mining. Millions of Dollars In Dividends Paid to Stockholders Annually. You Can Share In the Profits of 300 Lead and Zinc Mines. Dividends Guaranteed This Year.

SPLENDID RECORD

Lead and Zinc Mines of the Southwest Lead the World.

Have you ever considered the advantages of investing in a commercial product for which there is a constantly increasing demand—one whose price is steadily advancing year by year?

The great Lead and Zinc industry of the Southwest offers you just such an investment. The Southwest Field is the richest Lead and Zinc mining region in the United States, its annual output of Zinc being 80 per cent of the product of the entire country.

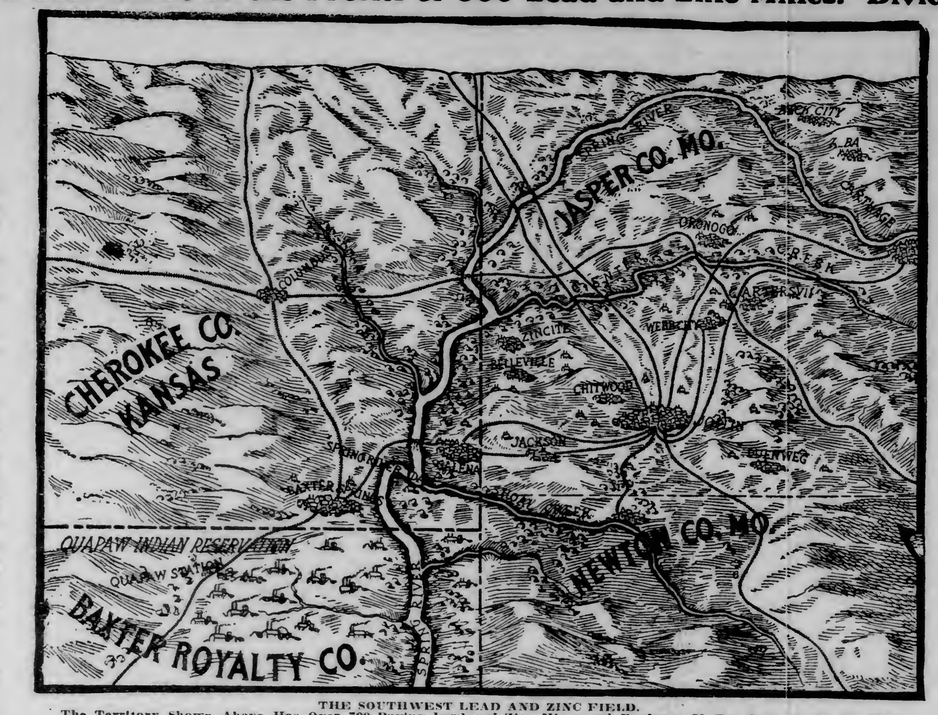

Carthage, Carterville, Webb City, Joplin, Galena and Baxter Springs—these are some of the mining camps that are making fortunes for thousands of investors by their splendid output of Lead and Zinc.

A Lead and Zinc production valued at $74,768,024 from the Southwest Field within the short space of seven years! An average output of nearly ten millions of dollars annually, and that amount added to the world's wealth by this one industry!

Over fifteen million dollars' worth of Lead and Zinc ore mined and sold in the Southwest Field during the year 1906 alone!

Read these figures once more and ask yourself why you are not receiving your share in the magnificent profits of the Lead and Zinc mining industries.

The Baxter Royalty Company offers you the opportunity, by its small payment plan, to secure an interest in 300 Lead and Zinc mines located in the very richest section of the Southwest Field, and dividends are guaranteed each stockholder within the present year.

THE SOUTHWEST LEAD AND ZINC FIELD.
The Territory Shown Above Has Over 700 Paying Lead and Zinc Mines and Produces 80 Per Cent of All the Zinc Mined in the United States.

ENORMOUS PROFITS

Tremendous Earning Power of Lead and Zinc Mines.

The demand for Lead and Zinc is increasing rapidly in almost every branch of industrial activity. These two metals have become indispensable in many manufacturing and commercial processes. They enter largely into the making of paint, oil cloths, rubber goods, plumbers' materials and printers' type.

Zinc is required for electrical installations wherever copper is used, and is indispensable in telegraphy, telephoning and electrical transportation. These uses alone call for enormous quantities of the metal.

The United States Navy has recently investigated the advantages of Zinc as a coating for war vessels to prevent the formation of barnacles. Consider for a moment the immense quantities that will be required in the near future by the combined navies of the world when this new process is generally adopted by all the great powers.

The world's great tin mines are being rapidly exhausted, and Zinc alone of all metals will be able to partially take the place of tin. For building and decorative purposes Zinc finds new uses every year. These and other uses are causing unprecedented demand for Lead and Zinc; and the price is climbing steadily upward.

Since 1902 the average price of Lead has increased from $46.10 to $78.50 per ton; and of Zinc from $30.33 to $44.88 per ton. The present prices are much higher than any of these averages.

Yet Lead and Zinc mining is one of the least expensive kinds of mining. Whereas it requires vast sums to open up a gold or copper mine, a few thousand dollars are sufficient capital to start a Lead and Zinc mine.

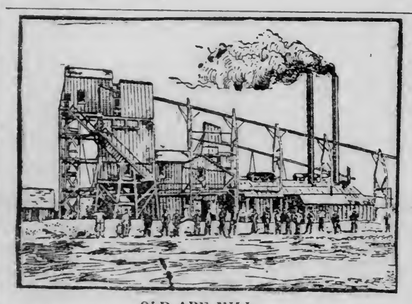

You probably have acquaintances who have invested in gold or copper mines and lost money. But can you think of a single instance in Lead and Zinc mining in the Southwest? A case of failure among properly managed mines in the Southwest Lead and Zinc Field is practically unheard of. The mine operators there are making money, and making it easily.

I want to send you a long list of Lead and Zinc companies operating in the Southwest Field that are paying their stockholders dividends of from 24 per cent up as high as 120 per cent annually.

How are such profits possible? That question is easily answered:—

1. The ore is near the surface.
2. The ore buyers are at the bins paying cash for every tone of ore produced.
3. The climate is favorable for work the year round, the latitude being the same as that of Southern Kentucky.
4. Lead and Zinc are not controlled by a trust, and the mine owners get the full benefit of every advance in the price of ore.

Read these facts once more; and I challenge anyone to show me any other investment which combines all these elements of safety and enormous profit.

OLD ABE MILL.
Modern 200-ton mill already in operation on Baxter Royalty Co. property; supplied by two shafts working in ore bodies 27 feet thick.

Vast Ore Bodies Underlying Our 3720 Acres.

We have 3,720 acres of valuable Lead and Zinc lands located just south of Baxter Springs, Kansas, in the richest part of the Southwest Field. This section is known as the Joplin district, and has recently startled the commercial world by the amazing productiveness of its Lead and Zinc Mines. Drillings have been made in various parts of our pro perty and have absolutely demonstrated an immense blanket formation of rich Lead-Zinc ore underying our lands. This ore is found at a depth of from 20 to 100 feet, thus effecting a large saving in the operating expenses of the mines. These vast ore bodies vary from 14 to 74 feet in thickness, and are a comparatively recent discovery. The first mill in the district began operations in 1904. We now have five concentrating mills in successful operation on our property and yielding large profits to our treasury. The five mills now in operation, together with the new mills which will be installed at an early date, make practically certain a millage of at least 5,000 tons daily for each shift. These mills will operate on but a small portion of our acreage, and yet be fed with a supply of ore sufficient to keep them running at their full capacity for many years.

We have room on our unleased lands for about 300 operating companies, as an acreage of 10 acres is the usual requirement of one operating company; and we have 3,000 acres of rich lands still to be developed. The daily capacity of an operating mill is rarely less than 100 tons, and is usually much greater. Each 100-tons' millage means a daily profit to us of $24.10, and 300 such mills should bring us a net profit of $4,338,000 annually, counting but 300 working days in the year. This estimate is conservative at every point. As the prices of Lead and Zinc are rapidly advancing, these enormous revenues will continue to roll into our treasury in constantly increasing volume year after year.

The ore is there, and the demands of the commercial world will compel it to be used. We hold the lands, and not a ton of ore can be sold on our property without yielding us our share in the profits. Do you want to share these profits with us?

STOCK TO BE ADVANCED TO 25 CENTS A SHARE!

FINAL OFFERING AT 12 CENTS A SHARE--PAR VALUE $1.00.

The plans of the Baxter Royalty Company have been laid out on a large scale. Unlike the ordinary stock company our profits will not be dependent upon the success or failure of any individual mine. The Baxter Royalty Company's earnings may be gauged to a mathematical certainty by the application of the law of averages—the principle adopted by every successful insurance company. As every mining company cannot be a success, it naturally follows that every one cannot be a failure. In the Southwest Field the vast majority of the Lead and Zinc mines are wonderfully successful, so that by the law of averages it follows that our interest in several hundred of these mines, all located on our property, is bound to yield us exceedingly large returns. We have 3,000 acres of rich ore lands still lying idle. In fact, we find ourselves in precisely the same position as the farmer who has a larger acreage than he can cultivate with the capital in hand. He knows that with additional capital and assistance he could make the land yield abundant crops and enormous profits. He knows that every season that the land lies idle means a loss of those crops and those profits—for time is money. In the same way we intend by the investment of additional capital to bring our enormous acreage of mineral lands to a highly profitable stage of development at the earliest possible moment. For this reason a limited amount of treasury stock is now offered to the public at 12 cents per share. In this way the funds will be available for immediate use and our lands will not be idle. But for this consideration our stock would not be offered for sale at any price, but we know that by immediate development our profits will be vastly larger in the end than if we should limit our revenues to the income from the few companies now in operation.

$110,000 FOR ZINC LEASE

Most Ever Paid For Forty Acres in Joplin District.

CARTHAGE, MO., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—J. C. Stewart, president of the Center-creek Mining Company, has received a check for $110,000 for a Morgan forty-acre lease owned by that company and located north of Carterville. This is the largest cash deal ever made in this district for a forty-acre lease of zinc lands on which there is but one mill. The real value of the land consists in the fact that some forty drill holes covering the tract show a sheet ore face of ten to fourteen feet, all above the 156-foot level.

The Centercreek company has also given a sixty-day option on the fee of the property at a price about the same as the lease.

The Pennsylvania company is planning to erect several large mills.—From Kansas City Daily Journal.

This 40-acre lease, where the ore face is not over 14 feet, brought $110,000. The Baxter Royalty Co.'s property comprises 3,720 acres underlaid with ore bodies 14 to 74 feet in thickness.

GUARANTEED DIVIDENDS WITHIN THE PRESENT YEAR

The question has been asked, how the Baxter Royalty Company can guarantee its stock holders dividends within the present year. The answer is easy, when it is remembered that five mills are already in operation and three new ones will soon be ready for work, thus insuring large revenues to our treasury almost from the outset. We expect to have at least fifty mills in operation by the end of the coming year. From these revenues dividends will be declared. It is very evident that we are perfectly justified in guaranteeing to begin paying dividends this year. All officers of the company handling money are under bond. As dividends will be declared upon the par value of the stock, even so small a dividend as 5 per cent would be a return to each stockholder of one-half of his entire investment, besides making his holdings worth $5 for every dollar invested now. This is an unparalleled opportunity for enormous profits through steady advances in price of stock with dividends positively guaranteed the present year.

SPECIAL PLAN OF SMALL PAYMENTS

In order that no one may be debarred by lack of ready money from joining with us in this enterprise, subscriptions will be accepted for allotments of 125 shares and upwards, payable 10 per cent with order and 10 per cent monthly for nine months.

Your whole reservation will receive the benefit of every advance in price, even while you are paying for it.

Upon completion of your payments, certificates will be issued for stock purchased. If unable to finish payments, you will receive upon request a certificate for the amount paid for. Stock now 12 cents per share, par value $1.00.

$1.50 a month buys	125 shares, par value $125.	$12.00 a month buys	1,000 shares, par value $1,000.

MAKE YOUR MONEY WORK FOR YOU

You often hear it said that in these days of trusts and high prices the poor man has no chance to get ahead. This is true as long as the poor man is content to receive 3 or 4 per cent from the wealthy bankers, who take his money and put it to work earning 30, 50 or 100 per cent or more. You can put your money to work the same as the bankers and capitalists do, and Sage and Rockefeller never had a better opportunity than I am offering you today.

27-FOOT ORE FACE.

MY GUARANTEE TO INVESTORS

Knowing as I do the magnificent money-making opportunity now within the grasp of the Baxter Royalty Company's stockholders, I make you this guarantee:

Send in your order and first remittance at once, subject to withdrawal within 30 days if further investigation fails to convince you as to each and every claim that I have made.

Moreover, if you or a pool of your friends contemplate buying as much as $1,000 worth of stock, send your representative to our property to make a thorough investigation, and the company will pay the entire expense of the trip.

This is a strictly high-class investment appealing to bankers, merchants, professional men, farmers, mechanics and the investing public in general. In all my experience with investment securities I have never seen an investment that I regarded as so absolutely good.

The steady upward movement that is now being witnessed in the price of this security, combined with the fact that the stock is being rapidly taken up by substantial investors in all parts of the United States, makes altogether probable the realization of very unusual profits to every holder of Baxter Royalty stock.

I reserve the right to return any subscription not sent in at once, as from present appearances it seems likely that the stock will be very largely over-subscribed and that the sale will be entirely discontinued by the Company at a very early date.

JAMES H. MANNING, Financial Agent.

FIRST STREET PROPERTY IS MUCH SOUGHT AFTER

Two Long Term Leases for Corners at Second Avenue West Made This Week—One on a Valuation Basis of $1,000 Per Front Foot—Robert Whiteside Buys the Markell Residence Property for $45,000.

Some important First street leases and several good residence sales have been made in the Duluth real estate circles this week. The market is considered quite active and there is the utmost confidence felt in the continuance of that activity during the remainder of the summer season. The weather is more "seasonable," and the difference has been noted with a slight increase in the inquiry. A few of the deals that have been under negotiation for some time have been closed this week and there has been further delay in others of importance that were expected to have been closed up some days ago. Realty brokers, who have been busy for the past month or six weeks on various real estate transactions of more or less magnitude, are now turning their attention to new business and results are expected very soon. The closing up of a sale of some lots in the East end, in the vicinity of Twenty-third avenue east within the last few days, has brought to light some interesting facts concerning the advancing prices of Duluth dirt. The property in question comprises two lots that were owned by a Minneapolis man for a number of years. Three years ago he offered the property for sale for $4,500, but failed to get a purchaser at that price. Recently one of the lots was sold for $7,500, and the other for $5,000, or a total of $12,500 for a tract that three years ago nobody wished to purchase for $4,500. Both of the lots have been bought for improvement, and, before the end of the year, two fine homes will be constructed on them. This is but one of many instances that might be related of the turn in prices that East end lots that are suitable for building purposes have taken in the last two or three years, more particularly in the last year. The same conditions hold true of centrally located business property, where the advance in prices has been, perhaps, even more marked.

There has been a great deal of interest in local real estate circles this week over the 199-year lease of the southeast corner of First street and Second avenue west to T. W. Wahl and his associates. The fact that the lease was made on the basis of 4 per cent on a $200,000 valuation for the first fifty years, or $1,000 per front foot, is regarded with a great deal of significance by real estate brokers, who have been following the First street prices. The property Mr. Wahl and his associates have taken comprises a frontage of 200 feet on First street and runs down to First alley, including the old Kendall livery barn. The location is considered one of the best First street corners in the central part of the city, and there has been a great deal of speculation as to the class of improvement the lessees contemplate. One rumor has it that a theater will be erected, while another rumor says it will be a department store. The concensus of opinion among the real estate men, however, rather inclines to the theater project, as Mr. Wahl is known to have been interested in such a projected enterprise with some Chicago parties for some time past. Mr. Wahl has been out of the city this week and nothing definite could be learned of his plans. The property was leased by Winston Brothers of Minneapolis. The Winstons are represented locally by W. M. Prindle & Co.

The second lease of First street property that has attracted attention covers the northwest corner of First street and Second avenue west, comprising a 100-foot frontage on the upper side of the street. The lease is for fifty years on a five per cent valuation basis for the first period, the rental to be adjusted every period as the valuation of the property increases. It runs from John Ware of Waterville, Me., to local parties who expect to remove the several old buildings now occupying the land and to improve it with a three or four story business block. The improvement will be a substantial one,

The largest sale of residence property this week was that of the Markell property at the northwest corner of Second street and Fourth avenue east to Robert Whiteside for $45,000. The property comprises one of the finest residences in the city, and four lots with a frontage of 200 feet on Second street and 150 feet on Fourth avenue east. It adjoins Mr. Whiteside's residence property on the east.

Mr. Whiteside, it is understood, intends to take possession of the Markell house within sixty days, and will erect a modern stable on the rear end of the lot.

The deal has been under negotiation for some time past, and it said to have been closed yesterday afternoon.

According to a warranty deed recorded this week one of the two purchasers of eighty acres near the Northland Country club grounds is T. F. Cole. It is understood that G. G. Hartley is the other. Mr. Cole has purchased the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 12, 50-14 from J. H. Cromwell, for $20,000, or on the basis of $500 per acre. It is understood that Mr. Hartley paid about $18,000 for his forty. Several days ago The Herald mentioned the fact that an eighty-acre tract had been sold, but at that time the names of the purchasers were witheld by those who negotiated the deal.

The commissioners appointed to appraise the Sargent property on First street, which is wanted by the government for a postoffice location, along with the Peyton property on the corner of Fifth avenue west, have placed the total valuation at $17,500. It is understood that the commissioners figured the land worth $16,000, and the building worth $1,500. It is expected that the government will appeal from the report of the appraisers.

C. S. Sargent has purchased from Stella M. Young, of Little & Nolte's office, five lots on the lower side of Superior street, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth avenues west, for a consideration said to be in the neighborhood of $8,250 and two lots on the upper side of Fourth street near Sixth avenue east. The transfer recorded this week gives a nominal consideration for the last two lots mentioned. Mr. Sargent owns the First street property which the government seeks through condemnation proceedings for a postoffice site.

Bray & Nystrom, the architects, are preparing plans for a modern seven-room frame residence to be erected at Fifteenth avenue east and Third street, for John A. Tupper, and also plans for a barn to be constructed on Second street, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth avenues east, for H. F. Williamson. The architects have awarded the contract for C. A. GOOD FORTUNE FATAL.

London Globe: It is possible to live long in melancholy and to die swiftly from joy. So it has proved with a Paris carpenter named Fermet. He had worked for years in a chronic state of melancholy, aggravated by want of money, and all the circumstances seemed to point to a long continuance of this condition of things, when suddenly, and quite outside the poor fellow's expectations, there came to him the news the other morning that he was the possessor by the bequest of the large sum of £2,000.

Fermet almost went frantic with delight. His nerves stood the recurrence of thrills all day, but in the evening he got among the Longchamps cafes and was relating his luck for about the twentieth time when he fell dead.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Good Crop Weather Causes Longs to Sell Heavily of Wheat.

Chicago, June 15.—All of the grain markets were weak at the opening of the market today. The weather in the West and Northwest was considered as highly favorable for the growing crops, and leading longs were heavy sellers of wheat. September was ⅛@½c lower to ⅛c higher at 81½c to 92⅛c and sold off to 90⅞c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 275 cars against 257 cars last week and 223 one year ago.

The market rallied sharply at the end of the first hour, September selling up to 93⅛c. The covering by shorts was the chief reason for the advance. Later, the greater part of the advance was lost. The close was steady with September up ¼@⅜c at 92¼@92⅜c.

The same reasons that weakened the wheat market were manifest in the corn pit, and prices sagged heavily. In addition to the selling of professional traders, cash houses let go of extensive lines of corn. September corn opened ⅛c to ¼c lower at 51⅝c to 51¾c, and sold at 51½c. Local receipts were 608 cars, with 202 of contract grade.

Prices advanced along with wheat and the market held strong for the remainder of the day. September sold up to 52¼@52⅝c, where it closed strong at the high price of the day. Final quotations were ⅜@½c higher than the close of yesterday.

Trading was active in the oats pit, and cash houses and pit traders were lively sellers. September oats opened unchanged to ¼c lower at 35⅜c to 35⅝c, and sold down to 34⅞@35c. Local receipts were 134 cars.

The provisions market was quiet, and prices were easier, in sympathy with grain. September pork opened unchanged to 2½c lower at $15.70 to $15.77½. Lard was a shade lower at $8.75. Ribs were 2½c lower at $8.55.

Close: Wheat—July, 89¾@89⅞c; September, 92¼@92⅝c. Corn—July, 52¼c; September, 52¼@52⅝c. Oats—July, 43¼c; September, 35¼@35⅜c. Pork—July, $15.75; September, $15.87½. Lard—July, $8.60; September, $8.67½. Ribs—July, $8.45; September, $8.60. Rye—Cash, 80c. Barley—Cash, 70@75c. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, 89@91¼c; No. 3 red, 87@90c; No. 2 hard, 88¼@91c; No. 3 hard, 82@90½c; No. 1 northern, 88c@$1; No. 2 northern, 97@99c; No. 3 spring, 92@98c. Total crop last year amounted to 315,200,-000, two years ago 326,400,000.

Welch had message from Kansas City, saying: "May be wrong time to bull wheat, but central Kansas reports hot winds last two days is cooking plant. Kempler of Hutchinson, says: 'Wheat can't fill.'"

Message from Kingfisher, Oklahoma, says, harvest commences there Monday and will end Tuesday.

Rally in wheat on reports of hot winds in Kansas and bad reports from there generally. Professionals bought.

A world of short wheat was covered this morning on the break. Bears raided market, caught a lot of stop orders and forced longs to sell, then they bought the wheat which leaves the market in healthier condition.

Capt. J. W. Phillips wired from Newton, Kan., last night that his county, Harvey, would raise within 10 per cent of as much wheat as last year and might raise as much. Harvey is the third county north of the Oklahoma line, lying north of Sumner county. Serious reports of green bug damage were reported for these counties during the height of the recent excitement.

Logan & Bryan, Chicago, to Paine, Webber & Co.: Market closed weak with the trade somewhat in doubt as to whether a permanent turn had been made or not. Certainly there was a good trading market today. At lowest prices the advance which followed the May report was practically wiped out and many of the leaders in the local trade feel that liquidation has been thorough enough to put the market on a much better basis for buyers. Two good authorities in the Southwest wired that the talk about improvement in the winter wheat crop is all nonsense. There was a report of the first hot winds of the year in Kansas. New York reported foreigners buying wheat there. There was a rumor of large export business which was not confirmed at the close. A prominent bear leader was active on the buying side covering an important line. Think improved weather and crop talk discounted by the break and market in shape to respond to bull news from the early harvest.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Market Was Without Feature and the Changes Slight.

Bank Statement Had Little Effect and Trading Small.

New York, June 15.—First prices of stocks were lower than last night, but the dealings were so small as to have little significance. Union Pacific, Great Northern preferred and Anaconda fell 1 and Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting large fractions. Brooklyn Transit rose nearly a point.

The bears made no effort to follow up their opening advantage and the market slowly hardened, until the losses were made up. Prices of the grain carriers subsequently softened, but there was no decided element of weakness in the list Baltimore & Ohio fell back 1, Interborough-Metropolitan preferred 1¼, Great Northern preferred 1¾ and Delaware & Hudson 2¼.

The market closed easy and very dull. There was stagnation before the bank statement appeared, and prices receded slightly afterward. United Railway Investment declined 2¼, Pittsburg Coal preferred 2, Great Northern Ore certificates and North American 1½, Amalgamated Copper and General Electric 1¼ and Northwestern 1½. American Express rose 3, Mackay companies 1¼, American Locomotive 1¼ and United States Pipe 1.

Stock Gossip.

Logan & Bryan, New York, to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market was very dull and uninteresting and the changes light. The bank statement had little effect and traders did little. There is little prospect of an active market for the present and very hard to predict the course of prices for the time being. Money is apt to work up a little before the first of July. We think that the good stocks are purchases on reactions.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: One of the chief troubles with the market is that everybody is scared to death. The small as well as the large investor has lost money, and has seen his securities shrink away below their intrinsic merit, and selling at prices that ordinarily would attract the bargain hunter, who, however, is not in evidence.

The railroads of this country are in a very strained condition, not for lack of business—they all have more busines than they can attend to—but for financing to keep the roads up to date and enable them to handle the tremendous traffic in a businesslike way. But when the legislatures of this country dictate to men who have made lifelong studies of railroads, and have built the West up in many instances from nothing but a cow pasture to large cities, it is no wonder the big financiers are discouraged.

What do these legislators know about the financing of a railroad and how it should be done. Most of their financing has been confined to building a barb-wire fence around a hen coop, or some other equally important thing. But it does seem, however, that we have pretty well discounted everything except closing Wall street up altogether. It is going to be a long pull and a tiresome one, but I am a big believer in this country. We have had to face a great many difficult problems and they have always been adjusted properly, and I don't believe this is going to be any exception to the rule.

The Cotton Market.

New York, June 15.—The cotton market opened barely steady at a decline of 4 to 10 points, and increased the loss to a matter of 9 or 12 points on the more active months during the middle of the morning, under lower cables, less gullish week-end figures than expected, continued good weather in the South and prospects for its continuance over Sunday. Trading was moderately active, with wire and commission houses sellers supposedly for long account, while covering on a scale down was the chief source of support.

Cotton, futures closed barely steady. Closing bids: June, 11.65; July, 11.61; August, 11.39; September, 11.24; October, 11.41; November, 11.38; December, 11.41; January, 11.51; February, 11.52; March, 11.67. Spot, closed quiet, 25 points lower; middling uplands, 12.90; middling gulf, 13.15; sales, 181 bales.

New York Money.

New York, June 15.—Close: Money on call, nominal. Time loans, strong; sixty days, 4 per cent; ninety days, 4 per cent; six months, 4@4½ per cent.

St. Paul Live Stock.

St. Paul, June 15.—Cattle: Receipts, 300; steady and unchanged. Hogs: Receipts, 3,600; steady; range, $5.60@5.85. Sheep: Receipts, 200; 10@15c lower; lambs, $6.25@6.75; ewes, $4.25@5.50; wethers, $5.50@6.00; yearlings, $3.00@7.50; genuine spring lambs, $6.50@7.25.

Treasury Balances.

Washington, June 15.—Today's statement of the treasury balances in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,066,000 gold reserve in the division of redemption, shows: Available cash balance, $261,580,840; gold, $85,450,458; gold certificates, $61,223100.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The same old story, tired holders getting out and very few buyers in the market. Amalgamated is being sold all the time and this affects all the coppers. Utah dropped again today. There was no demand for Butte and any selling breaks the price easily. I advise especially now the selling of the cheap non-dividend paying coppers such as Winona, Michigan, Adventure, Royale, Franklin, Mass. and Rhode Island. These may be all right in active market, but with the standard coppers going off every day these small mines are not worth what they are selling at.

Hayden, Stone & Co., to Vern R. Culbertson: Coppers opened fairly steady with small sales. Activity confined to Old Dominion, Greene Cananea, North Butte, and Butte Coalition. Market closed rather weak and dull. We expect this dullness to continue as there is very little interest displayed by traders.

SEA SERPENT STORY.

Reynold's Newspaper: Mr. McNaughton, as his name signifies, is a Scotsman, and is consequently scarcely likely to exaggerate. He has been visiting Clevedon, in Somerset, and relates the following story of a strange adventure. The incident was, he says, witnessed by many spectators:

Mr. McNaughton was quietly rowing in a little skiff about a mile off the Clevedon pier, when a large snaky object, which he describes as "like a huge mummy, with large sunken eyes enveloped in a sort of hairy flap," suddenly appeared at the rear of the boat, about twenty yards away.

It approached by a series of leaps and dives, causing the sea to be greatly disturbed. Mr. McNaughton says that by plunging the oars into the surf he endeavored to keep his antagonist at bay.

But his efforts were only momentarily successful. In a few seconds it had reached within a few yards of the boat.

"I can only dimly recollect what happened," he continued. "The flabby monster seemed to leap straight out of the water—straight as an arrow at me. I hardly know what I did. I think I must have ducked and crashed the oar into the creature. At any rate I was flung violently into the water.

"When I reached the surface I managed to clamber into the boat. My terrible antagonist was nowhere in sight. In a dazed condition, scarcely knowing what I did, I succeeded in reaching Postishead."

SAY 'EM QUICK.

The name of Maine's highest mountain has been spelled at various times and by various authorities, Ktaadu, Ktahdn, and, as now generally recognized, Katahdin. A stream in the region has been called Wissataquoik, Kassataquoik and Wassatacook, and today the lumbermen call it 'Satocook. Molunkus, Ripogenus and Nicatous are simple enough to be left alone, but there is a big job awaiting the man who tries to simplify Pockwockamus, Sourdnahunk, Passamagmock, Katepsconegon (sometimes called Debsconeag), Caucomgomoc or Chemaquasabamticook. Aboljackmagasset, Aboljackarmegassic or Aboljackamegas is generally clipped by the loggers and hunters to Abol, and, in fact, is so called by nearly everybody, on the plea that life is too short to wander through all the syllables that rightly belong to the name of the stream.

SHAM FIGHT WITH FORTS

The Battleships Connecticut and Alabama "Destroyed."

Forts in New York Give Admiral Evans a Surprise.

New York, June 15.—The battleships Connecticut and Alabama, under command of Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, were trebly "destroyed," while passing through the narrows on their way from the Jamestown exposition to the New York navy yard. Admiral Evans, who evidently had not been apprised of the war game which has been going on at the narrows for a week past, was a much amazed man at the sedden roar of the guns at Forts Hamilton and Wadsworth. He rushed to the bridge of the Connecticut and gazed first at one noisy fort and then at the other. Then one of his officers enlightened him of the sham "war" between the forts manned by regular coast artillerymen and national guardsmen and small boats manned by regulars representing a hostile fleet, the purpose of which was to test the alertness of the guardians of the sea approach to New York city. The officers at Forts Hamilton and Wadsworth learned from Fort Hancock at Sandy Hook that two real battleships were passing in the Hook. It was jokingly decided to stop them and the forts' gunners turned out accordingly. The fog was dense and the Alabama got within 2,000 yards of Fort Wadsworth before being seen. First the two fort mortars were fired at the two battleships. Presently it was announced at the forts that the warships had been sunk. Nevertheless the 12 and 6-inch guns were used and the result was double destruction. Hastily, the suppositions mines in the narrows were exploded, and for the third time the Connecticut and Alabama were annihilated.

The war game is now ended and New York was saved from "capture." But Fort Wadsworth was crippled and rendered useless according to the rules, because a landing of ten regulars from Fort Hancock led by Lieut. R. H. Jordon made its way through the narrows, landed at Stapleton stole into the fort reservation, seized the power house and turned off the lights. This meant the fort was put out of action because there was no current to fire the guns. Lieut. Jordan is the hero of the week's fighting in as much as he proved what might be done to the city's defenses in real war.

THORNTON ACQUITTED OF THE CHARGE OF FRAUD.

Manila, June 15.—Francis B. Thornton has been acquitted of the charge of complicity in the quartermaster fraud case.

The public prosecutor says that unless new evidence is forthcoming Capt. Fred C. Cole will not be tried. Thornton was Cole's chief clerk. Faustino Ablen, Pulajane leader who was wounded and captured recently, is recovering from his wound. He issued a manifesto today directing all his followers to surrender.

Troops are being removed from the Island of Leyte as rapidly as possible. Gen. Mills announces that there is no necessity for further field work, as he regards the disturbances at an end.

DRINK UP EVIDENCE.

Three Bottles, Exhibits in Blind Pigging Case, Disappear.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff O. G. Hanson would like to ascertain who drank up part of the evidence in the Benson blind pigging case by consuming three bottles of Milwaukee's famous fluid that were to be used in the trial as an exhibit. It is said that when the shortage was called to the attention of the authorieties it was recalled that several members of the jury trying the case had been noticed to make suspicious movements towards the locality where the beer had been stored.

The young man's death is the cause of general sorow and sympathy for the bereaved family. He only recently graduated from the Cloquet high school, and his prospects in life were very bright.

RAILROADS

POSSIBLE SOLUTION

Great Northern May Build Freight Transfer in Superior.

Is No Room Here, But Duluth Would Be Benefited.

"The Great Northern has not definitely decided to establish a freight transfer at the Head of the Lakes, but if it is estfablished it will be at Superior, and not in Duluth, for the simple reason that we have no property on this side of the bay that would prove adequate for the purpose intended," said W. J. Power, general agent of the Great Northern in Duluth, this morning.

"As was announced in The Herald two or three weeks ago, in an interview with W. W. Broughton, general traffic manager," he continued, "the road has different plans of improvement for the Head of the Lakes under consideration, and this is one of them. It has not by any means been decided that the yards will be arranged for, but Mr. Broughton is of the opinion that such a project would answer all present and future demands made upon our freight department locally, where a more freight house would in time prove inadequate to meet the increasing demands that would be made upon the institution.

"The morning paper was entirely wrong in saying that the local transfer, if established, would be similar to the Minnesota transfer in the Twin Cities, on a co-operative basis, with a prospect of all the roads doing business with it. It will be a strictly Great Northern institution, and other roads will not have any interest in it. The Great Northern has its own freight transfer at Hamline, which is entirely independent of the Minnesota transfer. If one is built locally, it will be similar to the one at Hamline, and will not copy the methods of the Minnesota transfer, which, as I have said, is an entirely separate institution. The transfer will include the building of a large freight shed in Superior, and the yards would answer the needs of both Duluth and Superior. Plans are still so indefinite that there is no way of telling what the total cost of the project, if carried through, would be."

The plan of the transfer is to have the shippers load their own freight into cars at their respective plants, and the cars then hauled to the transfer, where the freight is distributed and loaded into combination cars and dispatched to their various destinations. The system is to take cars of shipments of less than carload lots, and with its adoption the goods of several different shippers, all consigned to the same territory, may be sent in the same manner. This plan results in the use of fewer cars and greater facility in the dispatch of freight.

HAS BEEN ABROGATED.

Harriman and Rock Island Interests No Longer Control Alton.

New York, June 15.—The agreement between the Harriman interest and the Rock Island company entered into in 1904 for their alternate control of the Chicago & Alton railroad, has been abrogated by mutual consent, according to an authoritative announcement made today. In future, it was stated, the Chicago & Alton stockholders will manage the property. Under the agreement that has just been abrogated the Rock Island company and the Harriman interests alternately controlled the Chicago & Alton, the Rock Island company having control one year and the Harriman interests the next. The termination of this plan is without prejudice to either party.

The Chicago & Alton officials explained that it was simply an instance of letting the stockholders manage their own affairs. It was felt that this policy would best subserve the interests of the stockholders. There is to be no change, according to the Chicago & Alton officials, in the policy of the road, which has been managed by the Rock Island under the joint control agreement since last September. R. F. Yoakum, of the Rock Island and St. Louis and San Francisco roads, is the present chairman of the Chicago & Alton executive committee. At the present time Rock Island has six representatives in the board of directors against five sco-called Harriman directors. The recent resignation of J. B. Morgan from the Chicago & Alton board, reduced the Harriman representative to four. It is understood that a meeting of the stockholders will be held to elect a board of directors under the new plan, but no authoriative statement was made on that point.

In financial circles it is generally understood that Rock Island interests hold over 50 per cent of Chicago & Alton stock, and that E. H. Harrimon and his friends hold 25 per cent.

A Fine Portrait.

An interesting portrait study is on exhibition in the display case of the Dworshak Photographic Ateller, and has drawn forth a great deal of favorable comment from people who are following things artistic. The posing, lighting, spacing, line treatment, is handled magnificently. It will be remembered that this portrait and five others received the highest award at a recent convention of Northwestern Photographers. While it is evidently not intended to be anything but a study head, it, however, reminds one strongly of the religious characters from some of the old masters. That Mr. Dworshak is intensely in love with his work is evinced by the thought and feeling recognized in his productions. The portrait, among others, is shown in a new hammered copper case of most exclusive artistic design, perhaps the only one of its kind in the Northwest.

The complete schedule for the trip of the Minnesota National Guard to their annual camp at Lake City has been arrange. The train will consist of two sleepers, a coach and a baggage car. The special is expected to arrive in St. Paul about 6:30 Monday morning, where the Duluth companies will join the rest of the regiment and will proceed to the Lake City camp.

The trains bearing the regiment will leave the capital at 8:45 Monday morning, will arrive at Red Wing, where they will take on one of the companies at 10:15, and will reach the Lake City camp at 11 o'clock on Monday morning.

It is expected that the field staff and the non-commissioned staff of Duluth with the twenty-eight members of the band, with a number of thirty-five men in all, while the two companies from Duluth will each have about fifty men at the encampment during the first five days. This number will be augmented considerably during the last five days of the camp. Each of the other companies in the regiment, Co. B of Anoka, Co. I of Crookston, Co. H of Olivia, Co. F of Worthington, Co. E of St. Paul, Co. D of Zumbrota, and Co. G of Princeton, are counted on for forty-five or fifty men and at least 500 will report at the camp on the first day. Probably 100 additional men will report before the encampment comes to a close. The camp breaks up a week from Wednesday and the boys will be home again on June 27.

EDITOR DUPED WITH "UNPUBLISHED" LEMON.

New York, June 15.—In the current number of the Century Magazine is published a letter of Victor Hugo in which the author describes his purpose in writing "Les Miserables." An introductory editorial paragraph says that "it is believed to be an unpublished letter."

Almost immediately the Century began to hear from "old subscribers," "constant readers," and the rest, that the Victor Hugo letter was published quite generally as an addendum to "Les Miserables." Many reprints at present in circulation in this country contain it.

One of the editors of the Century yesterday said:

"The letter was sent to us by a friend of the Couness Rozwadowska, whose husband was formerly Italian consul at Chicago. The countess found it among the papers of her father, Count Pepe, who died some years ago. We had a search made of the volumes of Hugo's correspondence in the Astor library, and the man we assigned to the task reported the letter could not be found. We also submitted the letter to a Hugo expert, and he pronounced it genuine, so we thought ourselves safe in publishing it."

BURIED IN A BRICK.

Peculiar Request of a Suicide in Boston is Granted.

Boston, June 15.—Like a story in fiction reads the closing chapter in the strange life of Herman Unger, suicide, whose ashes, mixed with five pounds of cement, were molded into a brick. It was Unger's written request when he took his life on May 30 at Clark's hotel, that his body be cremated, that his ashes be mixed with cement, that the brick be placed in a double box and interred in a Hebraw cemetery. Two of Unger's friends, David Jordan and H. E. Boyden, the former a member of United lodge, I. O. O. F., and the latter a thirty-second degree Mason, under the direction of Frederick Carr of the Boston Weterproofing company executed the strange request.

PREPARING FOR FAIR.

Grand Forks Getting Ready for Next Month's Big Event.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crews of men are at work on the North Dakota state fair grounds preparing for the third annual state fair, which will open in Grand Forks July 23 for a five-day exhibition. Improvements are to be undertaken this season that place the local fair property in the front rank with state fairs anywhere in the West and Northwest.

Next week work will be started on a large machinery hall, 100 by 140 ft. size. This is a building that has been needed and already all of the space it will provide has been guaranteed as taken by the large machinery houses of Grand Forks. In addition stock quarters will be provided, particularly for sheep and swine, which will be housed this year in fine new modern buildings.

BUMPER CROP ASSURED.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—With present indications as a basis it is announced by experts in a position to know whereof they speak, that the Red River Valley is in line for the banner year of its history as far as crop is concerned. Earlier in the season there was considerable doubt as to what might be expected. The season was slow in opening and the ground remained heavy and unworkable because of continued rains, snow and cold. It was admitted that work began at about the latest possible time.

Favorable conditions to the present time offer a bright prospect, however. Grain that went in late has started in fine shape. Though there have been some cold days the sun has been high and warm and the grain worked overtime growing. Several days of rain just passed have been timely and now that they are followed by pleasant warm weather that has every appearance of lasting for some time, it is admitted that prospects are good.

DOCTOR SEES LIGHT.

Sioux Falls Physician Changes Views in the Kaufmann Case.

Flandreau, S. D., June 15.—(Special to the Herald.)—Some surprise has been created at the trial of Emma Kaufmann for murder by the attitudte of Dr. S. Olney of Sioux Falls, who appears as a witness for the defense when he was a witness for the state at the preliminary hearing of the woman who is charged with the murder of her domestic, Agnes Polreis.

Prosecutor Egan produced all of his original testimony in an effort to discredit his present testimony.

The cross-examination of Dr. Olney was thorough and related chiefly to what might have caused or contributed to the death of Agnes Polreis.

When asked if the cuts on the body could be caused by the Anaemia alone, the witness said it would be a physicia impossibility.

In explanation of the apparent discrepancies in his testimony, Dr. Olney said that he testified at the preliminary hearing only two or three days after the post mortem examination and that he had not had time to fully discuss the results of the examination.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Another High Record in Production by the Victoria---Michigan Output Shows Increase---Franklin Mill Has Been Materially Improved.

Houghton, Mich., June 15.—Victoria established another high record last month. The output was 95 tons of mineral, an increase of thirteen tons over the April product. This places Victoria on a very satisfactory earning basis considering the small amount of rock which is being treated, and is largely due to there being no interruption at the mill and in being able to secure more help.

The enlarged cylinder for the stamp head has not been delivered. The contract called for its installation months ago, but it is still hung up in the foundry. After this change has been made there will be a material increase in the amount of rock stamped and it is figured that the product will average around 150 tons monthly.

Victoria is steadily climbing toward the dividend list. The rock is not as rich in copper as in some other mines, but the lodes are quite uniform, and under the economical method of operation is enabled to make a very satisfactory profit. However, in spite of the good showing which is being made, the other lodes which traverse the property are to receive attention and it is very possible that something still better will be found.

The May product of the Michigan shows an increase of sixteen tons over the preceding month, being 166. Everything about the mine is in a very satisfactory condition and were it not for the fact that the company is paying for its stamp mill out of the earnings it would have a very substantial surplus at this time. Upon the completion of the mill this fall there will be an increase in the output, having been under way for some little time, and from then on Michigan should have clear sailing. Work on the new mill is progressing steadily and the Wisconsin Bridge & Iron company of Milwaukee, which has the contract for the structural iron work, expects to complete its portion of the plant this month. The Michigan has considerable stamp mill machinery on hand, being that which was taken out of the Mass Consolidated mill when its contract with the Mass company for the use of one head expired.

The Franklin mill has been materially improved, in the way of permanent foundations, and the good work has not yet ended, but will soon be. Franklin mill is turning out a fine grade of mineral, the No. 1 being as clean and of as high percentage as anything yet seen in any of the Lake mills. When openings admit

COPPER FROM LOW GRADE ORE

Butte, Mont., June 15.—The estimate made last week of the production by the Butte mines during the month of May fell considerably below the actual figures. All the reports are now in, and they show that the mines produced in May 29,019,550 pounds of copper, on a greatly increased tonnage and decreased yield per ton. Many of the biggest mines of the Amalgamated company are shipping very little first-class ore, that product being held in reserve and all energies being bent to mining the low grade ore while the price of copper is high. The various companies were represented in the ore output and copper production as follows:

Boston & Montana	108,560	7,268,560
Anaconda	131,750	8,036,750
Butte & Boston	18,600	1,116,000
Washoe	12,400	731,600
Parrot	10,850	628,300
Trenton	11,780	706,800
North Butte	40,300	3,707,660
Coalition	48,050	8,123,250
Original	29,450	1,825,900
East Butte	6,200	496,000
Pittsburg & Montana	6,975	488,250
La France	6,200	421,600
Miscellaneous	6,200	465,000
Totals	437,255	28,017,550

The total output in April was: Tons of ore, 391,650; pounds of copper, 27,673,200.

The Butte Copper Exploration company has suspended work on the Six O'Clock group of claims o nthe east of the district and the intentions of the company as to the future are problematical. Many persons were under the impression that it owned the ground and had title to the claims it has been working on; but it only has a lease and option, which will expire in August. The company was capitalized for $500,000 and all the stock was issued, but it is stated now that only $150,000 was realized for the treasury, although many persons who were let in on "the ground floor" paid $3 a share for the stock. There was a good shaft on the Six O'Clock when the company took over the property and it was sunk to a depth of 1,000 feet, from which point a crosscut was driven north. A big vein was cut and some drifting was done along it, but no commercial ore was found and the treasury became exhausted. The backers of the company include the Leopolds of Chicago, Hayden, Stone & Co., Richardson, Hill & Co., and Paine, Webber & Co., of Boston. Teh directors of the company are N. Bruce McKelvie, Frank E. James and Thomas Dee of Boston, A. E. Leopold and Warren Nichols of Chicago and E. A. Nichols and J. E. Correll of Butte. At one time the stock of the company sold at $7.50 a share, but lately has been offered at 25 cents. Some of the owners of the claims say an extension of the options is sought, but men interested in the company residing in Butte deny this.

The suspension of work on the Six O'Clock group has been a surprise and keen disappointment, not only to the stockholders of the Butte Exploration company, but to others who had hoped to see the company "make good," as its failure will have a bad financial effect on all the new companies which hove been depending on Eastern money to carry on their development work.

The $150,000 spent on the Six O'Clock was spent judiciously, and the maximum amount of results were obtained. The mine is in splendid condition, as far as good work is concerned, and the machinery, especially the big pump on the 1,000-foot station, is of the best.

It always has been the opinion of mining men that the Butte Exploration company would find ore, if it went deep enough, but from the first it was doubted by many that ore would be found at a depth of 1,000 feet. The shaft on the Greenleaf, a little distance south of the Six O'Clock is nearly 900 feet deep, but sinking will not be stopped by the Boston & Montana until the shaft is at least 1,500 feet deep. So far the results have been very encouraging in the Greenleaf

WARREN DISTRICT'S MINES

All the Companies Showing Increases in Shipments to Smelters---Denn Preparing to Ship--- Warren Shaft Still Going Down.

Bisbee, Ariz., June 15.—The general conditions throughout the district during the past week have indicated that the big production which was recorded during the month of May will be duplicated during June, if not exceeded, as all of the companies are showing increases in their shipments to the smelters at Douglas, and crowds of miners are arriving in the district every few days from various portions of the United States. Shipments to the two big smelters at Douglas are such that it is thought a new high record for production during the present month, in spite of the fact that almost every year the output in the month of June shows a decrease, because many miners leave the district for their vacation at this time of the year.

Improvements of every character are being made around the mines, the Copper Queen company especially is pushing work towards the construction of its new power house, and the placing of the Czar shaft in operating condition. The Shattuck-Arizona company is directing every energy towards the erection of its reduction plant at Douglas, and is showing a steady increase in its output.

At the Denn-Arizona the drift on the 1,100-level has passed through thirty feet of iron, and is now in vein matter, with small bunches of ore. Preparations are being made to sink the shaft to the 1,200-level. Work on the railroad spur to the Denn is progressing rapidly, and it is expected that shipping to the smelter at Douglas can be commenced within the next week or ten days. As soon as the spur is completed, the company will install a fuel oil plant. The tanks for the plant have already been ordered, three of 50,000 gallons capacity, and will be delivered within a short time.

The management of the Shattuck-Arizona has received the last bids for the construction of the smelter at Douglas, and on the various machinery

DISCOVERY OF LUCIN MINES

Was Result of Man Being Put Off Train---Mine From Which Great Nuggets of Native Copper Are Taken.

Butte, Mont., June 15.—There is an interesting story in connection with the discovery of the Lucin copper mines by Butte men, Lawrence Lynch and George Thalm. These mines are located in Box Elder county, Utah, only a few miles from the Nevada-Idaho line, and were recently taken up by the Butte Mines Exploration company and capitalized for $1,500,000, the incorporators all being Montana men.

It is owing to the fact that Lawrence Lynch, an old-time miner of the Butte district, who formerly worked in the Anaconda, became financially embarrassed last winter and was put off a train by a rude brakeman at Tecoma that the mines were discovered. Mr. Lynch told the story of the discovery of the mines to a reporter of the Standard, and it is a good one.

Last October he left Butte for the Nevada mining fields and worked there for a while, leaving Goldfield just a few days before the labor troubles began. He spent some time in the other mining districts of the state, and finally started for Hazen, one of the new mining camps along the cutoff road. He paid his fare as far as Martillo, and then trusted to luck and good judgment to get still farther along the road.

"My finances were getting low, and myself and a few other Butte men boarded a freight train and managed to ride as far as Tecoma, where we were put off the train. The place is a small one—only about 100 people and a few business houses there—but I rather liked the place and asked the landlord of the hotel if there was any mining there. He directed me to the Copper Mountain mine, seven miles distant, and I rode up there on the ore team and struck the foreman for a job as a miner. There was nothing doing in that line, but he gave me a job as a mucker at $3 a day. I mucked for seven shifts and was then given a job as a miner on the day shift, doing single-handed work.

"I worked at the Copper Mountain three months, and then my partner, George Thaim, came up to the mine. Both of us were impressed with the great possibilities of the district. Ledges containing native copper stretched away in all directions, and we prospected with such good results that we located seven claims, in all of which native copper could be seen. Three miles away, in Nevada, we located another group of claims. A little while later, after the claims had all been made a matter of record, we took some samples of ore to Reno, where we met Wallace Corbett of the Butte Exploration company, and we showed him the ore. He is a mining engineer, and was most favorably impressed with it, so we made an agreement with him that his company should develop the property, and that we should hold a one-third interest. This agreement has been kept. Mr. Thaim and I own one-third of the 1,500,000 shares for which the company has been incorporated; also a one-third interest in the 500,000 shares which have been kept as treasury stock, the company holding the remainder."

IN THE CANANEA DISTRICT

Development Work Resumed by Greene-Cananea on the Cananea-Duluth Ground—Sierra de Cobre is Assuming Proportions of a Great Mine—The Democrata Workings.

Cananea, Mex., June 15.—The past month has witnessed a great deal of work in Cananea district, work along well defined, systematic lines, attended by opening of considerable new grounds of much promise and by extension of ore reserves in important degree in all of the producing mines of the district. Probably the most important new move of the month was the resumption of development on the Cananea Duluth ground of Greene-Cananea, where they are up and going in vigorous manner and during the present month will whip things into excellent shape in the matter of preliminary steps toward getting this splendid property in line for heavy and steady production. Its stock affairs have been settled and with the balance of the great Cananea-Central property it is now under the direct and highly active management of Dr. Ricketts, as general manager of Greene-Cananea.

At South Cananea the drift from the lower level continues in highly encouraging ground. It certainly looks at this property as if they were about to get substantial reward for the money and time which have been expended there since development was taken up. Superintendent McHenry has been going about things in the direct, result-getting way which he learned the value of while with the Greene among the lieutenants of Superintendent Kirk than whom none has more to show for time expended underground in the Southwest.

Cananea-Bisbee is looking better each week. All the work which Manager Watson is pushing along on this property is showing that judgment employed in the beginning of development was of the excellent kind. It is getting ore bodies. There is no mine made yet at Cananea-Bisbee, but it can be said that there are many reasons for expecting that they will have one within the next several months, and but for which can be summoned to discourage such expectation. However, opening of the ground is the only way to get positive proof of its contents.

At the Sierra de Cobre mine of Phelps-Dodge, or the Indiana Sonora property, it looks as if they were making one of the greatest mines in the district, which is saying much. Under the direction of Supt. McBride and his efficient staff the situation is being kept well in hand, and the development going along in a manner calling forth high praise from those who are in touch with the situation and have understanding of the difficulties which the peculiarities of the property have all along put in the way of reaching the ore bodies, which none question are there, it remaining only to make them available. In recent work in the Limestone tunnel, Mr. McBride has brought about the opening of one of these bodies in larger degree than before attained, and the careful line of development he is pursuing promises to bring about even much greater things within the next few months.

AT THE GLOBE CONSOLIDATED

Good Progress Being Made With the Sinking of the Sinking of the Gem and Boston Shafts and All Indications Are Favorable.

Globe, Ariz., June 15.—All the mining properties under development in the Globe district are scenes of great activity, the work being rushed as fast as possible, and in every case the indications are quite favorable. This is a district where great depth must be reached to find the high grade ores, and all the companies are proceeding with that idea. The outlook at the Globe Consolidated is most encouraging. The management is a strictly business one and is not giving out reports designed to affect the stock market, the main object being to develop a mine that will be a big dividend payer. It is violating no confidence to state that all concerned in the property are fully assured that they have one of the best properties in the Southwest. Good progress is being made in sinking the Gem and Boston shafts, and the indications are all good. When the Gem reaches the eleventh level, crosscuts will be run both north and south, and then it is expected that the rich ore bodies which are believed to exist there will be shown up.

It is said that the net earnings of the Old Dominion company in the face of extraordinarily heavy costs for development are in the neighborhod of $200,000 per month. About 75 per cent of the company's sulphur requirements during May were obtained from the Globe camp. The Old Dominion has gone through the "horse" in No. 3 crosscut and is again in rich sulphide copper ore. The latest Globe advices are: There are several features of the underground work at the Old Dominion mine worthy of note. No. 3 crosscut on the fourteenth level, which penetrated thirty-five feet of very good sulphide ore and then went through forty-five or fifty feet of almost barren ledge matter, again encountered ore and is now in sulphide going 15 per cent to 20 per cent copper. Whether this is vein No. 2 or No. 3 the management is not yet certain, but it promises to be an important ore body of considerable width, and is doubtless the same vein which is being drifed on from crosscut No. 2, where the ore is even higher grade. The stope in No. 2 crosscut continues to supply a large tonnage of ore. Work in No. 4 crosscut, practically suspended during the week will be resumed and should encounter sulphide vein No. 1 within a few days by a drift from B shaft with A shaft and the mine workings on the tenth level, which improve ventilation and will facilitate work in that part of the mine. A crosscut will now be started from B shaft on the tenth level to explore Buffalo hill and which is expected to cut several important veins of ore. Diamond drill work carried on from the bottom of C shaft (ninth level) developed a considerable flow of water and has been discontinued. The drifts from A shaft on the ninth and tenth should reach C shaft by the end of June. These drifts will drain the wet ground and permit the sinking of C shaft to the twelfth level.

PINAL COUNTY'S MINING BOOM

County is Filled With Mining Men and Prospectors ---Four More Groups Near Winkehnan Taken Up on Working Bonds.

Phoenix, Ariz., June 15.—Pinal county's mining boom continues to expand and one could hardly fire a long range rifle in the hills of that section without hitting some mining man who is looking for a copper property to bond or buy.

Four more groups, situated in the vicinity of Winkelman, were taken up on working bonds last week, and partial payments were made in each instance.

Engineer Benedict and associates, of Nevada, obtained a bond on the Jacob Snyder group, which adjoins the O'Carroll group on the west. The purchase price could not be learned, as terms of the bond were not given out.

The Nevadans also bonded the McHugh group, which adjoins the Snyder group on the west and north for $120,000, paying 10 per cent down.

Nevadans also obtained bonds on the Seventy-nine mines and the O'Brien and Wilson properties which surround the Seventy-nine. The price on the Seventy-nine is $60,000, of which Judge George Scott gets $10,000, Robert Brananan $10,000, J. L. Coleman $10,000, Jack Brananan $10,000, and Dennis O'Brien $20,000.

All of these properties will develop into large producers as they are situated in the Christmas ore zone in which some of the largest high grade ore bodies in Arizona have been uncovered. Developments at the O'Carroll group prove the continuation of the Christmas ore beds into that ground and there is ample evidence that they continue on west through the other properites above mentioned.

Much favorable comment has been called forth by the rapid progress of the Two Queens group, where the main tunnel is in over 300 feet, and five shafts are being put down on the ore veins. The new equipment of machinery to be installed immediately will consist of hoisting plant for hoisting, pumping and ventilating to a depth of 1,000 feet, if necessary, together with a three-drill air compressor. The pump-

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

More New Mines Being Opened on Mesaba Range Than in All Other Lake Districts Combined—Old Groveland Mine on the Menominee to be Re-opened.

Eveleth, Minn., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—In keeping with the vast extent of its ore resources, more new mines are being opened on the Mesaba range than in all the other districts of the Lake Superior iron region combined, and a number of them will be added to the shipping list this season. Included among these properties is the St. James, adjoining the village of Aurora on the north, which Corrigan, McKinney & Co. are bringing to the producing stage. Development work was commenced early this year. The ore, which is of Bessemer grade, was encountered at a depth of 150 feet, and drifting to the deposit is now in progress. The shaft, down 225 feet, has been capped by one of the largest shafthouses on the range. Mine buildings have been erected, also dwelling houses for the men, and railroad facilities will shortly be provided by the extension of a spur line from the Duluth & Iron Range branch of the Meadow property.

Just north of the St. James, what is said to be a deposit of very large proportions has been struck at the Hill property by the E. J. Longyear exploration interests. Ore was encountered 200 feet below the surface, and if reports current in mining circles are correct, the ore body is one of the thickest ever located on the range, it being said to exceed 300 feet in depth. The Hill tract had been prospected before, but as it has now developed, the test was made at too shallow depth. The drills are still in commission. A mile and a half northeast of Aurora is the Jones & McLaughlin Steel company's Meadow mine, which like the St. James, will be a shipper this year. It has been in a development stage for some time past. From all their properties on the Mesaba, Jones & McLaughlin will send out about 500,000 tons this season.

Another new producer will be the Steel corporation's McKinley mine, where stripping has been in progress for some months past. The overburden here averages forty feet in depth, and already much of the ore has been uncovered. The deposits appear to lie in pockets, running about eighty feet in depth. There is not much ore at he McKinley, possibly not much more than 2,000,000 tons, but much of it is of Bessemer grade. Drilling still continues in a systematic effort to determine the approximate limits and position of the ore bodies. In the Virginia field, Pickands, Mather & Co. are now taking ore from their new Yawkey mine. Near the Yawkey is the Coates property of Miller & Coates, which also has recently been added to the producing list. The shaft here is 115 feet down. Drifting is in progress in the ore body, the roof of which is but fifty feet from the surface. The product is of Bessemer grade. In the same field, two new shafts are being sunk by the Republic Iron & Steel company, one on the Onadago tract, north adjoining Jones & Laughlin, Lincoln mine, and the other at the Bessemer property. The new shaft at the latter will take the place of No. 1 and No. 2 shafts, in which vicinity the ground has been worked out. The ore here comes to within only sixty feet of the surface, notwithstanding which it is the

IDA-MONTANA STRIKES ORE

Encounters Six Feet of Calcopyrite Ore, Averaging 9 Per Cent Copper---Butte & Bacorn's Deepest Shaft Nearing Thousand.

Butte, Mont., June 15.—The Ida-Montana Development company struck six feet of calcopyrite ore about sixty-five feet southeast of the 250-foot station, last Sunday night, and is still cross-cutting the big lead with a view of ascertaining whether there are any more shoots between the walls. The shoot is close to the center of the vein, probably a little closer to the foot wall than the hanging wall. The vein is supposed to be about 52 feet wide at that point.

The value of the ore struck is not yet known, but some of it is in the hands of an assayer. Mining men who have examined it express the belief that it will average about 9 or 10 per cent copper.

The strike in this property is important to Butte, for it proves conclusively that commercial sulphide copper ore exists on the east side. The ground on the Ida-Montana is located on the north slope of the hill in the first canyon south of Columbia garden canyon, and has been undergoing development several months. The company is composed principally of Michigan men who are thoroughly familiar with the mining game, the majority of them having spent most of their lives digging copper in the Lake country. The strike of ore at the 250-foot mark is the result of their peculiar way of mining. They make it a business to keep track of their veins while sinking in order to familiarize themselves with geological conditions. The company now has its main shaft down 300 feet and is sinking rapidly. At the 350 or 400 it will again cross-cut the vein.

The Butte & Bacorn company is now concentrating its work to one point, the Calumet, and is making rapid headway in its development. After sinking to a depth of 840 feet on the Belluda it ceased operations there. It also stopped work on thet Colleen, with the exception of keeping the water out of the workings, 360 feet deep. It is using an electric pump in this work.

The shaft in the Calumet is 980 feet deep, timbered, and is going to the 1,060-foot mark, the odd 25 feet being for the pump. The sinking record in this shaft during the last four months is 435 feet, 110 of which was sunk during May. When the 1,000 is reached a station will be cut and a pump installed.

GREAT UTAH PLANT STARTS

First Section of Utah Copper Company's Mill Begins Operations---Strike of Importance Reported in Consolidated in Tintic.

Salt Lake, Utah, June 15.—The first section of the Utah Copper company's great milling plant at Garfield, west of Salt Lake City, has been started up. It has a daily capacity of 500 tons of ore. There will be six sections in each unit. On JJune 10 the second section will be started and the third on July 1. The railroad company is now delivering ore to the company at the rate of 2,000 tons a day, of which 850 tons is being treated at the company's mill at Bingham and the remainder is going to the Garfield plant.

The Uncle Sam Consolidated Mining company has sold a part of its holdings to the May Day Mining and Milling company. The ground transferred is the Uncle Sam claim and the Cora, Inez and Humburg No. 2 fractional claims, of for which the May Day paid by the issue of 400,000 shares of stock, doubling its capital. The Uncle Sam Consolidated retains the Humbug group, lying between the Beck Tunnel property and the Yankee Consolidated and remote from the ground sold. The merger of the two properties will permit more economical mining and enable the May Day to mine its deposits of milling ores.

A strike of importance is reported in the 200-foot level of the Star Consolidated in Tintic. A good vein of high grade ore has been cut into but the company officials decline to discuss it. The merger with the Black Jack company will be completed, it is believed, by June 20.

A carload of high grade silver lead ore from the Talisman, a new mine being opened in Beaver county, is now at the sampler and the first carload, fifty tons, of rich zinc ore from the recent discovery has been started for the zinc works at Iola, Kan. If the settlement is satisfactory regular shipments will be made.

Samples of rich ore at the offices of the Federal Ely in this city indicate the richness of a strike that has been made in the company's Queen of the West group, between the Cumberland-Ely and the Turner-Ely ground. At a depth of sixtyone feet a solid mass of rich sulphide ore, running 5 to 10 per cent in copper, was entered. While development is lacking to indicate the extent of the ore body geologists believe that the sulphides underlie the entire Queen of the West group.

MUCH PROGRESS REPORTED

By First Quarterly Report of Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company—Says Its Ore Resources Are Greatly Increased—Extensive Improvements—Old Bullion is Waking Up.

Goldfield, Nev., June 15.—The first quarterly report of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines company was mailed to stockholders last Sunday.

During a part of the past quarter the mines have been closed owing to labor troubles. The report covers periods of Feb. 25 to March 10, and April 22 to June 1. The following surface improvements have been made: Storehouse for mining supplies now being brought in car lots; railroad spurs all over the property; ore bins shipping at the rate of a car load per for storing rich ore; concrete foundations for big central compressor plant for all mines of the company; electrical appliances for sub-stations to save 30 per cent of former cost of power.

Large hoisting machinery has been ordered for the Mohawk, good for 1,100 feet; ore bins for the Red Top, which will permit resumption of shipments, and electric hoist installed on the Victor Claim of the Combination.

Since the last report sinking has been continued on the Mohawk and a new level started at 450 point. At the 350-foot level the available ore, it is said, has at least been doubled.

The Hayes-Monette high grade bodies and two additional rich bodies have been located. The bodies left standing by leasers on this level are now available through new connections in the combination. Developments on the second level alone are estimated in the report to add $1,500,000 value to the ore bodies available at the last report. On the third level the south drift, which is five feet wide, has been sampled for ninety feet and is said to average $150 to the ton. A new connection between the fourth and fifth levels shows continuous high grade ore which will be immediately available for smelter shipments.

The genral results in development in the Combination mine since taken over by the Consolidated is said to be an increase of the assured available ore of from two to three times the entire value shown at the time of purchase. Work on the Red Top continues and the high class of sulphides in the 160-foot level at the bottom of the oxidized zone makes the outlook most promising for new levels planned.

Sinking continues on the new Jumbo shaft No. 2, through which the Jumbo and new Clairmount veins will be worked. The January and February claims will be worked from the 120-foot level of the Combination. A good body of ore has been found recently on the February, of good size and grade.

The new three-compartment shaft on the Laguna is down 130 feet and will be continued to the 500-foot point before there is any lateral work. The Red Top and Laguna will both be developed from this shaft.

Both the Kalfus and Sheets leases are now at work after long suspension brought about through threatened litigation over the apex. The consolidation of the Mohawk and Combination eliminated the apex contest. Production on a large scale will begin immediately with consequent large returns in royalties to the owning company.

The McNaughton lease on Mohawk No. 2 has recently broken into a fine body of ore and several shipments have

NIPISSING TO PAY DIVIDEND

Official of Company Says There is No Ground for Belief That It Will be Passed--- Cobalt Central's Progress.

Cobalt, Ont., June 15.—William B. Thompson and E. P. Earl of the Nipissing company are in camp. Mr. Thompson says that there is no ground for believing that the Nipissing company will pass its dividend.

Locally John Josten has been elected treasurer of both the Nipissing Mines company and Nipissing Mining company, succeeding F. W. Holmes in both positions. Mr. Josten represents Samuel Newhouse.

A new shaft has been started on Nipissing property near the McKinley-Darragh line, where the recent rich strike was made, and has attained a depth of about twenty feet. When it has been sunk 100 feet drifting will commence to the eastward under a swamp toward Peterson lake.

The new vein, which has been named the Kendall, is apparently a continuation of No. 27. The ore runs rich there and will average several thousand ounces to the ton. Of the company's six shafts the deepest is down 125 feet.

No actual mining is being done on the Nipissing property and none will be done there this summer, the work contemplated being of the nature of development and exploration. However, enough ore is being extracted to pay current dividends and working expenses.

The working force has been increased to 370 men and this number is expected to be augumented before long. Nipissing is making shipments of a car every other day or so, but it is not anticipated that the heavy shipments will commence until regular mining operations are started. It has not yet been decided whether Nipissing will build its own smelter.

Shipments from Cobalt are increasing daily. Last fall hardly more than a dozen mines sent any ore out of the camp, while now that number has reached twenty and promises to be thirty by the middle of July. Nipissing itself is now in a position to ship a car of ore every day. Another property which will be numbered among the shippers of nickel will be sent from there next week. It is the intention at Cobalt Lake to sink for 200 feet and then drift under the lake.

Of late there has been some trouble

Society

THE fine weather has arrived exactly when most needed. Just such weather as this was essential for the delightful opening of the Duluth Boat club, which will be held this evening, and for which every plan was made except that of the weather, the provision for that favorable condition being left entirely with the fates, no committee having been appointed for the purpose. If the shine of the sun continues until 6 o'clock, for which there is every prospect, and the new moon does its duty at the crest of the hill as it has been doing for a night or two, there seems no earthly reason why the season of 1907 should not start with a brilliant opening reception. The informal program, which has been arranged, will close with a dancing party.

The plans of the boat club for this season are more attractive than at any time in its history. The branch club house at Spirit Lake is almost completed and within a week or two an informal housewarming will be held there. The main clubhouse, with a living room that can be used for a dancing hall and a dining room opening from that which can be used for a lounging room, a fire place, for ornament or very practical use, and with the cottages and dormitory for transient guests, the season there will doubtless be a most active one. The point chosen for the location of the clubhouse is most beautiful, with the view up the river or down, the slendor birch trees, and surrounding delights of nature. All arrangements have been made in the way of cooks, and the directors are now considering the advisability of securing a professional chaperone, of engaging manners and immeasurable discreetness. The accessibility of the clubhouse, the beauty of the surroundings and the boundless opportunity for days of unclouded joy is going to help make Duluth a harder place than ever to leave in the summer time.

These arrangements will probably be responsible for a record-breaking number of June weddings for next year. In regard to weddings, the present month is not at all backward. Each day the list is added unto and 1907 is doing its part to make June the month of weddings. Why this should be so has caused more than one person to wonder. People who dislike to be disturbed in their attitude toward existing things petulantly explain it by saying, "Because—as it was in the beginning, is now, and so on." That really explains very little. Wednesday is coming to be regarded as not the only day upon which one can conveniently swear away life, hope and the pursuit of happiness, and the past weeks have shown Monday, Tuesday and Thursday weddings as well as some on Saturday, that day which has previously been regarded as the day for no luck at all.

"The home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Cranmer of Sheshequin, Saturday, was the scene of one of June's pretty weddings, when the marriage of Max Albert Cranmer and Miss Ursula Joerns of Duluth, Minn., was solemnized. Just at high noon as the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march was heard, Rev. H. H. Graves, pastor of the Towanda Universalist church took his poistion just before the arch of June wild flowers, which separated the parlors. The groom, with his borther, Horace Cranmer of New York, entered, followed by the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, W. G. Joerns of Duluth. The bride was unattended. Only the family and nearest relatives were present. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served in the spacious dining room. The bride looked charmingly, in a white gown of point-de-espra, and carried a shower boquet of lillies of the valley. Late in the afternoon the bride and groom left on a short trip through the East. After June 15 they will be at home at Sheshequin."

Of much interest to Duluth society was the announcement of the engagement of Miss Edith Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Davidson of 1425 East Superior street to Thomas Stephen Darling of New York.

The interesting news was made known yesterday at a luncheon at which Mrs. Davidson entertained in honor of her daughter. The luncheon table and rooms were decorated in American beauty roses. The wedding will probably take place during the summer. Mr. Darling is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore S. Darling of New York.

Cupid has been dashing madly about the Normal school during the year and the ranks of the faculty will be depleted by the absence of three of the young women members who will become brides during the summer. Mr. Hawley and his bride will be at home in Chicago.

Miss Helen Haskett Mason, instructor of music at the school for three years, will leave for her home at Sullivan, Ind., and there the last week of June she will be married to Guy W. C. Ross of this city. Mr. Ross and his bride will leave for a six weeks' European trip and they will be at home in this city after September 1.

Marguerites were chosen as the flowers for the wedding of Miss Mildred Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cooper, and Charles A. Parker, which took place at noon today at the Endion Methodist church. The ceremony was a charmingly simple one, the little church being decorated in palms and the marguerites. The ushers were Messrs. Joseph Parker and Spencer Rumsey, and only the immediate friends were present for the ceremony. The service was read by Rev. J. W. Powell. Miss Cooper had as her matron of honor, Mrs. Hugo J. Kremer, and as the wedding music was played by Mrs. C. B. Miller, the matron of honor entered first, followed by the bride walking alone. They were met at the altar by Mr. Parker and his best man, Frank Parker, and the service was read. The bride wore a gown of white messaline silk trimmed in Irish crochet lace. She wore a veil, and carried a boquet of marguerites. Mrs. Kremer wore a gown of white chiffon trimmed in Cluny and valenciennes laces with white picture hat, and she carried yellow irises.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, 1213 East Superior street. The table decorations were in marguerites, and covers were laid for the immediate families.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker left for a short wedding trip. They will be at home after their return at 1418 East First street.

Among the out of town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Charles Lowell Butcher and Mrs. Hugh Bailey and Andrew S. Fulton of St. Paul and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Payson Smith of Minneapolis.

DULUTH WOMEN MAKE BIG CATCH OF ALBICORE

CATCH MADE BY TWO DULUTH WOMEN.

Duluth society was more than ordinarily quiet during the early spring months, and those left at home realized that most of the members were in the West, or South, or abroad. The above picture of Mrs. G. H. Mance and Mrs. L. W. Powell, formerly of this city, shows how at least a part of the sojourn was enjoyed by some of the winter visitors in the West. The fishing, which was enjoyed by the Duluth women, took place off the Catalina islands, in the Pacific, and the string of fish shown was the result of one morning's catch. The fish are albicore, and the entire catch weighed 300 pounds, the largest of the single fish weighing fifty pounds. The friends of the fisherwomen in this city will be interested in the result of one morning's sport.

Parisian Gowns for the Afternoon

PARISIAN AFTERNOON GOWN.

These stunning costumes are much worn in Paris now, and are so becoming to tall, slender women that they will probably be popular here during the coming summer. Both costume and wrap are made on such comparatively simple lines that they will be easy for the amateur dressmaker to follow. The coat is an especially smart model, and will do equally well for carriage use or for evening wear at mountain or seashore resorts.

Serviceable Linen Dress for Young Women.

YOUNG GIRL'S TROTTER SUIT
FROM JOSEPH MCCREERY & CO

Practical linen suits for girls' wear are now seen in the shops at most moderate prices. That illustrated above is of wood brown linen, with pleated skirt and smart boxy looking coat, relieved by collar and a slanted section set into the sleeve at lower edge of tan linen, though white may be had if preferred. The shoes and stockings are in the new shade of tan, while the jaunty hat is of brown linen bound with a ribbon and turned back from the face cowboy fashion, the whole suggesting a smart, lightweight, serviceable costume for school, country or seaside use.

The hat lends itself well to being bent into any kind of curves, so that all faces may be suited, and while brown linen is just now the favorite, it is not so to the exclusion of other shades, for deep pink, Alice blue and the natural ones are all represented with white, of course.

Though only $10 is asked for such a dress, the cost may be greatly lessened if the garment is made at home. Seven yards of linen at about seventy cents a yard will be sufficient and the cost will amount to only $5, and this for a good grade of material, some being priced as low as fifty cents. The findings, such as buttons, silk, collar and cuffs, may be purchased for $1 more perhaps, but with the money saved a pretty shirt waist suit could be secured. I saw such a smart one recently on an auburn haired girl of the athletic type. It was a fine mercerized gingham or chambray in a tiny water blue and white check, the skirt laid in deep pleats all around the waist and stitched almost to knee depth, each movement proclaiming the ample fulness springing from the pleats in a graceful and modest way. Usually, the athletic girls' skirts are rather narrow and skimpy about the feet, so that the flowing lines of the kilted skirt were especially pleasing.

The bodice was in the conventional shirt waist style, closed down center front under a box pleat edged with a knife pleated frill of the goods; the collar was white linen and the tie a bow of the goods. Sleeves three-quarter length ended in cuffs matching the box pleat, and the belt was of white linen. Such a cool, becoming toilet, so exclusive looking, too, with all its simplicity.

Another costume for the petite girl is a Peter Thompson suit of white duck. The pleated skirt, hemmed on the bottom, and the "slip over the head blouse" in strictly conventional model, only slightly open in the neck, will surely be a favorite. The collar of blue galatea, trimmed with three rows of narrow white India tape—the only really correct thing—and cuffs to match finished the straight one piece sleeve of the regulation army waist. A tie of soft black silk, arranged sailor fashion in a loop, and not an atom of frill to mar this decidedly stylish toilet. For the reason that blonde girls are restricted somewhat as to color, and so occasionally have a little difficulty in plannig successful frocks. I give these pretty dresses in detail, and I may also add, casually, that black, white, pearl and navy blue are the auburn haired girls' best colors.

Linen hats in sailor and cowboy shape are worn with such dresses as described, but for more conventional use straw sailors, with a ship's name, ribbon, will finish the sailor suit costume, the Breton sailor, simply trimmed, going well with a shirt waist frock. One of the striped scarfs in a material resembling voile, with a cream or ecru ground crossed with colored stripes, makes the smartest trimming for these broad brimmed sailor hats, adding a quill or not. Adorning a dark hat, these ribons are most effective, while for the lighter straws, such as mushroom, cream, and pale tan, the soft, broad messaline ribbon box pleated—a bow being the finish on the left side. Lingerie headgear and those for formal knots of velvet being interspersed by way of giving character.

A pretty and practical hat seen in a shop was a large flat, black horsehair, bent up to the crown and down again, then wired under the brim, so that it could be curved as found becoming to the wearer. Its ornamentation consisted of masses of ox eye daisies and brown eyed Susans, entirely covering the crown and partly the brim, knots of black velvet being added. This would be a good model to choose for an auburn haired girl; and another model, on exactly the same lines, but with different coloring, would be an equally good choice for the dark eyed maiden. This should be of Leghorn, with a fold of red velvet set on about an inch from the edge on the outside of the crown quite concealed by bunches of cherries and red velvet knots.

Small girls are wearing lingerie hats trimmed with soft ribbon and the lace straw braids adorned with flowers, shapes mostly large and flat; while for very small girls, use the satiny braid in the ready-to-wear type of hat is considered more stylish than the flower or ribbon bedecked ones. The rolling brim, large sailor, in cream satin straw, is simply decorated with a band of white ribbon, with long ends, in the back, the Continental shapes being finished with soft silk pompons, cords or some other equally plain trimmings.

For girls under seven, a hat of this description, and one of lingerie for best will be the better choice all around, at less cost, too, than the flower decked chapeau.

There is no marked change in babies' hats, the round crowned, turned up brim and the cocked hat shapes holding their own, with trimmings of ribbon rosettes, cords or silk pompons.

Smart Costumes for the Seashore

BATHING SUIT OF GOLDEN BROWN WITH EMBROIDERED PANEL FRONT
FROM JAMES MCCREERY & CO

Extremely effective are the new bathing suits and accessories that go to make up the sand or the seashore toilet of the smart girl.

Quite the newest idea is the embroidered bathing suit in taffeta silk incongruous as it may sound, the heavy kind being used, pust as one sees on jumpers and pongee gowns.

The princess style is, of course, represented. Pleats are responsible for the perfect fit about the waist line, the fullness springing from just below the hips, forming a full skirt. The materials are silk and fine mohair, at prices ranging from $12 to $25, including the separate bloomers.

Mohair, Sicilian and brilliantine are ever popular as materials for bathing suits, and the majority are really of this trio. In plain colors, black, navy blue and brown are to be had, then there are black and white, and blue and white checks, both broken and solid, dashes of black on white and vice versa, black backgrounds scattered with polka dots in white and also red, the latter most attractive, and navy blue mohairs woven with white dots. The plaid and checked mohairs are ribbon trimmed and cost from $12.50 to $15, the polka dot, finished with a little braid, being less expensive. Ten dollars and fifty cents will pay for a very pretty suit in such designs.

At a still lower price—$5 and $6—natty costumes in plain mohair, blues and blacks, are to be had, relieved by a bright braid.

While the bathing suits follow the lines of the conventional gowns closely this year—pleated skirt and shirt waist bodice—naturally the details are quite the same. In the silk costumes the neck is cut out in a small Dutch square, edged with a self band, and the sleeves and capes slashed their entire length. While these are newer than the puffs, I fancy they will lose both their shape and their effect once in the water, unless the slashed edges are connected by straps or lacings of some kind. They are not quite as pretty, to my thinking, as the puffs.

The mohairs are made with puff as well as bell sleeves, and the full lower portion of waist is supported by a pointed yoke, which is in turn cut out in a "V" back and front.

The trimmings besides the embroidery are black ribbon, plain black and plain blue flat braid, and fancy braid in black and white, and blue and white effects. The ribbons trim the checked suits, three rows bordering the skirt, the "V" neck and the edges of the sleeves. The plain braids are generally applied in a single pattern, while the narrow, fancy braids are arranged to suggest pipings more than anything else.

Polka dot stockings will be worn with suits in a plain solid color, hose of one shade being more effective if the suit is either check, plaid or in polka dot. High bathing shoes are the newest and come in black or in white with self lacings or in those of a contrasting color. Red lacings in white shoes are striking and pale blue threaded in black shoes are pretty. These will cost 98 cents a pair, and for those who prefer the low bathing shoe, the prices run from 55 cents upward.

Special Hot Weather Treatment for Oily Skins

By MARGARET MIXTER

With the beginning of warm weather facial treatment, to make the complexion its best, should be changed more or less from that followed throughout the winter. The chief difference lies in reducing the amount of fats or grease used, or in neutralizing them, for the common effect of heat is to drive to the surface the natural oils that during cold secrete themselves.

There is no minor affliction more unpleasant than an oily skin, and one who has it will do well to begin now to use astringents. These shrink the pores and dry the cuticle a little, thereby rendering the oils less in evidence. But in using any astringents regularly it must be borne in mind that if too frequently applied they will cause dryness that will immediately bring wrinkles. Also it must be remembered that some oils are essential for feeding the skin.

As no two skins are practically the same it is palpably impossible to put down set rules as to the quantity of neutralizing lotions that may be used, but it should not take many days for a woman to know from experimenting what the effect is, and she can usually change before any injury is done. The slightest feeling of dryness or "tightness" of the complexion means too much astringent, and creams should be resorted to immediately before harm is caused. The astringent may then be resumed, using less than at first.

While I decidedly advocate the use of this I must not be understood as banishing cold creams during warm weather. To the contrary, I consider them most essential, even to a woman with oily complexion. They are cleansing and generally beneficial, but whereas in cold weather they are allowed to remain on the face, during the summer they should be used merely for cleansing or massage, and immediately be removed by the use of good warm water and a finish of astringent tonic. For instance, I would be glad if women before going into the sun for any length of time would saturate their faces with cold cream, rubbing in well, and powdering. If properly put on this "make-up" does not show. Even for an oily skin I advocate this. On coming indoors, however, I would have soaking wet hot cloths applied until all the grease has been removed, and after wiping gently but thoroughly I would rub in an astringent and let it remain. This decidedly simple treatment would make the greatest possible difference in the complexion.

Two different formulas for astringents are sent by mail on request by complying with rules of the department, which simply means sending a stamped and self-addressed envelope. The tonic may be used many times throughout the day, wiped over, and allowed to remain on the face. The aromatic vinegar should be used in full strength only by those whose skin is excessively greasy, and may be warmed slightly to give the best results. All alcoholic preparations applied to the skin are efficacious when heated a little, for the higher temperature drives the ingredients deeper into the pores.

Another toilet vinegar that is particularly good for extremely oily flesh is made of six grams each of oil of bergamot and tincture of benzoin, five grams of oil of citron and fifteen grams of extract of lavender. Put these into three and half gills of white vinegar. This should stand for two weeks before using and then be strained through coarse brown paper. It is best applied by putting a teaspoonful into a saucer and diluting with three teaspoonfuls of rose water, mopping the face whenever desired, letting it dry on. This is softening and generally refining to the skin.

One of the simplest of astringents, as I have said so many times before, is tincture of benzoin, twelve drops put into a basin of water and used morning and night at all seasons.

THE HUMAN BELL.

Los Angeles Times: N. C. Goodwin, the actor, described at a dinner a Turkish bath that he once took in Mexico.

"My rubber," said Mr. Goodwin, "was a strong man, a very strong man. He laid me on a slab, and proded and kneaded and punched and hammered me in a most emphatic way.

"At the end, after I had gotten up, e came behind me before my sheet was adjusted, and gave me on the bare back four resounding whacks with the palm of his enormous hand.

"'What on earth did you do that for?' I panted, staggering.

"'No offense, boss,' said the man. 'It was only to let the office know I was ready for the next bather. You see, the bell's out of order in this room.'"

DEMAND UNTAINTED GOLD.

New York Press: I has become the vogue among fashionable women to discard the use of paper money. In spite of its greater weight only gold is permitted to find its way into the dainty portmonnaies with which the society woman arms herself for her trips abroad. Germs are no respecter of persons, and bills of high denominations are just as likely to suffer from the microbe carrying properties of paper as are their humbler $1 and $2 brethren. The uptown branches of banks have been experiencing a persistent run on gold recently from women. But the caution does not cease even here. Gold itself may be tainted, and before these prudent women will handle the coins that come from the banks their maids are called upon to put them through a strict process of sterilization.

Girls Wear Flat Rosettes in Hair

Flat ribbon rosettes of four loops and two ends that give a mushroom effect will be worn by small girls this summer. These new style bows are decidedly becoming to "tots," worn either on the side of the hair or on top. In making such a rosette a yard and a half of ribbon from three to four inches in width should be used. Begin to tie this simple hair ornament by making two loops, each about three inches in length; then when they are fastened securely, tie two more bows of the same length, leaving two ends. Flatten the bows with the fingers, pull out the loops and the rosette is finished.

D. M. & N. HAS COMPLETE EQUIPMENT FOR FIGHTING FIRE AT ITS ONEOTA ORE DOCKS

Even Duluth people who are familiar with practically everything connected with the maritime industry evince considerable interest in seeing a fire tug in action. The need of a fire tug owned and operated by the city has been a question before the city authorities for many years, and is advocated more and more every year by vessel and dock owners, but so far none has been secured by the city.

Although the city government has no fire tug of its own, there are two tugs owned by the Union Towing company in the Duluth harbor which are equipped with powerful fire pumps. These are the tugs American and the James R. Sinclair, while one or two others are equipped with less powerful fire pumps which will throw a good stream of water.

In the picture the tug America is shown at the Missabe ore docks, testing her pumps. The pumps have a capacity of throwing 3,000 gallons of water a minute, and the stream will reach easily over the tops of the ore docks. The America was brought up to the Head of the Lakes two years ago, and has been stationed at the ore docks ever since as a fire tug, and to do towing work just around the ore docks. The only time she leaves the docks is at the close of the season in the fall.

The America is a modern steel tug eighty feet in length, twenty-one foot beam and eleven feet deep. Besides her fire pumps which are said to be even more powerful even than those on the street fire engines, the America is equipped with a stand pipe and about 300 feet of hose. Since she has been stationed at the ore docks, two Americas have never had a chance to work out at a real fire, but she is always kept in readiness, and tests and drills are held regularly.

The America and the other tugs which are equipped with fire pumps have been a great help in the last few years in quenching fires which the city fire department are unable to reach with their apparatus. This is especially true of the lumber dock fires where it is practically impossible to reach the blaze with a land fire engine. In a number of cases had it not been for the fire tugs these fires might have burned themselves out, and great loss would have been the result.

Will Study Abroad.

Many Duluthians have watched with interest the progress of Theodor Fossum in his study of the piano during the few years of his residence in this city, and now that his plans for study abroad are perfected, his work will be watched with renewed interest. Mr. Fossum was a pupil for three years of Emil Liebling of Chicago, and he will continue his studies for two or three years with Leopold Godowsky of Berlin, and Moscowski at Paris. He will sail from New York early in August for the German capital. Mr. Fossum will probably be heard in recital before his departure.

To Sing "Butterfly" Selections.

One of the special feature of the concert at the Lyceum, at which Miss Rena Vivienne will sing Monday evening, June 24, will be selections from the opera, "Mme. Butterfly," in which she scored such a success during the last season. The concert is awaited with more than usual eagerness because of the disappointment so keenly felt here at the time the opera was sung, because of Miss Vivieenne's inability to sing the title role, owing to illness. The program has not yet been announced, but the concert promises to be one of the most delightful events of the summer.

Piano Recital.

The piano recital by pupils from the class of Theodor Fossum, which was presented last evening at Steinway hall was a program of well arranged numbers and a large audience listened to the recital with interest. Of special note was the first appearance of Miss Elsie Smith, who was heard for the first time in Duluth since her graduation from the Illinois College of Music. Her numbers were two movements from the Beethoven sonata op. 26 and "Ballade" by Reinecke and "Rhapsody," No. 6 by Liszt. The numbers were well played. The number by Alex Enna, tenor, from the Royal Opera of Copenhagen, was well received. The pupils who played were Robert Ely, Lillian Foulkes, Margaret Gilpin, Gladys Byerly, Agnes Sczymczah, Edna Cross, Helen McAlpin, Carl Cato, Tena Bird, Rudy Pearson, Lilla Sundquist, Panse Riches and Iva Evered.

JUDGE BRUIN TALKS ON NATURE FAKIRS

Bre'r Bear Discusses the Recent Animal Controversy and Tells Where He Stands.

It must be thoroughly understood that this story is a fable pure and simple, says the New York Sun. We do not wish to mislead either child or adult into the belief that a black bear, like Judge Bruin, our hero, does actually wear spectacles, or read ten-cent magazines, or take any part in a controversy such as is now raging between the president of the United States and the writers of so-called nature stories. We do not even profess to know the wilderness. The only day we ever spent in it was with a Sunday school picnic. But that is no reason why we should not write about it. Our mission is to bring man to a closer understanding of the creatures of the wild, and to help the creatures of the wild to understand man. It is a bit of a job. But if you have some imagination, plenty of paper and pen and ink and are not afraid of the Big Stick, there is no reason why you should not face the task and possibly accomplish it. On, then, to Judge Bruin and the mountain solitudes.

Judge Bruin had bathed and breakfasted. With him the bath is always the day's beginning. Rising from his spring bed of crisscrossed pine boughs, he lumbers to the door of his cave and, squinting one eye, measures the weather. Then on a few ponderous steps—he leaps into the clear cold pool. A splash! Up comes his head, and he blows and splutters. "ee!" he cries, "but it's cold!" and scrambles wildly for the bank. Standing there erect, he rubs himself with a towel of soft hemlock, brushes his hair, using the pool as a mirror, and with blood running full and warm, turns home to breakfast. Mrs. Bruin has that waiting. One thing she has learned in the years of wedded life, and that is that her lord, the minute he has bathed and dressed for the day, must have his two crow's eggs, roasted three minutes on a flat rock, and his calabash of cold water.

The judge, then, had bathed and breakfasted when we found him stretched out in the sun on a shelving rock on the mountain top. And a charming place it was to lounge in a bright spring morning. From his high perch he could look out on the wild and wooded hills and broad wooded plains stretching away further than the eye could reach. No sound disturbed him. To his ears came soothingly the chatter of the leaves, the playful squeals of his children as they rolled in the sand pile in the back yard, and the simple song his wife sang as she bustled herself with her household tasks. Surely the judge had a right to smile contentedly as he read, even though what he read was for-God-and-country magazine.

So when wo addressed him he was most gracious. He took off his spectacles and folded them in their case of hollow elder; he marked his place in the magazine with an oak leaf; he beckoned us to sit down on the boulder at his side.

"Of all the animals, Judge Bruin," we began, "you are the wisest."

"Because I move slowly," he returned, laughing, "and look the solemnest. It is the same with owls and the birds. Take the owl. Had you a weighty question of law you would go to him, sitting sound asleep on a treetop, before you would go to the crow that caws all day. The law of the wild is very simple; yet when the animals bring a case before me, do I settle it right off? No, sir! I make up my mind in the first five minutes. Then I listen to them argue for a week, give them a couple of long arguments, tell them to hand in briefs, hem and haw for a month, and file my decision. Why, if I decided it offhand, whether I were right or not, I would lose my standing on the bench. Solemnity, slowness, sapience, are three in one and one in three."

"Then you admit that you are recognized in the wild as an authority?"

"Undoubtedly," replied the judge, winking.

"And you can speak for the wild in this controversy over nature stories?"

"I have no desire to enter into a controversy with the president of the United States," answered the judge, with a show of deep feeling. "Nor do I wish myself publicly made a member of the Aanalas or Mme. Butterfly," in which she scored such a success during the last season. The concert is awaited with more than usual eagerness because of the disappointment so keenly felt here at the time the opera was sung, because of Miss Vivieenne's inability to sing the title role, owing to illness. The program has not yet been announced, but the concert promises to be one of the most delightful events of the summer.

"But surely your sympathies are with one side or the other?"

Judge Bruin was silent, thinking deeply, his gaze fastened on a cloud that floated above us. He sneezed. He apologized. Aroused thus, he said with great deliberation: "Naturally my sympathies are with the so-called nature writers. A matters little with us if they do spread stories among your children that a lynx brushes his tail after every meal. It is not pleasant to have strange people sneaking about your home taking pictures, studying you and criticising you and your family, but I would far rather have them around with a camera than a gun. Between Long with a camera and Roosevelt with a gun, I am for Long every time, even if he does make a mistake occasionally while Teddy is always right. I would a darned sight rather have Long teach the children in your schools that the appendicitis operation was common in my family than I would have Roosevelt shoot my oldest cub and present him as a specimen to the Smithsonion institution." The judge paused. "Ahem!" He wagged his head sagely. "I think you can say that that is the consensus of animal opinion. I am willing to speak thus far in behalf of my confreres."

"But President Roosevelt intimates—hints, as it were—that Mr. Long exaggerates; he does not believe that a woodcock having broken its leg would ever set it in a clay cast."

"Neither would he believe that the appendicitis operation is common among bears or that the lynx uses a cedar twig for a toothbrush. He would say such a story was absurd. Yet there are many things we animals do that are perfectly sane and sensible, that seem to you humans as incredible. A friend of mine, a perfectly respectable bear who lives across the gut, told me once that he knew a 'possum always sleeps in pajamas which he had made out of rabbit skins. Now, if I publicly made such a statement I should be branded by the First Naturalist in the Land as a nature fakir. So don't quote me as saying so. As I have said, I don't want to become involved in any controversy over the habits of 'possums with the president of the United States."

Judge Bruin picked up the magazine and opened it at the marked page. He smiled for about two feet as he eyed me over the top of his spectacles. "There is a tremendous question raised here by the government. Can a wolf kill a caribou by biting into his heart? The president says you might as well expect a dog to break a keg with his teeth. Mr. Long says he has seen the carcasses of caribou killed just that way. It is dreadful to think of thousands of your little school children all over the country being misled on that question. But who are we to believe? I asked a wolf friend of mine the other day, and he didn't settle it at all. He said he preferred to get a caribou by the throat, as it always suffered less and ribs were very hard on the teeth; he had never had the rib bridge to cross, but he believed that if he was hungry enough and couldn't dine any other way, he could chaw through all right. Now, if Mr. Long wrote to me to produce that wolf or quit giving out nature interviews, I could not do it, so I think I had best say as little as possible on this great caribou question which has upset the country so."

Judge Bruin snapped his jaw and frowned to show that he was finished. He began to fan himself with the magazine and seemed to find new and vital interest in the clouds. He could not hold this seeming indifference long, for he was met with a question which brought fire to his eyes and made him thump the rock with clenched paws and snort.

"Do you agree with the president that the pursuit of game, hunting and shooting develop manly, fearless men?"

"Do I?" reared Judge Bruin. He pointed below the rocks to his family. "Do you suppose if I gave those cubs of mine repeating rifles, so that they could stand off a hundred yards or more and plug at cats—do you suppose it would make them any more capable of standing up for a wrestle with a fellow of their own size? That's what I can't understand. Whenever I fall in with a party of you men armed with high-power rifles and you begin plugging at me at long range, it seems to me you are about the cheapest lot of sports I ever met. You don't give us any chance at all. And what fun is there in a game that is all one-sided? Hunting would be a good thing for men if they played it fair. I could develop President Roosevelt and all his kind wonderfully, if they would just lay down their guns, get off their horses and meet me right out in the open. We would have good square wrestling matches that would take nerve on both sides, and if they came out of them whole and then tackled another bear they would earn a right to go over the land making speeches about the strenuous life from the tail end of trains. But when he talks about developing human courage by banging at me with a Winchester, he makes me tired—very, very tired."

The judge lay silent for a moment. When he spoke again it was in a quieter tone, a melancholy mood. A black cloud screened the sun and we were in the deep shadow, and long study of these creatures of the wild has shown me that they are strangely susceptible to such external influences.

"Any way this controversy ends," said the venerable Bruin, "things look blue for the animals nowadays. The results are the same whether the nature writers write truth or fables. There is hardly any place we can go to to avoid being disturbed by truthful naturalists with guns and untruthful ones with cameras and note books. It isn't pleasant having a fellow with a loose tie and spectacles sitting in a tree watching your wife taking her morning bath, either. We have no privacy any more, even in our homes. All of us are suffering. The elk, I think, have been getting the worst of it lately. It's awful what they have to go through. First they have had a fraternal order named after them, and now they are having all their front teenth pulled to make settings for diamond badges for the Most Exalted Sir Peter Murphy and the Most Honorable Sir Michael O'Toole. I can't see that it makes much difference to the elk whether a wolf bites him in the neck or the ribs when manly men are lying around with guns and noble human Elks are offering good prices for the teeth of their dumb brothers. Perhaps I am a pessimist. It is hard to be cheerful always, particularly when there is no closed season, and I could be sure I would not make a splendid specimen to be presented to the Biological Survey, I should certainly go to Washington and give the president my views. But I guess it is safer not to butt in. Now excuse me while I take my morning nap." Judge Bruin dropped his head between his forepaws and closed his eyes. "Say," he said after a moment, "if you see the sun shining on a large pair of glasses anywhere around the woods just give me a dig, will you?"

BIJOU CHANGES HANDS.

Five Theaters on Nash Circuit Go to Sullivan-Considine.

The Bijou theater will be a member of a new circuit after this week. During the week a deal has been completed whereby five of the Nash theaters are transferred to the Sullivan-Considine people, and they will be incorporated in their circuit.

LABOR

REPORTS OF DELEGATES

Labor Union Representatives Tell of the State Convention.

Superintendent of Labor Bureau Talks to Trades Assembly.

A talk by Superintendent Levy of the state free employment bureaus and the report of what occurred at the recent meeting of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor, made by E. F. Peters and others, were features at the meeting of the trades and labor assembly in Kalamazoo hall last evening. After reviewing the beginning of the Minneapolis office, the first state bureau in Minnesota, Mr. Levy said:

"Much of the success of the Minneapolis office was due to the help extended us by organized labor. In two years we found employment for 25,000 people, and fully 15 per cent of these were union men, coming under the classification of skilled labor. A liberal percentage of the others belonged to organized labor, but not to the skilled trades.

"Representatives of organized labor in Minneapolis have been very friendly to us all along, and they have made it their custom to call us up whenever they found places where workmen were needed. I hope the same system will be followed by organized labor in Duluth. I suppose, with the scarcity of labor existing here, a stranger has to put up little argument in order to get a job if he has a trade. In practically all the skilled trades there seems to be a shortage of men. If you men will call us up at the free employment bureau just opened in Duluth whenever you know of a vacancy, you will find that we will supply good, reliable men for the places thus pointed out, and men from whom we can probably make good union material.

"Often strangers from small country towns, where there are no unions, come to a city like Duluth and seek work. They are not members of organized labor, but are willing to become such as soon as the advantages of organization are pointed out. We should give these men a chance. They will be glad to join if given an opportunity, and the free employment bureau is a place that may be depended upon to start them right. The Duluth bureau is in charge of an old union man, Mr. Walsh, whose reputation for honesty and square dealing is known to you all, and you know as well as I do that any man he sends to fill a position you tell him about will be all right.

"I take a good deal of pride in finding Duluth so well organized. It is a union town. There are not so many members of organized labor here as there are in St. Paul or Minneapolis, perhaps, but for all that Duluth is better organized. It is the best organized town in the state. That is why you were so successful in getting what you went after at the state convention."

The report of the happenings at the state convention was practically the same as the reports given in The Herald at the time of the big meeting. Mr. Peters and brother members told how the Duluth men, in the face of violent opposition, had been able to get their pet measure through the meeting, taking the virtual control of the State Federation away from the Twin Cities and placing it in the hands of the state at large, by providing for eight votes from the state at large, instead of one, as formerly, thus giving a majority in the affairs of the federation, for there are only of seven votes were in St. Paul and Minneapolis. The measure carried by a vote of 116 to 39. Minneapolis had 54 votes in the convention, St. Paul 28, and Duluth 21, so from this it will be seen that Duluth was able to win some of the Twin Cities' own votes. The state meeting was a very successful one all the way through.

J. Baker, who was chairman of a committee having to do with the plans of the Farmers' Equity association, which in plain terms is the Farmers' union, made an interesting report of the objects of the organization. The Farmers' union already counts its members by the million, and it is growing at a rapid rate. Several states are thoroughly organized, and others are in the course of organization. Mr. Baker expressed the opinion that the union would be a great success. He characterized it as being one of the greatest movements in union labor ever started. Farmers are enthusiastic over it, and are anxious to join. They insist on having the union label on everything they buy, thus greatly assisting organized labor of all sorts. Their potato sacks, egg crates, etc., will bear their own union label, which closely resembles that of the Typographical union. Eventually they plan on having commission houses of their own, which will sell directly to the consumer, saving middlemen's profits and getting a better price for the farmer and more reasonable price for the consumer at the same time.

WEEK IN STAGELAND.

AT THE LYCEUM

The Juvenile Bostonians Will Open a Return Engagement in Duluth Monday Evening---Some Facts Regarding the Life of These Clever Children.

The clever little children, known as the Juvenile Bostonians have been secured for a return engagement at the Lyceum theater, opening Monday evening, June 17. They have become very famous, yet a traveling opera company of children is no common, every day affair, and one is always curious to know what kind of children they really are who compose the company; where they come from; whether they have any mothers or fathers; and, if so, how it comes that their parents will allow them to be traveling over the country in this way, out from under the guidance and restraint of mother or father. All these questions are answered by a visit with these youngsters and their directress, Mrs. E. Lang. Three years ago Mrs. Lang was conducting a school in Seattle, Wash., for the instruction of children in music, dancing, elocution and dramatic art. As a part of their work, the pupils frequently gave entertainments of one kind and another. These entertainments were so successful that there developed a demand for them in neighboring towns and cities, and Mrs. Lang took a company of some of her best pupils and started out to satisfy the demand.

The fame of the little company spread, and they ventured farther and farther from home. Then came the idea of forming a permanent company to make regular tours the same as adult theatrical companies. In selecting a name for the company, the present was adapted, the character of the "Bostonians" being so well known that it was decided to couple with it the word "juvenile" and make it as a juvenile company what the Bostonians were as an adult company.

Most of the children are from the West. The average person would think the ordinary mother or father would not let a child go away from home and out with a traveling troupe, but Mrs. Lang is well known by their parents and that they will receive an education just as much as though they were in school, and a training they could not get at home. The children are given instructions in their usual lines and in some unusual lines. For instance, they are given the best books to read, and once each week they are all gathered together and each give some quotation or quotations from the book they have read, thus memorizing a bright quotation from some favorite author. Then the children are being given a most excellent training in music, the musical director, Ernest Wolff, being a very talented musician and instructor of great ability. But not the least of the education they are receiving is their training in manners and morals. These are points that are looked after very carefully. When the opportunity presents itself, they attend church services and many of the Catholic children have beads and crosses that have been given them by admirers who have met them at church. The children are under no binding contract —that is they are free to quit the company and go home any time they become home sick, but so much at home are they with Mrs. Lang and their young associates that few become homesick. One or two leaving the company does not seriously cripple it, although a different program is given every night in the week, practically every member knows every part in every opera given, so she can take any part required of her, and the members frequently change parts. The star of tonight may have an obscure part tomorrow night. Thus their training is very versatile and each one has an opportunity to show just what she can do. Though the company is complete at date, it is capable of elasticity, and Mrs. Lang is looking for more bright little folks to add to it.

Shepherds' Pictures.

Shepard's pictures will be given at the Lyceum Sunday evening. These entertainments at nominal prices continue to be a feature of the season's attractions. There is a change of program each week, and some of the most beautiful of the illustrated songs are given.

GREEN ROOM GOSSIP

Mrs. Leslie Carter, the greatest English speaking actress in the world, will play an engagement in this city at the Lyceum, appearing in the masterful drama "Du Barry" in which she achieved her most brilliant success. Mrs. Leslie Carter is easily first among the stars on the American stage today. There are few actresses, it is safe to say, who would attempt the powerful emotional roles in which she has so signally triumphed. The roles of Du Barry and Zaza are those with which her brilliant reputation is chiefly associated. When the Belasco play "Du Barry" was first seen in New York, where it was played for nearly two years, it was at once evident that the temperament of Mrs. Leslie Carter, varying from the lightest emotion to the most fiery passion, had found ready opportunities in the character and personality of the beautiful, well intentioned, but erratic favorite of Louis XV of France. Mrs. Carter, admirable artist that she proved herself to be, far surpassed anything she had ever done when she gave life anew to the historical charms and frailities of Du Barry.

"Du Barry" will be presented here upon the same scale that characterized its production during the two years' run in New York and Mrs. Leslie Carter will be surrounded by practically the same company that appeared with her during that period.

Viola Allen, who will make her first appearance in this city at the Lyceum, July 28, says in an interesting article on the disadvantages and pleasures of a Shakespearean production, that appeared in the Christmas number of the Theater.

"Contrast the difference in the possibilities of success that confront the woman who attempts Viola, Portia, Juliet or Ophelia, with 300 years of comparison and tradition to contend against as compared with those of one who appears before the same critics and the same audience in a play that is unknown, and in a character that can not excite comparison because her interpretation is the only one. Another unequal chance is found in the fact that while the modern play is written with the idea of telling a complete story in the two hours and a half allotted to an evening's entertainment in this busy age; with a Shakespearean drama it is necessary in order to conform to this custom to cut or omit passages and scenes that must necessarily detract from the perfect harmony of the printed work. But, on the other hand, to play the famous roles of Shakespeare is, of course, the ambition of every actor, man or woman. Speaking lines and enacting scenes that are immortal, revealing as they do boundless possibilities of thought and study, must ever be a labor of love to the sincere student; and even limited or indifferent success thus attained is dearer to the actress' heart than would be any amount of commendation acquired in a different field of endeavor. In this, as in most things, the pleasure is all the more keen, and the reward the greater because of difficulties encountered, and, in a measure, overcome."

AT THE BIJOU

Comedy Will be the Feature of Next Week's Bill of Vaudeville---Barry and Johnson in Travesty Sketch---New Indian March Song Hit.

Comedy will be seen at the Bijou next week in several different styles and characters. Heading a fine bill of vaudeville features are Barry and Johnson who presented a travesty that has been one of the season's best and biggest hits entitled "Held for Ransom," in which clever acting, special scenic effects, and electrical features make up one of the most pleasing acts in vaudeville.

Wilbur Held, who is no relation to Anna, is the principle single attraction. Mr. Held introduces a black face monologue with songs and parodies which is original and different from others. He is known as "The Souvenir Post Card Boy," wearing a complete costume made from post cards.

The Roys are also sketch artists of considerable note, introducing the latest popular song success during the action of their sketch.

"The Flexible Fredericks" will present a novelty in the gymnastic line. Frederick is unexcelled as a contortionist. He performs the most daring of feats with perfect ease.

As an added attraction, "The Frozo Trio" will be seen in one of the best singing, dancing and comedy acts ever seen on the Bijou stage. They come direct from New York where they have had a big run with great success.

An entire line of new moving picture subjects will be given daily at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Regular performances will be given Sunday afternoon and night.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Vacation is the Thespian's One Best Bet---Where Some of the Favorites Will While Away the Summer Months.

New York, June 15.—Officially this summer time. The thermometer as yet does not bear out the calendar, but it is summer time on Broadway and thoughts of actors, actresses, managers, playwrights and even publicity promoters turn to vacation work.

Here is how some theatrical vacations are being spent. Charles Frohman goes to London, as does Oscar Hammerstein. Both will employ their leisure in hunting up attractions with which to dazzle New York next season. Among others who will find rest and recreation on the other side of the water are David Belasco, Clyde Fitch, Wagenhals and Kemper, Henry W. Savage, David Warfield, William Gillette, William H. Crane, Arnold Daly, Grace George, Annie Russell, Mary Mannering, Dallas Welford, Fritzi Scheff, Kyrle Bellew, Dorothy Donnelly, Edgar Selwyn, Flora Zabelli, Helen Hale and Gertrude Quinlan.

The Pacific coast is good enough for Maude Adams for a while; then she will join the European colony. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Frohman (Margaret Illington) will enjoy the sea breezes at Far Rockaway.

Others who find the salt air invigorating and enticing are, John Drew, who goes to East Hampton, L. I.; Phoebe Davis, who will summer on the Southern California coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mantell have chosen Atlantic Highlands; Wilton Lackaye and family, Shelter Island; Francis Wilson, New Rochelle; Blanche Walsh, Great Neck, L. I.; Elsie Janis, Shelter Island; Robert Edeson, Saz Harbor; Edwin Breeze, Newfoundland; Henry Blossom, on his real yacht; George Broadhurst at Virginia Beach. Among those whom the country will attract are Blanche Bates, on a farm at Ossining; Hattie Williams, Westchester; Otis Skinner, Bryn Mawr, Penn.; Sam Bernard, the Adirondacks; Frances Starr, on the Canadian rivers fishing; Max Figman, on a ranch in California; Florence Roberts, Peekskill; James K. Hackett, the Canadian woods; Nance O'Neill, Tyngsboro, Mass.; Frank Daniels, Rye, N. Y.; Paul Armstrong, Annapolis, Md.; James Forbes, Mt. Alsy; Gus Edwards, Long Island.

These among many others expect to get no vacation: William Collier will continue to play, "Caught In the Rain," until he is stopped. Jack Barrymore will be in camp all summer with the "Boys of Company B." Sarah Truax will head a company of players at the Metropolitan opera house, St. Paul. Rose Stahl will play all summer at Powers's theater, Chicago. Jess Dandy will spend part of his summer vacation at the Jamestown exposition, with the New York Opera company. Victor Herbert will spend most of his summer with his band. Gustav Kerker will summer at the piano. George M. Cohan will be on the Aerial roof all summer. Alf Hayman will spend his summer keeping a fatherly eye on the Frohman interests. Lee Shubert will spend his vacation getting ready new shows. J. Fred Zimmerman will spend his vacation at his desk contemplating the vacation he has just had. Daniel Arthur will take his time writing a new play for Mazie Cahill. "Sam" Harris will watch the conduct of G. M. Cohan on the Aerial Roof Garden. Henry B. Morris will spend the summer in preparing attractions for the coming season.

May they all have a royal good time.

The roof gardens continue to defy the weather man and open for business.

Mme. Nazimova entered the final week of her highly successful engagement in "Comtesse Coquette" in the Bijou theater last Monday night. Public demands for the charming Russian actress in this brilliant comedy is such that the run easily could be extended to midsummer, but Mme. Nazimova wishes to take a long and complete rest before reopening the Bijou on Sept. 2.

In view of negotiations now being carried on between David Belasco and Beerbohm Tree, it is probable that the English actor will again visit this country with his entire company season after next, to appear at Mr. Belasco's new theater, the Stuyvesant. In that case New Yorkers will have an opportunity of seeing Mr. Tree in Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" and "Anthony and Cleopatra" and Stephen Phillips's "Herod," in addition to other new pieces in his repertory, and some older ones in which he has already been seen here. David Warfield will play in London at Mr. Tree's theater, "His Majesty's." Mr. Warfield's repertory will include "The Music Master," his earlier success; "The Auctioneer," and such other plays as he may produce next season at the Stuyvesant.

Edna May is married and away from London on a motor trip for a honeymoon. Unless this marriage should follow that of so many stage favorites, we have seen the last of this muchly-written-of young lady, who leaped into individual success in a night, and has managed to be heard of quite often since. The passing of the little Rochester girl from the limelight at least brings out one thing, and that a thorough illustration of what a potent thing personality is in stage success. By success is meant the temporary reign that falls to the lot of favorites like Edna May. This girl, the daughter of a letter carrier in Rochester, N. Y., less than ten years ago had never been heard of. In casting "The Belle of New York" George Lederer found a demure face in his Casino chorus, and thus Edna May became the Salvation Army lass in that memorable bit of musical tomfoolery. She leaped into a certain success at the outset, but it remained for London to claim the girl as great. The modest manner in which Edna May presented that character when the piece was taken to the British city established her there in a night. She has been kept steadily before the public on the other side ever since, and her star has never waned. In America she has never quite lived up to her foreign reputation, so that it is not surprising that she will make her home in England and that she should cherish that country. If you were to ask the average man of the theater what had contributed to Edna May's enormous success he could no more tell you than he could account for half the stars we have upon the stage today. What ability she possessed was very limited, and she had absolutely no versatility. But she had a certain distinction of manner and a personality, coupled with prettiness, that combined well, and these, when properly handled, lifted her in a matter of theatrical success head and shoulders over many girls who were decidedly better off in the way of stage equipment.

In eight seasons the present Mrs. Lewisohn assuredly had a goodly portion of London playing homage to her ability or charm, or whatever you may call it. She may not have been great, but she was successful, and has wisely retired in the very heyday of her popularity.

Henry Arthur Jones's new play, "The Galilean," will likely be produced in London next by Klaw & Erlanger. It is said by Marc Klaw, who has just read it, to be the most interesting play that this popular English author has written. The story concerns a young preacher of modern life, who teaches the simple religion of the Galilean and works out a social problem based upon the idea that no sinner is beyond redemption. According to Mr. Klaw the play is a very strong one and will create a profound impression.

Cyril Scott's engagement in "The Prince Chap" closed on Saturday night at the Majestic theater, the occasion marking the 200th performance in New York of Edward Peple's decidedly successful comedy, which has been presented at no less than five different theaters in the metropolis. Mr. Scott made a very apt speech as an epilogue to the play, suggesting in part his plans for the future. He said that he had appeared for the last time in New York as the Prince Chap, and that when he returned to this city it would be in a new play by William and Cecil DeMille, which is now in course of construction. While few pertinent particulars of the DeMille play have been given, it is understood that the motif of the piece deals with capital and labor, among which discussing the current problems of finance and the social revolution now in progress, it is based upon a romance of heart interest, and may be styled a love story of today. The synopsis of the new play has been finally passed upon and the two dramatists are well ahead with their work. It may be necessary while preparations are being made for the production of the DeMille piece at the beginning of next season to give a few more performances of "The Prince Chap" on the road, the demand from out of town managers for Mr. Peple's play being as persistent as ever. When Mr. Scott finally retires from "The Prince Chap" another company will be organized to continue the tour.

The play which George Ade long ago promised to write for Charles Frohman will be used next season for William H. Crane's medium. Ade is putting the finishing touches on the comedy-drama at Hazledon farm, Brook, Ind. The piece will have its first performance in Chicago.

Somebody asked George M. Cohan one time why he continually "roasted" the town of Providence in his plays, songs, etc.

"I was born there," was the reply of the complacent young man who writes manages and vaudevilles himself.

Whatever may be the feeling of Mr. Cohan toward the town that he was born in he certainly has no grudge against those responsible for his advent. His new show was produced Monday night at the Aerial Roof garden. In accordance with what might almost be dignified as tradition, mater familias and pater familias (otherwise known as Helen F. Cohan and Jerry J. Cohan) had the star parts. Mr. Cohan may be the egotist that many believe him, but where is there any other son who writes a better part for his father than he does for himself?

One feature Mr. Cohan has kept for himself, and that is an exit in the second act that is quite as startling as any of his prose poems on himself or his philipics against Providence, R. I. Probably no one else could do it, as it consists in getting across the stage and out a door in double quick time on his back. It sounds simple, but any ambitious or jealous experimenter should see Mr. Cohan do it before making the attempt. It was the biggest laugh in the piece.

"The Honeymooners" is planned as the summer show for the Aerial Roof garden, and it will fill the bill. It is founded on one of the author's previous efforts, "Running for Office," and is very frankly entitled a "summer song show." That is a pleasant relief from the "musical cocktail" disguise, for "The Honeymooners" is really only what it pretends to be, a "song show."

There is something like a plot, of course, but it is lost in the whirlwind of dancing and singing that makes up the evening. There is nothing slow about the show, and it is never dull. The choruses are exceedingly well drilled and the dancing is all good, but, of course, in this the author excels.

Mr. Cohan may give his mother and his father star points, but he dances all around them.

The weakness of the show is in the singing of some of the principals. William Keough, James Manning and Miss Leona Anderson all had songs, to be musical part of which they were quite indifferent. Miss Gertrude Hoffman, however, very pretty and chic, was clever, both in her dancing and singing, and in her imitations suggested the greater talent of Elsie Janis. It would be a pleasure, however, if imitators would let us forget the vulgar evolutions of Elfie Fay.

Then, of course, there was the author, the composer, the manager and the nominal star—Mr. Cohan. He was called before the audience a number of times and responded by shaking hands pleasantly with himself, to the great glee of the audience.

At the academy of music Monday night the Royal Italian Opera company presented "Carmen" to a large audience. The cast was made up of French and Italian singers who have attained considerable success throughout European countries.

The opera was well rendered and well received. Mme. Baldini made an appealing Carmen. The company is under the direction of Gaetano d'Amato, who has been experimenting in grand opera at popular prices for years.

Returning from their conquest of London, E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe will open an engagement of two weeks at the Academy of Music on Monday night. This engagement will also mark the farewell together to Shakespeare of the two stars, whose partnership is dissolved at the end of this season. Next season Miss Marlowe and Mr. Sothern will head different companies. Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe's London engagement did more for a transatlantic appreciation of American art than any event which happened for many years. Before leaving the United States some people pointed out that Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe must not be too confident of success with their Shakespearean performances in London, because that was the city in which both public and players knew how Shakespeare ought to be played, and lived up to all Shakespearean traditions in a far more strict manner than did the people in the United States. Curious to state, it was, however, with their performances of Shakespearean plays that the two American stars met with the approval both of the London critics and playgoers.

Miss Marlowe and Mr. Sothern were also honored with many social attentions; receptions have been given for them by Lady Paget, Lady Cunard, Princess Hatfeld, the American ambassador, and Prince Alexander of Battenberg, the duke of Connaught, Mrs. Humphrey Ward, Lord Burnham, the proprietor of the Daily Telegraph; Mrs. Bryce, the sister of James Bryce, the English ambassador to the United States; Miss Constance Smedley, the founder of the Lyceum club; Beerbohm Tree, George Alexander and Sir Charles Wyndham.

The first week of their engagement at the Academy of Music will be devoted to "Romeo and Juliet," the second will be divided between "Hamlet" and "Twelfth Night." These were the three plays that were received with the greatest favor by the English public. Each of them was announced for only two performances, but it was found necessary to repeat "Romeo and Juliet" and "Hamlet" eight times, and "Twelfth Night" six times. The news of the London triumph went over the continent as well, and, owing to the "grosgartige" reports sent by their London correspondent to such papers as the Berliner Tageblatt and Local Anzeiger, offers were made to Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe by Director Otto Bahm of the Lessing, Frederick Bonn of the Berliner theater and Herr Hans Gregor of the Opera Comique, to give their Shakespearean performances in the German capital. Definite arrangements had also been made for the use of the theater at Elsinore for one performance of "Hamlet" to be done the night before the opening of the Berlin season, and tickets had been sold for this performance. All these arrangements, however, had to be canceled at a moment's notice when the offer for a two weeks' engagement at the Academy of Music from Mr. Gilmore was received.

Henry Woodruff closed his season in "Brown of Harvard" at the Studebaker theater in Chicago Saturday night. He appeared in the play 600 times.

Woodruff sailed for London Tuesday for a conference with H. V. Esmond in reference to a comedy for his use at a later date. The present plan is to continue dramatically the career of the Imp, the character assumed by Woodruff in Mr. Esmond's "When We Were Twenty-One."

A most interesting production announced for next season is "The Christian Pilgrim," which Maurice Campbell will put on for Henrietta Crosman in the early fall. This is an adaptation for the stage of John Bunyan's immortal allegory, "The Pilgrim's Progress." The adaptation was made by James MacArthur of Harper's, who has done some good work. In this he is said to have laid out the scenes quite cleverly so that "The Christian Pilgrim" is more like a play than an allegory. In any event, Miss Crosman and Mr. Campbell have spent almost two years preparing for this production and it will be more than interesting to see what their artistic efforts bring forth.

Harold Bauer, the famous pianist who created such a stir in this country on his last American tour, two years ago, is likely to be heard in Duluth in the course of the season—probably in February or March Loudon Charlton, the New York impressario, under whose management Bauer has been for several seasons, has written members of a local musical organization with that end in view, and there is every likelihood of the pending negotiations being satisfactorily concluded. Bauer's standing in the musical world is quite as high as that of any foreign pianist who will visit America next season. Each American tour has increased his hold on public favor—and this without sensational exploitation methods so frequently employed to stimulate interest in visiting musicians. Since his last visit to this country, the pianist has been touring Germany, France and England. His home is in Paris.

The ensuing year will prove the most busy through which the Belasco forces, under the direction of their artistic head, have ever passed. In August Mr. Belasco's new Stuyvesant theater will be ready for occupancy, and then will begin the removal of the executive offices, which will be transferred from the Belasco theater to the new playhouse on Forty-fourth street.

About that time rehearsals will begin for the new play in which David Warfield will open the Stuyvesant. A half-dozen special companies meanwhile will be organized and rehearsed in "The Darling of the Gods," "The Heart of Maryland," "The Music Master," "The Rose of the Rancho," "Sweet Kitty Bellairs" and "The Girl of the Golden West." The Juvenile Bostonians Will Open a Return Engagement in Duluth Monday Evening---Some Facts Regarding the Life of These Clever Children.

The clever little children, known as the Juvenile Bostonians have been secured for a return engagement at the Lyceum theater, opening Monday evening, June 17. They have become very famous, yet a traveling opera company of children is no common, every day affair, and one is always curious to know what kind of children they really are who compose the company; where they come from; whether they have any mothers or fathers; and, if so, how it comes that their parents will allow them to be traveling over the country in this way, out from under the guidance and restraint of mother or father. All these questions are answered by a visit with these youngsters and their directress, Mrs. E. Lang. Three years ago Mrs. Lang was conducting a school in Seattle, Wash., for the instruction of children in music, dancing, elocution and dramatic art. As a part of their work, the pupils frequently gave entertainments of one kind and another. These entertainments were so successful that there developed a demand for them in neighboring towns and cities, and Mrs. Lang took a company of some of her best pupils and started out to satisfy the demand.

The fame of the little company spread, and they ventured farther and farther from home. Then came the idea of forming a permanent company to make regular tours the same as adult theatrical companies. In selecting a name for the company, the present was adapted, the character of the "Bostonians" being so well known that it was decided to couple with it the word "juvenile" and make it as a juvenile company what the Bostonians were as an adult company.

Most of the children are from the West. The average person would think the ordinary mother or father would not let a child go away from home and out with a traveling troupe, but Mrs. Lang is well known by their parents and that they will receive an education just as much as though they were in school, and a training they could not get at home. The children are given instructions in their usual lines and in some unusual lines. For instance, they are given the best books to read, and once each week they are all gathered together and each give some quotation or quotations from the book they have read, thus memorizing a bright quotation from some favorite author. Then the children are being given a most excellent training in music, the musical director, Ernest Wolff, being a very talented musician and instructor of great ability. But not the least of the education they are receiving is their training in manners and morals. These are points that are looked after very carefully. When the opportunity presents itself, they attend church services and many of the Catholic children have beads and crosses that have been given them by admirers who have met them at church. The children are under no binding contract—that is they are free to quit the company and go home any time they become home sick, but so much at home are they with Mrs. Lang and their young associates that few become homesick. One or two leaving the company does not seriously cripple it, although a different program is given every night in the week, practically every member knows every part in every opera given, so she can take any part required of her, and the members frequently change parts. The star of tonight may have an obscure part tomorrow night. Thus their training is very versatile and each one has an opportunity to show just what she can do. Though the company is complete at date, it is capable of elasticity, and Mrs. Lang is looking for more bright little folks to add to it.

Shepherds' Pictures.

Shepard's pictures will be given at the Lyceum Sunday evening. These entertainments at nominal prices continue to be a feature of the season's attractions. There is a change of program each week, and some of the most beautiful of the illustrated songs are given.

GREEN ROOM GOSSIP

Mrs. Leslie Carter, the greatest English speaking actress in the world, will play an engagement in this city at the Lyceum, appearing in the masterful drama "Du Barry" in which she achieved her most brilliant success. Mrs. Leslie Carter is easily first among the stars on the American stage today. There are few actresses, it is safe to say, who would attempt the powerful emotional roles in which she has so signally triumphed. The roles of Du Barry and Zaza are those with which her brilliant reputation is chiefly associated. When the Belasco play "Du Barry" was first seen in New York, where it was played for nearly two years, it was at once evident that the temperament of Mrs. Leslie Carter, varying from the lightest emotion to the most fiery passion, had found ready opportunities in the character and personality of the beautiful, well intentioned, but erratic favorite of Louis XV of France. Mrs. Carter, admirable artist that she proved herself to be, far surpassed anything she had ever done when she gave life anew to the historical charms and frailties of Du Barry.

"Du Barry" will be presented here upon the same scale that characterized its production during the two years' run in New York and Mrs. Leslie Carter will be surrounded by practically the same company that appeared with her during that period.

Viola Allen, who will make her first appearance in this city at the Lyceum, July 28, says in an interesting account of the disadvantages and pleasures of a Shakespearean production, that appeared in the Christmas number of the Theater.

"Contrast the difference in the possibilities of success that confront the woman who attempts Viola, Portia, Juliet or Ophelia, with 300 years of comparison and tradition to contend against as compared with those of one who appears before the same critics and the same audience in a play that is unknown, and in a character that can not excite comparison because her interpretation is the only one. Another unequal chance is found in the fact that while the modern play is written with the idea of telling a complete story in the two hours and a half allotted to an evening's entertainment in this busy age; with a Shakespearean drama it is necessary in order to conform to this custom to cut or omit passages and scenes that must necessarily detract from the perfect harmony of the printed work. But, on the other hand, to play the famous roles of Shakespeare is, of course, the ambition of every actor, man or woman. Speaking lines and enacting scenes that are immortal, revealing as they do boundless possibilities of thought and study, must ever be a labor of love to the sincere student; and even limited or indifferent success thus attained is dearer to the actress' heart than would be any amount of commendation acquired in a different field of endeavor. In this, as in most things, the pleasure is all the more keen, and the reward the greater because of difficulties encountered, and, in a measure, overcome."

AT THE BIJOU

Comedy Will be the Feature of Next Week's Bill of Vaudeville---Barry and Johnson in Travesty Sketch---New Indian March Song Hit.

Comedy will be seen at the Bijou next week in several different styles and characters. Heading a fine bill of vaudeville features are Barry and Johnson who presented a travesty that has been one of the season's best and biggest hits entitled "Held for Ransom," in which clever acting, special scenic effects, and electrical features make up one of the most pleasing acts in vaudeville.

Wilbur Held, who is no relation to Anna, is the principle single attraction. Mr. Held introduces a black face monologue with songs and parodies which is original and different from others. He is known as "The Souvenir Post Card Boy," wearing a complete costume made from post cards.

"The Flexible Fredericks" will present a novelty in the gymnastic line. Frederick is unexcelled as a contortionist. He performs the most daring of feats with perfect ease.

As an added attraction, "The Frozo Trio" will be seen in one of the best singing, dancing and comedy acts ever seen on the Bijou stage. They come direct from New York where they have had a big run with great success.

An entire line of new moving picture subjects will be seen. Matinees are given daily at 2:45, and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Regular performances will be given Sunday afternoon and night.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Vacation is the Thespian's One Best Bet---Where Some of the Favorites Will While Away the Summer Months.

New York, June 15.—Officially this summer time. The thermometer as yet does not bear out the calendar, but it is summer time on Broadway and thoughts of actors, actresses, managers, playwrights and even publicity promoters turn to vacation work.

Here is how some theatrical vacations are being spent. Charles Frohman goes to London, as does Oscar Hammerstein. Both will employ their leisure in hunting up attractions with which to dazzle New York next season. Among others who will find rest and recreation on the other side of the water are David Belasco, Clyde Fitch, Wagenhals and Kemper, Henry W. Savage, David Warfield, William Gillette, William H. Crane, Arnold Daly, Grace George, Annie Russell, Mary Mannering, Dallas Welford, Fritzi Scheff, Kyrle Bellew, Dorothy Donnelly, Edgar Selwyn, Flora Zabelli, Helen Hale and Gertrude Quinlan.

The Pacific coast is good enough for Maude Adams for a while; then she will join the European colony. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Frohman (Margaret Illington) will enjoy the sea breezes at Far Rockaway.

Others who find the salt air invigorating and enticing are, John Drew, who goes to East Hampton, L. I.; Phoebe Davis, who will summer on the Southern California coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mantell have chosen Atlantic Highlands; Wilton Lackaye and family, Shelter Island; Francis Wilson, New Rochelle; Blanche Walsh, Great Neck, L. I.; Elsie Janis, Shelter Island; Robert Edeson, Sag Harbor; Edwin Breeze, Newfoundland; Henry Blossom, on his real yacht; George Broadhurst at Virginia Beach. Among those whom the country will attract are Blanche Bates, on a farm at Ossining; Hattie Williams, Westchester; Otis Skinner, Bryn Mawr, Penn.; Sam Bernard, the Adirondacks; Frances Starr, on the Canadian rivers fishing; Max Figman, on a ranch in California; Florence Roberts, Peekskills; James K. Hackett, the Canadian woods; Nance O'Neill, Tyngsboro, Mass.; Frank Daniels, Rye, N. Y.; Paul Armstrong, Annapolis, Md.; James Forbes, Mt. Alsy; Gus Edwards, Long Island.

These among many others expect to get no vacation: William Collier will continue to play "Caught in the Rain," until he is stopped. Jack Barrymore will be in camp all summer with the "Boys of Company B." Sarah Truax will head a company of players at the Metropolitan opera house, St. Paul. Rose Stahl will play all summer at Powers's theater, Chicago. Jess Dandy will spend part of his summer vacation at the Jamestown exposition, with the New York Opera company. Victor Herbert will spend most of his summer with his band. Gustav Kerker will summer at the piano. George M. Cohan will be on the Aerial roof all summer. Alf Hayman will spend his summer keeping a fatherly eye on the Frohman interests. Lee Shubert will spend his vacation getting ready new shows. J. Fred Zimmerman will spend his vacation at his desk contemplating the vacation he has just had. Daniel Arthur will take his time writing a new play for Marie Cahill. "Sam" Harris will watch the conduct of G. M. Cohan on the Aerial Roof Garden. Henry B. Morris will spend the summer in preparing attractions for the coming season.

May they all have a royal good time.

In view of negotiations now being carried on between David Belasco and Beerbohm Tree, it is probable that the English actor will again visit this country with his entire company season after next, to appear at Mr. Belasco's new theater, the Stuyvesant. In that case New Yorkers will have an opportunity of seeing Mr. Tree in Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" and "Anthony and Cleopatra" and Stephen Phillips's "Herod." In addition to other new pieces in his repertory, and some older ones in which he has already been seen here, David Warfield will play in London at Mr. Tree's theater, "His Majesty's." Mr. Warfield's repertory will include "The Music Master," his earlier success; "The Auctioneer," and such other plays as he may produce next season at the Stuyvesant.

It is founded on one of the author's previous efforts, "Running for Office," and is very frankly entitled a "summer song show." That is a pleasant relief from the "musical comedy" disguise, for "The Honeymooners" is really only what it pretends to be, a "song show."

There is something like a plot, of course, but it is lost in the whirlwind of dancing and singing that makes up the evening. There is nothing slow about the show, and it is never dull. The choruses are exceedingly well drilled and the dancing is all good, but, of course, in this the author excels.

Mr. Cohan may give his mother and his father star points, but he dances all around them.

The weakness of the show is in the singing of some of the principals. William Keough, James Manning and Miss Leona Anderson all had songs, to be musical part of which they were quite indifferent. Miss Gertrude Hoffman, however, very pretty and chic, was clever, both in her dancing and singing, and in her imitations suggested the greater talent of Elsie Janis. It would be a pleasure, however, if imitators would let us forget the vulgar evolutions of Elfie Fay.

Then, of course, there was the author, the composer, the manager and the nominal star—Mr. Cohan. He was called before the audience a number of times and responded by shaking hands pleasantly with himself, to the great glee of the audience.

At the academy of music Monday night the Royal Italian Opera company presented "Carmen" to a large audience. The cast was made up of French and Italian singers who have attained considerable success throughout European countries.

The opera was well rendered and well received. Mme. Baldini made an appealing Carmen. The company is under the direction of Gaetano d'Amato, who has been experimenting in grand opera at popular prices for years.

Returning from their conquest of London, E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe will open an engagement of two weeks at the Academy of Music on Monday night. This engagement will also mark the farewell together to Shakespeare of the two stars, whose partnership is dissolved at the end of this season. Next season Miss Marlowe and Mr. Sothern will head different companies. Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe's London engagement did more for a transatlantic appreciation of American art than any event which happened for many years. Before leaving the United States some people pointed out that Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe must not be too confident of success with their Shakespearean performances in London, because that was the city in which both public and players knew how Shakespeare ought to be played, and lived up to all Shakespearean traditions in a far more strict manner than did the people in the United States. Curious to state, it was, however, with their performances of Shakespearean plays that the two American stars met with the approval both of the London critics and playgoers.

Miss Marlowe and Mr. Sothern were also honored with many social attentions; receptions have been given for them by Lady Paget, Lady Cunard, Princess Hatfeld, the American ambassador, and Prince Alexander of Battenberg, the duke of Connaught, Mrs. Humphrey Ward, Lord Burnham, the proprietor of the Daily Telegraph; Mrs. Bryce, the sister of James Bryce, the English ambassador to the United States; Miss Constance Smedley, the founder of the Lyceum club; Beerbohm Tree, George Alexander and Sir Charles Wyndham.

The first week of their engagement at the Academy of Music will be devoted to "Romeo and Juliet," the second will be divided between "Hamlet" and "Twelfth Night." These were the three plays that were received with the greatest favor by the English public. Each of them was announced for only two performances, but it was found necessary to repeat "Romeo and Juliet" and "Hamlet" eight times, and "Twelfth Night" six times. The news of the London triumph went over the continent as well, and, owing to the "grossartige" reports sent by their London correspondent to such papers as the Berliner Tageblatt and Lokal Anzeiger, offers were made to Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe by Director Otto Bahm of the Lessing, Frederick Bonn of the Berliner theater and Herr Hans Gregor of the Opera Comique, to give their Shakespearean performances in the German capital. Definite arrangements had also been made for the use of the theater at Elsinore for one performance of "Hamlet" to be done the night before the opening of the Berlin season, and tickets had been sold for this performance. All these arrangements, however, had to be canceled at a moment's notice when the offer for a two weeks' engagement at the Academy of Music from Mr. Gilmore was received.

Henry Woodruff closed his season in "Brown of Harvard" at the Studebaker theater in Chicago Saturday night. He appeared in the play 600 times.

Woodruff sailed for London Tuesday for a conference with H. V. Esmond in reference to a comedy for his use at a later date. The present plan is to continue dramatically the career of the imp, the character assumed by Woodruff in Mr. Esmond's "When We Were Twenty-One."

A most interesting production announced for next season is "The Christian Pilgrim," which Maurice Campbell will put on for Henrietta Crosman in the early fall. This is an adaptation for the stage of John Bunyan's immortal allegory, "The Pilgrim's Progress." The adaptation was made by James Mac-Arthur of Harper's, who has done some good work. In this he is said to have laid out the scenes quite cleverly so that "The Christian Pilgrim" is more like a play than an allegory. In any event, Miss Crosman and Mr. Campbell have spent almost two years preparing for this production and it will be more than interesting to see what their artistic efforts bring forth.

Harold Bauer, the famous pianist who created such a stir in this country on his last American tour, two years ago, is likely to be heard in Duluth in the course of the season—probably in February or March. Loudon Charlton, the New York impressario, under whose management Bauer has been for several seasons, has written members of a local musical organization with that end in view, and there is every likelihood of the pending negotiations being satisfactorily concluded. Bauer's standing in the musical world is quite as high as that of any foreign pianist who will visit America next season. Each American tour has increased his hold on public favor—and this without sensational exploitation methods so frequently employed to stimulate interest in visiting musicians. Since his last visit to this country, the pianist has been touring Germany, France and England. His home is in Paris.

Belasco's special company in "The Girl of the Golden West," which was everywhere received with the warmest approval by the local critics, has wound up its successful season in the West. It will go again on tour next year, while Blanche Bates plays the California drama in the larger centers.

The press agent of the Majestic theater says that Mrs. Shelby (Miss Charlotte Lambert) is such a realistic actress that as a result of her hasing Simon Legree (Mr. Bostwick) in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the actor is black and blue. Good.

The ensuing year will prove the most busy through which the Belasco forces, under the direction of their artistic head, have ever passed. In August Mr. Belasco's new Stuyvesant theater will be ready for occupancy, and then will begin the removal of the executive offices, which will be transferred from the Belasco theater to the new playhouse on Forty-fourth street.

About that time rehearsals will begin for the new play in which David Warfield will open the Stuyvesant. A half-dozen special companies meanwhile will be organized and rehearsed in "The Darling of the Gods," "The Heart of Maryland," "The Music Master," "The Rose of the Rancho," "Sweet Kitty Bellairs" and "The Girl of the Golden West." will be sent on tour to present the popular Belasco successes in the smaller cities and towns throughout the country. Miss Frances Starr will reopen the season at the Belasco theater in "The Rose of the Rancho" in August and continue until October or November, when the company goes to fill its out-of-town dates in the large cities to the close of the theatrical year, making room for a new production in which Charlotte Walker will doubtless make her first appearance under Belasco's management. No information so far is available as to the title, character or authorship of this play, though it will have the well-known Belasco touch, whether Belasco is the sole author or not. If, in addition to the extensive programme, Mr. Belasco should realize the prediction of many rumors regarding the series of extra Shakespearean matinees for Warfield, Blanche Bates and Frances Starr, it is conceivable that the usual vacations will be materially curtailed around Belasco's headquarters during the dog days.

A TWENTIETH CENTURY MUSEUM OF ART

New Building in Boston to Be Unlike Any Other in World---Plans Are Result of Years of Experience.

Boston, June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Museum of Fine Arts in Boston has begun the erection of a new building near the recently opened Harvard Medical school. Its present site on Copley square, between the public library and Trinity church, is not large enough for its needs, and high buildings near by have cut off light from the galleries and are a standing menace of fire. Twelve acres have been secured on the border of one of Boston's parks, within a few minutes' ride by trolley from the present site. The situation is an ideal one, accessible, beautiful, safe, exempt from noise and dust, and offering ample room for growth. The building now to be erected is less than half of a comprehensive scheme for a great museum to cover the whole area, with wide lawns separating it from the surrounding streets, and great garden courts and other open spaces admitting ample light and air to the interior.

The plans for the structure have just been made public, and contain features which bid fair to revolutionize our ideas of what a public museum of fine arts should be. The projectors of the scheme give good reasons for the innovations they propose. The keynote of them all is the idea of efficient public service. Boston is not proposing to add one more to the existing number of inert storehouses of pictures and statues. Its aim is to make the treasures it possesses tell upon the public by actively helping every one to get all the pleasure and profit from them that any one can. This clearly defined purpose—to distribute among many the benefits that works of art now yield to few—is the secret of the new building.

The first essential is to attract many visitors. Public museums have now been in existence long enough to show that, as at present administered, most people will not visit them because they find them tedious when they do. Yet there is a museum in Stockholm, devoted to Swedish history, whose yearly attendance is more than double the population of the city. This remarkable institution, the Skansen Museum, consists principally of a number of small buildings gathered in a park, and visiting it is like reading a novel in chapters or seeing a play in acts. There is never much to see at once, and before anything more can be seen, an opportunity offers for recreation or rest. The application of this idea, as far as may be, to a museum of fine art is the first and fundamental novelty of the new building in Boston. Its motto is—divide and conquer. It is not to be one great agglomeration of art works with no resting place for the visitor anywhere, but a group of small, distinct museums under one roof. Each of these contains the art of one race or civilization, and is separated from every other by stately halls, quiet corriders or loggias with outlooks.

A museum that has escaped being confusing or tedious has already paved the way to public interest in its treasures of imaginative genius. Its visitors will increase, and will be in a mood of mind and body to admire and learn from what they see. But much can be done to aid them if only those who themselves have admired and learned from the same things can be the companions of their visits. The provision for this aid is the second important novelty in the new museum. A large part of the ground floor of the building is devoted to purposes of instruction, the exhibition galleries mainly occupying the first floor. Below, offices, libraries and lecture rooms for the curators of departments and their audiences, and objects installed conveniently for study. Above, galleries for general exhibition purposes. Both floors are to be freely accessible to the public.

It is difficult to believe that the third chief feature of the new museum building in Boston is really a novelty. The light in all the rooms will be so ample and so well directed that every object in every part will be perfectly seen. Yet there is hardly another museum building of which this is true. The matter is complex and difficult to arrange, and warned by its own experience and that of others, the Boston Museum erected a temporary structure on its new site, where for two years experiments in the lighting of galleries were conducted. The outcome of these has been a determining factor in all the plans and arrangements for the new building.

Such are the main features of the new type of museum of art which is about to be erected in Boston. On both sides of the ocean these plans will be eagerly welcomed, for the long preliminary studies which have been devoted to them are widely known and have been followed with great expectation. Whether, as has been suggested abroad, the new Boston Museum will have determined the dominant future type of museums of fine art, the future alone can tell. This at least is certain, that established in such a building and instructed by the studies which have brought it forth, the museum in Boston will enter the fifth decade of its life equipped as no other perhaps has ever been for the high public office of guardian and interpreter of the art of the past.

Although the first museum of art in America, it has attained its present international prominence in less than forty years. Incorporated in 1870, its building was opened in 1876 and has since been twice enlarged. For twenty years it was too poor to make any important acquisitions by purchase; but liberal gifts and bequests since received from many sources have enabled the museum to gather collections, which, with others permanently loaned, are in some departments unrivaled in America and in some branches the foremost in the world. The collections of original works of Greek art has no rival on this continent and is famous in Europe. It contains a marble head of Aphrodite that is one of the most beautiful representations of the goddess in existence, a terra cotta head from Roman times whose like does not exist in any other museum, and many other works of no less beauty and interest. The collection of early American paintings includes the standard likenesses of Washington and Mrs. Washington, the "Athenaeum" portraits by Gilbert Stuart. The collections of Chinese and Japanese art in its keep are equalled only in the imperial museums of Japan, containing among a host of other treasures, paintings long antedating the awakening of art on European soil in mediaeval times.

The visitors to these rich collections number a quarter of a million annually. A bi-monthly Bulletin, a Handbook, and many other publications illustrating the collections, contribute efficiently to their comprehension. Lectures on the collections delivered by members of the staff and others have been regularly in progress for several years. The Museum maintains a library of art and a photograph collection, and through a technical school is active in promoting instruction in the fine arts, the second purpose named in its charter.

To all these activities a great impulse will be given by the removal to the new building. Ground was broken in April, and by the summer of 1909 the Museum hopes to see its collections safely and appropriately installed in a building which shall prove externally an ornament to the city and a delight within to every visitor.

LETTER CARRIERS OF MINNESOTA WILL HOLD CONVENTION IN DULUTH

Fifteen Branch Organizations Will Send Delegates to Meeting.

The Duluth Association of Letter Carriers will, a week from today, entertain about fifty delegates from all parts of the state at the annual convention of the state association. Practically all of the branch associations throughout Minnesota will be represented at the meeting, and it will be of considerable importance to the letter carriers all over the state.

Ever since its organization the Duluth association has been one of the biggest in numbers in the state and has exerted much influence at the annual convention. Here in the city it has been the main factor in the social doings of the carriers who are members of the organization. A big annual ball is given during the winter time of every year and there are other social doings.

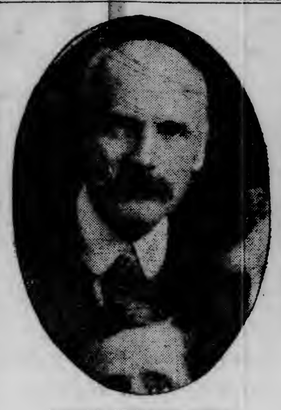

Aside from the social side the association acts for the members in much the same way that a labor union acts for its members. Any grievance any of the members have against the government or its agents are first taken up at the meetings of the association and discussed thoroughly before any action is taken. Another branch association exists in Wisconsin and the two taken together give the Head of the Lakes a very strong organization of carriers.

One of the most important duties which will be accomplished at the convention to be held next Saturday will be the election of officers. The officers at present are Paul T. Mucke, president, Fergus falls; Charles W. Schwerin, vice president, Minneapolis; M. F. Donahue, secretary, Minneapolis, and C. F. Jenks, treasurer, Stillwater. It is likely that an attempt will be made by the Duluth delegates to land one of the offices for a Duluth man.

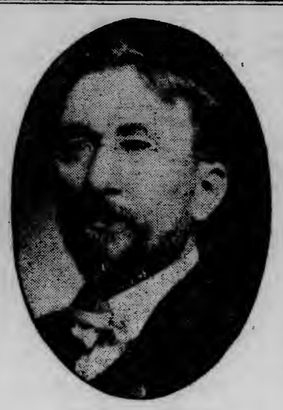

Altogether there are about fifteen branch organizations throughout Minnesota which will send delegates to the convention in this city. The state association is an auxiliary organization to the national association of letter carriers and several of the national officers will attend the meeting besides those from the state.

The local committee on arrangements, of which the members are R. G. Malcolm, chairman; J. S. Kriz, and C. F. Starkey, are hard at work making the preparations for the entertainment of the delegates during the convention and they expect to have everything in readiness and the program completed several days before the date of the convention.

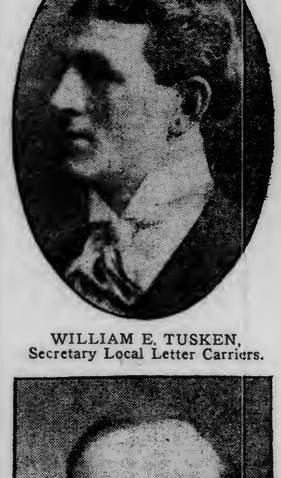

They have not yet actually made up the program for the convention day but it is known that besides the regular business sessions of the association there will be a ride around the boulevard followed by a banquet at the St. Louis hotel at which all of the carriers at the Head of the Lakes will attend besides the delegates. On Sunday, June 23, the delegates will be given a trip about the harbor and up the river in launches and will afterwards be banqueted by the members of the Superior branch at Superior.

GAME PARROT FIGHTS RATTLER

Life of Mistress is in Danger and the Bird Puts the Reptile Out of Business.

A friend of mine named Andrews, living a few miles from Bond, Texas, has a large parrot that's something of a wonder in a way, not exactly as a talker, although Pedro—that's Polly's name—can say things in English, sing in French and curse like a guacho in Spanish, but as a fighter, and Pedro is on record as being the only representative of his species ever joining combat with a rattlesnake, says the New Orleans Picayune.

Morgan Witherspoon, a cattleman from Western Texas, in the city with a carload of beeves destined for the local slaughter house, sat in front of a saloon near the New Orleans Butchers' Co-Operative Abattoir, several days ago, and being in the mood for yarn spinning, Mr. Witherspoon rid himself of a story out of the ordinary for the benefit of those near him.

"The parrot was a young, mean-tempered little thing at the time Andrews bought him from a Mexican," Mr. Witherspoon started his story, "but after a while, when the bird began to know folks about the place he manifested a better disposition, didn't squawk outrageously and ruffle up his feathers when any one approached, and showed no disposition to use that powerful beak of his.

"Pedro was a wise bird—what parrot isn't?—and from the children he readily learned to talk quite a lot. Mrs. Andrews, who was a Creole lady from Louisiana, had a mighty fine voice, and of an evening when the family was gathered in the sitting room after the day's work was over, she would sit at the piano and sing songs in French. One of these songs was an easy little ditty, and Pedro, sitting on his roost in his big tin cage in the kitchen, instead of going to sleep as orderly parrots should do with the advance of night, put his faculties to work to master the ditty, and one day he astonished the good people by bawling off the first line of the opening stanza in a voice that sounded like flies grating against each other.

"Mrs. Andrews, greatly amused, devoted much of her spare time to teaching Pedro some more of the song. Pedro's favorite perch during the day in fair weather was the railing of the side gallery overlooking the poultry yard, and Mrs. Andrews, in her spare moments, would take her chair, place it close to the bird, and, seating herself, sing in low, soft voice.

"Pedro seemed to appreciate that his mistress's vocal efforts were being made in his behalf, and, arching his head to one side, and ruffling his neck feathers—a sign indicating either pleasure or anger in his species—he would listen attentively clucking to himself the while.

"Pedro, in less than a month, learned the whole four lines of the first verse, and he would sing them, too, when Mrs. Andrews would coax him with a chicken bone, and everybody thought Pedro was just too smart for anything. But if Pedro's artistic temperament was developed by Mrs. Andrews, all that was bad in him was brought to the surface by Miguel, one of the Mexican hired men. At lunch hour, when the family was in the dining room at dinner, and Miguel was finished with his repast, the greaser would go to the yard, stand near the gallery and give vent to the foulest Spanish oaths he could lay tongue to.

"You can do more swearing and cursing in Spanish than any other language; it has Billingsgate beaten a mile, and what Miguel said to that bird wouldn't make nice reading for a Sunday school paper. Parrots are quick to learn anything, and especially attentive are they when bad things are being handed them. It was lucky for Mrs. Andrews that she hadn't mastered Spanish, for had her education extended that far I reckon she'd have thought that Pedro was only fit for some reform school or jail, where obscene and vulgar prisoners are locked up. If the lady couldn't talk Spanish her husband could, and he followed Pedro's discourse beyond the 'Caramba,' and the 'carrajo' stage with increasing astonishment. Andrews knew where to lay the blame, and, hunting up Miguel, he kicked the Mexican all around the yard, without telling him why.

"Miguel, rubbing the sore spots, and muttering maledictions under his breath, saddled his mule and rode away from the Andrews place, but that wasn't the last of him by any manner of means, as the sequel will show. He was to appear in a few days, seeking a desparate vengeance, a fiendish plan which was to be frustrated by Pedro, the parrot.

"One afternoon—it was the third day after Miguel, the Mexican, had been kicked off the place—Mrs. Andrews left the sitting room and went to the gallery to sing to Pedro. Lying in the yard, close to the steps, she noticed a wooden box, about two feet long and a foot deep. A piece of thick wire netting set in a frame of wood, which had doubtless been the cover of the box, was near at hand. Mrs. Andrews was puzzled at the presence of the box in the yard, but her attention was diverted from further contemplation of it by the wild screaming of the parrot. The parrot was on his perch on the railing, but he appeared to be in a state of great excitement. His feathers were ruffled, his head was thrust forward on a short neck, his wings were extended and his shrill screams followed screams from his wide-opened beaked mouth.

"Mrs. Andrews was just in the act of ascending the three steps which led from the yard to the gallery when the door of an unused room facing the landing was softly opened and the villainous face of Miguel, the Mexican, showed in the aperture. Mrs. Andrews, seeing the man, and reading murder in the expression of his features, rushed past him on the gallery to seek refuge behind the barred door of her room, but Miguel was swifter than she, and, overtaking her, seized her by the arm and drew her toward him.

"The Mexican, dragging the screaming women to the door of the unused room, suddenly threw her with great violence to the floor, and then, reaching behind him, picked up a sack, beneath the rough folds of which some object was moving, and, swing the sack from side to side, shook out a three-foot rattlesnake. Miguel was quick to bound from the gallery to the yard, and the snake, wriggling two inches from Mrs. Andrews's feet, in a wild rage threw itself in a coil and thrust forward a flat ugly head, from the scaly jaws of which protruded a quivering split tongue. And while the head described short half circles, which always come before the fatal cast, the pointed tail of the reptile showed from the rear of the folds, and, violently agitated, gave off a peculiar burring noise from the rattles.

Mrs. Andrew lost one of her slippers in the struggle,and the sole of her foot, covered only by a thin stocking, offered an easy target for those venomous fangs. The lady sat up and gazed at the snake, and, held powerless in the chains of a benumbing terror, was unable to move. The snake darted its head back and forth, and gradually its scaly head on an ever lengthening neck came closer to the foot, until finally it was only a few inches from it. The rattler drew back its head, arched its neck to one side, and, opening wide its jaws, was just in the act of making its terrible cast, when the unforseen happened.

'Pedro, who had been swaying wildly on his perch with ruffled feathers and open back, and screeching the while, flapped his wings, depressed his head and flew like a streak of lightning toward the snake. The parrot landed on top of the scaly folds and instinctly sought to grasp the reptile's neck in his strong bill. The point of the beak instead, caught the snake on the head and the lower structure of the mouth sunk with crushing force into the rattler's neck. The snake, in a paroxysm of pain, wriggled and twisted and Pedro was thrown some feet away; but the bird, with a squawk of anger, quickly recovered himself, and, with wings extended and beak open, he hobbled on his uncertain legs toward the writhing terror.

"The diversion created by the parrot's attack had given Mrs. Andrews opportunity to regain her presence of mind, and the danger temporarily removed, the lady, springing to her feet, seized the handy broom and smashed and battered the snake with it and brushed the belligerent Pedro back to keep the parrot from coming into proximity of the deadly fangs. The snake was soon out of the fighting, the broom having broken his back in several places, and Mrs. Andrews swept the still wriginig form from the gallery to the yard. Pedro showed an inclination to follow the snake, but Mrs. Andrews stooped and gather her brave champion into the folds of her apron and fled with him into the house.

"Miguel, during the strange and thrilling scene, had stood in the yard close to where the box in which he had brought the snake lay, contemplating, with devilish satisfaction, the peril of his enemy's wife, but when the parrot and the rattler was subsequently routed, with an oath he fled, and, leaping onto the back of his mule, which was hidden in a copse of trees a short distance from the house, galloped away.

"The terror of these awful moments had so unnerved Mrs. Andrews that she went into hysterics, and later fell into a dead faint. When Andrews came in an hour later he found his wife lying senseless on the floor near the bed, with the parrot, still showing excitement, perched on a stool at her side. Andrews, thoroughly alarmed, knelt by his wife, raised her in his arms and called to her, but, although she answered not, Pedro screeched and squawked, cursed, flapped his wings and cried 'mamma! mamma! mamma!' several times. Mr. Andrews, laying his wife on the bed, ran to the yard to get some water from the well, and at the foot of the gallery steps he saw the dead rattlesnake. He at once came to the conclusion that the reptile had bitted his wife and that she was dying from the effects of the poison. Returning to the house he secured a big bottle of whisky, and going to the bed, tried to force some of the liquor down his wife's throat. The smell of the whisky and the fire in the few drops that had passed her lips revived Mrs. Andrews, and, choking and spluttering, she sat up on the bed and vented a scream of fear, her disturbed mind still the prey of phantasms. Andrews quieted her as best he could, and a few minutes later, the wife becoming calm, told her story:

"In a few hours the whole country side was mounted and on a mad chase after the Mexican. They overtook the greaser, who was riding a very slow mule, and bang! bang! bang! there was one scoundrel less in the world.

"This is a strang story, but it is true, nevertheless, and those of you gentlemen who are acquainted with parrots and appreciate their natural pugnacity will not be surprised that Pedro, divining that his mistress was in danger, flew to her assistance."

will be sent on tour to present the popular Belasco successes in the smaller cities and towns throughout the country. Miss Frances Starr will reopen the season at the Belasco theater in "The Rose of the Rancho" in August and continue until October or November, when the company goes to fill its out-of-town dates in the large cities to the close of the theatrical year, making room for a new production in which Charlotte Walker will doubtless make her first appearance under Belasco's management. No information so far is available as to the title, character or authorship of this play, though it will have the well-known Belasco touch, whether Belasco is the sole author or not. If, in addition to the extensive programme, Mr. Belasco should realize the prediction of many rumors regarding the series of extra Shakespearean matinees for Warfield, Blanche Bates and Frances Starr, it is conceivable that the usual vacations will be materially curtailed around Belasco's headquarters during the dog days.

A TWENTIETH CENTURY MUSEUM OF ART

New Building in Boston to Be Unlike Any Other in World---Plans Are Result of Years of Experience.

Boston, June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Museum of Fine Arts in Boston has begun the erection of a new building near the recently opened Harvard Medical school. Its present site on Copley square, between the public library and Trinity church, is not large enough for its needs, and high buildings near by have cut off light from the galleries and are a standing menace of fire. Twelve acres have been secured on the border of one of Boston's parks, within a few minutes' ride by trolley from the present site. The situation is an ideal one, accessible, beautiful, safe, exempt from noise and dust, and offering ample room for growth. The building now to be erected is less than half of a comprehensive scheme for a great museum to cover the whole area, with wide lawns separating it from the surrounding streets, and great garden courts and other open spaces admitting ample light and air to the interior.

The plans for the structure have just been made public, and contain features which bid fair to revolutionize our ideas of what a public museum of fine arts should be. The projectors of the scheme give good reasons for the innovations they propose. The keynote of them all is the idea of efficient public service. Boston is not proposing to add one more to the existing number of inert storehouses of pictures and statues. Its aim is to make the treasures it possesses tell upon the public by actively helping every one to get all the pleasure and profit from them that any one can. This clearly defined purpose—to distribute among many the benefits that works of art now yield to few—is the secret of the new building.

The first essential is to attract many visitors. Public museums have now been in existence long enough to show that, as at present administered, most people will not visit them because they find them tedious when they do. Yet there is a museum in Stockholm, devoted to Swedish history, whose yearly attendance is more than double the population of the city. This remarkable institution, the Skansen Museum, consists principally of a number of small buildings gathered in a park, and visiting it is like reading a novel in chapters or seeing a play in acts. There is never much to see at once, and before anything more can be seen, an opportunity offers for recreation or rest. The application of this idea, as far as may be, to a museum of fine art is the first and fundamental novelty of the new building in Boston. Its motto is—divide and conquer. It is not to be one great agglomeration of art works with no resting place for the visitor anywhere, but a group of small, distinct museums under one roof. Each of these contains the art of one race or civilization, and is separated from every other by stately halls, quiet corridors or loggias with outlooks.

A museum that has escaped being confusing or tedious has already paved the way to public interest in its treasures of imaginative genius. Its visitors will increase and will be in a mood of mind and body to admire and learn from what they see. But much can be done to aid them if only those who themselves have admired and learned from the same things can be the companions of their visits. The provision for this aid is the second important novelty in the new museum. A large part of the ground floor of the building is devoted to purposes of instruction, the exhibition galleries mainly occupying the first floor. Below, offices, libraries and lecture rooms for the curators of departments and their audiences, and objects installed conveniently for study. Above, galleries for general exhibition purposes. Both floors are to be freely accessible to the public.

It is difficult to believe that the third chief feature of the new museum building in Boston is really a novelty. The light in all the rooms will be so ample and so well directed that every object in every part will be perfectly seen. Yet there is hardly another museum building of which this is true. The matter is complex and difficult to arrange, and warned by its own experience and that of others, the Boston Museum erected a temporary structure on its new site, where for two years experiments in the lighting of galleries were conducted. The outcome of these has been a determining factor in all the plans and arrangements for the new building.

Such are the main features of the new type of museum of art which is about to be erected in Boston. On both sides of the ocean these plans will be eagerly welcomed, for the long preliminary studies which have been devoted to them are widely known and have been followed with great expectation. Whether, as has been suggested abroad, the new Boston Museum will have determined the dominant future type of museums of fine art, the future alone can tell. This at least is certain, that established in such a building and instructed by the studies which have brought it forth, the museum in Boston will enter the fifth decade of its life equipped as no other perhaps has ever been for the high public office of guardian and interpreter of the art of the past.

Although the first museum of art in America, it has attained its present international prominence in less than forty years. Incorporated in 1870, its building was opened in 1876 and has since been twice enlarged. For twenty years it was too poor to make any important acquisitions by purchase; but liberal gifts and bequests since received from many sources have enabled the museum to gather collections, which, with others permanently loaned, are in some departments unrivaled in America and in some branches the foremost in the world. The collections of original works of Greek art has no rival on this continent and is famous in Europe. It contains a marble head of Aphrodite that is one of the most beautiful representations of the goddess in existence, a terra cotta head from Roman times whose like does not exist in any other museum, and many other works of no less beauty and interest. The collection of early American paintings includes the standard likenesses of Washington and Mrs. Washington, the "Athenaeum" portraits by Gilbert Stuart. The collections of Chinese and Japanese art in its keep are equalled only in the imperial museums of Japan, containing among a host of other treasures, paintings long antedating the awakening of art on European soil in mediaeval times.

The visitors to these rich collections number a quarter of a million annually. A bi-monthly Bulletin, a Handbook, and many other publications illustrating the collections, contribute efficiently to their comprehension. Lectures on the collections delivered by members of the staff and others have been regularly in progress for several years. The Museum maintains a library of art and a photograph collection, and through a technical school is active in promoting instruction in the fine arts, the second purpose named in its charter.

To all these activities a great impulse will be given by the removal to the new building. Ground was broken in April, and by the summer of 1909 the Museum hopes to see its collections safely and appropriately installed in a building which shall prove externally an ornament to the city and a delight within to every visitor.

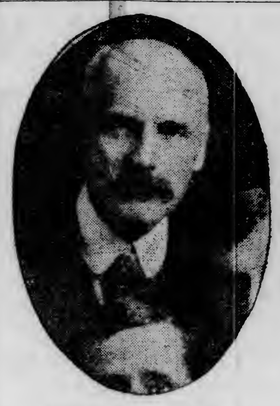

LETTER CARRIERS OF MINNESOTA WILL HOLD CONVENTION IN DULUTH

Fifteen Branch Organizations Will Send Delegates to Meeting.

The Duluth Association of Letter Carriers will, a week from today, entertain about fifty delegates from all parts of the state at the annual convention of the state association. Practically all of the branch associations throughout Minnesota will be represented at the meeting, and it will be of considerable importance to the letter carriers all over the state.

Ever since its organization the Duluth association has been one of the biggest in numbers in the state and has exerted much influence at the annual convention. Here in the city it has been the main factor in the social doings of the carriers who are members of the organization. A big annual ball is given during the winter time of every year and there are other social doings. Aside from the social side the association acts for the members in much the same way that a labor union acts for its members. Any grievance any of the members have against the government or its agents are first taken up at the meetings of the association and discussed thoroughly before any action is taken. Another branch association exists in Wisconsin and the two taken together give the Head of the Lakes a very strong organization of carriers.

LOUIS CHRISTENSEN,
President Local Branch.

C. W. SCHWERIN.
Vice President State Association.

WILLIAM E. TUSKEN,
Secretary Local Letter Carriers.

P. G. MALCOLM,
Of Committee on Arrangements.

J. D. HOLLAND,
National President, Who Is Expected Here.

C. F. STARKEY,
Of Committee on Arrangements.

J. S. KRIZ,
Of Committee on Arrangements.

One of the most important duties which will be accomplished at the convention to be held next Saturday will be the election of officers. The officers at present are Paul T. Mucke, president, Fergus falls; Charles W. Schwerin, vice president, Minneapolis; M. F. Donahue, secretary, Minneapolis, and C. F. Jenks, treasurer, Stillwater. It is likely that an attempt will be made by the Duluth delegates to land one of the offices for a Duluth man.

Altogether there are about fifteen branch organizations throughout Minnesota which will send delegates to the convention in this city. The state association is an auxiliary organization to the national association of letter carriers and several of the national officers will attend the meeting besides those from the state.

The local committee on arrangements, of which the members are R. G. Malcolm, chairman; J. S. Kriz, and C. F. Starkey, are hard at work making the preparations for the entertainment of the delegates during the convention and they expect to have everything in readiness and the program completed several days before the date of the convention.

They have not yet actually made up the program for the convention day but it is known that besides the regular business sessions of the association there will be a ride around the boulevard followed by a banquet at the St. Louis hotel at which all of the carriers at the Head of the Lakes will attend besides the delegates. On Sunday, June 23, the delegates will be given a trip about the harbor and up the river in launches and will afterwards be banqueted by the members of the Superior branch at Superior.

GAME PARROT FIGHTS RATTLER

Life of Mistress is in Danger and the Bird Puts the Reptile Out of Business.

A friend of mine named Andrews, living a few miles from Bond, Texas, has a large parrot that's something of a wonder in a way, not exactly as a talker, although Pedro—that's Polly's name—can say things in English, sing in French and curse like a guacho in Spanish, but as a fighter, and Pedro is on record as being the only representative of his species ever joining combat with a rattlesnake, says the New Orleans Picayune.

Morgan Witherspoon, a cattleman from Western Texas, in the city with a carload of beeves destined for the local slaughter house, sat in front of a saloon near the New Orleans Butchers' Co-Operative Abattoir, several days ago, and being in the mood for yarn spinning, Mr. Witherspoon rid himself of a story out of the ordinary for the benefit of those near him.

"The parrot was a young, mean-tempered little thing at the time Andrews bought him from a Mexican,' Mr. Witherspoon started his story, "but after a while, when the bird began to know folks about the place he manifested a better disposition, didn't squawk outrageously and ruffle up his feathers when any one approached, and showed no disposition to use that powerful beak of his.

"Pedro was a wise bird—what parrot isn't?—and from the children he readily learned to talk quite a lot. Mrs. Andrews, who was a Creole lady from Louisiana, had a mighty fine voice, and of an evening when the family was gathered in the sitting room after the day's work was over, she would sit at the piano and sing songs in French. One of these songs was an easy little ditty, and Pedro, sitting on his roost in his big tin cage in the kitchen, instead of going to sleep as orderly parrots should do with the advance of night, put his faculties to work to master the ditty, and one day he astonished the good people by bawling off the first line of the opening stanza in a voice that sounded like flies grating against each other.

"Mrs. Andrews, greatly amused, devoted much of her spare time to teaching Pedro some more of the song. Pedro's favorite perch during the day in fair weather was the railing of the side gallery overlooking the poultry yard, and Mrs. Andrews, in her spare moments, would take her chair, place it close to the bird, and, seating herself, sing in low, soft voice.

"Pedro seemed to appreciate that his mistress's vocal efforts were being made in his behalf, and, arching his head to one side, and ruffling his neck feathers—a sign indicating either pleasure or anger in his species—he would listen attentively clucking to himself the while.

"Pedro, in less than a month, learned the whole four lines of the first verse, and he would sing them, too, when Mrs. Andrews would coax him with a chicken bone, and everybody thought Pedro was just too smart for anything. But if Pedro's artistic temperament was developed by Mrs. Andrews, all that was bad in him was brought to the surface by Miguel, one of the Mexican hired men. At lunch hour, when the family was in the dining room at dinner, and Miguel was finished with his repast, the greaser would go to the yard, stand near the gallery and give vent to the foulest Spanish oaths he could lay tongue to.

"You can do more swearing and cursing in Spanish than any other language; it has Billingsgate beaten a mile, and what Miguel said to that bird wouldn't make nice reading for a Sunday school paper. Parrots are quick to learn anything, and especially attentive are they when bad things are being handed them. It was lucky for Mrs. Andrews that she hadn't mastered Spanish, for had her education extended that far I reckon she'd have thought that Pedro was only fit for some reform school or jail, where obscene and vulgar prisoners are locked up. If the lady couldn't talk Spanish her husband could, and he followed Pedro's discourse beyond the 'Caramba,' and the 'carrajo' stage with increasing astonishment. Andrews knew where to lay the blame, and, hunting up Miguel, he kicked the Mexican all around the yard, without telling him why.

"Miguel, rubbing the sore spots, and muttering maledictions under his breath, saddled his mule and rode away from the Andrews place, but that wasn't the last of him by any manner of means, as the sequel will show. He was to appear in a few days, seeking a desparate vengeance, a fiendish plan which was to be frustrated by Pedro, the parrot.

"One afternoon—it was the third day after Miguel, the Mexican, had been kicked off the place—Mrs. Andrews left the sitting room and went to the gallery to sing to Pedro. Lying in the yard, close to the steps, she noticed a wooden box, about two feet long and a foot deep. A piece of thick wire netting set in a frame of wood, which had doubtless been the cover of the box, was near at hand. Mrs. Andrews was puzzled at the presence of the box in the yard, but her attention was diverted from further contemplation of it by the wild screaming of the parrot. The parrot was on his perch on the railing, but he appeared to be in a state of great excitement. His feathers were ruffled, his head was thrust forward on a short neck, his wings were extended and his shrill screams followed screams from his wide-opened beaked mouth.

"Mrs. Andrews was just in the act of ascending the three steps which led from the yard to the gallery when the door of an unused room facing the landing was softly opened and the villainous face of Miguel, the Mexican, showed in the aperture. Mrs. Andrews, seeing the man, and reading murder in the expression of his features, rushed past him on the gallery to seek refuge behind the barred door of her room, but Miguel was swifter than she, and, overtaking her, seized her by the arm and drew her toward him.

"The Mexican, dragging the screaming women to the door of the unused room, suddenly threw her with great violence to the floor, and then, reaching behind him, picked up a sack, beneath the rough folds of which some object was moving, and, swing the sack from side to side, shook out a three-foot rattlesnake. Miguel was quick to bound from the gallery to the yard, and the snake, wriggling two inches from Mrs. Andrews's feet, in a wild rage threw itself in a coil and thrust forward a flat ugly head, from the scaly jaws of which protruded a quivering split tongue. And while the head described short half circles, which always come before the fatal cast, the pointed tail of the reptile showed from the rear of the folds, and, violently agitated, gave off a peculiar burring noise from the rattles.

Mrs. Andrew lost one of her slippers in the struggle,and the sole of her foot, covered only by a thin stocking, offered an easy target for those venomous fangs. The lady sat up and gazed at the snake, and, held powerless in the chains of a benumbing terror, was unable to move. The snake darted its head back and forth, and gradually its scaly head on an ever lengthening neck came closer to the foot, until finally it was only a few inches from it. The rattler drew back its head, arched its neck to one side, and, opening wide its jaws, was just in the act of making its terrible cast, when the unforseen happened.

'Pedro, who had been swaying wildly on his perch with ruffled feathers and open back, and screeching the while, flapped his wings, depressed his head and flew like a streak of lightning toward the snake. The parrot landed on top of the scaly folds and instinctly sought to grasp the reptile's neck in his strong bill. The point of the beak instead, caught the snake on the head and the lower structure of the mouth sunk with crushing force into the rattler's neck. The snake, in a paroxysm of pain, wriggled and twisted and Pedro was thrown some feet away; but the bird, with a squawk of anger, quickly recovered himself, and, with wings extended and beak open, he hobbled on his uncertain legs toward the writhing terror.

"The diversion created by the parrot's attack had given Mrs. Andrews opportunity to regain her presence of mind, and the danger temporarily removed, the lady, springing to her feet, seized the handy broom and smashed and battered the snake with it and brushed the belligerent Pedro back to keep the parrot from coming into proximity of the deadly fangs. The snake was soon out of the fighting, the broom having broken his back in several places, and Mrs. Andrews swept the still wriginig form from the gallery to the yard. Pedro showed an inclination to follow the snake, but Mrs. Andrews stooped and gather her brave champion into the folds of her apron and fled with him into the house.

"Miguel, during the strange and thrilling scene, had stood in the yard close to where the box in which he had brought the snake lay, contemplating, with devilish satisfaction, the peril of his enemy's wife, but when the parrot and the rattler was subsequently routed, with an oath he fled, and, leaping onto the back of his mule, which was hidden in a copse of trees a short distance from the house, galloped away.

"The terror of these awful moments had so unnerved Mrs. Andrews that she went into hysterics, and later fell into a dead faint. When Andrews came in an hour later he found his wife lying senseless on the floor near the bed, with the parrot, still showing excitement, perched on a stool at her side. Andrews, thoroughly alarmed, knelt by his wife, raised her in his arms and called to her, but, although she answered not, Pedro screeched and squawked, cursed, flapped his wings and cried 'mamma! mamma! mamma!' several times. Mr. Andrews, laying his wife on the bed, ran to the yard to get some water from the well, and at the foot of the gallery steps he saw the dead rattlesnake. He at once came to the conclusion that the reptile had bitted his wife and that she was dying from the effects of the poison. Returning to the house he secured a big bottle of whisky, and going to the bed, tried to force some of the liquor down his wife's throat. The smell of the whisky and the fire in the few drops that had passed her lips revived Mrs. Andrews, and, choking and sputtering, she sat up on the bed and vented a scream of fear, her disturbed mind still the prey of phantasms. Andrews quleted her as best he could, and a few minutes later, the wife becoming calm, told her story:

"In a few hours the whole country side was mounted and on a mad chase after the Mexican. They overtook the greaser, who was riding a very slow mule, and bang! bang! bang! there was one scoundrel less in the world.

"This is a strang story, but it is true, nevertheless, and those of you gentlemen who are acquainted with parrots and appreciate their natural pugnacity will not be surprised that Pedro, divining that his mistress was in danger, flew to her assistance."

PUBLIC MEN WHO ARE DEVOTED TO RACING

Americans of Eminence Less Devoted to the Turf Than the Big Men of Other Lands---European Rulers Are Track Devotees, But No President Has Ever Been a Racing Man---Some Army and Navy Officers Like Racing, But Not as the English Officers Do---American Society Folk Frequent the Track, But Few Own Stables---R. W. C. Whitney's Son a Turfman, But Not What His Father Was in Politics---The Same is True of the Younger and the Elder Belmont---E. R. Thomas, Son of Gen. Thomas---Joseph W. Bailey of Texas, Devoted to the Trotting Track---Curtis, the Indian Senator, Was a Jockey---Oxnard, Beet Sugar King ---No Rockefeller on the Turf---J. Pierpont Morgan and James J. Hill Not in Racing.

By DEXTER MARSHALL.

(Copyright, 1907, by Dexter Marshall.)

A much smaller percentage of prominent public men, captains of industry, transportation "magnates" and the like, are interested in the turf here than in either England or France.

This has always been true, and while the total race and trotting track attendance is now larger than ever before in those parts of the United States which encourag either form of the "sport of kings," the number of publice men seeking turf prominence certainly is not increasing at this time. In fact, there are fewer turfmen who are prominent in other lines probably today than there were a few years ago.

Thus the first August Belmont was a great racing man. So is his son, the present August Belmont, but the latter is not a public man in the sense his father was. The elder Belmont was a power in the Democratic party, and served in the diplomatic corps in his younger days. The present head of the Belmont family might like to duplicate his father's public career, but so far hasn't been able to compass it.

William C. Whitney always liked fast horses, but for many years he got his equine recreation through speedy roadsters. Later, when, perhaps without knowing it, he had left most of his political career behind him, he went into racing with all the force and vigor which he took an interest, and for years was a power in the racing world. Harry Payne Whitney is as much interested in racing as his father was, but the son holds no such place in the great world, and his political career, still in the future, at best, is by no means certain to materialize at all.

Several British prime ministers have been big turfmen, notably Lord Rosebery, but so far as I can remember no American cabinet minister ever has been devoted to the track. Whitney's term as secretary of the navy came years before his racing career.

The fondness of most European rulers for racing has been proverbial, time out of mind. King Edward's liking for the turf is one of the things which add much to his popularity. Queen Alexandra is a familiar figure at the derby and other great races, with her daughters see most of the noteworthy English turf contests. The French presidents attend the big French races officially, the turf being a national institution in France; none has kept a racing stable, as does King Edward, however, partly, perhaps, for lack of funds.

Alfonso of Spain goes to the races always when in England, and his queen, a relative of Edward, likes to see the horses run, as well as the next one. King Louis of Portugal is another race loving monarch; Leopold, the old king of the Belgians, is another, and several of the minor monarchs of Europe are to be seen yearly on the French tracks. Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany is interested in racing, as he is in every other contest for supremacy among his subjects, but his interests are so diverse that he is able to devote much less attention to the tracks than his uncle Edward does.

Per contra, no president of the United States seems to have cared particularly for racing, and of late years only two have shown much liking for the horse at all. Grant was better pleased when driving a fast trotter on the road, than when doing anything else in the world, and Roosevelt devotion to horseback riding is proverbial; but Grant never was a race track figure, and Roosevelt never has been. Grant's son, Gen. Frederick D. Grant, goes to the races occosionally with Mrs. Grant.

There is as much difference between American and English legislators with rogard to the track as between the rulers of the two nations. A large proportion of the house of lords are racing men; not a few of them maintain big stables. It is considered almost a duty for the members of the house of commons to see the derby run at least, and to be present at as many other of the season's big races as possible. But, while some of our senators and representatives go out to Benning when congress and the races are in session together, the number of real racing men in either house in Washington is almost a negligible quantity.

Bailey and the Trotting Track.

The newly elected Indian senator, Curtis of Kansas, began life as a jockey and still likes racing, but Senator Bailey of Texas is the most pronounced horseman of all the Washington legislators and ofter is to be seen among the "aril birds" on the Texas trotting tracks, though never a prominent figure at any of the great Eastern courses.

Five years ago he leased a farm in Kentucky for breeding purposes and his horses that year included a number of high grade brood mares and stallions, besides the sensational Prodigal, with a record of 2:16 on the trotting track, purchased at the Marcus Daly dispersal sale.

Bailey has spent some time in Kentucky every year since then, looking after his horses and watching the trotting at Lexington. His favorite seat at the Lexington trotting track used to be a wooden plank nailed against the high outside fence above the three-eighths pole, just opposite the barn. He makes a striking race track figure in his long blue broadcloth coat and slouch hat and everybody knows him well, including stable boys and hangerson as well as owners and breeders. When the horses are being tried out, particularly his own, he times them carefully with his stop watch.

The senator is always in his element when his horses are in evidence and his sonorous comments on such occasions are delivered almost as oratically as are his speeches on the floor.

"Somebody call the half," says Bailey when one of his colts are about to get away. "I don't know exactly where to snap it. It is largely guess work from this point."

"Somebody" knows a bush that the experts snap on when the horses pass it. When the senator's colt glides by the experts call out "up!" and the senator snaps his watch as if there were no more serious thing in the world to do. He sees the three-quarter pole plainly himself and also the finish.

"Not a bad mile, considering," cries a spectator when the track has been circled.

"He's a pretty fair colt," calls back the senator, much pleased. When the last of his colts have gone around the track he leaves for the barn to see how the steppers are cooling off.

Bailey has been an expert horse dealer, trotting enthusiast and pedigree sharp for many years, but he never branched out very strong as a breeder until 1902.

Senator Knox of Pennsylvania likes to drive trotters, and he handles the ribbons well, but he isn't a racetrack devotee. The late Senator Blackburn of Kentucky was a turfman of such prominence that a famous racer was named after him. Senators Hearst and Stanford of California were enthusiasts as to fast horses. Stanford was one of the country's greatest breeders. He devoted himself particularly to improving the American light harness horse by crossing trotting stock with thoroughbreds, and his Palo Alto ranch was a noted one for many years.

Timothy D. Sullivan has been a race horse owner for many years and was a regular figure at Bennings while representing a part of New York's East Side in the national legislature.

He used to bet a little more freely when in Washington than some of his advisers thought a "member" should, but when one of them ventured to express that view to him "Big Tim" treated it more as a joke than as anything else.

"What goes in New York," he remarked with conviction, "is good enough for Washington," and nothing more was said.

Though Sullivan is no longer a public man in the national sense, to thousands in New York he is the biggest statesman alive. He is running a big stable this year. State Senator McCarren, a public man in Albany and Brooklyn, if not of national standing, is a good deal of a racetrack man and formerly had a string of horses.

In spite of the comparative lack of interest taken in racing by most of our lawmakers and high officials, the rich society folk of Washington are often at the races, while the officials, naval men and army officers do not eschew them altogether by any means. Admiral Dewey and Mrs. Dewey, for instance, like a good race as well as the next couple.

Millionaires Support the Races.

Many New York society folk attend the races pretty regularly, but there are some shining lights in the gilded circle who are not often seen at the tracks. Not a few of them, indeed, possess private tracks of their own and prefer them to the public courses.

The Astors are not great racetrack devotees, neither are the Goelets nor the Gerrys, nor any of the Vanderbilts now most in evidence, save one. Nor were the early Vanderbilts; the Commodore and William H. drove trotters, but used the road for a track mostly, and after William H. got Maud S—fastest trotter of her day—he would not let her be speeded for money. The elder William K. is the only Vanderbilt who has ever been a confirmed race attendant. He used to be a familiar figure on most of the tracks near New York, and he still owns a lot of stock in the Coney Island Jockey club. Its track is at Sheepshead bay, and he has been drawing dividends from it for years, but he never is seen there now, preferring to do his own racing in France. There his stable is little less than an institution.

William K., Jr.'s, devotion to auto races may spring from a similar trait of character as his father's devotion to horse racing, but the result is different. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's liking for horseflesh is in no sense that of a racing man. He likes to sit on the box and tool his own coach, while the crowd looks on and admires, not to sit on the stand and see hired drivers win purses with crack trotters, or jockeys ride running horses to victory.

Jay Gould never went in for horses in any way, and none of his sons cares much for racing. George's polo playing and the pony races on his private track at Lakewood are quite another thing from regular racing, but he is occasionally seen at Belmont park and other tracks, generally with the larger part of his immediate family about him.

James R. Keene and Harry Payne Whitney are among the millionaires who really support racing. Some persons have an idea that these men make large profits in the betting ring, but Keene never bets and Whitney rarely makes a wager. Keene's winnings in purses and stakes seldom pay the expenses of his stable, and he considers himself lucky, indeed, when he ends a season without a loss. The same statement is true about Whitney.

Racetrack habitues like to tell how Keene would sing the praises of Sysonby by the hour, after that peerless racehorse had won an "event." He loved the horse, and considered Sysonby the most intelligent thoroughbred, the most courageous and the fleetest that ever lived. Whitney's bets rarely go above $10 or $15 on any race. August Belmont has testified under oath that he never bets. But he makes more out of racing than any other man in America.

Few big bankers in New York or in any other American city go in much for racing, Belmont being the most conspicuous example. His racing activities are not only in harmony with those of his father, but also with those of the Rothschilds, biggest bankers of London, whose agency in this country is in the Belmont establishment.

On the other hand, F. Ambrose Clark, a stepson of Bishop Potter, is quite a racing figure, while R. H. McCarter Potter of the same family as the bishop, owns a racing stable, and a son of Judge Morgan J. O'Brien of New York is a gentleman jockey.

Young Midases in Racing.

Edward R. Thomas, son of the late Gen. Sam Thomas, gave up banking and went in for racing several years ago. His heaviest single investment in the cause was the purchase of Hermis for the record price of $60,000 four years ago. Thomas got the horse, together with a stable full of other expensive racers, mainly to please his wife, who was Miss Linda Lee, daughter of Col. William Lee of Louisville.

Hermis suffered a crushing defeat the first time he was started under the Thomas colors, and there was plenty of talk that Thomas would quit the turf forthwith, but he didn't, and his name has been on the list of owners ever since. Thomas is only 34, yet he has had a rather lively time of it to date. His father planned to have him follow his steps in railroading and banking, in which the family fortunes were made, and had the boy work in Wall street some time to get the necessary training.

He was president of one short Western road for a while, and vice president of another, but they were sold to Morgan. In 1901, when only 28, he was president of the Seventh National bank in New York for one day. He is a Yale graduate, but he made a column of copy for the newspapers a few years ago, by giving out that he considered college training all nonsense for a man who wished to go into business. The four years he spent in New Haven, he thought, were four years wasted. He made himself famous after the opening of a certain ultra costly hotel in New York by being the first tenant of its most expensive suite, and also by the skill with which he escaped the officers of law, who wanted to arrest him for running his automobile at a sixty or seventy mile rate through the streets of Brooklyn.

Although no descendant of old John Jacob Astor in the male line is specially interested in racing, William Astor Chanler, who has some of the Astor dollars, has a few horses to race this year, and has been a turf figure of more or less magnitude for some time. He is a brother of Louis Stuyvesant Chanler, Hughes's lieutenant governor, who was elected, along with all the Hearst state ticket, except its head, last fall, and of John Armstrong Chanler, Amelie Rives's first husband, who is now seeking to establish his sanity.

William Astor Chanler was once a public man. He went to Albany from New York as a member of the legislature in 1897, while Croker's star was still in ascendant, served in the Spanish war, and in 1899, was elected to the lower house of congress, defeating Lemuel E. Quigg. Possibly this young Chanler—he is only 40—has

His ancestry on his father's side is older than on his mother's, although the family came to him through her. The original American Chanler was a colonial doctor, first vice president of Medical society of South Carolina. William Astor Chanler's mother, Margaret Astor Ward, was descended from two Generals Armstrong, one of whom fought in the Revolution, and the other in the War of 1812. The latter was minister to France before this war, and, later, secretary of war under Madison, so that the racing member of the Chanler family has genealogical warrant for being in public life.

William Astor Chanler first won fame and do a little exploration, in 1892. He had with him Lieut. Van Hahnel of the Austrian army, and they had a lot of adventures. On reaching the village of Bugoi, near Mount Loraghi, they found the villagers short of food. Although shy at first they were sociable after a little, and ready to do almost anything for the two white men if they would only shoot a few elephants, and so replenish the village larder.

Elephants were plentiful in the jungle thereabouts, but hard to find because of the jungle's density, and hard for the natives to kill, because they had no firearms. Chanler and the Austrian were glad of the chance to be guided to the haunts of the big beasts, and succeeded in killing several. This was in July, 1894, and at that time Chanler's friends and family had given him up for lost, having had no tidings of him for months.

He really was in straits a little later. Many of the donkeys, sheep and cattle of his outfit had died, most of his "people," guides, porters, cooks, etc., had deserted him, and he was himself ill for weeks. He was heard from at Mombasa, on the east coast, in September, however, where he arrived almost alone, after having suffered many hardships. Upon his return to America he wrote a book about his adventures. Chanler served as captain under command of the late Gen. Joseph Wheeler, in the Spanish war. He married Miss Minnie Ashley, a light opera singer, in 1904.

Not an Astor, nor even the son-in-law of an Astor, like his older brother Orme, R. T. Wilson, Jr., is a third young racing "Midas." He has been interested in the turf some seven or eight years. His chief distinctions have been the success of his horses, his lucky hits in business with his father and his beautiful 15,000-acre island estate on the coast between the May and New rivers, in South Carolina, which he has named Eden.

Five thousand of its acres are devoted to a game preserve. The old mansion, which stands near the sea, is one of the finest examples of typically old-time South Carolina architecture now to be found anywhere along the coast. Until the year he bought Eden, Wilson possessed a third distinction—that of being the only unmarried child of the best matchmaker in America. That year he married Miss Marion Mason, not so rich as the Astors or Vanderbilts, perhaps, but of the bluest Massachusetts blood.

This story, told about young Wilson, should be prefaced by the statement that he never was a reckless driver. He was out in a single rig one day when his horse became fractious and began to run. Wilson saw possible danger ahead, and climbed out over the back of the vehicle, leaving the horse to continue on to its destruction. A friend asked him why he dodn't stick to the reins and save the animal.

"It's this way," he replied. "I can buy another horse about as good as that one, but I haven't any idea that I could buy another R. T. Wilson, Jr."

No American society woman owns a racing stable, though women of the highest social grade start horses on the English tracks. Mrs. H. P. Whitney and Mrs. H. B. Duryea tried the experiment under the nome of "Mr. Rosyln," but had to give it up.

Oxnard, the Beet Sugar King.

Henry T. Oxnard, the beet sugar king, who owns the Albemarle stable, is another "Midas" by inheritance, whose name counts for something in the turf world today, but he doesn't belong exactly to the same class as the Chanlers, the Wilsons, the Whitneys and their friends.

Oxnard is 47, and so little in person that a congressman of huge physique, who was on the other side of the fight over Cuban reciprocity, once said that the sugar man could easily be hidden away in an ordinary-sized man's overcoat pocket. He was born in France, but his father, Thomas Oxnard, was a New Englander of the most ultra Yankee type. He was a sugar refiner in Brooklyn before the trust was formed. The son, after graduating from Harvard, learned the business and settled down to be a cane sugar refiner the rest of his life. This he might have been had not the trust gobbled up the Oxnard refinery in exchange for about $1,000,000.

That was nearly twenty years ago, and, down to that time, all Brooklyn looked upon him as a harmless, rather ordinary young man, sympathizing with him a little because he was so little and so bald, for he lost his hair early. But after the trust had got the cane sugar refining of the country into its own hands, with everything arranged to suit, Oxnard showed Brooklyn, the trust and the rest of the world that he was in small need of sympathy from any one.

One of the first in the United States to see that there was a future in beet industry. Before he could make a real beginning on the job he had to learn the conditions under which beet sugar was made in France and Germany. To do this he lived on beet sugar farms over there for some time, studying the soil, climate conditions and methods of cultivation. When he got all ready he brought three families of beet sugar growers to the United States and told them to hunt the right climate. When they found it he bought land for them and set them at work raising beets, built factories for them and himself began to make beet sugar.

Today the industry is a big thing. Incidentally, while Oxnard was building it up he fought the annexation of Hawaii, losing the fight at last, but prolonging it amazingly; then he fought Canadian reciprocity, losing that fight, too, finally, but carrying it on with vigor and brilliance and—in 1904—he began a campaign to get a United States senator's seat from California, where he had established a legal residence.

He hasn't won that fight as yet, but maybe he will some time; at all events his friends expect him to keep on trying Oxnard is one of the sauvest, gentlest men you ever met, and one of the easiest millionaires alive to talk with. But he won't give you any attention a minute longer than your talk is of the sort that looks profitable to Oxnard. He is in business for business purposes, and he won't waste time answering what he considers foolish questions.

He is a judicious art collector; he knows horses like a jockey and cattle like a rancher; he can outwork any of his clerks; he is one of the best read of the millionaires, and his cosmopolitan life has made him a real citizen of the world.

There was a time when the Havemeyers, who dominate the Sugar trust, were important turfmen, but that day has passed. There was a time, also, when Lorillards of the Tobacco trust were big racing men. Pierre Lorillard's horse, Iroquois, won the English derby one year, as you remember, perhaps, the Lorillard colors are watched for no more as they were in the past, however, nor will they be in the near future. Despite Timothy D. Sullivan's racing prominence, no one may properly be said to have taken the place of Richard Croker on the American turf. Croker sent the mare Blakestown over this year for the suburban, but she broke down.

No Rockefeller, no Rogers, no Flagler, nor any other Standard oil man has yet come to the front in the racing game, although William Rockefeller used to be a famous fancier of trotters. Neither J. P. Morgan nor his son, nor J. J. Hill, or his sons, fancy the turf. They know about struggles for supremacy that are far more amusing and interesting to them than the most hotly contested horse race in the world

The ore body, to which reference is made at the end of the tunnel, now measures better than seventy feet from wall to wall, while there is stoping ground above to practically cover the surface, better than 7 per cent, and is a mine in itself. Another tunnel is now being run from a lower level to get under it, while crosscuts and drifts are going forward from the main body. Upraises are also being made in the ore. The work in the tunnel now constitutes nearly all the development that is under way. On the 800-level in the main shaft they are working three shifts at cutting the station for the big pumps which are to be installed. From this station, after installation of the pumps, drifting will be commenced. The pumps are now being assembled at the mine, and will be ready to lower to the station when the latter is in shape to receive them. They are Prescotts, and will easily handle 750 gallons of water a minute. The shaft is now making about 350 gallons. Recently one of the small pumps which have been employed was removed and a small Prescott substituted. It has been handling the work with the result of large saving in fuel. The drifting from the lower level of the shaft will doubtless get a better grade of ore than that which shows in the considerable body opened by the drift from the second level. This body runs something better than 2 per cent. It is in position to mine easily, and at cost that would allow shipping with profit. With the ore in the tunnel it would make a very desirable mixture. The aerial train installed some time ago at the property for the delivery of ore from the upper tunnel is working admirably and filling all requirements. All timbers and supplies for the tunnel are taken up in the tram cars. Ore sent down from the tunnel has lately carried additional ore from old workings well toward the top of the hill. This ore comes from a big dump on which during early operations at the property all ore thought to fall below 1 per cent was thrown, the balance being shipped. The sorting appears to have been careless as sampling Supt. McBride has had made discloses that the dump will probably average better than 8 per cent, some very rich ore having been found in the pile. Whatever is gained from it is clean pick-up. A chute is to be put in, through which the rock will be delivered at the top of the tramway.

At the Democrata the wenez recently started from the 500 level is now down about twenty feet. It is sinking in ore and will go to the 600 level before work is halted. The winzo is destined to tell much of the continuance of the ore bodies of the camp with depth. The management of the company feel that the showing made by the company on the 500 and upper levels, justifies expectation that as big and as good, if not bigger and better, ore bodies will be found below. There is everything in the formation so far to so indicate.

As it stands the Democrata mine has the greatest actual depth below the surface in continuous workings of any property in the district. All of these workings are in ore, making the mine one of the biggest in resources in the camp, and consequently in the Southwest. Grading at the property is about finished for the new furnace, which is expected during the month, for the smelter and for the new ore bins. The big dynamo, which is to be used in the operation of the electric light plant, for which preparations have been made, has arrived at Naco, and will be delivered at the mine during the week.

ENGLISH AND FRENCH ROADS.

Travel Magazine: In England it is almost impossible to attain speed with safety in motoring. The roads twist and turn and the walls and hedges prevent the driver's seeing what there is beyond a curve. An average pace of twenty-five miles an hour is fairly good time in England.

Of course the country is settled much more thickly than France, which adds to the danger of speeding. Speed laws are enforced with severity in England, but if you will try the mettle of your motor, cross the channel. In France the road is yours.

WHY SO WEAK?

Kidney Troubles May be Sapping Your Life Away. Duluth People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Here is Duluth testimony to prove it.

T. H. Tomlin, lather and contractor, of 112 West Palmetto street, Duluth Heights, says: "What I said in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills, six years ago, was not only true, but the cure I described at that time has been permanent, and I am pleased to inform others sufferers of this fact. My case was a severe one, and it clung to me persistenly for two years. The backache finally got so bad that I was obliged to lay off from work for days at a time, and I suffered such pain that it hurt to bring the slightest strain on the muscles of the back and loins. The kidney secretions were irregular, and I was unable to rest well at night. All these irregularities yielded promptly to the treatment, and the result was a permanent cure."

METHODS OF "PUDDENHEAD" WILSON ARE NOW OF MATERIAL AID TO DULUTH POLICE IN IDENTIFYING CRIMINALS

Finger Prints of Noted Offenders Now Kept On File.

System is Used as an Aid to the Bertillion Methods.

Impressions Taken With Printers' Ink, Filed and Catalogued.

HOW THE RECORD LOOKS ON THE FILES.

The accompanying cut, which is approximately the exact size of the card used in keeping the records, gives a better idea than pages of description of the methods in use in making the celebrated Bertillon finger print records in this country. This system is now in general use all over the world and its value in detecting criminals is proved.

The system has been in use in Duluth only since the first of the year so that the local record is not very extensive as yet, but every man suspected of having a criminal record is being measured according to the Bertillon measurement rules by Capt. F. E. Resche and the finger prints taken, so the collection is steadily growing.

Duplicate cards are made of every man and one of these is sent to Washington to the National Bureau of Identification where they are placed on file, and as these contributions come from police departments all over the country many thousands of criminals are on record there. On the reverse side of the card shown above are the blanks for the regular Bertillon measurements the most perfect system of identification ever devised.

In order to get finger prints as shown above a few drops of thick printer's ink are placed upon a glass plate and then rolled out to an even layer over the plate with a specially prepared roller. The hands of the prisoner are then carefully cleansed and the impressions taken by pressing the fingers first upon the inky plate and then upon the card, rolling them firmly from one side to the other so as to get the full print of the finger tip from one edge of the nail around to the other edge. It is a rather delicate operation, as the slightest slip means a blurr and failure.

This system was evolved in Paris a number of years ago by Alphonse Bertillon, the celebrated French detective, along with the rest of his famous system. It is in Paris that it is said to have reached its highest perfection up to this time, though the American records are constantly growing and becoming daily more valuable. Bertillon books published a number of years ago give the number of records in Paris as 500,000 and this is probably almost doubled by now.

The chief value of the finger prints is in identifying criminals who have had their finger lines recorded before, though some remarkable tales are told of the conviction of men from finger prints left on window panes, knife handles, etc., near the scene of their crimes. Most of the desperate crimes are committed by men who have had enough of a criminal record before to have had finger print records and Bertillon measurements taken and with these on file their identification beyond a reasonable doubt can be established. Professor Francis Galton, an Englishman who has made himself familiar with the workings of this system in connection with detective work in England and the Scotland yard records is quoted as saying that there is about one chance in 64,000,000 of one man's finger prints being mistaken for another's by a careful observer.

While the police are somewhat skeptical as to the usefulness of finger prints in this line of work, there is good authority that they have been used not only for the identification, but for the conviction of criminals. Some time ago a wine shop was rifled in New York city and the thieves grabbed several dusty wine bottles which were left on the scene of the depredations. A number of men were arrested on suspicion and were just about to be released when one of the detectives noticed the prints on the bottle necks which, on the dusty surface, were unusually clear. Three of the five men readily submitted to having records of their fingers taken but the other two flung back and when their finger prints were taken they tallied exactly with the tell tale marks on the bottle.

A finger mark on a pane of glass is a very effective means of identification if a man is under arrest for a suspected burglary. So often has this occurred that younr up-to-date, thoroughly educated, second-story men now wears gloves to avoid such happenings.

A murderer driving a knife into his victim's back smears a little blood on the handle of the instrument, siezes it with his thumb and fingers in an effort to draw it forth again, fails, but leaves an imprint which will convict him if ever suspected of the crime.

The story of "Pudden' Head Wilson" hangs upon the finger print theory, the old country lawyer earning his title of "puddin' head" by the way he advocated the theory of thumb prints for the identification of persons. Those who have read the tale will remember how the hero breaks down when he accidentally discovers that two babies were exchanged in their cradles, but does not realize the true situation and thinks that he has found two men with thumb marks just alike. The climax of the story comes when the octoroon usurper of the rightful heir's position admits the murder when confronted by evidence in the shape of his finger prints on the murderous knife as compared with "Puddin' Head's" records.

Wilson, according to the story, never worked any farther than thumb prints, but the present theory includes the whole hand and reduces the chance of a duplicate being discovered immeasurably. The methods employed by the hero of Mark Twain's story were comparatively crude also. All his records were kept on glass and were procured by the subject's rubbing his hand through his hair until he had secured enough natural oil to make the imprint. They were delicate, hard to observe, and difficult to handle, but this too, was the system employed by the police when the system was first being worked up.

A new use for the finger print identification system has lately been evolved by a prominent Chicago lawyer. Whenever he is called upon to draw up a last will and testament for one of Chicago's wealthy men he insists that just under their signature they make an imprint of their fingers similar to that used by the police. A second record is then taken on a card, before witnesses and this is filed away in a safe. By this means any chance for substitution in a will is avoided.

The above cut is of the finger prints of a petty thief arrested here early this year and released but who was thought to be a man with a record. It was selected for its qualities for making a newspaper cut which were exceptional. It is impossible, however, to do justice to the clearness of the lines of the original in the photograph, as Capt. Resche has obtained a high degree of efficiency in making the records since he first began doing the work.

Detectives and criminal experts everywhere have been unanimous in declaring that the Bertillon system of identification has revolutionized the profession of criminology and they are becoming more and more convinced of the importance of the finger print part of the Bertillon system.

THE LAND OF HIAWATHA, TODAY.

By CY WARMAN.

Port Arthur, Ont., June 15.—The builders of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario railway uncovered Cobalt, almost with a single stroke of the pick, and now, after three years of prospecting and development work, we are coming to the larger and more varied and probably more permanent riches of that part of the wilderness that lies immediately west of Lake Superior and north of the international boundary, which are being developed along the line of the new transcontinental railway.

Generally speaking, the locating engineer follows the ancient trails into the wilderness that, until yesterday, lay between the Great Lakes and Winnipeg, just as the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe follows the old Santa Fe trail across the American Southwest. There the iron trail has been open and in operation thirty years. There a stage line had been abandoned for lack of support. Here, until the advent of the railway, there was never a dream of anything so extravagant as a stage line. In both cases, there was no business to support until a railway came, conquered the wilderness, and created the business.

For 150 years the moccasins of the lone priest, of the pathfinder, and of the explorer have dimpled the margins of the muskegs of this Northern wilderness, and all this while the riches of nature lay within easy reach of all. Only, there was lacking the one thing, the first essential to civilization—transportation. Production without transportation is often impossible, and always unprofitable. Consequently, the iron, the copper, gold and other riches of this lake region lay where a generous providence had placed them. The forests choked, the fish multiplied in the myriads of lakes and rivers, and the rich fertile fields were left uncleared and untilled. For a half hundred years the sons of the Dominion, going out into the world, have gone south, leaving a bank vault unbolted and open at home, all because there was no means of transporting the treasure. And while the practical young business men have been drifting south, the dreamers and creators of fiction have followed them, leaving here, in the Northern forests, a veritable treasure house of song and story, for Canada is as rich in fiction as she is in fact.

As Nova Scotia is the land of Evangeline, so have we here, in New Ontario's Western wilds, the alluring land of of Hiawatha. Countless islands in innumerable lakes, ranging in size from Superior, "The Big-Sea-Water," to pearl-clear pools nestling in nooks and in silence unbroken for centuries, with crystal rivers, linking the endless chain of lakes, and by which these waters, step by step, reach the sea. And all through this waking wilderness, in the shadowy forest and in dark canyons, along these rushing rivers, are swift rapids, curling cataracts, and grand, wild waterfalls.

The Santa Fe in the South and the Grand Trunk in the North, and other lines in both sections, have demonstrated beyond doubt the richness and resourcefulness of the "Silent Places," with, and their utter worthlessness without, transportation. The wilds and wastes conquered, the business enterprises brought into being, the deserts drenched, the wilderness penetrated, and the mountains pierced, in short, the millions of homes made for the habitation of man by what may be called pioneer lines, make up an overwhelming refutation of the new contention that the railroad is a non-producer. In the matter of opening up new territories, it is the first, the pioneer producer, which can claim credit, wholly or in part, for everything, from the first cleared field and the sawmill spur, to the fine farm and the city—for the finished products, which are civilization.

Probably nowhere on this continent have the natural riches of forest and mine lain dormant at the very door of an eager and venturesome civilization, so utterly unknown, as have the riches of New Ontario, which touches the republic just west of the lakes. Here, within sight, almost of Uncle Sam, are vast forests, rich gold fields and mountains of iron ore, and all practically untouched until the railway reached its steel fingers into the forest on the way to the wheat fields of the Far West.

We are constantly learning, forgetting, and finding out again what was demonstrated by the building of the first Pacific line to cross this continent, namely, that it is not through traffic, but local business that makes up the revenue of the railway and renders its operation possible. Here, in New Ontario, where the hand of nature seems to have hurriedly smoothed out the earth as it rose from the deep, leaving it gnarled, twisted, and tangled, rock-ribbed, uninviting at first glance, and often impenetrable at the second, the road builders have found a path for the steed of steel, and in so doing have traversed pine forests, found wide fertile fields, and uncovered millions in mineral wealth, so that what appeared to be a vast waste is providing homes for thousands, employment for hundreds of thousands of men and women, and millions of money. Capital, no longer timid, now that the richness of the country has been demonstrated, following in the wake of the pathfinders, is opening mines, building stamp mills, saw mills, and flour mills, harnessing the rapids and developing energy to turn the wheels of commerce.

Already at Fort Frances, there is in operation one of the most complete lumber manufactory plants in Canada, and all along the line are new industries that have been made possible by the building of the railway. The region is not all rocks and lakes and iron mountains. As nearly as 1857, government reports called attention to the richness of the soil and the abundance of Indian corn grown by the natives of the northern forests.

In 1875 much of the land along the rivers was laid out in long narrow plats to give each settler access to the river over his own ground. A few settlers came in about the time of the Wolsley epedition, but the hushed, lonely land remote from older settlement, and utterly without railway communication with the outside world, with all its native wealth, failed to furnish the necessary compensation for the sacrifice of civilization to attract and hold settlers to any great extent. Now, however, within the past few years, homesteaders have been flocking into the new fields in such numbers that the land is fairly well taken up, back ten to fifteen miles from the railway. Roads are being opened, and every convenience possible to pioneering is to be had.

Here are to be seen the ancient Hudson's Bay buildings, into which the trappers for a century and a half have gone with their skins, and from which they have emerged with tweeds and tobacco, tea and contented minds. Here the Jesuit Fathers fought the good fight, according to their faith, and in these wilds the feuds of the fur companies were fought out in the years when the Hudson's Bay and the Northwest company were contending for the control of an empire that was asleep and which is only now, after a lapse of a century, stirring to life. Here, after all these years, stands the old Hudson Bay post, a monument to the pluck and perservance of "The Governor and the Company of Gentlemen Adventurers Trading into Hudson's Bay," antedated only by the mounds made by the ancient mound builders, these and the rock and rills are older than the Hudson's Bay company.

So, as we wind along the banks of the Indian-named rivers, we are winding through a labyrinth of natural wealth, soon to be brought forth for the use of mankind. And so by these river passes we come to the shore of what the Ojibwas called the "Big-Sea-Water." And so by this new, but attractive trail, we come to Port Arthur, which is often called "The Gateway of the West."

LAKE ERIE FROZEN IN JUNE

Some Real Weather That Was Experienced by the Truthful Mariners.

"Did anyone ever see such spring weather as this?" remarked the saloon keeper as he cheerfully served the first round to the members of the Has-Been club, says the Buffalo Express.

"Jake has," replied the repentant life insurance agent. "Jake's the oldest inhabitant, you know."

"I'll bet I'm not any older than you are, only you're ashamed to tell your age," declared the exempt fireman testily.

"Come now, Jake, we reckon age by the calendar, not my marital experience," replied his tormentor.

"But to return to the subject," said the ancient mariner, soothingly. "Jake, can you really remember a spring that was more backward and disagreeable than this has been. Because if you can't, I can."

"Then it's up to you to tell us about it," said the retired policeman.

"I hate to confess that it was forty years ago," began the sailor, "but when one is telling a true story one must put little personal vanities aside. I may be pardoned, however, for saying that I was very much of a kid then. We hadn't had frost enough all winter to put more than a little scum on Lake Erie, and we got the old schooner out and headed for Detroit early in March. We found the weather conditions much the same there, so we went on to Chicago. There was good open water all the way. We discharged our cargo, reloaded and had got well back into Lake Erie again when a cold wave struck us, and in twelve hours we were frozen up solid right in the middle of the lake. It kept getting colder and colder day after day and week after week. Provisions gave out and we had to go eating our cargo, which luckily, was salt beef. There were three other schooners frozen up near us, and they were all lumber-laden, their crews soon began to come oevr to us for supplies. We ran a regular meat market there in the middle of the lake, and the cargo began to go off so fast that the cap'n got to worrying.

"'It won't do to go back to Buffalo with nothing in our hold,' says he.

"'Don't know how you're going to load up with anything here unless you take on ice,' grumbled the mate.

"'A capital idea,' says the Cap'n.

"So he set us all at work cutting ice and stowing it in the hold where the beef barrels had been hauled out. And the result was that when the break-up finally came and we made port about the middle of June we had as fine a cargo of clear lake ice as was ever offered for sale in this town. And the queer thing about it was that down at this end of the lake they hadn't had any frost at all, but a warm, open spring, and no ice had been cut all winter, and we were able to sell that ice for big prices, so it turned out to be the most profitable voyage the schooner ever made."

The repentant life insurance agent grunted scornfully.

"Your imagination must be dull tonight if you couldn't think of a better story than that on such a subject as the weather. Now, I'm the youngest man in the club—"

There was a chorus of groans from the other members.

"I repeat I'm the youngest man here, yet I can remember a spring seventy-five years ago—"

The groans changed to gasps.

"Or it may have been seventy-four when we paid eighteen death claims during May and three in June, all due to people freezing to death."

"I'll just stand for any kind of weather to beat a life insurance company," said the ancient mariner.

"Well, weather is weather," replied the life insurance agent, "and if you don't see what you want there's no use asking for it."

"There was one spring back in the sixties," said the exempt fireman when we had to let a fine block burn down on the 29th of May because the hydrants were all frozen up so we couldn't get water."

"That must have been in war times," corroborated the Union veteran. "I remember when I was in the army there was a snowstorm in the latter part of May. We ran out of ammunition and were falling back toward our base when we met a party of Johnnies. It looked pretty bad for us, but our Cap'n was a resourceful man.

"'Go at 'em with snowballs, boys,' says he.

"You know the Rebs always opened their months and yelled when they charged. Well, we watched our chance and just as they were almost on us we let 'em have the snowballs right in their caverns. And you may believe it or not, but it's an actual fact that so many of 'em were knocked out by getting choked with the snowballs in their throats that we captured the whole company."

The retired policeman sniffed.

"That story would have been just as good for the middle of winter as for late spring," he continued. "Why don't you tell something that's really appropriate to the season if you're going to discuss weather? And what's the use of pretending that the only bad weather we ever had dates back to the time when your grandfathers were small boys? Within the last three years I've had snowballs in my front yard all through May. They grew on bushes. In 1903 I put my screen doors in the middle of April to keep out the flies—snow flies. All last August I suffered severely with cold—in my head. I can remember four or five summers when we had frost every week—out at the baseball grounds. And I've met frozen faces just as often in July as in January when I've wanted to make a loan. I've sat right in this room many an August night and seen every man of you get up and go home because of cold feet, and—"

"If it comes to simple things like that," said the ancient mariner, "I remember a summer when it was so cold the burdocks in my back yard grew downward towards the central fires, instead of up toward the sunlight."

"And it was only four years ago the 3rd of June that I got a basket full of fish one night just by going down to the river, building a fire on the bank and picking up the best of the fish that flopped up beside it to warm themselves," added the exempt fireman.

"Two years ago it was so cold in May that the hickory trees out in Clarence produced their fall crop of nuts before they had even leafed out," declared the Union veteran.

All looked inquiringly at the retired policeman, silently inviting him to speak again, but he arose and put on his overcoat.

"Good night," said the landlord. "But say," he added gravely, "did any of you really ever see such a spring as this before?"

"We never did," answered the Has-Beens with one voice.

The Handy Doctor in Your Vest Pocket

IT'S a thin, round-cornered little Enamel Box—

When carried in your vest pocket it means Health-Insurance.

It contains Six Candy Tablets of pleasant taste, almost as pleasant as Chocolate.

It will not purge, sicken, nor upset the stomach.

Because it is not a "Bile-driver," like Salts, Sodium, Calomel, Jalap, Senna, nor Aperient Waters.

Neither is it like Castor Oil, Glycerine, or other Oily Laxatives that simply lubricate the Intestines for transit of the food stopped up in them at that particular time.

The chief cause of Constipation and Indigestion is a weakness of the Muscles that contract the Intestines and Bowels.

They stimulate the Bowel Muscles to contract, expand, and squeeze the Digestive Juices out of food eaten.

They don't help the Bowels and Liver in such a way as to make them lean upon similar assistance for the future.

This is why, with Cascarets, the dose may be lessened each succeeding time instead of increased, as it must be with all other Cathartics and Laxatives.

Cascarets act like exercise.

If carried in your vest pocket, (or carried in My Lady's Purse,) and eaten just when you suspect you need one, you will never know a sick day from the ordinary ills of life.

Because these ills begin in the Bowels, and pave the way for all other diseases.

"Vest Pocket" box 10 cents.

Be sure you get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company, and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC."

WHATS WHAT IN THE SPORTING WORLD

By Naughton and Ye Sporting Scribe.

The Team Back Home.

Well, our boys have broken away from the Copper country and, though it is with an impaired standing in the percentage column, we should be thankful that they are still alive and whole, in view of the sundry and diversified forms of drubbing they received from the lower half of the heap.

Now they're in an important series. Winnipeg is still at the top of the heap and it's up to the Sox to pull them down and place them in a position for the Copper counptry aggregations to get something better than third and fourth place. Winnipeg has a real nice ball team—too nice to be comfortable for the Sox to have them at the head of the percentage column. The series now on will tell whether Smith & Gang can hope to do anything with the present makeup. If they can get even two out of the five games, the fans should be satisfied that, with the improvements bound to come with the advanced season, the Sox will be able to hold their own with the others and, perhaps do a little better.

Just a word to the fans who took the defeates in the Copper country very much to heart. The boys are coming home next week for a stay of three long weeks. There's one thing certain in connection with their achievements thus far. They have been playing the best kind of ball they know how, but misfortune came upon them. Let's get one more good look at them, before we pass judgment. Everybody get out and yell. Ball players like encouragement. Show them you want a winning team and you would rather see the boys wearing the blue uniform at present win than any others. They will try to deliver the goods. Don't mark them for the tinware just as soon as they lose a game. Boost just as long as you consistently can, in the hope that the tide will turn and then, if there's not enough doing in the win column, it'll be time for changes.

Twenty-five Trout a Day.

If a zealous game warden should amble along the shores of any of the trout streams in the vicinity of Duluth some fine day when the fish are biting and should come across a particularly successful fisherman he would probably find work, which would bring the successful one before the bar of justice.

For it's ten chances to one that one-half of the fishermen who go into the woods at present don't know that they are allowed to catch but twenty-five fish in one day. Under the old law, they were allowed fifty, but under a statute adopted at the late session of the legislature, they are restricted to twenty-five in any one day.

Every now and then, some fisherman comes into town with a story of having been out one day and taking from the waters forty-five or fifty trout, "just as easy." The man who has such a story to tell may well keep it untold. Twenty-five fish is enough for any man to take in one day, for he can't use them all himself, though he be a regular glutton for the toothsome trout. The law is plain on the subject and the man who takes over twenty-five fish is liable to arrest and punishment. The over-ardent fishermen would do well to keep within the law, for the protection of the fish and his own well-being.

English Hard Losers.

If there is a country on the face of this sportingly inclined sphere which contains poorer sportsmen than England, it has yet to be shown up in its true colors. England was thought to be a fair-dealing community in its sports, a few exhibitions of peevishness notwithstanding, but the treatment the English sportsmen accorded Richard Croker, when his splendid American horse, Orby, won the English classic, shows them up as the prize hard losers.

One might excuse a display of poor spirit on the part of the English people, who have an innate dislike to an American who succeds across the water, but one would hardly expect it in the king. But when Orby won the Derby, King Edward upset all traditions of the realm by sitting calmly in his box, instead of coming down and shaking hands with the owner of the winning horse.

The English may consider Croker any kind of a grafter and boodler they will, but for the king of the realm to refuse to give him the recognition any other horse owner would receive, had he fairly won the great event, seems incredible to those who know the hold tradition has upon the English people and royalty, especially. In England, they take their hats off to the winner of the Derby as he crosses the line. They did last week, before they knew whose horse was the winner. It is possible they would have omitted that tribute to the horse also, had they known it was owned by a despised American. Such actions as those which blotched the fair name of England on Derby day this year are not in common with the spirit of fairness with which that nation has been credited and in the international sporting world. Great Britain's stock will go away down below par.

Copper Country Attendance.

There's something wrong with the Copper country, speaking from a baseball standpoint, if one may judge by the "crowds" which turned out to the games in the series just closed. Neither Winnipeg nor Duluth made any money and the home teams certainly didn't, for the crowds averaged 100 people or so in both Houghton and Calumet. At one game in Houghton there were eight paid admissions.

The trouble may be traced in the standing of the Houghton and Calumet teams, but the real baseball fan will turn out to see his home team play, even if it is on the tail end and it is very evident that real baseball fans are as scarce in the Copper country as peek-a-boo waists in Alaska.

The Houghton and Calumet teams have been losing, but it's certain some team must be at the bottom and if the Copper country people aren't willing to support and encourage their players, they may as well chuck over professional ball altogether. Every time Duluth suggests seeking admission to the Wisconsin State or the American association, there's a howl from the Copper country, that can be heard in China. They say that Duluth shouldn't cut away from a good paying territory like the land of the red metal, but unless the delvers come across with the change to support the game there, Duluth will certainly cut away next year and Winnipeg is very likely to do something of the same sort. Duluth and Winnipeg may be able to carry Houghton and Calumet through the season, but two live ball towns would help a whole lot toward making the magnates of the two banner cities of the league satisfied to sink money into ball teams in the hope of having it returned.

Gentlemanly Athletics.

After the story of Chicago's contemptible action in a recent baseball game in playing two men under the same name in one game, the story of a refreshing bit of gentlemanly conduct in the recent intercollegiate meet at Boston is welcome proof that the true spirit of friendly rivalry in college athletics still lives. A dispatch from Boston says:

"Rowe of Michigan and Magoffin of Cornell, the great distance runners, who made the two-mile race in the Stadium one that will always be remembered by all who saw the wonderful finish, furnished as well an instance of what gentlemanly rivalry means in college sport. Rowe finished six yards ahead of Magoffin. The interest in the race overshadowed all others among the students in both universities, who had backed their respective men to the limit. When the race ended, Magoffin held out his hand to Rowe, congratulated him with a tired smile, and later in the dressing room the two exchanged running shirts—the maize M for the red C—as mementoes of the great fight to the tape."

Such men as Magoffin and Rowe keep college sport alive. They play fair, all they do is in the open, and though they are rivals, they are still gentlemen. The story compares with that of the Carlisle football player who, tackled a few yards from his opponents' line when a touchdown seemed assured, heartily grasped the tackler's hand and murmured, "Good tackle." The man who knows how to lose with good spirit is worth a hundred winners who can afford to be charitable in their glory.

The Nevada Sports.

The gentlemen who stage bruising bouts in Nevada for the benefit of the sports of that flourishing commonwealth are bound to show the world that they're real sports. After Tex Richard and Mike Riley had done their little stunt with fabulous purses for the mit artists to get in the roped square and pound each other, the Schreck-Wille fight was arranged and just about then, Riley went under.

But Nevada was too sporty to allow such a little thing to destroy its sportive equilibrium and W. H. Johnson and Abe Brown stepped in, put up $3,000 and saved the day by putting on the fight. They then went ahead and sent Schreck against Hart Decoration day. They had a good crowd and cleaned up a nice bunch of money. But wonder of wonders, they upset all traditions of the sporting world by turning over the net proceeds to a hospital and they say they will do likewise whenever they make any money on prize fights. Oh, Nevada, will certainly show the world a few things in the sporting world and the twin reigning monarchs of the good sports are W. H. Johnson and Abe Brown.

The Salary Limit.

Frank Mullane's action in leaving Calumet because he wasn't allowed money enough to secure a team capable of coping with the others in the league emphasizes the fact that the Northern-Copper Country league cannot have good baseball played by well-matched teams, unless everybody keeps within the salary limit.

Mullane wanted more money, but the Calumet magnates were intent on keeping within the limit, and they refused. It's a good guess that Winnipeg is over the limit right now, and it certainly was for a good stretch, as Dr. Glass ordered Mullane Wanted More Coin.

Herr to pitch no more games, his salary bringing the contract salary list over the limit. Duluth must cut some to keep within, and Houghton also isn't far from over.

The magnates who exceed the salary limit in the hope of winning the pennant, are hurting the game in the Northwest and hurting their own pockets. More money can be made by all concerned with four $1,100 teams than with one or two over that sum and the remainder under. The fans of the circuit haven't shown that they can support anything better than $1,100 teams, and unless they do, the limit will not be raised. But exceeding the salary limit will certainly kill the game, and it's up to President Glass to prevent anything of the kind occurring.

Cut Out Training Trip.

President M. S. Robinson of the St. Louis National league baseball club comes out in a statement, in which he says that the Cardinals will take no more spring training trips and play no more spring series with the Browns. Robinson certainly has a good backbone to talk of breaking baseball tradition by cutting out the spring training trip, but he's talking sense at the same time. Players can be conditioned at home, regardless of where the home may be, with much less expense and trouble. It is practically certain that the big league season in future years will not open as early as it did this season and the big league magnates will save a pretty penny by putting the players in shape on their own lots.

They're Falling Away.

How have the mighty fallen!

George Stone the wonder of the American league last year is batting exactly .200. Hal Chase is hitting at a .216 clip and Willie Keeler, for years one of the best hitters in oragnized baseball, is hitting .219. Have the American league pitchers improved so that they can take caro of the hitting wonders, or are the idols of the fans going back?

Schreck Looks Good.

Mike Schreck looks good for Tex Richard and Tex is very anxious to have Mike climb farther up the pugilistic ladder. The latest move of the man, who set the world of fisticuffs to talking with his purse of $30,000 for the Gans-Nelson fight, is to offer to back Mike for $10,000 as a side bet for a match with the winner of the Squires-Burns fight July 4, and also guarantee a purse of $20,000 for a match September 9. Both Squires and Burns are agreeable and there's a prospect that the fight will come off. Mike has it coming. He's fought square all the way and there's many a fight fan who would be tickled in his drifting vertebrae if the Cincinnati Dutchman would put it over either the Canadian or the man from Kangarooland.

Anti-Fake Boxing Rules.

The result of the O'Brien-Burns fight and the succeeding revelations has made the fight public wary. Only in Nevada can the game be said to be still alive and there, the promoters and the public are wary and no $30,000 purses have been offered lately. A Utah boxing crank, who wants to see the game flourish there, has compiled a set of rules, which he suggests be adopted to govern fights. They appear to cover the situation pretty thoroughly, but there's nothing in them to prevent one boxer scientifically lying down to the other.

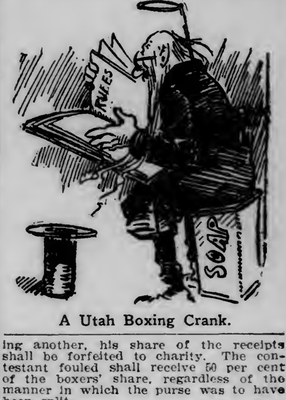

They are given for what they're worth:

First—This contest shall be for ten rounds to a decision in which one contestant must win. If at the end of ten rounds the referee is unable to decide a winner, he shall order additional rounds until he is able to do so.

Second—Under no circumstances shall either contestant be given any of the receipts until the contest is over and a decision given.

Third—The club and each contestant shall post a forfeit, to stand as a guarantee for the contest, the appearance of the contestants in the ring, for weight and the fulfillment of these rules. This forfeit shall remain up until after the contest.

Fourth—In case of one contestant foul-

ing another, his share of the receipts shall be forfeited to charity. The contestant fouled shall receive 50 per cent of the boxers' share, regardless of the manner in which the purse was to have been split.

Fifth—The club shall have coupon tickets printed so admissions may be refunded if it is found necessary to do so.

Sixth—If the referee decides no contest, he may forfeit either one or both the contestants' forfeit money to the club and order the return of the admission money.

Seventh—A committee of five shall be appointed to sit in judgment of the contest. Either contestant or the club shall have power to appeal from the decision of the referee, or the committee shall have the power to change a decision if it deems it necessary.

MAROONS IN LONG GAME

Great Contest at Athletic Park Won by Winnipeg.

Cummings Lifted Ball Over Left Field Fence Twice.

The crowd that saw yesterday's game between Winnipeg and Duluth at Athletic park were given more for their money than in any previous game this year. For fifteen long innings the teams battled, first one having the advantage, then the other, until finally in the fifteenth Winnipeg fell on Krick for a cluster of hits and four runs, winning by 11 to 7.

It was certainly a great game for the spectators, and a heartrending one for the players. Twice, by rank errors, the Sox threw the lead into the hands of the Canadians, only to come back and swat in enough runs to tie it up again. The crowd was kept constantly on edge, and it was anybody's game from the first tap of the bell until the last man was out. Every variety of playing known to organized ball was dished out. There were brilliant stops and execrable fumbles, hard hitting and great pitching out of holes, bonehead, bush league ball and great headwork. Every moment brought forth some new development to bring the fans to their feet to cheer or yell their disapproval.

The Sox won the game with their stick-work, and threw it away with their errors. The "Invincible" Terry can thank his lucky constellations that the Sox did play poorly in the field at times. He hasn't been handed such a slugging this year as he got yesterday, and it was only his great good fortune that saved him from defeat. Of the twelve hits made by the Sox, five were for two sacks and two were over the left field fence for homers, both by Cummings. That Cummings boy was the king bear of the Teddy cubs yesterday, and there was fuz all over him. If anybody dares to mention that there isn't a hitting pitcher in the league, refer him to a Duluth fan, who saw his performance yesterday. He wasn't pitching, but the fact remains that he was all there. Twice he lifted the sphere over the fence for clean drives, the second time driving two men in ahead of him. Then, again, with the 'Peggers one to the good in the twelfth, he hit for two sacks, and was followed by McCormick with ditto, scoring the run which knotted it up again for three more innings. If there was any one wearer of the white hosiery who did all in his power to win that game it was Cummings.

Big McCormick wasn't far behind. He, too, gathered a third of the Sox total of bingles, and two of them were good for an extra quarter. Both Cummings and McCormick fell down in the field at critical times, but they made good with the stick, and such hitting as theirs takes the sting from the defeat.

Treadway started the game for the Sox, and he got away nicely. In the fourth the team went to pieces behind him and, to all appearances, the game went across the border right there. The boys didn't seem to have any confidence in Treadway. He was illinging good ball and, though they secured two scratch singles and a three-sacker in the fourth, the side should have been retired without result. But Cummings fell down and Smith fell down, and the support on the whole was not what it should have been. The Six came back and put themselves one to the good in their half of the fourth, and Smith thought it better to relieve Treadway to improve the team play. Leslie Krick held the red clad ones well in hand for four innings, but in the ninth a lucky single tied it, and in the fifteenth they fell all over him.

The Sox started at Terry from the jump off. Livingston connected with the first ball pitched and lifted it over the left field fence, but it was a few feet foul, and on returning he whiffed. But Cummings saw Livy's lead and he straightened one a little more for a clean one into the next block. Goldsmith followed with two sacks and McCormick drove him in with a single.

The lead was good until the fourth, when the Sox passed it over to Herr's gang. Monroe fanned and Tread gave Crisp a ticket to first. He pilfered the next station and registered on King's long single. Sensenback singled, King taking third and King scored a moment later, when Smith dropped Cummings's throw from Terry's grounder. Sensenback swiped second during the fun. Piper hit one at Cummings and Al tried to get Sensenback racing for home. The ball hit the runner and rolled to the stand, Terry also crossing and Piper going to third. Lederus fanned, but Chesty Cox was there with a triple, scoring Piper. Zeider went out to Leighty.

The Sox didn't let the Canucks have the lead for very long. Leighty singled but was caught at second on Smith's grounder. Haney fanned. Treadway hit a high one to Monroe, who dropped it. Smith taking third. Livingston rapped out a two-sacker, and Smith scored, and then came the Cummings youth again. To oblige the clamoring crowd and show that his previous homer wasn't an accident, he lost another ball out toward West Duluth somewhere, and chased Treadway and Livingston in ahead of him.

The one lead was good until the ninth, although Krick had to pull himself out of a bad hole in the eighth. In the ninth, Zeider singled, stole second and scored on Crisp's single after Monroe had fanned.

The twelfth was a decidedly interesting session. To all appearances the Sox again handed the Maroons the game. Monroe singled, but was caught in a double. King hit to Cummings, who toppled over and Sensenback felt one of Krick's speedy ones connect with his anatomy. Terry then popped a long one at McCormick, who ran around in a circle and then let the ball go through him. King crossed the plate and Cummings took care of Piper's grounder.

Remorse struck Cummings and they set out to redeem their well nigh disastrous boobles. Al started the inning with a two sacker, and stood at the station while Goldsmith went out to Cox. McCormick had been shaking up the timber in the right field fence all afternoon, and he made up for his blunder by repeating his trick of former occasions. Chesty was sent on a merry hunt for the ball while Cummings was ambling to the wire. Tracey sent McCormick to second with a grounder, which King muffled and while the hearts of the fans were dropping to their normal position, the next two men went out.

Terry was growing stronger every inning and Krick was visibly weakening, but he managed to stave off the Maroons for two rounds. In the thirteenth Cox was nabbed at the plate by McCormick, and in the fourteenth, King died on third. But in the fifteenth the end came. Luderus walked and Krick fumbled Cox's slow grounder. Zeider scored Luderus with a single and Monroe populated the sacks to their full capaicty with another safe smash. Crisp didn't want to take any more chances with a one-run lead, so he poked one out for three sacks and cleared the stations. Nothing doing for the Sox in their half.

The detailed score follows:

MICHIGAN IN DISCARD

Prediction That Houghton and Calumet Will be Dropped.

The Attendance There Has Been Very Disappointing.

Houghton, Mich., June 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local baseball authorities claim that within the present month the Northern-Copper Country league will break up and that the Duluth and Winnipeg teams will withdraw on account of the small gate receipts in the Copper country, which have ben insufficient to keep the expenses of the teams down while they were in this region during the past two weeks. The Duluth and Winnipeg teams have been alternating between Houghton and Calumet for the past twelve or fourteen days and the average attendance, excepting Sundays, at Houghton has been 50 and at Calumet, where no Sunday games are played, it has been about 75. The Sunday attendance at Houghton has been in the neighborhood of 600.

The attendance in the Western towns has been good from the beginning of the season, but the fans and those up on the inside matters of the league, do not think the Western managements will stand for this small show of interest in the Copper country towns—in other words the Winnipeg and Duluth managements do not wish to support the Copper country teams as well as their own.

Strictly professional teams can not be made to get the money in the Copper country. In the old days of the Copper Country-Soo league, when every town was made up partially of local players, the small towns of this district turned out good sized crowds to the games which were played twice each week, Saturdays and Sundays. But they can't stand for baseball every day, and it is likely that the league will not last long.

It is thought here that the Duluth and Winnipeg people will attempt to reorganize the old Northern league, taking back Grand Forks, Fargo and other such towns, or else secure games for the balance of the season with the towns of the Western Canadian league, and get a new league together next year.

The trouble with the Houghton team seems to be that the men do not pull together as they should. Manager Taylor got all good men together, but they do not appear to work in the right manner and forget all about inside ball, and play like a lot of dubs in close games. Stewart is not doing his work behind the bat as he should and Taylor at second is not up to his form of last year. Billy Brand is missed. He should be at second with Taylor at short. Bitting at short is picking up, but he has not the form of a fast ball player, although he is hitting well in almost every game and fields his position fairly well. Sundheim at third is working well on the sack, but is not hitting. Solbraa has improved over his last year's form, as has Center Fielder Si Loughlin. Olson in left is doing good work, but Meyers in right is evidently working for his release, as he generally drops a fly ball in every game with one or more men on bases, letting in a few runs. He is not sticking the ball as he should, either.

Taylor was relieved of the management of the team at his own request, although the owners did not wish to let him go. He asked several days ago to be relieved. He will continue to cover the second sack, however. Solbraa will make a good captain, and the men like him.

IN RANKS OF THE AMATEURS

Several of Corner-Lot Games to be Played Sunday.

Corner lot games without number are on the bill for tomorrow. The commercial clubs are now getting into action and nearly every business house and office in the city is represented by some sort of an aggregation of would-be sphere chasers. And some of them aren't so bad at that. The teams in the city league put up a pretty fair article of ball and now and then one happens on a crowd of future greats, who play a variety of the national game, which, matched as the teams are, would put some of the teams of the "Grasshopper" league to the blush.

Tomorrow the Kelley Hardware team, which on the face of things, is the premier amateur aggregation of the city, will go to Cloquet to meet the fast independent nine there. The Kelley team will be complete and the boys expect to win. Sam Menecie will pitch, while Ernie Larson, the regular pitcher, who has a lame ankle, will play first base. Tommy Robinson will officiate with the pad. Cloquet played the Fitwells last Sunday, defeating them in twelve innings and a good game tomorrow is expected.

The Big Duluths will go to Virginia in the morning and tomorrow afternoon will meet the range team. Virginia has a strong aggregation this year, for the little town is intent on gathering some of the baseball honors, which have been going the way of Hibbing and others in recent years. The Big Duluths have not played much ball this year, but Capt. Sturm has gathered around him some of the best amateur players of the city and, with what practice they have had, they expect to give Virginia a good contest, at least. Murphy and Dormuth will form a battery for the Big Duluths.

In the Duluth City league the Columbias and Larsons will meet, and the News Tribune will play the Oak Halls. The Columbias won last Sunday, while the Larsons lost and both the News Tribunes and Oak Halls have lost one game, so one of them is bound to break into the percentage column tomorrow.

The first game in the newly organized Duluth Commercial Baseball league will be played this afternoon, when the F. A. Patrick nine will play Marshall-Wells at Thirty-second avenue west, and the Stone-Ordean-Wells and Y. M. C. A. teams will meet at Lakeside. The four teams comprise the Commercial league and a schedule of twelve games has been arranged for the season, the teams playing every Saturday up to Aug. 31.

MYERS HAS EASY TIME

Local Man Collapsed While Wrestling for Third Fall.

There was nothing to it but Myers in the wrestling match at the Metropolitan opera house last night between George Milton of this city and Frank Myers of Minneapolis, lightweight champion of the Northwest. The Minneapolis man had it on the Duluth midget all the way taking the first fall easily and winning the match when Milton collapsed, after three minutes of wrestling for the third fall. Milton took the second fall in eight minutes.

Before the match, both men pronounced themselves in the very best possible condition and they looked it. Myers had an advantage in weight, scaling about 123 to Milton's 117. The men hadn't been on the mat two minutes, before it was seen that Myers has a clear claim to his title. He was lightning fast and it was evident he was much stronger than Milton, for the local man couldn't hold against him. After about two minutes of wrestling, Myers got Milton in a scissors around the body and, coupled with a hammerlock, the hold pinned Milton's shoulders to the mat in four minutes.

Milton made his last desperate stand when the two took to the mat again. Myers assumed the defensive for the greater part of the time and Milton enabled him to crawl out of everything. He turned on Milton once or twice and at one time secured the deadly scissors, punishing the local man severely, but Milton gamely worked and crawled out. At last, after eight minutes of wrestling, Milton pinned Myers to the mat with a headlock and arm hold. Milton was almost on the point of collapse when he went to his corner.

The two men started swiftly for the final round and for a couple of minutes, they whirled around on the mat in great style. Milton was under and Myers working over him, when suddenly Milton collapsed completely, going off into unconsciousness. Referee Madden awarded Myers the match, giving the time of the last fall as three minutes. Milton's seconds brought him back to life after a few minutes of work and he was able to go to his dressing room. Myers announced that he is open to meet any man in the work at 122 pounds.

There were four fast preliminaries to the main bout. Charles Milton threw Kid Montgomery two straight falls in six minutes and thirty seconds, and two minutes and thirty seconds, respectively. Tommy Doyle threw Wid Deehan twice, taking a little over four minutes for each fall. Both matches were fast and interesting, the boys showing a good knowledge of the game. Kid Beaty and Clarence Bemis also put up a good match, though Bemis' superior weight made it easy for him. Bemis took the first fall in four minutes and forty seconds, Beaty got the second in four minutes and fifteen seconds and Bemis easily took the third in one minute and five seconds.

Joe Ziehr of Calumet, Mich., champion Cornish wrestler of the world, gave an exhibition at that style with Albert Crago of Hibbing, Ziehr throwing Crago twice, the first fall in two minutes, with three hitches, and the seconds in five minutes with six hitches. Ziehr went to the mat but once.

LOVE'S PROMPTER.

Pearson's Weekly: He was sitting alone on the veranda, and close by him sat a young and pretty widow and a little 6-year-old son.

The little fellow ran up to the gentleman, who patted him on the head.

"What's your name?" the little boy asked.

He told him.

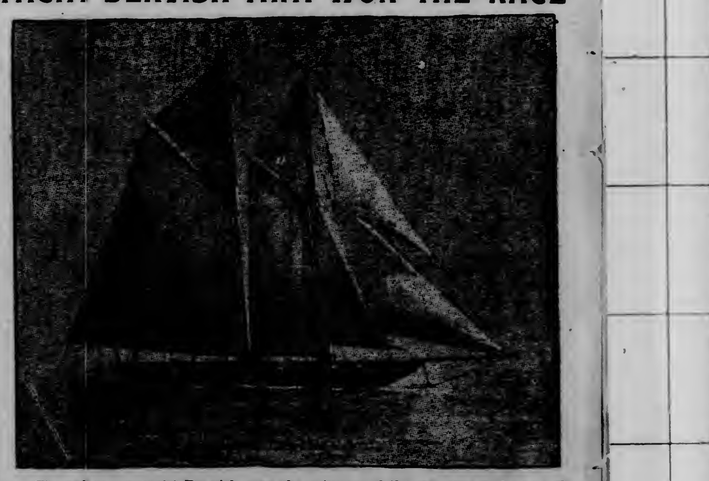

"Is you married?" he lisped.

"No, I am not," was the reply.

Then the child paused a moment, and, turning to his mother, said:

"Mamma, what else did you tell me to ask him?"

Joe Riehr, Cornish Wrestler, Wants Match in Duluth.

Claims to Hold World Championship at Cornish Style.

Those who witnesed the Myers-Milton wrestling match at the Metropolitan last night were treated to a novelty in a Cornish wrestling match between Joe Ziehr of Calumet, Mich., and Albert Crago of Hibbing. There were but few in the audience, who had seen Cornish wrestling before, and they took a deep interest in the match. The men were handicapped by the small mat, as the Cornish game calls for a sawdust ring, but the men mixed things up pretty well and gave the uninitiated a good idea of the game.

Ziehr is a celebrity in the Cornish wrestling world and claims the championship of the world in that style, with good right. He has met and defeated some of the best men wrestling with the jackets, and for years past has not found a man able to cope with him. He is an athlete in stature, of middle height and stockily built, with a splendid physical development. Handicapped as he was by the conditions last night, he showed some of his skill in several of the hitches, his leg work being especially good.

Ziehr is in Duluth looking for a match, as he says there is nothing in sight at his game in Michigan. He issues a challenge to any one in the world, having no preferences and barring none.

"You may say for me that I will meet any man in the world at Cornish wrestling," he said last night. "I bar no man and have no preferences. The first man expressing a willingness to make a match will be taken on. I am in good condition right now and, with but a few days to prepare, will be ready to go into the ring."

Local followers of the wrestling game would like to see a Cornish match arranged, as it has fascinations novel and different from the catch-as-catch can style. There are a number of former Cornish wrestlers in the city, but none able to cope with Ziehr, as far as is known. It is not improbable that the range could produce a man for a match. Ziehr wrestled here two years ago at the Lyceum, when he was climbing upward, and he put up a great match at that time. Since then, he has won several tournaments, and is in better shape now than ever.

Cornish wrestlers work with loose jackets of canvas, which furnish the means of securing holds. The men wrestle standing, a hitch being called when one or both go to the ground. If the man thrown strikes with three points down (two shoulders and a hip, or two hips and a shoulder), a fall is called. Every match is three falls in five. Strength, agility and ability to use the legs to advantage are the qualities cultivated by the Cornish wrestling, and two good men can furnish a great match.

The manager of Maurice Harris of Superior was at the Metropolitan last night and before the Myers-Milton match, he issued a challenge to the winner on behalf of his man. It is doubtful if Myers will take Harris on, as the Superior man is in the lightweight division, scaling 133 pounds. It is probable, however, that a handicap match will be made. Harris agreeing to throw Myers a stipulate number of times in an hour. Harris is also willing to meet any man in the Northwest at his own weight.

THE EAST END JUNIORS.

At last the fishermen have come into their own. After shivering in the cold blasts and watching the snow fall to swell the streams all spring, while they looked longingly toward the woods and sighed for the quiet nook where the trout bite best, the weather man has extended to them the hand of mercy, sent along the beautiful June weather and the anglers are joyfully shouldering their poles and hiking for the streams, where they know the speckled beauties are only waiting for man to come with his deceptive bait.

Fearful that they would lose one of the fine days, the ardent ones trooped out into the woods all during the past week, returning with wonderful stories of great catches and tough experiences on their lips, and a quiet rejoicing of satisfaction in their hearts. Whether the fisherman braved the elements previously this spring since the season opened or not, he cannot resist the call of the wild on those beautiful June mornings, and many an office is shy its head, and many a head is shy his subordinates, while they stand knee-deep in the waters of some stream far away and cast into the hole, which they know contains the prizes they covet.

Lester, French and Sucker rivers have claimed the big portion of the hordes, which have gone for trout thus far this spring, and any fine day a walk along the banks of one of those streams will reveal scores of ardent wielders of the rod standing on equal ground for the time being—the democracy of the sportsman. Here a branch cut from a nearby tree supporting a piece of twine and a hook bought with a penny earned, goodness knows where, is held by the grimy hand of an urchin, while next to him stands a portly man of the world, in all the glory of an expensive rod and the best of paraphernalia that money can buy. Here again is the whole bamboo rod, carried to and fro on each trip over the shoulder of the owner, while again the expensive split bamboo and steel rods flash among their cheaper brothers. But neither rod, nor line, nor reel, nor sinker, count for anything in the pursuit of the common prize. The grimy urchin may catch quite the number of fish the portly business man may put in his basket, for he has an equal chance.

Some wonderful catches have been made this year on some of the nearby streams. Fishermen are unable to explain whether it is the lateness of the season, or some other conditions of weather or stream, but the fish are biting beautifully and some of the lucky ones have pulled out numbers to make their heart glad. One fisherman declared, yesterday, that he never saw so many large catches in one season as he has seen thus far this month, and in it he is supported by others, who have been out on the streams.

Tomorrow will be a great day. Everyone who can break away from the cares of home will be out in the woods, providing religious scruples do not deter. Every stream in the vicinity of Duluth will draw its full quota, some going up the rivers, some along the railroads running north and west, and some will remain near at home and like to their favorite sport. The Sucker, French, Lester, Pine, Rocky, Midway, Mogan, Knife, Splitrock, Gooseberry, Fisher, Silver and Blackhoof will all be fished from headwaters to mouth tomorrow, and if they continue to bite as they have during the past week, many a trout will come to grief.

The bass season is also in full swing now, the spawning period having passed and the true fishermen, who would not take bass while they are in spawn, may satisfy their sportive inclinations. The bass is the gamest of them all, and great sport will be afforded in the weeks to come by the black beauties in the lakes of the vicinity. Deerwood, Grand Rapids, Sturgeon Lake, Vermilion Lake, and the string of lakes along the New Albora branch are all being visited of late by the bass fishermen, and some good hauls are reported by those who are ready to forsake the trout fishing opportunities for the gamer variety of the piscatorial family.

KNOCKERS RUIN BALL PLAYERS

Some Instances Where Mallet-Wielding Fans Have Spoiled the Careers of Diamond Artists.

Baseball players who have been in the business for a long time—long enough to find out by experience the insidiousness and the almost uncanny spreading power of the littlest bit of knock—dread the fan with the mallet, says the New York Telegraph. The fan with the mallet makes a noise like a small boy with a new drum. Worse than that, however, he repeats his little self-invented and personally conducted knock so often that he eventually comes to believe it himself. He clings to the knock through fire and water. He fights for it like a man battling for home and hearthstone. It's his'n, and he's going to stay with it. Just a few of these mallet-wielding fans are capable of unraveling a ball player's carefully maintained reputation.

To elucidate: A ball player wakes up some fine morning and finds that he has had the reputation of being a souse thrust upon him. He is a man, perhaps, who takes a glass of beer every three or four days during the playing season.

He is standing up before a bar, taking one of these rare glasses of malt, in a cafe in h sicliub town some evening, when a couple of the mallet-wielding fans, passing through, happen to catch him in the act.

"Ho, ho!" says one of the knockers to the other. "Tosser lickin' up a scuttle of suds, hey?"

"Huh! It's no wonder he's goin' back in his work," replies the other spiker, and they part and go their ways. Each has the sprouting seed of the knock implanted in his midriff.

"I saw Tosser lappin' up a few down town last night," says one of the mallet-wielders at the game next day.

"So that's the answer, hey?" says the friend alongside of him. "I kind o' thought he looked as if he hadn't got out o' bed yet."

"Look how's he sweatin' in his workout!" exclaims the fan further along the line. "He can't bend over without the old stuff just pourin' out of him."

Tosser, through pure chance, puts up rather an off game for him that day, making a couple of errors. And in the meantime the knock has been set on its travels.

Here is the way it develops and grows by secretion as it is carried down the line by the mallet-wielders:

The calumnies thus spread about often embrace the personnel of a whole team.

Early one season, for instance, the knock gathered immense headway that Jimmy Collins's troupe had developed into an aggregation of suds artists, which accounted for the Boston team's failure to show any form whatever at the outset of the season. This story was particularly widespread in the city of Detroit, where it seemed as if every fan believed it implicitly.

As a simple matter of fact, the story first got out in Detroit, and thence it spread all over the country. And, incredible as it may seem, here is the way that story got out in Detroit:

When the Boston team hit Detroit for the first time they were a bodily sore lot of players, for they had been playing in all kinds of raw weather, and the chilling blasts of the field had got into their bones. They were stiff and glassy as a bunch. In Detroit they began to systematically attempt to rub themselves out of their soreness. They bought a quantity of witch hazel and alcohol wherewith to give themselves semi-daily rubs for their soreness. They all bought their witch hazel and alcohol at an establishment near their Detroit hotel, where such goods were sold in flasks—flasks that looked like ordinary pint whisky flasks. So, when they quit their Detroit hotel the shelves of their room closets were found to be covered and cluttered with the flasks. The chambermaids of the hotel commented upon this fact to the bell hops. The bell hops spread the yarn around that three or four bushels of booze flasks had been taken from the rooms of the Boston players when they left their Detroit hotel. And there you are again! The Bostons who were put down as amiable old soaks, who were just ripping and roaring around the country having a sozzled time of it at the expense of the management, and not caring a durn whether they played any kind of baseball or net. And all the time they were the hardest working players and hardest losers of any team in the American League, until they saw that the Indian sign was on them for fair, and that they wouldn't have any chance at all for even a smell at the pennant.

It was also widely gossiped that the Boston American team made a specialty of touching the electric button for the rum-dispensing porter while traveling on the cars. This yarn had its origin in the fact, that on one of its Western trips, the Boston team didn't have the entire sleeper, as is generally the case with traveling ball clubs. One end of the sleeper was given over to a wild and woolly party of eight hilarious drunks bound for the same town as the Boston team, and this octet of Indians cleaned out the buffet car and then shook dice for the contents of the chemical fire extinguishers while making their little ride. A little bunch of traveling mallet-wielding baseball fans who happened to look into the car during the journey saw and heard the weird and wild joyousness at one end of the car and then they popped back to their own cars and spread the story that the Boston ball players were all spifficated and trying to eat each other's ears off. When the mallet wielders got off the train they kept their little knock-spreading gait up, and that's how that story about the Bostons drinking rum a-rail got going. I took one 800-mile ride with those same Bostons just about the time this yarn was getting its full stride, and during all that tiresome journey I didn't see one man of the club taking one eighth of one glass of beer. There wasn't a button-toucher among them. They were as sedate as a bunch of theological students bound for examination. Most of them, in fact, spent most of the time of th ride "in the hay" pounding their ears.

In Detroit one summer there was a knock going the rounds that half a dozen members of the Detroit team were devoting themselves so assiduously and so incessantly to gambling in a whole lot of different forms that they had no time nor inclination to play baseball. One of these knocks, alleged to be funny, was to the effect that right after one of the games in Chicago, in which the Chicagos had overwhelmed the Detroit club, one of these alleged gambling players in going off the field had bawled to some of his alleged gambling mates: "Well, come on back to the hotel, fellers, and we'll settle down to the real national game," whereupon right after their meal, they all sat down and played poker all night for huge stakes. Another of these yarns recited the story that on the train from Detroit to St. Louis a crap game had started up among the members of the Detroit club and that on one pass they'd chucked the bones for $2,000.

Unique balderdash and moonshine, all of that. There wasn't a man possessed of the gambling bug in all that aggregation of ball players on Detroit's list—not one. They played poker among themselves very rarely—not one-third as often as the players of most of the other clubs—and when they did play it was that little 10-cent limit game, in which all hands cash in 8 cents or 14 cents winner at the wind-up of the sitting. There wasn't any crap game at all among the Detroit players on the train, much less a crap game at which that mere little bag o' shells, $2,000, was staked at one chunk. The knock went on to say that while the Detroit team was in New York all of the members of the club who weren't booked to play went to the New York race track every day and attempted to make Bookmakers George Wheelock and Sol Lichtenstein look like pikers on the dead line in the free field. Not one member of the Detroit club went to the New York race track, and this in the face of the fact that every day some "good thing" was pushed at them by New York friends, and several of these good things went through at figures all the way up to 60 to 1.

A topnotch player belonging to one of the Western clubs "disappeared" for three days during one of the long series of home games in the middle of the last season. The mallet wielders instantly had something to gnaw upon. There was only one way for them to handicap that situation: The player had embarked upon one gigantic, monolithic, Brobdigagian divvie of a drunk, and was "layin' up" somewhere with the concentrated juice of the corn just dribbling out of his ears. As a matter of fact, the player, with the full knowledge and consent of his manager, had returned to his Eastern home town to be with his wife on a certain critical and important occasion—the first in the family. The ball player, a modest chap, wasn't advertising his domestic happenings, and so, when he was sent for by wire he just tipped off his manager, got the word, "Go on, boy, and here's hoping it weighs 17 pounds," and went his way. That's all there was to that knock. When at the end of three days the player returned, looking a bit pale around the gills, for he'd been traveling a bit, and his wife had had a little battle for her life, the mallet wielders took his pallor as completely confirming it that he'd been engaged in tossing the long ones into his system during the three days of his absence.

Another player, an old-time catcher, whose playing never seems to deteriorate, remarked, off-hand, in a Western hotel lobby one evening: "I don't feel quite as limber as I used to." Some of the hammersmiths happened to overhear the remark. It was all over the Western towns immediately that this catcher had observed of himself:

"I'm a bum at catching nowadays, and all in. I couldn't catch the chicken pox at a boys' school. I feel like I'm 112 years old, and this is my last year. It's me to take in plain sewing after this season. I'm the worst wornout old stiff in the business."

Dread the mallet-wielders? Is it any wonder that the old-timers in the game, who know the knockers' power for evil, dread 'em?

STRANGE LIFE OF ADVENTURE

Fortune Hunter With Plenty of Nerve Served Many Countries and Held High Positions.

Seated around the table of an uptown cafe were several men who had been in South Africa at various times, and they were busily engaged discussing the different persons who had assisted in making history in that country, says the New York Herald.

Suddenly the conversation turned to Digby Willoughby, and one of the party who had served with him in Basutoland waxed reminiscent. "Poor old Diggy, what a wonderful man he was. If he had only been in the regular service what a success he would have made! I think, in fact I am sure, that he would now have been a general, and it seemed t sad pity that his life should have been wasted.

"And yet, after all, his life was not wasted, for what hero of romance ever had such adventures? I first met him in 1880. Then he was an auctioneer's assistant. Scoones & Willoughby was the name of the firm. For he was afterward taken into partnership by his boss. Before that he had served in Lonsdale's Horse in the Zulu war, and had served with distinction, too. After the war was over he came to Pietermaritzburg and settled down to business.

"I think auctioneering, however, was too tame for him, for he joined a theatrical company which was then playing in the town, and that same company had some very wonderful persons in it. Among others there was a man named Veitch, who had retired from the British army. He afterward died in the Congo. He had gone out in charge of an expedition for the king of the Belgians and a lot of other people who afterward became famous.

"Willoughby did not stick long at theatricals, however. He soon began to sigh for fresh fields to conquer, so when the Basuto war broke out he cabled to the war office in England offering to raise a regiment of irregular cavalry for service in that disturbed district.

"Well, the war office did not know much about him, but he received word to go ahead, and what a regiment he did raise—all the remittance men and colonial failures, but they were a splendid lot of fighting men and were ready to go anywhere that the colonel wanted, or do anything that he ordered.

"I shall never forget our start from Pietermaritzburg. The ladies of the town wanted to present the regiment with a magnificent silk flag, and Col. Willoughby, resplendent in full uniform, had his regiment formed up in front of the Royal hotel. The various troops were lined, their horses' feet in the gutter of the sidewalk, and after the ceremony was over, Col. Willoughby, to save his life, did not know what word of command to give to get the men away. Finally, after a brief conversation with an old sergeant of the Cape Mounted Rifles, he gave the order, 'Rein back, march!' then 'Fours left!' and amid the enthusiastic cheers of the crowd we marched away.

"We did not have much of a picnic party, either, but Willoughby was always in the thick of the fight, and I firmly believe that he would have calmly crossed this room with a cigar in his mouth even if there were a hail of bullets, had there only been somebody looking on.

"Quite the very funniest thing, however, of the whole campaign happened after we had been in the field for about six months. Our uniforms were worn out, and Max Langerman, now one of the big men in Johannesburg, had supplied new clothing for the regiment. There was some delay, however, about the payment, and he was patiently following the regiment all through that wild country trying to serve the Colonel with a writ. You can imagine what a chance he had.

"I am glad to say that he was finally paid, however, and then when we returned to Natal the regiment was disbanded. After that I lost sight of Willoughby for a time, and the next thing I heard was that he and the late Maj. Sherrington had gone gun running to Madagascar.

"You may remember the French were blockading Tamatave. Well, he ran through the blockade somehow or other, landed his guns, and then, as he himself described it, offered his sword to the Queen of Madagascar. She accepted it and he was made commander-in-chief of the Madagascar army.

"He repulsed the French in two distinct engagements, and then when the blockade was raised, the country being in want of money after the war, Willoughby was sent to Great Britain as envoy extraordinary, minister plenipotentiary, to the court of St. James for her majesty the Queen of Madagascar, the object of his mission being to raise the Madagascar loan.

"I met him in Piccadilly with an aide-de-camp following him. He recognized me instantly and did not seem in the least changed. He was just the same dear old genial chap. He invited me in to the St. James to split a small bottle, leaving his colored aide-de-camp to wait for him outside. This in itself struck me as being quite funny.

"Of course it is a matter of history that the loan was raised, and then Willoughby, his mission ended, returned to his palace in Madagascar. Report says, and I don't think that in this case report lies, that the queen proposed marriage to him on several occasions but the "General" preferred to remain single. Then, whether it was the same old story Joseph and Potiphar's wife, or something else, I cannot say, but Willoughby fell from favor and was banished to the swamps.

Banishment in Madagascar is not as pleasant as it sounds, unless the person in disgrace has friends; he is allowed quietly to starve. And then a friend, and a very good one, too, came to his assistance. The same Max Langerman I spoke about before chartered a schooner in Cape Town, set sail for Madagascar and brought Willoughby back.

"I again lost sight of him after that, and came to America for the World's fair in Chicago in 1893. I met many old friends of mine there, for people were congregated in the "Windy City," from every quarter of the globe, and one afternoon I ran across 'Tom' Burnside at the Palmer House. He was acting as press agent for the British military tournament.

"We dined together, and then he insisted that I should come to the press opening that same evening. Well, I went, and saw the various troops file into the arena. Then there was a pause. The band struck up "God Save the Queen.' The big doors were thrown open, and a gorgeous figure, clad in the full uniform of a British field marshal, his tunic covered with medals and orders, mounted on a splendid charger, dashed into the inclosure, and you may judge of my astonishment when I recognized Digby Willoughby as the officer in command.

"He then had some dispute with the management, left the show and returned to England, but before his departure he called all the old soldiers round him in the arena, and Napoleon's farewell to his troops at Elba was absolutely tame to the speech he made them. This I heard from a man who was there. All the old Tommies were weeping before he got through with them, and I can assure you it takes an awful lot to make an old Tommy weep, but he did it somehow.

"The next thing I heard of him he had married a lot of money, and then one day on my return to London I went down to Hurlingham to watch the pigeon shooting, and almost the first man who stepped up to the traps was my old friend Willoughby; he was shooting under the pseudonym of Mr. Digby.

"We again lost sight of each other after that, and the next time I heard of him he had volunteered for service in South Africa during our last war with the Boers. Months passed, and I heard nothing of him, and then one day the news came that he had been killed in action, and that was just the way he wanted to die.

"In rambles through this world I have never met a better, kinder, truer-hearted man than poor old Digby. He had more pluck than forty men rolled into one; he was a trifle spectacular, but that is an accusation we can bring against many of our biggest men, but he was a true and loyal pal, and as I said before, if he had only been in the regular service instead of being a soldier of fortune there is no knowing what he might not have achieved. Peace to his ashes."

As the old campaigner finished his story five glasses were raised in the air and a silent toast was drunk to the memory of Gen. Digby Willoughby, Vale!

THE COLORADO DISTRICTS

Japan Group of Mines Near Telluride Purchased by English Company---Active Operations Begun at Barnes Mine, Central City.

Colorado Spring, June 15.—The Consolidation Mines Selection company of London, Eng., has probably purchased the Japan group of mines near Telluride at about $1,000,000 consideration from the Japan-Flora Mines & Tunnel company. Large ore bodies have been uncovered. F. F. Sharpless of New York represents the Londoners in the deal.

New York and other capitalists who recently purchased the Barnes mine on Quartz Hill, Nevada district, Central City, Colo., have begun active operations. The main shaft, now 700 feet deep, wil be sunk to 1,100 feet. The mine is a producer of peacock copper ore.

Active work has been started by Lund & Stream, contractors, on the Gatch Park drainage tunnel, Cripple Creek, with three shifts. Contract speed, 300 feet minimum per month, will be maintained, although the start is in granite.

The jury in the $195,000 damage suit brought by the Portland Gold Mining company, limited, returned a verdict favoring the defendant. Appeals will be taken to the circuit court of appeals.

The Capital Prize Mining company will shortly start a compressor with 25-horse power drills capacity in the Crowfoot drift, which is now 4,700 feet. The heading will be advanced. The concentrating plant will be completed by Oct. 1.

The Ramsdell company is building a 75-ton concentrating plant also in its Georgetown, Colo., district. A track is being built to admit of economic transportation. Chutes will be constructed to admit of automatic handling of ores.

The Plebeian mine, Georgetown, Colo., famous a few years ago for its production of high grade silver-lead ore, has been leased and bonded by a Denver syndicate, which has begun active operations. The Claypool tunnel has been cleaned and retimbered and drifting started on the vein.

At fifty-five feet depth, E. P. Reiton, lessee, has cut a five-foot vein on the Brooklyn claim, Straton estate, Cripple Creek. A two inch seam carries values approximating $2,000 per ton. Cross vein values at $24 to $68 per ton.

The American Milling & Reduction company is building a cyanide mill at the site of the old El Paso reduction works at Gillett, Cripple Creek. The company has secured a lease on the tailings dump of the old mill. The ore will average $5 to $7 per ton. This mill will make the number of cyanide plants at Cripple Creek eleven.

The Detroit & Colorado company, Silverton, Colo., is shipping five cars of line grade ore weekly to the Rossomatto smelter. The ore averages 6 per cent copper, a half ounce gold and fifteen ounces silver. The vein averages six feet in width.

Trails have been opened on King Solomon mountain, Silverton, Colo., and heavy shipments are now in progress.

The Mogul mill, Silverton, Cripple Creek, output was 46,775 tons of ore worth gross $1,778,212. This was a decrease in tonnage and value below the April record, due to the idleness of important shippers. The smelter ore reached 6,250 tons of $54 average value. The United States Reduction & Refining company treated 14,200 tons of $24 average value. This value was maintained by the Golden Cycle mill, whose production was 10,000 tons. The Portland mill averaged $25 on 9,000 tons. The cyanide plants treated 7,000 tons, the average value ranging from $2.50 per ton in the Ironclad mill to $16 in the Vindicator. The new Isabella treated 2,325 tons, worth $6 each.

The total value of the 1907 output thus far approximates 240,000 tons and $8,000,000.

UTAH CONSOLIDATED STORY

Statement That Ore Body Had Been Lost at the 800-Foot Level is Absolutely Denied At the Mine.

Salt Lake, Utah, June 15.—The story that Utah Consolidated has lost its ore on the 800-foot level through a fault or otherwise, is untrue.

Manager Risque declined to be quoted for publication, but statements he made are obtained from a source that is absolutely reliable, that ore bodies of the mine were opened on the 800-foot level and 50 feet below as long as two years ago. How much deeper the ore will be remains for development to determine.

All dividends to date have been paid from ores mined on and about the 500-foot level and from ores extracted below that level in the regular course of development.

Ores below 700 or main tunnel level are of lower grade than above, but the greater tonnage treated will hold the amount of copper produced this year up to if it does not exceed last year.

Former management had no reason to mine below the 700-foot level, but the new management is now mining that deep and will develop deeper.

The plan to build a new smelter has not been abandoned and it is not proposed to send ores to the Washoe plant when present works are abandoned.

In the Yampa is a contact between quartzite and lime and is regular from the surface down for 1,700 feet.

Improvements at Highland Boy smelter are materially reducing cost of making copper and it is known that since the new management took hold, new ore bodies have been opened in the mine.

It is reasonable to expect that it will cost a little more to mine as depth is reached and the average cost of making and marketing copper will hardly be as low in the years to come as it has been in the past.

of sending rock from the improved portions of the mine results at the Franklin will be somewhat better. The mine in the deepest openings and furtherest extensions is reported showing above the average.

The concrete bases or pillars are in for the extension of the Allouez-Centennial mill, the adding of a building to accommodate three additional heads. The mill is doing good work, the compound head is kept busy on rock from Centennial while the two other heads do duty by day and one by night on Allouez rock. The copper coming out at the mills, where mines are proven appears satisfactory, and means that two of the future big lake mines are now making copper in a small way, a preliminary of the greater results that will come with the more fully opening up of the two properties.

Where No. 2 shaft of the Allouez mine has encountered the Osceola amygdaloid bed some copper is exposed. Work has not progressed far enough, however, to furnish adequate evidence of the commercial value of the lode. No. 2 shaft is located almost on a line with the old workings created on the Osceola lode years ago, but it is farther north than any of the old openings, hence further work in the lode at No. 2 shaft will be awaited with interest. Sinking in the Allouez's No. 2 shaft is progressing fast-ot since the concrete work was completed. The new shaft has an incline of 80 degrees from the horizontal, similar to No. 1, and has reached a depth of 306 feet. It is lined with concrete for a distance of 180 feet from the surface, below which point it is timbered. It will require about eighteen months to bottom the shaft on the Kearsarge amygdaloid bed. It is now 300 feet deep and the distance from the surface of the rock to the lode, at an incline of 80 degrees, will be slightly more than 2,000 feet.

Adventure produced seventy-nine tons of mineral last month, a decrease of 1½ tons from the preceding month. This but adds to the discouraging situation and there are many persons around Greenland who are afraid that this means that the mine will be closed very shortly so far as working the present formation.

At the Mass Consolidated the outlook has improved considerably in the last few months and the mine is understood to be making a nice profit at present. The new shaft known as "C" shaft is showing up quite encouragingly, and is furnishing more rock than either of the other two shafts. The management has installed a very economical system for handling the rock at "C" shaft, something along lines not heretofore used in the Lake district, and a big saving has resulted. Not only has the capacity of the rock house been greatly enlarged, but a regular tonnage of rock is handled with less men in a shorter time and much more economically. Since the second head, fomerly used by the Michigan, was remodeled and went into commission on rock from the Mass mine, the production has been increased materially and every effort will be made to further enlarge the rock shipments of the mill without lowering the quality.

There is much interest in the probable action of the directors of the Osceola on the July dividend. Boston is inclined to the opinion that the Bigelow management will attempt to make itself solid with the great body of stockholders, who are opposed to its continuation in office, and who are patiently waiting for the settlement of the legal squabble in which they have innocently become involved through their president, by declaring a good sized dividend of at least $10 a share. The company is earning money enough —unless all reports are at sea—to pay $20 to $30 a year, and stockholders think they ought to get a better dividend than the Quincy at any rate.

Men excavating for a sewer in Crystal Falls brought to light a 200-pound chunk of pure native copper. The metal was encountered at a depth of ten feet. There is little question that it is "float" copper, torn from its bed in the Keweenawan rocks, along the shore of Lake Superior, and carried miles to the south by a glacier many years ago.

to be installed therein. The directors residing in the east have been notified, and it is expected that they will arrive in Bisbee during the present month to decide on the awarding of the contracts.

At the Shattuck mine during the past week the drift on the 990 level has been driven to a considerable distance, and has already entered ore. The ore encountered is a low grade sulphide. This drift has now been driven sixty feet. On the 700 and 800 levels work has progressed about the same as usual, all efforts being directed toward the opening up of the ore bodies, which have furnished the ore for the smelters.

During the past week an average daily shipment of more than 300 tons has been maintained, and from this time on will be graudally increased.

On the surface a new Corliss 30-drill compressor is being put in place, and it is the expectation of the management to have it in operation during the early part of July.

During the past week the most notable feature ot the Calumet & Arizona properties was the increase in shipments from the Oliver shaft. The development work at this shaft has been highly gratifying because of the several ore bodies which have been opened up, and the consequent increase in production. At the Irish Mag shaft everything has been going along about the same as usual with the normal working force, and there has been nothing of an unusual nature developed.

At the present time the Calumet & Arizona company has a large amount of machinery contracted for which will probably be delivered within the next few months. Included in these contracts are orders for pumps of large capacity, and other important machinery.

During the past week shipments from the Cole shaft of the Superior & Pittsburg company have been doubled showing the highest average of ore production from this portion of the property since it has been in operation. At the Hoatson shaft sinking has been continued, and is progressing rapidly. It is the intention of the management to open up a new level at this shaft within a short time, and drive drifts to tap the ore bodies.

At the Briggs shaft, on which there has been little activity for some time past, it is expected to commence extensive operations within a short time. At the Junction the daily shipments to the smelter at Douglas are being steadily increased.

At the shaft on the Warren property the work of sinking is still in progress, and is being attended with very favorable indications for the finding of an ore body when sufficient depth is attained. At the present time a force of fifteen men is engaged in the work, and the shaft has been sunk to a depth of 230 feet. For the past couple of days the bottom of the shaft has been in lime formation and manganese has been encountered at several different depths. It is the intention to sink the saft several hundred feet before any drifting is done.

At the shaft on the Cochise Development company's property there has been nothing unusual during the past week. The routine work of sinking the shaft and driving drifts, with a full force of men, has been in progress, but there have been no new developments. The shaft has now been sunk to a depth of about 930 feet, and the drifts on the 600 and 900 levels are being pushed steadily forward.

PINAL COUNTY'S BOOM

ing apparatus will have a capacity of 150 gallons per minute. Operations are being pushed with all possible speed by two shifts of miners. The camp is also being enlarged, and lumber is already on the ground for the erection of the additional buildings that will soon be required.

Mansfield, Ariz., June 15.—The mineralized vein, known as the "Black Cap," which recently yielded assays running as high a $382 to the ton in silver, copper and gold, is now proving to be a veritable treasure vault. The heavy values in the previous assays have been in silver and copper, with only a trace of gold. Rapid sinking and tunneling work during the past few days has, however, yielded material assaying $42 to the ton in gold, $19.36 in silver and $15.50 in copper. At the same time the ore on the Black Cap dump was subject to a test, which showed a general average of $18 to the ton in gold with correspondingly high values in copper and silver. The significant feature of these increased gold values in the Black Cap vein is that they occur in the shape of Telluirdes, indicating exceedingly high gold values at depth. The machinery for deep mining on this vein is already on the ground, and some important developments are looked for in the immediate future.

Jerome, Ariz., June 15.—J. J. Shaw, great enthusiasm regarding the future of some of the properties in the immediate vicinity of the United Verde. Regarding the Verde Grande Copper a minning man of considerable prominence, who has charge of the fire zone in the United Verde mine and whose opinion on all mining matters is highly regarded here, has recently expressed company, and that development operations so far have exceeded his best tion of the shaft he had no hesitation in predicting a future of heavy production for the new mine. As Mr. Shaw's connection with the United Verde prohibits him from the issuing of official paid reports, his statement is regarded among local mining men as of special significance. The Verde Grande shaft is now sinking steadily, and for the last forty feet has been all in mineral heavily sprinkled with copper sulphides.

settled for here at a price a trifle in excess of $1,000 a ton. The ore was sold on control assays, showing 11.23 ounces in gold, 1,219.35 ounces silver, 4 per cent lead and 1.05 per cent copper. At the same time three cars of ordinary grade were settled for and four more cars were reported at the sampler, while four were on the road. Information came yesterday from Fairview to John A. Kirby that the 100-foot shaft on the Nevada Hills Leasing company's block of company ground had to indicate that the great ore bodies in the property extend at least 600 feet east from any ground so far opened.

A big campaign of development appears to be beginning in East Tintic by two groups of Provo operators, headed respectively by Jesse Knight and E. O. Loose. Mr. Knight owns the Crown Point and has purchased twelve claims from Provo men which will be organized as the Crown Point Extension. He has just obtained control of the Big Hill property, which is situated east of the Uncle Sam. Mr. Loose has organized the Iron King Consolidated with 400 acres of ground and ample financial backing. George Havercamp, also of Provo, is working on a big consolidation project that will take in Mineral Hill property.

Minority stockholders of the Honerine mine at Stockton in Tooele county have been holding indignation meetings over a recent assessment of 20 cents a share to pay off a floating indebtedness of about $30,000. The company is controlled by Pennsylvania capitalists and has met with reverses. After inquiry the minority stockholders have been satisfied that the financial condition of the company is not attributable to bad management and the assessment will be paid without litigation.

Superintendent Frank B. Work of the Hannapah mine, eighteen miles from Tonopah, writes the local office of the company that after sixty days of work he has succeeded in pumping out the water in the mine and cleaning out the coved ground so that development may be resumed. In cleaning the drift on the 300 level he found considerable ruby silver.

The new 200-ton mill that is to handle the ores of the Utah-Apex and other Orem properties at Bingham has been placed in commission after a series of trial runs. There is now about 6,000 tons of ore awaiting treatment.

From Koosharem in Sevier county comes the report of a find of potash of high grade and in paying quantities. J. W. Manwill and S. Nyswanger are the reputed owners of a ledge in Greenwich canon that runs 55 per cent potash. The discovery was made about six weeks ago and little development work has been done.

NIPISSING TO PAY DIVIDENED

with the miners in the camp. For many months mine managers have been suspecting their men of stealing bonanza ore, which they readily disposed of to owners of worthless claims. Private detectives were sent among the men and as a result a dozen have been arrested so far and several sentenced to terms varying from six months to a year.

In a circular issued to the stockholders, the management of the Cobalt Central Mines company, says that development work has now reached an advanced stage. The shaft on the Big Pete vein is down about 140 feet. The No. 1 drift has reached a distance of about 175 feet. Another drift has been started at the 115-foot level and is now a considerable distance. In all of these workings the ore is of uniform value, indicating that the vein is of a permanent formation and may be mined to a considerable depth. Outside development has been considerably retarded by the severe winter weather, but from now on the opening up of new territory will be vigorously undertaken, in order that the numerous veins showing upon the surface may be developed as quickly as possible. A very large tonnage of ore has been opened up during the winter months, upon which no stoping has as yet been done. The company's concentrating plant is now in course of construction, and Manager Elmer reports that it will be in full operation by the early part of August. The circular encloses the following letter from H. W. Hardinge, the mining engineer, who has made a special study of Cobalt properties:

"Within the past few days I have again investigated the properties of the Cobalt Central Mines company, and wish to say, that the work done and the condition of your mine is highly satisfactory. With the advent of fine weather you are now in a position to actively prosecute development work on the other veins showing upon the surface of the Big Pete and other claims owned by the company. The possibilities of the Big Pete's undeveloped veins alone are very great, and there is no reason why any one of these numerous veins cannot be developed into an additional pay mine equalling in value that of the Big Pete vein now being worked. I am greatly pleased with the results being obtained throughout the camp generally, which are corroborating my earlier predictions."

Opinions regarding Larder Lake, which is being boomed by brokers at present, differ considerably. H. Dreamy, a Toronto mining man, who has made investigations, claims that there is more silver to be found in the region than gold. He says hundreds of prospectors are following gash veins, and while free gold giving good assays is being found the properties are not rich enough ever to make mines. However, on other properties excellent silver has been found.

The Ontario government has got out a map of the Larder country, which shows that the surveys have not been made in the usual square blocks. Prospectors in staking their claims made them all shapes, some of them even triangular, and the government surveyors have followed this staking in order to avoid legal tangles, which will be numerous enough.

several stringers of ore having been cut by the shaft.

The Butte & London company, which is developing the Greendale, just west and north of the Six O'Clock, has reached a depth of more than 1,000 feet. A station at the 1,000-foot point has just been completed and a pump is being installed there, which work will be completed is a week or ten days, when sinking will be resumed. The conditions in the Butte & London are very much different from those in the Six O'Clock. The latter has to contend with what is known as the continental fault, while the Butte & London is situated west of the fault. The Butte & London cut one good-sized vein, carrying commercial ore, between the 500 and 600 foot points, and it is expected that this will be found to be a big and rich vein when crossout from the 1,500, to which depth the shaft is to be sunk.

The directors of the Tuolumne Copper Mining copany have decided to sink the shaft on the Tuolumne claim to a depth of 1,500 feet, that being 500 feet deeper than was the original intention. The shaft is now 680 feet deep, and a a large three-compartment affair, well timbered and constructed for permanency and heavy operations.

At the first annual meeting of the stockholders an exceptionally strong board of directors was elected, the members of it being Ed Hickey, N. J. Bielenberg, D. J. Hennessy, F. Augustus Heinze and J. W. Pratt.

The directors elected Mr. Hickey president, Mr. Pratt treasurer and Jerry Harrington secretary.

Supt. Pat Sheehan has made a report on conditions at the mine and progress of the work. He reports that in the 230-foot crosscut a ledge sixty feet wide was cut, carrying streaks of sulphide copper ore. A station has been cut at the 200 and another at the 600 from which the 230-foot crosscut was run. No more cross-cutting will be done until the shaft reaches a depth of 1,500 feet. The financial statement of the Tuolumne company shows that its treasury is in a good condition.

The Afro-American Mining and Milling company, composed entirely of colored men of Butte and New York, has increased its capital stock from $200,000 to $500,000 for the purpose of purchasing additional properties. The company now owns eighteen claims, eight of which, comprising 160 acres, are in the Butte district. One group adjoins the Big Bonanza mine and several claims are in the Meaderville district. Five full claims are in Madison county, upon which considerable work has been done, and a group of five clams is situated in the Willow Creek district of Lewis and Clark county. On the latter a shaft is being sunk and an adit driven, the latter being in about 100 feet and in a vein from which some good assays of copper, silver and gold have been taken.

Frank H. Probert, a well known Boston mining engineer, made examinations of some properties in the Corbin district and several Butte mines in the interest of Boston stockholders and has expressed himself favorably. He made a thorough examination of the East Butte mines before the recent strike was made in the No. 1 shaft. "I have a very good opinion of East Butte and its future," he says. Mr. Probert was in the mine while the company was yet within the so-called "iron" or lean zone, and since then a vein has been cut by No. 1 shaft which contains ore that assays from 5 per cent to 17 per cent copper and is five feet wide where exposed. The shaft has passed through the lean country and has penetrated the second enrichment, common to Butte mines. Mr. Probert made two examinations of mines in the Corbin district, one for purchase last November, and the other for development about two months ago, and he speaks very favorably of the showing there and the work being done. He says the property of the Boston and Corbin company, while a small one, should yield remunerative results. The mine is already producing sufficient to pay for development. The company has nearly 2,000 feet of development work done and has one shaft and two levels. The future of the Corbin camp will be in its concentrating ore.

Notice has been received by stockholders of the Amazon-Butte Copper company that at a recent meeting of the directors the stock of the company has been made assessable, and that an assessment of 5 cents per share had been levied. The assessment is payable before June 25. This is considered preferable to putting out more treasury stock and selling it cheap in the present depressed stock market. The shaft of the Amazon-Butte company is 415 feet deep and the station at the 400 is about completed. As soon as it is finished cross-cutting will be done both north and south to the veins that have been opened by lessees. The latter are shipping ore regularly, averaging about 100 tons a day.

The corporate existence of the Boston & Montana Consolidated Copper and Silver Mining company, as limited by its charter, will expire in July. The directors have decided to extend the corporation for twenty years. A special meeting of the stockholders has been called to be held in Butte on June 27.

The shaft of the British-Butte company, several miles west of Butte, has reached a depth of 200 feet. The company is mining for placer gold and is sinking for bedrock. The surface of the ground was worked for gold in the pioneer days, but no work was ever done below a depth of 20 to 30 feet. It is surmised that bedrock will be found at least 300 and possibly 500 feet below the surface.

Fifteen Calumet men, including several officials of the Calumet & Arizona company have formed an exploration association for the purpose of exploiting a group just east of Butte. They have spent about $15,000 and will put in $30,000 more in opening the property.

The Butte Coalition company is now producing in excess of 1,500 tons of ore daily, and the production has reached as high as 1,650 tons per day. The average yield of the ore mined now is probably not more than sixty pounds of copper per ton, as the Coalition, like all other companies in the Butte district, is holding its high grade ore in reserve and is sending its lowest grade to the smelter while the price of copper is high. It is the expectation of the Coalition company to mine about 2,000 tons per day by the first of next year.

There is talk of a possibility of a reorganization of the Pittsburg & Montana Mining company. The bonded and floating debts of the company are nearly or altogether as much as the property is worth, and the debt is constantly increasing. The company is earning from $60,000 to $65,000 a month, but the expenditures are said to be about $75,000 a month. The Pittsmont property, it is claimed, has been badly managed, and money lost in experiments on new smelting schemes.

intention to sink to a depth of 200 feet before proceeding with the lateral development. In the same field, the Franklin, Union and Victoria properties of the Republic company are being wrought vigorously.

Idle for some years, except for the mining of the minimum amount of ore required by the terms of leases, the Steel corporation's Ohio group of four properties at Virginia, henceforth to be operated as a single open cut producer, presents a scene of much activity. Stripping was in progress during the winter, and it will not be long now before this work is finished. The properties have been opened as one continuous pit, pear shaped, and covering a total area of about forty acres. The overburden has not been particularly deep, averaging possibly not more than forty feet, but no little taconite has been met with and in addition the proximity of old underground workings has caused no little inconvenience as the surface has been taken off. However, a large body of ore has been uncovered, and shipments are in progress.

In the Hibbing district, the Steel corporation's Pillsbury mine, formerly operated as an underground property, has resumed shipping for the season and is expected to forward close to half a million tons. A big tonnage of ore is available for minink by steam shovel now, stripping having been in progress for the past two seasons. Whether the Steel corporation's Sellers mine, just east of the village, will produce this year is questioned. Rapid progress has been made with the work of removing the overburden, but this latter is deep, and much material remains to be handled yet. The Hull-Rust, adjoining the big Mahoning, west of Hibbing, and already one of the greatest open pits on the range, is still being enlarged. The scene of extensive stripping operations throughout the winter, the Hull-Rust will be the corporation's leading shipper this season, excepting the Mountain Iron, each of these giant producers being looked to for an output probably exceeding two and a half million tons. The big Fayal mine at Eveleth will rank third on the company's list, with an outgo of 2,000,000 tons, which also will measure the production of the big Mahoning, in which property the Steel corporation holds a large interest.

New mines on the Mesaba are the Syracuse and Bangor properties of Pickands, Mather & Co., at the upper end of Lake Embarrass. The shaft at the former is in the ore body, and that at the Bangor will pass through the ledge shortly; but so much work remains to be done at each mine that it is not likely they will ship much, if any, ore this season. The opening of these properties has been a stupendous and costly work, one that baffled the best of mining skill. Quicksand, interspersed with boulders, occasioned the trouble. This treacherous ground, which in places is as much as eighty feet in depth, was encountered some twenty feet below the surface. All ordinary methods known to the Lake Superior iron region were ineffectual in sinking to the ledge, and after two attempts at the Syracuse and one attempt at the Bangor the efforts to put down the shafts were abandoned by the mining company after the expenditure of two years' time and much money. The Foundation company of New York then took up the work.

The caisson principle was put into practice at the Syracuse, and with compressed air to keep back the sand and water, the ledge covering the ore body was finally tapped at a depth of 103 feet. The shaft, completed to the ore, down 113 feet, and lined with concrete, was turned over to the mining company the first of the present month, as will the Bangor shaft the first of the coming month. The ledge at the latter property will be encountered at a depth of 126 feet. The same principle as at the Syracuse is now being followed, the one air lock being used in both cases, although contrary to the method at the Syracuse the shaft, of steel, tipped with a cutting edge, has been forced down of its own weight. As at the Syracuse, the shaft is lined with concrete. It is not known whether the ore will be run into in this opening, but this is immaterial. The deposit is not far away in any event, the territory having been pretty well proved by drilling, and it will be opened easily by drifts.

In the same field the New York State Steel company is at work on a third shaft at its Kellogg property, the first two started having been abandoned when quicksand was run into. Development work was begun last January. The drop method of sinking is being followed at No. 3, and with this shaft down through the ledge it is planned to drift to the sites of No. 1 and No. 2, drain the ground in the vicinity of each, and make a new start with the sinking of these openings. The plan adopted at No. 3 is that successfully carried out by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company, on the Marquette range in opening the Mass mine at Negaunee, where it was necessary to pass through 167 feet of quicksand overburden before the ledge was struck. At the Kellogg, the shaft, framed section by section on surface, will be forced downward as the sand and water are pumped out. The overburden is 145 feet thick. There is a considerable ore body at the Kellogg, and it is of Bessemer grade. Adjoining the Kellogg is the Republic Iron & Steel company's Monica mine, where a four-compartment shaft is sinking. Quicksand has not been struck here, a small hillock intervening between the two tracts, and treacherous ground is not looked for, at least none was penetrated by the drills.

At their Corsica property, Pickands, Mather & Co., are sinking a new shaft 700 feet distance from the original opening for the purpose of mining that portion of the deposit not available from No. 1. A second shaft also is going down at the Cass mine at Biwabik. The LaBelle Iron Works company's Miller property at Virginia will ship 300,000 tons this season, it is expected. It is one of the most substantial underground propositions on the range. The Pittsburg Ore company's group, the Nassau, Croxton, Hobart, Brunt and LaRue, formerly operated under the name of the Rhodes Mining company, are also being actively wrought this season, as is the Leonard, the Steel corporation's latest acquisition. The output of the latter will approximate 300,000 tons, a small increase over last year.

A prospective shipper this season is the Spring mine, formerly the Mallman at the eastern end of the Mesaba. With the shaft down ninety feet, drifting to the ore deposit is under way. The Mallman was one of the very first mines opened on the range, but it was abandoned some fifteen years ago, when the great beds of ore discovered to the west attracted the attention of the mining world, and from that time until last season the eastern end of the range lay neglected. Now a number of different concerns are at work, engaged in a search for commercial deposits of ore, and the drilling has already shown the existence of considerable ore bodies. The formation is badly broken, however, and exploration is difficult. A five mile extension of the Duluth & Iron Range road is in progress, and it will not be long before the Mallma nis provided with shipping facilities. The property is in the hands of C. A. St. Clair of Duluth and associates.

While the clamshell method of stripping ore, in use at the Jones & Laughlin Steel company's Grant property at Buhl, is now understood to be operating to the satisfaction of the management, mining men in general on the Mesaba do not seem to have become greatly enthused over its possibilities and there does not appear to be much likelihood of its adoption at other mines unless it has been thoroughly determined in advance that the conditions are extremely favorable. The cost of the installation at the Grant has been approximately half a million dollars to date, and while better progress will be made with the scoop at work in the ore, the stripping has been slow and expensive and has been marked by the necessity of making various repairs and alterations. Suspended from steel cables the huge clamshell travels between two movable steel towers, 170 feet high and 1,150 feet apart. Dropped into the stripping, it scoops up its load, is hoisted, and is conveyed to the dumping ground, where the jaws open and the contents of the carrier are released. Electrical power is used. No little trouble has been caused by rock encountered in the overburden, but there is confidence that with ore alone to be taken out the clamshell method will be found to cheapen production. The Grant ore is of Bessemer grade, and heretofore has been mined from a shaft 125 feet deep.

The Grovland Mining company has filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state at Lansing, Mich. The capital stock is $200,000. The officers are: President and general manager, G. W. Youngs of Iron River; vice president, T. T. Crookston of Cleveland; treasurer, E. D. Carter of Eric; secretary, David Youngs of Iron River. The company has recently taken over the old Groveland mine, in the Metropolitan district of the Menominee range, which had been idle for a number of years. A track has lately been extended to the property, and the mine is already on the shipping list. G. W. Youngs is also president of the Youngs Mining company, which is operating the Youngs property at Iron River, and has in hand a number of explorations in the same vicinity. The other officers chosen at the annual meeting, held a few days ago, are: Vice president, David Decker; treasurer, Frank MacDonald; secretary, Frank W. Youngs. The Chicago & Northwestern railroad is acquiring the necessary rights-of-way, and will shortly start the construction of spur tracks to the James and Konwinski properties, which the Minerva Mining company is opening in the Iron River district. There is not much doubt now that both of these properties will be producers of no small importance.

At its section 16 mine at Ishpeming, Marquette range, the Steel corporation is installing an underground electrical haulage system. The new method of getting the ore to the shaft will be a great time and money saver, as the tramming distances are steadily growing larger as the mining proceeds to the west. Reichel Bros., Marquette lumbermen, who have been conducting diamond drill operations in section 2, 48-27, to the north of Ishpeming, for the past two years, have resumed work at that point. Just now the force is engaged in putting down a sand pipe, preparatory to starting sinking with the drill. The hole just started will be the sixth that Reichel Bros. will have put down in the dead River disstrict. It is supposed that iron ore is sought, although no mines have yet been opened in that particular territory.

On the Gogebic range, the Wisconsin Central is engaged in new track construction, south of the city of Ironwood, the completion of which will give the company access to the Steel corporation's Norrie group of mines, as well as the Schlesinger company's Newport property. A new hospital will be built at Ironwood this year by the Steel corporation.

been made. This appears to be a combination of the Kalfus vein 505 feet on the strike and greatly increases the importance of this vein, which has already been highly productive. New leases will be let on ground owned by the company south of the present area of production. The premises are in active demand.

The funds in the treasuries of the Consolidated and its constituent companies aggregate today $1,400,339. In addition to this buillion produced in May from the Combination, of which the value is known but which has not yet been delivered to the mint, amounts to about $119,000, making a total reserve of $1,519,339.23 at the end of the quarter.

The report continues: "The condition of the mines is being constantly improved and their output increased. It is the policy to begin the payment of dividends just as soon as the same can be done consistently with good mining and the ultimate best interests of the shareholders. The latter are entitled to the best possible return upon the ores in their mines and to regular dividends after their payment begins. The first object is being effected as rapidly as possible through systematic developments and sale of such ores as can now be handled to advantage and the last will be accomplished as soon as developments, milling facilities and the adjustment of freight rates and smelter charges and other elements affecting cost of production will permit."

The condition of the stock market in Goldfield continues to be a problem. Today there exists a condition that has never been known here before. The majority of the stocks listed on the exchanges are selling below their actual values as justified by ore blocked out and location of claims not yet proved to be mines. The San Francisco speculative contingent are responsible in a large measure, and this condition will probably be righted at a very early date, by the organization of a clearing house and provisions for immediate delivery of stock. Another reason for the lack of confidence and the consequent lack of buying is the prevailing idea that the stock of the Consolidated Mines company must needs be the barometer by which Nevada is to prosper. No idea was ever so erroneous. The Consolidated Mines company comprises half a dozen very excellent properties, with a capacity for production approximating $1,500,000 a month at the present time, with more than a prospect that this production will be greatly exceeded as development work proceeds. But this is not all ! There are many other great properties in this district. It must not be forgotten that several months ago an 18-foot ledge, enormously rich, was opened on the Daisy. The C. O. D. and Gold Bar are both producing mines, just about in the stage of development which will make them great mines henceforth. For some unaccountable reason the results of the operation on the Daisy ledge have been kept secret, but the ledge is there, and it is a fine and permanent body of high-grade ore.

There is a group of claims, very near the Velvet, known as the Spearhead, which are likely some day to startle the mining world with their richness. On the Rosebush claim of this group an Oklahoma City contingent is operating the Uncle Sam lease. Here is a lease which in the next seventeen months of its life will doubtless be a great producer. The showings at the present depth, 65 feet, are by far the best made at that depth in this district. Gold-bearing sulphides abound, and little knife blade stringers of rich talc are showing up.

The new strike of the Combination mine, the first producer in the Goldfield district, reported recently is proved by the figures to be one of the richest discoveries in recent months. The strike a month ago was not made public. The find is in the nature of a 25-foot ledge, with a trend toward the old Reilly Florence lease. It is an immense body of ore, all of which goes to the mill without sorting, returning values averaging $95 a ton. A more recent strike was made along the hanging wall of the north ledge, which will average $400 to $500 a ton. As a result of these recent discoveries the Combination production now averages $90 to the ton, as against $60 a ton, the previous average.

Another rich strike is reported on the McNaughton lease, operating on the Mohawk. A vein of ore is uncovered from the 300-foot level, running into the thousands of dollars to the ton. This same vein has been uncovered at a dozen different points in the workings.

The Diggins on lease on the Jumbo Extension is now working three shifts of miners and has been extended to Dec. 1. Manager Pentland states that there are 10,000 tons of high-grade ore in sight at the present time. The lease is making regular shipments.

The Codd lease, on the St. Ives, continues shipments from a rich vein averaging from 3 to 7 feet across.

One of the most important deals since the Goldfield Consolidated merger has been consummated by the purchase of the Mount Whood group, from Douglass, Winkles, Chute, Mims, Gray and Brewer, by D. Mackenzie, the big Goldfield operator. Mr. Mackenzie states that he has been interested in the purchase of the Mount Whood claims since he first came to know of the richness of that part of the district, two miles east of town. The consideration is not given, but Mr. Mackenzie confesses that he finally had to yield to a "stiff price" in order to get the property.

Major W. A. Stanton has brought in from the new copper camp of Fitting, some marvelously rich specimens of copper ore. The rock contains native cuprite and malachite in abundant quantity. Major Stanton makes the statement that the district is unquestionably one of the richest copper districts yet discovered in this state, and pays his respects to practically all of the located ground in the district, asserting that it is uniformly rich in copper ore.

J. P. Loftus confirms the report that the Bullfrog Gold Bar is to build a mill on its property. Also that the order has been placed for the first unit of the 100-stamp mill, of which ten stamps will be upon the ground within thirty days.

In putting in the last shot for the station preparatory to raising and stoping other bodies of ore, the Mohawk-Jumbo company, operating a lease on the Jumbo Extension, broke into three feet of ore assaying $1,680 a ton. In this ore body there is a ten-inch streak that assays $6,840. The sample was taken by Superintendent Dooley in the presence of Uri B. Curtis, Superintendent Peters of the Curtis lease, and J. H. Macmillan of the Mohawk-Jumbo.

Elko, Nev., June 15.—The first load of ore to be shipped by the Nevada Bunker Hill Mining company was brought in from Bullion last week. This is only a starter, as by the end of this month the company expects to be at the Mohawk concrete storage vaults week.

For the last eighteen months this company has been driving a main working cross-cut tunnel to open up the old mines now embraced in their holdings at the depth of 800 feet below the present workings. This tunnel has been driven over 1,150 feet by hand and the company now has a machine drill and other machinery on the road, which will be installed on this main tunnel and in a year from now it is expected that this tunnel will be in a total distance of 3,000 feet and enable the properties to all be worked through it; thus enabling mining operations to be carried on continuously.

At the present time there are three sets of leasers at work in the old mine workings and all of them are ready to sack about 600 tons of shipping ore. There are about twenty men now at work on this property and the company still has some very good ground to lease.

When this tunnel is completed, this famous old camp will no doubt take its old time position of one of the best copper and silver camps of the state.

Abercrombie, a scaler of the Crookston Lumber company who was in the city Monday from Island Lake, states that the Crookston company is hoisting logs from the lake and taking them to the company's mill at Crookston. Some 28,000,000 feet were left in the lake when the winter's cutting was finished. Five million feet of these have been taken to Crookston and the remainder will be hauled as rapidly as possible. The Bemidji mill has other sources of supply, and the logs now on hand insure the operation of the local mill, both night and day, until the fall freeze-up.

A Narrow Escape

Little Miss Frog
Went out one day
To call on a friend
In a pond 'cross th' way.

When she started out
The sky was serene;
The flowers smiled,
And the grass was green.

But before she had hopped
'Cross the open space
She felt something damp
Fall down on her face.

A cloud had gathered,
And raindrops fell
All about Miss Frog,
Coming down pell-mell.

So she hopped along,
With all her might,
To the pond of her friend,
And lept in out of sight.

For she feared the rain
Would spoil her dress,
And that she'd get wet
And take cold. Goodness!

When He Got Left

Young Mr. Crow
A-courting did go.
He called on Miss Lee
Who lived in a tree.

"Will you be mine?"
Smirked young Mr. Crow.
Miss Lee looked him o'er,
Then said: "Gracious, no!"

The Reward of Little Nan's Bravery.

BY HELENA DAVIS.

Little Nan was the child of poor parents who had emigrated to the far West to make a home on the plains where rain fell so seldom that one crop in three years was about the average amount raised in that desolate country. As there had been two successive crop-failures when this story opens Nan's father found himself in a troubled quandary as to how he could manage to pull through till another year when rains might fall to bless the soil and produce plenty for man and beast.

One day as Nan, her father and mother sat at their frugal dinner the father sighed, shook his head and said: "There's only two ways out o' the woods as I can see. One way is to sell out and move somewhere else and t'other way is to—to—put a plaster on the farm." As he spoke he looked towards his over-worked wife for an answer. He knew how much she opposed a mortgage—a "plaster" in common farmer parlance—and he had named the only alternative in consequence of her too strong opposition to raising money through a loan.

"Well," and Nan's mother meditated, not knowing just how to decide. "I've always opposed a mortgage, for so few people ever git rid of one after they've put it on. But I hate to say sell, for as things are now we'd git scarcely anything for the land and nothing for the improvements that's cost us five years of hard work and privation. If we could only hang out till next year it'll be a big crop then and we'll put something by for the next drouth."

"But there's no way of hanging out," explained Nan's father. "We've got just about enough grub to last the week out. Then what? And how're we to feed the cows and horses without money to buy corn an' hay? Nope," and the puzzled farmer again shook his head, "the jig's up. It's either sell or plaster."

Little Nan looked first at her mother and then at her father, her blue eyes full of trouble, for she, like all children of the poor, felt the strain of hard times as keenly as did her parents. She was in her twelfth year and had lent her little help about the farm, making garden, tending the chickens and pigs; and the very thought of selling the place made an ache at her heart and a lump in her throat. And what pleasure Nan had taken in helping to fix the little frame two-room house attractive! She had covered the walls of the "big" room with colored picture cards and newspaper cuts till the place looked quite cheerful. She had spent all her spare time sewing carpet rags, and as a result there were three great grain bags full of pound-weight balls ready to take to the weaver as soon as there could be got together enough money to pay him for making the rags into a carpet. And in the windows of the "big" room were pretty vines growing in tin cans that were neatly papered. Nan's own hands had planted these and Nan's own hands trained them and kept them watered and washed, though the task of watering the vines was not an easy one since Nan was obliged to go to the bottom of a steep hill to the well and to draw the water up in the heavy buckets that were attached to ropes which swung over a wheel. But Nan was an industrious little girl and did not mind work when there were good results.

And so Nan sat a sad listener to what her troubled parents said about selling or "plastering" the farm which was home to Nan, a home full of tender ties and associations, regardless of the stint she had known there. She knew that mortgaging meant the same thing as selling, only there would be more delay in the transaction. And though the farm gave them stingily of crops, she loved every foot of its soil, even to the stoney hillside that was good for nothing save for Nan to climb and obtain a splendid view of the little county seat that lay at its further side. And how she loved the cornfield, the wheatfield, the garden patch, the melon patch, the cow lot, the poor, straw-covered stables, the pen full of flourishing pigs, the yard full of chickens and turkeys, the funny little colt, the brown-eyed little calf — loved them all from the bottom of her heart! And now they must go through outright sale—which Nan was wise enough to know meant little better than giving them away—or by being "plastered" to death!

"Well, I'll think it over today and go to town tomorrow," said Nan's father. "And now I've got to go an' see if I kin git some feed from Jones. I'll work it out if he's got anything on hand to do. He ort to have—a big ranch like his'n."

"Well, before you go I wish you'd harness up the horses to the wagon fer me," said Nan's mother, addressing her husband. "I really must take time to go over an' see how Misses Adams is. She's bin sick a month now, pore soul."

"I'll stay at home today," said Nan. "I want to water my vines an' wash 'em all off. The dust is something dreadful on the leaves. And I saw some ants on them this morning. Then I want to do some work about the chicken coop. I'm going to make some clean nests."

"All right, Nan," said her mother. "I'll not be gone over a couple of hours, an' your pa will be back sooner'n that, I reckon."

"No, I'll not git back till evenin', for I'm goin' to walk to ole man Joneses," answered Nan's father. "I'd ruther take a whippin' than to ride that colt. He's only half broke an' is as wild as a coyote. So I'll walk an' come home with a whole body."

When the sun marked the hour of 2 o'clock Nan found herself alone on the farm, that is to say, no other human beings were near. But this was just what she wanted. Her heart was so heavy that she felt she must have a good cry all to herself. After visiting the pigs and the calf and the colt, she went up the hill behind the house. In the distance nestled the little town, some three miles away. Nan always looked upon this town as the Mecca of her existence. In her air-castle building she always saw herself installed in a pretty white cottage with a fence around it, in this same town. And now she was to be forced away from it. Tears flowed, and Nan was obliged to turn her face in another direction. As she dried her eyes and looked across the long range of hills toward the West a curl of blue smoke twisted itself skyward. It came from a deep ravine that during seasons of rain became a swollen river. Nan held her breath, rubbed her eyes to make sure, then exclaimed half under her breath: "It is the railroad bridge—the railroad bridge burning! And it is most time for the afternoon train. That bridge is across a gulley twenty feet deep. Suppose the train——"

She did not pause to think the matter over. With the fleetness of a deer she ran down the hill, never minding the stones that cut her bare feet, and on to the small stone corral where the young horse her father had alluded to as the colt that was only "half-broke" was kept when not out to graze. She pulled down a bridle that hung on a post near to the gateway, then, with an ear of corn from an almost empty crib nearby, she leaped over the fence and went coaxingly toward the horse, holding out to him the tempting ear of corn.

But the animal was not afraid of Nan. She had always been so kind to him, stroking his mane and talking gently to him, that he never objected to her approaching him. But today Nan felt that she must run no risks, so she provided herself with the corn. The horse came to her, nosed the corn and opened his teeth to take the bite. At the moment Nan slipped the bit into his mouth and had the strap buckled instantly about his neck. Then, leading him to the gate, she opened it with one hand while with the other she kept a firm hold on the bridle rein. Her next move was to climb upon the fence and mount. Her heart beat with fear as she remembered that the colt had never been ridden by a woman, and her father had not thought him a safe animal for himself to ride; and he always had a saddle, too. But Nan could not adjust a heavy saddle and must risk herself on the colt's bare back. Putting her teeth together firmly and saying aloud to herself: "I've got to do it!" she led the horse close to the fence and in another minute was astride his back. She held a tight rein as she guided him out of the corral and across the yard, but, nevertheless, the colt pricked up his ears, lifted his feet as though they were feathers, and was on the point of becoming too much for her. She bent her mouth close to his ear, saying: "Now, Tom, old coltie, you must behave and carry me fast and safe away over them hills yonder. We've got to meet the fast train that will have maybe a hundred people in it. We must—save—them—Tom."

Her voice seemed to have the desired effect on Tom, for he sprang off at a swift gallop, but showed no disposition to become unruly. Nan did not turn into the road, but took the short cut across the hills. After she had gained the railroad track she followed it, going on and on as fast as Tom could gallop, toward the oncoming train, whose whistle and rumble she now heard in the distance. Then she dismounted and held Tom's bridle rein, fearing lest he become frightened as the train should come into view. Pretty soon a black speck appeared coming round the base of a hill. Tom snorted, his eyes dilated and he gave one plunge forward and was free from the little hand that restrained him. Like the wind he was off homeward, kicking his heels in the air and neighing in a frightened way. But Nan paid no heed to Tom now. He might go where he pleased, for she had a duty of importance to perform. Quickly stripping off her apron she ran right to the edge of the railroad tracks and began to wave it frantically in the air. The engineer looking from his window saw the child and understood that she was signaling him to stop. As quickly as he could he brought the train to a standstill, which was not till it had drawn down the track past where Nan stood.

It took only a few minutes for Nan to explain that the bridge across the gully was afire. The engineer took the child on the train and went slowly towards the bridge. Turning a curve they came upon it, smoking and partly burned. The train came to a standstill and all the trainmen, as well as the passengers, alighted. When it was discovered by the latter what had brought about the sudden stop on the prairie, admiration for Nan's heroism was made manifest by an old gentleman saying:

"Fellow passengers, I'm for showing how much we appreciate what this little girl has done by taking up a collection for her. Had it not been for her we would all have gone to our death, for owing to the position of the bridge our engineer could not have seen it till too late to slacken his speed. So, to the bottom of that ditch we would have been tossed." As he finished speaking the old gentleman took a twenty-dollar bill from his pocket and placed it in Nan's apron which he then passed round to receive the liberal contributions that poured into it.

"Oh, sir," faltered Nan, "I don't want no pay. I done it to save your lives—not for pay, sir."

"Bless the child!" said a dear old lady. "Allow me to give something, too." And she placed a gold piece in Nan's apron that was still going the round of the passengers.

And then the engineer came back to report that some tramps had been cooking on a camp fire built in the shade of the bridge and that the fire had followed some bits of dry grass and had caught the bridge and had slowly, and without flame or much smoke, eaten through the timbers. "We'll have to thank this little Miss for our lives," he added.

Then everyone pressed round Nan, shaking her hand and saying fine things to her in praise of her heroism, for she had explained how she had ridden a "half-broke colt" to the place, but that the colt had taken fright at the train and had run away—probably going home. Then the train was pushed back to the station it had just left a short time before the accident, and Nan, her apron carefully wrapped round the precious burden it held, picked her way over the hills homeward. Once inside her home she poured the contents of the apron on the table and counted them. "Two hundred dollars!" she cried, tears of thankfulness rolling down her cheeks. "We won't sell nor plaster our home, now. Oh—oh—oh!"

Ten minutes later Nan's mother entered to find her little girl on the floor where she sat weeping and laughing by turns. And after Nan had finished her thrilling story the good woman gave up to her own feelings in the same way. "Oh, Nannie, just to think, we shall now keep our home—and without a plaster! And it all comes through you being a real little heroine, too."

"But I wonder where Tom went to?" cried Nan, jumping to her feet.

"He's out by the stable. I saw him as I drove up, and wondered why he had a bridle on."

"Then everything's all right, ma," said Nan. "I can hardly wait till pa comes to hear the good news."

"I'm here now," came a voice at the door, and in walked Nan's father who had been a listener at the door for some minutes. Kissing his little daughter he said: "An' you shall have the carpet weaved, fer I've arranged to turn work to Jones for feed this winter. So we'll be comfortable, all right, we will."

She ran right to the edge of the railroad tracks and began to wave her apron frantically in the air.

When Frank Was Helped By Fairies.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

Once upon a time, in the Age of Fairies, there dwelt in the mountains of a beautiful land a Good Man with his Good Wife and Little Son. As their names were too difficult for the children of the Twentieth Century to pronounce I shall give them modern names. The Good Man's name shall be Thomas Higgans, his Good Wife's name Nancy Higgans, and their Little Son's name Frank Higgans.

One day while Thomas Higgans was away from home gathering fagots with which to build a fire for the purpose of cooking, there approached him three stalwart men riding great white horses. They drew rein at the spot where Thomas was cutting brushwood and asked: "Why do you toil so, Good Man? Are you too poor to hire others to do your work?"

"Aye, I'm a poor man, a husband and a father. But I am a happy man, for my wife is as thrifty as myself and our son is bright and promising. Together we live in a thatched cot at the foot of this mountain. We have a garden, and fields full of growing grain. We have a flock of sheep that affords us meat and goats that give us milk. We do not mind doing our own work and ask for nothing more than we now possess, Grand Sirs." Thus, spake Thomas Higgans to the three stalwart men who questioned him.

"But for your son's sake you should desire more than you already have," quoth one of the three. "Come, follow us and we'll put you in the way of finding a fortune whereby your son shall become a Great Man in his country. It is meet that parents should help their sons to exalted positions."

"But I prefer that my son should live the simple life that has sufficed for his fathers before him," argued Thomas Higgans. "He is strong and good. That is better than being Great, Sirs."

"Nay, nay," spake a second of the three. "You must know, Poor Man, that the world is ever developing and our children must keep pace with its growth. It behooves us to see that they are educated and prepared to occupy places a step higher than their fathers held."

This logic had effect on Thomas Higgans, and shaking his head he said: "Perhaps you are wiser than I and know better the way of the world. I hadn't thought of it that way, Sirs."

"To be sure, Good Man," said the third of the three. "We are out for the purpose of assisting the poor and showing them a way by which they may better the conditions of their children. Wilt thou follow us, Good Man? We'll take thee but a short distance and then reveal to thee the mystery of Success."

Thomas Higgans threw down his broad-bladed knife with which he was cutting fagots, and said: "Perhaps it were the right thing to do, Kind Sirs. I'm a fond father, and I want to help my dear son all that I can. My main wish, be it known, is to have him Good rather than Great. But if he can be Good and Great at the same time I'll gladly have it so."

"Ah, now you speak words of wisdom," declared all three men in a voice. "Follow us and you'll not regret it."

Thomas Higgans followed the three stalwart men as they wended their way through a deep canyon. After some minutes of silence the leader drew his horse to a stop and said to Thomas: "Come, get thee on the horse in front of me. It is a weary walk and a slow one on foot. We'll make better haste if you ride."

Thomas did as asked, and was soon seated on the mighty horse's back in front of the rider. But scarcely had he taken his place there when he felt a heavy cloth suddenly wrapped over his face, shutting off his sight. Then before he could move a muscle his hands were pinioned behind him and he found himself a prisoner and blindfolded. In vain he tried to call out; the bandage about his face held his mouth shut, and almost strangled him. "Make no noise nor do thou struggle," said his captor behind him. Then the horse started into a quick trot and soon Thomas knew that he was miles and miles away from home. Nor did they pause till late at night. Then they drew rein and Thomas—to his relief—was unbound and assisted to the ground. His face was freed from the cloth bandage and to his astonishment he saw himself in the midst of at least a hundred men. Some were warriors, but for the most part they were common tillers of the soil and tenders of flocks like himself.

"What means this treatment of me—a free-born man?" asked Thomas of one of the three men who had brought him thither.

"It means, common man, that you are now our slave. We are picking the strong men of the country for our army. We, The Stalwart Three, mean to invade the adjoining countries and take them as our possessions. You are to fight for us when the time comes. And in the meantime, do not dare to try to escape. Such a rash act would mean your instant death. We are in the midst of our stronghold that is protected by an armed guard. Now, you know why you are here, slave."

Thomas was a brave-hearted and Good Man and knew that all would come out right of he prayed and waited. He bowed his head to his informant and made no answer.

At last the sun dropped behind the mountains and evening drew on. Nancy and Frank grew uneasy and looked up the mountain side for Thomas. At length, when it began to grow dark Nancy sent Frank to look for his father. She feared he might have fallen over some precipice, for the mountain was full of such dangers.

Frank went to the wooded place on the mountain side where his father usually went for fagots, but no father did he find. There, it is true, he saw many fagots piled and the cutting knife beside them. In vain he called "Father, father!" but only the echo of his voice answered him. He was about to return home when a voice spoke to him from an adjoining crag: "Boy, wouldst know the fate of thy father?"

Frank looked in the direction from which the voice came and saw there a slender youth with golden hair and carrying a bow and arrow.

"Yes, my father is lost, and I am seeking him," answered Frank. "Can you tell me aught of him, Grand Sir?"

"I'm the Fairy Prince Don, out on a lark in disguise. I saw three men a-horse take your father away up the canyon with them. I then feared foul play, but since I had no way of knowing but what he wanted to go of his own will I did not interfere. But think you he was carried away by stratagem? If so, I'll arrange for you to bring him home this night—and him unhurt, as well."

"If my father went away with men a-horse, it was not of his own wish, I can swear to that," declared Frank. "He was induced to go on some false evidence furnished by those men. What they want with my father I do not know. But I know that my father must be their prisoner, or he would not have remained away so long. He is very considerate of my mother and me, Prince Don."

"Well, you run to your cot and tell your mother of our errand that she may not be anxious about you. Then return at once and we'll follow the trail taken by the horsemen who carried away your father."

Frank lost no time in returning to his mother, whom he told about the fairy prince's promise. As Nancy knew the fairies were not only trustworthy, but could perform miracles, she made no objection to Frank's accompanying Prince Don, and she sent him forth in haste with her blessing.

Prince Don led Frank through the canyon to the very outposts of the stronghold of The Stalwart Three. There they paused and Prince Don waved his wand—which was hidden in one of his arrows—and immediately the armed guard about the entrances fell into a deep sleep. Again Prince Don waved his wand, and every stone and bush within a radius of a hundred feet rose and took on the form of knights armed to the teeth. "Now, we're ready to rescue your father," he said to Frank. "Come, let the army enter the stronghold!"

The army, with Prince Don and Frank at its head, entered the stronghold of The Stalwart Three and fell upon the warriors, unarming and binding them. Then they set at liberty those who were held in captivity. When Thomas saw his Little Son he gave a cry of joy, saying: "I knew my boy would find some way of rescuing me. I prayed it might be so." Then, with Frank and the young fairy prince, Thomas went down the mountain homeward. But before they left the stronghold Prince Don waved his wand over the cruel band of usurpers and warriors, as well as their leaders, The Stalwart Three, and turned them all into owls. And even to this day it is said that the owls of that part of the mountain are more numerous than elsewhere, hooting all night long as they sit in the trees and high places on the rugged mountain crags.

Prince Don led Frank through the canyon to the very outposts of the stronghold of the Stalwart Three.

Queens of England

Caroline of Brunswick, consort of George IV., King of Great Britain and Ireland, was born at Brunswick in 1768. Owing to her robust health and fine constitution her mother declared that "Caroline was born for adversity, as nothing could destroy such physical strength as hers." And, indeed, it fell to the lot of Caroline to occupy a most trying position as wife to George IV., a position which he never acknowledged.

It was a few days after Caroline's marriage with the Prince of Wales (afterward George IV.) that an envious woman of the court whispered into George's ear the story that his bride had been deeply in love with a young German nobleman who had lost his life in battle. The story was verified by George's agents, who investigated the girlhood of Caroline. This was reason enough for the Prince of Wales to become cold toward his young wife, and to later force her to depart from court and live at some distance from him.

A year after her unhappy marriage Caroline gave birth to a daughter. The child occupied all her time and thought, but she was not allowed the joy of her little one's society long, for the Prince of Wales ordered the child removed from its mother's residence and placed in a castle some miles distant from her. But the grieving mother was allowed to visit her babe once a week. This arrangement continued till the daughter was grown.

Caroline, Wife of George IV.

Then she was bidden by her father to come to London and be presented at court. The fond mother never again beheld her daughter, for soon after the enforced separation Caroline went to travel on the Continent, hoping to ease the gnawing pain at her heart. Soon afterward her daughter was married to a young foreign nobleman, and a little later the sorrowing mother received the news of her child's untimely death. This decided Caroline to remain abroad indefinitely. She did not return to England till the death of George III. made her husband king of Great Britain and Ireland. Then she hurried home and insisted that she receive her rights as the queen consort. In vain she made her plea, George refused to see her or to lend ear to her prayer or those of her friends. He commanded his court to ignore her and bade none ever speak her name in his presence. Indeed, he heaped upon his suffering and rejected wife all the insults that a despicable monarch could.

When George IV. was coronated he gave orders that Caroline should not be allowed to enter the church during the ceremony. This last blow was too much, and three weeks after George Fourth's coronation the broken-hearted Caroline breathed her last.

THE NEW ELECTION LAW PRACTICALLY CUTS OUT POLES FROM THE DOUMA

The Deepest Gloom and Indignation Prevails in Poland.

Revolution is Impossible Owing to Overwhelming Russian Forces.

Doubtful if General Strike Will be Called in Russia.

Warsaw, June 17.—The new election law, reducing Polish representation in parliament to complete insignificance, is causing the deepest gloom and indignation here. The leading papers, this morning, declare that a revolution is impossible against the overwhelming Russian forces, and that the Poles are only able to give their cause to the public judgment of Europe and America.

St. Petersburg, June 17.—The chances of a proclamation of a general strike in answer to the government's coup d'etat are steadily lessening. The question is now under discussion at a secret conference of the central committee of the Social Democrats, which is being held in Finland, but a strong current of opinion is known to prevail, not only on the part of

OPERATORS LEAVE KEYS

On Receipt of a Mysterious Order on Alton Road.

Kansas City, June 17.—"To all telegraphers—Quit work at once. You are liable to a fine of $1,000 for violation of law."

The foregoing message went over the telegraph wires of the Chicago & Alton railway lines yesterday. It bore the date line of Ryder, Mo., a station near Kansas City, that has been closed for several months, and was not signed. Six operators, two from each of the stations of Watson, Booth and Curryville, obeyed the order and quit work.

The law referred to in the message went into effect last Friday and makes railway companies liable to a fine of $1,000 for compelling or permitting operators at block signal stations to work longer than eight hours a day. The operators are not held liable.

Edward Feeney of Brooklyn, will preside at the meetings. The Claypool hotel has been selected as headquarters.

The federation was founded six years ago. It has the approval of Pope Pius X and eighty bishops. Its aim is to serve church and country and to unite with good men of all creeds to cobat evils such as divorce, intemperance, etc.

VAN RIPER ON STAND

Says Holmes Told Him He Had Already Accumulated $55,000.

Washington, June 17.—Something of a sensation was created in Judge Stafford's court today when Louis H. Van Riper, who has been regarded as the principal witness in the trial of Edwin H. Holmes, Jr., on the charge of defrauding the government in connection with the alleged leakage of the cotton reports of the agricultural department, was called to the stand.

Van Riper said he had first met Holmes, Aug. 7, 1904, at a hotel here, whither he came to meet him on representations made by Frederick A. Peckham of New York, who had assured him of Holmes' ability to supply advance information concerning crop reports. After the introduction by Mr. Peckham in that gentleman's room, Holmes, according to the witness, told him that he had practically made up the reports and that Statistician Hyde had accepted his estimate. Holmes had also told him, the witness testified, that he had been supplying information concerning the report to other persons in New York as a result of which he had accumulated $55,000 which was then locked up in a safety deposit vault. Among those to whom he had said he had supplied the figures, according to Van Riper, was Theodore M. Price and Moses Haas. Holmes also had promised, the witness stated, not only to advise him as to the crop figures, but to keep him advised as to Price's operations.

The witness said that he had told Holmes that it he could demonstrate his ability to supply the figures in advance he would operate with him and give him two-thirds of the profits if he could supply the figures a day in advance. Van Riper said it was then agreed that the information should be given through Mr. Peckham, but in view of that gentleman's absence, he, the witness, had returned to Washington on August 9 to receive figures on the wheat report which was to be published the next day.

MIDSHIPMAN'S BODY IS FOUND

Unknown Officer is Picked Up East of Ocean View.

Norfolk, Va., June 17.—A telephone report received today by the Associated Press representative from Ocean View at 10:10 o'clock says that the body of an unknown midshipman was found in the water east of Ocean View this morning.

The body found early today east of Ocean View is probably not the same one reported by the captain of the steamer Washington at Fort Monroe this morning. Thimble Light is about four miles in a northeasterly direction from Fort Monroe on the same side of the bay, while Ocean View is on the other side and quite a distance below.

ALMOST AN ALLIANCE

Exists Between United States and Japan Says Jap Resolution.

Tokio, June 17.—The text of the resolution adopted by the Constitutional party is as follows: "The persecution of our compatriots is to be deeply regretted for the sake of both America and Japan, but we must not forget that there exists between the two nations the closest friendship, which might almost be called an alliance. In face of the professions of the government at Washington and the American people in general such incidents as are reported to have occurred must not be taken as the expressions of their wills. It is believed, therefore, if properly handled it is capable of a just and intelligent solution.

"We must refrain from becoming excited over unlawful conduct on the part of the people and thus injuring the national cause. We expect that a proper settlement will soon be reached through peaceful diplomacy."

KILLED BY CAR.

Marquette, Mich., June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Anton H. Ontello, aged 45 years, was struck by a street car here yesterday and instantly killed.

BEGGING OF MISS GOULD.

New York, June 17.—According to a statement made public today the requests for gifts sent to Miss Helen Gould aggregate nearly $2,000,000 a week. They range all the way from the asking for $15 for a set of false teeth to $1,000,000 to start a colony in Cuba.

GOLD BONDS STOLEN.

New York, June 17.—Chubb & Sons, marine insurance brokers of this city, have reported to the postal authorities that forty 5 per cent gold bonds of the Guayaquil & Quito railroad company, with an aggregate value of $20,000, have been lost or stolen in transit from London.

NEW SECRETARY OF STATE FAIR

C. N. COSGROVE,
Elected Secretary of the Minnesota State Fair, Succeeding E. W. Randall, Who Becomes Dean of the State Agricultural College.

TICKET AGENT IS ARRESTED

For Failing to Sell Transportation for Two Cents Per Mile.

Kansas City, June 17.—Herbert A. Hadley, attorney general of Missouri, when told of the arrest at Paris, Mo., of a Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway agent by the prosecutor of that county on a charge of violating the 2-cent passenger fare law, said today:

"There has been no general agreement among the county attorneys to proceed in this way, that I know of. I'm certain no such advice has been given from our office, but such cases may be expected."

"Is not this county attorney in contempt of court in instituting such an action?" was asked.

"I don't think so," the attorney general said. "I believe he acted within his rights."

The agent arrested had refused to sell a ticket at the 2-cent rate.

Mr. Hadley, as well as the railway counsel interested, remained in Kansas City over Sunday to hear the decision of Judge Smith McPherson of the United States district court, promised for this afternoon, in suit of the eighteen railways who ask that the federal court enjoin the state from enforcing the 2-cent and the maximum freight laws.

ANOTHER PETITION FILED IN EDDY CASE.

Concord, N. H., June 17.—Another petition in the already complicated litigation surrounding the suit in equity brought by the "next friends" of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy to secure an accounting of the property of the Christian Science leader, was filed in the Merrimac superior court here by counsel for the "next friends" today, asking that the question of their good faith be determined immediately and in advance of all other proceedings.

BLANK TORPEDO NEARLY ENDS AN ADMIRAL'S LIFE

Sebastopol, June 17.—While Rear Admiral Wiren, in command of the Black Sea fleet, was cruising in a steam cutter yesterday a torpedo boat fired a blank Whitehead directly at the cutter, penetrating the latter's water tank. Only the promptitude of the crew in beaching the cutter saved the admiral. Lieut. Ruzhek explained that the Whitehead was fired accidentally during practice, but he and three junior lieutenants, who were sullen and refused to salute the admiral, were degraded and as the result of later evidence, arrested on the charge of attempting to sink the cutter.

GIRL SAVES COMPANION

Minneapolis Young Woman Braves Windstorm on Lake Calhoun.

Brings Canoeist, Who Had Capsized, Safely to Shore.

Minneapolis, June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Frances Hanson of Filmore street, northeast, at the risk of her life, rescued Walter Griffith of 2631 Freemont street, north, from drowning in Lake Calhoun, yesterday afternoon.

Miss Hanson and Griffith had been canoeing on the lake during the afternoon and evening, and about 7:30 o'clock, when the wind sprang up, started for shore. Griffith was afraid to continue to the boathouse with Miss Hanson, and so put her ashore at the boathouse at Lake street. He then started to paddle his canoe to his own boathouse. He had hardly gone sixty feet when a huge wave struck his frail craft and capsized it. Miss Hanson saw the accident, and realized at once that Griffith's life was in danger. The waves were rolling very high by this time, but without stopping to think of the danger to herself, Miss Hanson sprang into a rowboat and pulled out to where Griffith was clinging to his canoe. As her boat went past she leaned over the side, caught Griffith's clothes and pulled him into the boat. She rowed back to shore then, and Griffith was taken to a cottage, where he was given stimulants and his clothes dried. Miss Hanson is only 19 years of age, while Griffith is but 20.

VISCOUNT AOKI TO BE RECALLED

VISCOUNT AOKI,
Japanese Ambassador to the United States, Whose Enemies Have Acquired Sufficient Influence to Have Him Recalled.

AMBASSADOR IS TO BE RECALLED

Enemies of Viscount Aoki Succeed in Besting Japanese.

Washington, June 17.—A private cablegram was received here today stating that the Marquis Ito and the elder statesman of Japan held a conference with Foreign Minister Hayasni in Tokio last Wednesday when at the urgent request of the marquis it was decided to recall Viscount Oaki, the Japanese ambassador to this country.

The statement was made in an authoritative quarter that the Marquis Ito nd Ambassador Aoki have not been on friendly terms for many years.

It is believed here that far more than the trifling episode of attack on the house and restaurant in San Francisco, are the larger question of school rights of Japanese children, the limitation of the right to come to America freely and the discrimination against them as a race involved in legislation, by congress gave rise to bitter feelings in Japan. It is only too probably that Ambassador Aoki has secretly been held charged by the Japanese leaders at home for failere to prevent such discrimination against the Japanese, hence nothing to recall him, while still unverified, finds ready acceptance here.

BANKHEAD APPOINTED SUCCESSOR TO MORGAN.

Birmingham, Ala., June 17.—Governor Comer today appointed Former Congressman John H. Bankhead to the vacancy in the United States senate from Alabama, caused by the death of Senator John T. Morgan, the appointment to hold until the legislature meets, July 19.

FEDERAL COURTS WILL MAINTAIN JURISDICTION IN STATE RAILROAD LAWS

Will Adjudicate Validity, Says Judge in Missouri Case.

Makes No Decision, However, on Question of Injunction.

Says He Believes 2 Cent Law Should be Put in Force.

Kansas City, June 17.—Judge Smith of Red Oak, Iowa, in the United States district court this afternoon, handed down an opinion growing out of the conflict between the circuit courts at Kansas City and St. Louis and the federal court here over the enforcement of the Missouri maximum freight and 2-cent passenger laws.

Judge McPherson retains and maintains jurisdiction to the adjudicate the validity of freight and passenger laws of Missouri, including the amendatory freight law of 1907. Whether the temporary injunction asked for by the Missouri railroads, to restrain the state officials from enforcing these statutes, shall be issued, and if issued, whether it shall enjoin the enforcement of either the pasenger or the freight laws, one or both, will, the court says, be considered a week or more hence.

Judge McPherson said that his present view is that the present 2-cent law should be put into force until it can be ascertained by actual experience whether 2 cents will be remuncrative.

Judge McPherson's decision follows:

"The real question here is, has this court jurisdiction over the passenger fare law of 1907, of the Missouri legislature, declaring it unlawful to charge more than 2 cents per mile? A lesser question is whether the bills tendered for filing are supplemental bills to those filed in this court in the eighteen cases, two years ago, and now pending before Mr. Schofield, the master. What is the supplemental bill in equity? and where is the importation of defining? Usually it is where there has been some change

TO GET RID OF SCHMITZ

In Near Future is Plan of the Frisco Supervisors.

Mayor's Attorneys to Take Case to Supreme Court.

San Francisco, June 17.—When the Supervisors meet today it is expected that preliminary steps will be taken to re-organize the city government. While it may not be deemed advisable to read Mayor Schmitz out of his office today, action will be taken, should no legal obstacles intervene in the meantime, which will lay the foundation for such a step. It is recognized by the graft prosecutors that if the mayor is permitted to transact official business at the county jail he will be able to make the claim that he is as well able to perform the duties of his office in prison as any other place. For this reason the prosecutors will endeavor to have the Supervisors act as soon as it can be legally done.

In order to oust Chief of Police Dinan it will be necessary to remove the present police commission, and the present members of the public works may go. Since the conviction of Schmitz there has been considerable alarm among those officials who hold their jobs by grace of the mayor's favor. While it may be necessary to sweep out of office a large number of Schmitz' appointees, no one will be disturbed, it is said, who has attended to his duties.

No change has been made in the plan already announced to replace one of the supervisors by a prominent citizen and then elect this citizen to the position of acting mayor. The name of the prominent citizen has not been made public.

The attorneys for Mayor Schmitz, now in jail awaiting sentence for extortion of which he has been convicted, having been refused bail, announce their determination to take his case to the United States supreme court, if Judge Dunne overrules their motion for a new trial, and the appellate court makes a similiar denial.

ITALIAN DUKE IS VISITING THE HUB

Strenuous Day Mapped Out for Italy's Representative.

Boston, June 17.—The duke of the Abruzzi, the Italian admiral and explorer, who is in this city for a ten days' visit, found a strenuous day mapped out for him today, and refreshed after a day of rest yesterday, called at the state house to pay his respects to Governor Guild. The duke, after a short stay, returned to his flagship, the Varese, which is stationed at the navy yard, and received Gov. Guild's return visit, later tendering the governor and his staff a reception on the Varese. After the departure of the governor, the duke prepared to accompany Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson and Mrs. George von Meyer, wife of the postmaster general to the races at the Country club. The duke, after the race, planned to pay his respects at the navy yard and later to receive the admiral's return visit on the Varese.

BALLOON PROVED TO BE A SUCCESS

Signal Corps Captain Makes Report on His Recent Trip.

Washington, June 17.—Capt. C. D. Chandler of the signal corps has submitted to the chief signal officer of the army a brief report of his voyage in the army balloon which he made with two other persons on June 4 from this city of Harrisburg, Pa. The report was favorable and the balloon was accepted by the war department, as heretofore stated. The signal office may take up the matter of purchase of additional balloons in the autumn.

The reports shows that the general direction of the voyage to Harrisburg was almost due north with the speed much greater at low altitudes. The partly cloudy cordition of the weather was responsible for expansion and contraction of the gas so that even altitudes could not be maintained. An observation taken at 4 o'clock in the afternoon indicated an approximate speed of thirty-five miles an hour. The total distance traveled was 103.8 miles, the start being made at 1:15 p. m. with an entire weight of 2,402 pounds, and the landing being effected at 5:45 in the afternoon.

TWO FIREMEN HURT.

New York, June 17.—Two firemen were seriously injured and eight others slightly burned in an explosion of gas which was caused by a fire in the home of Mrs. Wesley Tyson, an West Forty-ninth street today.

CAPTAIN HAD TO PAY DUTY

On Imported Liquors Which Came Over on Cruiser.

San Diego, Cal., June 17.—Capt. Winslow, commanding the cruiser Charleston, which left here last Friday, paid $205 in duties under circumstances that have occasioned some comment. The goods, which consisted of twenty-nine cases of imported champagne and other wines, two boxes of curios and a large quantity of cigars, were landed by sailors of the Charleston here, without any attempt at concealment. The goods were billed for the East. The customs officials objected to shipment without payment of duty, and Capt. Winslow said he considered the goods household effects, not subject to duty. He, however, offered to pay the duty. The offer at first was refused, but after communicating with the treasury department, it was accepted and the money paid and the goods released.

Capt. Winslow is now on his way to Washington to assume his new position at the bureau of navigation.

DISCOVERED JUST IN TIME

Mutineers Had Plot to Bombard the City of Odessa.

Over 5,000 Men Said to Have Been Involved in Plan.

Odessa, June 17.—It now appears that the mutiny here of the Black sea fleet, consisting of eight battleships, eight cruisers and a division of torpedo boats, whose crews in all number 5,000 men, was discovered just in time to prevent the planned bombardment of Odessa and the Caucasian coast towns.

The fleet came here June 12 for practice and had just entered Odessa bay when the comanding officer, Admiral Tzftesky, on board the flagship Postislav, seeing that the orders were not promptly obeyed and knowing of the mutinous spirit sent in an order to dismantle and head back to Moscow.

QUESTION OF DISARMAMENT

Has Been Practically Put to One Side by Peace Conference.

The Hague, June 17.—M. Nelidoff's depressing utterances at the opening of the peace conference, coupled with the unfortunate dissolution of the douma at the very moment the conference had assembled, has produced expressions of regret that President Roosevelt yielded the initiative of the second conference to Emperor Nicholas. The correspondent of the Associated Press has heard dozens of delegates speculating on the difference which would have been produced had the keynote been sounded by a country inspired by democratic tendencies. As matters now stand, neither America nor any of her continental friends are ready to move, lest the mere suggestion of debating the question of limiting of armaments inject a spirit of discord, which would endanger the usefulness achievable, and possibly break up the conference under circumstances which would postpone another conference indefinitely. Grimly, somewhat disconsolately, therefore, the preparations for the real work are proceeding.

The countries favoring a discussion of the question of armaments, originally planned to propose the appointment of a committee on limitation of disarmament, but this naturally has been abandoned. Should there be any objection to the committee on Drago doctrine, James H. Coate, head of the American delegate, may formally move on Wednesday a petition of this subject, the matter with a proposition aimed to strengthen the personnel of The Hague tribunal, the two principal measures which the United States will press. The Drago doctrine, however, will be presented in modified form and an effort will be made to dissipate the principle from the name under which it heretofore has been known. The American delegation is keeping its plans rigidly secret.

Dancing at White City.

Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

Harper's Weekly: A Baltimore man had until recently a darky in his employ—about as shiftless and worthless a darky, says he, as ever he came across.

One day the employer, his patience exhausted, called Sam into his office and told him to look for another job.

"Will yo' give me a letter of recommendashun?" asked Sam piteously.

Although he felt that he could not conscientiously comply with this request, the Baltimore man's heart was touched by the appeal. So he sat down to his desk to write a non-committal letter of character for the negro.

His effort resulted as follows: "This man, Sam Harkins, has worked for me one week and I am satisfied."

RAILROADS

OFFICIALS HERE AGAIN

Great Northern Men Say Freight Transfer is Contemplated.

President Hill and Vice President McGuigan With Party.

Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern, who is in the city today, said it was a fact that his road contemplated the building of a freight transfer at the Head of the Lakes, it being the belief of those having such matters in charge that such a step will be the most reasonable solution of the freight congestion problem. It is practically assured that the transfer will be built, and that it will be located in Superior.

Mr. Hill arrived in Duluth this morning in company with several other officials. Their private cars were attached to the regular train from the Twin Cities. At 7 o'clock these cars were made up into a special and taken to Superior, and this afternoon the special train left for points along the Fosston branch of the Great Northern. Mr. Hill remained on this side of the bay during the day, but the others inspected the terminals in Superior, visiting the ore docks and other Great Northern properties over there.

Others in the party were F. H. McGuigan, first vice president; F. E. Ward, general manager; A. H. Hoaglund, chief engineer, and George H. Emerson, superintendent of motive power. This is the third visit the first vice president has made to the Head of the Lakes in the last few weeks, which seems to indicate that the road is in earnest in its promise of relief in the freight situation. It is regarded as significant that Mr. Hoaglund, the chief engineer, should be brought along on this trip, and is taken to mean that actual improvement work will be started in the near future.

"There is very little that is new to be said in connection with plans of the Great Northern for Duluth and Superior," said Mr. Hill this afternoon. "We are planning extensive improvements, as has been said before. It is true that the plan of a freight transfer is being considered for Duluth and Superior, and in all probability this plan of improvement will be adopted. Something must be done to prevent a repitition of last winter's freight congestion, and the freight transfer will answer all demands in this line that will be made upon it for many years to come, where, in view of the rapid growth of Duluth, a mere freight depot might prove to be inadequate to meet the demands of business in two or three years."

Mr. Hill could not say just when actual work on the improvement would begin, or what amount of money it would be likely to cost.

Railroad Men Fish.

F. S. Miller and John H. Runyon of the Northern Pacific, G. A. Sherwood of the Wisconsin Central, and E. L. Ayres of the South Shore, returned this morning from a very successful fishing trip to the Brule river. They spent Saturday afternoon and Sunday along this popular stream, and brought home with them a string of 162 fine brook trout. Five of those in the lot ran over three pounds in weight. Mr. Miller landed one that came within an ounce of tipping the scales at four pounds.

WAS PULLED INTO WATER

Roy Smith Had Unusual Experience on the River.

Was Towed Along Behind Launch by His Feet.

Being pulled along by the heels, with his head under water, for over 100 feet, at the stern of a gasoline launch moving at a rapid rate, was the unusual experience, which befell Roy Smith of the North Butte Mining company's office yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Smith took an outing in his launch on the St. Louis river, and on the return trip from Spirit Lake, he ran on a sand bar opposite the Zenith Blast Furnace. His own efforts to release himself were futile and H. R. Spencer came to the rescue with his launch, pulling Mr. Smith's boat off the bar.

Mr. Smith's launch was lying across the channel and an attempt was made to turn it around. A tow line was attached to Mr. Spencer's boat and it was sent ahead at full speed. When about 200 feet of line had been let out by Mr. Smith, he saw that unless the pressure were released, his boat would overturn, so he released the line from the cleat, to which it was fastened. In the meantime, however, the end had become tangled about his feet and when the line was unwound from the cleat, he was pulled over the side of the boat into the water, the line firmly attached to his feet.

When Mr. Spencer saw the accident, he stopped the engine immediately, but not until the launch had traveled over 100 feet and Mr. Smith had been pulled along that distance under water. When Mr. Smith was pulled into the water, he had presence of mind enough to grasp the rope with his hands and while being tugged along, he worked his way up, hand over hand to the surface. The escape was a narrow one, and fortunately, a thorough wetting was the only result.

SUPERIOR NEWS

DREW THE COLOR LINE.

Black Was Pounded and Arrested Because He Defended Himself.

Because Larnell Boatley, whose dusky skin proclaims his Ethiopian ancestry, wanted to make a good fellow of himself with a crowd of white men, he found himself in municipal court this morning. Boatley sauntered into George Vicker's saloon on Third street Saturday night. An alleged player was grinding out the latest rag time from a music mill in one corner, and several men were in the place drinking. Boatley felt sociable and he asked the piano player to drink with him. The "professor' couldn't see it that way and he told the colored gentleman some things not calculated to reflect credit on him and his family.

Boatley took it meekly and then asked several others to drink with him. They all refused so he walked up to the bar and began to drink a lonely one. While so engaged, some one walked up behind and "crossed one over," Boatley going to the floor for the full count and then some. After he had recovered somewhat, he attempted to rise, but all hands stood around and kicked and pummeled him every move he made. Finally, he pulled a pocket knife from his pocket and slashed Vicker's leg. With the knife in his hand, he had things his own way, and the gang scattered.

Vicker caused the negro's arrest and he was lodged in jail. When the black man appeared in court this morning, he was a sorry sight. There were bruises and cuts all over his face and body, and he was stiff in every joint from the pounding he had received. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, which was prefered against him, and demanded an examination. The charge was later changed to assault and batterq, and he pleded guilty, telling the whole story of the affair to the judge. A fine of $5 and costs was laid against him, and the sentence suspended.

HENDRICKS IS MISSING.

Paul Hendricks, the Allouez saloonkeeper, whose license is in danger of revocation on complaint of several residents of the location, will not appear before the council tomorrow night to show cause why the action should not be taken. A summons was issued for Hendricks at the last meeting of the council, but when an effort was made to serve it, Hendricks could not be found. He has adopted John D. tactics, and thus far has kept out of reach of the summons-server. As three days is required to elapse between the serving of the summons and the meeting of the council, at which a man must appear in such a case, Hendricks will not be required to explain to the council tomorrow night. Hendricks is said to be out fishing.

It looks as though Hendricks is trying to stave off the revocation of his present license, which will expire July 1. The law provides that a man, whose license has been revoked, cannot secure another within a year, and Hendricks is doubtless counting on securing another license July 1. It looks as though he will be successful in staving off the council until July 1.

CLIPPERS VICTORIOUS.

Win Out in Close Game With Pease Team.

The Clippers defeated the Pease team in one of the fastest baseball contests ever seen in Superior, at the driving park yesterday afternoon. The final score was 2 to 1.

Recently the Clippers have been strengthened and they put up a pleasing exhibition of the national game. The Pease outfit was in good form as well, although it was largely due to the efforts of their pitcher, Schulte, of the City Hall team, that more Clippers did not cross the platter. Peterson manipulated the pellet for the Clippers and he allowed but three hits.

The Pease persons got their only score in the first act. The score was tied by the Clippers in the third and in the eighth, the last named aggregation scored the winning run. Following is the score by innings:

STUDENTS HEAR SERMON.

Members of the graduating class of the Superior Normal school and many of their friends listened to the annual baccalaureate sermon yesterday morning, delivered in the Hammond Avenue Presbyterian church, by the pastor, Rev. L. K. Grimes.

Rev. Mr. Grimes delivered a strong talk from the following text, "Let us not be weary in well doing, for in due season we shall reap reward if we faint not." A special musical program was given under the direction of Col. H. A. George.

The class day exercises were held in the assembly room of the school Saturday evening. In addition to other numbers, a three-act play, "A Dress Rehearsal," was given.

STILL MISSING.

No Trace Yet Found of Joseph Johnson.

The whereabouts of Joseph Johnson, a Superior man who has been missing since June 7, are still a mystery, and his brother, Edward Johnson of 706 Tower avenue, is much worried regarding him. He has just returned from a trip to Kelly Lake, Minn., where he went in search of the missing man who is believed to be wandering about in the woods near there. Johnson, when last seen, was acting in a strange manner. He quit his job at Kelly Lake and walked out into the woods, not telling anyone where he was going.

Short of Funds.

The Superior park board has not funds sufficient to fit up Union Square park, recently donated to the city by the state, and the newly acquired tract will not be improved this year unless funds from an outside source are received. The board has only sufficient money to carry on the improvements alseady mapped out, so Union Square will probably have to wait a year.

Lenroot's Expenses.

Irving Lenroot, candidate for the Republican nomination for senator from Wisconsin, today filed with the register of deeds his expenses in the campaign. They amount to $325.15, mostly in railroad fare and hotel bills.

LID FITTED FAIRLY WELL

Chas. Boyle, Only Violater, is Fined $32.50 in Court.

Only one saloonkeeper, according to the police, violated the Sunday closing law yesterday, and the violation cost him just $32.50, this morning, in municipal court, after he pled gilty to the charge.

The saloonkeeper was Charles Boyle, who operates at 317 West Superior street, and Sergt. Gillon and Officer Malon found his bar lined with men drinking about 3:30 yesterday afternoon.

The fine inflicted was the minimum permitted for the offense, and if it were the regular penalty it would doubtless pay the saloonkeepers to run Sundays and pay the fine. The second offense penalty will, of course, be considerably heavier, however, and a second violation would not pay. Mr. Boyle probably made enough out of being the only saloonman in town open from noon until 3:30 to pay his fine on this occasion, but it is doubtful whether it would pay a second time. The court was more inclined to be lenient today than it will be again, as the sudden change in policy of the administration would tend to work in the saloonkeeper's favor, and it is doubtful whether even a first offense would be treated so lightly on future Sundays.

The soda fountains and soft drink dispensaries thrived as never before. The hot weather boosted them to a certain degree, but as one of them expressed it this morning: "We got a bunch of trade of a different class than our usual run. The hot sports would come in here and guip down soda water and make a face and pay their money regretfully and go out. I used a whole case of lemons, 360 of the sour ones, during the day."

The police say that the report that "the lid was not on very tight" was entirely unjustified, as the saloonkeepers responded to a man, with the one exception noted.

Suit Prices Tumble.

KID ANDERSON WANTS A MATCH

Says He Will Meet Joe Clements at Any Time.

Kid Anderson of Winnipeg, a boxer, who is in Duluth looking for a match, doesn't like the way he has been treated by the local pugilists. He had practically arranged a match with Joe Clements, the Superior lightweight, although no forfeit money had been posted, and yesterday Clements threw Anderson down by calling the match off without reason. Anderson says he is now ready to meet Clements at any time or place and under any conditions Clements may stipulate. Leo Rosenthal, Anderson's manager, is ready with any amount from $50 to $150 to post as a side bet and forfeit and it's up to Clements to come forward.

Anderson says if Clements refuses to meet him, he is willing to go on with Mike O'Keefe, Curley Ulrich's protege. Anderson has been in Duluth for some time past, but the Duluth and Superior boxers have been side-stepping him at a lively gait, with the result that h has not succeeded in arranging a match.

CONCERNING THE CLAM PIE.

New York Sun: "What? You didn't know that they ever put potatoes in clam pies? Why! They always do; always; only," said a man who knows all about the clam pie; there's right ways of doing it, and wrong ways.

"Some people put boiled mashed potatoes into clam pie, which, of course, is wrong; and then some people put in potatoes cut into cubes or dice, which is foolish and frivolous and out of keeping with the clam. The real way to fix potatoes for a clam pie is to take medium sized potatoes and peel 'em and then cut them into not very thick strips of uniform thickness, so that they'll all cook alike.

"And then, some people chop up the clams for a clam pie; a terrible mistake to make. Chopping the clam messes 'em all up, and that way you lose just half the juices of the clams, lost in the chopping bowl. The true way to fix the clams is this: You take medium sized clams of uniform size and lay them on a board and slice them into pieces not too small; they look better that way, and they are better, and so they taste better.

"Of course, you have for the pie a number of thin and narrow strips of pork of the sort that has a streak of lean in it; and when you have got all the ingredients ready, composing, so to speak, the pie stuff, you cook them all together, partly; enough so that when you come to put this filling in the pie and put the pie in the oven to bake, the baking will bring the whole pie out cooked perfectly.

"Now, of course, there are all sorts of clam pies; small individual clam pies, and pies cooked in dishes of various larger sizes, to be cut up and served; and different people may have different notions about what size and shape is best for dishes to cook clam pies in; but the best clam pies I ever ate were cooked in a dish about fifteen inches in diameter by about three and a half inches deep.

"The pies baked in this dish were made with no bottom crust, but with a crust all around the walls of the dish and, of course, the crust on top. And when ever a clam pie was baked in this dish there was brought into use with it a teacup which was especially reserved for this purpose only and which was used in a manner I will now describe to you.

"This teacup was a very deep cup, or a very tall cup when you turned it over, bottom up, and made of thin china. And, when the filling was in the pie and it was all ready to put on the top crust that tall thin cup was set in the center of the pie, bottom up, and then the top crust, with a hole in it of exactly the right size at the center, was put on the pie, leaving now at the bottom, or, as we now have it placed, at the top of the cup, projecting up at the center above the top crust like a little dome.

"The object of the dome? Why as the pie bakes, the steam within, or a good part of it, rises not to saturate the top crust and make it soggy, but it rises in the cup, to be condensed in the dome and go back with all its flavor and richness into the pie itself, making the filling rich and elegant, as it ought to be, while the crust remained nice and light; and then when you came to eat your portion or portions of this clam pie, you could break up that nice, light crust and sop it in the juices of the pie if you wanted to.

HER BOSTON TRAINING.

Denver Post: Virge Byram, manager of some sawmills at Monarch, Colo., was in the city yesterday. Last summer Mr. Byram entertained a lot of people, most of them relatives of his, up at the mills. Among them was a young lady from Boston. This summer he expects most of them back again. He again invited the young woman from the Hub, and several days ago he received a letter from her accepting the invitation.

"Dear Mr. Byram," the letter said, "I shall be delighted to journey westward and join the party which is to sojourn at your mills again this summer. I have a queer ambition, Mr. Byram. It is to kill a Robert cat. I am going to bring a fine little .22 calibre revolver, and if you find it possible to let me shoot a Robert cat I shall be deeply indebted to you. Yours, etc."

"She evidently means that she wants to kill a bobcat," said Mr. Byram, "and her Boston training makes her say 'Robert.'"

REAL HARD CIDER.

Philadelphia Record: John Fair, a highly respected citizen of Montgomeryville, Armstrong county, has at his home a small keg containing several quarts of cider which was made by himself fifty-one years ago. Although there were several kegs of the liquid, but now only a few quarts remain, and Mr. Fair is guarding that jealously.

The cider is so old that it has turned black in color, and so strong that less than a teaspoonful will put the drinker in the happy land.

MEETING IS TO BE A QUIET ONE

Park Bonds and Sidewalks at Council Meeting.

Sidewalks will be one of the features of the council meeting again this evening, and, if City Attorney Fesler gets the ordinance drawn up in time, the $50,000 issue of park bonds may be authorized. The park board submitted their request in time for the council to pass upon the issue last week, but the ordinance was not in shape, so it was allowed to go over.

The city attorney will probably be instructed to commence condemnation proceedings for the other half of the block upon which the water and light board eventually intend to construct a reservoir for the hillside system. The block is located between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, and between Third and Fourth avenues east. The city already owns one-half of the block.

Alderman Wilson's sidewalk ordinance which made a sweeping increase of the cement sidewalk district, may necessitate some more red tape in regard to the sidewalk proposition. In many of the places which have been included in the cement district by the ordinance in question, notices had already been sent to the owners that a plank walk must be constructed within thirty days. Another set of notices will have to be sent to these owners now, giving them thirty days from this date in which to erect cement sidewalks there.

The council is congratulating itself that the lid question is settled.

COMMISSION WILL ORGANIZE

Courthouse Commissioners Will Resume Their Duties Tuesday.

The courthouse commission will meet at its rooms in the Providence building tomorrow for the purpose of organizing.

Up to noon today there were four of the commissioners that had qualified, and W. C. Agnew, the fifth member appointed, was expected to file his acceptance of appointment and take the oath of office this afternoon. It is learned from reliable sources that Mr. Agnew intends to act on the commission. There were rumors afloat that he would not continue on the commission, on account of his business affairs, which require his absence from the city a great deal of the time.

It has been nearly three months since the courthouse commission has done anything as a commission in the matter of preliminary steps for the construction of the courthouse. The supreme court decision, some time ago, caused a serious delay, as it held the former commission to be without legal authority. The new commission was appointed by Chairman Patterson of the county board, under the provisions of a law passed by the last legislature.

NOT PROPERLY WITNESSED

Joel S. Dwyer's Will May Not be Probated.

The last will and testament of Joel S. Dwyer, former operator at the police station, who died recently, may fail in being probated in the court of St. Louis county because the decedent failed to get two or more testating witnesses to the document. The will was presented to Probate Judge Middlecoff this morning with only one testating witness, whereas the law requires two or more witnesses. Judge Middlecoff has taken the matter under advisement.

Mr. Dwyer left an estate that will inventory, probably, several thousand dollars. His heirs are said to be a brother, James Dwyer and a nephew, Paul Clarkson.

About twenty-five or thirty claims were filed in probate court this morning in the hearing on claims in the matter of the estate of Otto Eklund, deceased. Mr. Eklund, who was formerly in business in West Duluth, possessed quite a little property. He died at the state asylum for the insane several months ago.

A hearing was also had in the matter of claims in the estate of Col. John R. James, deceased, of Virginia. One claim amounting to about $2,000 was presented.

F. L. Cowan, guardian of the minor heirs of the estate of John Kochevar, has petitioned the court for permission to sell the property at Eveleth.

Bohn Syphon Refrigerators

The White Enamel Refrigerator Company of St. Paul, Minn., in selling us their remarkable refrigerators, authorize us to make every purchaser a guarantee, which is made good by a trial of the wonderful food keeper in actual use.

On the Home Test Plan

The Guarantee is as follows:

That the Bohn keeps milk, the most perishable food, sweet and wholesome 72 hours, proving absence of germ life.

That vegetables and fruits will not taint milk, butter and puddings in open vessels, when in the same food compartment, proving absence of dead air.

That matches kept in the food compartment 24 hours light freely—the supreme test of dryness.

That the Bohn maintains a temperature 6 to 15 degrees cooler than any other, with an equal amount of ice in a refrigerator of like size.

NOTE.—Cold and dryness combined prevent germ life. No other refrigerator is as dry or as cold.

WARNS BANKERS.

Reformed Crook Issues Book Telling How Thieves Plan Big Robberies.

Harry Schindler, who is known to the police of every big city in the country as the "swindler," and who sentenced himself to two years' honest labor five months ago at the close of his last penitentiary term, has come to the aid of the police and bank officials by describing in detail the work of the bank sneak, says the Chicago Tribune.

A special bankers' edition of a small book, entitled "How the Bank Sneak Works," was issued yesterday. It chronicles the adventures of the "swindler" in the most important "jobs" of his career as a sneak, which began when he was 20 years old, and which he followed consistently during the periods when he was not locked up in the penitentiaries. He is 53 years old now.

Special reference is made in the "work" to the weak points in Chicago banks. Before he wrote his book Schindler made an investigation of the bank situation in Chicago, accompanied by another professional, who is still in the game. The work was undertaken under the direction of W. A. Pinkerton and Alexander Cleland, labor secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who have had their eyes on the "swindler" since his arrival in Chicago. Schindler got out of the penitentiary at Wausau, Wis., last December after serving a three-year term for a job in Milwaukee. He came to Chicago and told Chief of Police Collins he wanted to lead an honest life and had sentenced himself to that life for two years to see if he could not make it pay better than his profession. Then Mr. Cleland and Mr. Pinkerton got him a job. He now holds a responsible position with a Chicago firm, handling money every day and taking part in the social life of the men and women who do not know his career. His wife came back to him and he has started life anew.

"I have come to the conclusion that it pays to be honest," Schindler said recently. "After thirty years at the game, living at times in the most luxuriously appointed apartments, I now am well satisfied in my humble home and happier than I ever was before. I have told my story with honest intent, lifting the veil from the various artifices which make up the stock in trade of the bank criminal. I want to aid the bank men to close the open door of opportunity to the bank thief."

The estimation in which Schindler is held by the police, local and national is shown by the fact that he was called in consultation recently by Capt. Porter, of the government secret service, on the subtreasury robbery case. He was taken through the vaults and offices and asked for an opinion as to how the theft was committed. He said it was done by an office employe.

The book starts with telling of a meeting of four clever bank thieves in Chicago to frame up a big job.

"Bank thieves," the book says, have always in mind the location of a weak bank. The sneak first ascertains, however, whether the bank belongs to the American Bankers' association. If it does and the thieves are wise, they give it a wide berth.

"In sizing up a bank the thief is always on hand Saturday, for that is payroll day. Monday he will be equally alert, for it is depositor's day. During banking hours the thief goes from one bank to another. He never loiters. His manner is brisk and energetic. He behaves as if he was a business man and his reputation was assured beyond question. He looks as far from a thief as can be imagined. His eye, however, takes in every minute detail, looking for the weak spot. The next step is trailing the messenger of the picked bank. After this the habits of the bank employes are watched and the detailed plan of attack laid."

The details of how a Pittsburg bank was robbed of $8,600 by a "mob" of four men, of which the "Swindler" was one, furnish an excellent illustration for bankers to bear in mind.

The men working with the "Swindler" were Jimmie Carrol, the captain; "Tom" Bigelow, an English bank-stall and Watt Jones. They met in Windsor, Can., and picked out the Pittsburg institution. The "Swindler" took the preliminary job. For six days, for six hours, he stood in an office building overlooking the bank rooms and watched. He noted every movement of the employes. When he reported he could tell what the situation in the bank would be at any minute of the day.

There were seven men to be disposed of in the job, and "Capt." Carrol figured out the way to do it. The "Swindler" was disguised as a 14-year-old boy. He secured a permit to establish an apple stall near the bank steps, and thus familiarized himself to all the employes. He often went into the bank on little errands. All the seven men were shadowed by the crooks and their personal habits and their relatives looked up in detail.

They picked out 2 o'clock in the afternoon on a certain day to do the job. That was the hour when the president was dozing in his office.

A bogus note informed the teller that his mother had received a serious injury. Carrol, as a prospective investor, had communicated with two directors and arranged a meeting in a cafe for that hour. The receiving teller was called to the curb to attend to an injured capitalist who drove up in a carriage and had an estate to talk over. The restless horses detained the teller some. A workman called in overalls—it was Watts—came in and said the landlord had ordered him to fix a window. He drew the attention of the two clerks. The paying teller held the tape for the workman.

While the attention of all was drawn away from the money the "apple vender" on the steps slipped into the clerk's office and quickly put $8,600 into a sack. Then the coils were unwound naturally and two hours later the robbery was discovered.

After describing how a bank at San Jose, Cal., was robbed of $10,000, how a jewelry store in Cincinnati and banks in various other cities were looted, Schindler tells of his experiences in Chicago. One of these was the theft of $12,000 from the office of a board of trade broker, through what the cashier of the firm thought was a practical joke. Another was "stalling" a bank messenger and substituting a fake bundle for the real one at the bank counter, where the "swindler" stood in line behind the messenger.

"Chief among the weaknesses of banks," writes the ex-sneak, "is the propensity on the part of bank men and clerks to accept the 'belong there' manner as satisfactory excuse for a man's presence anywhere. I once got away from a man who caught me in the act of reaching into a private desk by pretending I was searching for a missing paper, and again from a watchman I had alarmed by laughing and telling him it was a joke.

"My recent tour of Chicago banks has shown me how easily a thief can go in and come out if he acts as if he was an employe. Bankers fall into the habit of looking for a man who acts like a thief.

"Here is a job that was done in a prominent bank in Chicago: Patron, coming at end of line of customers, lays money and book on shelf behind window. Teller occupied in other work. Stall and sneak close in behind. Stall slaps patron on back and calls to patron, 'All right, old man, I'll wait outside.' Patron turns away from window in amazement and sneak grabs book. Patron thinks Teller has it and argument ensues, during which stall and sneak get away."

ANTS SEW UP WOUNDS.

Providence Journal: "I hadn't done nothin' to the little yeller lady," said the sailor, "but durned if her husband didn't pull a knife out of his boot and slash my cheek open. That's Brazil fur ye.

"The man made off, but the gal, out of pure compassion, stuck to me. Otherwise I'd 'a' bled to death.

"And since there wasn't no doctor to be had, she said, she'd have to get the ants to sew my wounds up.

"She caught an ant, one o' them ther big Brazil fellers. It had two nippers on its head, sharp and strong. She drawed the lips of the wound close, arranged the two nippers, one on each side, and then guv the ant's body a squeeze. Enraged, it brung the nippers together—it made a tight stitch through the wound.

"Then, before it could draw them nippers out again, the lady broke off the ant's body and heaved it away. Afterward she caught half a dozen other ants guv my hurt half a dozen more stitches in the same way. The upshot was that the cut healed and left no scar.

"Surgical ants, them insects is called, and it's an everyday occurrence down there to use 'em for sewin' up wounds.

UNPROFITABLE VINEYARDS.

London Globe: A cry of dire distress is going up from the south of France. The whole of the Midi wealth of its people, are now their misery. Almost incredible stories are told of the degree of depression into which the industry has fallen. Vineyards which a few years ago yielded a rental of £400 a year are now yielding £80, and many cannot even be let for mere payment of taxes, while mortgages are everywhere and it is being found impossible to pay the interest. Even the pick of the estates, such as that of the late Baron Hirsch, do not yield more than a quarter of their former value.

The reason given for this condition of things is that the growers have to sell their wine literally for less than it costs to produce, and the explanation is more than hinted that laboratory chemicals and the pump have combined to replace the grape.

OLD TIME REHEARSALS.

Ellen Terry in McClure's Magazine: The rehearsals for "A Winter's Tale" were a lesson in fortitude. They taught me once and for all that an actress's life (even when the actress is only 8) is not all fun and glory.

I was cast for the part of Mamillius and my heart swelled with pride when I was told what I had to do. But many weary hours were to pass before the first night. If a company has to rehearse four hours a day now it is considered a great hardship, and players must lunch and dine like other folk. But this was not Kean's way. Rehearsals lasted all day. Sundays included, and when there was no play running at night until 4 or 5 the next morning!

I don't think any actor in those days dreamed of lunch. How my poor legs used to ache! Sometimes I could hardly keep my eyes open when I was on the stage, and often, when my scene was over, I used to creep into the greenroom and forget my troubles and my art (if you can talk of art in connection with a child of 8) in a delicious sleep.

AN INGENIOUS CLOCK.

Jeweler's Dial: Perhaps the most ingenious and wonderful timepiece ever constructed was made by C. H. Brigden, a watchmaker of Los Angeles, Cal. This clock has been made to run and to keep time by means of a single wheel, which is not a gear wheel, but simply a perforated disk, so the timepiece might aptly be called a gearless clock. The work ordinarily performed by the pendulum and a gearing is done by a quarter-inch steel ball, which rolls over two inclined plates in just a minute of time and rolls off the lower plate into the hole of the disk, at the same time releasing the disk, which is always under tension imparted to it by two ball weights suspended in the tower seen on either side of the dial. The disk carries thirty balls on one side, and when released by the rolling of the ball on the lower plate against a locking device turns the space of one hole or one minute, thus bringing the uppermost ball into position to roll on the top plate and begin its zigzag course down the two inclined plates, as did the preceding ball. Each ball rolls over the plate once every thirty minutes.

A WEIGHTY DIPLOMAT.

Philadelphia Record: When Beverly Tucker, minister to the Court of St. James, was presented to Queen Victoria she indicated that he be seated, by that slight motion of her plump hand which all England obeyed. Tucker was portly and heavy, and the only available chair was fragile and small. He appeared not to notice the invitation.

A moment later it was repeated, for even at that first interview began the queen's liking for Minister Tucker, which ripened into such an intimate friendship as no other American ever enjoyed with her majesty. Still, the weakness of things terrestrial was more potent than the finger of Victoria, and Tucker again ignored the command. Then the queen put it in words, when Tucker, with a profound bow, replied:

"Your majesty, I never sit in the presence of royalty."

"I accept the compliment at your hands," replied the queen, "and now you must accept comfort at mine."

"Comfort!" exclaimed Mr. Tucker. "Why, I should break both my back and your majesty's chair if I attempted to sit on it.

FIGURES TOO HIGH.

Judge's Library: It was a little out-of-the-way church t hefirst Sunday in May, just after the "foot-washing" had been observed, which is a custom followed by that particular religious sect of people, that the preacher announced that the congregation would join in singing hymn No. 23, "My soul be on thy guard; ten thousand foes," etc.

Jones, a red-faced, broad-shouldered giant, tried to put on a lot of energy and sing tenor, for this was a special occasion, and he seemed to be the whole church, since he was musical director, and the only choir they had, as well as janitor and deacon; in fact, he did everything but preach. Jones rose up and in stentorian tones began to sing in a pitch too high. When he got to the second line ("Ten thousand foes," etc. it was necessary for his voice to rise beyond its capacity, and he broke down. The congregation began to titter, and a brother in the front row said:

"'Pears to me like you're a leetle bit too high.'

An old gentleman in his shirt sleeves, over in the amen corner, rose up with a judicial air and drawled out:

"S'pose we just try five thousand."

SIZE OF AN ATOM.

Chicago Tribune: "Raise a drop of water to the size of the earth and raise an atom in the same proportion, and the atom will then be in some place between the size of a marble and a cricket ball." Thus said Lord Kelvin in trying to explain to the inerudite world how little are things atomic.

Prof. John Brashear of Lehigh university makes this comparison: "If you will fill a tiny vessel of one centimeter cube with hydrogen corpuscles, or electrons, you can place therein, in round numbers, 525 octillions (525,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000) of them. If these corpuscles are allowed to run out of the vessel at the rate of 1,000 a second, it will require seventeen quintillions (17,000,000,000,000,000) of years to empty it.

WELCOMING CHURCH BELLS.

London Daily Graphic: Curious scenes occurred at the village of St. Keverne (Cornwall) on the arrival of a new peal of bells for the parish church.

A large procession of villagers, headed by the local band, marched out to treet the bells, which were drawn by horses on four wagons. Men, women and children carried flags and wreaths and wild flowers were laid on the bells.

CONCERNING WOMEN

"It is a fearful trial to be an eligible young man in Duluth," said a blase and self-satisfied young individual as he turned from the telephone and blew a whiff of cigarette smoke heavenward.

His audience uttered a sniff of contempt against the imputation implied toward Duluth girls. The audience also hoped that the sniff expressed that there might be two opinions upon his eligibility. But let that pass. The young man continued. "I was just called to the tlephone and the most heavenly voice inquired if I were Mr. Chalmers. I would have admitted to anything for how was I to know that it was a girl with freckles and designs on me who was talking, instead of another person I know who would have received a warm welcome had she telephoned. The voice continued to ask if I had an engagement for Wednesday evening. I still didn't know who she was and I swore that I didn't. I would have postponed my wedding if it had been the person it might have been. Then when this person had the matter clinched, she roped me into a picnic. As a last little matter she mentioned who she was. What good did it do then? I had said I had no engagement and I can't lie," and the young man looked pensively at the end of his cigarette, and the audience not to show that it found it hard to believe that statement gazed into the northeast corner of the room. The young man added—"on the spur of the moment," and the audience withdrew its eyes. "I was perfectly flabergasted and couldn't think of a thing to say. So I said I'd go."

"You can be stricken with sudden death or something like that at the last moment," advised the audience.

"That's what a woman might do," said the young man virtuously, "but a man has more consideration for the adjustment of things and a nicer sense of honor, and when he says he'll go, he goes."

"Oh, does he?" inquired the audience with an inflection that demanded no answer.

"And Wednesday evening:," continued the young man placidly, "will find me lugging picnic baskets and eating sandwiches and tramping around with a lot of people I don't care a cent for. And it's all due," said he, in a grandiloquent manner, "to that invention of the evil one, the telephone. Time was when young women couldn't get to talk to men any time of the day or night, as they can now, and there was, according to the romantic historian, more effort made by the men themselves. The girls of today might try that scheme."

"If they don't telephone," said the audience, "somebody else will, and then the non-telephoning girl gets left out of everything. And she can sit and congratulate herself that she doesn't telephone to men, but small comfort that is when everybody else telephones and gets the men."

"Well, if we are so desirable, let them telephone, then, but I wish to goodness they would say who they are and what they want without that maddening preliminary, 'Are you going to be busy tonight, tomorrow or the next night.' After this I'm going to say, 'Well, maybe I am and maybe I'm not.' And I'll bet she'll feel pretty cheap then."

"You probably asked her to call you up, implored her, if she hesitated, and now you're talking about her," said the audience.

"I'm not talking about anybody," said the young man with the compressed lips, of conscious virtue. "One can always leave that to women."

"Oh, aren't you," inquired the audience again, in a tone that required no answer.

"No, I am not," said the popular youth, in a rather heated tone.

WHAT NAN WOULD HAVE LOST

By Jean Kate Ludlum.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

"It's just dreadful," Nan wrote to Miss Atkinson, her former teacher, with whom she continued correspondence since leaving school over a year before. "It's just dreadful to think of having to live here in the country after the dear, delightful city life; shut away from everyone and with absolutely nothing to do but maybe a little housework! Of course I read; but one cannot read all the while; and, of course, I sew; but even the fanciest of fancy-work palls sometimes. I have shut my school books so recently, there is no need of my opening them again for a long, long while; and although the country is beautiful, I am already tired of it because there is nothing to do in it! Why, oh, why, Miss Atkinson, did papa lose his money and have to be shut off here because it is cheaper living? Here the winter is only half over and we haven't even a horse to grant us a little enjoyment these dull, dreadful days! It's awful, awful, and I wish we were back in the dear old home!"

Poor Nan. She was in a fit of the bluest blues, and Miss Atkinson's kind heart was troubled for some way to cheer this one of her favorite pupils. Nan was naturally a bright girl, and passed her school examinations with credit, and for her now to give up to doling nothing should be out of the question, or all her hard study would go to waste.

Miss Atkinson wrote at once to Nan. It was a busy time for her with her school, but she must help this girl if she could, and she thought she could. There was more than one way to heal a sore heart. An when her letter reached Nan, the girl was surprised at the opening so clearly before her. To follow the studies marked out by Miss Atkinson would occupy a great deal of her time during the long winter days and evenings, and she must give the subject thorough attention to succeed. It was almost like going back to the old school days save that this was so novel, the very novelty was at first an incentive to win.

"It's just like Miss Atkinson," she said, a moisture about her eyes that proved the kindness of the heart far away was not lost. "I might have known she would help you out. She wouldn't be happy if she couldn't do something for one!"

"I can't do much until spring toward this special work," Nan said to herself, pondering the pros and cons of the new idea; "but there is something I can do right now! There is no reason why I cannot have chickens so we can have the benefit without waiting for summer and my garden!" She laughed as the thought made itself clear, and started at once upon it.

It would cost very little to purchase three hens—good, laying hens—as Miss Atkinson said, and one rooster; her father would give her the money that it would take, but she would not tell him for what she wished it; she would keep her secret until she proved its worth. There was a small barn, rather old and unpainted, with a henery attached at the side where the sun shone warmest, and at the rear a warm pigpen. This latter struck her eye at once, and an inspiration all her own, as she said, laughing, came to her.

The first venture in poultry cost her but $2. They were Brahmas and good layers, the man said, when he delivered them to her the day of her purchase. And so they proved.

The pig would be harder to get, the same man told her. He was a broad hearted farmer, a trifle rough in speech, maybe, but true to the core. He smiled many times upon her with ready good nature as she questioned him, telling him in great secrecy, with a beautiful color in her cheeks and a delightful light in her eyes, about her new plans, forming thereby a powerful ally in him. His farm was next theirs, a large, prosperous estate, and Miss Nan felt the utmost confidence in him and his advice.

Just that time of year, he told her, with great gravity, a twinkle in his eyes. It was difficult to obtain a good animal. If she would wait until spring it would be much better, and he would agree by then to see that she had one of the best pigs to be secured. By fall, he added, a young pig would be in perfect condition to butcher, which was, of course, what she desired?

Yes, she told him, and laughed to think how wise she was getting, her bright face lifted to his in utter confidence, that was what they desired, and if it wouldn't be troubling him too much—

Troubling him! he protested quite gruffly, a wistful light in the uplifted eyes bringing a strange softness to his. A great deal of trouble it would be indeed! As though one couldn't be neighborly upon occasion if one wished!

"And there's my Ned," he added bluffly. "Nothing in the world to keep him from helping you whenever he may, Miss Nan! He's been through college, Ned has, but it hasn't spoiled him one bit for our plain life! Just the best fellow a man ever had! He'll help you powerful willing, if you'll let him. There's a-many things, you see, 't a woman can't know about, an' can't do if she tried ever so, an' my Ned'll come in handy there."

"But I couldn't think of asking," began Nan, very softly.

Her big bluff acquaintance interrupted her.

"But ye ain't got to ask, you see," he said, "for I've offered aforehand! Now, just let us do what we can. We know considerably more'n you do about this, maybe!"

Every spare moment she spent, during the winter, over her books on gardening, and the care of poultry; giving the hens good food with warm nests and seeing that everything about them should be clean. They repaid her, too, with eggs that caused her father indeed to open his eyes, laughing back at his bright daughter and her enterprise. Many a time she went to her farmer friend for advice, always receiving much more than she asked; often and often his son Ned, as good-natured and obliging—maybe a trifle handsomer than his father—came across to the small cottage to help the girl over some difficult portion of her books, with here and there an illustration so full and amusing that Nan's happy laughter made the little home merry; days and days, when spring came, these two were busy over the laid-out plans, for the father always said heartily he could easily spare his son while the harder work was on hand at the enterprising neighbor's.

And Nan was very happy. Her father had obtained a position in one of the town stores, and she was at liberty to follow her work unquestioned. It was often hard work. Very hard because she was unused to it. But she liked it. Her sleep at night was sweet and sound; her cheeks glowed with life and color as never in her city days; her eyes danced with the free, full, outdoor life; her appetite was perfect.

The seed potatoes she cut with her own hands while Ned prepared the ground for them; then came corn and beans, lettuce and peas—plenty of them, for they must have enough for their own use and for the town markets; and there were cabbages and turnips and carrots; sage, too, and garden mint for the sauce her father liked; and cucumbers for pickles and table use; for pickles sold at city markets at good profit, her friends told her, and ground devoted to them was never wasted; besides they could be planted almost anywhere and then transplanted to where the corn and potatoes grew when these were gone.

In the early spring she bought a half dozen good common hens to set, determined to have enough while about it, as young chickens were always profitable, her friends told her—she had gotten in the habit of going to her friends instead of the books—and the town markets made engagements with her to take as many "broilers" as she could furnish. At the grocer's, and at the hotel, too, she made arrangements for disposing of such garden stuff as she would furnish, they talking a good deal of interest in her after the first, encouraged by the friendly words of her farmer friends, though proud, Miss Nan did not know this until later.

Her letters to Miss Atkinson were different things now; they fairly glowed with her life and work. There were losses, of course, but she learned even from these, and her neighbor friends were never too tired or busy to aid her. Maybe Mr. Ned went to the cottage more often than was necessary for the absolute good of the garden, and maybe there were cozy tea drinkings at the big old farmhouse where the two mothers gossiped softly, and the fathers went over business and politics and the young people talked—garden, of course—that had not at first entered into the neighborly contract. But what of that? It is the unexpected that happens, the unlooked for pleasure that is best!

And what could Miss Atkinson say when she went up to the cozy home during her vacation, but what she did say, drawing Nan close to her arms:

"Nan, dear, what you would have lost had you spent wour life in the city!"

While Nan turned away with her sweet laugh, an unaccountable flush on her face, as she replied merrily:

"Oh, indeed, indeed, indeed I would have, dear Miss Atkinson!"

But by and by when the months run round, and there's a pretty bride in the little cottage parlor, and a handsome, broad-shouldered young likeness of the old farmer looks dreamily proud of her, while the other people look equally as proud of both, Miss Atkinson understood how very much Miss Nan would have lost.

RAN INTO A BIG HAWSER

Norfolk, Va., June 17.—After a careful examination of the Minnesota's launch, which was raised from the bottom of the bay, it was found that the launch, while bound from the exposition grounds to the battleship Connecticut, at anchor off Old Point Confederate, had run into a steel hawser, such as used in towing gigantic car floats used by the railroads.

The brass prow of the launch showed signs of having struck tthe hawser, which then passed under the keel of the tiny craft. When the cable struck that part of the keel near the propeller it came in contact with the condenser pipes which were torn away and the shock threw the launch over on its starboard side, which was crushed in, and the tiny craft was hurled to the bottom of Hampton Roads and became the tomb of its eleven occupants.

Part of the hull of the launch was crushed in by the impact with the cable, but the steamboat inspectors and the members of the naval board of inquiry unanimously expressed the opinion that the ill-fated vessel was not struck by a barge or tug, but had collided with the cable between the tug and car float.

LID TROUBLES THEM.

St. Paul Saloonkeepers Consider That Obnoxious Order.

St. Paul, Minn., June 17.—The Retail Liquor Dealers' association of St. Paul held a special meeting Saturday in their room on Sixth and Washington streets to consider the present conditions of the saloonkeepers. The meeting was called to devise means to counteract the loss of the Sunday business. The meeting was attended by over 100 members, and it was presided over by Edward Rohrbeck, the president.

It is said that the meeting was harmonious except for the haste of some of the members in desiring the floor to air their views on what should be done to amend the injury caused by the closing of saloons on Sunday, and the president's gavel often fell with force on the desk. Some of the members contended that it was equally illegal to run street cars on Sunday, that the sale of intoxicants in disorderly houses should likewise be prohibited and another man suggested that steps be taken to prevent the sale of whisky in retail drug stores.

SECRETARY TAFT HAS RECOVERED FROM ATTACK.

Sioux Falls, S. D., June 17.—Secretary of War Taft, who arrived here from St. Paul Sunday, said he had entirely recovered from his indisposition. No formal reception was planned but several hundred persons called to pay their respects to the secretary. He attended church and at 1 o'clock left for Fort Meade with Senators Gamble and Kittredge and Governor Crawford.

DULUTH IS "DRY" TOWN

Brand New "Lid" Was Placed on the City Sunday.

All the Saloons But One Remained Closed During Day.

When the first genuine hot weather of the year, and a brand new lid strike town together, one of them has to yield a little bit. As all Duluthians know, the hot weather did not do any yielding, and heid on far into the night. As a result, Duluth's newly made lid warped a little in spots, and it is reported that there was considerable leakage of amber-colored fluid at several points. But it was on just the same, and at least one arrest was made, with others in sight.

When Saturday came to a close, the breweries found that they had had one of the most prosperous days in their history, so far as the retail trade in case beer was concerned, and the saloons all did a rushing business right up to 12 o'clock Saturday night.

In spite of the fact that at least one or two West Superior street thirst emporiums were open for a time, it was decidedly difficult for the average man to connect with a glass of anything stronger than lemonade during the day, and many are the tales told of attempts to get a thirst-cure on the part of those who had lacked the foresight to stock up Saturday night.

The drug clerks tell of all sorts of diseases which developed in Duluth yesterday, for which alcohol or a quart of old rye was the only possible cure.

One man sauntered into one of the stores and tackled the clerk for a quart of alcohol. He said he had rheumatism, and that he had some camphor at home, which he would put with the alcohol before applying it. The drug clerk was wise, however, and said that he would have to have a doctor's prescription. The thirsty one wandered disconsolately over to the soda fountain on the other side of the store and consoled himself with a lemonade with a cherry in it.

Sergeant Gillon and Patrolman Malon reported yesterday afternoon that Boyle's was open and, as a result, a warrant was issued this morning for the arrest of the proprietor.

The day off was highly appreciated by the bartenders of the city, and they enjoyed it to the limit. It was the first full holiday which the thirst cure artists have enjoyed for many a long day.

On the whole while, as stated before, the lid warped a little in the heat of the southwest wind, it was very evident that it was in existence yesterday, and Duluth was a "dry" town on Sunday for the first time in years.

KILLED, STEALING A RIDE.

Jake Hoffman Meets Death on Duluth, Missabe & Northern.

Jake Hoffman, whose home is said to have been in Ionia, Mich., was killed Saturday night while stealing a ride on a Duluth, Missabe & Northern. He fell from his position under the car and he was so badly injured that he died before medical attendance could be secured by the section men near Kelsey. Hoffman's legs were badly mangled, and his chest crushed in.

The remains were brought to this city, and an effort is being made to locate his parents in the Michigan town.

GEN. SHERMAN KIND OF TRIP

Five Duluth Anglers Spent Most of Time Road-Building.

Frank A. Greene, Bert Greene, Bliss Robinson, Walter Borgen and W. E. Morrow returned from a fishing expedition to the headwaters of French river just in time to be caught in the storm last evening, and after having a day and a half at the hardest kind of work.

They set out Saturday afternoon in a rig that seemed substantial and behind two sturdy horses, and while they went primarily for trout and secured some, they also had some experiences that read like Gen. Sherman's march from Atlanta to the sea.

According to one member of the party, they had to construct their own road over a good portion of the territory they covered. They declare that it was a strange and weird five minutes that did not chronicle some disaster, from the breaking of bolts in the rig to sinking of the horses up to their heads in the ruins of what several years ago was used for a tote road.

"Every five minutes we had to get out and build a stretch of road," said one of the Izaak Waltons today. "We would come to a full stop, and there would be a call for all hands to gather brush, so that we could get by.

"In the middle of the night our camp was attacked. I think the enemy was composed of a herd of porcupines—they travel in herds, don't they?—or is it flocks?—and it took many words of cheer from the courageous members of the party to restore order in our ranks. Robinson looked upon the coming of the porcupines as a personal attack upon him. We finally drove the enemy away, however, and resumed our slumbers. Of course, we fished some yesterday, but we had to start back early in order for all of us to do some road repairing. Anyway, we got some trout."

Remarkable Rescue

That truth is stranger than fiction, has once more been demonstrated in the little town of Fedora, Tenn., the residence of C. V. Pepper. He writes: "I was in bed, entirely disabled with hemorrhages of the lungs and throat. Doctors failed to help me, and all hope had fled when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. Then instant relief came. The coughing soon ceased; the bleeding diminished rapidly, and in three weeks I was able to go to work." Guaranteed cure for coughs and colds. 50c and $1.00, at all drug stores. Trial bottle free.

SUMMER HAS COME AT LAST

The Mercury Reached 88 Degrees on Sunday Afternoon.

It came at last.

For three months Duluthians have been longing for "some real hot weather," and yesterday they got it. The thermometer climbed to 88 degs. yesterday afternoon, and there was a hot, scorching wind, such as is very rarely felt in Duluth. The wind sprang up very suddenly during the afternoon, and the evening was uncomfortably warm.

If Duluth has had a late spring, it looks as if it would have an early summer. Such weather as that of yesterday was not experienced in Duluth last year until more than a month later. It was July 23 before the mercury reached 88 degrs., and on that day a temperature of 89 degs. was recorded.

This morning it had moderated a little, but the genuine brand of summer weather hangs on, and Duluthians climbed into their summer clothes as rapidly as possible.

POINTER FOR PLAYWRIGHTS.

"To write a successful play," he ended, "it is not enough to be an artist, even a great artist. It is necessary, too, to be a student of audiences. If, for instance, one were writing a melodrama for a 10, 20 and 30-cent house, one should continually bear in mind the well-known dialogue between the mistress and the maid.

"'Well, Susan,' said the mistress—she had given Susan a ticket for a matinee—'how did you like the performance?'

"'Oh, it wuz splendid, mum,' said Susan. 'Yer jest ought to have heerd how in the theyd ack a servant gal sassed her missus.'"

LOCAL MEN MAY STRIKE

Trouble of Key Pounders May Affect Union Members Here.

Would Refuse to Handle New York and Chicago Wires.

Members of the Duluth local of the Commercial Telegraphers' union, including nearly every telegraph operator in the city, are awaiting word from New York and Chicago, which may call them out on a strike in symapthy with the operators of those two cities. The differences of the union with the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies in New York and Chicago are now being discussed by the representatives of the men and the companies, and unless a satisfactory agreement is reached, the operators in the two cities will walk out. The action would throw nearly every union operator in the country, handing a through wire, out also, as they would refuse to handle business addressed to Chicago or New York, or for relay at either of those places.

As all Duluth business east, and most of that south, passes through Chicago, there would be very little work for the union operator of the city with Chicago men on a strike, and most of them would be out of work. A few would probably be retained to handle local business with St. Paul and Minneapolis, but they would not handle Chicago and New York business, which would practically tie up the system.

"We are expecting word at any moment that New York and Chicago men have been called out, and that would mean that practically every telegrapher employed by the Western Union and Postal companies in Duluth would walk out, as but very few of them are non-union," said one of the officers of the Duluth local this morning. The difference in Chicago and New York is one of wages. Some time ago the two companies announced a 10 per cent increase in wages, and at the same time they increased the rates to nearly all points from 25 to 40 per cent. But while they have been holding the rates up, they have not been holding the wages, but have been gradually cutting.

"Of course, they do not make an out and out cut. Instead, when a man leaves a place paying $90 or so, under the increased scale, they put the next man on at say $85, and so on, gradually getting most of the positions down to the basis prevailing before the increase. They have been doing this all over, but more noticeably in the two large cities, where changes are more frequent and more telegraphers are employed. The system is all wrong, and unless something is done, the men there will strike and the whole system of the two companies will be tied up."

Several Boats and Canoes Just Escaped Wind Storm.

A repetition of the fatal accident of last summer when a party of Superior people was caught in a minature typhoon while crossing the bay, was prevented last evening by the action of the White City officials.

The weather conditions preceding last evening's storm were much similar to those of last year, and when the gale was seen coming up over the bay, the White City manager, J. R. Somes, secured a megaphone and warned all boaters of its approach. Between fifty and sixty canoes and rowboats were on the bay in the vicinity of the White City and they hurried to shelter, some of them getting in just in time to avoid the storm.

About 1,000 people visited the White City grounds yesterday in spite of the fact that the park is not yet open for the season.

THE NEW ELECTION LAW

the moderate leaders, but also among the adherents of the radical majority. A fraction of the Moderates urge that the government is now so strongly intrenched that a strike would be futile, and only weaken the prestige of the party and involve the rank and file and the industrial proletariat generally in a series of reprisals and immense pecuniary loss.

The conference, which is attended by all the members of the lower house who have not been addressed, probably will content itself with issuing a series of proclamations addressed to the peasantry, the army and navy, and the workmen, accusing the government of violating faith with the country by altering the election law in defiance of their pledges and appealing to the masses to continue the fight to overthrow the existing regime.

The Social Revolutionists, at a conference held last night, declared against the proposed strike, and appointed a committee to draft an address to the peasantry, the army and navy and the workmen. The National Socialists and group of toil members also are contemplating the issuance of manifestoes to their constituents.

Telegrams from practically every city in the empire announce that the news of the dissolution of parliament was received quietly, and with almost an entire absence of demonstrations. Even at Odessa and Kiev no disturbances occurred.

The course of Gen. Dracheffski, prefect of police of St. Petersburg, in prohibiting hostile criticism of the government, was followed almost universally by the governor generals throughout Russia completely muzzling the Liberal press.

The Novoe Vremya, which has allgned itself with the Reactionists, attacks the new election law as a half way measure affording the possibility that the revolutionary elements will again be able to enter the parliament.

A close study of the new election law, which is a bulky document of eighty pages of complicated phraseology, has somewhat dispelled the feeling of gloom in liberal circles. The idea is gaining ground that the government has failed in its intentions and that there is a possibility there will be an oppositional majority in the third parliament, as in the case of its predecessors. Even under the new law it is thought that the Constitutional Democrats will retain control of the cities, though, perhaps, they will be swamped by the Social Democratic proleteriat in the elections of the second and poorer categories of urban voters.

The Constitutional Democrats also hope to return a considerable number of the sixty land-owning representatives whom the government believed would be exclusively conservative.

According to the opinion of a foreign diplomat, who is in close touch with the court, the government has done either too much or too little. It has violated the fundmental laws, or constitution, and laid itself open to the charge of accomplishing a coup d'etat without altering the election law sufficiently to produce the desired results.

The feeling in court circles against Premier Stolypin, who has undertaken full responsibility before his majesty for a speedy convocation of parliament on the present basis of sufferage, is said to be bitter, and he is alleged to be the object of a strong reactionary intrigue.

The grant of seven parliamentary representatives to the Armenians and Tartars was decided upon at the last moment. The original plan was to disfranchise the Caucasus entirely, but this was abandoned owing to the representations of Count von Vorontzeoff-Dashkoff, viceroy of the Caucasus, who is now here fighting to save his political head.

The holy synod has ordered the imperial manifesto to be read in all the churches next Sunday.

The committee of the lower house of parliament, consisting of twenty-two members, appointed to investigate the charges against the Social Democratic deputies, decided to issue its report posthumously. It came to the conclusion that the evidence was too weak to justify the suspension of any of the accused deputies. Even moderates like Prof. Kuzmin-Karavaleff, the Democratic reformer, who favored the surrender of any of the culprits against whom there was definite grounds for suspicion, acquiesced to this founding.

St. Petersburg, June 17.—Emperor Nicholas affixed his signature yesterday morning to an imperial ukase abolishing the present duma and ordering that the elections of members to its successor, which is to meet Nov. 14 be held under the new election law that provides against the "submergence of the educated classes by the uneducated classes."

This action constitutes a virtual coup d'etat, and overrides the specific provisions of the fundamental laws of the realm, solemnly proclaimed by his majesty on the eve of the convocation of the first duma, which declares that the electoral law could never be changed without the consent of parliament itself.

This breach of the constitution is justified by the great law of necessity, the advisers of the emperor holding it impossible, under present conditions to secure a parliament capable of co-operating harmoniously with the crown and rescue Russia from anarchy and revolution.

TRIBUTE TO AMERICA.

The feeling which Russian reformers have for America is shown by an incident, described by George Kennan in a recent number of Outlook. If the story was ever generally known in this country, the recollection of it has grown rather vague.

In the summer of 1876—The American centennial summer—when there was confined in the great prison known as the house of preliminary detention in St. Petersburg more than 300 political offenders—all of them in separate cells, but secretely in communication with one another by means of the "knock alphabet"—it was decided to have a general prison celebration of the American centennial Fourth of July.

As early in as the first week in June the prisoners began to make preparations for the proposed celebration by requesting relatives who were permitted to visit some of them once or twice a week, to bring or send to the prison, for their use, as many red and blue handkerchiefs, neckerchiefs, shirts, and pairs of red flannel drawers as could be brought or sent without exciting suspicion, and at the same time all of the prisoners who were permitted to have movable lights in their cells began to purchase and horde cheap tallow candles.

The colored garments were torn into strips; the candles were cut into inch long bits, and both were distributed throughout the prison, either by attaching them to strings obtained by ravelling out their stockings and swinging them like pendulums from one cell window to another, or by lowering them or pulling them up through the iron coil pipes which connected the water closet fixtures of the cells with the sewerage system of the city.

The prisoners had long before discovered that by scooping the water out of the closet traps they could open the pipes so as to make them speaking tubes from cell to cell, and could even use them as a means of transferring little packages from one cell to another by tying such packages to long strings up and down until they became entangled or twisted together.

Out of the strips of colored cloth, obtained in this way, some of the women—who were permitted to have needles and thread and do sewing in their cells—succeeded in making secretly small, rude American flags; and before July almost every political offender in the prison had either a small American flag or a few red, white and blue strips of cloth.

Day breaks in the high northern latitude of St. Petersburg, in summer, very early; and, on the morning of July 4, 1876, hours before the first daylight cannon announced the beginning of the great national celebration in Philadelphia, hundreds of small, rude American flags or strips of red, white and blue cloth fluttered from the grated windows of the politicals, around the whole quadrangle of the great St. Petersburg prison, while the prisoners were faintly hurrahing, singing patriotic songs, or exchanging greetings with one another through the iron pipes which united their cells.

The celebration, of course, was soon over. The prison guards, although they had never heard of the Declaration of Independence and did not understand the significance of this extraordinary demonstration, promptly seized and removed the flags and tricolored streamers.

Some of the prisoners, however, had more material of the same kind in reserve, and, at intervals, throughout the whole day, scaps and tatters of red, white and blue were furtively hung out here and there from cell windows or tied around the bars of the gratings. Late in the evening, at a preconcerted hour, the politicals lighted their bits of tallow candles and placed them in their windows, and the celebration ended, with a faint but perceptible illumination of the great prison quadrangle.

WAYS OF SAVING WASTE.

Chicago Tribune: Skimming a river for a living may be said to be one of the most striking examples of the utilization of waste. This is done in Paris. There is one individual, at least, in the French capital who makes it his daily business to skim the Seine. He is out at early morning in an old flat-bottomed boat, armed with a skimming pan. With this he skims off the surface of the river the grease which collects there during the night, and which he disposes of to a soap factory. Generally he makes a quarter or so by his morning's work, which enables him to live.

In Paris also there are a number of people who make a living out of waste corks which they fish from the Seine. They collect on the river bank at daybreak, each with a short pole, at the end of which is a small improvised net. They set to work to gather in the floating corks, subsequently selling them to the cork merchants in the neighborhood.

There are about a score or so of these cork fishermen, who have formed themselves into a sort of craft and who guard their interests jealously. If they catch sight of a stranger netting corks they fall on him in a body. Only recently the police rescued one of these novices barely in time to save his life.

The sweepings of a floor might well be considered as so much waste; yet, through a fire in London the other day, which consumed a quantity of sweepings stored in the basement, a certain firm lost several thousand dollars. The heap of dust and rubbish contained silver filings, which it was intended to extract later on.

This is done regularly at all works where silver or gold is used. In gold refiners' premises even the soot in the chimneys is not allowed to be treated as waste. It is found to contain minute particles of the precious metal, which are far too valuable to be lost.

In places where sheep are bred extensively one frequently sees little bits of wool adhering to briers and hedges. These are no longer regarded as waste. From such wool rubbish, whether coming from sheep or goats, valuable oil is now extracted.

Three miles north of Lowell, Ind., is one of the best tended farms in that part of the state. This is one of the places to which Lowell points with pride as it is not only owned by the "Brannan girls," three sisters, now long past the "old maid" mark as years are counted, but all the work of the farm is done by them. No help of any kind is hired on the place.

Of course there is a beginning to the story, and it starts about twenty-six years ago, when Tom Brannan, a farmer, left this community for parts unknown and left his wife and five small children, two sons and three daughters, the youngest a child of 9 years, to run the farm and make their own way in this world as best they could. Of the family there now remain on the home place but these three daughters.

Much of the sturdy self-reliance manifested by them today, write a Hammond correspondent of the Indianapolis Star, can be traced back to their plucky little mother, who, instead of "waiting for something to turn up," started in and not only made a home for her little ones but gave them an enviable start in this world before she quietly slipped away to the other.

The two sons drifted away from home before the death of the mother and the work was taken up by the girls and carried on from where the brothers had left it. Today the farm is the envy of many of the neighboring farmers, and not only is this true because of the air of neatness which prevails, but for the stock to be found on it. These farmers aim at quality instead of quantity in their stock raising, and as a consequence no higher grade of horses, cattle and hogs are to be found in Northern Indiana than on the "old maids'" farms.

It is not the lighter work which is done by the sisters, as can be seen from the woodpile, every stick of which was split by the "female farmers," the trees being felled by them and hauled home.

All of the planting and harvesting is done by the "Brannan girls," and no one in the country can show earlier crops or a better yield, as they keep their land fertilized and in the best of condition.

WENT TO TEA,

And It Wound Her Bobbin.

Tea drinking freqently affects people as badly as coffee. A lady in Salisbury, Md., says that she was compelled to abandon the use of coffee a good many years ago, because it threatened to ruin her health and that she went over to tea drinking, but finally, she had dyspepsia so bad that she had lost twenty-five pounds and no food seemed to agree with her.

She further says: "At this time I was induced to take up the famous food drink, Postum, and was so much pleased with the results that I have never been without it since. I commenced to improve at once, regained my twenty-five pounds of flesh and went some beyond my usual weight.

"I know Postum to be good, pure, and healthful, and there never was an article, and never will be, I believe, that does so surely take the place of coffee, as Postum Food Coffee. The beauty of it all is that it is satisfying and wonderfully nourishing. I feel as if I could not sing its praises too loud." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

The All Important

Purity — there is nothing else half so important in beer. And nothing else is nearly so expensive.

Purity means absolute cleanliness.

It means freedom from germs. Even the air in our cooling rooms is filtered. And every bottle of Schlitz beer is sterilized after it is sealed.

It means an aged beer — aged for months, until it cannot cause biliousness.

Without those precautions, no beer can be healthful. And who would knowingly drink beer that was not?

Ask for the Brewery Bottling.
Common beer is sometimes substituted for Schlitz.

ROY KELLY IN FRISCO

Former Fellowtownsman Runs Across Him on Street.

Crookston, Minn., June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The mystery of the disappearance of Roy Kelly, who left Crookston the latter part of last December for a trip to Milwaukee, Chicago and other points, and of whom all trace was lost in Milwaukee a few weeks later, has been solved. The missing young man was the adopted son of M. Kelly of this city, and for many year past had been a trusted employe in the offices of the Crookston Lumber company of this city. He has been definitely located in San Francisco by Albert Johnson, formerly of Crookston, but who is now located in San Francisco. As Johnson was a school mate of Roy Kelly for two years and for four years was employed with him by the Crookston Lumber company here there can be little question regarding the identification.

Johnson wrote his parents in this city a few weeks ago that he had seen Roy Kelly, but gave no particulars. In answer to a recent letter young Johnson wrote again, the letter having been received yesterday, in which he states positively that the Saturday before Memorial day he met Roy Kelly on the streets of San Francisco. The two made arrangements to go to the theater together that evening and met by appointment and went. Mr. Johnson did not broach the subject of Kelly's disappearance and Kelly made no reference to it. However, he asked Mr. Johnson many questions regarding what was going on in Crookston and inquired about many of the people whom both knew.

Kelly stated that he intended returning to Crookston after a while, but did not state the time definitely. Johnson reports Kelly in the best of health and apparently in good spirits.

The disappearance was one of the most peculiar that ever took place in this entire Northwest. Kelly was popular with his employes and there was no known reason for his going away in the manner he did aside from the fact that but a few days prior to his departure, while looking through some papers in the safe in the Kelly home he learned for the first time that he was an adopted son, but this would hardly have justified him in the course he pursued.

He simply disappeared and threw up a lucrative position in which there was a chance for rapid advancement, as he was popular with the officials of the lumber company, and had no bad habits to hamper his advancement in any way.

His brother-in-law, B. F. Munroe, of this city, made a trip to Milwaukee and the best detectives in the Northwest were put on the case. His father, M. Kelly, offered a reward of $1,000 and Tom Shevlin of Minneapolis offered a further reward of $10,000 for his recovery, but both of these rewards were withdrawn some time ago.

EXTENSION IS BEING PUSHED

Trains May Reach International Falls by July 31.

Blackduck, Minn., June 17.—(Special to the Herald.)—W. H. Gemmell, general manager of the M. & I. railway, and W. H. Strachan, superintendent, passed through the city yesterday in a special train from Big Falls returning to Brainerd.

They had made a trip to Big Falls in their private car and from there to International Falls, via stage and uncompleted rail route.

Mr. Gemmell expressed himself as being well pleased with the progress that is being made in building the extension from Big Falls north to the boundary.

"The bridge over the Little Fork river will be completed in a very few days, when the rails will be rapidly laid to the outskirts of Littlefork village," he said. "The mosekeg that was passed by the work trains was not at first properly drained, and the frost bothered considerably with the construction work, but this has all been overcome and the work is being pushed to the utmost.

"In a few days the roadbed on the north side of the Littlefork river will have been completed to the high ground south of International Falls, and before the steel is laid to Camp 14, the grade into International Falls will have been turned over to the company.

"We expect to have trains running into International Falls by the last of July.

"Some delay has been caused on the International Falls, and on account of settlement with owners of land adjoining the town, but as it is inside the last two miles settlement or condemnation proceedings will make it possible for Dempsey & Dougherty, the contractors, to finish their work in ample time."

Asked relative to the putting on of a night train over the N.P. and M. & I from St. Paul to International Falls, Mr. Gemmell intimated that was the intention of the company, as soon as the line was completed.

PETER MATHIESON,
Alleged Slayer of John Johanson at Tenstrike, Beltrami County, Last February, Who Is in Jail Awaiting Trial.

THE GALLOWS CONFRONTS HIM

Alleged Slayer of Johanson Realizes He is in Box.

Bemidji, Minn., June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Mathieson, the young Dane, charged with killing John Johanson at Gull lake, near Tenstrike, is just beginning to realize the seriousness of his situation and that the brutal murder of his friend and companion may lead him to the gallows.

Mathieson converses freely with his jailor and the one or two persons allowed to see him and has no hesitancy in talking about the killing of Johanson and the manner in which he took his friend's life.

When asked about the murder, he became visibly affected, and wept bitterly when reference was made to his parents in Denmark, making a request that he be allowed to write to Vigor Pederson, an acquaintance from Denmark who lives near Oakwood, in this county.

Since being confined in the jail here, Mathieson has again related his version of the killing of Johanson, which is substantially as he first told Deputy Sheriff Bailey, with the exception that he now furnishes more details of the affair, but he maintains that the shooting was purely accidental.

MINNESOTA IN BRIEF

Minneapolis—In the case of Hillary vs. the Twin City Rapid Transit company, in which the traction company was sued for $25,000 for personal injuries, the jury returned a verdict of $10,000 for the plaintiff.

Hawley—Charles Hodge, for many years a locomotive engineer engaged in pushing trains over the Hawley hill, is now working in the office of Assistant Engineer McCoy of this place. His duty is to look after twenty locomotives engaged in the construction work in this vicinity.

Bagley—The Farmer's Restaurant, which for some time past has been owned by Gilbert Olson has been sold to Mrs. George Daniels of Shevlin.

Noving—Ole Evenson, a pioneer and respected resident of this place died at his home Wednesday after being sick but a short time. He leaves a wife and three children. The funeral services were held Friday.

Clearbrook—The Clearbrook creamery is now in good working order and was started up Friday. It has a good patronage as all the farmers in this territory welcome the creamery and are as fast as possible purchasing more cows. The first churning of butter was of a superior class of butter and will find a ready market.

HORNS LOCK, DEER DROWN

Three Perish With Two Other Animals in Smith Lake.

Here's an Animal Yarn That Takes Year's Medal.

Gordon, Wis., June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Animal fakers and those who delight in spinning yarns of the antics of beasts better take a back seat, for John Sawash, a full-blooded Indian, has a story that puts the blush to anything Dr. Long, Seton Thomson or any other animal-yarn authority ever conceived.

Sawash came to town Saturday with three deer hides he desired to have tanned, and incidentally he related a remarkable story of the manner in which he secured possession of them.

John is a guide. He says he was walking along Smith lake to meet a camping party which had engaged his services. As he rounded the point by the thoroughfare, at the north end, he saw two large bucks fighting. Suddenly a third joined them and began fighting the other two.

Just then a rabbit dashed across the beach, pursued by a wolf. At this moment the bucks clashed again, and the wolf, holding the rabbit in his mouth, was immediately impaled upon the horns of one of the deer.

At this the deer jumped, but all three of their pairs of horns became locked. They struggled, and fell in the water, bearing the wolf and rabbit with them.

All five were drowned.

DAKOTAS

DRAGS WOLF TO BE GOOD

Indian Chief Leaves Jail Promising to Behave in Future.

Troublesome on Berthold Reservation and Was Taken In.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Me be good Indian, heap good," grunted Drags Wolf, a stalwart chief, who has been in the Cass county jail for several months, on being released from custody.

The big chief was placed in the jail on a charge of attacking and resisting the arrest of an Indian policeman at the Berthold reservation. A dance was in progress among the Indians, and there being several tribes present, gifts were exchanged to such an extent that the United States authorities were obliged to put a stop to the practice, fearing that the Berthold Indians would give away everything they had. Drags Wolf was the master of ceremonies and he grew ugly when required to stop his gift making, and when the Indian policeman laid hands on him he resisted and the policeman was given a terrible beating and thrown out of the hall and almost froze to death.

During his incarceration the chief was a model prisoner and when he left here for his home he thanked Sheriff Hunt and his jailer, Max Richards, and the United States marshal and all of the people he knew about the courthouse.

Before leaving the chief was given a new suit of clothes with which to astonish the other members of the tribe. A few days ago he sent for his Indian garments and the celebrated eagle feather that was worn by his father, Crow Flies High, for he wanted to dress in full regimentals on leaving the city, but the regalia didn't arrive and he was obliged to depart in the garments provided by the government.

Grandfather's Cure for Constipation

GREAT medicine,—the Sawbuck. Two hours a day sawing wood will keep anyone's Bowels regular.

No need of pills, Cathartics, Castor Oil, nor "Physic," if you'll only work the Sawbuck regularly.

Exercise is Nature's Cure for Constipation and,—a Ten-Mile walk will do, if you haven't got a wood-pile.

But, if you will take your Exercise in an Easy Chair, there's only one way to do that, because,—there's only one kind of Artificial Exercise for the Bowels and its name is "CASCARETS."

Cascarets are the only means to exercise the Bowel Muscles without work.

They don't flush out your Bowels and Intestines with a costly waste of Digestive Juice, as Salts, Castor Oil, Calomel, Jalap, or Aperient Waters always do.

No—Cascarets strengthen and stimulate the Bowel Muscles, that line the Food passages and that tighten up when food touches them, thus driving the food to its finish.

A Cascaret acts on your Bowel Muscles as if you had just sawed a cord of wood, or walked ten miles.

Cascarets move the Food Naturally, digesting it without waste of tomorrow's Gastric Juice.

The thin, flat, Ten-Cent Box is made to fit your Vest pocket, or "My Lady's" Purse. Druggists—10 Cents a Box.

Carry it constantly with you and take a Cascaret whenever you suspect you need one.

Be very careful to get the genuine made only by the Sterling Remedy Company, and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC." 738

MAROONED FOR HOURS

Lightning Hits Aerial Bridge and 400 Are Stranded.

Accident Happened About 10 o'Clock and Was Fixed at 1:30.

A mixed crowd of more than 400 persons stood on the south pier of the canal from 10 o'clock until about 1:30 last evening and waited, soaked by the rain, for the aerial bridge. The bridge, with a record of a year and four months without missing a single trip, was put out of commission promptly and effectively, last evening, by the lightning, which made short work of some of the electric wiring, and it stayed out until the early hours of the morning.

All sorts of expedients were tried by the crowd to get back across the canal. Mayor Cullum, hearing of the accident, telephoned to the board of public works to get tugs to carry the people across the canal, but they failed to secure any for the purpose. A few of the launches from the Duluth Boat club got busy and carried some of the friends of the owners across, but the stiff west wind which was blowing, soon rolled up a sea that was too stiff to trust the smaller craft in, and this means of transportation was given up.

In the meantime that same troublesome west wind, which had first lured the multitude on to the Point by its stifling heat during the day had blown up the thunderstorm, and very effectively marooned them there early in the evening, consented to dispel the clouds to some extent, and the rain ceased.

But the condition of the waiting crowd was not much better. The telephone wires across the canal were kept busy with messages to anxious friends, telling them not to worry, and advising them of the reason for the failure of the marooned parties in returning home. On the upper side of the canal the crowd began rapidly to disperse, quartering themselves upon friends in the main part of the city for the night.

But the crowd on the south side continued to wait. The hours rolled slowly, and as the rain ceased the crowd scattered out along the south pier from the bridge to the lighthouse on the end. Someone got into communication with the managers of the Newsboy. They demanded $50 to make the trip and ferry the crowd across the canal. While the money could probably have been easily raised by subscription among the crowd, no one took the initiative, and nothing was done. The tug companies expressed a willingness to accommodate the crowds, but pointed out that they had no passenger license, and said that they did not dare to violate the law by carrying passengers.

At the time the lightning struck the bridge there were half a dozen persons on it, including several women, some of whom fainted, but no one was injured by the flash.

The crowd which spent the three dreary hours on the canal piers was a decidedly cosmopolitan one. There were those who had gone down to visit friends on the Point during the first hot afternoon of the summer. There were those who picnicked there during the afternoon, and there were the crowds who sought relief from the heat of the day at the boat and yacht clubs. When the bridge did get into shape again, about 1:30, many of them were still far from their homes, and street car service was largely over for the night. There was a call at the livery stables by those who were headed for the outlying residence districts, and there were some long, weary walks to other homes located high up on the hillside before all of the crowd were safely housed.

CARUSO ARRESTED.

Tony P. Caruso, a 16-year-old boy, was arrested Saturday evening by Detective Worthington, special agent for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, and was locked up, charged with petty larceny. Worthington says he saw the boy put his hand into the pocket of a pedestrain on Superior street. He said he was walking along Superior street Saturday evening when he saw the boy dart into a crowd. His actions aroused the detective's suspicion, and he followed him. He soon saw him repeat the action and saw the youthful thief's hand slip into the pocket of one of the crowd. He nabbed him immediately and took him to the station.

Caruso said he was coming out of the penny arcade when the detective grabbed him by the collar and took him to the station. He said that he lives in Spooner, Wis., and was on his way there, having worked in Virginia all winter.

BRASS BAND FOR CANAL

One Stationed on North Pier Would be Popular.

Many Arguments in Favor of Providing the Attraction.

The city fathers could greatly add to their popularity by providing for a band on the north pier of the canal on summer evenings, and possibly on Sunday afternoons. With all the talk of city parks, and public play grounds for the children, nothing has been said of the band feature, but many of the Duluthians who have had occasion to visit the piers during any of the recent warm evenings, were impressed with the idea that if a musical organization could be installed there, it would be immensely popular with the general public.

At the present time there is no special attraction at the canal. The bare stone, a few electric lights, the water, and the incoming boats, together with the cool lake breeze, offer sufficient inducement, however, to draw hundreds of people, men, women and children, to the spot every pleasant evening. Last night, for example, both the north and south piers were lined with diversion-seekers. Most of them were either seated or walking on the north side of the canal, but the south pier also was liberally patronized, as was proven when aerial bridge operations were suspended.

For a quarter of a mile almost every available foot of the broad north pier was taken up by those who were seeking a breath of cool air, from early evening until the thunder storm drove the people to shelter. Much the same condition existed Friday and Saturday evenings, and all through the summer the sides of the canal are very popular with Duluth citizens, as well as outsiders who happen to be at the Head of the Lakes.

These crowds would be even larger if a band were stationed on one of the piers, preferably the north one. Other cities in all parts of the country, have hands in the city parks for the entertainment of the people, and as Duluth has no park where a band would meet with such appreciation as if it played at the canal, there is every argument in favor of engaging the services of one to appear there every pleasant evening during the summer. The crowds are also large at the canal on Sunday afternoons.

Yesterday was the first hot day of the summer, and the several different parks were crowded with people. Park Point drew hundreds of people, and the excursions up the St. Louis river were well patronized. Launches were out by the score, and the lake and river was dotted with row boats. Street cars running to the parks and to the Point were crowded all day.

BANK ROBBERS SOON CAPTURED

Are at St. James After Bingham Lake Robbery.

St. James, Minn., June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two men, who gave the names of George Chester and W. R. White are in jail here charged with blowing the Bingham Lake bank, last Friday night, and securing $1,500 in cash.

They exploded nitro-glycerine, and the force of the explosion was so great that the bank building was blown to pieces. The robbers quickly grabbed their booty and boarded a train.

The telegraph operator at Bingham Lake notified officers here to meet the train, and two men, heavily armed, were taken off and lodged in jail.

Little or no money was found upon them, and it was later discovered that part of the booty was in a grip and had been left on the train and carried away. The grip was recovered at Lake Crystal and sent to St. James. It was found to contain $800 in cash and a quantity of nitro-glycerine and cartridges and other things which go to make up the kit of the average bank burglar.

DULUTH MEN VISIT BUTTE

Interested in Mining Enterprises, Principally Butte & Balaklava.

Butte, Mont., June 17.—A party of Duluth and Superior men, who have been here several days looking over various mining properties, principally the ground of the Butte & Balaklava Copper company, in which they are interested, left for home yesterday. The party comprises I. Freimuth, president of the Butte & Balaklava; R. B. Dear, vice president; J. H. Percival, secretary; John Panton and P. H. Nelson, directors of the company; W. B. McGibbon, B. S. Loney, R. C. Oglevy, John Bardon, W. R. Fanning and C. W. Newton, stockholders. On returning from the property of the company they expressed themselves as well satisfied with the location of the ground and the showing and believe it will develop into a great producer of copper. The company is now sinking a new shaft, which has attained a depth of 60 feet and is retimbering the old 283-foot shaft with a view of sinking it. The new shaft is a three-compartment and will be sunk to a depth of 1,500 or 1,800 feet. The property comprises the Burke and Balaklava claims, which comprise 64 acres. It is 1,000 feet long and 400 feet wide, but its location is good. This is the first time several of the party have been in Butte. They are well pleased with the city.

LAWYERS UNDER FIRE.

Disbarment Proceedings Are Instituted Against Two North Dakota Attorneys.

Bismarck, N. D., June 17.—(Special to the Herald.)—E. G. Patterson has filed a petition in the supreme court accompanied by an affidavit for the disbarment of Andrew Miller, assistant attorney general, and Asa T. Patterson, state's attorney of Burleigh county. The proceedings were out of the ordinary course of disbarment proceedings. The petitioner makes affidavit that both the attorneys named have been guilty of malfeasance and misfeasance in their offices, and rehearses the same charges, in effect, made at the time the proceedings were sought to be instituted before Judge Winchester for the removal of the same attorneys from their respective offices, which proceedings failed for lack of jurisdiction, and were thrown out of court, one by Judge Burke and one by Judge Pollock. The petitioner in the present case swears that he has knowledge of the violations of their official duty by both of the officials sought to be made defendants from conversation with the persons whom he says will be offered as witnesses, and says the charges can be proven by credible testimony and other evidence. He asks that a special investigator be named by the supreme court to investigate the charges made with a view to prosecuting them if sufficient evidence is found.

CROW WING LANDS

Brainerd, Minn., June 17.—State Auditor Iverson and F. D. Sherman of the state immigration bureau held a public sale of state lands here Saturday. It rained heavily in the forenoon and kept many farmers at home, yet nearly 1,000 acres were sold, mostly to Crow Wing county farmers. The average price was $5 per acre. In view of the fact that the land left in Crow Wing county is mostly in small pieces and scattered, the results of the sale is satisfactory to Mr. Iverson. Mr. Iverson and Mr Sherman went to Bemidji Saturday afternoon and to Bagley Sunday to hold a sale there Monday.

The commission to appraise lands overflowed by the government reservoirs held a brief meeting here Saturday, Messrs. Toole and Gunn returning home the same afternoon.

ELECTRIC STORM DOES DAMAGE NEAR SHERBURN.

Sherburn, Minn., June 17.—Two lives are reported lost and considerable property damaged by a severe electrical storm which raged for narly six hours in this vicinity Sunday. Rain fell in torrents, amounting to a cloudburst in the vicinity of Fairmont. Streams ran bank full, roads and bridges were carried out, and numerous washouts reported. Many houses, barns and windmills were struck by lightning and badly damaged. A man and a boy, names unknown, are reported to have been killed by lightning near Dunnell.

OVERCOME BY GAS.

Minnesota Boy Loses His Life In Northwestern Canada.

Holst, Minn., June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hanson of this place are in receipt of a letter from Cupar, Northwest Canada, telling of the death of their son Edward, aged 26. He left here about eight months ago, and upon arriving at Cupar, went to work on a farm. The farmer for whom he was working was digging a well, and in blasting, used considerable dynamite. They had been warned not to go into the well until after twenty-four hours after the explosion, but this caution was disregarded. Hanson was let down into the well but was overcome with gas. Another person was let down to assist him, but with a like result. Owing to the distance, none of the relatives could reach him in time for the funeral.

All stomach troubles are quickly relieved by taking a little Kodol after each meal. Kodol strengthens the digestive organs, supplies the natural digestive juices and digests what you eat. Sold by all druggists.

ECCENTRIC MR. SHAW.

Crazy fellow, that George Bernard Shaw who writes odd plays and queer essays and such things.

He has been talking again, and this time he turned to the question of poverty. After giving it due consideration, presumably, he evolved the following theory:

> What the poor are really suffering from is poverty. I have heard all sorts of explanations from well-to-do people, who say the trouble is intemperance, or improvidence, or anything but the truth. But it is just poverty all the time. And the way to relieve poverty in the poor is to give them money—increase of their incomes.

He was talking to an audience of fashionable women, and he went on to say that he would guarantee to reduce the moral character of any one of them 90 per cent by just turning her out on the street without a job.

Isn't it absurd? When everybody knows that the trouble with the poor is that they are intemperate and improvident and vicious, to go about trying to make folks believe that what intemperance and improvidence and viciousness they may have is not the cause of their poverty but a product of it.

And then to say that the thing to do to relieve poverty is to give the poor more money—to give them a chance to earn a larger income. You can hear your well-to-do philosopher, who is probably operating a factory in which he employs child labor because it is cheap and leaves his deadly machinery unguarded because it would cost money to safeguard it; you can hear this well fed, comfortable man, with a good dinner resting easily within him, say that that would simply mean that the poor would have more money to be improvident and intemperate with, and more temptation to viciousness.

No, the comfortable philosophy of this man is that you always have the poor with you anyway, from which he draws the conclusion that the good Lord meant that a certain proportion of the people should be in want all the time, and that there is no use in his bothering his head about it when it is one of the laws of being.

So he goes ahead and gives the poor jobs in his factory, making them work for as little as he possibly can, employing women and children because they don't cost so much as men, giving them foul and insanitary quarters to work in because it costs money to clean up and put in plenty of windows and air-vents, and letting them take disease and die, and get caught in his unguarded machinery and be killed, because when they are gone he can easily get some more.

No wonder he laughs at what Shaw said. Shaw is a humorist, and his wit is of a very fine quality. He never made a better joke, in the mind of our fat, well fed friend, than when he intimated that intemperance, improvidence and vice might be the products of poverty rather than its cause, and that the way to make earth pleasanter and happier for lack of poor people is to give them a share of the good things while they are going.

OF VITAL IMPORTANCE.

The board of army engineers that has been appointed by the government to come up and look over our harbor to see what it needs will be here tomorrow, and Wednesday morning a public hearing will be held in the rooms of the Commercial club, where the officers who make up the board will be glad to hear what Duluth has to say about what should be done to the harbor.

This is a matter of deep interest to Duluth, and it is highly important that everybody who has ideas on the subject should attend that meeting, in order that the board may realize that Duluth feels deeply concerned about the treatment of its magnificent harbor, and that it may find out, through this method of public expression, what the people of Duluth would like to see done.

Unquestionably Duluth wants, almost to a man, a breakwater protection for the harbor entrance. As to whether this should take the form of a long, straight breakwater extending out from the north shore to cover the entrance, or should be of the arrow plan suggested by the engineer officers in a previous report, there may be a wider division of opinion, but probably the majority prefers the straight breakwater.

However, this will be threshed out at Wednesday morning's meeting, and in order that the expression may be as complete and satisfying as possible, the attendance should be large. It is the duty of every citizen who has ideas on the matter, and particularly of those who can give practical knowledge and expert opinions, to be there.

FREE MASONRY.

The other day President Roosevelt participated in the laying of the corner stone of a new Masonic temple in Washington, and this evidence of Masonic prosperity in the nation's capital lends new interest to an interesting institution, the father of the many secret brotherhoods that count so much in the social life of the nation.

There are more than a million Free Masons in this country, and there is scarcely a hamlet in the land that has not its blue lodge, while the cities have many of them. There are something like thirty Masonic lodges in Washington, while Duluth has three strong, prosperous organizations.

With one or two exceptions, the presidents of the United States, from Washington down to Roosevelt, have been Masons. Washington was the first grand master of Virginia, and as master of the lodge that now has its home in Alexandria, Va., he officiated at the laying of the corner stone of the capitol in Washington. President Garfield rose to high rank in the order. President Roosevelt was made a Mason while he was vice president, and Vice President Fairbanks has received his degrees while in his present office. Benjamin Franklin was grand master of Pennsylvania, and practically all of Washington's officers were Masons, Masonry being a live institution in the Continental ranks, as well as in the ranks of the French and British troops that participated on both sides in the struggle for freedom.

Washington was made a Mason in 1753, and attained a higher dignity in the order than any of the other presidents, though Andrew Jackson was grand master of Tennessee. The gavel and trowel used in laying the corner stone of the new temple in Washington the other day were the ones usd by President Washington in laying the corner stone of the United States capitol Sept. 18, 1793. The Bible on which he took his obligations when being admitted to the three degrees of Masonry was also in use on this occasion.

With Masonry so strong and prosperous and in such high regard, it is hard to believe that eighty years ago there was a national political party based upon opposition to Masonry growing out of the famous Morgan sensation. This movement drew into its ranks such men as Thurlow Weed and William H. Seward, who found it a convenient reinforcement of political strength. In 1832 William Wirt was its candidate for the presidency, and he captured the electoral vote of one state, Vermont.

The fraternal societies of the nation, of which Masonry is the oldest and strongest, though not the largest in numerical strength, are a power for good, and their work along social and benevolent lines is large and important. The Odd Fellows are the strongest numerically, having 1,521,095 members in the United States and Canada last year. The Free Masons were second with 1,229,001, the Modern Woodmen of America third with 813,642, and the Knights of Pythias fourth with 622,416, according to the World's Almanac.

THE WEATHER.

The weather has been an unusually fresh and interesting subject of discussion this year, with its late and most disagreeably chilly spring, and yesterday the climate took a turn that made the same subject once more of commanding and superior interest, casting into the shade—where everybody tried to be most of the day—even such absorbing topics as our relations with Japan and the influence of Teddy bears upon the morals of the young.

For yesterday showed no signs of the backwardness that has characterized the season thus far. Indeed, when it is remembered that the thermometer reached 88 degrees acording to the weather bureau's observations, and that it was not until July 23 of last year that the mercury climbed to such a height, it is evident that summer was making a heroic attempt to make up by its precipitancy for the laggardness of the spring which did not come.

Everybody enjoyed it, of course, and there was a conspicuous absence of the usual grumpiness about the hot weather. People have been longing for the warmth so long that they hardly had the face to complain about it when it came. Naturally enough, the hot day was followed by an exceedingly sharp and short electrical storm, which put out the electric lights in a most alarming manner for a few seconds.

The trees, half-fledged Saturday, leaped under the influence of the summer sun into full growth in an hour, and the woods yesterday were fresh and delightful.

PRIVATE OWNERSHIP AND THE PUBLIC.

Here's a funny thing: the New York Sun, which has been exceedingly bitter in its attacks upon President Roosevelt, and as bitter regarding any assertion of the public rights that infringes upon private interests, no matter how criminally those interests have been conducted, is upholding the president in his demand for the conservation of the coal lands yet remaining in the public domain, and defending him against the charge of holding Socialistic ideas.

The Sun proceeds to point out that there is no parallel between the president's declaration in favor of keeping the coal lands for public use and the plank in the New York Democratic platform of 1902 advocating the national ownership and operation of the anthracite coal mines by the exercise of the right of eminent domain. The New York proposal was to take private property away and use it for public purposes, and the Roosevelt plan is simply to keep what little coal the government still owns, and use it for the public benefit.

The former plan the Sun deems horrid and Socialistic; the latter has the Sun's unqualified approval.

Of course there is a great difference, but by no means so great a difference as the Sun proclaims.

The Sun's idea is that when the nation has parted with a public utility, that settles it. No matter how those into whose hands its ownership has come may abuse the privilege; no matter how much they may combine and plot to exact enormous profits; no matter how much they may squeeze the producers at one end and the consumers at the other, it is private ownership, and private ownership is sacred.

But if, perchance, the nation still owns a little coal, it is all right, from this viewpoint, to hold it, and to use it for the benefit of the public.

The Herald does not believe that private ownership is such a sacred thing as all that. It is not prepared, at this time, to demand that the government exercise the right of eminent domain and take over the privately-owned coal lands for public operation. But it sees no reason why the government should not do that, if it is proved that that is the only way to get coal for the people at reasonable prices. If the coal monopoly persists; if the attempt now being made to dissolve the coal trust fails; and if the trust, presuming on its victory to arrogantly squeeze the consumers harder, follows its triumph by further plundering, but one remedy will be left: that of taking these lands away from their owners at a fair valuation, and turning them over to be publicly operated in the interests of the public.

The interests of the people are far higher and much more important than this private ownership which the Sun adores so reverently. Coal is a vital public necessity, and the public has a right to buy it so long as it lasts at fair prices.

And if the people can't get it at fair prices from the coal trust, no absurd worship of private ownership will prevent their taking it away from the trust that owns it, and operating the mines for their own benefit.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"If Duluth wants to attain fame, why doesn't she claim to be located in the center of the greatest apple-producing country in the world," said J. C. Phelps of Seattle, Wash., at the St. Louis. "Of couse, we all know there wouldn't be any particular ground for the story, but that wouldn't matter. There are so many places claiming to the distinction mentioned, that one or two more, no matter how preposterous their claims might be, would make little difference, further than to arouse talk.

"The state of Washington claims to have the greatest apple-raising district in the world in the Wenatchee and Yakima valleys. I have heard, on the best authority, apparently, that Nova Scotia has a district that beats all the rest of the world in this line, and Texas sets for the claim that she is the one and only district where apple records are broken. I believe New York also places herself in the record-breaking class, and between New York and Texas there are numerous other states whose residents are only too glad of the opportunity to tell outsiders the same kind of a story.

"Washington really is a great state for apples. I am loyal enough to bet that no spot in the world raises a better quality of the fruit. As to quantity, I am in no position to judge, except from what I have read on the subject, but it's a cinch that a very large amount of apples is produced in a limited area out there. Some of the trees at the proper season of the year are weighted down so heavy with apples that they are almost at the point of breaking. Various other kinds of fruit are also raised. In the Yakima valley grapes are strongly featured, and remarkable results are obtained. Our neighbor state of Oregon is also well to the front in the fruit class, and I believe Oregon is also the greatest apple-producing center of the world, according to her own story."

Thomas Ballf of Portland, Or., who registered at the Lenox yesterday, was a passenger on the Great Northern Oriental limited train, which was derailed last week four miles west of Palmero, in North Dakota. He says the engineer had a marvelous escape from death.

"After the engine left the track," he said, "it plunged 50 feet, and rolled over an embankment, turning a complete somersault, yet the engineer came through it with scarcely a scratch, despite the fact that he didn't jump, but was inside the cab unil it came to a standstill.

"I also was rather fortunate in escaping. You see about the only visible signs of injury about me is a red mark upon the bridge of the nose and a gash on the side of the face beneath the left temple. Two baggage cars, two coaches and the engine plunged down the high embankment and turned over. When I came to my senses I was standing on the ceiling, with the seats piled all about me. I was completely wedged in, and that I was not crushed to death without knowing what struck me is something that I cannot explain.

"The first thing I remember was a chorus of agonized shrieks. It took me a fraction of a minute to fully realize what had happened, and then I understood that I was in a wreck of a very serious nature. I managed to get free from the seats around me, and crawled painfully to a window, kicking out a pane of glass and crawling into the fresh air. A sad sight struck my eyes. The wounded were lying all about, men and women alike. None of the passengers were killed outright, but some of them were so seriously injured that they will probably die."

THE WEATHER.

Yesterday was pretty nearly a sizzer. The thermometer climbed to 88 degs., an altitude it did not reach last year until a month or more later than this, and the sun blazed down from a cloudless sky all day. It was fine, though, and gave everybody a much needed chance to get out and open up their pores in the interests of health and good temper. Last night a very sharp electrical storm followed, but it was short, and brought only a couple of very alarming flashes of lightning and crashes of thunder, accompanied by a brief downpour. This morning it was hot again, but it clouded over and became showery. The weather man expects thunderstorms this afternoon, with continued warm weather tonight and tomorrow, brought by southerly winds. The lowest temperatures last night was 64 degs.

A year ago today the weather was fine.

The sun rose this morning at 4:12 and sets tonight at 8:06, making 15 hours and 54 minutes of sunshine.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Barometric depressions central over Western Canada and Arizona caused showers during Sunday or last night in the former district, Northeastern Minnesota, South Dakota, Nebraska, New Mexico and Southwestern Texas. High temperatures also prevail in the Lake region and Central valleys as a result of the high pressures in Southeastern states and the low pressures in the Southwest and Northwest. The barometer is also high over Idaho. Indications favor partly cloudy and sultry weather in this section tonight and Tuesday.

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures as recorded by the weather bureau:

LINES TO A SMILE.

Baltimore American: "There won't be a scrap of evidence to convict you about that fight."

"I don't see how you make that out, when it will all be evidence of a scrap."

Chicago Tribune: "I have known women all my life," remarked the philosophical boarder; "and the more I know them the less I know them."

He knew them well enough, however, not to let the landlady hear him.

Cleveland Leader: "Do you keep good, honest goods here?" asked the fussy old man in the cafe.

"Well, sir," responded the waiter, "the whisky's straight, all right, but, to be candid with you, I think the pretzels are crooked."

Washington Star: "Why do you insist that you will not be a candidate?"

"Because," answered the wise statesman, "anybody who has studied human nature knows that people are most likely to want what they think they can't have."

Philadelphia Press: Gayman—Yes, I spent two years down in Southwest Texas.

Washington Star: "Experience," said Uncle Eben, "is a good teacher, but folks dat keeps on a-goin' to her school is mos'ly mighty dumb scholars."

Pointed Paragraphs.

A lawsuit is the thief of time and money.

And it is better to be a has-been than a never-was.

It takes a mighty good Christian to pray for the ice man.

Admiration is a woman's first love and devotion is her last.

One can't always judge a woman's truthfulness by what she says.

Many a man's empty pockets are due to his wife's fondness for change.

When a man starts to blow in his money his friends like to get wind of it.

The more good qualities a man possesses the less he has to say about them.

A woman's idea of economy is to have her husband waste $3 worth of time putting up a 10-cent kitchen shelf.

Out-Heroding Herod.

Tit-Bits: An American visiting Dublin told some startling stories of the height of New York skyscrappers.

"Ye haven't seen our newest hotel, have ye?" asked an Irishman.

"Na," replied the Yankee.

"Well," said the Irishman, "it's so tall that we have to put the two top stories on hinges."

"What for?" asked the American.

"So that we can let 'em down while the moon goes by!"

Made a Noise Like Sleighbells.

Everybody's: The store keeper at Yount, Idaho, tells the following tale of Ole Olson, who later became the little town's mayor:

"One night, just before closin' up time, Ole, hatless, coatless and breathless, come rushin' into the store, an' droppin' on his knees yelled, 'Yon, Yon, hide me. hide me! Ye sheriff's after me!'

"'I've no place to hide you here, Ole,' said I.

"'You moost, you moost!' screamed Ole. 'Crawl into that gunny-sack then,' said I.

"'He'd no more'n gotten hid when in runs the sheriff.

"'Seen Ole?' said he.

"'Don't see him here,' said I, without lyin'.

"'Then the sheriff went a-nosin' round an' pretty soon he spotted the gunny-sack over in the corner.

"'What's in here?' said he.

"'Oh, just some old harness and sleighbells,' said I.

"With that he gives it an awful boot.

"'Yingle, yingle, yingle!' moaned Ole."

Much Put Out.

Baltimore American: The ice man is too discouraged to even announce that there is a shortage in the ice crop.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

James A. Ballard, a resident of Duluth in the days of long ago, was a passenger out on the Japan. He had been here from Minneapolis looking after his real estate, and was his first visit in seventeen years. The day he left here was after the great storm on the lake in the spring of 1870 or 1871. On that day the ice was piled up on the docks of the city to the depth of about twenty feet or more. A few scattered houses along the bottom of the hill and a few more on Minnesota Point constituted the great bulk of the city at that time.

The nineteenth annual session of the Minnesota State Medical society opened yesterday at the Grand opera house, nearly 100 physicians being present. Vice President W. L. Beebe of St. Cloud occupied the chair in the absence of President H. H. Kimball of St. Paul. An address of welcome to the city was delivered by Prof. W. P. Phelps, secretary of the Duluth chamber of commerce, and the convention then settled down to business.

Solomon Claire has opened a barber shop and bathrooms in the basement of 109 West Superior street.

Robert A. Macgregor of Minneapolis has been appointed national bank examiner for Minnesota, Northern Wisconsin and the upper peninsula of Michigan, in place of K. Taylor, resigned.

Ike Greengard made an assignment last evening to S. C. Holden. His liabilities are said to be about $3,000, and it is expected the will pay 50 cents on the dollar.

J. A. Willard to C. A. Long, lots 9 to 16, block 7, Willard's addition, $4,500.

Lucy E. A. Kebbler to Isaac P. Gray, lots 29 and 31, East Fourth street, $5,000.

Simon Clark to Albert N. Seip, lots 15 and 16, block 78, Portland, $7,000.

Ozora P. Stearns to Fred Nichols, lot 12, block 39, Third division, $2,000.

E. M. Hutchinson to O. P. Stearns, lots 40 and 42, East Fourth street, $4,500.

H. Wahl to Henry Kallman, thirty-five feet lots 50 and 52, block 31, Third division, $2,700.

W. M. Stewart to J. R. Myers, lot 14, block 40, Endion, $500.

John F. Anderson, the popular conductor on the Omaha short line, was wedded to Miss Anna W. Stevens yesterday at the bride's residence, 1508 West First street.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Anoka Union: Just as much sense to elect our nine representatives as our two senators as delegates to the national Republican convention next year.

Preston Times: The stockholders instead of the railroad companies, attempting to enjoin the state from enforcing its 2-cent fare and commodity rate law, is good. In this way do the railroads attempt to put the odium upon the other follow, hoping that they can thus fool the people. The game is too transparent, gentlemen, besides it is cowardly. You might as well come out in the open and fight like men instead of conducting a gorilla warfare behind irresponsible parties.

Austin Transcript: President Roosevelt's picture of an ideal American boy is one who plays hard, is pure, brave and strong, but gentle and kind. He thinks the bully is the meanest boy in the world. We would like to see the country full of such ideal boys.

Anoka Free Press: An exchange remarks that it would prefer to have Mr. Bryan name the next presidential nominee to having the trusts do it. The Free Press would rather have the people select the man than either Mr. Bryan or the trusts. The people have the right to do so; Mr. Bryan and the trusts have not. Neither has Mr. Roosevelt.

Perham Enterprise: There is considerable talk about Bob Dunn being the Republican nominee for governor next year. Bob's friends believe that his defeat in 1904 increased rather than diminished his popularity.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: We are not going to have war with Japan. The present excitement was hatched by the "outs" in the little island, who want to the "ins." Just yellow politics.

North Branch Review: The government chemist says, "don't chew meat." If the price keeps going up, a good many will heed this timely advice.

Albert Lea Standard: Don't make fun of the sweet girl graduate and the satisfied young man senior—now each a proud alumnus. They are the real men and women of the days when the people who affect an amusedly patronizing air toward them today will be tottering trembligly down the hill of life, "sans everything."

Moorhead Citizen: In view of all the other things they will have to answer for at the polls, the Republicans probably are congratulating themselves on failing to pass the ship subsidy steal.

Princeton Union: If the Creator intended that we should swallow our food in chunks, as maintained by Chief Chemist Wiley of the bureau of agriculture, why did He endow us with teeth? He certainly did not give us those teeth to fight with.

Brainerd Tribune: Everybody should try to do something in this world that is worth while. If you cannot spread your genius over the universe, you can at least do something toward bettering the town and county you live in. Every lawn, tree or flower planted helps some, and every kind word spoken to a neighbor helps more.

Graduation.

Heaven is not reached at a single bound;
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to its summit round by round.

I count this thing to be grandly true,
That a noble deed is a step toward God,
Lifting the soul from the common clod
To a purer air and a broader view.

We rise by the things that are under feet.
By what we have mastered of good and gain;
By the pride deposed and the passion slain,
And the vanquished ills that we hourly meet.

We hope, we aspire, we resolve, we trust,
When the morning calls us to life and light;
But our hearts grow weary, and ere the night
Our lives are trailing the sordid dust.

We hope, we resolve, we aspire, we pray,
And we think that we mount the air on wings
Beyond the recall of sensual things,
While our feet still cling to the heavy clay.

Wings for angels, but feet for men!
We may borrow the wings to find the way—
We may hope, and resolve, and aspire, and pray;
But our feet must rise or we fall again.

Only in dreams is a ladder thrown
From the weary earth to the sapphire walls;
But the dreams depart and the vision falls,
And the sleeper wakes on his pillow of stone.

Heaven is not reached at a single bound;
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to its summit, round by round.

"JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA."

Anoka Free Press: Governor Folk for president and Governor Johnson for vice president is a newly gotten up Democratic slate—and not a bad one, either, though Johnson's friends all over the country will scarcely be content with second place for their favorite.

Sauk Center Herald: Those who have been pooh-poohing the idea of John A. Johnson being in the list for the presidential nomination, might as well recognize the fact that Minnesota's bright, aggressive and honest young governor will have to be reckoned with in the next Democratic convention. Bryan is steadily losing caste and public opinion is setting in toward Johnson. The Democratic party and the country as well might go farther and do worse.

Bemidji Sentinel: There is considerable talk of John A. Johnson for president, and why not? He is much like Roosevelt in many ways and has shown his ability not as a politician, but as a statesman, and could he meet and talk to the voters of all states he would be elected president and would be anyway unless some rapid changes are made in the Republican plans.

Grand Rapids Independent: Should the Democratic party have a lucid interval in '08 and nominate Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota for president, a political battle royal to delight the hearts of the fight loving people of the land will follow. And he who could successfully forecast the result of that battle would have the gift of prophesy in abundant measure. But whether the Democracy do the blunder-act in the next national convention, or have a lucid interval therein, right there, and nowhere else, will the election of the Republican nominee for presidnt be insured or placed in doubt.

Sioux City Iowa, Tribune: A club has been formed in Sandusky, Ohio, to boom Governor John Johnson for the Democratic nomination. This takes him out of the class of dark horses and puts him into the dusky one.

Lake Crystal Union: It is foregone conclusion that President Roosevelt will not accept a third term. The coming men are LaFollette for the West, and Taft for the East. Either will make a good president but LaFollette is the better man for the people of the West and more competent to down Governor Johnson. Mr. Johnson is to be the coming Democratic nominee, without a doubt.

Windom Reporter: John Johnson's boom as assumed shape. At Sandusky, Ohio, the Democracy has organized a Johnson club for the purpose of promoting the candidacy of the governor for president of the United States. If Johnson doesn't get the nomination it won't be the fault of Sandusky, and it won't be the fault of thousands of admiring friends who never saw him. He is a Vote getter as the Republicans of this state know.

Wabasha Herald: The fact that Minnesota has a citizen who receives from the metropolitan press of the country worthy mention for the high office of president of the United States, is something that Minnesota should take an honest pride in. Governor Johnson is one of her honored sons, born and educated and trained for high civic duties within her borders, and he has made good in the performance of every official duty that has come to him. If nominated for the office of president he will be the representative of all the people and will surely have the plain people with him. He is one of them.

Wadena Pioneer-Journal: If we were conducting a Democratic paper we would devote some energy to a movement calculated to add force in his home state to the present presidential boom of Governor John A. Johnson. He is certainly as good a piece of timber as that party could put forward, as his political record and strength is not duplicated, in our judgment, by any other Democrat mentioned in this connection.

WILL PRACTICE IN DULUTH

Dr. Jackola, Prominent Finnish Physician, Leaves Copper Country.

Dr. John Jackola, the well known Finnish physician of Hancock, Mich., who has changed his residence and practice to Duluth, is expected to arrive in the city today or tomorrow. Dr. Jackola has engaged a suite of rooms in the New Jersey building and will be permanently located here.

Dr. Jackola's decision to make Duluth his home will be of interest to the Finnish speaking people of this vicinity, also to many others, as he has a wide circle of acquaintances and friends of all nationalities in this county. The doctor has been very prominent among the Finnish speaking people of the Copper country for years, where he has been medical director of the Finnish Mutual Life Insurance company. The doctor is a graduate of Rush Medical college. Before studying medicine he had charge of the scientific department of the Everett, Wash., high school and was superintendent of the city schools at Aberdeen, Wash. By reason of his advanced studies he was offered a fellowship by the University of Chicago, where he was an assistant in one of the medical departments.

Dr. Jackola has written considerably for both literary and scientific magazines and periodicals in Finnish and in the English language. Two years ago he delivered the address at the Midsummer Day celebration at Ely. He has been practicing several years at Hancock.

MARCH OF THE SKYSCRAPERS

Uptown Movement of Office Buildings in New York.

New York, June 17.—So crowded with tall buildings has the lower end of Manhattan Island become that the uptown district is beginning to be dotted with great steel and stone office structures. This tendency to turn the Murray Hill and Tenderloin sections into a district of offices is called, by some real estate men, "the march of the skyscrapers."

Until a very short time ago a business concern that needed a suite of general offices rarely thought of going north of City Hall Park in search of the proper place. It is different now. The Metropolitan Life Insurance company has one of the largest office buildings in the world in Twenty-third street; at Fifth avenue and Twenty-sixth street the Brunswick building has been opened to tenants, and there are many other office structures recently finished or about to be.

Latest and perhaps the most distinctive is the Monolith, in Thirty-fourth street. As its name indicates it is built of concrete. It is only about thirty yards from the corner where, it is said, more people pass in a day than anywhere else in the world—the corner where Broadway and Sixth avenue and Thirty-fourth street come together. The Waldorf-Astoria hotel is in the same block, and the principal shops and theaters are almost within a stone's throw.

The way in which the floors and partitions of this concrete building are constructed of hollow terra cotta blocks insures absolute safety from fire. The Monolith is an illustration of the theory upon which nearly all engineers are now agreed—that concrete is a structural material which, like steel, has to have supplementary protection in the way of fire-proofing. This fact was established by the San Francisco fire.

Not long after that calamity a prominent member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, who had made a personal investigation of more than eighty buildings in the burned district, announced the conclusion that the building with protecting fireproof material was superior to all others. Tests conducted in Chicago, not long after the San Francisco fire, showed that unprotected columns, whether of steel or concrete, were not fireproof. The steel members of the most modern skyscrapers in New York are surrounded with terra cotta block of great fire-resisting qualities.

At present the front of the Monolith is partly obscured by a mass of scaffolding. In its unfinished state the building attracts much attention, and the stretching of many thousands of sightseers' necks. Soon the scaffolding will come down and the offices will be ready for occupancy.

HAS FASTED FOR OVER SIXTEEN DAYS.

Belleville, Ill., June 17.—Dr. R. J. Eales completed his sixteenth day of total abstinence from food yesterday in the twenty-day fast he has imposed upon himself in support of his theory that an occasional abstinence from food is essential to health. His only nourishment is water which he drinks copiously. Dr. Eales declares he has no desire for food. His weight has been reduced seventeen pounds during his fast. He is continuing his regular practice.

S.S.S. PURELY VEGETABLE

S. S. S. is recognized everywhere not only as the best of all blood purifiers and the greatest of all tonics, but the one medicine that can be taken with absolute safety by everyone. Young or old, those in robust health, or those whose systems are delicate and run-down, may use it with the same good results, and equally without fear of any unpleasant or injurious after effects. Next in importance to removing the cause of any disease is the condition in which the system is left after a course of medical treatment. Medicines containing mercury, potash or other strong mineral ingredients often do permanent injury by eating out the delicate lining and tissues of the stomach, producing chronic Dyspepsia, unfavorably affecting the bowels, and so deranging the system otherwise, that even if the original disease had been removed from the system it is left in such a weakened and deranged condition that the health is permanently impaired. S. S. S. enjoys the distinction of being the only blood medicine on the market that does not contain a mineral ingredient of some kind. It is made entirely of the healing, cleansing extracts and juices of roots, herbs and barks gathered directly from the forests and fields of nature, under our own supervision, and when they reach our laboratory contain all their original valuable tonic and blood purifying properties. We offer a reward of $1,000 for proof that S. S. S. contains a particle of mineral in any form. Being made entirely from these vegetable ingredients S. S. S. is absolutely harmless to the system, and while curing disease adds health and strength to every part of the body. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, and all other blood troubles by removing the cause and supplying the circulation with health-giving and strength-producing qualities.

CASES OF INTEREST

CRIMINAL PROSECUTION OF STANDARD OIL COMPANY—The prosecution of the Standard Oil company, for violation of the Elkins Act has resulted so far in the overruling by the United States district court for the Northern district of Illinois of the demurrers interposed by the defendant, inasmuch as the new rate law expressly repeals all laws in conflict with its provisions with the proviso that it shall not affect cases now pending in the courts of the United States. The Oil company sought to escape prosecution for penalties incurred under the Elkins law. Indictments were found subsequent to the enactment and approval of the new rate law. The revised statutes provide that the repeal of any statute shall not have the effect to release any penalty, forfeiture or liability incurred under such statute unless the repealing act expressly so provides. Judge Landis holds that the repeal of parts of the Elkins law conflicting with the new rate law did not extinguish penalties previously incurred under the former law. The contention that the section of the revised statutes referred to above was an unwarranted interference with the authority of succeeding congresses is dismissed by the court, as is also the contention that the saving clause of the rate bill refers only to causes now pending.

DEFINITION OF "TRAVELERS."—Supreme court of Vermont in Howrigan vs. Bakersfield, 64 Atlantic Reporter, 1130, is called upon to pass upon the novel question as to whether a horse traveling on a highway can be held to be a traveler within the statute making towns liable for injuries to travelers. The court says that if the horse escaped into the highway without the owner's fault or negligence he cannot be considered as being at large in a legal sense, and that of he were following his natural instincts to return home he was a traveler on the highway.

POWERS OF RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES—The supreme court of Iowa has also recently passed upon religious societies. The case of State vs. Amana Society, 109 Northwestern Reporter, 894, goes into the right of this association to engage in agricultural pursuits and in business and manufacturing enterprises. The state contended that the society was maintained for purely secular purposes, and contended that religion pertains to the spiritual belief and welfare of man as distinguished from his physical wants and necessities; that it relates to the ethics of life and to the hope and belief of immortality. The court concedes the correctness and theory of these contentions, but points out that practical religion may not be so completely separated from the secular affairs of life, and cites numbers of religious sects whose tenets involved the holding of property in common. The court also overrules the contention that the organization is against public policy and un-American in its ideals, adding that, under the blessings of a free government, every citizen should be permitted to pursue that mode of life which is dictated by his own conscience.

WALL PAPER MONOPOLY.—An effort was made in the case of Chicago Wall Paper Mills vs. General Paper Co., 147 Federal Reporter, 491, to avoid a contract made by the trust because it was a monopoly, in violation of the state and federal law. The circuit court of appeals for the seventh circuit holds that as the contract for the purchase of paper was made in the ordinary course of business, and the purchaser was a stranger to the alleged unlawful combination, the contract of sale was not rendered illegal by the fact that the selling corporation was a monopoly organized in violation of law. Authorities are cited in support of this holding.

COMBINATION TO MAINTAIN PRICES.—An association of druggists, formed for the purpose of maintaining a maximum schedule of prices refused to sell to a retailer who had refused to join the combination, and also coerced and intimidated vendors of like commodities by means of threats to boycott and blacklist them if they sold to the retailer in question. Klinge's Pharmacy vs. Sharpe & Dohme, 64 Atlantic Reporter, 1029, was a suit to recover damages because of such acts. Such a combination the court of appeals of Maryland holds to be a criminal conspiracy at law. The court concedes that on the authority of the Bohn case, 55 Northwestern Reporter, 1119, the defendants had the lawful right to refuse to sell to plaintiff, and it was wholly immaterial whether the refusal was the result of whim, caprice or malice; but the bare refusal to sell was not the principal offense in the present case. The desire was to drive the plaintiff into becoming a member of an organization which would control prices and thereby deprive him of the liberty to contract for the sale of his goods according to his own judgment. The motive with which an act is done governs as to whether the act is lawful or not, and by way of illustration the court says that receiving stolen goods is not in itself unlawful, but if they are received with a knowledge that they are stolen, the act becomes criminal. The case is interesting because it contains a definition of the word "boycott." A boycott means the confederation, generally secret, by many persons whose intent is to injure another by preventing all persons from doing business with him, through fear of incurring the displeasure, persecution and vengeance of the conspirators.

BREACH OF MARRIAGE PROMISE—CONSUMPTION AS DEFENSE.—That the woman who was a party to a marriage contract was suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis is held in Grover vs. Zook, 87 Pacific Reporter, 638, considered a sufficient justification for the breach of the promise of marriage by the man, even though he knew the fact when the engagement was made. The holding is based on the laws enacted for the purpose of preventing the spread of consumption, and on grounds of public policy, and the Washington court cites a number of authorities in support of its position.

TRADE SECRETS.—A manufacturer engaged in the manufacture of steel, in accordance with a secret process discovered by him, who sues a former employe and a competitor who has employed the employe, to restrain the employe from disclosing the secrets to the competitor, and to restrain the competitor from retaining the employe in his service, is, according to Taylor Iron & Steel company vs. Nichols (N. J.) 65 Atlantic Reporter, 395, not required to disclose on the trial the secret process of his business. To require the manufacturer to prove such process would be destructive of his rights, the court holds. The character of the business, the impossibility of discovery by the analysis used, added to the ordinary secrecy observed by all manufacturers of goods of this class, would render almost hopeless the discovery of infringement, should the defendant take advantage of information thus acquired. In support of this position the court cites: Moxie Nerve Food company vs Beach, 35 Fed. 465; Eastman vs. Reichenbach, 20 N. Y. S. 110, and Stokes Bros.' Manufacturing company vs. Heller, 55 Fed. 297.

INJURY FROM ELECTRIC LIGHT WIRE.—In Temple vs McComb City Electric Light & Power company (Miss.) 42 Southern Reporter, 574, an electric light company is held liable for injuries to a small boy received by coming in contact with an uninsulated wire while climbing a tree through which the wire passed. The tree in which the accident happened was a small oak tree, abounding in branches extending almost to the ground. As the light company had knowledge of the tree and what kind of a tree it was, the court held that it also knew what any person of practical common sense would know—that it was just the kind of a tree children might climb into, to play in the branches. The court remarks that the immemorial habit of small boys to climb little oak trees filled with abundant branches is one of which corporations stretching wires over such trees must take notice, and the court is going to safeguard the right of small boys to climb such trees.

CENSUS RETURNS AS EVIDENCE—In the absence of official records of births, it is often difficult to legally prove the ages of persons. In Priddy vs. Boice, 99 Southwestern Reporter, 1005, the Missouri supreme court gives its sanction to the use of properly certified copies of the United States census to prove the age of a person. These records are by law required to contain not only the sex, color, occupation, etc., of each inhabitant, but also the age. They are therefore available to prove the age of an inhabitant. As bearing directly on the point, the court cites Flora vs. Anderson, 75 Fed. 231, and as supporting its position by analogy it further cites Evanston vs. Gunn, 9 Otto, 666, people vs. Williams, 54 Cal. 91, Levels vs. railroad, 196 Mo. 622, 94 S. W. 278, and numerous other cases.

LANDLORD AND TENANT—Marder vs. Heinemann, 109 New York supplement, 250, supports the doctrine that a tenant may remove his furniture by a suepcally provided exit where the furniture cannot, on account of its size, be taken through the ordinary exits of the building, and where such furniture was brought onto the premises by the landlord's assent in the same manner as it is sought to remove the same.

EXISTING CONTRACTS FOR PASSES—U. S. C. C. W. D. Ky. The effect of the provision of the interstate commerce act of 1906 prohibiting the issuance of free transportation is considered by the United States circuit court for western district of Kentucky, in the recent case of Mottley vs. Louisville & N. R. company, 150 Federal Reporter, 405, with reference to a prior contract for free transportation for life, made by a carrier in consideration of a release of damages for injuries. The contract, the court considered to be based on a valuable consideration. Applying general rules of construction to the provision in the statute, the court held that the provision did not invalidate the contract, nor did it authorize the carrier to refuse interstate passes.

GAMBLING WITH TRUST FUNDS—The right of cestui que trust to recover from a bucket shop owner trust funds lost by the trustee is upheld by U. S. C. C. A., ninth circuit, in Joseph vs. Downing, Hopkins & Co., 50 Federal Reporter, 317. In this case, it appeared that the bucket shop owner knew that his customer was financially embarrassed, and was therefore put upon inquiry as to whose money the customer was using. The cestui que trust did not participate in the gambling transactions and had no knowledge that its money was so used. Under these circumstances, the court held that the cestui que trust was entitled to recover, even though the bucket shop owner had not been put upon inquiry as to whether its customer, the trustee, was using his own money.

The Magic No. 3.

Number three is a wonderful mascot for George H. Parris of Cedar Grove, Mo., according to a letter which reads: "After suffering much with liver and kidney trouble, and becoming greatly discouraged by the failure to find relief, I tried Electric Bitters, and as a result I am a well man today. The first bottle relieved and three bottles completed the cure." Guaranteed best on earth for stomach, liver and kidney troubles, by all druggists. 50c.

THE CAREER OF MORGAN

Was Second Oldest Member of the United States Senate.

Less of a Partisan Than Any of His Colleagues.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, June 17.)—(Special to The Herald.)—An incorruptible patriot, a far seeing statesman, an unselfish friend and one of the leading figures of his time, was John Tyler Morgan, the senior senator from Alabama, who passed out from the busy cares of life last week. In his thirty years as a senator he earned the respect and esteem of his colleagues on both sides of the chamber, and no man will miss him more than his venerable associate and fellow-townsman, Edmund Winston Pettus. They were the two oldest men in the senate, Pettus is nearly 86; Morgan would have been 83 had he lived until the 20th of the present month. Next in point of age to these two splendid types of American manhood comes William Boyd Allison, who attained to the age of 78 on March 2 last. Next to Senator Allison in point of age is Senator Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois, who will reach 73 on Nov. 22 next. Senator Henry M. Teller of Colorado is a year younger than Senator Allison or Senator Cullom, having been born in 1830, while the two former were born in 1829. Senators Frye of Maine and Proctor of Vermont will reach 76 this year, while Senator Platt will be 74, and his colleague, Chauncey M. Depew, will round out the 73rd milestone.

Senator Morgan was probably less of a partisan than any of his colleagues. Political consideration played little or no part in what he conceived to be his duty to his country. He was a Democrat, but of a school whose exemplars are fast passing away. He voted with his party when he believed his party was right. Mr. Morgan was opposed bitterly to the principles of Democracy advocated by Bryan and Hearst. "They remind me," he would say, in telling his favorite story, "of a boy who was very ill. 'If I can throw him into a fit,' said the doctor, 'I can save him.' 'But why should you want to make him have a fit,' asked the boy's father. 'Well, I'm an expert on fits,' said the doctor, 'and I know how to cure them.' That's the way with Bryan and Hearst," Mr. Morgan would continue. "If they can throw the country into a fit, the country will be cured of Bryanism and Hearstism."

Senator Morgan's respect for his chosen profession, the law, was one of his most marked characteristics. Essentially a gentleman of the old school, he was an old school lawyer, with reverence for the constitution and the co-ordinated powers of government, the legislative, executive and judicial departments. His steady candidate for the presidency was that magnificent specimen of the upright American judge, Associate Justice John M. Harlan of the United States supreme court, in spite of the fact that Justice Harlan has always been a Republican. "But he should be a Democrat—he is a Democrat in his principles," Mr. Morgan would say. The Alabama senator's admiration for the jurist began in their association as members of the Paris tribunal of arbitration to adjust the Bering sea sealing controversy between Great Britain and the United States.

Mr. Morgan is credited with originating the term "cuckoo" which has come to mean one who applauds every utterance from the White House. In the second Cleveland administration he referred in a sarcastic way to the subserviency of some of the senate Democrats to the requirements of the president. "The trumpet has sounded," he said, "the forces are marshalled, the clock has struck at the White House, andt he cuckoos have all put their heads out of their boxes and responded to inform us of the time of the day."

Mr. Morgan was just 21 when he hung out his shingle. That was sixty-two years ago. He used to tell that he started into practice law on a Tuesday and got his first case the following Saturday. "My first case," he called it. From the start he succeeded, although he never became wealthy. He had married before he was admitted to the bar. His people were Whigs, but he became a Democrat and thus brought about family dissension. In the Civil war he enlisted as a private in the Confederate army, and rose to the rank of brigadier general. There was nothing about Mr. Morgan, however, to suggest the soldier. He was always the lawyer and the legislator.

Society never saw Mr. Morgan. He lived in an old, but attractive, house in a part of Washington once fashionable, but now in the business section. It it the John Marshall place, a short distance from the district courts building. Here he lived, year in and year out, the routine of his existence broken only by occasional visits to Alabama. When congress was in session he would go to the capitol early, and after the senate adjourned would return to his home to spend the rest of the day in reading, writing or study.

The intense interest taken throughout the United States in the opening of the Huntley irrigation project indicates that a very large number of people will go to Montana in order to get an opportunity to draw for the 633 farms which Uncle Sam will give every qualified entryman by an impartial public drawing. The details of this drawing can be obtained from the local land office at Billings, Mont., or from the general land office at Washington, D. C. The applicant must, however, go to Montana to execute the necessary papers, which must be in the Billings office on or before June 25. Great care has been taken to subdivide the lands so that all the farms shall be as nearly as possible of the same value. The farms will contain as nearly as possible forty acres of irrigable land. The total area, however, will vary considerable on account of the two lines of railroads passing through them and the canal systems which necessarily must cut some of the farms into irregular shapes. The total area of the farms will vary from forty to 160 acres.

For this reason the reclamation service has printed a large number of township plats showing the arrangement and areas of the farm units. There are seven of these plats, each showing a township, part of which is subdivided and lies within the project. These plats will be sold at 10 cents each, or 70 cents for the set, and can be secured from the director of the reclamation service at Washington, D. C., or from the local land office at Billings, Mont.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

EACH WON AND LOST

Calumet Won a Close Game From Houghton Saturday.

Knutsen Was Pounded By the Giants on Sunday.

Houghton, Mich., June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Giants and Aristocrats broke even on the two games Saturday and Sunday. Saturday, Miller gave the Aristocrats but one hit and Houghton made but one error, but the hit was a two-bagger, which drove in the only run of the game, Calumet winning. Koopman held Houghton safe throughout. Yesterday the Giants fell on Knutsen in three innings and scored enough runs to win easily, 8 to 3. Kaiser was benched in the fourth inning and Egan, who succeeded, held the visitors runless. Scores:

GRAND FORKS NINE SHUT OUT

Crookston Won by 3 to 0 Before Large Crowd.

Crookston, Minn., June 17.—Independent baseball is proving more popular in this section of the valley, and is receiving far better support than league ball did the last two years it was played here. The game here yesterday attracted a crowd that taxed the capacity of bleachers and grand stand. It was a fast exhibition with Crookston getting a shade the better of the argument all through the game. With a little luck in the eighth, the visitors could easily have tied up the score, as, with a man each on second and third, Payne smashed a pretty one in left center and it looked good for two scores, but Manning made a sensational one-handed catch, after which the visitors had no chance to score.

The feature of the game was the heady pitching of Brown and the fast work of Peterson at third, coupled with his heavy stick work. The visitors were shut out, but played plucky ball till they were retired runless in the ninth. Following is the score:

TREADWAY WAS CLOUTED AGAIN

Winnipeg, Man., June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was nothing to it but Maroon Saturday, and the Peggers shut out Duluth 8 to 0. Treadway was on the slab and Herr's men took kindly to his fast shoots. They started at him in the first inning and kept it up all the way through the game, eleven hits being coupled with six errors for a total of eight runs. Giencke held the White Sox to three hits and they never had a chance to score, as the Maroons played through with but one slip. Score:

FLIES ARE BITING ALSO

They Mar the Pleasure of Fishermen in the Woods.

Small Black Gnat is New and Very Annoying Insect.

The trout and the flies were both biting well yesterday.

Every rose must have its thorn, and the flies were the thorns for the fishermen yesterday. During the last two or three weeks reports of big catches on the trout streams around Duluth have been coming in, and yesterday the fishermen of Duluth simply packed their sacks and moved to the woods in a body. Every trout stream within a radius of thirty miles was whipped from mouth to source and some good catches were made. One six-rounder was pulled out of the mouth of Sucker river yesterday, and it is said to have been one of the largest steelheads caught there in recent years. It was certainly a beauty.

But the flies are getting to be more voracious than the trout, and yesterday the fishermen who forgot to take "fly dope" with them, returned literally covered with stings and bites. There is a small black gnat in the woods this year that is most persistent. It is different from the ordinary sand fly, and its bite is more painful than that of the mosquito. These little black gnats are very numerous this summer, and combined with the sand flies, mosquitoes and numerous other insects, they made life miserable for the fishermen yesterday.

GREAT RACE ON THAMES

Yale and Harvard Have Fast Crews This Year.

Experts Predict One of the Greatest Races in Years.

New London, Conn., June 17.—A few days more of hard work and the Yale and Harvard oarsmen, who are quartered on the banks of the Thames river, a few miles above here, will have completed their training for the dual races between the two universities on June 27. It will then be necessary only to keep the men at top condition a somewhat difficult task. This year the conditions of the crew more than ever, promise to be a great factor in the races, especially that of the varsity eights. Experts are finding little to choose between the two crews and not a few agree that the outcome will depend upon the stamina of the men in the last quarter mile.

Both crews are looked upon as splendid types, as fine probably as ever were boated in this river, and in development both have many points of similarity with the two crews that fought out a magnificent race last year and in which the Crimson's superior strength carried the balance in her favor.

Yale varsity is considered to be fully up to the standard of the best Yale crews as a rowing unit. Only Stroke Boulton and Capt. Ide are veterans of a race against the Crimson. The crew is a heavier one than last year, averaging 170 pounds to the man, of long muscled type, a combination that Coach Kennedy has developed to pull a machine-like stroke of fine reach, with a hard leg drive, a clean finish and a quick recovery while the men swing with elasticity and neatness in board. The crew has been sent over the four mile course several times, but at a stroke never exceeding 33.

The Harvard crews at Red Top have not been on the river as many days as their opponents, and the varsity eight only twice has been over the full course. The trial was a stiff one in which some of the men showed the effects of the work but this is explained by the fact that as yet the men are only just coming into prime condition. The crew is one made up mostly of last year's veterans. The men are powerful and they pull a stroke that drives the boat fast while the oars are digging through the water. But a slight check is noticeable at present on the recovery which will be eradicated as the crew reaches perfect form. There is not the machine-like precision in the swing as seen in Yale boat, but the power is there. It is this power that Coach Ray has been bringing out, and the remaining days will be devoted to moulding the eight into a unit. To the expert both crews are a study, and they predict that the best race in many years will be seen.

KELLEYS DEFEAT CLOQUET.

Duluth Amateurs Proved Too Much for Range Team.

Cloquet, Minn., June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Kelley Hardware Baseball team of Duluth, defeated the local independent team yesterday afternoon before a large crowd, by a score of 7 to 4. Mence pitched great ball for the visitors, holding Cloquet to six hits. Houle was touched for ten hits and Cloquet's errors helped the Duluthians in the run-getting. Score:

RACE WAS A "KILLER"

Boat Club Junior Eight Won by Scant Half Length.

Crews Spurted in Almost a Dead Heat Over Entire Course.

In a race that was practically a spurt for the entire 1½ miles, the Duluth Boat club junior eight won from the "seniors" Saturday evening by a scant half length.

The race was undoubtedly the closest and probably the most heartbreaking contest ever seen in a club regatta in Duluth. At no time did either boat have a lead of more than ten feet over the other, and they alternated in the lead over the entire course. Spurt was met with spurt, and neither crew was able to let down the killing pace for an instant. The juniors had a bigger lead when the line was crossed than at any other time during the race.

The crews got a beautiful start, both getting away with the smoke from the gun. They both made desperate efforts to "get the jump" and open up water on their opponents at the start, and both failed. The result was that they kept up this pace practically the entire course, rowing about a 34 stroke, and pulling it through hard.

The senior boat was running a little more smoothly than the juniors, but the latter made up in "beef" what they lacked in form. At the half mile the seniors were probably leading by six or eight feet, although it was so close that the men in the boats could not tell which crew was ahead.

At about the mile the juniors made a desperate effort, raised their stroke a trifle after two unsuccessful attempts, and took the lead by about the same distance. The seniors responded just when it looked as if the juniors were about to pull away from them and open up water, and until the boats were within thirty or forty strokes of the finish they raced along in practically a dead heat. Neither crew had much of a spurt left, but the juniors were able to crawl into the lead, and the nose of their boat poked out in front of the senior boat about twenty strokes from the finish. They crossed the line just three and one-half seconds ahead of the seniors and it it had not been for a "crab" in the senior boat there would not have been six feet between them at the finish. As it was the juniors had about half a length.

The older oarsmen of the club, some of whom followed the eighths over the entire course in a motor boat, were unanimous in the statement that it was the closest and most exciting race ever pulled off by the club in a local regatta. Each crew had one race to its credit, the seniors having won the first one and the juniors the second. There is no little rivalry of a friendly nature between the two crews, and they were almost as anxious to win Saturday as they are to carry off the silverware at White Bear lake next month.

The time was the fastest yet made by either crew this year, and while the coaches refuse to give it out, they are very much encouraged at the showing.

The two crews will probably go to White Bear lake as they rowed Saturday, with probably one change in the junior eight. The junior eight will be entered in both the junior and senior eight-oared races, and will also be split up into two fours, at least one of which will enter in the junior four-oared race. The senior boat will be split up into two fours. The four senior men, who rowed in the stern of the boat Saturday, will row in the senior four-oared race, and the four "bantams" in the bow, will row in the light weight fours.

Totman, who was unable to row Saturday on account of illness, will probably be back in the junior boat, replacing one of the men in the bow. There is more rivalry for positions this year than there ever was before, and three or four men are working to replace any of the regular members of the crew who show a reversal in form.

The crews lined up Saturday as follows:

Seniors—		Juniors—
Church	stroke	B. J. Pierce
Skelton	seven	Rockwell
Haroldson	six.	J. A. Pierce
Whyte	five	Noalsund
Horak	four	Crawford
Higgins	three	Anderson
Mapp	two	Nelson
Walker	bow.	MacDowell
McBride	coxswain	Marshall

Following the race the opening dance of the season was held at the clubhouse. There was a record breaking crowd in attendance, and the clubhouse presented a very gay appearance, being decorated with Japanese lanterns and brilliantly lighted. During the evening the Gopher ran in close to the dock, and the guests were invited to inspect the vessel.

It was by far the largest and most successful opening dance yet held by the club, and both the new members and the old turned out and thoroughly enjoyed it.

LAKE BEACH WAS BUGGY

Ants and Sand Flies Are Nuisance on the Point.

For the first time in many years, so some of the older residents on Minnesota Poit claim, the lake beach is literally alive with large black ants, sand flies and bugs of various descriptions and sizes. One Duluth citizen, who is probably one of the oldest residents on the Point, declares that this is the second time within his recollection that he has noticed the ants and bugs in such numbers. They were so thick on the beach yesterday that visitors to the Point, especially women and children, would not go near the beach.

Every bit of wood, or wreckage was covered with the ants and sand flies, and persons walking in the vicinity were much annoyed by the bugs getting on their clothes and in their hair.

No special reason seems to be assigned to the present conditions, except that the presence of so many bugs and flies must be due to the warm weather that has so quickly followed the cold weather.

A peculiar thing about the matter is that the bugs and ants were not found on the bay side of the Point.

CREWS ARE TRYING OUT

Preparing for the Big Poughkeepsie Regatta, June 27.

Seven Crews Will be Entered in Eight Oared Event.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 17.—The intercollegiate boat races are to be held on the four-mile stretch of the Hudson river, known as the Poughkeepsie course, on Wednesday, June 26. Eight-oared crews, representing seven colleges, are entered in the university race, the principal event, and they are all here now, forming probably the largest gathering of college oarsmen in the history of rowing in this country.

Including the crews made up of substitutes there are fourteen eights and seven fours engaged in daily practice. They row between 10 and 12 and 5 and 7 p. m., their work being watched with keen interest by men from the various colleges, who follow in launches or observe the boats from the shore.

The regatta is conducted by the Intercollegiate Rowing association, composed of Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania, which held its first race here in 1895, and the four other colleges take part on invitation from the association. The following program has been arranged for the regatta:

4 p. m.—Two-mile for university fours, Syracuse, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Cornell.

The order in which the crews are named indicates the courses drawn in each race, beginning from the west shore.

Syracuse has practically a new crew, Andres being the only one left from last year's squad, but with young Jim Ten Eyck at the stroke oar, the boat is second to none on the river in its appearance of speed, not excepting Wisconsin, which defeated Syracuse at Madison this spring.

The Badgers, who are being trained by Edward Ten Eyck, son of the Syracuse coach, show excellent form, and their boat seems to move rapidly. The men are uniformly tall and look exceptionally strong.

In the Georgetown boat the four stern men are the same as last year, the other four being new.

PARCHMENTS ARE BURIED

Ancient Jewish Rite Observed for First Time in America.

New York, June 17.—Characterized with a solemnity that was as impressive as the services over the bier of a human being, eighteen sacred Jewish parchments were buried in Washington cemetery yesterday.

These parchments were formerly the property of several synagogues in this city. Each contained the pentatuch or scroll of the Jewish law.

The Zirchu Toras Moses synagogue, where the services were held, was crowded. Four rabbis officiated, each explaining the sacred duty imposed by the rules of the Jewish religion which requires that whenever scrolls are damaged or defective in any way, they must be given a sacred burial. The scrolls were damaged in a recent fire.

It is said that this is the first time that this ancient Jewish rite has been observed in America. Much time and tedious effort were required in picking up the charred remains of the parchments. After they had been collected they were carefully wrapped in white cloth, then heaped in a pile in front of the altar of the Zirchru Toras Moses synagogue. For several days they remained on exhibition there and were viewed by hundreds.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Fire Sunday afternoon destroyed the car barns of the New York City Railway company in Madison avenue, between Eighty-fifth and Eighty-sixth streets, New York. A number of residences were damaged. The loss will exceed $200,000.

President Roosevelt has referred to Charles P. Neill, commissioner of labor, the further appeals that have been made to him to intervene to prevent the threatened telegraphers' strike.

The obelisk erected at Buffalo by the state of New York and the city of Buffalo in memory of the late President McKinley will be dedicated in the first week of September. The exact date has not been decided upon. It is planned to hold a week's festival, beginning Sept. 1. A fund of $50,000 is being raised by popular subscription to defray the expenses of the festival.

John Ahlstrom of Minneapolis was drowned Sunday afternoon at Lake Minnetonka. With three companions he was sailing, when a squall overturned them. The other three escaped, but Ahlstrom got caught in the boat. A sudden wind storm Sunday evening overturned a score of Tonka boats, but no deaths are reported.

Thomas C. Webster, aged 60 years, of Horseshoe Bend, Idaho, who began to sleep on a train between Kansas City and Denver on April 1, and who did not open his eyes thereafter for seventy-seven days, died at the general hospital at Kansas City Sunday. A committee of doctors who examined Webster said his sleep was feigned. He was suffering from acute melancholia.

James Bryce, the British ambassador, spent Sunday at Lawton, Okla., as the guest of the chamber of commerce, and at Fort Sill, where he visited Geronimo, the famous Apache warrior, and Quaanah Parker, chief of the Comanches.

A LAZY LIVER

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over-work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver complaint," or torpid liver, by its wonderful control over the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system of poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

Symptoms. If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, bitter or sour "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, or biliousness, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver, or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

Of Golden Seal root, which is one of the prominent ingredients of "Golden Medical Discovery," Dr. Roberts Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, says: "Very useful as a stomachic (stomach) tonic and in atonic dyspepsia. Cures gastric (stomach) catarrh and headaches accompanying same."

Dr. Grover Coe, of New York, says: "Hydrastis (Golden Seal root) exercises an especial influence over mucous surfaces. Upon the liver it acts with equal certainty and efficacy. As a cholagogue (liver invigorator) it has few equals." Dr. Coe also advises it for affections of the spleen and other abdominal viscera generally, and for scrofulous and glandular diseases, cutaneous eruptions, indigestion, debility, chronic diarrhea, constipation, also in several affections peculiar to women, and in all chronic derangements of the liver, also for chronic inflammation of bladder, for which Dr. Coe says "it is one of the most reliable agents of cure"

Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati, author of the AMERICAN DISPENSATORY, gives it a prominent place among medicinal agents, reiterates all the foregoing writers have said about it, as does also Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati. Dr. Scudder says: "It stimulates the digestive processes and increases the assimilation of food. By these means the blood is enriched. * * * * the consequent improvement on the glandular and nervous systems are natural results." Dr. Scudder further says, "in relation to its general effect upon the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic, useful in all debilitated states * * *."

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of Golden Seal root: "It is a most superior remedy in catarrhal gastritis (inflammation of the stomach), chronic constipation, general debility, in convalescence from protracted fevers, in prostrating night-sweats. It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb." (This agent, Golden Seal root, is an important ingredient of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for woman's weaknesses, as well as of the "Golden Medical Discovery.") Dr. Ellingwood continues, "in all catarrhal conditions it is useful."

Much more, did space permit, could be quoted from prominent authorities as to the wonderful curative properties possessed by Golden Seal root.

We want to assure the reader that "Golden Medical Discovery" can be relied upon to do all that is claimed for Golden Seal root in the cure of all the various diseases as set forth in the above brief extracts, for its most prominent and important ingredient is Golden Seal root. This agent is, however, strongly reinforced, and its curative action greatly enhanced by the addition, in just the right proportion of Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot, Mandrake root and chemically pure glycerine. All of these are happily and harmoniously blended into a most perfect pharmaceutical compound, now favorably known throughout most of the civilized countries of the world. Bear in mind that each and every ingredient entering into the "Discovery" has received the endorsement of the leading medical men of our land, who extol each article named above in the highest terms. What other medicine put up for sale through druggists can show any such professional endorsement? For dyspepsia, liver troubles, all chronic catarrhal affections of whatever name or nature, lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, the "Discovery" can be relied upon as a sovereign remedy.

A little book of extracts treating of all the several ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines, being extracts from standard medical works, of the different schools of practice will be mailed free to any one asking (by postal card or letter), for the same, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and giving the writer's full post-office address plainly written.

CONDITIONS IMPROVED

Brokers Say Copper Market is Getting Better Every Day.

Many Are Buying Good Stocks Here at Low Prices.

Brokers see an improvement in the general condition of the copper stock market at the present time.

The improvement is not shown so much by the quotations on the black boards, but by the general inquiry and quiet buying on the part of their many customers.

Stocks are weak at the present time. Many a good issue is selling now for possibly one fourth what it did during the bull movement last winter, and there is no doubt but that some of the stocks on the boards are bargains at the present prices.

"There are some very good stocks selling away below what they are really worth," said a broker today; "and many a man around town is picking some of them up and tucking them away in his desk until the prices get back to where they belong, or possibly longer than that.

"The great mass of the public is not in this quiet buying movement, which is going on at the present time, for the reason that it is the tendency of the public to buy stocks when they are up and sell them when they are down.

"But conservative business men, who know what they are doing, are the ones who are buying some of the better stocks. They know what they are doing. They know that the metal market is holding firm, and that the better companies are paying as large dividends now as they did last winter.

"I think that most of the brokers in town will tell you the same thing, and I daresay that business has been better this month than it was during the same month last year.

"I know of one man who is investing $100,000 cash in the best of the stocks now."

He Fired the Stick.

"I have fired the walking-stick I've carried over 40 years, on account of a sore that resisted every kind of treatment, until I tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve; that has healed the sore and made me a happy man," writes John Garrett of North Mills, N. C. Guaranteed for piles, burns, etc., by all druggists. 25c.

Twelve men decided that Frank Erickson of Eveleth, is entitled to a share in the estate of Mary Erickson, deceased, according to a verdict of $1.599.30 in his favor that was returned in the district court this morning. The jury agreed last Friday evening but the verdict could not be opened until the court convened in regular term again this morning.

The jury also found that the amount due Erickson which was not expended on the lot and buildings, was $326.40.

The award made Erickson is the full amount of his claim which the probate court denied on the legal grounds that Frank Erickson and Mary Erickson, although they lived together as man and wife for two years and got together the property comprising the estate of the deceased, were never married, Mary Erickson having a husband living in the old country and several children, her lawful heirs, by that husband.

Erickson put in a claim against the estate. He alleged that Mary Erickson was indebted to him for material and labor and for money loaned her. When the probate court denied his claim he appealed to the district court.

The civil action of A. E. Zimmerman against Andrew Wilson to recover for alleged timber trespass is being tried by a jury in Judge Dibell's room today. Mr. Zimmerman claims that Mr. Wilson entered on his land and without permission cut a quantity of cedar.

AGED ENGINEER KILLED.

Had Retired, But Was Making Usual Call at the Round House.

Philadelphia, June 17.—Samuel Wagner, aged 83, who, until his retirement, was the oldest locomotive engineer in point of service employed by the Philadelphia & Reading Railway company, was struck and killed today by a Reading train in this city. It had been Wagner's custom early every day since his retirement to visit a Reading roundhouse, because, as he often said, he "loved to be near the engines." He was returning home from his customary call, when he stopped for a moment on the track, and was struck by a rapidly moving train.

NO STRIKE AT STOCK YARDS AT PRESENT.

Chicago, June 17.—Temporary peace has settled over the stock yards, and there will be no strike of the packing house teamsters for some time at least. The men accepted the offer of arbitration made by the packers, and the men will remain at work until the board of arbitration is selected and done its work.

GOVERNMENT TO ARREST LEADERS OF THE REVOLT.

Paris, June 17.—The government has decided to arrest and prosecute all the leaders of the winegrowers revolt. Instructions were telegraphed today to the authorities at Argelliers to arrest Marcelin Albert, the leader of the movement, but Albert, anticipating the government's action, concealed himself.

The Weather Man Has Fooled the Big Duluth.

It is overstocked and is now selling its big stock of fine Suits at a sacrifice of all profits.

WAGES INCREASED ALL ROUND.

Binghampton, N. Y., June 17.—The Delaware & Hudson Railroad company has increased the wages of all conductors, baggagemen and trainmen 10 per cent.

LUMBER YARD BURNING.

Camden, N. J., June 17.—The extensive lumber yard of David Baird, at Delaware avenue and Lamden street, this city, is burning. There is danger of the fire spreading, and the Philadelphia fire department was called upon for assistance.

KILLS WIFE AND HIMSELF.

Detroit, June 17.—William Roulo, a carpenter, aged 35 years, cut his wife's throat last night and then slashed his own throat with the same razor. Both of them died where they fell, in a bedroom where their two children were sleeping. Roulo and his wife had quarreled, and Mrs. Roulo had applied for a divorce.

THE REASON.

Los Angeles Times: P. A. Busse, Chicago's new mayor, had been complimented by a reporter on the direct, terse, quality of a statement he had given out.

"I am a believer in brevity," said Mr. Busse, smiling. "The fewer words you say a thing in, the stronger and more striking is that thing's effect.

"Once I knew a man who hated the Swiss.

"'Why, Jake,' I said to him one day, 'you astound me. You hate the Swiss, yet here you are married to a Swiss wife.'

"'Yes,' said Jake; 'that's the reason.'"

GLASSES FOR COWS' EYES.

Philadelphia Bulletin: "There are cows that wear glasses in my country," said a Russian. "I once saw a herd of 40,000 cows with glasses on.

"It was on the steppes, the great Russian prairies. Our steppes for six months in the year are covered with snow, but during a part of the time delicate, fresh grass tips protrude from that white and dazzling mantle. The cows then are turned out to feed on the new grass, but if their eyes are unprotected the dazzle of sunshine on the snow gives them snow blindness.

"Thousands of cows suffered horribly, and hundreds died of snow blindness, until a rude, cheap kind of spectacles, made of leather and smoked glass, was invented and put with great success on the Russian market."

Because he could not red the signs, and because the car of the aerial bridge was on the other side of the canal, Carl Isaacson, a Finnish sailor of salt water experience, tried to get across the canal by climbing on to the top of the bridge and working his way across to the other side Saturday night. He was spotted by Special Officer Henderson, while almost at the top and the officer promptly ordered him down and took him to the station where he was locked up on a trespass charge.

Isaacson is a typical "old salt," and wears the traditional nautical fringe of whiskers around his broad, good natured face. He is not familiar with the English language, but when arraigned before Judge Cutting this morning he explained that he wanted to get across and thought it was the only way to do it. He couldn't read the signs, which advised climbers to keep off the upper works of the bridge, he said, and said that he was used to climbing in rigging of ships and could have made the trip across easily.

The judge imposed the minimum fine of $1 and costs, amounting to $3 in all which Isaacson paid.

MAKING MONEY.

Many Unique Methods Employed by People to Accumlate Wealth.

In the whole history of the world there has never been a country where it is so easy to make money as in the United States, and this is the most prosperous time the people of our nation have ever known. That there are many ways of making a living besides being a life insurance president, a prize fighter or a hodcarrier is shown by the following collection of unusual occupations, says the Buffalo Express.

Of the whole list of unique callings that have come to my attention, none is more peculiar than the business of "Dr. Cockroach" of Louisville. For a stipulated annual consideration the "doctor" contracts to keep ones' premises rid of cockroaches. He does not whistle them away like the Pied Piper of Hamelin, but at regular intervals he comes around with queer-looking tools and mysterious powders, by means of which he persuades the cockroaches to go.

"Bird Doctor and Specialist" is the sign on the shingle which hangs in front of an establishment on Broadway in New York. The proprietor is a young woman who takes mamma's pet canary to board while the family is away at the sea shore or absent from home at other times. She also has a hospital for sick birds, and teaches backward songsters their mission in the world. While it may seem that this young woman is making small use of her time, she really knows all about birds and their troubles, and is able to make a competence from her work.

An Englishman possessed of a small annuity and in bad health went to El Paso, Tex. The expenses of living were so great in the Southwestern city that he soon found his income inadequate. He invested all the ready money he had in eight gilt and gaudy popcorn stands, with little engines to run the poppers. The idea worked, and before long he branched out to San Antonio. He soon worked up a baby trust, which brought him an income of $5,000 a year.

A woman in Boston makes a business of taking inventories of houses which are rented furnished. She comes to the house and makes complete lists in triplicate of every article, with a description of its condition. When the house is given up she comes again and checks over the household goods and appraises the loss or damage. She has been so successful in this kind of work that her services are much in demand.

An Italian in New York takes over the rubbish from the garbage collections of the great Eastern metropolis at a stated annual price and makes from $20,000 to $30,000 a year from the business. He employs hundreds of sorters and pickers, who go over the rubbish to get out old bottles, rags, rubber, leather and other junk. It is said that he realized from $2,900 to $3,000 a year on old rubber shoes alone.

A Memphis newspaper woman boldly advertised in the newspapers that for a consideration she would prepare papers to be read at women's clubs, write speeches for banquets or trace pedigrees back of forgotten grandmothers to the Colonial dames. Her advertising was persistent until commissions began to come in, and many a woman leader of club life in this or that particular town has shone in the reflected glory of this Southern girl's hard-working genius.

Several years ago a shoe buyer for one of the Chicago department stores conceived the idea of buying up slightly damaged or blemished shoes from the manufacturers and retailing the same at a sacrifice price. He opened up with one clerk in a single room near the roof of a skyscraping office building. To get a good pair of $5 shoes with nothing more than a scratch on them for $2 was such a bargain that customers came fast. The business increased so rapidly that the original store has been enlarged to fifteen rooms and forty clerks are employed instead of one. The capital earned from the original store has been re-invested, until now the concern owns eight large stores in other places.

A New Jersey girl, broken down by teaching and office work, was ordered by her doctor to get some occupation which would keep her out of doors. She followed the physician's advice by acquiring a boggy farm in New Jersey, where she began the culture of bullfrogs. Persons who heard of the new venture, smiled until they learned that she was making a lot of money selling frog's legs at big prices to New York hotels and restaurants. In order to get the fresh air she does her own killing. Attired in rubber boots she tramps about the marshes and shoots the frogs with a small rifle.

An enterprising New Yorker makes a business of matching buttons. But this man is no relation to the famous Bim, the Button Man, who makes campaign buttons and badges. Bim makes a specialty of forecasting the action of political conventions. Time and again this enterprising man has successfully defied all the political prophets. In 1900 he staked his reputation on the belief that Roosevelt would be nominated vice president and made a big clean-up from the sale of buttons at the doors of the convention hall.

The United States consumes millions of olives every year, but they are nearly all unripe. About eight years ago a California woman while traveling abroad learned the secret of pickling a ripe olive in a peculiar fashion. The year after she came home she marketed twenty gallons of ripe olives. Three years later she could not begin to fill the orders which came to her, and now she is annually marketing over 100,000 gallons of ripe olive oil and pickled olives.

A novel way of making a living is to do other people's reading for them. In the old days when a learned man desired to write a scientific book it was a labor of years. Not so nowadays in the United States. Suppose a physician who has attained great prominence as a specialist in the treatment of a particular disease desires to perpetuate his fame by writing a book on that subject. What does he do? Merely makes a contract with a professional reader to provide the history of cases of the particular disease recorded in the medical journals of all lands. The busy man then goes hastily over this collection, selecting the instances fit for his own use, and thus completes the work of ten years in one year. Not long ago one of our great physicians paid a professional reader $5,000 for compiling certain information for him.

The business of looking up family records to qualify a man or woman for admission to the Sons or Daughters of the American Revolution or other historical societies is as well recognized in Washington as that of the attorney who looks up the war records of a claimant for a pension.

And there are other information bureaus willing and qualified to write a good speech for a budding statesman or make a splendid argument on any side of any question. Or if the budding statesman desires to write his own speech and is not familiar with the by-paths of history, the bureau will look up the history of any bit of legislation, seek out the precedents, cite decisions of the courts and otherwise assist and instruct.

Then if some one in the "deestrick" desires to oppose the re-election of the same statesman, the versatile bureau people will be willing to provide his enemies with an exact account of everything he has failed to do while serving his country as a member of congress.

A woman in Emporia, Kan.—that remarkable small town which no more requires Kansas after its name than New York needs the name of its state affixed—has made a lot of money by breeding cats. A St. Louis man, 30 years old and married, yet who is almost a midget, gets a big salary from a shoe company for going about with its traveling men in a Buster Brown costume, hair bobbed and all, and accompanied by a big dog who looks like Tige.

For eighteen years a Kansas City woman made her living and laid by a competence by designing the costumes worn in the annual Priests of Pallas parade. Another woman in Columbia, S. C., is known as "official painter of heraldry to the Daughters of the American Revolution." She makes a snug living by designing and painting coats of arms and heraldic designs for those who are vain of their ancestry.

A young woman in Louisville, Ky., began baking cakes for ladies who were giving parties and was so successful that she now owns the largest restaurant in Louisville and conducts a catering business with customers in five states. Every city now has dozens of shopping brokers who advertise to buy things and match samples for people living in the country.

HOW MARBLES ARE MADE.

Philadelphia Record: Most of the stone marbles used by boys are made in Germany. The refuse only of the marble and agate quarries is employed, and this treated in such a way that there is practically no waste.

Men and boys are employed to break the refuse stone into small cubes, and with their hammers they acquire a marvelous dexterity. The little cubes are thrown into a mill consisting of a grooved bedstone and a revolving runner. Water is fed to the mill and the runner is rapidly revolved, while the friction does the rest.

In half an hour the mill is stopped and a bushel or so of perfectly rounded marbles are taken out. The whole process costs the merest trifle.

SAUERKRAUT TRUST.

Ohio Magazine: The last monopolistic straw has fallen upon the industrial camel's back, and the tottering beast reels beneath the burden in the last agonies of dissolving mortality. The sauerkraut trust has been formed.

In is announced that this conspiracy against the cornerstone of the republic has its incipiency in Toledo, Ohio, where an organization was recently perfected bringing into one avaricious group all the sauerkraut manufacturers in the United States. There are said to have been forty individuals present, representing some twenty-five sauerkraut plants in Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin and New York, having a combined production of half a million tons of sauerkraut a year.

NO CLOUDS ON HORIZON

George Sloan of New York Says West is Prosperous.

Bankers Talk Optimistically and Crops Are All Right.

George Sloan, resident buyer in New York city for some of the largest mercantile establishments in the United States, fails to see any substantial cloud on the business horizon at the present time.

Mr. Sloan, owing to his business, is probably as well informed on general business conditions in this country as any man living. It is his business to keep informed. In New York city he acts as buying agent for such stores as the Glass Block in Duluth, Field, Slick & Co. of St. Paul, and like concerns, and in his suite of offices occupying the entire third floor of the Metropolis bank building, he handles between 800 and 1,000 agents, manufacturers and sellers a day. At the present time Mr. Sloan is making a tour of the West, visiting his clients, and since leaving New York has toured Ohio, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Minnesota and other states.

"There is every evidence of increased prosperity and excellent business conditions," said Mr. Sloan this afternoon, when asked for a statement by The Herald. "The West isn't feeling the effect of the stock conditions in the East, and in conversations with bank officials in all parts of the West I find that they report increased balances and deposits, and all talk most optimistically.

"The farmers through the West, in some places, talk of smaller crops, or crops a little below the average, but on the whole I believe that the crops will be as large as last year. All that is needed now is some bright sunshine to bring them along. The outlook is especially bright in Oklahoma, where the farmers have planted more cotton than usual. The crop is looking fine, and there is talk of using a new cotton picking machine there which will be a great labor saver, and prevent the usual trouble with shortage of cotton pickers.

"In regard to overbuying on the part of merchants, the worst conditions are in Nebraska. The merchants of Omaha have officially anounced that they have $1,000,000 worth of spring merchandise which was not sold on account of the cold and rainy weather. Much of this will have to be carried over to next year, as the weather seems to be changing immediately to the real summer variety.

"Since my visit West I notice wonderful improvements in the traffic facilities of the cities, and the East can learn something from the West in this respect. Some parts of the country have cars that make the regular steam road schedules.

"Many of the smaller cities are also erecting magnificent modern, fireproof hotels.

"In the line of amusement parks, the West has also done some wonderful things, and even Coney Island could learn something from such a park as the Electric Park of Kansas City, where there are several large pavilions, seating about 5,000 people each, in which free band concerts and vaudeville programs are given, the only charge being the admission fee to the grounds of 10 cents.

"In all parts of the country Duluth is being spoken of as a coming city, and every business man with whom I have spoken of this city predicts for it a great future."

ARE INJURED BY DYNAMITE

Premature Explosion at Brookston Puts Out Man's Eye.

As the result of a premature explosion of a stick of dynamite which occurred on a homestead near Brookston, Minn., Saturday afternoon, one man has lost an eye, another in all probability will lose one, and a 16-year-old boy is badly bruised and shaken. The three are now at St. Mary's hospital.

The accident occurred on the Orser homestead near Brookston Saturday afternoon. Isaiah, aged 62 years, was engaged in some blasting operations on the land which he was clearing, in order to loosen up a number of stumps. In some manner, which has not been explained, a stick of dynamite lying near where Orser, his son Steven, and a neighbor, C. M. Rose, aged 24 years, were standing, exploded with violence, putting out Rose's eye, seriously injuring Orser so that he probably will lose one eye, and throwing all three to the ground.

The boy is the least seriously hurt and he will probably be able to be about again in a few days. What caused the explosion is a matter of speculation as nothing touched or moved the explosive, so far as the men know. They were at once picked up by neighbors who saw the accident, and put on the train for Duluth, arriving here at 6:45. They were taken at once to St. Mary's.

"THE NEWSBOY'S FRIEND,"

Col. Alexander Hogeland, Found Dead in Bed in Omaha Hotel.

Omaha, June 17.—Col. Alexander Hogeland, "The Newsboy's Friend," was found dead in bed in the Murray hotel this morning.

A gas jet in his room had been turned on and the windows and transom closed. His death, however, is believed to have been accidental. Of late he had become very infirm.

Louisville, Ky., June 17.—Col. Hogeland was chiefly known as the author of the Curfew law, although his work among the newsboys had been carried on for many years. While his home was in Louisville he spent much time traveling around the country in the interest of his hobby, "work among the boys."

ORCHARD'S TRIAL

Boise, Idaho, Jun 17.—While the trial of William D. Haywood, charged with conspiring to secure the life of Former Governor Steunenberg, stands suspended for a day, Harry Orchard, the chief witness in the case, was taken to Caldwell, Canyon county, where the case against him for the actual murder of Steunenberg was called and postponed until the next term of court.

The Haywood trial will be resumed at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, when the state will continue the introduction of evidence in support of the Orchard story and endeavor further to link the defendant with the conspiracy to murder Steunenberg as outlined by Orchard in his confession. So far the evidence has been corroborative of Orchard's story of his many crimes in major and minor details. The direct connection of Haywood has yet to come out in evidence.

VERY IMPROBABLE

Is Story of Suit to Be Brought by Alleged Daughter of Smith.

New York, June 17.—The report recently published that Mrs. Simon Dufreche of New Orleans is about to bring suit against the estate of the late J. Henry Smith for more than $8,000,000 on the ground that she is Mr. Smith's daughter by a former marriage, was said today by Herman S. Leroy, counsel for the Smith estate, to be extremely improbable. According to the published story, Mrs. Dufreche's mother was Ella Carfen, and was married in 1866. At this time, Mr. Leroy declares J. Henry Smith was a boy of 16 years, attending school in England.

"Mr. Smith returned to this country in 1876," said Mr. Leroy, "and he never had an entanglement with a woman in his life. Mr. Smith's widow knew him for twenty-five years before they were married and she never heard of this other woman."

STATEMENTS EXAGGERATED

W. A. McGonagle Discusses Interview Published in Morning Paper.

The morning paper devoted a part of its first page this morning to an article which purported in an indefinite way to state that steel car works and locomotive shops were to locate here, as a result of the building of the steel plant.

There is certainly a possibility that the locomotive, car and many other manufacturers of all kinds of machinery and iron and steel workers will be attracted here by the steel plant, the natural location of Duluth and the water and power facilities, but announcements of their positive coming have not been made. The morning paper's statements are therefore somewhat premature.

The morning paper quoted W. A. McGonagle, vice president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, to some extent. Speaking of the interview, Mr. McGonagle said to The Herald:

"The interview published in the News Tribune this morning greatly exaggerates any statements made by me during the interview with two of their reporters at my house, Sunday afternoon. The reporters called to have me confirm a press dispatch stating that it was rumored in New York that the United States Steel corporation intended to build a locomotive works in Duluth. I replied to the reporters that I had no kowledge of such a plant and did not believe the story.

"I stated to them that in a meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club I had recommended that steps be taken by the industrial committee to induce the Pressed Steel Car company to build a plant at Duluth, and that the American Locomotive company be also urged to put in a substantial works at Duluth, and that in my opinion the definite location of the Minnesota Steel company at Duluth would be a strong argument for favorable action by both the car and locomotive companies, the Pressed Steel Car company or the American Locomotive company, but I intend to do my part as a citizen to get every possible industry to locate in the city of Duluth."

WHY HE WAS PARTISAN.

Kansas City Star: John Sharp Williams once ran afoul of Tom Reed. This is the way he tells the story himself: "I met Mr. Reed coming out of the cloakroom, and he said to me in that peculiar drawl of his: 'Williams, whatever makes you such a bitter partisan?' 'Well, Mr. Speaker, that's pretty good, coming from you, isn't it?' I replied. 'Never mind me,' he replied. 'But why are you such a bitter partisan?'

"'Well, I'll tell you,' I said. 'You know I never saw a Republican until I was 38 years old, and I can't get used to them, somehow.' He looked at me reproachfully and walked away without another word."

MARINE NEWS

THE HARBOR SITUATION

Visiting Engineers Will Hold Public Hearing Wednesday Morning.

Central Harbor Would Make Cesspool of Harbor Slips.

The needs of the Duluth-Superior harbor will be presented to the board of United States engineers, appointed for the purpose of investigating conditions here, tomorrow and Wednesday.

In a general way, three propositions are to be considered. One is for a central canal through Minnesota Point; another is for a breakwater out from the north shore of the lake at about Tenth avenue east; and the third is the extension of the south pier of the present canal for a distance of about 1,200 feet, gradually curving toward the north shore.

The plan that appears to be most generally favored among marine men, and especially tug men, is the breakwater plan.

"If you close up the present canal and open up a central channel, you will make all this corner of the bay around the slips a perfect cesspool," said one of the tug captains in discussing the plans. "The current through the canal is the only thing that keeps this part of the harbor clean. If you close the canal, this will be a kind of backwater up here, and it will fill in with sewage and mud."

The whole matter will be thoroughly threshed out before the board of engineers, and marine men and citizens in general will be allowed to give their opinions and present their arguments.

The engineers are expected tomorrow morning on the Omaha, and during the day they will make an inspection of the harbor in the government yacht Vidette. The board consists of Col. H. M. Adams, Col. C. E. L. B. Davis, Maj. J. E. Warren, Maj. J. Taylor, Capt. Harry Burgess and First Lieut. Arthur Williams. Maj. Graham D. Fitch and Joseph Darling, the local engineers, will act in conjunction with the visiting board.

Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock the public hearing will be held in the Commercial club rooms. The committee of the Commercial club, consisting of Capt. Alexander McDougall, W. A. McGonagle, George Spencer, L. C. Harris, O. H. Simonds, J. A. Ferguson and C. T. Fitzsimmons, will advocate the breakwater idea

BRIDGE SPAN IS BLOWN OVER

Wind Storm Plays Havoc With Work of the Wreckers.

Last night's gale played havoc with the work of the wreckers of the Duluth-Superior bridge.

The south span of the bridge, which was taken out last fall, has been resting on piling about half way between the draw and the railroad bridge, and last evening the heavy gale caught the structure and blew the north end of it from the piling. Part of the piles also fell over and sank into the mud, and the north half of the span is resting in water.

If prompt steps are taken, it will not be difficult to get the span back on to its resting place, as scows can be placed under it, and the north end raised back into its place.

The cargo of the barge Montezuma, stranded in the easterly channel, is being lightered on the barge Atmosphere. The Canadian patrol boat is assisting in enforcing the rule requiring upbound vessels to wait below until all downward boats have passed, in order to prevent an accident in the cut which might completely blockade the passage.

RUBBING IT IN.

Los Angeles Times: "The late Thomas Beecham, the famous pill man," said an advertising agent, "spent over $500,000 a year on ads. He wrote, up to the age of 75, his best ads. himself. He was a witty old gentleman. They tell a story about him and a grocer.

"The grocer was guilty of some rather sharp practice on Mr. Beecham one day, and the latter stamped out of the shop roaring:

"'You're a swindler, and I'll never enter your doors again.'

"Next day, though, he came back and bought five pounds of sugar.

"'Dear me,' said the grocer, smiling in a forgiving way, 'I thought you were never going to enter my doors again.'

"'Well, I didn't mean to,' said Mr. Beecham; 'but yours is the only shop in the place where I can get what I want. You see I am going to pot some bulbs, and I need sand.'"

CURBING BIDS UP TUESDAY

Eveleth Council Has Important Subject to be Considered.

Eveleth, Minn., June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the city council meets Tuesday evening a matter of considerable importance is to be considered. This will be to decide upon the curbing to be laid on the west side of Grant avenue, and the percentage of improvement to be borne by the taxpayers.

The meeting has been designated, according to law, as the time when property owners may be present to record their opinions and wishes in the matter of the improvement, and the aldermen are anxious to have them appear and give their views. Bids have been called for on three different kinds of materials for the curbing, namely, granite, sandstone and cement and the bids that are received will be opened at the meeting. Granite is considerably more expensive than the other two materials and sandstone is the next in order of cost. Estimates have been received on what this work should cost but the figures have not been given out by any of the aldermen. No bids have been received by City Clerk Skeel up to today.

The curb is to be built from Fayal road to Jackson street, a lineal distance of 2,305 feet.

It is reported that an edict has gone forth that fences encroaching on Jones street, which in some cases are as much as three feet off the line, will have to be moved back to the line.

AURORA MAY GET THE HEAD OFFICE

Longyear People May Change Their Point of Business.

Aurora, Minn., June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is no little speculation here over what may result from the determination of the Longyear people to construct a combined office and residence building here. It is said to be possible that the business of the Eastern Mesaba will be directed from here.

It has been known for some time that it has been found inconvenient at times for the company to transact business on this end of the range from Hibbing, where the main office are located. The construction of a building in Aurora will give the company an opportunity to test a division of the office and engineering force. The Aurora office would under such conditions it is said, have complete charge of all work done east of Eveleth, which means that it would ultimately become the range headquarters of the company in its exploration of the country hereabouts, which has to a large extent been neglected by the explorers heretofore because of their belief that all existing ore had been located.

BOAT CAPSIZES, McNULTY DROWNS

Sad Ending to Sunday Boating Trip on Lake Ely.

Evelethe, Minn., June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Martin McNulty, a young man, lost his life in Ely lake Sunday afternoon, about 2 o'clock. He was one of a party of young men, who were rowing, and in changing places, the boat capsized and they all fell overboard. The gasoline yacht picked up the rest of the party, and it is supposed Mr. McNulty took cramps. He had been employed at the Franklin mine in Virginia as timekeeper for the past few months. Two Harbors, Minn., June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nimrods, chiefly from Duluth, had rare sport in the various streams in this section yesterday. All day the disciples of old Ike Walton were to be seen whipping the adjacent streams and enjoying the fine day along with the fishing. Some good catches were reported.

RANGES IN BRIEF

Hibbing—As the ballots cast at the village election were kept in wooden instead of metallic boxes the commissioners delegates to conduct the recount have thrown them all out and another election will be necessary.

Ely—Settlers are rapidly taking up land in the Snowbank country, twenty miles north of here being attracted by the report that a railroad will be built into that section.

Eveleth—The members of the Knights of Pythias lodge here attended the M. E. church in a body last night and listened to a sermon special to the occasion.

Hibbing—Mayor H. R. Weirick has returned from Washington, Pa., where he was called by the serious illness of his father. The latter has improved a trifle but is still a very sick man. Mrs. Weirick who has been in a St. Paul hospital returned with the mayor considerably improved in health.

Clarence Huck, who for the past several months has filled the position of chief clerk at the Hotel Miles, departed on Thursday for Bemidji, Minn.; where he has accepted a similar position at one of the hotels.

Grand Rapids—The office of the Northern Boom company was enterede by an unknown person Friday night, who took a gold watch valued at $75, belonging to C. C. Kelly, and $25 in cash besides several knives. No clue has been found to the robber.

William King and family left Saturday for Germany, where they will spend the summer. Miss Hazel Crandall accompanied them as far as Duluth, where she will make a short visit.

Tower — Last Saturday afternoon the Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church held a delightful and very successful lawn social in the grounds of the Presbyterian manse. Ice cream and cake were served while the Girl's club, under the direction of Mrs. Schirrmen, disposed of fancy work.

FEDERAL COURTS WILL MAINTAIN JURISDICTION

in the rights of the parties, which must be carried forward by a supplemental bill.

"One hundred and more years ago judges who had little to do except play the role of mental acrobats and seek to define and distinguish and to display an affected learning, and to discuss most gravely 'the difference betwixt the West and Northwest side of a hair,' most elaborately set forth their views as to original bills and amended bills and supplemental bills, and bills of review, and bills in the nature of bills of review. The result was that a chancery case lasted for many years. Whether this proceeding should be by original bill, or by supplemental bill is of small consequence. If by original bill, the railways had the right to file the same without notice, and the right to a restraining order without notice. If by supplemental bill, the usual practice is to require notice. And in either case, it is discretionary with the judge to allow a restraining order without notice until a hearing can be had on notice as to a temporary injunction.

"On Tuesday the 11th inst. the conplainants gave notice of filing these bills on Friday, the 14th inst. On Thursday they asked to file them. Solely out of courtesy to the attorney general, who was not present, this was refused; but the court, on its own motion, issued the restraining order, to keep the matter in statu quo. At the time fixed for the hearing the matter was again delayed for a day at the request of the attorney general, he unavoidably being absent.

During the delay the bills were filed in the state courts. For this there is no criticism. But I have stated the facts, and the statement of facts shows that there cases, as to the laws of 1907, were pending and had been pending since Tuesday, the 11, inst. And these bills must be considered as filed as to that date, and whether defective as originals bills is not material, because such defects can be corrected on demurrer or exceptions, or by the complainant before answer as of course. Nor is it material whether filed in the original cases or separately docketed. If separately docketed they will at once, for trial purposes, be consolidated with the old cases, pursuant to section 921 of the revised statutes.

"The supreme court must have the evidence with the right to make the ultimate findings of fact. No local tribunal, federal or state, can foreclose the fact, as would be done if the case goes to the supreme court on writ of error to the state courts, and from the state courts there is no method of review but by writ of error.

"There is but one orderly and seemly way, and that is in equity with the right of an appeal to the supreme court, as has been said by that court over and over again. The argument that the courts of the state can decide as to the validity of the laws of the state, as well as can the United States courts, will not be argued by any federal judge, but will be conceded. Those courts are as high-minded and as learned as are the federal courts, but that is not question. It is a question of jurisdiction. And this court has jurisdiction, and will maintain its jurisdiction.

IMAGINATION AS A CURE.

Dundee Advertiser: It is conceded by scientists that imagination has much power as a curative agent. A concrete example occurred in the experience of Sir Humphrey Davy. A man suffering from paralysis went to him to be treated by electricity.

When the patient had seated himself Davy, as a preliminary, placed a small glass thermometer beneath his tongue to take his temperature. The sick man thought that this was the instrument for curing him and declared that he felt it run through all his system. Davy, curious to see what lasting effect the imagination would exert, did not undeceive the man, but sent him away, telling him to return daily to have the treatment repeated.

The man did as he was told, and daily sat in a chair with the end of a little thermometer tucked beneath his tongue. In a few days the paralysis was completely cured by the patient's own imagination.

DUCKS IN CHINA.

Dundee Advertiser: There are more ducks in China than in all the rest of the world. China literally is white with these birds, and day and night the country resounds with their metallic and scornful voices.

Children herd ducks on every road, on every pond, on every farm, on every lake, on every river. There is no backyard without its duckhouse. There is no boat, little or great, without its duck quarters.

Even in the cities of China ducks abound. They dodge between the coolies' legs. They flit squawking out of the way of the horses. Their indignant quack will not unseldom drown the roar of urban commerce.

All over the land there are great duck hatching establishments, many of them of a capacity huge enough to produce 50,000 young ducks every year. Duck among the Chinnese is the staple delicacy. It is salted and smoked like ham or beef.

WHEAT HAS FIRM TONE

Advances on This Side of Atlantic and the Other.

Flax is Little Weaker at Close of Session Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 17..—Good buying in all the American markets and a firmness abroad caused the advance in wheat today. During the early hours of the session, there was an easier tendency, but the market became firm after the first hour and advanced until the close, which was 1½c higher than Saturday in Duluth. The world's shipments were considerably larger than for a year ago, and the weather reports were bearish, but the bulls carried the day just the same. Liverpool closed unchanged to ¾d higher, Berlin 1⅞c higher and Budapest ⅞c higher.

The July option closed 1½c higher in Duluth, 1⅝-¼c in Chicago, 1⅜c in Minneapolis, 1½c in New York and Winnipeg, 1c in St. Louis and 1⅝-½c in Chicago, 1⅝-¾c in Minneapolis, 1c in New York, 1¼c in St. Louis and 1½c in Kansas City. The October option closed 1⅜c higher in Winnipeg.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Ideal Weather Conditions for Crops Causes Light Trade in Wheat.

Chicago, June 17.—The wheat market today opened quietly, and with a light trade. The weather was the main influence, not only in wheat but also in corn and oats. The prediction of the weather bureau was for fair skies, and continued high temperature, and this was considered ideal conditions for all the crops. After the first half hour the market became firm on a fair amount of buying. September wheat opened a shade to ¼@⅜c lower at 92c to 92¾c, sold at 91⅞c and then advanced to 1⅞c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 513 cars against 567 cars last week and 234 cars a year ago.

The market became very strong late in the day on damage reports from the Southwest, it being claimed that the hot weather is now burning up the grain without giving it sufficient time to ripen. September advanced to 94@94¼c. The close was strong, with September 1⅞@1⅝c higher at 93¾c.

The corn market opened easier and with a quiet trade. Later prices became firm on buying by commission houses. September corn opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c lower at 51⅞c to 52⅛c and advanced to 52⅝c. Local receipts were 586 cars with 172 of contract grade.

Prices rallied somewhat in the last half of the session, September advancing to 53c. The close was strong, with September ½@⅝c higher at 52⅝c.

The oats market opened unsettled but later rallied and became firm along with corn and wheat. Trading was light. September oats opened ⅛@¼c lower to ⅛@¼c higher at 35⅜c to 35¾c and sold at 35⅝@35⅞c. Local receipts were 110 cars.

The provisions market was very dull, there being no early quotations on pork. The market generally, however, was firm because of 10c advance in the price of live hogs. September lard opened 10c higher at $8.67½. Ribs opened 7½c higher at $8.67½. September pork opened 10c higher at $15.97½.

Close: Wheat—July, 97c; September, 93¾c. Corn—July, 52½c; September, 52⅝c. Oats—July, 43⅝c; September, 36c. Pork—July, $15.85; September, $15.95. Lard—July, $8.70; September, $8.87½. Grain Gossip.

Logan & Bryan, Chicago, to Paine, Webber & Co.: Bears could not resist the temptation of making a drive at prices at the opening because of the fine weather over the Northwest. Then short sellers were brought up with a round turn and were forced to cover on 2-cent advance. Prices moved up easily and there was no such selling pressure. The advance as noted the last couple of upturns in this market.

Kansas messages came thick and fast today saying very hot weather causing additional injury to wheat. Elevator people west were good buyers of wheat, based on poor outlook in Nebraska. Cut worms are doing great damage in portions of North Dakota. There is a larger public interest in the market and buyers can safely take hold in moderate reactions.

Corn—Traders were almost paralyzed by the 7,000,000 bushels world's shipments posted at the opening. The trade sold the market off a little in sympathy with the early dip in wheat. When the leading market turned strong corn was quick to advance also. The fine weather over most of the corn belt was offset with the fear that extreme heat might come on the crop. Cool wet weather has given the weeds a wonderful start in Minnesota and Dakota. Hot weather is baking the ground in Kansas.

Oats—Prices made fair gains along with wheat and corn. Think it safe to be guided in tois market by the fact that prices now are lower than a year ago for the new crop months and the crop promise not so good.

Minneapolis Flour.

Minneapolis, June 17.—The flour is strong. Millers reported a good demand following the stronger turn in the wheat market. Individual sales are moderate in volume, but the aggregate makes a good day's business for the mills. Shipments are maintained at a fair figure. Shipments, 54,061 barrels. First patents, $4.95@5.05; second patents, $4.80@4.90; first clears, $3.55@3.65; second clears, $2.75@2.80.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Shorts Covered Freely and the General List Went Upwards.

Market Was Inactive During Afternoon But Closed Fairly Steady.

New York, June 17.—The first trading of the week in stocks was dull and listless, and slight fractional declines resulted generally from the small offerings. Union Pacific fell ¾. There was a rise of ⅝ in Rock Island.

Efforts to market securities caused some additional recessions in a half dozen prominent stocks, but prices soon rebounded to where they closed Saturday. Brooklyn Transit was taken readily and advanced to 53. Delaware & Hudson also gained a point, but St. Louis Southwestern yielded 1, Central Leather preferred 1⅜ and Chicago Great Western debentures 2.

Offerings of stocks became so scanty that light bidding carried prices upward to advances for Union Pacific, of 1⅜, Reading 1¼ and Northern Pacific, Atchison, Chicago Great Western preferred, Pennsylvania Southern railway preferred and Federal Mining preferred 1. Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha sold at a decline of 5, Manhattan 2¼ and Norfolk & Western 1. Bonds were heavy.

The slight demand was developed at noon was not continued and the market showed slight signs of sagging. Smelting preferred improved a point and Delaware & Hudson 1½. Chicago Great Western reacted to a point below last week's closing.

Certain stocks were again in demand in the middle of the afternoon, but the most of the list was immovable.

The market closed fairly steady, but inactive. When sales put prices down, Union Pacific and Reading reacted 1. Distillers Securities lost 2. When this profit taking subsided prices hardened again.

Stock Gossip.

Logan & Bryan, New York, to Paine, Webber & Co.: Shorts covered freely today and the general list enjoyed an advance. There was some little buying for investment account also. Favorable reports continue to pour in from the various wheat and cotton sections and the outlook for the grain and the cotton carrying roads is much better than for weeks past. Don't think there is sufficient support in the market to warrant purchase of stocks at this time. Would prefer to sell on all bulges.

Copper Gossip.

Calumet to Paine, Webber & Co.: Net earnings of the Calumet & Arizona for the six months of the current year are estimated at $5,400,000. The showing is so good that the belief is general that the next quarterly dividend will be increased from the present $5 rate.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: A local holiday was responsible for part of the dullness today, but underlying conditions are against any rise in stocks yet. Utah still comes out freely and it certainly looks as if there was some trouble at the mines in spite of denials by every one in authority. Bingham seems to be in bad shape and the price of the stock is gradually falling away. Don't buy any stocks until big sales of copper are made or until the standard rails like New York Central and Pennsylvania get a move upward.

DISASTER AND INVENTION.

Scarcely a fatal accident happens, whether on a railway, in the street, or in the home, but a new invention is brought out to guard against such fatalities in future. Any one perusing the patents list must be struck by the number of inventions which owe their birth to the reports of inquests published in the newspapers, and many of these inventions have proved of genuine worth. The number of inquests held on children burnt to death through wearing flannelette has been very great, says Pearson's Weekly.

The attention of a large manufacturer in Manchester was drawn to the matter, and after numerous experiments he succeeded in producing a safety flannelette which is practically uninflammable. He took out a patent for it, and his invention has no doubt been the means of saving the lives of many children. It has already received the recommendation of several coroners.

The bursting of a lamp when it is being extinguished has been the cause of many fatal accidents. The inquests held on the victims of these fatalities led to the patent extinguisher, as well as to several other inventions for the prevention of lamp accidents. Safety lamps of every description are now numerous.

In cases where people have met their death by drowning, as the result of defective sight or hearing, clever inventions have followed, while inquests held on the victims of ice accidents have led to a new form of skate. Fatal mishaps while cycling, whether due to side-slipping, defective brakes, speed gears, and so forth, have given birth to inventions "too numerous to be mentioned."

Many lives have been lost through collisions at sea in foggy weather. Ordinary signals were found of little use in preventing such accidents, for in a fog s

LOSES LIFE IN LAKE ELY

Martin McNulty Drowns in Sight of His Companions.

Remains Will be Taken to Marquette, Mich. for Burial.

Martin McNulty, book-keeper at the Franklin mine at Eveleth, and a brother of Thomas F. McNulty of 24 North Sixthy-third avenue west, lost his life by drowning in Lake Ely near Eveleth yesterday morning. Three other young men, who were with him, narrowly escaped meeting a similar fate.

McNulty, William McCoy, Roy Robinson and O. W. Boden, all of Eveleth, left there yesterday morning on a fishing trip. When well out from the shore in Lake Ely, McNulty and McCoy, who were in one boat, attempted to exchange seats, capsizing the frail craft. Robinson and Boden, who were in a boat close behind, hurried to the scene and in attempting to aid their friends, their boat was also overturned. While the other three men were clinging to the boats, McNulty attempted to swim to shore, but he was unequal to the task and he sank in sight of his companions.

Help finally arrived and the three were taken from the water. The search was immediately begun for the body of McNulty, which was recovered after several hours' work.

Thomas McNulty of West Duluth, was notified of the accident and he and Frank Kelly of Proctor, a cousin of the young man, left for Eveleth to take charge of the body, which will be brought to Duluth and sent over the D. S. S. & A. railroad tonight to Marquette, Mich., for interment.

Mr. McNulty was about 24 years of age, and was born and raised in Marquette. His parents died in that city some years ago. He came to Duluth about five years ago and was for a time employed at the First National bank. He held several other positions in the city before going to the range. He was well known in West Duluth, having spent some time here with his brother. Besides his brother here, he has a brother, Lee, at Hibbing, John at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., a married sister at Ishpeming, Mich., and two other sisters living with her.

DIED IN CHARLESTON.

James H. Browne Passed Away in the East Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Browne of 547 North Fifty-eighth avenue west, who left Friday night for Charleston, W. Va., in response to a message announcing the serious illness of their son, James H. Jr., returned to West Duluth yesterday noon, having been met at Chicago by a telegram, announcing the death of the young man Saturday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Browne were met en route by their three daughters from Minneapolis, and on receiving news of their son's demise, the parents did not feel equal to making the remainder of the journey and returned home, the others proceeding to Charleston.

James H. Browne, Jr., was 23 years of age on the day of his death and had spent the greater part of his life, up to leaving for the East, in West Duluth, where hundreds of friends mourn his demise. He was educated in the public schools here and graduated from the Central High school in the class of 1904. After graduation, he went to Washington, where he entered a technical school, where he studied electrical engineering. Over a year ago he went to Charleston, where he followed his profession in the employ of an uncle, a contractor.

Last Wednesday he was taken suddenly ill with appendicitis and an operation was performed in the hope of saving his life. It was unsuccessful and when his parents were informed of his illness, they were given to understand that there was no hope for recovery, and they left in the hope of being at his bedside before the end came. The funeral was held today in Washington, D. C.

Trampled by Horse.

Val Churcher, a driver in the employ of H. R. Patterson, had a strenuous time Saturday with a horse which became stuck in the clay mud on Cody street near Sixty-first avenue. When the horse first sank in the mud, Churcher attempted to release it and he was knocked down, the horse falling on him. The crowd which gathered was unable to assist him, so the police were called and horse and man finally released. Beyond a few bruises, Churcher was none the worse for the accident.

NO LIGHTS ON BRIDGE

And Workmen Were Afraid to Use Emergency Rig.

Auxiliary Current Was Turned Off Only Last Friday.

The early reports of the accident to the aerial bridge last night, which marooned 400 on the south pier during the sharp thunder storm of last evening and kept them there until 1:30 this morning, left out some of the interesting details of the affair.

There is an emergency rig on the bridge, provided for just such situations as occurred last night, but the fact that it had not been used and ran so hard as to make progress extremely slow, made the men in charge afraid to try it for fear that they should be in the middle of the canal when a boat was coming through. There were no lights on the bridge, as all the electrics went out when the power dropped, and there would have been nothing to warn an ingoing or outgoing steamer of the fact that the car was in the middle of the channel.

The accident was the hardest kind of hard luck. Only Friday the street car company notified the board of public works that owing to the fact that they were making repairs on lower Lake avenue they would be unable to furnish the auxiliary current, which has been kept as a reserve force ever since the bridge was put in operation, but as this current has never been called for before, the board thought that it would be all right to trust to the main current for two days, which was the time set by the company. This is the first time that any such accident has occurred or that the Duluth-Edison Electric company, whose circuit was burned out, has failed to furnish power.

City Engineer McGilvray and O. G. Olson of the board of public works, together with Foreman Anderson and the other bridge employes put in a strenuous night of it. Mr. McGilvray tried every means in his power to get transportation for the crowd before the bridge was repaired. He telephoned to the tug companies, only to be turned down because of the fact that they had no passenger licenses and were afraid to risk a violation of the law. He telephoned to Manager Clow of the Newsboy and Mr. Clow said that his crew had scattered to their homes after fourteen hours of hard work and that he could not get them together again. The life savers were then importuned to get their launch in commission, but they said they would have to have an order from Washington before they would go out with the boat on such a mission.

The report which was circulated to the effect that the bridge was struck by lightning and the tale of the fainting women, etc., was a mistake. The lightning struck the electric wires somewhere on Lake avenue, but not near the bridge, and burned out a fuse in a box on an electric light pole about half a block from the bridge.

High School Athletes Elect Officers and Maccabees Hold Reunion.

Calumet, Mich., June 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Calumet High School Athletic association has elected the following officers: President, William Lauers; vice president, Juda Batvidson; secretary, Jean Anderson; treasurer, Lloyd Vivian.

The Knights of the Maccabees of the Copper country held a notable reunion Saturday at Laurium. The principal business places were decorated for the occasion and the day was a perfect one. Many of the grand lodge officers were in attendance. The parade, headed by the Calumet & Hecla band was a long one and was viewed by thousands of people. The program and various events of the day were enthusiastically carried out.

While a hack and a hearse were being driven to the Carter funeral Saturday the horses attached to the hack became frightened and totally destroyed a valuable hack. The hearse which was a costly one, was more or less demolished. Both vehicles were owned by John R. Regan, the Sixth street liveryman. They were being driven to Laurium, when the accident occurred. The drivers escaped unhurt.

HIGH PRICES IN ALASKA.

Portland Oregonian: "Conditions are generally prosperous in Alaska," said Stonewall J. Vaughan of Oregon City, who has been in the government service for some time in the North, and is home for a visit with his relatives.

"There is wealth in plenty to be had in Alaska gold fields, and there are a great many after it. The common laborer receives $3 a day and his board, while the skilled mechanic receives a much higher wage. For instance, the carpenter receives as much as from $7 to $8 a day with board, and other experienced tradesmen in proportion. The cost of living, however, is correspondingly high. A sack of potatoes weighing 100 pounds sells for $4.50, as does also a sack of apples of the same weight. Refrigerator chickens sell for 30 cents a pound, and beef of all kinds brings 25 cents a pound. Rents are high, a two-room cabin bringing from $18 to $20 a month.

From carrying the mail from Valdez to Fairbanks, a distance of 500 miles, the contractor receives $64,000 for eight months' work. This may appear enormously high, but when one is acquainted with the service that is required the compensation seems only within reason. The contract covers eight months of the year, from October to May inclusive, the mail being delivered the other four months of the year via St. Michaels and up the Yukon river. The rates for passengers over the stage route during the eight months of the year is $150 a passenger, exclusive of meals, which must be purchased at stations for from 75 cents to $2 a meal."

WHEN IT WENT WRONG.

New York Tribune: At a dinner recently given by a Wall street man, who is known for his hospitality, gambling was the subject of conversation, and many stories were told to show how the turn of the cards, or of the wheel had made fortunes for some men and had made beggars of others. The host told of one man who, after pawning his watch at Ostend, played and retrieved a fortune which had been lost, and won "another for good measure." Similar stories were told by other members of the dinner company, and the subject seemed to have been exhausted, when a quiet man, who has the reputation for daring on the floor of the exchange, said: "Some years ago, when John Morrissey ran the Saratoga clubhouse, I saw a young man there, whose father I knew, chip away thousands at the red and black game. He had been at it for three days, and I was present when his last chip was raked in. We walked out together, and when we reached Broadway he said: 'I feel it in me that if I could go right back now and begin where I left off I'd win. His manner impressed me, and I staked him for a hundred and went back to the club. Now, from that little starter, what do you think he won?" After all had guessed, naming sums away into the hundreds of thousands, he said: "He lost the hundred and owes it to me yet."

DEFENSE TO TRY TO SHOW ORCHARD HATED GOVERNOR

Witnesses to Testify of Threats Against Stuenenberg.

Closely Examined by Attorney With View of Impeachment.

Boise, Idaho, June 18.—All the members of the Haywood family were in the seats near the prisoner when the case against William D. Haywood was resumed at 9:30 this morning in the Ada county district court. During the intermission since adjournment of Saturday a large number of witnesses have arrived in Boise. The courtroom was only about half filled at the opening of the trial, however. J. T. Nichols, deputy sheriff of Canyon county, and in charge of the jail at Caldwell at the time of Orchard's arrest after the murder of Former Governor Steunenberg, was present. Orchard in his statement from the stand said that while in the jail at Caldwell he received a letter from Pettibone. The original was destroyed by Orchard, but Nichols made a copy of it before giving it to Orchard. The copy was identified by Nichols. A section of the original envelop was also produced and identified.

The letter was not read. The witness said that it was not signed. The witness testified that Fred Miller, a lawyer of Spokane, had called on Orchard shortly after he was placed in the Caldwell jail. Miller is now one of the attorneys for the defense. Nichols said that Orchard had not sent a telegram summoning Miller, but that he had received a telegram signed "M."

A copy of the telegram was produced and identified by the witness. Nichols was proceeding to tell of a conversation with Miller when the defense raised objection after objection, and after argument the testimony was admitted. Nichols said that Miller had told him that money sent to Orchard should be turned over to Miller, as his attorney.

Nichols was allowed to go without any cross-examination, and Harry Orchard was called.

E. F. Richardson at once commenced the cross-examination. It became evident that the defense proposed to bring a number of witnesses to prove that Orchard had for years nursed a

NEW YORK MILITIA DOES GOOD WORK

Are Specially Praised for Repelling Sham Attack.

Washington, June 18.—Gen. Murray, chief of artillery, has returned from New York, where he was an observer of the joint operations of the regular coast artillerymen and the New York state militia in repelling the sham naval attack upon the defenses of New York. Having planned these joint drills with the special purpose of ensuring the existence of a sufficient force of trained volunteers to make good the great deficiency in numbers of the regular coast artillery, Gen. Murray is extremely gratified with the exhibition of interest and enthusiasm shown by the New York national guardsmen in the successful work of last week. It is proposed to make a study of the topography of the country so thorough that the militia men will know intuitively and in the darkest night just where lay every ridge and depression and natural obstacles so that they can fight to the best of advantage in repelling an attack. As this sort of expert knowledge cannot be accumulated in a few days, it is Gen. Murray's plans to have certain organizations of the national guard permanently assigned, year by year, to the same defensive zones, so that they may become thoroughly familiar with its strong points and weakness. Of course, this can only be done by the hearty co-operation of the officers of the national guard in the various states.

SUN YAT SEN,

Leader of Chinese Revolutionists, Has Charge in the Field.

Victoria, June 18.—Further advices regarding the rebellion in South China, received by the steamer Mont Eagle yesterday, state that Sun Yat Sen, who for years has been organizing an anti-dynastic revolution in China, left Tokio a few weeks before the outbreak, and is reported leading the revolutionists near Swatow, having taken the field May 22. Kuoping and Lin Ching suffered similar fates. The government troops on the island of Manwo were attacked on May 27 and defeated, the revolutionists then marching upon Cha Chow, which also fell into their hands, and all the officials were promptly killed. Thousands of refugees fled to Swatow, where foreign warships assembled to protect the city. The Jiji Shimpo, referring to the rebellion, says that with equally equipped troops the revolution must be crushed.

NEILL WILL INVESTIGATE TELEGRAPHERS' PLAINT

CHARLES P. NEILL, Commissioner of Labor, Who Is to Investigate the Troubles of the Telegraphers.

Labor Commissioner to Represent President in Controversy.

Will Hear Both Sides and Then Report to Executive.

New York, June 18.—Charles P. Neill, United States labor commissioner, is expected to arrive in New York from Washington to investigate the threatened strike of telegraphers against the Western Union & Postal Telegraph companies. It is stated that Mr. Neill will hear both sides of the controversy, and then report to President Roosevelt.

The question at stake is the 10 per cent increase in wages, which the two companies promised to give on March 1 last. The two companies declare emphatically that they did give the 10 per cent increase, while the telegraphers contend that only a few favorites received the increase, while more than 90 per cent of the men are getting even less than they were receiving March 1.

The officials of the Western Union Telegraph company will not talk on the subject beyond saying that there are no grievances on the part of those employed by the company. It was said on behalf of the company that there would be no conference between the officials of the company and the parties who have manifested an interest in the telegraphers' complaint. This would not apply, however, to any investigation to be made by Commissioner Neill, as a government official.

LOYALTY OF THE TROOPS

Will Prevent an Outbreak in Russia at Present.

A Speedy Resumption of Terrorist Reign is Expected.

St. Petersburg, June 18.—The return of the guard regiments to their summer camp at Krasnoyo-Selo indicates that the authorities have definitely ceased to reckon on an outbreak of disorder at the capital, following the coup d'etat. This view is confirmed by the action of the revolutionary parties in declaring against armed outbreaks at the present time, when the troops are loyal to the government. A high official of the lower house says the speedy resumption of the terrorist reign may be expected. "This, as in the days of M. Siplagsne and M. Plehve being the only means available for striking fear into the hearts of government officials." He also predicted an extensive outbreak of agrarian disorders in several districts within two or three weeks. The absence of a general strike, however, leaves the administration's hands free to deal with the riotous peasantry. The province of Vologada, where an agitation has already begun, was today proclaimed to be a place of minor martial law. The guards at the railroad stations are retained.

JUMPS THROUGH A CAR WINDOW

Prisoner Makes Daring Attempt to Escape, But Loses Leg.

Akron, Ohio, June 18.—Wilford McMillen, a prisoner, while being brought here from Chicago, leaped through a car window on a swiftly-moving train at Barberton, today, in an attempt to escape. He fell under the wheels and his right leg was cut off. He asked for a drink of water, and was at the tank with the officer who had him in charge when he made the leap, going through two panes of glass.

McMillen is charged with stealing $400 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Anna Conner of this city.

FORMOSANS DRIVEN OUT

Japanese Are Forcing Natives From Their Island.

Strong Resistance to Invaders is of No Avail.

Victoria, June 18.—Advices from Formosa by the steamer Mont Eagle tell of brisk fighting between the Japanese and Formosan natives. The Japanese have organized drives with a daily extended line, gradually forcing back the natives who hold three-fifths of Formosa and number 100,000. After months of Guerilla warfare in which numerous camphor workers were killed, 5,000 Japanese troops were sent to systematically drive the natives into submission.

The program is that each advance is made permanent by the construction, etc. To date, 1,378 square miles have been covered in this manner. The natives are fighting desperately.

MONTANA TOWN IS DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Butte, Mont., June 18.—A dispatch to the Miner from Harlowton, Mont., says: Fire which broke out in Marshall's general store from a gasoline explosion, has practically destroyed this village. Before the fire could be controlled, everything in the business streets had been burned except one store and the railroad station. Loss $128,000.

FAST TRAIN ON BIG FOUR WRECKED NEAR COLUMBUS

Runs Through Open Switch While Going at High Speed.

Entire Train Turns Over Scattering Passengers About.

Fireman Fatally, and Several Others Badly Injured.

Columbus, Ohio, June 18.—Big Four passenger train, No. 19, one of the fastest trains on the New York Central lines, went through an open switch today in the northern part of the city, and is now lying on its side along the track. Several passengers were seriously injured. Many of them are wondering how they escaped being instantly killed.

The train was rushing along, according to one of the passengers, at fifty miles an hour when it struck the switch, throwing the passengers in every direction. The tender of the engine ran along the side of the track for some distance and then plunged into the ground about twenty-five feet. The engine continued along the side of the track for 200 yards, and then turned over as did the rest of the train. Engineer William T. Smith remained at his post and was uninjured. His fireman, Joseph Mahaffey, of Cleveland, jumped and was probably fatally injured.

The seriously injured are: Mrs. Elizabeth Lowrey, aged 60, Cleveland, hip injured; J. G. Creegan, Cleveland, back sprained; H. L. Reed, Mansfield, Ohio, face cut; Mrs. Dr. Hyndman, New York, back hurt and body bruised.

It is not believed that any of the injured except the fireman will die.

The track followed by the wrecked flyer was a spur leading to one of the factories here. It has not been determined whether the switch was left open by a switching crew or whether the engine followed the side track on account of a defective switch. Officials are of the opinion that the switch was either tampered with or carelessly left open.

MRS. POTTER PALMER TO WED AN ENGLISH EARL

Engagement of Famous Chicago Woman is Announced.

Peer Has Little Money, But She Has Enough for Both.

Chicago, June 18.—The Tribune last night received advices from London telling of the engagement of Mrs. Potter Palmer to Aubrey Fitz-Clarence, Earl of Munster and Baron of Tewkesbury. The wedding will take place in London in the fall.

He has had no public career other than that of gentleman usher to King Edward. Mrs. Palmer will bring an income of more than $350,000 a year, derived from the Chicago real estate and other properties left by Palmer at his death in 1902. In 1902, this estate was estimated to be worth $8,000,000, and has steadily increased in value.

ROYALTY AT ASCOT

Ascot, Eng., June 18.—Despite an overcast sky the gathering at Ascot today for the opening of the great four-days' race meeting was the most brilliant of recent years. The houses in the vicinity, for which fabulous rents are paid for a few days' use, turned hundreds of society people on to the famous heath, while thousands of others motored from London.

King Edward and Queen Alexandra, with their guests, including the prince and princess of Wales and Prince and Princess Andrew of Greece, drove in state from Windsor, where their majesties are entertaining a house party for the meeting. There were ten carriages in the royal procession, which was preceded by an escort of cavalry, and accompanied by outriders, which made a brilliant spectacle as they passed the crowds of beautifully dressed women and their escorts on their way to the royal enclosure. On account of the crush of recent years, the strictest rules were enforced to prevent the uninvited from entering the enclosure, with the result that it was not so crowded as usual. There was a large gathering of Americans, those receiving invitations to view the races from the royal enclosure being: Ambassador Whitelaw Reid, Mrs. Reid and all the members of the United States embassy and their wives, Miss Carter, Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs. Potter Palmer Mrs. Cass Canfield, Mrs. Ogden Mills, Miss Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Beekman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mackay and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel. There were of course, many Anglo-Americans present.

Among those Americans who are entertaining house parties for the week are: Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin, who have Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid as guests; Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel, Mrs. Adair, Mrs. Chauncey, Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. McCrery, Mrs. Marshall Field and D. Beattie.

Chicago, June 18.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Des Moines, says: Mrs. Scott M. Ladd, wife of Justice Ladd of the Iowa supreme court, was arrested here last night for disturbing the peace at the peculiar religious services over which she presides.

At the religious services, which Mrs. Ladd has been conducting, the devotees fall on the floor like epileptics, leap into the air, chatter, scream, gnash their teeth, or beat themselves over the head.

Midshipman Ulrich's body was taken to the naval hospital at Portsmouth to be prepared for shipment. The first of the recovered bodies of the midshipmen to be forwarded to the respective homes of the deceased for interment was that of Midshipman F. P. At the hospital an undertaker is preparing the bodies of Midshipmen Field, Stevenson and Ulrich for shipment, the body of Fireman Westphal, the first to be recovered, having been forwarded to Neenah, Wis., for interment.

ROYALTY AT ASCOT

Ascot, Eng., June 18.—Despite an overcast sky the gathering at Ascot today for the opening of the great four-days' race meeting was the most brilliant of recent years. The houses in the vicinity, for which fabulous rents are paid for a few days' use, turned hundreds of society people on to the famous heath, while thousands of others motored from London.

King Edward and Queen Alexandra, with their guests, including the prince and princess of Wales and Prince and Princess Andrew of Greece, drove in state from Windsor, where their majesties are entertaining a house party for the meeting. There were ten carriages in the royal procession, which was preceded by an escort of cavalry, and accompanied by outriders, which made a brilliant spectacle as they passed the crowds of beautifully dressed women and their escorts on their way to the royal enclosure. On account of the crush of recent years, the strictest rules were enforced to prevent the uninvited from entering the enclosure, with the result that it was not so crowded as usual. There was a large gathering of Americans, those receiving invitations to view the races from the royal enclosure being: Ambassador Whitelaw Reid, Mrs. Reid and all the members of the United States embassy and their wives, Miss Carter, Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs. Potter Palmer Mrs. Cass Canfield, Mrs. Ogden Mills, Miss Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Beekman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mackay and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel. There were of course, many Anglo-Americans present.

Among those Americans who are entertaining house parties for the week are: Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin, who have Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid as guests; Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel, Mrs. Adair, Mrs. Chauncey, Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. McCrery, Mrs. Marshall Field and D. Beattie.

JUSTICE'S WIFE DISTURBS PEACE

Iowa Woman Arrested for Antics at a Religious Meet.

Chicago, June 18.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Des Moines, says: Mrs. Scott M. Ladd, wife of Justice Ladd of the Iowa supreme court, was arrested here last night for disturbing the peace at the peculiar religious services over which she presides.

At the religious services, which Mrs. Ladd has been conducting, the devotees fall on the floor like epileptics, leap into the air, chatter, scream, gnash their teeth, or beat themselves over the head.

FIVE BODIES RECOVERED

Remains of Midshipmen Are Being Sent to Their Homes.

Norfolk, Va., June 18.—The body of Midshipman Walter Carl Ulrich of Milwaukee, one of those who went down on the ill-fated launch of the battleship Minnesota in Hampton Roads a week today, was found late yesterday afternoon. This makes five bodies recovered thus far, those in addition to Ulrich being Midshipmen Field, Stevenson and Holcomb and Fireman Westphal.

Midshipman Ulrich's body was taken to the naval hospital at Portsmouth to be prepared for shipment. The first of the recovered bodies of the midshipmen to be forwarded to the respective homes of the deceased for interment was that of Midshipman F. P. Holcomb, which was turned over to Thomas Holcomb, father of the deceased, today and shipped at once to New Castle, Del., where the burial will occur. At the hospital an undertaker is preparing the bodies of Midshipmen Field, Stevenson and Ulrich for shipment, the body of Fireman Westphal, the first to be recovered, having been forwarded to Neenah, Wis., for interment.

IN A FRENZY OF DELIRIUM

Raving and Shrieking, Camp Meeting Followers Enjoy Religious Orgy.

Alliance, Ohio, June 18.—Rev. Levi P. Lupton, leader of the new religious sect called the Gift of Tongues, on Sunday worked his audience of 500 men, women and childen into a frenzy of delirium. The scenes enacted at the camp meeting three miles east of Alliance were never before heard of. Women raved and men frothed at the mouth while declaring knowledge of strong languages. Whites and blacks mingled together and yelled and shrieked as if mad.

During the meeting shouts of "Haalelujah," "Open the passageway" and "Amen" rang through all parts of the tabernacle. Women went into hysteries, moaning and screaming. One woman reclined on her back for two hours in a cataleptic spasm, while a negress, repeatedly asked that "her evil spirit" be cast out. An elderly man finally went to the negress and told her "to send the demons to the pit" where they belonged.

In the meantime a negro was "possessed of the 'spirit'" and began to shout "hallelujah." A woman about 30 years old and of refined appearance threw up her hands, shouting: "Oh, God; oh, God," and rushing forward, fell prostrate to the ground with chattering teeth and rolling eyes. She waved her hands about and screamed.

Early in January last Rev. Mr. Lupton announced to the members of his church that he suddenly had been endowed by the Creator with the power of conversing in unknown tongues. As an evidence of his accomplishment the preacher began to chatter in an unknown language. Hundreds of men and women went to Alliance to be "near the fountain head of knowledge."

A few days later it was discovered Lupton had been taking lessons from a phonograph school and the excitement died down.

GREAT INTEREST IN ENGAGEMENT

Rena Vivienne Will Appear at Lyceum Next Monday.

No coming event is attracting so much attention locally as the coming of Rena Vivienne of "Madame Butterfly" fame, next Monday evening, June 24. While better known to the world as Rena Vivienne, Duluth friends of the charming and talented young actress and singer still think of her as plain Rena Smith.

As has been announced, Miss Smith will appear here in concert under the auspices of St. Paul's church. The Lyceum has been secured for the occasion, in order that the largest possible number of people may be accommodated. It is a very kind concession of Henry W. Savage, Miss Smith's manager, to grant her an opportunity to sing in her home town once more before going abroad, and this fact is heartily appreciated by Duluthians. Duluth is the only place in the West in which she will sing. The fact that, owing to sickness, she was unable to appear here in "Madame Butterfly," will mean a crowded house next Monday.

From here the singer will go to Italy for a brief vacation, and she will then join the Henry W. Savage grand opera company in London. It may be a good many years before her Duluth friends will again have a chance to see and hear Miss Smith.

POOL TOURNAMENT.

Finals in Event at Ideal Pool Hall Tonight.

A decidedly interesting pool tournament is being played at the Ideal pool hall by four of Duluth's cue experts—Roy Nabs, Charles Westberg, Guy Cummings and Mike Nurich are the contestants, and two games were played last Friday night. On Friday Westburg beat Nurich, and last night Nabs beat Cummings. Westberg and Nabs will come together tonight. Each man will play nine games.

The preliminary games were characterized as some of the best pool seen here. Nurich is a decidedly promising man, being comparatively new at the game, but playing in fine style.

Normal School Opens.

Following out the provisions of an act passed by the state legislature during the last session, requiring that all normal schools in Minnesota conduct a twelve weeks' session during the summer months the Duluth normal opened this morning, with a full corps of teachers employed. The summer school gives country teachers an opportunity to prepare themselves for advanced grades.

Mother Sues Laundry Concern.

Maggie Delaski, guardian for her daughter, Tozza Delaski, has sued Charlotte Clark, proprietress of the Troy laundry, for $5,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been received by the Delaski girl while in the defendant's employ. It is claimed that her right arm and hand were badly torn in a mangler, Oct. 24, 1906, and that they have been permanently impaired from service. It is also claimed that the defendant did not have on file a certificate from the superintendent of schools enabling the girl to work under the provisions of the revised statutes of 1905.

Pleads Not Guilty.

Joseuh Zaltek was arraigned in municipal court yesterday charged, on a warrant sworn out by his wife, with having committed an asault on her Saturday. Zaltek pleaded not guilty and declared that a great injustice had been done him. He said his wife had beaten him more than he beat her. He said that she had slapped him in the mouth Saturday before he shoved her to the floor.

Telephones Not Working.

The fire at the street railway powerhouse last night put the Superior lines of the Duluth Telephone company, together with some of its long-distance wires, out of commission. They were not working during the night nor during the earlier part of the day. Some of the wires were put in order before noon, and it is expected that all the damage will have been repaired before this evening.

Court Hears Appeals.

It was expected that there would be a hearing before Judge Ensign, this afternoon in the matter of about ten or twelve appeal cases from the awards of the commission appointed to appraise the lands sought under condemnation proceedings by the Wisconsin Central Railway company. The appeals were, in most instances, taken by both the railway company and the owners. Some of the appeal cases have already been heard and the awards by the appraisers were cut down substantially.

Will Condemn Land.

The Eastern Minnesota Railway company of Minnesota has begun condemnation proceedings in the district court to acquire a strip of land 200 feet wide adjoining its right of way in section 16, 56-18. Judge Dibell has appointed W. E. Whipple, Charles L. Rakoksky and U. G. Holloway, a commission to appraise the land.

State Has No Record of Investigations by the Legislature.

St. Paul, June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The late legislature in its various investigations spent over $10,000 of the state's money on taking testimony, paying witnesses, employing stenographers and making trips over the state, but it is of note that there is little on file in the shape of results.

Inquiries are daily received and requests made for permission to see copies of the testimony taken in the half dozen or more investigations made, but Secretary of State Schmahl, in whose custody they should be, is compelled to refuse the requests. The transcripts in each case have disappeared. The fact is they were never turned over to the secretary by the officers of the two houses, though he has made repeated demands for them.

Those missing from the legislative files include the Hill-Steel trust ore land deal, the coal and lumber combine, testimony taken by the house committee on its trip over the iron range to investigate iron mine taxation, the investigations into the chambers of commerce of Minneapolis and Duluth, the harvester trust, the twine trust and the combine which has the printing of the supreme court proceedings.

FOREST FIRES IN MICHIGAN

Disastrous Conflagration Raging in the Upper Peninsula.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 18.—An Evening Wisconsin special from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., says: Although light rain fell last night forest fires are still raging in parts of the upper peninsula and in Northern Ontario. The damage is large and reports today are more pessimistic than yesterday. The blaze at Strong's is under control. A fire engine was sent from this city.

It is reported that at Webbwood three people burned to death, but this is not confirmed. The country along the Algoma Central for miles is said to have been swept by flames.

Many mills are in danger and some lumbermen here lost all their supply. The fire is said to have been accidentally started by settlers who are clearing land and by careless rivermen.

Mr. Earle was a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln, and until his death was the oldest surviving delegate of the first Republican national convention which nominated Fremont for the presidency. He was a member of the local bar, and in the early fifties was an ardent abolitionist and became chief attorney for alleged slaves captured under the provisions of the fugitive slave law. At the close of the Civil war he directed his energies toward municipal reform, and he was a conspicuous member of the famous committee of 100 of this city which conducted a number of successful reform campaigns.

GANG OF BOYS

New York, June 18.—Officials of the New York Central railroads have advices from Columbus, Ohio, which they say indicate that the open switch which wrecked the Big Four express No. 19, at North Columbus, Ohio, today was thrown open by a gang of boys. The superintendent of the Big Four at Columbus telegraphing to the officials of the railroads states that another train passed over the road twenty minutes before No. 19 came along, and the engineer noticed a crowd of boys near the switch, which controlled the spur of track into the sewer pipe works, where the wreck occurred.

TO DISCUSS LAND QUESTION

Nearly 1,000 Citizens of Central West Meet at Denver.

Denver, Colo., June 18.—Called together for discussion of the public land question, with a view to formulating a policy and urging legislation in accordance therewith, nearly 1,000 citizens, representing all the trans-Missouri states, met in convention today. From Washington have come James R. Garfield, secretary of the interior; Gifford Pinchot, chief of the forestry department; F. H. Newell, head of the reclamation service, and R. A. Ballinger, commissioner of the general land office, representing President Roosevelt, and prepared to give all possible information as to the policies of the administration regarding the control and regulation of the public lands.

United States Senator Carter of Montana, who was chosen temporary chairman in caucus last night, made the following statement today, before the convention assembled, regarding the position of President Roosevelt on the public land questions:

"The president is irrevocably opposed, it seems, to the continuance of the free and unregulated range, but is not absolutely committed to any particular scheme for the accomplishment of this purpose. This is what he informed me. The policy, as I am informed by him, is the regulation of the public ranges of the West by the government.

"The president added that if it was found there were any harsh rules in force in the administration of the policies, these harsh rules, not the policies, would be modified."

F. H. Tilson has returned from the Greenwater gold district, just about fifty miles over the Nevada line, in California. He has been there since last December, being interested in the Golden Crescent group. He says the Golden Crescent and most of the other good mines of the district are looking very well.

Improvements are going on there all the time and high grade gold in large quantities is being taken out he says. More than $1,000,000 is being spent in water pipes from Telescope Peak to Schwab's camp, Skiddoo. The length of the pipe is something like twenty-eight miles.

"People in Duluth are kicking about the weather here today," said Mr. Tilson, "they say it is too hot. They should live in the Greenwater district. The temperature has averaged 112 and 114 degrees there for some time. It is dry, though, and a person does not seem to notice the heat so much."

Mr. Tilson will spend some time here before returning to the West.

A dispatch from Globe, Ariz., to Paine, Webber & Co., says: "No. 3 crosscut on the fourteenth level of the Old Dominion has gone through the sulphide vein to the hanging wall. It was thirty feet wide and the average of 10 per cent copper was maintained. After going through thirty-five feet of sulphide ore when the vein was first cut in No. 3 crosscut a horse was encountered which was forty feet wide, but as ore was again struck beyond the horse there is sixty-five feet of high grade sulphide ore in this crosscut. This compares with eighty feet of ore in No. 3 crosscut. The company is now extracting 200 tons of ore daily from the fourteenth level."

FORTY HOURS WITHOUT DRINK

Remarkable Experience of Nineteen-Months-Old Baby.

Boise, June 18.—Toddling along in a wilderness of towering sagebrush, his throat parched with thirst of forty hours, his sturdy little legs torn and bleeding from briar thorns, the nineteen-months-old baby boy of Lawrence Marsh, residing near Caldwell was found today alive and prattling to himself after a search which began with the child's disappearance on Saturday, find for which a posse of several hundred men was employed.

"Pony, baby ride pony?" the youngster questioned to a member of the posse with glistening eyes.

"You bet you can, bless your dear little heart," was the answer.

THE GOVERNMENT FINALLY UPHELD

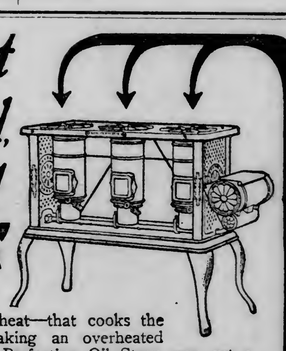

Considerable Excitement in French House of Deputies.

Paris, June 18.—The action of the government in determining to prosecute the agitators in the South of France led to a lively debate in the chamber of deputies today, but after a tumultuous session the cabinet secured an indirect vote of confidence by the large majority of 254.

Premier Clemenceau refused to agree to the immediate discussion of an interpellation on the subject of the government's plans and demanded that the motion be postponed until June 26. In a speech which was frequently interrupted by noisy protests he declared that all means of conciliation were now exhausted, and that as chief of the government he was bound to enforce respect for the law. The committee at Argelliers had set itself up in place of the central government. If the chamber defeated the postponement of the interpellation he would immediately countermand the prosecutions, and the chamber would be responsible for the grave consequences.

The government's motion was finally adopted, amid wild excitement by 412 to 158 votes.

WEST DULUTH

IMPROVE FAIRMOUNT

Park Board Plans Playground at West Duluth Park.

Western Suburb Will Benefit From New Bond Issue.

West Duluth people, interested in the beautifying of the city by the establishing of parks and the improvement of those already in existence, were well pleased with the action of the council Monday night in giving the ordinance providing for an issue of $50,000 in park bonds its first reading. It is the general impression that the ordinance will go through next Monday night and the money be available for the park board.

West Duluth people are interested in the movement for the improvement of the city's park, because announcement has been made that a goodly portion of the amount obtained will be expended in the western part of the city. Mayor Cullum's opinion that the western part of the city is not sufficiently supplied with parks, is shared by West Duluth citizens generally and they will be pleased to see some of the funds expended for breathing places for them and their families.

It has been unofficially stated by members of the park board that, if the desired amount of money is secured, a play ground will be established in Fairmount park. The park at present, while a pretty spot and a cool, shady place on warm summer days, is not improved as it should be and only by the expenditure of a considerable sum of money could it be put in a condition desirable for a municipal park. The playground is desired, perhaps, more than any other feature, which might be added. The children now have no portion of the park tract given over to their exclusive use and they and their elders would appreciate the proposed improvement.

The location of the playground is said to be on the flat tract near the creek, toward Grand avenue. It is also said that an entrance to the park will be provided at that place, which is more convenient for a large number of West Duluth people than is the present entrance. The proposed improvements are not likely to be entirely completed this season, but next year will very probably see Fairmount park so improved as to be placed well up among the pleasure grounds of the city.

MANY ATTENDING MISSION.

Dominican Fathers Drawing Large Congregations at St. James.

The second day's mission services at St. James' church yesterday brought out an attendance which promises a most successful week. Both morning and evening, the edifice was well filled, and the sermons made a profund impression.

Masses are held each morning at 5 o'clock and 8:30 o'clock, and each evening at 7:45 a preaching service is held. The Dominican Fathers holding the mission are powerful speakers and deep thinkers, and the sermons thus far have been a source of instruction and pleasure to their congregations. They preach at each service, the early morning sermon being a short instruction.

Had to Walk Home.

The fire at the street railway powerhouse and the consequent tying up of street car lines seriously inconvenienced a large number of West Duluth people last night. There were probably 200 or 300 people from this end of the city in Duluth, when the accident occurred and they found themselves in anything but a comfortable position. Some reached home by train, which left Duluth shortly after 11 o'clock, some took hacks and paid fancy prices to the drivers, and a goodly number walked. The fact that the weather was fine made the trip of the latter class less of a hardship, but they don't care to repeat it very often.

ENTIRE CREW OF TUGBOAT

Summoned to Give Evidence Relating to Sinking of Launch.

Norfolk, Va., June 18.—The entire crew of the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk tug Crisfield, was ordered to appear before Supervising Steamboat Inspector Oast today for an examination to determine whether that boat, or its tow, is responsible for the recent wrecking of the Minnesota's launch and drowning the eleven men of the navy.

It was announced that the hearing would be rigid and open to the public. The government officers are said to be confident that the tug's steel tow hawser struck the launch, stove in its side and upset it in the roads.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Instructed to Help Japanese in Case They Bring Suit.

San Francisco, June 18.—United States District Attorney Devlin yesterday received a letter from Attorney General Bonaparte in response to that which he sent containing a report on the riot through which a Japanese restaurant was damaged. It is reported, that he has been instructed to lend whatever assistance he can to the Japanese, should either the Japanese government or the owners of the restaurant begin suit against the city or the state on account of the damage done. In either case the suit would have to be brought in the federal court, as the plaintiffs would be aliens.

A UNIVERSAL FOOD.

Following Nature's Footsteps.

"I have a boy two years old, weighing forty pounds and in perfect health who has been raised on Grape-Nuts and milk.

"This is an ideal food and evidently furnishes the elements necessary for a baby as well as for adults. We have used Grape-Nuts in large quantities and greatly to our advantage."

One advantage about Grape-Nuts Food is that it is pre-digested in the process of manufacture; that is, the starch contained in the wheat and barley is transformed into grape-sugar by exactly the same method as this process is carried out in the human body, that is, by the use of moisture and long exposure to moderate warmth, which grows the diastase in the grains and makes the remarkable change from starch to grape-sugar.

Therefore, the most delicate stomach can handle Grape-Nuts and the food is quickly absorbed into the blood and tissue, certain parts of it going directly to building and nourishing the brain and nerve centres. "There's a Reason."

WERE MADE DESPERATE

Two Men Try to Get Buggy Ride by Force.

Policeman Came to Aid of Driver and Arrest Followed.

That a complete tie-up of street car service will drive people to decidedly desperate straits, especially in a town as elongated as the Zenith City, was demonstrated last evening when the tactics of two young men on West Superior street got them each into the arms of the law.

Amos Sharkey was down town last evening with a young lady, who resides in the neighborhood of Forty-second avenue west, when the car service was tied up by the fire. He, of course, could not think of letting the young lady walk the weary way homeward, so he hired a horse and buggy and drove her home. He arrived at Forty-second avenue in safety, and left the young lady, but it was on his way back that trouble occurred.

Hugh McKinnon and Joseph Ralph had unfortunately been stranded in the West end when the "juice" went off, and as they lived at Fourth avenue east, and did not have the wherewithal to hire a horse, they were up against a long weary hike. They had reached Seventeenth avenue west when, about 12:30, Sharkey came along with the buggy, and they hailed him as a last hope.

"How's chances for a ride," they called.

"Pretty good," remarked Amos, who was feeling in a fairly amicable state of mind, but did not like to have his reveries interrupted. "How far do you want to go?"

"Fourth avenue east," replied one of the hikers.

"Oh, I am not going anywhere near that far," announced Sharkey, and gathered up the reins to drive on.

The two pedestrains were not willing to see their last hope escape them thus, however. They took the buggy by storm. One of them crawled over the dashboard, breaking it, and the other came upon Sharkey from the rear and attempted to take the reins away from him. Sharkey proved himself a worthy namesake of the little pugilist, however, and they did not succeed in doing this. One of them then grabbed the whip and gave the startled horse a cut. It started up the street, but a workingman, just coming home from work, seeing that something was wrong ran out and grabbed the bridle. The workingman was accompanied by two friends, and a glorious free for all fight ensued during which Officer Olson arrived on the scene and gathered the pair who started the trouble into his custody. They were arraigned in municipal court this morning, and after pleading guilty to a disorderly conduct charge, were fined $32 with a forty day jail alternative. Up to this afternoon they had not secured the money.

One little slice of flesh from the leg of Eugene LaFleur cost Albert Naud just $22 in municipal court this morning. Naud and LaFleur got into an altercation at 1615 Piedmont avenue, and as LaFleur was getting a little the best of it Naud got a pocket knife into action and carved LeFleur's leg. He pleaded guilty to a charge of simple assault this morning before Judge Windom and was fined $22.

COLT BECOMES BADLY SCARED

Dashes Into Show Tent and Severely Injures Several Persons.

Minneapolis, June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frightened by the noise of a wild west show last evening, a colt owned by Fred Reebe of 3315 Clinton avenue, which was tethered in a vacant lot near the show grounds, became loose and dashed into the tent. Ralph Josyln, Ennest Kalanquin and Peter Johnson, street railway employes, who were standing in the street directing the crowds, were knocked down. Kalanquin was probably fatally injured. All are in the hospital.

BRYCE STARTS FOR THE EAST

Guthrie, Okla., June 18.—James Bryce, British ambassador, and his party left here early today for Arkansas, Kas., on their way East, after having spent last night in Guthrie as the guests of Governor and Mrs. Frantz.

Mr. Bryce yesterday smoked the peace pipe with Quanah Parker, the Comanche chief, and watched the Indians in their villages.

Mr. Bryce was quoted as making further comment upon the Oklahoma constitution. "Your proposed constitution," said he, "seems to have a great many experimental ingredients in it. Some of its provisions have been tried, and some are now in use in Switzerland, which I regard as the greatest democracy on earth."

INSANE PRISONER MAKES BOLD DASH FOR LIBERTY

Is Committed to State Asylum at Fergus Falls.

DANIEL P. MAHONEY.

With wrists shackled, and under the guard of several officers who watched every move that he made, Daniel P. Mahoney, who is indicted for the murder of the Mitchell boy at Burnett station last August, was taken before Judge Cant this morning to be examined as to his sanity.

Mahoney Attempts Escape.

The close guard over Mahoney followed his desperate attempt to escape while he was being taken from the county jail to the courtroom. The officers started with Mahoney unshackled. Jailer Walter Butchart stepped out of the jail ahead of him while at his side and directly behind followed Sheriff Bates, and Deputies Michael Horgan, David Butchart and Jailer Joe Allen. The officers rather expected that Mahoney might make some trouble, but they were hardly prepared for the quick move he made as soon as he stepped across the threshold of the jail.

Quick as a flash he jumped by Jailer Butchart and darted across the street, starting with a lead of about fifteen feet. Jailer Walter Butchart was the first to overtake Mahoney just across Third street from the jail, and grappled with him, both men going down. Mahoney attempted to choke Jailer Butchart, but the latter was too active for him and ducked out of the way. Mr. Butchart and the prisoner were hardly down before the other officers were on the spot and Mahoney was pinned down. He fought desperately for a few minutes, striking, kicking and attempting to bite. One of the officers finally got him by the throat and he subsided.

Prisoner Is Shackled.

Mahoney was then led back to the jail, where he resisted the attempts of the officers to put the handcuffs on him. Although the prisoner is wiry and exceedingly muscular, the five officers were too much for him and he was very quickly in restraint.

In the courtroom the dust on his clothes, his pallid appearance and the rumpled condition of his hair were evidences of his struggles to get away.

The testimony, medical and otherwise, indicated beyond any doubt that Mahoney is not in a mental condition to make a defense to the charge under which he is held, and Judge Cant ordered him committed to the state asylum at Fergus Falls until he recovers or is able to conduct his defense intelligently.

Mahoney Talks.

Mahoney, who was placed on the stand in his own behalf, talked rationally enough on subjects other than the murder at Burnett. When he began to talk about the murder it was evident that his mind was far astray. He protested his innocence and declared that the Virgin Mary would defend him. Mahoney claims that the spirits with whom he is almost constantly in communication told him that a man named John Toby was given $1,000 by a Polander to murder the Mitchell boy. The prisoner said Toby was sometimes known by the name of Shea. Later Mahoney declared that he himself sometimes went by the name of John Shea while he was in the New England states. His talk along this line was frequently of the disconnected sort, but every time it seemed to lead back to the one thought that he is innocent of the murder. Some of Mahoney's own testimony indicated a degeneracy, and this condition was further supported by the testimony of Dr. Boyer and Dr. Webster, who have carefully examined and made a thorough study of Mahoney's case.

Doctors Declare Him Insane.

Dr. Boyer said that from a scientific standpoint Mahoney is insane, but from a purely legal standpoint it might be questioned whether he is absolutely insane.

Dr. Boyer said that, judging from the lack of facial expression and other indications, Mahoney is surely degenerating, and that even if he recovers from his present mental condition the degeneracy will increase, and relapses of the mental state may become more frequent and prolonged.

Dr. Boyer said that in his opinion Mahoney, if he committed the crime, was not of a mental caliber to appreciate the enormity of the offense any further than to do what he can to avoid being punished.

Dr. Boyer testified that Mahoney is not mentally capable of carrying on a defense.

Dr. Boyer's views were corroborated by Dr. Webster, who said that in his opinion Mahoney's insanity is real. Dr. Webster thinks Mahoney is not competent mentally to make a defense to the charge now pending. Both physicians have communicated with the authorities in the East where Mahoney was cared for in an insane asylum about 1901 and they found that his symptoms now are similar in many ways to his symptoms then. Mahoney when first sent to an asylum had recovered from typhoid fever, the disease leaving his mind weak.

Expected Mahoney to Go Crazy.

Charles A. Pond, special agent for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway company, who has been following the Mitchell case closely since last fall and through whose efforts Mahoney's antecedents were discovered, told the court many phases of the case and described Mahoney's condition both at the time of his arrest and since. Mr. Pond believes Mahoney to be insane, in fact he said he expected at the time of the arrest that the prisoner would go insane if kept confined long.

County Attorney Norton admitted that in his personal opinion Mahoney is far from rational and that he is incapable of making a defense.

Worry Causes Trouble.

According to the expert medical testimony given this morning, Mahoney's present mental condition is due to worry over his arrest and the charge that has been preferred against him rather than the crime itself, if he did commit it. With the physicians Mahoney talked rationally and displayed an acute memory concerning his past and things he has seen, but the minute the Mitchell case was mentioned he protested his innocence and his mind seemed to wander off on the most improbable things, although the physicians express their opinion that Mahoney really believes what he is talking about.

That Mahoney would not be brought to trial because of insanity was the general opinion of the county authorities and others that have been working on the case. The state claims to have in its possession strong evidence, mainly of a circumstantial nature, but from the turn of events nothing can be done toward a trial until Mahoney recovers his mental equilibrium.

W. E. Whipple has been acting as Mahoney's legal advisor, by order of the court.

Mahoney will be taken to the Fergus Falls institution as soon as the papers are ready.

vengeful spite against Steunenberg, and had repeatedly made threats against him.

"Do you know Max Malich of Denver?" asked Richardson.

"Yes sir."

"Did you in June or July of 1905 say to Max Malich you and he being alone, that you were going to kill Steunenberg, even if you had to swing for it?"

"No sir."

"Did you say that Steunenberg was mean, and that had it not been for Steunenberg you would have been a millionaire, because you had owned a sixteenth share of the Hercules mine, and that Steunenberg had driven you out of the state?"

"No sir."

Orchard was very positive in his replies and showed no hestitation.

Richardson asked him if he knew Lottie Day of Denver, and, meeting her in a room at the Belmont hotel, told her that he intended to kill Steunenberg. This Orchard denied.

Orchard was asked if he had not made similar threats in the hearing and presence of "Kid" Waters of Cripple Creek, and others. He was asked if he had not told Dr. J. S. McGee, formerly of Wallace, that he was a spy and that he was going to "get even" with Steunenberg. He positively denied that he had. A conversation with D. C. Coats, formerly lieutenant governor of Colorado, was repeated by Richardson.

The state then took Orchard over for the re-direct-examination.

J. H. Hawley asked as to his interest in the Hercules mine which he said he sold in March, 1897. This was some time prior to the troubles in the Coeur d'Alenes when, in 1899, Orchard was there and left the state after the blowing up of the concentrator at Wardner. The copy of the letter identified earlier in the morning by Deputy Sheriff Nichols was handed to Orchard and the contents were identified by him. The letter read, in effect:

"Dear Tom—I have received yours and have sent that to Jack. I hope to hear from as to your movements and I hope you will be successful."

There was no signature.

Orchard said in his direct-examination that the letter came from Pettibone.

A copy of a telegram from Spokane was identified by Orchard. The telegram read:

"Attorney Fred Miller—Will start for Caldwell in the morning. M."

Orchard said he had not made any arrangement with Miller, but that in October, 1905, Simpkins had told him that if he ever got into any trouble the firm in Spokane of which Miller was a member, would be a good one.

"What did he mean by your getting into any trouble?" asked Mr. Hawley.

"I suppose he meant trouble over the killing of Steunenberg."

STRUCK BY STREET CAR

Mrs. John Anderson of Billings Park is Mangled.

Little Hope is Entertained for Her Recovery.

Mrs. John Anderson, a woman about 50 years of age, residing at Billings Park, was run down by a street car this morning, receiving injuries which will probably result in her death.

Mrs. Anderson was waiting for the car at Twenty-first street. The motorman began to slow down, at her signal, and at the same time, she crossed the track in front, with the intention of entering, she being on the wrong side. She evidently underestimated the speed of the car, for she was unable to cross in time, being struck by the fender and knocked down.

The motorman imediately stopped the car, but not before the woman had gone under the fender and been dragged for some distance under the brake beams. She was taken to the hospital, where it was found she was terribly mangled. Her face was cut and bruised, several ribs, both arms and one leg fractured, and there were numerous cuts and bruises about her body. Little hope was given for her recovery.

Mrs. Anderson lives with her husband at Billings Park, and she has one married daughter, who lives with her.

IT'S THE SKIN, NOT THE BLOOD

Costly Error of Treatment of Skin Diseases by Internal Nostrums When the Surface Alone Should be Healed.

If you slash your finger do you drink liniment to cure it? No, you apply the lotion to the wound. Yet people are treating skin diseases constantly by dosing the stomach.

Until a few years ago many doctors thought that skin diseases originated with the blood. But the application of the germ theory proves that skin diseases are caused by germs which lodge in the skin.

To cure the skin direct through the skin, Dr. Decatur D. Dennis compounded oil of wintergreen and other remedial agents into a liquid called D. D. D. Prescription. He gave this to his patients and found that the eczema germs were eradicated while the healthy skin was not injured at all.

Later Dr. Dennis was prevailed upon to allow a private company in Chicago to put up this remedy in bottles. While Dr. Dennis has no direct connection with the company selling the prescription, he endorsed the remedy and sanctioned the sale of D. D. D. through drug stores.

Great credit is due to physicians who recommend this remedy—and there are many such physicians—when they can make so much larger fees by writing out their own prescriptions.

We vouch for D. D. D. Prescription and D. D. D. soap, and recommend these to all sufferers from skin diseases.

DUTHY'S TRIAL BEGINS.

ury Being Secured to Try Wife Murderer Again.

The second trial of Edward Duthy for the murder of his wife two years ago at their home at Allouez, was begun in superior court this morning. Duthy was convicted at his former trial and sentenced to fourteen years' imprisonment, but after sixteen months' confinement, a new trial was granted.

Twenty-five talesmen were examined this morning. Each side used one of its peremptory challenges and eleven were excused for cause. The other twelve were tentatively accepted, but several changes will probably be made before the introduction of testimony begins.

George Cooper is appearing for Duthy and District Attorney Foley in conducting the case for the state. The defense will enter a plea of insanity.

Aalen Bound Over.

The preliminary examination of Olaf Aalen, who shot and seriously wounded Dan Nesbit, May 8, was held in municipal court this morning. A charge of assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to kill was preferred against him and he was bound over to the next term of circuit, his bonds being fixed at $5,000. He was unable to furnish the bonds and was remanded to jail to await trial.

ADOPT PLANS.

The feature of last evening's school board meeting was the adoption of plans for the $200,000 high school to be erected in Superior this year. The building will have a front of 174 feet on Belknap street and will run back 174 feet. It will be erected on the block surrounded by Belknap and Fourteenth streets and Weeks and Grand avenues, the school grounds including the entire block. It will have twenty recitation rooms, a gymnasium, 60 by 73 feet, manual training rooms, lunch rooms, laboratories and a bicycle track. An assembly hall with a seating capacity of 500, with a thirty-five foot stage is one of the chief features. The school will be thoroughly modern, and one of the most costly in the state.

PLEASE AUDIENCE.

St. Joseph Eighth Graders Give Operetta and Program.

The eighth grade students of St. Joseph's school delighted a large audience by the excellent program which they presented at their graduation in the school hall last evening. An operetta entitled, "Snow White and the Dwarfs," was a feature of the entertainment, and the little people showed great ability in their various parts. Anna Macoski, Lottis Nix, and Joseph Sauter were especially fine, and Mary Diedrich, Ethel Hart, Evelyn McGrath and Arthur Allard were also appreciated. A number of the members of the lower classes of the school took the part of farrier, attendants, etc. Bishop Schinner made the address of the evening and presented the diplomas at the close of the affair.

PUBLIC UTILITIES BILL

Is Used as Excuse for Delay by Council Committee.

The municipal lightning plant came very nearly becoming a reality at the meeting of the special committee of the council held in the council chamber last evening. Mayor Linley moved that Consulting Engineer Ford be directed to advertise for bids for the plant, and the committee was about to act upon his suggeestion when Alderman Chadwick suggested that it might as well wait until the legislature took some definite action of the "public utilities" bill now before the body. The members of the committee who were opposed to the plant jumped at this straw as an excuse for delay, and when put to vote the committee decided to defer action by a vote of seven to four.

The public utilities bill, if it becomes a law, will put all the public utilities of Wisconsin in the hands of a commission.

SENIOR RECEPTION.

Normal School Students Gather at Home of President McCaskill.

President and Mrs. V. E. McCaskill last night, at their home in the Loring terrace, tendered the annual reception to the senior class of the Superior normal. About fifty members of the class and several members of the faculty were present. Class colors, white and canary, played a conspicious part in the pretty decorations, and a prominent feature was a large white pennant with "'07" in large yellow figures.

At the door the guests were greeted by little Misses Corinne Loney and Margaret and Elizabeth Hannum. In the receiving line were President and Mrs. McCaskill, Mrs. I. C. McNeill, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Merrill and Resident Regent C. H. Crownhart.

Eighth garde graduation exercises were held at the Superior normal yesterday afternoon. Addresses were made by Miss Doyle and by President McCaskill. No formal program has been arranged. Both speakers gave the pupils good advise. The following comprise the class: Isabella Banks, Edward Callison, Raymond Callison, Susan Coleman, Eva Fanning, Ethel Hard, Harry Kurth, Etta McMurtle, Ruth Monger, Oscar Mork, Henry Nelson, Dorothy Sharpe, Edward Shehan, Lester Whitmore and Gwyn Whitney.

The members of the class and a few friends are today picnicing at Chester creek in Duluth, chaperoned by Miss Doyle.

MISS KROMER RESIGNS.

Last Year as Critic Teacher of the Superior Normal.

Miss Mary A. Kromer, critic teacher of the primary department of the normal, yesterday tendered her resignation to President V. E. McCaskill. The resignation become effective at the close of the present school year, next Friday. The letter of resignation gives no detailed statement of her reason for taking this step.

Miss Kromer has been connected with the Superior normal since 1900, when she came to the Head of the Lakes from Grand Rapids, Mich. She has made a fine record in her school work, and the normal faculty and pupils will feel her loss keenly. She has specialized in primary work and this, combined with her tenure of the principalship, enabled her to bring to Superior not only the special preparation in one line, but the results of experience which comes from a supervision of trained teachers in every department from the kindergarten to the highest grade.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

A young woman expressed herself to this column today with much directness and a forceful flow of language that was almost unexpected. She said, "Last evening you printed a protest alleged to be that of a young man who was protesting against the telephoning from importunate females. Of course, the mere fact that it was in your column doesn't assure its veracity," and she moistened her lips and slicked down an eyebrow.

Cattish young woman that.

"I would like to shake hands with that young man, however," she continued, "for I agree with him perfectly that the telephone is the invention of an evil one. If it is hard to be an eligible man in Duluth, it is the thing that Gen. Sherman, or George Bernard Shaw, or somebody, said war was, to be a girl in any town and have a telephone installed in the house, especially if she has naturally curly hair and sense enough to ejaculate 'You did,' and 'really,' in tones of deep admiration at intervals during a conversation. Secure in the ability to do that, it doesn't so much matter about your hair. The telephone will ring at outlandish hours of the day and night. The telephone will ring until the family rises up in its might and swears that it will no longer lie. If you are in the house you must go and face the music and in answer to questions of your whereabouts tonight, tomorrow night, or next night, you acquire a proficiency in the line of artistic disposing of yourself that ought to be put to better use. Your mother may approach the telephone and in answer to your wail of anguish from another part of the house, will say in firm Baptist tones, 'I will not lie, Sarah Jane. If it is anyone for you I shall call you to the phone.'

"You rush madly out on to the porch and plead with her. 'Well, just say I'm out, because you see that's no lie, for I am,' and you gaze imploringly at her through the screen door while she reluctantly perjures herself. If a younger member of the family answers the 'phone, you will probably come to grief, for the precocious member may answer, 'No, Sarah Jane is not in,' and then, in answer to a request from over the line, 'When will she be in,' this young arch fiend is more than likely to say, 'Well, just wait a minute and I'll ask her.'

"Your young man who is so worried about the wearisome pestering of telephoning must not for a moment think that he and his sex are alone in the matter. I will admit, however, that the girls of Duluth do the most of the telephoning, and that the attitude of the average young man of this city is just that of the young person who expressed himself as being bored to extinction by being an eligible young man in Duluth. Boo! That any mere man should have such an exalted idea of his own unworthiness, and that any girl worthy the name will continue to help him keep to his egotistical appreciation of himself. And for my part I never have such an awful time to get men to go to picnics when I provide the lunch, but any night at the theater just count the men who are there alone, or occupying a front row with a few of his cronies. What Duluth needs more than most other things is a society for the suppression of the bumptiousness of the average young man of the city."

The young woman pulled up her long gloves and rearranged her back hair and cooled down.

"May I use your telephone a minute," she inquired with much sweetness of voice. "Nine-six-three-seven, please, Central," she said. "Is Mr. Smith there? I'd like to talk to him, please. Mr. Smith, we are going up the river tonight and we would like you——"

But the Women's Page had fainted away.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Live sea turtle.
Tomatoes, 40 cents a basket.
Green peas, 15 cents a quart.
Wax beans, 15 cents.
Strawberries, 15 cents a box.
Cantaloupes, 20 cents each.

A live sea turtle, poor, lonesome, homesick, stranded thing, in a tank down town is attracting much attention. It has remained in one position since some time yesterday and the misery that that poor thing enjoys is really woeful. One can think with equanimity of it being made into soup in order to relieve its pining for home. That the turtle will be sold when it has shuffled off this mortal coil was the impression gathered from the rather incoherent remarks of the market man. Whether this low bartering will take place when the poor thing has died a natural death from homesickness, or after some gladiator of a butcher has encountered the persecuted animal in mortal combat is not yet known. At any rate a live sea turtle is in town.

Cantaloupes, spicely fragrant and too expensive, are making otherwise contented people wish they had money enough to really be extravagant and have ice-chilled melons with golden brown coffee for breakfast.

NEW ORDER IN DULUTH

The "Owls" Will Invade Local Field With a Lodge.

The Advance Circular Shows Doctrines of Extreme Cheeriness.

Do you know the "Order of Owls?"

It seems that a local lodge is about to be organized in Duluth, and those merry old optimists who are behind the proposition are sending out cone-on circulars cheery enough to scare away gloomy spirits from the most popular haunted housee in the land.

According to the circular, the head office or "home nest" of the lodge is located at South Bend, Ind., and the order is a "secret society of good fellows who believe in life, love, laughter and the kingdom of heaven on earth."

Members receive sick benefits, and funeral expenses of not more than $100 are paid. But the principal idea of the organization is to be the cheerful giver and lend a helping hand to the living.

Says the circular of the Owls:

"They help the sick, bury the dead, brighten dark moments, light up gloomy places. Some are not saints; none are in potters' fields, county shrouds or poorhouses; none are hungry; they do good, speak kindly, shake hands warmly, and respect the honor of women.

"The motto is:

"'There is so much bad in the best of us,
And so much good in the worst of us,
It hardly behoves any of us
To speak ill of the rest of us.'

"This motto was written more than forty years ago by Frank Dunbar, who was one of the founders of this order. He gave it to the order to be used as its motto. These four lines have been copied in every part of the world and translated into many different languages. Frank Dunbar is immortal. He used to say 'good fellows die.' Now he is sleeping a few miles from the writer, but through the Owls' motto he will always live.

"They have no old age limit. They don't receive members under 18 years.

"The creed is: If you have a flower to give, give it today. One throb of gladness is worth more to the living than a wealth of costly blossoms laid however tenderly above the dead. It believes you can accomplish more good by praise than censure. It abandons none as hopelessly bad."

The names of the official heads of the body are not given.

CUPID BARRED.

Jury Decides Father Can Prevent Suitor From Driving Past House.

Clarence, Mo., June 18.—The decision of a jury in Justice Whitby's court at Cherrybox would indicate that a father could prevent a suitor from even passing and repassing his home on the public highway.

Ed Rhodes drove along the public highway in front of Miss Eva Loft's home "very slow," and then drove back again. The father of the girl went out to the road and harsh words were passed.

Loft says he tapped Rhodes two or three times on the head with a pine stick.

Rhodes had Loft arrested, but the jury acquitted him.

Mme. Yale's Hair Tonic

FOR CHILDREN AND ADULTS

Antiseptic and Hygienic

A Hair Invigorator—Just what its name implies. It supplies nourishment, the elements of growth, which, when absorbed by the hair, strengthens and beautifies it in the same way that sap glorifies the foliage of a tree. Even where the follicles are seemingly dead, if the scalp is massaged daily with Mme. Yale's Hair Tonic a vigorous growth will be produced. It has honestly earned its title of "the great hair grower." It stimulates the most stunted growth and makes the hair magnificently healthy and beautiful. By its use women can provide themselves with a trailing mantle of hair—woman's natural raiment, her birthright.

Mme. Yale's Hair Tonic is prized equally by men and women, particularly when the hair begins to weaken or fade. Cures baldness, grayness, splitting of the hair, dandruff and all diseases of the hair, scalp and beard. One application usually stops hair falling. A nursery requisite; no mother should neglect to use it for her boys and girls; when the hair is made strong in childhood it remains proof against disease and retains its vigor and youthfulness throughout life.

Mme. Yale's Hair Tonic is a colorless, fragrant, delightful hair dressing; neither sticky, gritty, nor greasy; makes the hair soft, fluffy and glossy. Contains no artificial coloring; would not soil the whitest hair; restores original color by invigorating the scalp and re-establishing normal circulation and proper distribution of the live coloring matter. Beautiful hair redeems the plainest countenance, and any one can secure it by using Mme. Yale's Hair Tonic. Now in three sizes. Our special price

WEST END

EXODUS TO PIKE LAKE

Many West Enders Are Moving Out to Their Cottages.

Dr. Odegaard is Beaten by Two Thirsty Citizens.

This week a general exodus of West enders to Pike Lake takes place.

Many residents of this section of the city have summer cottages at Pike Lake, and with the warm weather of the past few days they have determined to occupy them as soon as possible.

E. G. Swanstrom and family will move out to the lake before the week-end, to occupy their cottage there for two months or so. C. W. Swanstrom and family also expect to move out this week.

J. C. Helm and family and S. Morterud and family will move out the latter part of this week.

Several of the male summer residents of Pike Lake visited their cottages Sunday and made preparations for the coming of their families. Improvements have been made at some of the places and the West end colony expects to spend a very pleasant summer.

Now that Mr. Morterud has received his long delayed automobile, he will be able to make the trip between his store and the lake every evening.

Other West enders are seeking out other places to spend the summer. A number of them are camping on Spirit Lake or other points along the St. Louis river; some are tenting near Lester Park and some are occupying cottages on Park Point.

HIT BY TWO ROUGHS.

Because he refused to write out prescriptions for booze" so that thirsty souls might drink despite a tight lid, Dr. J. T. Odegaard, a veterinary surgeon was knocked down and painfully injured in front of his home, 2327 West Superior street, Sunday evening.

Dr. Odegaard has authority, it is said, to write out certain prescriptions and he was called to the door of his house Sunday by two rough-looking men, who asked him for a prescription for "Hoker." They had evidently already absorbed some booze, but were anxious to continue a putting down of the distillery product.

Odegaard refused to accept the invitation to write out the prescription, however, even when tempted by an offer of money. After arguing the matter for some time, Odegaard's guests finally became angry and they each landed on him with their fists.

Odegaard fell to the ground and by way of a final rejoinder, one of the men hurled a brick at the prostrate veterinary. The missile hit him in the head and inflicted painful injuries.

It is probable that some arrests will result.

West End Shortrails.

The Foreign Missionary society of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church held a meeting last evening in the church parlors.

The West end Democratic club will hold a regular meeting Friday evening at Sloan's hall. After the regular business session, there will be a short program of speeches.

Steve Eklund and family have gone to Fond du Lac, where they will camp for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Swanstrom have gone to New York, where they will visit friends and relatives. They will visit other points in the East before returning. Mr. Swanstrom was obliged to resign his position with a board of trade concern a short time ago, on account of ill health, and he will remain away until his condition is improved.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. John S. T. Strum of 1315 West First street.

Frank Mork hooked a steelhead trout weighing four and one-half pounds in Lester river Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Caspardson have left for Norway, where they will make their home in the future. They leave many friends in the West end, where they have resided for some time.

Mrs. Hilda Johnson and daughter of 332 North Twenty-first avenue west, left yesterday for New York, where they will embark for Sweden. They will visit relatives there for about five months.

Richard Broderick has returned from Clinton, Iowa, where he attended the funerals of his mother and brother. He was called to the Iowa town by the illness of his mother, who was reported to be near death. She died shortly after he got there and a little while afterwards, his brother passed away.

Mrs. George Johnson of 2728 Huron street left yesterday for Chicago. She will visit friends and relatives there and in Buffalo before returning.

Michael Lavendoski was injured quite seriously at Pittsburg coal dock No. 1 yesterday. He was caught between a freight car and a post. His collar bone was hurt and one side crushed. He was removed to St. Mary's hospital and will probably recover.

MOTHERS' PIES WIN OVER IMPERISHABLE.

Washington, June 18.—It is a violation of the pure food law for a maker of pies to advertise his wares as "home made" when, as a matter of fact, the pie fillings were made in Boston, and the work of putting them into the crusts is done in Washington or in Minneapolis, or in some other place.

A local concern, it was disclosed at the pie filling hearing, gets its fillings for "home made" pies in Boston. The fillings are loaded with benzoate of soda, or other preservative that the manufacturer of the filling finds cheapest.

Pies are not put up in labeled packages, wherefore the label section of the pure food law does not apply. But pies are carried around in wagons in Washington. The wagons carry printed legends, claiming that the pies are home made. The customer is deceived into buying, which, in this instance, performs a service similar to the label on the bottle of catsup. Catsup made in a factory may not be called home made. The same rule, it is believed, will be made to apply to pies, at least made here.

TOO MUCH LAW.

Somebody has taken the trouble to get up statistics on the output of state laws since Jan. 1, and the showing is portentous if not appalling.

In sixteen states 18,700 bills were introduced, and of these 5,831 became laws. If this proportion would carry out in the other states, the annual output, or at least this year's output, would be something like 16,000 new laws.

One might think, from an examination of these figures, that this country had been so busy getting rich that lawmaking had been neglected until now, but this is not the case. This year's production of new laws is probably greater than usual, but legislatures, meeting in annual and biennial sessions, have been turning out laws at every meeting for many decades.

If law would make us good, therefore, we should be an exemplary people. Perhaps we are, but down in our own hearts we know that there are still possibilities of improvement, and that something deeper than lawmaking is needed to bring us to the highest degree of pulchritude.

Perhaps that "something" is law-enforcement and law-observance. We might try it, for a change, and see how it works.

Among the sixteen states for which figures are given, Minnesota stands first in number of bills introduced, and third in the number passed. Minnesota's legislature introduced 2,131 bills, and passed 563. Pennsylvania with 773 and Tennessee with 601 were the only states that beat the latter figure, and none exceeded the former.

The figures follow:

State.	Bills Introduced.	Bills Passed.
Colorado	928	266
Illinois	1,409	240
Iowa	867	247
Indiana	1,134	123
Kansas	1,241	437
Minnesota	2,131	562
Missouri	1,489	290
Nebraska	1,004	221
North Dakota	686	299
Pennsylvania	2,107	773
Rhode Island	448	142
South Dakota	964	267
Tennessee	2,084	601
Texas	1,046	135
Utah	586	92
Washington	826	267

Unquestionably we have too many laws for our own good. One reason there were so many this winter is that many of those adopted at previous sessions were faulty, and had to be amended or replaced by new ones.

The passing of ineffective and inadequate laws, pushed through on the spur of the moment and only half-digested, is a positive evil. Such laws are enforced half-heartedly, if at all, and that breeds a spirit of contempt for law which is distinctly demoralizing.

Some way should be devised to limit the product of new laws, and to compel legislature to devote more time to their consideration and more thought to their direct and indirect effects.

PLAIN TALK.

E. A. Mosely of the interstate commerce commission did some plain talking at Atlantic City yesterday in addressing the convention of the Master Car Builders' association of the United States.

Speaking of railroad accidents, he said that "too tight-fisted boards of directors are responsible for a majority of the railroad accidents of the past year." By this he meant that many boards of directors look too much on the dollars coming in and not enough on the dollars going out. They maintain, in the interests of a false economy, frail passenger coaches that burn like tinder boxes and smash like egg shells in a collision. They make it necessary to overwork employes in charge of trains, until, when a train is in the care of men who have lost so much sleep that they are not competent to ward off danger, the inevitable accident occurs, fraught with terrible disaster.

These directors, as Mr. Mosely says, "pay too much attention to the stock market reports and not enough to railroad management and proper rolling stock."

Accidents will happen on American railroads, and will take their awful toll of human life, so long as railroads are manipulated as Wall street playthings. To many railroad magnates a railroad is merely an excuse for issuing stock certificates which are to form the pawns of the stock market game. In that game the safety and convenience of passengers and employes, and the efficient service of the public by freight carriers, is no factor at all.

An absolute divorce between Wall street and the railroads would be a blessing to the American people.

PLACING THE BLAME.

Recently The Herald commented upon the action of the Canadian courts in sentencing to three years' imprisonment a railroad conductor who had been convicted of carelessness that caused a wreck involving the death of three fellow-employes.

The Railway Age publishes the judge's talk to the prisoner, in which the case is summed up and new light thrown upon it. It appears that the condemned conductor was on a run that made him work nineteen to twenty hours a day for five days of the week, with two days in which to rest.

This in itself would be enough to clear the conductor and to convict those under whose orders he worked, for the evidence showed that the wreck occurred because the conductor, worn out, went to sleep without giving orders necessary to prevent the collision which occurred. However, the court was convinced that the accused man kept on the run because it was more remunerative than others; in other words, because he was paid for the extra work involved; and the sentence was imposed with this fact in view. The judge told the prisoner that under the rules he had a right to a rest of eight hours after he had worked sixteen hours, and that there was no doubt that he failed to avail himself of this rule solely because he was making good money by working long hours.

There is another side to this. Ask any railroad employe what he thinks about this thing of insisting upon getting a proper amount of rest, no matter what the rules may be. If the law prescribed a maximum amount of work and a minimum amount of rest in each twenty-four hours, of course railroad men could insist upon the law being observed. When called upon to work too long, they could point to the law and refuse to take their train.

But what would happen to the employe who did that on a good many roads? Perhaps nothing; and perhaps, on the other hand, he would shortly find that for some reason—there are always plenty of excuses if employers are looking for them—he was no longer needed on that road, and he would be invited to call upon the paymaster for his time.

This Canadian judge did not stop with reprimanding the prisoner. He turned his attention to those "higher up," and these remarks entitle him to respect:

> To my mind the persons who even permitted you to work nineteen to twenty hours per day, day after day, five days in the week, were guilty of a gross wrong; the persons who made rules and regulations under which this was possible are themselves almost or quite as guilty morally, perhaps legally, as yourself of the death of these three poor victims. * * * It were wrong to punish an employe and allow the employer to go scot free where both are at fault.

With that he promised to send to the crown authorities a copy of the proceedings at the trial, with a recommendation that all proper investigations be made and that the persons responsible, no matter what their positions might be, be punished under the criminal law.

Good for the judge!

AN IMPORTANT MEETING.

Duluth is going to become a great manufacturing metropolis.

One of the things that is going to help her do it is the development of the farming territory about around her to such an extent that it will supply her with all the farm and dairy products the busy workers in her factories will need, at reasonable prices and yet with good profit to the producers.

And one of the things that is going to develop this rich farming territory is the spread of knowledge of its richness and of the way to get the best results out of it.

That is why the meeting that will be held here June 27 for the discussion of dairy and agriculture is highly important. That is why every farmer in St. Louis county that can possibly get here should attend the meeting and hear experts talk on the matters of deepest interest to them.

Ex-Governor W. D. Hoard of Wisconsin, editor of Hoard's Dairyman and as highly qualified an expert in dairying as there is in the country, will speak on his specialty; Dr. Wood of Mankato will talk of cattle breeding; T. C. Scribner of Rosendale, Wis., O. C. Gregg of Marshall, superintendent of the Minnesota Farmers' institute, and J. W. Martin of Gotham, Wis., will speak on agricultural topics; and A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the state experimental station at Grand Rapids, will bring his ripe experience in making the most of the conditions peculiar to Northeastern Minnesota.

This meeting should be of great value, and it will be if enough people attend it to get the benefit of the agricultural wisdom that will be distributed by these experts.

EATING BY RULE.

The average man pays little attention to his diet. He may and undoubtedly does have his individual tastes; he will like some things and dislike others, and of course he wants to have at his meals the things that he likes rather than the things he dislikes.

But the really vital part of eating, what might be called the scientific part, receives little or no attention. Most men realize, in a vague way, that some foods build muscle, some foods make fat, and others are mostly "filling" and don't make much of anything. But far from seeking to arrange a diet that will build up a symmetrical and complete body and brain, most men trust to their tastes and their appetites, and let it go at that. Others are content with whatever the cook provides, and take it all for granted.

Now of course this is wrong, but men seem to have thrived pretty well on it, after all. It is true that here and there men have tastes that do them evil, and by intemperance in eating hurt themselves as much as they could by intemperance in drinking. But the various elements needed to keep the body fully nourished are fairly well combined on the average table that is comfortably furnished, even if too many men who need to build up their brain do eat food that was intended for men that need to build up their brawn.

Some time, of course, matters will be arranged so systematically and scientifically that men will eat just what they need from the standpoint of complete nourishment, and not what they crave to suit their tastes and to fill their stomachs. But at present most of those "on a diet" are there because they have dyspepsia, and their example will tempt no well man to put himself on a strict regimen of diet, since most of them are gloomy in appearance and more or less sour in disposition.

Professor Chittenden of Yale has proposed an ideal dinner for the man of business, made up as follows: One teacup of cream of corn soup; one Parker house roll; one inch cube of butter; one small lamb chop, broiled; one mashed potato; apple-lettuce-celery salad, with mayonnaise dressing; one Boston cracker, split; one half-inch cube of American cheese; one half-teacup of bread pudding; one demi-tasse coffee; one lump of sugar.

While this bill of fare furnishes an ample variety, the average man of good appetite will get up from it feeling that it is an appetizer, and that he would now like a square meal. But that is where he would make a mistake, because that is a good way to leave the table, far better than to leave it feeling stuffed to repletion and oppressed by drowsiness and heaviness. More mistakes are made in eating too much than in eating the wrong things.

THE PASSING SHOW.

Too many people ask advice as to what they shall buy from their inclinations rather than from their pocketbook.

Editor Greeley of the Big Fork Compass has been proving the prosperity of his section by putting in new machinery, but he must not let this prevent his continuing those brilliant "Variations of the Needle," which have been missing for several weeks.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"If Western Union telegraph operators go on a general strike," it will go hard with the company, unless they are able to bring about some compromise," said E. S. Schuylkill of Sioux City, Iowa, at the St. Louis. "The men could not select a better time to make demands for an increase in wages. There is a scarcity of operators, and any of the strikers who feel so inclined will be easily able to get work with any one of several railroad companies that could be named.

"A telegraph operator can always get work. He can wander about over the country wherever fancy directs, and feel confident that he can go to work just as soon as he pleases. This condition is truer in the West than in the East, however, as it is with all kinds of labor. But even in the East there are enough jobs floating around, the only trouble being that wages in most cases are lower there than out this way.

"The scarcity of key-pounders is more pronounced in the Southwest just now than in any other section of the country. Nearly all the roads down there are in need of men, and will gladly take on all applicants who know their business. They are unable to get enough men to fill vacancies, in fact. There are more isolated stations down there than in this part of the country, and many operators dislike to accept a position at some water tank, where they hardly ever get a chance to speak to a white man, except through a car window, and with a stranger at that. I am not posted as to the merits of the claims of the men who are making demands upon the operating companies, but from what I know of the telegraph business, which used to be a good deal before I quit it, they will get along more easily than their old employers."

"The other day I asked a dog fancier why men dock horses, bob fox terriers, and whack the ears from bull pups," said C. T. Walton of Hibbing, at the Lenox. "He told me just about what I had surmised—that is it's because bull pups are supposed to look better with straight ears and fox terriers look better without tails. If the fox terrier were not bobbed he would grow a very long tail and would be an unfashionable and dejected-looking creature.

"Cutting the ears of a bull pup at a very early age and greasing them makes them grow up straight and stiff, giving the dog the required ferocious appearance. The same reasoning accounts for the docking of horses, these animals being supposed to have no use for their tails, even in fly time.

"All this just proves how superior to nature we humans are. Nature made an awfully hard job in designing dogs and horses, and we who know better have come along to correct her mistakes. I have no doubt that we will also decide in time that nature was a bit inexperienced in the matter of designing the human form, and it will then be reasonable to lop one ear from every baby born in civilization, or to cut off a foot or a few fingers to give the child an aristocratic bearing. The innovation would unquestionably be much applauded, and it would surely meet with the approval of polite society. Burning a neat monogram on the face of the infant ought to be an idea that would make a big hit with the smart set. I think I'll have to get the idea copyrighted and then get people in the habit."

A guest at the Lenox who is on his way from the Twin Cities to one of the North shore trout streams was last evening reading from a booklet advertising another resort west of Duluth.

"If there is anything I hate more than anything else it is flies," he said. "It is the same with a good many people, and yet this little book advertises the great number of flies and other insects it has to annoy summer boarders. Listen to this:

"As to flies, three or four different cards are usually enough, but those who like a great man can take their choice of such varieties as the red, black and gray hackles, the yellow professor, light and dark and black gnat, green drake, Montreal, white miller, March brown and grizzly king. A half dozen of each of these are usually an abundance."

Oh, Ask Something Easy.

Denver Republican: Is this nation founded in love of liberty, made generous by the plethora of its wealth, lifted to grand heights by the freedom of individual thought and itself the highest concept of government yet born to earth, to stand time's ministering angel among world powers, the big brother to the poor and the weak?

Ohio Sun: Members of the National Association of Dancing Masters say the present style of hop waltz is not conducive to proposals of marriage. That may be so, but after the dear things once land husbands they make their husbands waltz around, awright, awright.

THE WEATHER.

Still another day of real summer, making three in a row. This morning it was warm and fine and beautiful, and as the morning waxed the warmth grew with it. It was not oppressively hot, but just the kind of summer weather that makes life a splendid thing. The weather man expects it to be cooler tonight and tomorrow, under the influence of northerly winds. Yesterday's highest temperature was 78 degs., and last night's lowest was 60 degs.

A year ago today it was clear and delightful with a deliciously cooling breeze. It was the tenth day of fine weather without interruption.

The sun rose this morning at 4:12, and sets tonight at 8:06, making 15 hours and 54 minutes of sunshine. It will be the same, except for a few seconds that don't count, until Friday, when the sun will set a minute later, and it will be the longest day of the year.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Showery weather prevailed Monday or last night in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Minnesota, Northern Wisconsin, Northern Michigan, Southeastern South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas, due to the southwestern low pressure and the easterly movement of the Alberta low pressure to Ontario. The Idaho high pressure has advanced its center to Montana and has caused cooler temperature in Montana, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, the Dakotas, Minnesota and Kansas. Warm weather continues in Lower Ohio and Middle Mississippi valley states. Mostly clear and cool weather is indicated for this locality during tonight and Wednesday."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures as recorded by the weather bureau:

MIRTHFUL JINGLES.

Baltimore American: "Do you know, my dog seems to scent electrical disturbances in the atmosphere when they are still far off."

"Then, I suppose, you have warrant for regarding his nose as a storm scenter."

Washington Herald: "There is a sort of vessel called a 'schooner,' is there not?" asked the landlubber.

"Sure," replied the 'longshoreman, "anything that'll hold beer or the like o' that is a vessel."

Chicago Tribune: Nan—Jack seemed crazy last night. He tried to kiss me.

Fan—He ecertainly was crazy if he thought any effort on his part would be needed.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Screechem was a barker in a circus once, wasn't he?"

"Yes."

"When did he give up this line of continuous talk?"

"When he married."

Cleveland Leader: Dad—What is the latest concerning the nebular hypothesis?

Son—I'm sure I don't know.

Dad—Embrace me, my son! You have completed your first year at college, and yet there is one thing you are sure you don't know!

Houston Post: "If your fortune was equal to mine I would be your wife."

"You're mistaken."

Philadelphia Press: "Brave fellow!" exclaimed old Miserley to the hero who had just dragged him from the track in the nick of time. "If I had change for this half dollar I'd give you something."

"Never mind, old man," replied the hero. "If you wanted to pay me what your life's worth you'd need change for a cent."

Baltimore American: "How did you manage to catch such a cold?"

"I suppose it is the fault of my business."

"Your business!"

"Yes; I'm in a bank and constantly surrounded with drafts."

Cleveland Leader: Him—Would you consider me impolite if I should throw kisses to you?

Her—Certainly. It is a rule of etiquette that you must never throw anything to a woman which you can give her in any other way.

Washington Star: "Is he a well-informed man?"

"I doubt it. He qualifies as a juror too frequently to be a man who keeps posted on what is going on."

F. L. Murray to George J. Munroe, blocks 1 to 5, Murray & Howe's addition, $5,100.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Anoka Free Press: Now that the railroads have shown the people of Minnesota that they can not be depended on for an amicable adjustment of any difference between them, but will crawl out of any loophole that presents an advantage to them, they, the railroads, will find that they have the entire population of Minnesota to deal with—and it is about 2,000,000 strong, as against a mere handful. They will be made to realize that the people of the state, and not the railroads, own Minnesota. There is another set of legislators coming.

Perham Enterprise: Congressman Jim Tawney wants to succeed Speaker Cannon. It is now up to the trusts which Jim has served so faithfully to see that his wish is gratified.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Judge Cant of the St. Louis county district court, recently handed down his opinion of the so-called brain storm as a defense in murder or attempted murder cases, and it was not of a very complimentary character, either. This country needs more judges with the Cant backbone.

Pine River Sentinel: Rah! for the Fourth! Double the police force, put the fire department on double pay, get the ambulances and surgeons in readiness and order a generous supply of small sized coffins. Young America is about to be turned loose.

Stillwater Gazette: We are approaching the season of the year when E Pluribus Unum is getting busy and will result in a burning of much powder that might be better saved.

Prison Mirror: The wife of a Philadelphia preacher struck her husband with the framed God bless our home motto because he said no woman could be a Christian who attended a cat show. In other words his dogmatic theology was the cause of a domestic catastrophe.

St. Peter Free Press: The wide-open tax amendment, defeated at the last election but declared to be adopted by the state officials, is called "wide open," says the Waseca Herald, because it catches and swallows the average business man, mechanic and farmer and allows corporations and sharpers to escape taxation altogether.

Minnesota Mascot: Whisky is whisky. The Wholesale Liquor Dealers' associations says. Maybe, but sometimes it seems to act like a double compound fluid extract of the center of hell.—Le Sueur News.

And even then it is only whisky. The Liquor Dealers' association knows what it is talking about. "Whisky is whisky" and all hell has no substitute for it.

Fergus Falls Free Press: Those sharp noises heard all over the state Sunday mornings are caused by the clapping down of the lid, due to the recent supreme court decision, empowering the attorney general to oust mayors who refuse to enforce the Sunday closing law of the state.

A Peevish Captain of Industry.

New York World: Is there no power in the interstate commerce commission to deal summarily with certain "darn-fool editorial writers" who are interfering with interstate traffic in James J. Hill's gear of wisdom and counsel? They are worse than rebaters. Witness this interview telegraphed yesterday from Chicago:

"No, no," he exclaimed hastily; 'I want to keep out of the papers entirely. I do not want to be in the limelight any more.'

"This is so sudden,' it was suggested.

"Mr. Hill shot a suspicious glance at the reporter and retorted:

"'The fool newspapers are to blame.'

"'What have they been doing now?' he was asked.

"'They go and print something which they know to be true and in favor of the railroads,' replied Mr. Hill, 'and then some darn-fool editorial writer puts a piece in the paper poking fun at the railroad man who said it. I suppose they think that is smart.'"

The airy persiflage of the editorial writers is no adequate substitute for Mr. Hill's commentaries on men and things. The country has come to rely upon him for guidance whenever Mr. Roosevelt's well-springs of advice are resisting a drouth.

He is the good, gray captain of industry who tells us when prosperity has reached its floodtide, what the green bugs are doing in Kansas, how Harriman ought to run his railroads, what the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution really means, what a corn-fed steer ought to weigh, how newspapers should discuss public questions, what the chances are of wet weather in harvest time and what the effect of an immunity bath is likely to be on the circulation of the blood.

'Twere a grievous wrong to the country to dry up this fountain of comfort and counsel.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Nearly everybody is honest unless he gets caught.

A gambler is the fellow who gets your money at it.

The difference between a quaint trick and an ugly habit is whether your child or somebody else's does it.

When a man in a street car objects to a child rubbing its muddy feet all over his trousers, every woman in the car knows he has a bad heart.

It Can't Be Found.

New York World: The Evening Post thinks the weather is the only important question which Mr. Roosevelt failed to discuss at the Jamestown exposition. Will the Post be kind enough to place one of its tapering fingers on the paragraph discussing tariff revision?

But He Read It Attentively.

Detroit Journal: It is at least fairly certain that the president's speech at Indianapolis didn't contain anything of news value to Patriot E. H. Harriman.

"JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA."

Buffalo Journal: Governor Johnson's boom for president is being fired at him from all sides, and a press bureau at Washington is sending in new sensations frequently. The cartoonists are helping too, and things are moving nicely for Johnson.

Troy, N. Y., Press: Surely, he has one magnificent quality for the Democratic nomination—he is a great and victorious vote-getter. And the superiority of his second showing over his first after he had served a gubernatorial term is good evidence that the people of his state regard him as a first-class official. As a start off, Governor Johnson's nomination would transfer Minnesota from the Republican to the Democratic column—if, indeed, it did not produce a landslide for him in the whole of the great Northwest.

Albert Lea Tribune: If the Democrats have made up their minds that they are really going after the presidency they may get aside some of their usual tomfoolery and select a man with a view to securing the most votes and Governor Johnson has a record along that line that isn't easy to meet. Another point in his favor is that the Democrats cannot hope to win unless they can make a break in the solid phalanx of the Northwestern states, as the so-called Southern states are not sufficient to elect any man and the East is firmly set against the plans advocated by Democracy and with the chief executive of Minnesota as the candidate and Col. Day as manager of the campaign the party of retrogression might expect to win in his state and closely press the Republicans in some of the others, as the thought of having a man from the Northwest as president would be an incentive for many to vote for him.

Mankato Free Press: Governor Johnson is willing that the other fellows shall do the talking about his presidential boom. Wise head.

Anoka Free Press: As was to be expected, Governor Johnson, while on his recent visit in the South, cut a wide swath among the natives there. The papers from that section of country, and from all over, for that matter, are teeming with complimentary references to him and his prospective nomination for the presidency. With the West and the Northwest and the South practically solid for Johnson, as present indications warrant us in believing, what will the effete East, with its infamous Wall street gang, do about it?

Anoka Free Press: Some of the Democratic politicians East and South are beginning to prick up their ears when they hear of John A. Johnson.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Everybody seems willin' enough to have Governor Johnson for the Democratic presidential candidate, except William Jennings Bryan. Walk up like a man, Bill, and have your hat chalked.

Pine City Pine Poker: That Johnson boom for the leadership of the Democratic party seems to be growing in proportion as Bryan's hopes are fading away in the distance.

Mrs. Bryan.

Mothers' Magazine for June: Mrs. Bryan can swim a mile. She is a splendid walker. She rides a bicycle with ease. She can drive mettlesome horses, put them in the barn, come into the house and bake, cook and sew. She knows how to keep house, and all her home expenses are recorded, so that she knows from day to day, and week to week, how matters stand. She is well read, not only in current literature, but in the good things of the past. She believes in the Sunday school and the church and in a religion that works.

She feels, as Mr. Bryan does, that a personal God has given a mission to every being in the world, and that it is his duty to thoroughly study this mission, fit himself for it, gird on the armor and go out and fight for its success, never admitting discouragement through defeat. There is not a human being in the world that could convince either Mr. Bryan or Mrs. Bryan but that both have normal missions on this earth, and that whether they ever live in the White House or not, it is their duty to accomplish these missions, so far as lies in their power, before they die.

This Is Candid.

Mr. Bryan's Commoner: There are growing evidences that Mr. Watterson's "dark horse" is a chestnut.

"FOR SALE BY W. A. ABBETT."

ENGLISH METHODISTS PLEDGE A BIG FUND.

London, June 18.—A remarkable scene in the centennery of the Primitive Methodists was witnessed yesterday at the session of the conference at Leicester. It was proposed to inaugurate a thanksgiving fund, and after a solemn dedicatory service, W. P. Hartley, a prominent Methodist, offered $5,000. This was applauded with enthusiasm, after which delegate after delegate promised generous contributions. At the close of the meeting it was announced that these offerings, with the pledges already made on behalf of the churches, reached a total of $1,350,000.

BRIDGE HELPS CANAL WORK.

Government Secures $500,000 Revenue From Sale of Playing Cards.

Washington, June 18.—The American woman's devotion to "bridge" is going to help toward the construction of the isthmian canal without the issuance of any more bonds.

It is estimated that by the end of the fiscal year, 25,000,000 packs of playing cards will have been taken from the card factories for consumption.

Each pack of playing cards pays a tax of 2 cents to the government, and there is every indication that the income from that source will be $500,000, the amount that would accrue from the use of 25,000,000 packs.

BOY A THIEF FOR LOVE.

Robbery Confession of Lad Shows Cupid Was Inspiration.

Chicago, June 18.—"I did it because I loved her."

From behind the bars of the county jail William F. Havens, the 18-year-old messenger who robbed the Independent Packing company of $700 nine weeks ago, explained why he committed his first offense.

Dreams, adventures and capture were brought about by the bright eyes and smile of Lillian Ahern.

Girl and youth were found together at Fletcher, N. D., where they had settled down after he had visited New York and Pittsburg, and returned to Chicago.

GUERRIN SHOT.

Notorious Cracksman is Wounded in Foot in London Street Fight.

London, June 18.—Another remarkable chapter has now been added to the checkered life story of Eddie Guerrin, the notorious Chicago cracksman. On Saturday night, a little more than twenty-four hours after his release following his successful appeal against extradition applied for by the French government, he was walking with a woman in the Bloomsbury district, not far from the British museum, when Guerrin and his companion were encountered by a man and a woman who had driven up to the curb in a cab. A fierce altercation between the four arose, which suddenly ended by the strange man drawing a revolver and firing at Guerrin twice. The second shot struck Guerrin's foot, and he fell shouting "I am shot," while his assailant fled, discharging the remaining chambers of his revolver as he ran, until captured by pedestrians. Guerrin was removed to the hospital, where the bullet was extracted. Though he acknowledges that he knows his assailant, he refuses to make any further statement.

AMOUNTS TO TWO MILLION.

Helen Gould Has That Many Requests for Money in a Week.

New York, June 18.—Four brides within a week have asked Helen Gould to contribute $2,000 toward their trousseau. The young woman are unknown to her, so she declined.

Eleven persons, poor, but musical, asked her to buy pianos for them, which she likewise politely begged to be excused from doing.

Several men asked for money to take the rum cure, and one woman applied for the price of a set of teeth.

Astonishing is the number of queer requests received by Miss Gould. They amount to $2,000,000 a week. In writing to Franz Kalterborn, director of the orchestra now playing at St. Nicholas garden, Miss Gould expressed sympathy with the movement to raise a fund to put the Kalterborn orchestra on a permanent basis and mentioned that this was by no means the only thing she was asked to encourage.

HELEN CANNON IS SHY.

Speaker's Daughter Objects to Publicity Thrust Upon Her.

Washington, June 18.—Dignified in spite of coarse attempts to force on her such an unspeakably vulgar sobriquet as "third lady of the land," Miss Helen Cannon, the speaker's daughter, wants no such horror of a phrase tacked to her name, and being a young person of national distinction, she does not need it.

"The publicity thrust upon me," said Miss Cannon, "is a source of never-failing wonder to my friends.

"In these days, when every woman has a mission," the speaker's daughter continued, "I fear mine will appear commonplace. Caring for my father and keeping him from being imposed upon really constitute my mission."

CHECK ASTOR ESTATE.

Syndicate Buys Land to Prevent Spread of Millionaire's Property.

Rhinebeck, N. Y., June 18.—Enveloped already on two sides by the rapidly growing "baronial" estate of Col. John Jacob Astor, which comprises 2,500 acres, the progressive citizens of Rhinebeck hail with satisfaction the passing of the De la Porte farm into the hands of a syndicate, headed by George N. Miller, himself a millionaire, whose avowed purpose is to call a halt to the further spread, in this direction at least, of the Astor preserves.

Col. Astor has torn down in the last few years fully twenty-five dwelling houses, has bought up and exterminated a hamlet, and now has in his possession an asylum for old clergymen, which is already defunct, and likewise a church.

FLORIDA'S COLD GEYSER.

Ocala Banner: W. T. Chastain has a drainage well on his place at Seffner, which is quite a curiosity for Florida. At intervals it throws streams of water ten to twenty feet in the air; subsiding, spouts again.

The natives say that the well happens to be directly over the devil's furnace, and whenever the devil builds his fires to do his cooking, the water in the well begins to boil and spout. This theory is exploded by the fact that the water is not hot, but cold; but the natives explain this by saying that the distance is so great that the water has ample time to cool before reaching the surface of the earth.

HUSTLING AT THE MINE

Much Doing at the Present Time at Fay-Cananea.

Cananea Newspaper Recounts a Visit of Mining Men.

Under date of June 10, the Cananea Herald, Cananea, Mex., says: "Messrs. Fay, Yawkey and Poss, holding the principal interest in Fay-Cananea Copper company at this time, left Wednesday for Duluth, following a hurried visit of five days in the district and to the properties of the company in the Sierra Azuls and Manzanals, where most of their time was spent.

"The gentlemen represent immense capital and they are going to put whatever of it may be needed into development of Fay-Cananea to the shipping point, when it will take care of itself. This was their verdict following their inspection of the ground and of the work that has been done there. The latter includes over 400 feet in shafts since the first of March, which is anything but a slow record.

"The visitors, while here, were exceedingly busy with their property inspection and with the transaction of business of the organization which they recently made. They did not find time to take up and decide on plans for future development work, putting this matter over until arrival in Duluth. Expectation of Manager Daugherty here is that definite decision will be made within the next few weeks. With what they saw at the properties the members of the party were much pleased. This includes ore in all of the four prospect shafts, which have been put down to get a line on the ore bodies and enable the beginning of such main workings as will be started wherever the most advantage can be gained.

"The prospect shafts are all double compartment and timbering has been carried down from the top to make it entirely safe. This week a boiler and hoist will arrive for one of these shafts. Orders for other equipment of similar kind have been placed, and deliveries will be coming up in a few weeks."

If you are selling enough goods—then your advertising in The Herald is sufficient.

WILL SIT ON THE NEW LID

Council Resolves to Revoke Licenses of Law Breakers.

Charles Boyle Summoned to Appear and Defend Himself.

The council last evening:

Resolved to revoke the licenses of all saloonists who violate the Sunday closing law.

Summoned Charles Boyle to appear before them next Monday night to show cause why his license should not be revoked.

Gave three railroad ordinances their first reading.

Gave the ordinance authorizing the issue of $50,000 of park bonds its first reading.

Requested a report from the street railway company as to whether they would build the Piedmont avenue extension were the street brought to a 9 per cent grade.

Turned down the award of the Fourth avenue west contract to J. W. Preston, because Hugh Steele was a lower bidder.

Directed the Duluth Edison Electric company to turn on the current in the canal pier lights.

Considered an amendment to the circus license ordinance.

Directed the city attorney to commence proceedings for the condemnation of the reservoir site.

Ordered the Northern Pacific to establish and maintain gates at the Fifth avenue west crossing.

"Resolved that it shall be the policy of this council in future to revoke all licenses where a conviction of violating the Sunday closing law shall have been secured."—Alderman Haven.

"Resolved, that the legal department shall be advised that where revocation of a license is desired, prosecution for violation of the Sunday closing law shall be brought under the state statute rather than under the city ordinance, in order that the accused may have the privilege of demanding a jury trial."—Alderman McEwen.

"Resolved, that Charles Boyle is hereby cited to appear before this council at 8 o'clock on Monday evening, June 24, to show cause why his license should not be revoked."—Alderman Moore.

In response to a communication from Mayor Cullum recommending that Charles Boyle, the saloon man who yesterday pleaded guilty to violating the Sunday law, be brought before the council to show cause why the license should not be revoked, the council last evening gave a double turn to the fastenings of Duluth's newly made lid, and while there was some opposition to some of the resolutions given in brief above, all of them were passed by good margins.

The hottest fight was preliminary to the resolution citing Charles Boyle to appear in his own behalf next Monday evening. Aldemran Staples moved that, instead of doing this, the mayor's communication be referred to the police and license committee. Alderman Moore opposed this. Alderman Shartel took the floor.

"I should like to ask if this method of procedure was customary. Ever since I have been in this council the report of the clerk of court on convictions has been referred to the police and license committee for report. I see no reason for specializing this case."

Alderman Moore then reviewed the history of the case, pointed out that the mayor had had his discretionary power taken from him, that the saloonkeepers were well aware of the enforced change of policy on the part of the administration, and concluded by saying that the case was one which did not necessitate an investigation and report.

Alderman Wilson then stated that any attempt to refer the question to a committee would be cowardly dodging of an issue. He said that in his opinion it was up to the members of the council to meet all questions squarely without using any committee screen. It would not be regular, he said, to revoke a license on a committee report. The only square manly thing to do was to put the issue to a vote immediately. The council was divided on the issue, but it was carried 9 to 6, Alderman Burgess being absent.

When it had been decided that the matter was not to be referred to the committee, the council passed the resolution calling the saloonkeeper before them, without a dissenting vote.

There was no extended discussion of any of the other issues, though there were four negative votes on Alderman Haven's resolution defining the policy of the council.

Three railroad ordinances introduced by Chairman Wilson of the ordinance committee and given their first reading last evening were features. One of these ordinances granted to the Eastern Minnesota, otherwise the Great Northern, the right to erect and maintain a trestle along certain streets and avenues of the lower Garfield avenue district, from the end of the Interstate bridge to a junction with the present trestle work of the road connecting with their other bridge across the river. The features of this ordinance were a provision that the road pay assessments like any other corporation for improvements abutting its property, that work should be begun on the trestle work within thirty days from the acceptance of the ordinance, and that sixty days be given for consideration of the ordinance by the railroad company.

A second ordinance gives the Northern Pacific the right to construct a spur track along Travers street to the proposed plant of the People's Brewing Co.

The third ordinance defines the long discussed question of the control of the approach to the Interstate bridge. The asssessment clause worded practically as in the Wisconsin Central ordinance, is a feature of all three franchises.

In introducing the ordinances Alderman Wilson stated that a conference had been held during the week between City Attorney Fesler, an attorney representing the railroad interests, and himself at which the ordinances were gone over and had been found to be generally satisfactory to both the city and the roads. He stated that he had drawn up a clause providing for the use of tracks by other roads which he had composed hurriedly and which he believed would be in meed of amplification and which he intended to amend when the railroads called for it. The ordinances were given their first reading last evening and will be brought up for final passage next Monday night.

The committee on harbors, parks and roads and finance which has been handling the park bond question recommended that an ordinance be passed providing for the $50,000 issue of park bonds which has been discussed for the past two months. The ordinance was given its first reading later in the session.

Alderman Kennedy introduced a resolution defining the Piedmont avenue street car line as a public necessity. It pointed out that the city engineer had reported that the street could be brought to grade at a reasonable cost, and requested a statement from the Duluth Street Car company within the next thirty days, as to whether they would construct a line if the grade were to be reduced as provided for in the report of the city engineer.

It is said that it has been unofficially but definitely intimated that the street car company would be willing to construct the line, which is to extend from the present West Third street line to Forest avenue if the street were brought to a 9 per cent grade, as provided by the engineer's plans. The city engineer reported that it would cost $4,500 to bring the street to this grade.

The board of public works submitted a report on the contract for the paving of Fourth avenue west. Though Hugh Steele was low with a bid of $14,054.75 for the job, the contract had been awarded to J. W. Preston, the next bidder, for $14,112.60.

In explaining this action, the board pointed out that Hugh Steele had agreed, when he received his money on the Superior street paving job, some time ago, to give a bond for $28,000, 35 per cent of the cost of the work, to guarantee its maintenance for five years. This he had, for various reasons, failed to do, and the board stated it as their opinion that Mr. Steele ought not to enter into competition on any more contracts until those already accepted had been fulfilled.

The board stated that Mr. Steele had said that the requirements of the bonding companies had been so severe that he could not secure the bond.

The council, however, seemed inclined to look more leniently upon the contractor, and they promptly turned down the contract which the board had awarded to Mr. Preston, on the ground that it was not granted to the lowest bidder. Alderman Haven then requested a report from the city engineer as to the amount of surety which would be necessary to guarantee the maintenance of Superior street for five years, and the matter was referred back to the board of public works for further consideration. The contract will probably not be let until Mr. Steele has taken some action after the engineer's report has been received.

The Duluth Edison Electric company was directed to turn on the current for lighting the canal piers at the same terms as given last year.

The police and license committee to whom was referred a recommendation from the mayor relating to circus licenses early in the evening, reported a revision of the ordinance. It provided that dog and pony shows shall be required to pay only a $25 license. A circus with a seating capacity of 5,000 or over and charging 50 cents admission, must pay $500. A circus charging 50 cents admission and having a seating capacity of less than 5,000 must pay $250 as a license fee, while circuses charging 25 cents for admission and not more than 25 cents additional for reserved seats, must pay $100 license. Special provision is made by the revised ordinance for Wild West and other educational shows of similar character, having no menageries, by which $100 is the maximum license which they have to pay.

The revision was given its first reading last night and will be passed upon next Monday.

The council directed the city attorney to commence condemnation proceedings to secure the other half of the block located between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets between Third and Fourth avenues east, which the water board will eventually utilize as a reservoir site. The city already owns one half of the block.

A petition from several of the manufacturers and property owners of the vicinity of the Singer warehouses which were burned a few weeks ago, was received, asking that the hay and other refuse which was left after the blaze was extinguished, be removed, as it is, in their opinion, in great danger of catching fire again, to the menace of nearby property and buildings.

A communication was received from the village council of Proctor saying that while owing to the deficient car service, it was impossible for a delegation from Proctor to reach home after 9 o'clock they would like to meet with the council committee which is handling the matter of the Proctor street car extension that a mutual interchange of ideas migh be enjoyed.

A communication was received from W. L. Jackson, city assessor asking for $360 more in order to employ help to complete the work of the assessment now going on.

The paving of Twenty-ninth avenue west between Superior and Helm streets, with a storm sewer was ordered, as recommended by the board of public works. This work is for the benefit of the Clyde Iron Works.

* * *

On a motion by Alderman Staples, the Northern Pacific was directed to establish and operate gates at the railroad crossing at Fifth avenue west in order to insure the safety of passersby.

THE PERFECT WAY

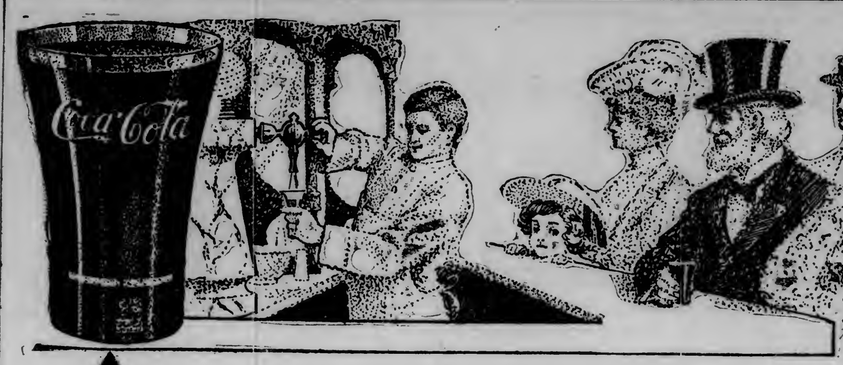

Scores of Duluth Citizens Have Learned It.

If you suffer from backache,
There is only one way to cure it.
The perfect way is to cure the kidneys.
A bad back means sick kidneys.
Neglect it, urinary troubles follow.
Doan's kidney Pills are made for kidneys only.
Are endorsed by Duluth people.

L. P. Schneider, butcher at McAuley's Washington Market, and living at 210 West Fourteenth avenue, Duluth, Minn., says: "A statement I made in 1898, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills, and which has been published in the local papers, very mildly expresses my opinion of that remedy. After suffering for a long time with pain through the back and loins, which made it almost impossible for me to stoop and lift anything without torture, and after using various medicines and treatments without effect, Doan's Kidney Pills cured me, and the lapse of six years has proved that the cure has been permanent. I am sure that I suffered the worst tortures of kidney trouble. Often the pain felt as if a sharp knife was piercing me. At night, although I tired out, I could not rest or lie in one position without getting sore all over. The kidney secretions were irregular. Since I found this cure I have time after time advised others to use Doan's Kidney Pills, and I never miss an opportunity to speak well of them."

WOMAN SAYS

She is "Silent" Smith's Daughter and Wants Fortune.

New York, June 18.—There may be a contest of the will of James Henry Smith after all. A claim for eight and one-third millions of dollars from the estate, based upon an amazing story of a hidden chapter in his life, is soon to be made in a New York court.

A New Orleans woman, Mrs. Simon Dufreche, is the claimant. That she is a daughter of Smith, born to him and Ellen Gargen after a romantic marriage in 1866 in Texas, is the ground upon which she will sue for one-third of the estate.

Mrs. Dufreche declares she has absolute proof that her father was the reticent, enigmatical millionaire who died last March in Japan. A marriage license, a wedding certificate, a record of the daughter's christening and many letters and photos are in her possession, she says.

TRUST IS BALKY.

Big Men May be Hailed Into Court and Compelled to Testify.

Washington, June 18.—Another clash has occurred between the Standard Oil company and the federal authorities. The oil trust has blocked the government's inquiry into its methods by refusing to give information, and the bureau of corporations is considering the advisability of hailing the big men of the trust into court and attempting to compel them to give the facts that are wanted.

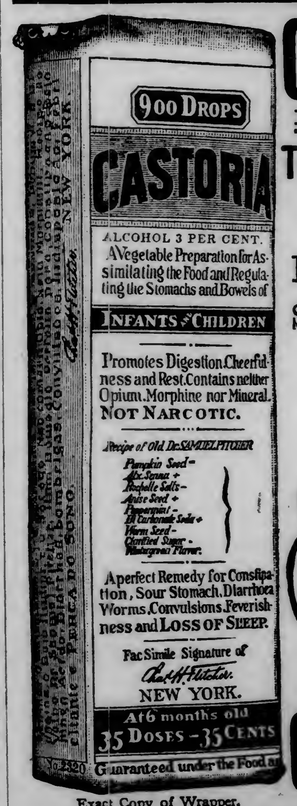

The attempts to dissolve the trust and to punish its officers for violation of the Sherman law have earned for the president and all those associated with him the cordial hatred of this big corporation. The oil trust has been particularly ugly to the bureau of corporations which unearthed the first evidence of rebating and other illegal methods, which made possible the successful prosecution of Western railroads for favoring the Standard Oil company, and also furnishing a basis for the present suits to dissolve the trust.

BIG SWARM OF BEES

Visit Baltimore and Interrupt Street Traffic for a Time.

Baltimore, Md., June 18.—A swarm of bees settled in Lexington street, near Howard, in the center of the retail district here and interrpted traffic for a time yesterday. The insects attached themselves to an awning forming a solid mass about a foot in thickness, which hung over the middle of the sidewalk. A large crowd gathered, the police were summoned and advice as to the best methods of capturing the bees was freely offered.

Finally a stall keeper from Lexington market nearby climbed upon a step ladder and brushed the bulk of them into a box with his bare hand. A merchant in the vicinity, wishing to get rid of the remainder, got a long pole and began to stir them up. The bees moved in a lively manner, as did also the crowd. Where the bees came from is not known.

Alleged East Grand Forks Embezzler is Under Arrest.

Thorwager Simes Taken Back to Explain a Few Things.

Crookston, Minn., June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Late yesterday afternoon Chief of Police Eck arrested Thorwager Simes, an employe of the American Mercantile company of East Grand Forks who is charged with the embezzlement of a considerable sum of money, the exact amount not being known here.

The authorities were looking for Simes either in Duluth or Bemidji as it was not thought he would stop so close to home. He was arrested at the Great Northern depot and when accosted by Chief Eck did not deny his identity, but refused to talk further than to say that he was "just off for a little trip." Simes was taken to East Grand Forks this morning and will be arraigned this afternoon before Municipal Judge Sullivan. It is reported that he will plead guilty and take his medicine, as if he is bound over he would have to languish in jail till the next grand jury in December.

It Will be Held at County Seat During the Month of August.

Roseau, Minn., June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The directors of the Roseau county fair at a meeting held here decided to fix the dates for the next county fair to be held here, at Aug. 14, 15 and 16.

The expectation is that the fair will be better than ever this year.

Now that the fair association has secured a permanent home for these annual fairs, it is up to our citizens to do their part and make a success of the forthcoming fair.

THIEF RIVER EVENTS.

Current Happenings Gleaned in and Around Red Lake County Town.

Thief River Falls, Minn., June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. F. H. Gambell has received an appointment from the interior department to take up some government work in Alaska, the assignment to cover a period of two months, July and August. The appointment is a flattering one, carrying with it generous pay and not a little responsibility. He will visit the Aleutian islands and the adjoining main land in an effort to locate school sites for the establishment of schools next winter when the natives congregate in their several camping grounds. He will also visit all the reindeer stations along the southern part of Alaska and inquire into their administration. The doctor, some five years, served in Alaska for four years establishing these reindeer stations and others further north and therefore is well qualified to carry on this work still further.

The meeting of the county teachers has been postponed until the meeting of the summer school at Red Lake Falls, when dates can be set for the regular conventions of next year.

Mrs. Bertha Jacobson, an old resident of the town of Excel, died at her home Thursday night of cancer. The funeral was held from the Synod church in this city last Saturday afternoon, Rev. P. E. Rosa conducting the services in the absence of the regular pastor, Rev. I. T. Aastad.

The city council has secured the services of County Surveyor Woods to make report on the probable cost of repairing and grading a bad stretch of marsh road in the town of North along the telephone road. This is probably the worst piece of country road in the county and as it is one of the leading highways for the farmers to reach the city, it was thought best that the city council undertake the matter of putting it in good shape. The county has already appropriated $300 for this particular point, but it is well known that it will require four times this amount.

The firemen's tournament meets at Red Lake Falls, this county, next Tuesday and continues through and includes Friday, June 21. The lower Falls is making great preparations for the entertainment of the crowds. Firemen will be present from all the larger points in northwestern Minnesota, including Crookston, Warren, Argyle, Bemidji, Hallock, Blackduck, Stephen and Thief River Falls.

This city will send about thirty-three firemen and will be further represented by many visitors.

E. J. Regan, assistant roadmaster of the northern division of the Great Northern railway, and who has had charge of the work on this line for several years past, has been transferred to Moorhead and left on Monday for that place to assume the duties of his new station. J. A. Gibson, who has been assistant at Moorhead, takes Mr. Regan's place here.

J. K. Hannay has sold his interest in the First State bank of St. Hilliare to C. L. Hanson, president of the Merchant's State bank of the same place. It is not unlikely that the two institutions may be consolidated in the near future under one management. Mr. Hannay will proceed to Washington to join his family and all will make that state their future home.

MINNESOTA.

NEW ULM IS GIVEN SCARE

Monday's Severe Storm Arouses Fear of Another Tornado.

New Ulm, Minn., June 18.—A severe storm, in the nature of a tornado, did much damage in this city and vicinity Monday afternoon. The Brown County Agricultural society suffered the greatest loss. Its exposition building was entirely demolished; the grand stand was unroofed; the reservoir wreck and numerous other buildings badly damaged. Throughout New Ulm many small buildings and structures partially completed were razed by the wind. So far as learned no lives were lost, and none sustained serious injuries. The storm caused much alarm among citizens who remember the destructive tornado which demolished this city in 1881, and hundreds of people sought shelter in cyclone cellars.

The storm was accompanied by a terrific rainfall which caused the Minnesota and Cottonwood rivers to rise rapidly. The tracks of the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad, two miles north of here, were washed out, and a freight train ran into the washout and was wrecked.

YOUNG LIFE TAKEN.

Three-Year-Old Farmer's Son is Crushed to Death.

East Grand Forks, Minn., June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The home of Karl Querin, a well-to-do farmer, living in the town of Birkholz, about fifteen miles east of here, has been saddened by a tragic occurrence, resulting in the death of the 3-year-old son of Mr. Querin. It appears that the hired man was hauling wheat to the elevator, and started out with two loads. Little Oscar, who was a favorite with the hired man, asked for and was granted the privilege of a ride and clambered up on the rear wagon. After proceeding a short distance the driver stopped the team and told the little one he would have to go home. When, as was supposed, the child had climbed down from the wagon, the driver started on again, but was horrified a moment later by a scream from the child, and looking back saw the little charub wedged in between the wagon box and wheel, the revolving wheel tearing its clothing to fragments. Quickly stopping the team the driver hastened to the rescue of the child. It was with considerable difficulty that it was extricated, and it was found to be bruised and injured in various ways. Death resulted half an hour later.

HOUSEWIFE BURNED.

Carries Flaming Pan of Grease Outdoors With Serious Results.

Crookston, Minn., June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. P. M. Finkenbinder, residing on a farm three miles south of this city was perhaps fatally burned in a peculiar manner Monday afternoon. She was roasting a very fat piece of pork, and the fire getting too hot the grease caught fire. She opened the oven door and grabbing the flaming pan rushed out of doors with the hot grease spluttering all over her hands, face and arms. In her haste she barely missed stumbling over her baby and a little girl. The skin pealed from her hands and arms as far as the elbow and the woman was in the greatest agony at a late hour last night.

WISCONSIN

NO DEBAUCH SAY EAGLES

Wisconsin Members of Order Deny Charges of Oshkosh Minister.

Recent State Meeting Not as Bad as Divine Claimed.

Oshkosh, Wis., June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Eagles of Wisconsin, and especially those of this city where the state aerie was held last week, are indignant at the attacks made upon the conduct of the delegates to the meet by Rev. Mr. Ayres of this city. He characerized the meeting as a wild debauch and a disgrace to the community. He claimed respectable women were insulted on the streets, and the police did not raise a hand; the Eagles completely running the town.

"I m willing to admit that there was considerable noise during the gala nights of the convention," said Dr. Genbe, worthy president, "but the picture painted by the preacher is unjust and untrue. There was no more disorder than there would be at a meeting of Masons or clergymen, except for the fact that preachers probably would not enter saloons. It is a fact that the city was so crowded with guests that many of them were unable to find quarters in which to sleep.

"In connection with this attack of the clergyman's I want to point to the fact that during the last two years the Eagles gave to widows and orphans of Oshkosh $5,000. We don't make it a point to advertise our charities or go around to the newspaper offices with the product of our pens, but in a situation like this I think such action is justified."

Milwaukee, June 18.—Members of Milwaukee aerie emphatically deny charges of lawlessness and debauchery made against the order by the Rev. Augustus Marshall Ayres of Oshkosh. Wives, sisters, and daughters, who accompanied the Milwaukee delegation, join in the general denial and take particular exception to the allegation by the Oshkosh pastor that women were insulted on the streets during the convention.

"I defy the Rev. Mr. Ayres and everybody else to point out one single act of lawlessness committed by a member of the Eagles during the Oshkosh convention," said Conrad H. Mann, worthy president of the Milwaukee aerie.

"I will admit that there was more noise on the streets than probably is common in Oshkosh, but that can not be avoided during a convention bringing thousands of people to a city. The fact is that the crowds were so large that the city could not take care of them and men and women had to walk the streets during the night or seek shelter in cafes, hotel lobbies, saloons, and other public places.

Much Regret in the Iron Country Over His Sad Death.

Funeral of Drowning Victim to be at Marquette.

Marqutte, Mich., June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are general expressions of regret here over the shocking death of Martin McNulty, the young man who lost his life by drowning on the Mesaba range Sunday, as told in the Duluth Evening Herald. He was so employed at the time of the tragic event of yesterday.

DAKOTAS

ALL CROPS VERY FINE

Encouraging News From the Wheat Fields of North Dakota.

Present Conditions Appear to Assure Bumper Yields in State.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arrivals in this city from the wheat growing sections of the state on all sides bring optimistic reports of the crop conditions. Up on the northern branches of the Great Northern out here, the grain is looking well in many places considering the fact that it was sown late.

On the Walhalla line it never looked better, according to those who have been north. In and about the vicinity of Milton the grain is in good shape and it has a healthy, strong green color this year which bids for strength and good stooling.

Up Langdon way, not as much wheat as usual is in, but later grain has been sown and the same is up and looking fine. All of the north branches are not near as bad off as was reported.

West, things are flourishing. Out around Valley City on the Northern Pacific the crop bids fair to be a record breaker. From Leeds comes the report that grain is looking fine and that with the present favorable weather above an average crop may be expected. The slop country is flourishing and the people out about Minot, Dickinson and all along the line are feeling very much encouraged.

The grain right about Grand Forks is looking fine. Parties in from Manvel say it never looked better or grew more rapidly and thrifty and all that is required is continued cool weather, sunshine and showers occasionally to make the bumper crop in many parts of the valley.

PORTAL BURNS; LOSS IS HEAVY

Fifty Thousand Dollar Fire in North Dakota Town.

Minot, N. D., June 18.—Fifty thousand dollars' worth of property at Portal was wiped out Saturday by a disastrous fire which started in Gootz Bros.' general store from a kerosene lamp.

The fire rapidly spread, despite the efforts of a volunteer bucket brigade to quench the flames.

Spooner Bros.' store, the Portal State bank, the office of the International Harvester company, the La Flammes restaurant were entirely destroyed.

The Spooner brothers live over the store, but escaped with their families and a part of their household effects. Cashier Nelson of the State bank also lived over the bank, but escaped safely.

The loss can only be estimated. Part of the property was insured for a fraction of its real value.

Suggestive Gifts Are Presented to Presidential Candidate.

Rapid City, S. D., June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary Taft's train was met by an Indian band and students from the government Indian school here Monday afternoon, together with citizens of the town. The secretary spoke briefly. An elaborate Indian tomahawk was given to Mr. Taft as a souvenir.

Sturgis was reached at 5:45 p. m. After the presentation of a souvenir bridle, similar to the one given to President Roosevelt on a previous occasion, the secretary made a short speech. Then he was conducted by a military escort to Fort Meade, two miles distant. He inspected the fort and reviewed the troops. The party left on the evening train for Omaha. Secretary Taft announced the intention of the war department to make Fort Meade a regimental post.

SHE DID NOT TESTIFY.

Defense Rests in Kaufmann Case Without Accused's Testimony.

Flandreau, S. D., June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—To the surprise of those who have been following the trial of Mrs. Emma Kaufmann of Sioux Falls here on the charge of killing Agnes Polreis, her domestic by torturing her, the accused did not take the witness stand and testify in her own behalf. The defense announced yesterday afternoon that it rested and the state then began calling witnesses in rebuttal.

Arthur A. Shasball, a Sioux Falls undertaker, was the first witness heard in rebuttal. His testimony was very brief, the defense objecting to the nature of the questions asked. This was the case with Miss Janet E. Larson, who was on the stand only a few minutes.

Dr. Frank E. Coulter of Omaha, one of the state's medical experts, then testified in rebuttal as to medical questions involved.

FIRST WOOL CLIP.

Initial Shipments of the Season Has Reached Dickinson.

Dickinson, N. D., June 18.—The first wool has been received in the Dickinson market for 1907. It came from the William Armstrong ranch and the entire clip is estimated at 80,000 pounds against 60,000 for 1906.

Last year the wool from this ranch sold in this city at 25c a pound, the highest price paid during the season. The wool is a little heavier this year to the fleece and the price a pound may be a little less, but the average receipts to the head will likely be about the same as last year. The crop of lambs is fully up to the average. Wool buyers have been arriving in the city the past week, but so far no prices have been made. Usually they wait until several hundred thousand pounds have come in so that they can get the temper of the different growers and sample lots from the various localities.

'PEGS HAVE NICE LEAD

Maroons Are Rapidly Moving Toward the Pennant.

Houghton and Calumet to Play Here on Way West.

The Northern Copper Country league season is now one month old, and at least the prediction of the croakers that the league wouldn't get through a month is knocked on the head. Still there are those who say that after the Fourth of July, when good holiday crowds are expected, the career of the league will be short-lived, but the officials of the organization rise to remark that they are ready to go through the season at any cost. They say that the Copper country magnates lost money last year and they are ready to do it again this year, if it should be necessary.

Be that as it may, the season thus far has been far from prosperous. Duluth and Winnipeg have done their part, but the Copper country towns have fallen down woefully. Poor baseball on the part of their teams have resulted in poor attendance on the part of their people, and the result is a financial loss to both teams as well as the Duluth and Winnipeg aggregations. It's too bad that in a district like the Copper country baseball cannot live, but the support of the people thus far this year has proved that they are satisfied to allow it to die.

Duluth and Winnipeg have been turning out good crowds, and, as the league officials say, they will very likely pull the league through the season. The two Western teams have only one more trip to the Copper country, and it may be by that time the two teams from that end of the circuit will have come up sufficiently to encourage the people there to attend the games. Should such be the case, the league will have no trouble finishing the season, with the financial end right. But from the present outlook, it will be no more Copper country for the Northern league after this season.

Unless there is some strengthening all around the circuit, Winnipeg will walk away with the pennant, from present indications. The Canadians now have a lead of eight full games over Duluth, their nearest neighbor and on the showing in the series, thus far, the Sox haven't much of a show to close up the gap within the next few days. The Maroons have been winning steadily on form and they will continue to win for some time to come, unless the other teams take a decided brace.

Winnipeg has a strong aggregation, in the field and at bat. The pitchers are working well, the team is fielding beautifully, all the men working together, and the men are hitting when hits mean runs. Duluth plays in the Canadian city today, returning home to open with Calumet Thursday and to remain home for three weeks. It is not likely there will be any more changes in the team for some time.

Tomorrow, the Duluth fans will have a chance to size up the Copper country teams playing between themselves, as Calumet and Houghton will meet at Athletic park. The two teams are coming West, Calumet to remain here and Houghton to go through to Winnipeg. The game here tomorrow is a regularly scheduled contest. Both Houghton and Calumet have strengthened since they were last in Duluth and the local fans will have an opportunity to size up their chances of putting over a few on the Western aggregations on this trip.

CULLED FROM THE SCORE BOOK.

Too much Terry.

Likewise too much Winnipeg all around.

* * *

In second place and eight games behind the leaders. Wow!

The Sox played good ball at that, but not good enough to win.

If Terry keeps this up, the big league scouts will be after him.

Helding was working behind the bat yesterday and he probably will do most of the work with the pad from now on.

Here's hopin' the Sox get away with today's game. Josie Krick or Jim Haney will pitch and either should be able to outpitch Sawyer.

The Sox will be in a nice mood to slaughter Calumet after their series of beatings.

* * *

By beating Calumet yesterday, Houghton very obligingly prevented the Aristocrats from tying the Sox for second place.

After the disasters of this journey, the Sox have three weeks at home, in which to recuperate and retrench themselves. But Houghton and Calumet are more dangerous than they were on their last trip.

* * *

George McLaughlin, who was released by the Sox, has gone to Devils Lake, N. D., where he will finish the season.

* * *

Dan Bitting, the Houghton shortstop, had been released. Taylor has moved over to short and Billy Brand, who played the position last year for the Giants, is at second base.

* * *

Both McGraw and Wisler are now giving satisfaction and they will probably be carried through the season. Both are good men with the indicators and there has been very little rowdyism since they have been working right.

Union Team Won.

The Union store team defeated the Ferns of Cascade Falls yesterday by a score of 19 to 18. This makes the third successive victory for the Unions. Any amateur team, 16 years old wanting games, call up Ray Lavell on the old 'phone, 682-K.

WILL RACE FOR MEDALS

Duluth Boat Club Will Hold Regatta June 29.

At Least Four Crews Will Enter for the Trophies.

The races for the Kelley-Killorin medals will probably be held on June 29, when the Duluth Boat club will hold a big club regatta.

The medals offered by Messrs. Kelley and Killorin are the handsomest rowing medals ever put up for competition among oarsmen in Duluth, and they are prizes well worth winning. There are four of them, and under the rules govering the competition, they will go to the members of the four oared crew winning against all comers in an open competition. Any four oared crew in the club may enter the race, and there are no handicaps or restrictions placed upon the event.

At least four and possibly five or six crews, will go after the medals and the races will be rowed in heats. The senior four composed of Church, Skelton, Hardolson and Whyte, will, of course, be the favorites in the race, but they will not carry off the medals without a hard fight. The "bantams" are out for the "junk" and from the form they have been showing, they will give any four oared crew in the club a hard race at the present time. They have been rowing together every night for six weeks or more, and in spite of the fact that the crew averages less than 145 pounds, they can get a lot of speed out of their boat.

Two junior fours are working out this week for the first time. The four stern men in the eight compose one four, and the four bow men the other.

There is some talk of a "dark horse" four to be organized among the older oarsmen in the club, who are attracted by the medals offered.

A trial four oared race will probably be held Thursday afternoon, when one junior four will be sent against the seniors, and the other junior four against the "bantams."

It is the policy of the club to keep all the crews training for the White Bear regatta racing as much as possible, in order to get them used to rowing against another crew. Last year the Duluth crews were badly handicapped from lack of practice in this line.

BREAKS UP HIS FOUR.

Coach Courtney of Cornell Trying to Strengthen His Eight.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 18.—Coach Courtney of Cornell broke up his fine university four-oared crew yesterday in an effort to strengthen the university eight, which, in the judgment of the veteran trainer, has never been fast enough to win. All the crews held their usual practice twice yesterday.

BAN ON SUNDAY RACING.

American Turf Association Holds Monthly Meeting.

Detroit, Mich., June 18.—At the monthly meeting of the American Turf association, held yesterday at the Hotel Cadilac, a decided stand was taken against the Sunday racing at the two independent half-mile tracks in New Orleans. A rule was passed that owners, trainers, jockeys, bookmakers and officials participating in the Sunday racing at these tracks will be barred from the tracks of the association.

John Ryan, who was suspended last year at Latonia, on the charge of failing to pay his markers to bookmakers, was reinstated on presenting receipts showing that he had settled his accounts. Steeple Chase Jockey S. Heydel, who was ruled off at Union Park, St. Louis, was reinstated on the recommendation of Judge Murphy.

To Meet at Hibbing.

Kid Paull has returned from the Twin Cities, where he has been for the past two weeks looking for a match. Tomorrow night, he will meet Jimmy Hagen of Oshkosh, at Hibbing, in a ten-round bout. Hagen is said to be a classy youngster, but Paull thinks he can put him away and will go to the range town confident of winning.

AITKIN AND THE CUTOFF CANAL

Commission Appointed After Public Hearing by County Board.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Aitkin is again in the throes of another cutoff canal excitement. It seems that while our friends, from Senator Nelson on clear through the list, were making such strenuous promises to bring us relief from the floods, and doing so little, and that on the wrong side of the question, there was another force at work in our behalf. Col. Knox, a member of the legislature from this place, had gone quietly to work and exhausted one plan after another until he finally hit up one that sems available for immediate use. Opportunity came tapping and found Mr. Knox at home. The public service has a dearth of men who are on the spot and ready to do business when opportunity comes along; and it is not the amount done, but the quality of the goods that counts.

There is no gift in the plan, which seems to consist of an enabling act through which the county commissioners are empowered to raise funds for the canals by issuing warrants and bonds, the whole to be finally paid by a tax on the lands protected by the canal. The drainage commission of the state advances $16,000 to start the work. To find just what lands receive protection will be a somewhat difficult matter, for when the Mississippi is at extreme flood it backs up all its tributaries in this vicinity, anywhere from five to twenty-five miles.

The canal is to be constructed under the supervision of the commissioners, one of whom the governor appointed; two to be appointed by the county commissioners. When the commission met to appoint these two members is where the trouble began. It developed at once that there was a strong element in the village of Aitkin who were opposed to any canal. In fact the Commercial club, which has "queered" every effort to get an expression of sentiment regarding this improvement, was opposing it. The club's president went before the commissioners and made such objections that they deferred appointing the canal commission and set a day to hear public expression in regard to the matter. That meeting occurred on Friday, June 14. The meeting was largely attended, notwithstanding a determined effort to scatter the crowd. Though the crowd was vastly in favor of the canal, the main clamor was raised by the objectors. The objection to the plan under discussion often used was that it was not just to tax the lands for this improvement, as the floods were artificial; that they are caused by government interference with natural conditions. Of course, there are private interests that co-operate with the government in this work of devastation, but, as the government stands between these and the injured parties, the government is wholly responsible. This is valid ground for objection. But we cannot get the matter before congress without the aid of our own representative in congress, and our own representative is sojourning in the enemy's camp at present. A change would require a wait of a couple of years, and a hard, vexatious campaign with the odds in favor of the politicians who ply the game solely for the cold cash they get out of it.

Again, to dig the canal would improve conditions over a state of nature at least to the amount of its cost. To protect the land along the river for fifty miles around, the canal would be cut seven to nine miles across a swamp. These lands along the canal route, though of the richest, are totally valueless without drainage, and would be redeemed in toto by cutting the canal.

One objection raised was that the water could not get away below, and that it would run back up through the canal and flood the country several feet deeper than it would ordinarily. Another objection was that the water would go through the canal with such terrific speed that it would sweep the whole country, into the gulf of Mexico. State Engineer Ralph was there and made a short talk. Mr. Ralph was over the ground some two years ago making a preliminary examination and reported on the cost and effect of the canal in a very logical way. One man presented him with a bill of damage on which he wanted a slight advance because he had heard the canal was to go through some of his land, and, by the way, the only settlement anywhere near the canal route is where it taps the river.

It was pointed out to the commissioners that the objectors were not men who were living on the land and that the men who were living on the land and trying to do something were, almost to a man, ready to stand the tax rather than do nothing. It was also pointed out that the names of the principal objectors could be found on the delinquent tax list in anywhere from one to a hundred places. By the way, the name of Russell Sage appears in several places on this list. As none of his heirs was here to object to the canal we infer that they are for us; this is pretty strong backing, though the name appearing where it does only signifies a parcel of land tied up and development hindered just that much.

While all the objections were being made, the real reason for the whole demonstration was never mentioned. The town people are afraid of losing their commercial supremacy. Rome fears separation from Tiber, as it were. But the only way they can lose out is by being absent or asleep when opportunity rattles at the gate.

One noteworthy feature of the pros and cons was the address of a wild-eyed and long-whiskered man, somewhat advanced in years, who rose in the far corner of the room, supporting himself upon a great knotted oaken staff, and discoursed thusly, in a thin, quavering voice: Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention, I have listened to your arguments on the one side and on the other with wrapt attention, but not one of your objections is a valid objection. Now, I have an objection that is 'gilt' edged, all-wool and a yard wide, color guaranteed not to fade in the sunlight. I have a farm, favorably situated in the flooded district. Fourteen times I have sold that farm and got a substantial payment on it, and fourteen times the annual flood has brought it back to me. Dig this canal, and the next man that buys this farm will keep it, and my source of revenue will be cut off. I shall be left penniless, alone in a cold, cold world. Yet, while all this is true, I waive my rights and will stand aside and let the canal go through, for I realize that I am getting old and must soon die, but the world must live on and move on. I realize, too, that the construction of this canal is a costly and untried experiment, but, while you have been talking, I have been thinking, and have evolved a plan by which the work can be done without risk of financial loss. I have heard it expressed several times here today that the town was dead, and that it was only leaning up against its past record to save funeral expenses. Now, as I look about me I feel impelled to say, 'These are not dead; they do but sleep.' Even now I see a listless yawn here and there among them. My idea is this, if you can make noise enough it may rouse the sleeping into action. If not aroused, soon death will follow, any hour. Go on and dig the canal, being as boisterous, and making as much din in doing it as possible. Then, when the canal is done, if the water refuses to obey the laws of nature, as has been stated here, and does wander away into the hills somewhere, and finally climbs a tree, leaving the canal only a long, dark chasm of aching void; and if the sleeper does refuse to rally and finally does die, you can cart the remains out and dump them into that canal, throw back the dirt, and that long-dreaded expense of burial will be paid by the canal bonds."

When the speaker sat down a silence fell over the assembly with the crash of a wrecked freight train. The sleepers muttered, and even stirred restlessly, and then everything settled down, and the snores began to rise regularly, resonant and peacefully as ever.

The county commissioners met the same evening and appointed the other two commissioners, the governor having appointed I. N. Cluff some time ago. We are promised injunction suits in plenty, but live in hopes. The day that canal is assured land will begin to sell in this neighborhood, and whatever price it sells at will denote the value the canal put onto it. At present it is a priceless treasure.

S.S.S. CURES CHRONIC ULCERS

Chronic Ulcers are the result of a deeply polluted and foul blood supply. The blood is filled with impurities and germs which are being constantly fed into the place through the circulation, until all the surrounding flesh becomes diseased and the sore an obstinate and permanent trouble. Every symptom of an old ulcer suggests pollution; the discharge, the red, angry looking flesh, the inflammation and discoloration of surrounding parts, all show that the ulcer is prevented from healing by the constant drainage through it of impurities from the blood. This impure condition of the blood may be hereditary, or it may be the remains of some constitutional disease, or the effects of a long spell of sickness, leaving disease germs in the system, or the absorption of the refuse of the body which has not been properly expelled through the natural channels. But whatever the cause, the blood is so weakened and polluted that it does not properly nourish and stimulate the place, and the sore cannot heal. Salves, plasters, lotions, etc., keep the sore or ulcer clean, relieve pain, and perhaps reduce inflammation, but can never permanently heal them because they do not reach the blood. S. S. S. goes down to the very fountain-head of the trouble, drives out all poisons and germs, builds up the weak, sluggish blood, gives energy and strength to the system, and by sending a fresh, healthy stream of blood to the diseased parts, allows the ulcer to heal naturally and permanently. Nothing reaches inherited taints like S. S. S. It cleanses the circulation of every trace of hereditary disease or impurity, and those who have nursed and treated an old sore for years will experience good results as soon as the system becomes influenced by S. S. S. Book on Sores and Ulcers and medical advice free to all who write.

ECZEMA COVERED HANDS 11 YEARS

Cracked and Bleeding in Many Places—Became so Bad that Nail Came Off Finger—Tried Many Remedies and Consulted Three Doctors, but Got No Relief—Now Cured and Is Very PROUD OF HAVING TRIED CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I had eczema on my hands for about eleven years. The hands cracked open in many places and bled. One of my fingers was so bad that the nail came off. I had often heard of cures by the Cuticura Remedies, but had no confidence in them as I had tried so many remedies, and they all had failed to cure me. I had seen three doctors, but got no relief. Finally my husband said that we would try the Cuticura Remedies, so we got a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment, and two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent Pills. Of course I keep Cuticura Soap all the time for my hands, but the one cake of Soap and half a box of Cuticura Ointment cured them. It is surely a blessing for me to have my hands well, and I am very proud of having tried Cuticura Remedies, and recommend them to all suffering with eczema. Mrs. Eliza A. Wiley, R. F. Then we saw in a newspaper about Cuticura Remedies, and they cured him after using in all two sets of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent, and now I wouldn't do without Cuticura Soap. MAY BE TOO CARELESS Fishermen May be Responsible for Brush Fires Along Streams.

State Law Provides Very Severe Penalties for Such Cases.

One of the signs that frequently confronts cruisers, hunters and fishermen on the walls of railway stations, on trees along country roads, or in the walls of logging camps, is a notice sent out by C. C. Andrews the state forestry commissioner, warning people against forest fires.

The prevalence of several large brush fires in the woods in the vicinity of some of the streams frequently fished for trout has led to a belief that the fires may be, sometimes, the result of carelessness on the part of fishermen who leave fires burning or who, after lighting a cigar or pipe throw the lighted match in dry grass or among the dead tops of trees, starting a conflagration that often causes great damage to green timber.

The state of Minnesota exercises all the caution possible to prevent forest fires and it is being urged that fishermen and others who are out on the streams or for outings in the woods, will exercise special care to see that no fire is left unquenched.

It is a matter of common knowledge that this state ranks high among the others in the protection of its timber from fire. Its fire warden law has worked so effectively that other states have imitated it because it seems to offer the largest measure of protection for the minimum expense. The law makes every supervisor, village president, and mayor of a city, a fire warden and these are made responsible for the prevention of fires in their respective districts and are expected to report promptly violations of the fire warden law.

The fire wardens may compel the assistance of any resident of the state in the prevention of fires and refusal to go to the aid of a fire warden may result in a severe punishment. County attorneys are also expected to assist in the prosecutions of complaints brought under the act.

Under the law it is a misdemeanor for a person to start a fire near a forest or prairie land and leave it unquenched. The punishment is a fine not exceeding $100 or imprisonment in jail not to exceed three months. The same penalty applies if a person refuses to go to the assistance of a fire warden.

Brush fires have been raging on the south shore and at various points along the north shore of Lake Superior during the past two weeks, although quenched in some localities by rain. Caution on the part of all who have occasion to build fires in the woods would, it is claimed, prevent serious loss to homesteaders and owners of timber tracts.

QUALITY OF THE WATER

Of the Great Lakes Investigated by Geological Survey.

Inquiry Into the Underground Waters of Southeastern Minnesota.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The investigation of the quality of the waters of the Great Lakes, begun by the United States Geological Survey about nine months ago, has reached a point where interesting results are available.

The object of the work was to determine the quality of the waters carried by the Great Lakes and the changes that take place in their mineral contents between the Head of Lake Superior and St. Lawrence river. For this purpose samples of water were collected from each of the lakes at regular intervals and shipped to the laboratory of the survey at Washington, D. C., for mineral analysis. Lake Superior was sampled at Sault Ste. Marie, Lake Huron at Port Huron, and Lake Michigan from the straits of Mackinac near St. Ignace, Lake Erie at Buffalo. The series was completed by the collection near Ogdensburg, N. Y. The stations were all located at or very near the outlets of the lakes, so that the samples taken would be influenced as little as possible by local surface drainage. The ideal positions for the stations would have been, of course, in the middle of the lakes, but for obvious reasons samples could not be taken at such places.

The analyses show that the waters hold in solution varying quantities of calcium and magnesium compounds, which, from their tendency to form scale of incrustations on boilers, are called incrustants. Named in the order of the total content of incrustants, beginning with the lowest, the lakes rank as follows: Superior, Huron, Michigan, Ontario and Erie. The waters of Lake Michigan and Lake Huron are nearly identical in quality, and the same may be said of those of Lakes Ontario and Erie. Lake Superior, however, carries just about half the amount of incrustants borne by the other lakes.

The reason for this variation is found in the geologic formations that surround the lakes. The streams flowing into Lake Superior drain areas composed chiefly of crystalline rocks, which yield scant quantities of mineral matter to waters flowing through them; the streams entering Lakes Michigan and Huron, on the other hand, traverse regions made up largely of soluble sedimentary rocks—limestones, sandstones and clays—which yield to the waters comparatively large amounts of the calcium and magnesium compounds. The difference in mineral content between Lake Huron and Lake Michigan results from the dilution of the water of Lake Huron by the softer water of Lake Superior. Lake Erie is highest in incrustants because it not only receives the waters from Lakes Michigan and Huron but the drainage from immense areas of sedimentary rocks in Indiana and Ohio and in the Province of Ontario.

The waters of Lake Ontario are softer than those of Lake Erie, because they have been diluted by drainage from areas of crystalline rocks in New York and the Canadian province. The water of all of the lakes is modified greatly by the large amount of rain and snow directly added to their surfaces, serving to measurably lower the proportion of mineral matter. The quality of the water in each lake varies but little from month to month; the variation is, however, measurable, and in winter the mineral content is higher.

The lake water is as a rule very clear, containing practically no suspended matter except in times of storms, when the sand and deposited organic matter near the shore are stirred up by wave action.

It has been computed that more than 29,000,000 tons of mineral matter, chiefly calcium compounds, held invariably in solution, are annually carried from Lake Erie to Lake Ontario over Niagara Falls; but, notwithstanding this enormous amount of dissolved material, the investigation proves conclusively that as long as the Great Lakes remain unpolluted by sewage they will afford the region surrounding them the best available water supply for municipal and industrial uses.

Investigations of underground-water conditions in Minnesota, begun by the United States geological survey last year in the southeastern part of the state, are to be continued this season, notwithstanding the reduction in the appropriation for such work made by congress at its last session. O. E. Meinzer of the survey, to whom the field work has been assigned, will begin work about July 1, and will be actively employed until late in the fall in a study of the deep waters, their quality, distribution, uses, and availability for industrial and domestic purposes. Statistics regarding water supplies, epidemics of water-borne diseases, and local municipal conditions will also be collected. If present plans are carried out the work will cover an area extending from Mankato westward to the Dakota boundary and from about the latitude of Brainerd southward to the Iowa state line. A report on the investigation in the southeastern part of the state will be ready for publication this summer.

SCHMITZ IS NO LONGER MAYOR

San Francisco Supervisors Appoint James Gallagher to Position.

San Francisco, June 18.—Under orders of William H. Langdon, district attorney, the board of supervisors last night adopted a resolution declaring Mayor Eugene Schmitz temporarily unable to perform his official duties and appointing Supervisor James L. Gallagher, acting mayor. The latter says he will assume the mayoralty at once, and he denies that he has made arrangements with the district ttorney or anyone to resign at demand in order to make way for a reform mayor whose name is yet to be announced.

Assistant District Attorney Heney, Rudolph Spreckles, Mr. Langdon and their immediate associates in the graft prosecutions are by this move placed in actual control of the municipal situation.

That they will be allowed so to remain without legal contest by the convicted mayor's attorneys is not expected. It is the plan of the prosecution to call for the resignation in a few days of some one of the eighteen supervisors. This forthcoming, Acting Mayor Gallagher will appoint to the vacancy a man named by the district attorney. As soon as he takes office Gallagher will resign from the mayor's chair and his resignation will be accepted.

The board, acting under orders from the prosecution, will select the new member as president pro tempore and by virtue of the office he will at once become acting mayor. The man most persistently mentioned for this place if Attorney Joseph Dwyer, president of the Independence League, but that political connection is said to render him unacceptable to Mr. Spreckles, the financial guarantor of the whole graft investigation. The first act of the reform mayor, if the prosecution's program is carried out, will be to demand the resignation of practically the entire Schmitz administration, whose places will be filled with reform agents as fast as vacancies are created. Unless disturbed by the courts, the new regime will endure until next January.

Mayor Schmitz, convicted last week of the crime of extortion, remains a prisoner in the city and county jail.

The resolution declaring the mayor's chair vacant and appointing Supervisor Gallagher to fill it was adopted after a fight on the floor. It ws opposed by Supervisors Tveitmoe and O'Neill. It was voted for by twelve supervisors each of whose confessions to bribe taking is transcribed in grand jury records. As none of these has been indicted for bribe taking the general opinion is that they are to escape punishment if they continue to do the bidding of the district attorney and his prosecuting associates.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Juvenile Bostonians.
BIJOU—Vaudeville.

NEW BILL IS PLEASING.

Bijou Attracts Large Crowds In Spite of Warm Weather.

Even the warm weather fails to keep the crowds away from the Bijou, and the airy little theater is by no means an uncomfortable place to spend a warm evening.

The bill this week is an attractive one. One of the brightest features of the program, and one of the best acts ever seen at the Bijou, is that given by "The Cummings Trio," Mrs. Cummings and her two clever daughters. They are all possessed of exceptional musical talent.

Wilber Held has a novel black face monologue act, which includes one or two catchy songs and some jokes that are really new.

"Held For Ransom" is the title of an attractive little sketch given by Barry and Johnson, and Flexible Frederick, the contortionist, has a number of new and very difficult feats. The Roys are conventional song and dance artists, but they are good in their line, and their act is a pleasing one.

"Pawnee" is the name of the new Indian march song hit, sung by Isador Silver, and the colored views illustrating it are above the ordinary. The motion pictures are fully up to the standard this week, and Sneider's orchestra opens the program with two popular selections.

Juvenile Bostonians.

A fair sized crowd saw the Juvenile Bostonians at the Lyceum last night in "Tips," the opening bill of a week's return engagement. "Tips" is one of the best operas in the children's repertoire, and it was well rendered. Babe Mason, Tiny Halcyon Martin, Ruby Lang and Grace Hutchinson shared honors in the leading roles. "If the World Were Ruled by Girls," by Babe Mason was a decided hit with the crowd.

PAPER PAILS FOR MILK.

For years London's milk supply has been blamed by medical men and health officers for a great deal of the infant mortality.

Now the dairy companies are to deliver mil kat the doors of houses in paper pails, or pitchers, which are said to be absolutely proof against germs and water.

The paper pails are being made at a new factory at the rate of 50,000 daily but they will require to be turned out at the rate of some millions daily if the demand is to be met.

These milk pails, made from wood pulp, can, of course, be used only once, says What to Eat. But they will be cheaper than metal pails, pitchers, or glass bottles, for one reason, because all labor of cleaning and sterilizing will be saved.

The pail is a simple contrivance, twelve times lighter than the ordinary milk can, is strongly made and is finished off, after being rendered waterproof, by being sterilized in a furnace heated up to 500 degs. Fahrenheit. Every pail has a close fitting flanged cover which can be quickly adjusted, and when fixed, effectually seals the milk from any outside influence.

EXPERTS ON FARMING WILL SPEAK IN DULUTH

EX-GOVERNOR W. D. HOARD,
Who Will Speak to Farmers of St. Louis County.

The public meeting to be held at the Commercial club for the benefit of all those who are interested in the agricultural and dairy development of St. Louis and adjoining counties, will occur June 27 next.

The preliminary arrangements have been gone over by a committee of prominent Duluth men who are interested in the dairy and stock raising projects and there is every promise that the institute of meeting will be one of the largest and best of the kind ever obtained for this part of the northwest.

The program is now being worked out and will be announced within a few days.

The institute is intended for a school of instruction to the farmers, dairymen and stock raisers who are already on the ground, the intention being to have other meetings in the future and to keep up the interest that has been stimulated.

The committee in charge of the arrangements comprises C. P. Craig, of the Swan Dahl stock farm; J. B. McLaren, who has a fine dairy and stock farm near Wrenshall; J. U. Sebenius, owner of Trianon farm on London road, and Edward Hazen, of the Boston & Duluth Farm Land company who has a large farm in Carlton county.

C. P. Craig, who has given the projected meeting a great deal of his time and attention for several weeks past, says that the farmers and dairymen here want to find out the right thing to do that will best develop the natural sources of St. Louis county, then they want to learn the best way of doing it. The men whom the committee have secured to come here are all men of national reputation along the various lines they represent. They are specialists in agriculture, at dairying and stock raising, and the information and instruction they will impart will be of the highest value to the local people who are endeavoring to do something along any one or more of the agricultural lines mentioned.

If a St. Louis county farmer or dairyman has a problem that is puzzling him, ample opportunity will be given him to get the information he desires through a question box. Discussions will be encouraged and everything will be done to make the event an instructive one.

As has been mentioned previously in the Herald, the list of speakers includes ex-Governor W. D. Hoard of Fort Atkinson, Wis., editor and publisher of Hoard's Dairyman; Dr. Wood of Mankato, the well known cattle breeder and stock judge; T. C. Scribner of Rosendale, Wis., who is said to have the most profitable 80-acre farm in America; A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the state experimental farm at Grand Rapids, Itasca county; C. C. Gregg of Marshall, superintendent of the Minnesota Farmers' institute, and J. W. Martin of Gotham, Wis., who is an authority on the Red Poll cattle and on agricultural matters.

An effort is being made to secure Dr. Hecker of the state university, but there is a possibility that he may not be able to come here this month.

The visitors will be entertained here by local people who are interested in the development of the county, and arrangements will be made to give them a pleasant outing, including drives into the country and rides about the harbor and on the lake.

POSITION IS UNIQUE

Chicago Record-Herald Discusses Gov. Johnson as Candidate.

Strong Man and May Have to be Reckoned With.

Chicago, June 18.—Sumner, the staff correspondent of the Record-Herald who is traveling with the Taft party in the Northwest, writes from St. Paul as follows regarding Governor Johnson and the presidential situation:

"I have not allowed the successes that have come to me as governor of Minnesota, coupled with some kind words from the outside to turn my head and lead me into the belief that I am an available candidate for president of the United States."

Governor Johnson, who has been much in the public eye of late, spoke as above in a talk on political affairs today. By reason of having been twice elected the Democratic executive of a Republican state, achieving a record thereby that is without precedent in Minnesota politics, Governor Johnson has been "mentioned" off and on as a likely nominee either for president or vice president by his party next year. It is timely, therefore, to hear what he has to say about some of the issues of today and of the Democratic political situation generally.

First, however, it should be understood that the use of the Minnesota governor's name in connection with the national ticket is not due to any effort made by him to create a boom for himself. The truth seems to be that he has discouraged the talk in his interest, not so much because he would not want to be president if he could, but apparently because he believes that he could not get the nomination even if he sought it actively. No man would refuse to be president of the United States, but some men are not wise enough to know their own limitations when the song of the siren seeks to lure them to cause for a great name.

"I shall be content," said Governor Johnson, "if I can round out my term as chief executive of Minnesota by completing work already begun. After that I am willing to retire and take up work in private life. The work that has been done under my administration as governor is work that concerns the people of the state very much indeed, but there is nothing about it in which the country as a whole has any particular interest."

One gains the impression that Governor Johnson realizes that the talk about him for the presidential nomination is due mostly to the unique position he has gained through being elected to his present office by a plurality of several thousand in a year when Roosevelt carried the state for president by more than 100,000, and by reason of his re-election in an off year by a plurality of 75,000. Minnesota is nominally Republican by from 60,000 to 80,000, and Governor Johnson might feel different than he seems to feel in regard to possible higher honors if he thought the complimentary talk in other states was due to some thing or things he had done to attract national interest.

As yet Governor Johnson has not been a familiar figure at national conventions or in congress, or in any of the circles in which men come into frequent contact with political leaders the country over, and so become familiar to the rank and file. He is likely, however, to attract more attention than he has in the national field, even if he never becomes a candidate on a presidential ticket, for he has forcible views on political questions and he delivers them in a vigorous manner. He has very positive views regarding what the Democrats ought to do in the next national convention.

"Revision of the tariff ought to be made the issue next," said the governor the other day. "It ought to be an honest issue, pushed by both the Democratic and Republican parties; but I believe it should be made the paramount plank in the Democratic platform. It is a popular issue and ought to be a winning issue. Everybody in the Northwest is for tariff revision, and has been for several years. The Republican leaders of this section are for revision, but they want revision at the hands of their own party. The Democrats want revision that will revise, and it has become apparent that nothing can be secured under the present political conditions."

"What do you mean by present political conditions?" was asked.

"I mean that the state of New Jersey, for instance, has more influence in the national congress than the states of Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas combined. Our representatives possibly do the best they can, but they cannot accomplish anything. They put in their bills from time to time and put forward some effort, and then come back and tell us it is no use. The country must speak on the matter before any results are achieved.

"Twenty years ago the cry of infant industries had a good deal to do with the sentiment in the Northwest. That cry no longer affects the sentiment in any manner. The growth of the infant industries into gigantic combinations and trusts has gone a long way toward weaning us away from the arguments formerly made up here about protecting Eastern industries so as to raise wages and make a home market for our products. But the people in the Northwest have grown weary and are getting more weary all the time of having everything going out to assist the protected industries and nothing coming in to benefit them.

"Right here in Minnesota the people feel that something ought to be done to bring about reciprocal trade relations with Canada. Canada is right on our border, is part of our national territory for trade; yet the tariff barrier that is raised shuts us off just as completely as though a solid wall had been erected on the division line. Our commerce to the northward extends to the state line and then stops abruptly. The Twin Cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis would have a combined population of three-quarters of a million of persons inside of ten years if a reciprocity arrangement with Canada were to be made.

"It should be understood that we are not for free trade. There are no absolute free traders any more, even among Democrats. But our people want the protective tariff revised so that they may get some of its benefits, and particularly so that our products may find the national market that lies north of us."

Governor Johnson holds some strong views with respect to government ownership and regulation, but he is not saying a great deal now on the ownership proposition, probably because whatever he has to say would be liable to misconstruction on account of the mention of his name in connection with the presidential nomination. It is no secret, however, that he differs from William Jennings Bryan on this question, but to attack Bryan's position right now would lead to the suspicion that he had a personal motive. Men who are talked about for president have to be very careful lest they be placed in a false light before the public. Governor Johnson has told his friends that he wants to avoid anything savoring of being a candidate for the presidential nomination against Bryan or anyone else.

"I believe thoroughly in governmental regulation of railroads and corporations," said Governor Johnson, "but I do not believe with President Roosevelt in a controlling regulation under federal power. I believe in state regulation to the fullest extent possible, and since I have been governor of Minnesota I think we have made reforms through state regulation in this particular. I believe that Democrats ought to combat any movement that would deprive the states of full control of matters lying within their boundaries. When this right of the state is invaded it strikes at the sovereignty of the state over local affairs, and I believe that the state should be sovereign in that regard."

To go back to the question of the presidency, it may be said that the subject of this article possibly would discuss candidates with considerable freedom if his own name had not been mentioned so much of late in that connection. To say that he himself is not a candidate might indicate to some that while he was not anxious to have an ambition to secure higher honors appear on the surface real work to that end was going on beneath the surface of affairs. For that reason again Governor Johnson probably avoids the discussion of the presidential question as much as possible.

There remains the matter of the vice presidential nomination, with which the name of Governor Johnson also has been linked. From what I have been able to gather during my sojourn in Minnesota, the governor would not want to run for the second place on the ticket next year under any conditions that, in his opinion, are likely to prevail. According to the governor's intimate friends he believes that the next national convention will be dominated either by the ultra conservative or the ultra radical wing of the party. Governor Johnson is not as conservative as was the last Democratic candidate for president, nor is he as radical as those of the other extreme. He therefore would feel out of place on a ticket whose head belonged to one extreme or the other, even if it were possible for a man of his type to be selected under the respective circumstances.

As one close friend of Governor Johnson bluntly put it: "He would not raise h—l enough to suit one extreme and he might raise a little too much to suit the other."

There is the possibility, of course, that this middle ground of the blue-eyed, youngish-appearing man of Scandinavian descent, who has risen to the highest place in his state as a member of the minority political party, may count for something when the presidential candidate makers meet next summer. It is possible, if not probable, his ardent friends here declare, that his Scandinavian descent would make him not only a powerful candidate in Minnesota, but in Wisconsin, and the Norwegian vote is something always to be reckoned with.

Aside from the fair complexion that distinguishes the people whose fathers came from the Scandinavian peninsula, it is proper to say for the benefit of those at a distance who have a slight knowledge of the governor's personality, that in no manner of speech or action does he betray racial characteristics. In talking of public affairs he speaks with a rapid flow of language and goes from one phase to another as if he had his aggregation of ideas all written out and was in a rush to finish delivering them.

TREE THAT REALLY WEEPS.

Tit-Bits: Among the historical curiosities to be seen at Chatsworth house, the residence of the duke of Devonshire, is a willow tree that weeps, very often to the personal discomfort of those beneath it.

To the casual observer it appears just an ordinary willow, but on closer inspection it is seen to be artfully artificial. It is made from a metal to closely resemble a living tree, and each of its branches is covered with innumerable holes. In fact, the whole tree is a monster syringe, being connected to a water main near by.

The key for turning on and off is close at hand, and many a visiting party has been enticed beneath its branches by practical jokers.

OSTRICH SALE DAYS.

Kansas City Star: "Sale days for ostriches are held in Cape Colony, South Africa, the same as public sales for horses and fine cattle in this country," Edward C. Baum, who recently returned from South Africa, said this morning. "Some specimens of the males sell for $2,500, and from $500 to $1,000 each is the ordinary price. The wild ones are not so valuable as the tame ones.

"The ostrich likes human company, and either the owner of the flock or some member of his family is with them all the time. The owners of the big flocks have recently discovered that alfalfa is the best kind of feed for them, and the alfalfa craze is on in the Cape. Prickly pears have been the ostrich feed in the past."

The Time to Act is NOW

As long as death is certain and its coming is uncertain, every man with responsibility must admit that the time to act is now. In its sixty-four years of history the Mutual Life has paid its policy holders 738 millions because they acted on the idea that the time to act is now. This vast sum would have been vastly greater had it included the patronage of men with equal means, in equal health, with equal needs, who failed to apply the truth that the time to act is now.

The Mutual Life Insurance Company has done untold good, has brought untold comfort to the needy as it has faithfully discharged its accruing obligations, but it has no way of helping the man who does not come to realize that the time to act is now. Let us show you what can be done to-day.

The body was found at 4 p. m., by Marshal Peter Cosgrove.

SMITH'S QUICK ACTION SAVES

Dashes Auto Into Tool House to Escape Train.

Hibbing, Minn., June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prompt and decisive action on the part of E. M. Smith saved him and his wife from being run down by a locomotive at Iron Mountain, Sunday.

They were crossing the track with their automobile and were right on the track before they noticed an approaching locomotive. A farmer's team on the right blocked turning in that direction, while on the left was a 200-foot embankment which meant death to attempt to plunge down Mr. Smith did the next best thing by turning his machine against a tool house on the edge of the embankment striking it with a crash which damaged the machine and gave both occupants a severe shaking up.

Reported Virginia is to Have a Thirty Thousand Dollar Building.

Virginia, Minn., June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—New theater for Virginia is reported to be an improvement in store for this city. On what appears to be reliable authority it is stated that a well known citizen has in contemplation the purchase of three lots adjoining two he already owns in the heart of the city, and the construction thereon of a $30,000 theater which will be up-to-date in every sense. It is unquestioned that the venture will prove a paying one as there is a demand for something of the sort.

NINE TO FOUR IN FAVOR OF CHISHOLM.

Chisholm, Minn., June 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the local baseball nine are feeling rather "chesty" as a result of the drubbing administered to the Buhl aggregation here on the diamond last Sunday.

The locals won by a score of 9 to 4. Weston did the twirling for Chisholm and he kept the men at the bat guessing, striking out fourteen men. Austin did some fine work with the stick making four hits out of five, one being a home run.

There were about 300 fans present and they enjoyed the playing from start to finish.

The batteries: Buhl—Cook and Lewis; Chisholm—Weston and Harrington.

RANGES IN BRIEF

Virginia—The new baseball park is rapidly approaching completion and it is expected it will be finished in a few days. Over $700 has already been subscribed and nearly as much more will be forthcoming when needed.

Tower—The Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church will serve an ice cream lunch at Mrs. J. W. Sherman's Thursday.

Bovey—The prospects of an automobile stage line on the Western Mesaba range between here and Grand Rapids, which John Hurley of Bovey proposes to install, at an early date, is meeting with general approbation. A buckboard touring car capable of carrying a score of people as well as mail and express will be used.

Grand Rapids—A fire in Ben Levy's clothing store Monday created some excitement but was quickly extinguished by the fire company, which promptly responded to the call. The damage was insignificant.

Tower—The steamer Mary Bell, which was recently purchased by Ed Osterberg at Ontanogon, Mich., arrived here Sunday noon. She will be launched this week and will be the largest boat on Vermilion lake.

M. C. Woodard has installed a new engine in his gasoline yacht and now has one of the finest and best yachts on the lake.

The "Pirates," who have been camping at Gold Island, returned Sunday evening. Fishing was reported as being good and many are reported to have caught a large number of fish.

CAR SERVICE WAS ONLY TEMPORARILY CRIPPLED

Cars Are Once More Running on All Lines.

Fire at Power House Forced Thousands to Walk Home.

Fire of an unknown origin in the power house of the street railway company, at Eleventh avenue west, shortly after 8 o'clock last evening, paralyzed the service completely for the rest of the night and seriously crippled it today.

The company was able to resume service this morning, using its two smaller engines on the west side of the power house, the large engine being put out of commission for a short time, at least, by reason of the water that fell on the machinery and belt before the salvage corps could get them covered.

General Manager Herbert Warren is out of the city, but Superintendent D. C. Moore, who remained at the power house all night directing the work of clearing up the fire wreckage, said this morning that only six of the regular cars have been taken off the local service, besides the extra cars during the rush hours.

Before noon today the company had thirty-nine cars in operation, fourteen double truck cars on the West Duluth and Lakeside line, three double truck cars on the Hunter's Park line, nine cars on the West Third street line, three cars on the interstate line, and the usual number on the Incline and Highland line. One regular car was take off Lake avenue, three off the East Fourth street, and two off the interstate line.

Overhaul Machinery.

The machinery was being overhauled as fast as possible this morning and there was a possibility that the belt on the large engine may not be so badly damaged but that it can be used until a new belt can be procured from the Twin City car shops.

The damage to the engine and machinery is similar to that two years ago when the water main burst in front of the power house and flooded the engine room.

The fire broke out in the rear of the car shed on the west side of the building and was confined almost entirely to that portion. The shed contained one flat car that was badly scorched and a quantity of chains, heavy tools, etc., so that the principal damage fell on the roof, which was partially burned, as were the doors and the inner woodwork. The fire reached the small office directly over the entrance of the building and the interior was badly charred. It is believed that the damage from fire will not exceed $5,000 or $6,000.

The fire department made a quick run to the scene of the conflagration, and the several streams caused torrents of water to go through from the first floor to the basement and sub-basement. This caused the most damage, as the salvage corps could not get all the machinery covered in time to save it.

The fire wall between the east and west portions of the building prevented the fire or water doing any damage on the west side.

The fire was discovered in time to permit all in the building to escape without danger. It was subdued by 10 o'clock, the department remaining some little time longer to make sure there would be no further outbreak.

Had to Walk.

But it was a case of walk with thousands of Duluth people last evening. The fine weather attracted big crowds to all the parks and places of amusement, and the accident occurred just in time to leave them all stranded, with no means of reaching home. The only persons who suffered any genuine discomfort were those who lived in the suburbs, who were compelled to walk four or five miles to reach their homes. Many West Duluth people took the night train, but the majority of those who were caught uptown walked.

Hacks were in great demand when it was found that there was little prospect of service being resumed before morning at least, and the hack drivers were not slow to take advantage of the conditions. Some of them maintained their regular scale of prices, but the majority charged outrageous sums for their services.

Many residents of the suburbs remained down town all night, and the hotels were crowded. Many who would have taken the walk home remained in the city because they feared they would have to walk back in the morning.

Complaints of the prices charged by hackmen have been made to the police, and some arrests may result, as there is an old ordinance requiring hackmen to keep a certain scale of prices posted, and to adhere to this scale.

On the whole people took the condition of affairs very good-naturedly. They realized that it was no fault of the company, and a walk of anything less than three miles on such a fine evening was no hardship.

Our Navy Equal to Any.

United States naval officers are not willing to admit that the monster battleships planned by Great Britain, Japan and Italy are necessarily more effective than our own ships, which are smaller. They assume, that with our seamanship, brains, markmanship, etc., our ships equal anything afloat. In medicine most everybody admits the supremacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, especially in cases arising from a bad stomach, disordered liver, weak kidneys or constipated bowels. If you are afflicted with any of these ailments the very best thing you can do is to start taking the Bitters at once. You'll find it excellent in cases of poor appetite, heartburn, sick headache, costiveness, dyspepsia, indigestion, cramps, female ills or malaria, fever and ague. The genuine has our Private Stamp over the neck of bottle.

ENGINEERS IN THE CITY

Government Experts Are Investigating Needs of Duluth Harbor.

Refuse to Discuss Conditions at the Present Time.

The board of United States engineers appointed for the purpose of investigating the needs of the Duluth-Superior harbor, arrived in the city this morning, coming over the Omaha. Col. A. M. Adams of Buffalo, N. Y., is president of the board.

Col. C. E. L. B. Davis, who was president of the board of engineers which visited Duluth on the same mission last year, is the only one with the party who was here at that time. The others are entirely unacquainted with local conditions, so far as personal observation of the present needs is concerned, and are in a position to go at the work before them with minds that are open to conviction. None will have anything particular to say at this time.

"There is nothing we can say just now concerning our visit here, beyond the fact that it is to investigate the needs of the local harbor," said Col. Adams. "The investigation has not yet begun, and we are, therefore, in no position to express an opinion on the subject. It is not at all likely that we will be able to make public our conclusions at all before leaving Duluth, if we arrive at any before our departure. The matter is important, and one that requires careful consideration. We will make a thorough investigation of the situation, looking at it from all viewpoints, and will endeavor to treat both the harbor and the vessel interests fairly, and do what seems best for everybody concerned.

"There is a difference of opinion, as you know, concerning the needs of the harbor, and until we have heard all sides of the story, and looked into the matter for ourselves, we will have no opinions of our own formed. Even when our report is ready, it will not necessarily mean that the recommendations in it will be carried out. We will make as complete a report as possible, and state to those who have the matter in charge just what our honest opinion is."

Col. Davis was also approached, but referred the questioner to Col. Adams, saying that as the board had only just arrived there was nothing special that could be said concerning it, further than outlining the schedule they expect to follow our while here.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon the visiting engineers met with Maj. Graham D. Fitch and Joseph Darling, local government engineers, in the government building at the canal. After a brief session, in which the preliminaries of the investigation were taken up, the party boarded the government yacht Vidette, and started on a trip of inspection about the harbor.

Congressman J. Adam Bede of the Eighth district of Minnesota, and Congressman Jenkins of Wisconsin, together with several prominent citizens of Duluth and Superior, also boarded the boats to accompany the visitors. It was planned to give the engineers a general view of the harbor and canals, and to take soundings in the vicinity of the canals, and wherever else it was thought necessary.

Tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, the public hearing will be held in the Commercial club rooms. The committee of the Commercial club, consisting of Capt. Alexander McDougall, W. A. McGonagle, George Spencer, L. C. Harris, O. H. Simmonds, J. ... Ferguson and C. T. Fitzsimmons, will put up strong arguments in favor of the breakwater idea, and it is expected that Superior will back them up in this stand. Outside the representatives of some of the big vessel interests, Duluth seems to stand solidly for the breakwater plan, and the indications are that the report of the board of engineers will favor this object. The central canal idea is practically dead.

Besides Col. Ames and Col. Davis, there are on the board the following:

Maj. J. E. Warren, Maj. J. Taylor, Capt. Harry Burgess and First Lieut. Arthur Williams. Maj. Graham D. Fitch and Joseph Darling, the local engineers, will act in conjunction with the visiting board.

ANOTHER BOAT FOR COAST.

Schooner Mary Mitchell Sold to Seaboard Transportation Co.

Capt. W. C. Richardson has sold the schooner Mary B. Mitchell to the Seaboard Transportation company of New York. The price was not given out. Capt. John McKeighan, who has sailed the Mitchell for several seasons, will take her to Montreal.

The steamer William Chisholm was bought by the same firm, and she will tow the Mitchell. They will be placed in the coal trade between Newport News and ports on the New England coast. The Chisholm and the Mitchell will load coal at Erie for Montreal, and they will sail for the latter port from Cleveland Wednesday or Thursday.

The Mitchell was built in 1888. She is 211 feet keel and 37 feet beam. She will carry about 2,000 gross tons. This deal makes twelve vessels that have been sold to coast parties this year. Most of the boats have left for salt water. The steamer A. J. Lindsay, which is being fitted out at Cleveland will sail for the coast early in July. The steamer Lucy Neff, which is at Detroit, will be ready to leave about the same time.

The steamer Winnebago will clear from Superior for her long journey to the Pacific coast July 1, according to the present expectations of the officials at the Superior Shipbuilding company's yards, where vessel has been undergoing alterations since last fall. When she heads for the Soo to take on a cargo of carbide she will be practically a new boat by reason of the changes made.

ENLARGING PORTHOLES.

Steamer Pere Marquette Will Have Larger Dead Lights.

Milwaukee, June 18.—The Barry Transportation company is the first of the Milwaukee passenger lines to enlarge the port holes, or dead lights, on its boats. The work of altering these on the steamer Pere Marquette No. 5 was begun today and after these have been changed the port holes on the steamer Empire State will be made larger.

Lower Lake Items.

Buffalo—There was a slight improvement in the supply of coal coming forward for shipment today and business was a trifle more active. Charters: Butman, Racine; C. W. Elphicke, Hand, Chicago, 40 cents.

* * *

Cleveland — Most of the ore shippers have a good supply of boats for this week's loading, but there is no surplus tonnage on the market. Small coal carriers are as scarce as ever.

* * *

Port Huron—The Lehigh Valley liner Bethlehem, which was sunk in collision last week, has been raised and is now at the Grand Trunk elevator here discharging her grain cargo. She will be taken to Detroit for repairs. The steamer's own pumps are keeping her clear of water.

* * *

Cleveland—The barge Polynesia which was in collision with the steamer Bethlehem has six damaged plates. She will be repaired at Toledo and will be out of commission two weeks. It will take about four weeks to repair the Australia.

Erie—The signature of Governor Stuart to the appropriation bill of $150,000 will give Erie an extension of 600 feet of dockage in the bay.

The Perry Iron company today lighted the fires in its iron ore smelter. The plant starts with a capacity of 200 tons of pig iron a day and will soon build its own piers for receiving ore outside the regular harbor.

Every Man His Own Doctor.

The average man cannot afford to employ a physician for every slight ailment or injury that may occur in his family, nor can he afford to neglect them, as so slight an injury as the scratch of a pin has been known to cause the loss of a limb. Hence every man must from necessity be his own doctor for this class of ailments. Success often depends upon prompt treatment, which can only be had when suitable medicines are kept at hand. Chamberlain's Remedies have been in the market for many years and enjoy a good reputation.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough.

BIG SNAKE SURVIVES.

Hastings, Neb., Hunt Rewarded by Turning Up Snapping Turtle.

Hastings, Neb., June 18.—The famous Hastings snake hunt is over, and "Old Sleepy," or Carter's snake, the most inoffensive and best mannered big snake in the country, still lives to rear his enormous head at some future date and gaze soulfully into the eyes of some half-paralyzed inhabitant.

Just why the whole countryside should have turned out to kill Carter's snake is inexplicable. He has been an inhabitant of Hastings for from twenty-five to forty years. In all of that time he has never been known to steal a pig or even a chicken. He has not eaten up any children. He has not even engaged in politics.

Before 7 o'clock Sunday morning the hunters gathered. About 400 people packed the road and around the dozen drays, trucks, carriages and buggies that were rapidly filled with the real hunters. There were thirty-four shotgun men. Hank Harnaby was the main "squeeze," as it turned out; he had charge of the commissary wagon, and it was not the ham sandwiches that clinked in the wagon as they started out.

WIFE SUES A "COWARD."

Asks Divorce Because Her Husband Would Not Resent Insult.

New York, June 18.—Mrs. George F. Bronson Howard returned from Europe Sunday to obtain a divorce from her husband, a novelist and magazine writer, on the ground that he used all her face powder and allowed himself to be called a cad, a coward and a liar without offering to fight. Mrs. Howard, who was Miss Rose Skinner of Norfolk and called "the most beautiful girl in Virginia," was married to the novelist Feb. 27 last in the Little Church Around the Corner.

"The very idea of Mr. Howard saying I spent money extravagantly," said Mrs. Howard. "Why, I sat in our apartments in a common little hotel in England evenings darning his socks. Money? Why, he made me account for the last penny he gave me, and that was not much.

"Every night my husband would spend a long time beautifying himself. He used three kinds of hair tonic, had his face massaged, carefully powdered his face and brushed his hair. One day a friend of mine asked him if he did not want some of her rouge, and that made him angry.

"And that wasn't all. He talked in his sleep horribly and used to tell how he had a man crucified in the Philippines, with all the terrible details. I told him to see a physician about it, and a practitioner told him his nightly talks were due to his heavy brain work. My husband said he couldn't help lying some, because all great writers did that."

Success in life is accompanied by increase of enemies. That's why Hollister's Rocky Mountain has so many imitators; it's a success. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Ask your druggist.

Poetic Appreciation.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I appreciate your principle of upholding the workingman against caddishness, as one not ashamed nor afraid to soil my hands with manual labor, as befits those who are of the world's brotherhood. I am with you in showing others Duluth's future greatness:

To see the highlands of Duluth,
Sure it's great around this way;
The vast space of opportunity
Duluth sees ahead today.

Why, I hear the vastness calling
To nations in distress
"The land awaits the people
To come and it possess."

Here the land is all before me, yet none can I possess. This I'm sure of unlike Yankees who would bet on it and guess what opportunities I see; but none, no none, no none for me. Aye, like a scapegoat in distress, my views is all I can possess.

THE MARKET IS BULLISH

"Green Bug" and Other Unfavorable Rumors From South Dakota.

Flax Declines During Fairly Active Session in Duluth.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 18.—Wheat had an advance in the American markets today, on bullish crop news from South Dakota and Kansas. The cables were higher and a good buying demand was another bullish factor in the market. Reports from Kansas were to the effect that hot weather was causing damage and from South Dakota came news of flooded fields and even rumors of the finding of the green bug there. There was a big decrease in the world's visible supply of wheat. Liverpool closed 1½d higher, Berlin ⅝c higher and Budapest ⅞c lower.

The July option closed ¼c higher in Duluth, ½-⅝c in Chicago, ⅝c in Minneapolis, ¼c in New York and St. Louis, ¼-⅜c in Kansas City and ⅜c higher in Winnipeg. The September option closed ⅝c higher in Duluth and Minneapolis, ½c in Chicago and ¼c in New York, St. Louis and Kansas City. The October option closed ⅝c higher in Winnipeg.

July corn closed ¼-⅜c higher in Chicago and was ⅝d to 1¼d higher in Liverpool. July oats closed ¼c higher.

Primary receipts of wheat were 350,000 bus, last year 267,000 bus. Shipments 207,000 bus, last year 117,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 171,588 bus.

Bradstreet reports a decrease of 3,512,000 bus in the world's visible supply of wheat. East of the Rockies there was a decrease of 1,589,000 bus, in Canada a decrease of 823,000 bus, and in Europe and afloat, a decrease of 1,200,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 1,154,000 bus, last year 1,125,000 bus. Shipments 867,000 bus, last year 631,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 882 bus.

The world's visible supply of corn increased 1,597,000 bus.

Wheat was fairly active in the Duluth market during the earlier part of the session, but trading lagged somewhat before the close. The tone was stronger from the opening. July wheat opened ⅛c higher at 97⅛c, advanced to 97⅞c by 9:50, went off to 97¾c by 10:15, reacted to 98¼c by 11:14, went off to 97½c by 12:40 and closed at that price, a gain of ½c over yesterday. September wheat opened unchanged at 97¼c, advanced to 98¼c, declined to 98½c, rallied to 99c, went off to 98¾c, reacted to 98⅞c and closed at 98⅝c, a gain of ⅞c over yesterday. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Strong With Active Buying by Commission Men and Pit Traders.

Chicago, June 18.—The wheat market opened strong and with an active trade. Commission houses and pit traders were free buyers because of an advance of 1d at Liverpool, reports of the "green bug" in South Dakota and dispatches from Kansas telling of damage by hot dry weather. September wheat opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 93¾c to 94¼c, sold at 93⅝c and then advanced to 94⅜c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 257 cars against 397 cars last week and 241 cars a year ago.

The high point for September was 99c. The market held steady all day, although a slight reaction took place late in the day, because of realizing sales. The close was firm with September ½c higher at 94¼c.

The corn market was fairly active and prices were firm. September corn opened ⅛c to ¼c higher at 52⅝c to 53c, and sold at 53⅜c. Local receipts were 824 cars with 256 of contract grade.

The market held steady in the last half of the day. The close was steady with September ⅜c higher at 53c.

The oats market was active and strong. Shorts were good buyers and there were reports of "green bug" damage in Illinois and Indiana. September oats opened ⅜c to ½c higher at 36⅝c to 36⅝c and sold at 36¼@36⅜c, later advancing to 36¾c. Local receipts were 161 cars.

The provisions market was firm because of a 5c advance in the price of live hogs. September pork opened 5c higher at ...16.00 and sold at $16.07½. Lard was up 2½c at $8.90. Ribs were 5c higher at $8.72½@8.75.

Sioux Falls, S. D.: We are receiving numerous reports of flooded lands from the low country West and Southeast. The Sioux valley for 100 miles south, mostly planted in wheat and oats, is washed out. Heavy rains fell last night and still raining.

Eastern shippers are steadily buying July oats here, and will take delivery and sell out the grain. The July delivery price is lower than that of current receipts of cash grain.

Broomhall cables from Liverpool, June 18.—There was a steady opening in wheat with values ½ higher, owing to a rush of shorts to cover due to the buying Rio Tinton in America yesterday. Offerings were light and with support quite general prices further advanced ⅜ to ½. Toward noon, however, an easier feeling developed and some of the advance was lost. The heavy arrivals at Liverpool and the fact that importers were selling caused the pressure.

Corn was steady at the opening with values about ⅛ higher. During the morning a further advance of ¼ to ⅜ occurred as a result of a good spot demand and limness of Danubian offers.

Logan & Bryan, Chicago, to Paine, Webber & Co.: The London Statist reviews European crops and estimates a shortage in the wheat yield of 280,000,000 bushels. There was a strong market at Winnipeg early and foreign buying reported there. Kansas City reported a sharp advance in cash wheat. Oklahoma points reporting 3 to 5 bushels per acre from the thresher. A Kansas report claimed yield of 8 bushels. Minneapolis leader claims bugs getting very numerous and spreading. The action of the market at the close was a healthy one and leaves the market in good shape for buyers in case of a continuation of the bullish news at home and abroad.

Corn trade showed a decidedly bullish tendency early. Part of the advance was lost before the close because of the setback in wheat. The hot weather, while generally beneficial to corn, threatens to injure the crop in Kansas and elsewhere. Until the crop prospects are better there are few who care to sell much corn in the open market.

The Cotton Market.

New York, June 18.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 2 to 8 points on higher cables than expected, covering and continued reports of damage from dry, hot weather and bill weevil in the Southwest. Trading was only moderately active, with expectations of a bearish weekly report from the weather bureau at midday and of a bearish private condition report some time during the day, checking demand for outside long accounts.

FANATIC KILLS HIMSELF.

Copenhagen, June 18.—A landowner named Christophersen, said to be a religious fanatic and desiring to die as the reformer, John Husshad, saturated himself with oil and set himself on fire. He was cremated.

The man who never tries to trade something he needs slightly for something he needs badly overlooks a ures in the answer.

LOSSES ARE FRACTIONAL

Stock Market Started Out Higher, But Had a Relapse.

Prices Slowly Receded and the Close Was Barely Steady.

New York, June 18. — Trivial price changes resulted from the smaller opening dealings in stocks. These were mostly gains and ran to a point in Reading, Union Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and to ¾ in Northern Pacific. Chicago & Alton sold at a decline of 3.

Stocks were purchased rather freely for an interval after the opening. Most of the representative railroads and specialties were benefited by the demand. St. Paul, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, Rock Island preferred, Amalgamated Copper, Anaconda, Brooklyn Rapid Transit, Interborough Metropolitan, Great Northern ore certificates, Westinghouse Electric and Distilleries Securities moved up 1 to 1¼; Baltimore & Ohio and Smelting, 1¾. Chicago & Alton preferred rallied 2 points.

All the buying orders were executed during the first hour and the market stagnated, but prices yielded very little ground. Bonds were dull and steady.

Stocks weakened suddenly on the announcement of gold exports for tomorrow's steamer. Reading sold below yesterday's closing and was affected also by the declaration of only the regular dividend on Central Railroad of New Jersey. Union Pacific lost all of its morning advance. Other changes included advances of 1 to 1¾ in General Electric, Interborough-Metropolitan and United States Rubber first preferred and a decline of 1 in United States Realty, 2¼ in Chicago Great Western preferred "B" and 4 in Federal Sugar.

Prices receded slowly until they were at a parity with yesterday's closing or below.

The market closed barely steady and very dull. Reading ra nofi to 1½ below last night and small fractional losses established generally. There were only slight recoveries in the last hour. United Railways and Investment rose 2.

Stock Gossip.

London to Gay & Sturgis: Consols have been forced to new low levels by the monetary conditions and outlook.

Americans show irregularity and the Pacific issues are below standing prices on apprehension over the contest between Harriman and Rock Island interests.

There has been no improvement in Kaffirs and in other directions the markets are quiet.

The favorable traffic returns have helped Canadian stocks and the continent is buying Rio Tinton. This has caused a rally of 1⅞ to 4.

• • •

Logan & Bryan, New York, to Paine, Webber & Co.: Today's market was wholly professional. Stocks were bought by traders early on continued rumors that Jersey Central would announce their dividend. After the announcement that Jersey Central directors had decided not to increase the dividend there was a general slump in the market with Reading the feature of the weakness. The tone after midday was a decidedly weak one. We continue to advise the sale of stocks on all bulges.

Treasury Balances.

Washington, June 18.—Today's statement of the treasury balances in the general fund exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve in the division of redemption shows: Available cash balance, $259,987,278; gold coin and bullion, $83,122,203; gold certificates, $61,803,130.

Copper Gossip.

Gay & Sturgis: A good tone prevailed for American Railway shares on the London curb, owing to more encouraging advices from New York. The strength of copper metal as well as the recent overselling of Rio Tinton kept that issue strong to the end, its last price 85, showing an improvement of 2⅜ per cent from last evening. The Paris bourse was firm and Berlin had a cheerful tone.

• • •

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: It is pretty hard to give any encouragement when all good news is ignored, and anything unfavorable is magnified to suit the taste of the most pessimistic. The market started off with a fair demand and stocks gained over a point from yesterday's close, but as soon as the demand let up, the bears took advantage and sold stocks down. One of the reasons given was the failure of Jersey Central to increase the dividend. The amount of it is the buying power is so small it has absolutely no effect on the market and until something turns up to change the sentiment we do not look for anything different.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: No news is sometimes good news, but not in this case. The market is so dull that it is useless to try to turn around in any stock. We hear encouraging news on the metal, and think within two weeks large sales will be made at only a few cents concession. The general feeling was a little better this morning and the market was bare of stock. This shows a letup in the liquidation, and looks well for a sharp advance in next good market.

Boston to Verne R. Culbertson: There was a better tone to the local market and it was fractionally higher. Utah Consolidated was the feature, opening at 48 ex-dividend and advancing to 50, and there was little stock offered. The rest of the list was very dull with most of the business in odd lots. There was no heavy offerings, however, and the market showed a tendency to rally. The market closed with fractional advances throughout the list. We do not expect much of a change, a dull and narrow market will probably continue for some time.

STATES ARE BENEFITED

Advertising Campaign by Canada Brings Thousands to This Country.

Commissioner Clark Says Border Immigration Records Are Broken.

John H. Clark, United States commissioner of immigration, with headquarters in Montreal, is in the city today on official business connected with the local immigration office. Mr. Clark is on his way East from a four weeks' trip to immigration offices along the border between here and the Pacific coast, all of which, together with Duluth and cities on the boundary east of here, are in his territory.

"There is no special significance attached to my visit here," said the commissioner, who registered at the Spalding last evening. "I have been West and stopped off in Duluth to see Inspector Dean on my way home. I find all the border offices in good shape, with everything running smoothly.

"The United States is being greatly benefitted by the campaign the Dominion government is carrying on in the way of getting a desirable class of immigrants to settle in Canada. Canada is spending a vast amount of money in advertising her resources, in order to attract new settlers, and is succeeding in bringing thousands of aliens to America. A good many of these make their homes in Canada, but there are also many who ultimately reach the United States, attracted here by high wages and general prosperous and attractive conditions.

"Western Canada is not so far advanced as the western part of the United States, and the fact that newcomers there do not find life so easy and agreeable as in this country, leads thousands to cross the border into the United States, which is, of course, a benefit to business interests, for there is a pronounced scarcity of labor through the West, and newcomers in search of employment, or wanting land for farming purposes, are gladly welcomed.

"While it is true that the Dominion government does not have as strict immigration laws as we, our offices all along the border are a protection against undesirable aliens, and only those whom we think will make good citizens are admitted, while the other element is refused admission. The United States has just as rigid an inspection along the Canadian border as at Atlantic and Pacific coast ports, so you see the aliens who come here from Canada are the cream of those who have been attracted to America by inducements held out to them by our neighbors to the North.

"So many of these foreigners are coming to this country from Canada that the number of aliens entering the port of Duluth this year will undoubtedly be larger than ever before. Already the records for the first few weeks of navigation have been broken in Duluth. An unprecedented number of aliens are coming this way.

"On July 1 the increased head tax law will become effective. Heretofore the tax has been $2 for each alien granted admission to the United States but after July 1 it will be $4. All the steamship companies, both on the lakes and in the ocean traffic, have entered into an agreement with the government under the terms of which the increased tax will be collected."

Commissioner Clark left over the South Shore this afternoon for Montreal.

IS CAUSING DISCUSSION

Situation as to Fourth Avenue Paving Contract is Unusual.

Claimed That an Injustice May be Done Contractors.

Considerable discussion has been aroused by the action of the city council, last evening, in turning down the award of the contract for the Fourth avenue west paving to J. W. Preston, and referring the matter back to the board, with the evident intention of giving the job to Hugh Steele, if possible.

The board of public works reported that the contract for the paving of Fourth avenue west had been let to J. W. Preston, but in the list of bids it was shown that Hugh Steele was about $100 lower than Preston on the job. The board did not explain this seeming inconsistency in the report, but sent in a letter addressed to the committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks.

The letter explained that when he undertook the contract for paving West Superior street, Hugh Steele agreed to furnish a bond for $28,000, 35 per cent of the total job, to insure its maintenance for five years. This is the usual bond which is demanded of contractors for paving. When the job was completed, Mr. Steele stated that his application for the bond had been made to a bonding company when the job was complete, and on the strength of this the board advanced him his money, holding out the usual 5 per cent. The bonding company was so exacting in its requirements as to collateral, etc., that Mr. Steele was unable to secure the bond, and it has been dragging along ever since. The board still has the 5 per cent as surety that the work will be kept in shape, but they stated in the letter that they did not consider that Mr. Steele should be allowed to enter into competitive bidding on city work until he had furnished the bond, or made some arrangement satisfactory to the council.

The council committee, however, did not see fit to act in accordance with the board's suggestion, and promptly turned down the Preston contract. Alderman Haven moved that the city engineer report the amount of surety which in his opinion would be sufficient to guarantee the maintenance of the street, with the evident intention of coming to an agreement with Mr. Steele, whereby he could be reinstated in the good graces of the board.

It is pointed out that the majority of the contractors who have done work for the city have all their property mortgaged to these bonding companies as surety for their performance of maintenance duties. To allow one contractor to be negligent for any reason while the others are living up to the requirements is characterized as somewhat unfair.

One phase of the situation is that the contractors operating on city jobs hereafter might take advantage of the precedent established in this case and require the council to base their surety upon an estimate by the city engineer instead of upon the 15 per cent basis which has heretofore prevailed. The council could not consistently refuse the demand.

ST. MARY'S NEEDS NEW BUILDING

Number of Patients Taxes Capacity of the Hospital.

The report just issued by St. Mary's hospital in this city shows that the number of patients admitted during March of this year exceeded 200, a larger number for one month than the hospital has admitted any previous year. Private rooms especially are much in demand. From the present outlook for a rapid increase in Duluth's population, St. Mary's hospital will soon need an additional building to accommodate the patients seeking admission. However, limited means and other circumstances render such a project impracticable just now.

Dr. J. L. Post of St. Louis, Missouri, has already arrived to take his place on the interne staff during the coming year. Two other physicians are expected soon from the University of Minnesota to fill like positions.

MERELY TEMPORARY

Is the Appointment of James Gallagher as Mayor of Frisco.

San Francisco, June 18.—James L. Gallagher's appointment yesterday as acting mayor by the board of supervisors is only a temporary one. He will serve until the supreme court has decided whether or not it will admit Mayor Schmitz to bail pending the hearing of his petition for a new trial. Should Schmitz be granted freedom on bail, Gallagher will, of course, go out of office at once, for the mayor will then be able to perform the duties of chief executive of the city.

NORWEGIAN WARSHIPS TO VISIT NEW YORK.

New York, June 18.—The first man of war representing Norway, will enter the harbor of New York today when the battleship Harald Haarfagre arrives from Hampton Roads. During the warship's stay here the officers will be entertained by the Scandinavian colony.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Washington, June 18.—Thomas Johnson, negro, 25 years old, employed as a clerk in the department of agriculture, today, shot and fatally wounded Jennie Washington, a 17 year old negro girl and then committed suicide by shooting. Johnson's act is attributed to jealousy.

RECOUNT WILL PROVE A BENEFIT WHICHEVER WAY IT RESULTS, SAYS HUGHES

Governor of New York Signs Bill for Judicial Recanvass of Votes.

GOVERNOR HUGHES.

Albany, June 19.—Governor Hughes has signed the New York city recount bill introduced by Assemblyman Prentice, and providing for a recount and recanvass by judicial process of the ballots cast for the office of mayor at the election in New York city in November, 1905.

Governor Hughes said:

"It is well known to all who are conversant with sentiment in the city of New York that there is widespread doubt as to the accuracy of the official canvass.

"If the result of this recanvass is to establish the election of Mayor McClellan, it will largely re-establish confidence in our election methods and make the more unlikely the recurrence of a similar situation. If, on the other hand, the recanvass should show that Mr. Hearst was elected every fair-minded citizen, whatever his political convictions, would rejoice that the fear of establishing a precedent did not prevent the righting of a wrong and the giving of the office to the man who was entitled to it."

OVERAWED BY TROOPS

Body Guard of French Mayor Allows Him to be Taken.

Great Excitement Prevails in Winegrowing Districts.

Paris, June 19.—M. Ferroul, the striking mayor of Narbonne, next to Marcelin Albert, the most prominent figure in the wine growers revolt in the south of France, was arrested at his residence at Narbonne at 5:20 this morning and hurried away to Montpellier.

Before daybreak all roads leading to M. Ferroul's house were held by cuirassiers in strong force. His bodyguard of winegrowers, among whom were many women, who had been watching nightly over the leader, was on duty as usual; but when the winegrowers found themselves surrounded by the armed forces of the government they did not attempt any resistance. When M. Ferroul appeared in custody of a police commissary the crowd momentarily threatened a rescue, but the mayor begged that there be no conflict with the troops and he was placed in a carriage and, escorted by 150 cuirassiers, taken to the station at Narbonne where a special train was waiting and started immediately for Montpellier.

Intense excitement prevails at Narbonne but the people thus far have been overawed by the military display.

At Argelliers the state and police authorities escorted by an imposing military force raided the headquarters of the central committee of the winegrowers' organization at day break with warrants for the arrest of Marcelin Albert and the members of the central committee, but they found that the leader of the movement and several of his lieutenants had already fled. Only three committeemen were captured. They were sent to Montpellier.

Strong forces of troops are scouring the country, hunting down the fugitives. Their escape was facilitated by the fact that the people burned the bridge at the entrance of Argelliers last evening, making a long detour necessary and delaying the arrival of the government's representatives.

REFUSED TO OBEY

The Hot Headed Sappers Were Bound to Strike Anyway.

Mutiny Subdued After Seventy Were Killed or Wounded.

St. Petersburg, June 19.—Details of the mutiny of sappers at Kiev say that it was suppressed only after a bloody engagement at midnight, June 17, between the mutineers and loyal troops, in which about seventy men were killed or wounded.

Kiev is one of the cities where revolutionary ideas have made the greatest inroads upon the army, and the revolutionary military organization is very powerful, counting among its members dozens of officers. The mutiny was planned to coincide with a general political strike, as a reply to the dissolution of parliament, involving the railroads, telegraphs and mails. In several of the southern provinces arrangements for the strike had been making for months, under the leadership of an experienced organizer, M. Loskotj, who was a member of the first parliament. The decision of the revolutionary staff at St. Petersburg to refrain from demonstrations was disobeyed by the hot-headed sappers. At midnight of June 17, 500 men, at a given signal, left their beds, disarmed the sentries, hurriedly dressed, obtained possession of their rifles, broke into the armory, secured some loaded cartridges, and then marched to the camps and fired a volley into the air. The officer on duty, Capt. A. Kuloff, ran out and addressed the mutineers, advising them to disperse. He then called out another battalion, drew the men up and led a charge on the mutineers, ordering them to surrender. Upon their refusal to do so, Capt. A. Kuloff ordered the troops to fire, and fell dead himself at the first volley.

The fighting continued for several minutes. Half a dozen others were killed and about sixty were wounded. Finally the mutineers, with no officers, no leaders and no plans, wavered and fled. Two hundred and fifty were captured, but 193 eluded pursuit and hid in the city.

SECRETARY TAFT SAYS LET THE QUESTION MARK STAND

Leavenworth, Kan., June 19.—When William H. Taft, secretary of war, arrived here this morning his attention was called by an Associated Press correspondent to a story printed in the Kansas City papers quoting the Washington Times to the effect that the secretary may retire from the presidential race, it being intimated that he is not physically equipped for a long presidential campaign, and citing his illness at St. Paul as giving color to the rumor. The story bore this caption:

"Taft not to run?"

Secretary Taft declined to discuss the matter and dismissed the matter by saying, laughingly:

"You just let that question mark stand."

The secretary looked in perfect health and said that he never felt better in his life.

Mr. Taft spent the greater part of the day at the fort, departing in the afternoon for Ottawa, Kan., where tomorrow he will deliver an address at the state Chautauqua assembly.

ARTICLES IN THE MINERS' MAGAZINE INTRODUCED

By Attorneys for State in Haywood Case and Offered as Evidence.

The Defense Makes Strong Objection to Their Presentation to the Jury.

Boise, Idaho, June 19.—The trial of William D. Haywood was resumed at 9:30 a. m. Senator Borah commenced the day's proceedings by offering and specifically naming the articles in the various numbers of the Miners' Magazine, which he offered as evidence. To the introduction of each exhibit the defense made general objection and stated that they would present specific objection to each. The general objection was that the evidence failed to connect the defendant with the murder of Steunenberg.

The naming and describing of the articles in the magazine took nearly half an hour. The articles themselves will be read to the jury later if the court admits them as evidence.

E. F. Richardson presented the argument for the defense against the admission of the magazine articles as evidence. He maintained that the articles offered by the state failed to

ROOSEVELT THE ISSUE, SAYS NEW

Kansas City, June 19.—Harry S. New, chairman of the Republican national committee, discussing the campaign of 1908 informally last night at the banquet of the Missouri Republic club, said:

"The country is not going back to silver. A new issue must be found. That issue will be Theodore Roosevelt.

"The man who announces himself for office must be a Roosevelt supporter.

"Those who have been criticising the president for his handiwork in various recent exposures cannot keep their equilibrium in 1908. They will be beaten long before the country goes to the polls."

PRINCE TO MARRY DANISH ACTRESS

Copenhagen, June 19.—An interesting romance attaches to the reported engagement of Prince Eugene Thomas, and Villy Larsen, a Danish actress.

The prince is a relative of the princess of Schaumburg-Lippe, being thus connected with the Danish royal family. His fiancee is poor. The young people met in Vienna three years ago. The prince fell instantly in love. He traveled extensively striving to forget the actress but when she arrived unexpectedly in Copenhagen recently, Prince Eugene proposed and was accepted. The marriage will take place at the prince's castle in Hungary.

MESSAGE OF OPPORTUNITY PRESENTED BY GOVERNOR JOHNSON AT PHILADELPHIA

GOVERNOR JOHNSON.

Gives Commencement Address at the University of Pennsylvania.

Golden Chances for All With Brains, Character and Industry.

How Mayo, Hill, Cole and Kellogg Gained Their Eminence.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota delivered the chief address at the commencement exercises of the University of Pennsylvania this morning. Opporunity was the keynote of his remarks addressed to the graduates, and coupled with the golden chances which he pointed out were presented for anybody with brains, character and industry, he dwelt upon the responsibilities which rest upon those to whom great opportunities are given. Genius, which consists of application and hard work, was illustrated by the governor's reference to four Minnesota men—Dr. Mayo, the celebrated surgeon; James J. Hill, the head of the Great Northern railway system; Thomas F. Cole, president of the Oliver Mining company, and Frank B. Kellogg, the eminent lawyer—all of whom had humble beginnings and whose successes are the result of a lifetime of high resolves and sacrifice.

Made Doctor of Laws.

Degrees were given to fifty-six students. The degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon Governor Johnson, among others. The governor's commencement oration was as follows:

For the first time in the history of this great institution of learning, a history which runs back to colonial days, your provost has elected to go into the Far Northwest for some one to deliver your commencement address. Why the marked honor thus conferred has fallen to me, and to the great state which I represent, he has not fully explained.

Perhaps he thought, and rightly, of the Northwest, the empire which extends from the Great Lakes to the Pacific, as the gateway of opportunity, as the sunlit door to the world's youth and education and ambition, as the promised land for the trained minds and progressive ideals of the children of Israel on the Atlantic side of the Alleghanies.

He may have thought, too, and again rightly, that what the valley of the Delaware has been to the American continent and to the world during 300 years of our country's colonial and constitutional history, that the valley of the Mississippi is destined to be, yea, in part has already become, as a factor in the nation's political and industrial development, and as a mecca for the industrious homeseekers of Europe, in the noonday of our nation's twentieth century expansion, and on during the generations to come; and with foresight and wise beneficence he may have planned for you—a plan which has my cordial endorsement and most heartfelt support—a part and a place in that great central field of national

DROWNING OF WOMAN

At Bridgetown, N. J., Surrounded by Suspicious Circumstances.

Bridgetown, N. J., June 19.—Miss Mary Vennell of this city, lost her life in Sunset lake last night under such peculiar circumstances as to cause the police to start a thorough investigation. Shortly before 10 o'clock the girl started with George Evans, of this place, for a row on the lake in a steel non-sinkable boat. Shortly afterward the boat was found filled with water while nearby was floating a hat. The

STATUS OF FINANCES

Of Standard Oil Company is Desired by Judge Landis

Before He Imposes Fine for Violation of Laws.

Chicago, June 19.—Judge Landis, before whom the recent trial of the government against the Standard Oil company on the charge of rebating was held, today summoned the attorneys on both sides of the case into his chambers and asked them for details regarding the financial status of the company, and for further information regarding its dealings with the Chicago & Alton railway.

The verdict in the case was against the Standard Oil company and placed it within the discretion of the judge to impose fines amounting to many millions of dollars. The company entered motions for a new trial and in arrest of judgment, but no decision upon them has, as yet, been made by Judge Landis.

The form of the court's request for information today was in the following form:

"Not for consideration in ruling on points of law involved in the motions for a new trial, and in arrest of judgment, but for the information of the court in determining the final order to be entered in this case the court desires to know what association or corporations owns the stock of the defendant company; what the outstanding capital stock of such holding company is; what such company's net earnings and dividends were during 1903, 1904 and 1905; if such holding company, or the defendant in this case owns the stock or property of the Union Tank line; what, if any, payments of money did the Chicago & Alton Railway company make for the use of the Union Tank line during the period covered by the indictment; why was the rate 10 cents per 100 pounds inserted by the Chicago & Alton company in some of its bills for transporting the defendants' property during the time mentioned?"

The court also announced that it desired copies of tariffs filed by the railroads with the interstate commerce commission and asked for additional technical knowledge concerning them.

A CHICAGO SIDEWALK

Shot High in the Air by Explosion of Gas.

Firemen Overcome in Attempting to Shut Off the Gas.

Chicago, June 19.—An explosion of gas blew up eight sections of the stone sidewalk in front of the Dearborn hotel, 398 to 404 State street, last night, causing a panic among the guests and injuring several persons. Guests ran through the corridors screaming and climbed down the fire escapes.

Three firemen, in attempting to shut off the gas, were overcome and were carried to the street by comrades.

When the explosion lifted the sidewalk three men were passing the hotel. They were raised in the air and fell back into the basement with the broken flagstones. One of them suffered injuries to his leg. The other men were stunned.

After the explosion, the hotel was left in darkness, and the building soon was filled with fumes from open gas jets. Firemen entered the building and groped about turning off the gas. It was while trying to repair a leak in a pipe that the firemen were overcome.

The explosion is thought to have been caused by sparks from an arc light, which fell to the walk and ignited the escaping gas. The lamp post was thrown through a window of a pawnshop by the crash.

ROAD WORK IS PROGRESSING

Repairs Are Well Under Way in Kauppi's District.

County road work is being actively pushed in Commissioner Charles Kauppi's district. Yesterday Mr. Kauppi returned from Kelsey, where he inspected two miles of the Miller Trunk road. Work will be started this week on the Cotton and the Kelsey roads, and next week the McArthur road will be improved between Burnett and Independence. Today Commissioner Kauppi is inspecting the work on the Culver road. L. D. Hawkinson, who was awarded the contract for filling at Helvig's creek on the Miller Trunk road north of Cloquet river, has made good progress with the work, the ditches being cut out. It is intended to change the course of the creek so that it will cross the road but once, where formerly there were three crossings within a space of a few hundred yards.

SCHMITZ WILL APPLY

To State Court of Appeals for Release From Jail on Bail.

San Francisco, June 19.—Mayor Schmitz will apply to the state court of appeals this afternoon for release on bail. His application, it is understood, will contain several sensational statements. Judge Lawlor today, on request of Attorney Frank Drew, signed an order permitting Mayor Schmitz to leave the county jail for consultation with his attorney. The order is identical with the one issued yesterday.

IT VARIED.

Los Angeles Times: Edwin Markham said of child labor, at a dinner in New York:

"And where we have a fair child-labor law, it is too often made null through the lies that the children's parents make them tell.

"A Norristown minister asked a poor, thin, pallid bobbin boy how old he was.

"'It depends,' the boy answered cautiously.

"'Depends?' said the minister. 'Depends on what?'

"'If I'm goin' on the train, I'm under 12; but if I'm lookin' for a job I'm over 14.'"

TO CHANGE THE STAMPS

New Series of Stamped Envelopes to be Issued.

Increase of Four Cents Per 1,000 in Price July 1.

Postmaster Guy A. Eaton has been notified that after June 30 of this year, the postoffice department will begin the manufacture and sale of a new issue of stamped enveloped of the one, two, four and five cent denominations.

The most marked change in the proposed new envelopes from those in use at present is the restoration of the ellipitical stamp, which was displaced some years ago by the square stamp in use at present. The new envelopes will bear the head of Benjamin Franklin in bas-relief with a green background on the one-cent envelopes and a black background on the four-cent denomination and the head of George Washington on a red background on the two-cent, and on a blue background on the five-cent denomination. The words "United States of America," will appear in capitals within a border on the stamps, and the denomiation will also be boldly outlined.

The new envelopes will not go on sale until the department's supply of those in use at present is exhausted, nor will they be supplied to postoffices until required through a shortage of the old styles. The new stamps will also supplant those in use on newspaper wrappers at present.

With the new issue of stamped envelopes, the price will be increased slightly. The increase will fall upon those who buy in large quantities, for it amounts to but 4 cents a thousand, and will not affect the purchaser of small quantities of stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers. The No. 5 envelope, the most generally used for business and personal correspondence will, after July 1, be sold at $21.24 per 1,000; No. 7 at $21.44 per 1,000; No. 8 at $21.84 per 1,000; No. 13 at $21.44 per 1,000, all an increase of 4 cents per 1,000 over the rate at present. The 1-cent newspaper wrappers will be sold at $10.64 per 1,000; 2-cent at $21.44 per 1,000, and the 4-cent at $42.04 per 1,000. The new rates will go into effect July 1, and will be charged for envelopes and wrappers of the old series, as well as the new.

WOMAN TAKES PLACE IN LINE

Begins Weary Wait for Opening of Indian Reservation.

A woman took her position this afternoon in the line at the United States land office waiting for the opening of the Fond du Lac reservation July 1. She brought a camp chair, labeled it No. 3, and there she will stay until the time comes for making her entry. There are but three in the line now, but undoubtedly there will be others this week.

THEATRICAL TRUST UPHELD

Indictments Against Klaw & Erlanger Dismissed by Judge.

New York, June 19.—The indictments found against Marc Klaw and Abraham L. Erlanger, owners of several theaters, charging them with operating with other theatrical owners and managers to maintain a monopoly, so as to exclude Lee Shubert and David Belasco from booking plays in certain theaters, were dismissed today by Judge Rosalsky. The court found that the plays are not articles of trade in common use, and that Klaw and Erlanger, therefore, did not restrain trade, as was alleged. The court also declared that Belasco and Shubert had not been prevented from carrying on their business.

REWARD OF $5,000

Offered for Arrest and Conviction of Murderers of Rosenheimer.

New york, June 19.—A reward of $5,000 was offered today for the arrest and conviction of the two men who last night murdered Julius T. Rosenheimer, president of the London Needle company at his home in Pelham. Two suspicious persons have been arrested, but they are not believed to have had anything to do with the murder. Rosenheimer was struck down by two men while walking in a secluded path in his own grounds. It is believed the weapon used was a small sledge hammer. The motive is not known. Mrs. Rosenheimer fainted upon seeing the fatal blow struck and has been unable to give any lucid account of the events preceding the account or accurate description of the murderers.

MARKET IS VERY QUIET

Tone Shows an Improvement Over That of Tuesday.

Favorites Show a Slight Tendency Toward Higher Prices.

The copper stock market was very quiet today, as far as the Boston listed stocks were concerned, but the tone showed quite an improvement over yesterday. Superior, Greene-Cananea, Globe Consolidated and several of the unlisted shares also displayed stronger tendencies.

Superior & Pittsburg advanced from $14.25 to $14.75 and closed at $14.50 bid and $14.62½ asked. One sale at $15 was reported during the morning by one broker.

Greene-Cananea sold at $15.25, advanced to $15.50 and closed at $15.25 bid and $15.50 asked. Globe Consolidated sold at $11.37½ during the early part of the session, advanced to $11.50 and closed at $11.50 bid and $11.62½ asked.

North Butte opened at $77, declined to $76.75, reacted to $78.25 and closed at $78 bid and $78.50 asked. Amalgamated opened at $82.25, went off at $81.62½, rallied to $82.50 and closed at $82 bid. Anaconda opened at $55.25, advanced to $55.50 and closed at $55.50 bid.

Butte Coalition was very quiet, selling at $24 and closing at $23.50 bid and $24 asked. Calumet & Arizona opened at $154 and closed at $154 bid and $155 asked.

Dom-Arizona sold at $7.50, advanced to $7.62½ and closed at $7.50 bid and $7.75 asked. Warren sold at $7.25 and $7.37½ and closed at 7.50 bid and $7.75 asked. Copper Queen of Idaho sold at $1.25 and closed at $1.25 bid. Calumet & Montana sold at 45 cents and 44 cents and closed at 44 cents bid. Cliff was traded in at $3.37½ and closed at $3.25 bid and $3.50 asked.

Black Mountain sold at $5.12½ and closed at $5.12½ bid and $5.25 asked.

A Boston dispatch from Hayden-Stone to Vern R. Culbertson, says: "The following was received from a friend whose source of information I happen to know in both instances, and which are excellent: 'Talking today with a large Lake producer on the copper situation I found him very optimistic. He says he would not dare to offer copper at 24 cents as it would be snapped up at once. All the producers had a falling off in their output as compared with last year and there was no surplus worth mentioning. A brass manufacturer tells me they are bare of raw material for July and are nervous. They have sold all their scrap and old stuffes. My informer spoke very highly of Centennial and Allouez, saying both were in splendid shape and a year hence people would be surprised at what they would do.'"

Houghton wires: "One thousand one hundred tons of copper were shipped from the Quincy docks yesterday. It was all sold in advance. The Copper Range company also shipped a large cargo yesterday."

STARTLING INVENTIONS.

The Many Freak Ideas Sent to the Patent Office.

The craziest offspring of the human brain may be found in the freak inventions which go forth from the United States patent office at Washington, says the Kansas City Star.

Almost daily some inventive genius offers a model of something which will benefit the world at large, and perhaps within the same hour a visionary seeks a patent on some rattle-brain idea which he avows will cause people to live 600 years, if they will follow instructions on the "perfect system of physical culture."

These freak models, ideas and suggestions are mirth-provoking, yet the examiners in the several divisions are required to give the same careful consideration to the "patentable" merits of each and every erratic application that they would to the most valuable offering of Edison or any of the other great inventors. The law requires this, and there is no dodging the labor.

President Lincoln was among the first to offer an impracticable device—an unsinkable steamer—the model of which is still among the assets of the patent office in the freak model room. Mr. Lincoln sought and obtained a patent on his steamer in 1849, but the patent was all he ever got, the "unsinkable steamer" proved a rank failure. Soon after this patent was issued another man came along with a "velocipede boat," and it shared the same fate as the "unsinkable steamer." An eccentric inventor's model is for a life-saving appliance, a chair in which a shipwrecked person has only to lash himself and float at ease and comfort, supporting life with a supply of hardtack stowed in a drawer in the chair. There is also a corset with air-tight compartments designed for life-saving purposes.

Another man of large ideas contrived and perfected (as he thought) a machine for boring through the earth, and this model is still a nightmare for certain examiners in the office. Still another had a scheme for signaling and talking to the people of Mars, his plan being to have a grand illumination by means of fireworks simultaneously all over the globe. A man from California who believed it not impossible to visit Mars submitted a model of a wooden man with wings, in shape and movement like those of a bird. The wings are strapped to the shoulders by a band that goes over his chest and comes out under his arms. There is a tail also like a bird's, and the wings and tail are controlled by the inward movement of the arms, which are harnessed to them by straps. But there are a large number of models of flying machines, and some of them are about as freakish as the California man's.

An inventive genius, evidently impressed with the necessity of getting down to business in the early morning hours and believing that the "early bird catches the worm," patented a bed which he guaranteed capable of wooing the sleeper all through the night, but at the first cock crow it would hurl the sleeper mercilessly to the floor. The model of the bed looks like a wholesome, motherly bed, full of gentleness and repose, but it is not. It "bucks" like a broncho at the proper time. As a companion piece to this bed, the late Chief Justice Logan E. Bleckley of Georgia patented a device for adjusting the covers so that the temperature of the bed could be regulated.

A man from New York patented a "buried alive coffin," so arranged that the whilom dead man could get out or call assistance. The model shows an ordinary burial box, at the head end of which is a square opening, to receive the lower end of an elongated box or trough large enough for a man to crawl through. The trough is set on end, the lower end over the face and chest of the casket's occupant, and the other projects a foot or more over the top of the grave. A wooden stick or arm is nailed to one side of the upper or outer end, upon which a bell swings. To this bell is attached a cord which runs down the trough and is tied to the man's hand in the coffin. In case of his awakening a slight movement will suffice to ring the bell, and the sexton can do the rest—dig him out.

A man who really wanted to benefit mankind patented a sheetiron cat, a feline operated by clockwork and with a bellows inside which swells up its tail and causes sounds that would awaken an entire neighborhood. The cat's claws are of steel. When the animal is wound up and placed on a roof it is ready to deal death blows to every midnight prowling cat that comes near. Still another inventor was given a patent on a pasteboard cat covered with phosphorus, so that it shines in the dark. It is to be used for frightening off rats and mice. There are luminous match boxes and luminous ghosts to scare away burglars. The ghosts are supposed to be for use in cemeteries and graveyards where ghouls are in the habit of visiting.

There is an umbrella which can be changed into a pipe, and an innocent looking walking cane has a glass tube inside which will hold one half pint of "undertaker's delight," and is recommended by the inventor as a "most convenient and useful article for use in Prohibition states." A far more useful model is that of a hand sewing machine, designed for sewing patches on worn and torn garments. It looks like a pair of large scissors and is worked up and down like the blades of shears. Could the machine prove practical, patient and overtaxed mothers could have their young hopefuls march up in regular order and the patch put on "while they wait." Preachers of all sizes are provided for in a pulpit, so arranged that by pressing a button it can be adjusted to any height desired. In the same row of models is a "lover's gate" which will swing both ways and which can be raised or lowered to suit the size of the lovers.

Saint Cecelia has had many remarkable imitators, judging from the models of musical instruments. A violin with a horn attachment is a fair sample, the horn being at the neck of the instrument representing almost an entire brass band. A violin maker has a patent on a violin made entirely of hardened glue, and he believes that he has solved the question of tone producing violins.

Men and women who have lost their patience "shooing" chickens from their flower beds and gardens might investigate the "chicken hobbler," a device to be attached to a chicken's leg, and which will force it to move onward if an attempt is made to scratch. The inventor asserts that it will make the most obstinate old hen walk right out of a garden. There is also a patent machine for forcing non-laying hens to produce eggs. This is a ready made nest with three imitation eggs placed in it. The inventor says that a hen with the least ambition will not refuse to lay after she has a look at the tempting nest. There are several patents for holding a cow's tail while being milked, and a shrewd Yankee has invented an adjustable tail for horses. A luminous harness has been patented, so that a horse being driven at night might look like a sheet of chained lightning. There is an iron boot-jack made in the form of a pistol, which may be carried in the pocket and used to frighten the holdup man, and there is also a pocketbook which conceals a pistol. A patent shotgun is provided with a cavity in the stock sufficiently large to hold a flask of whisky, and there are imitation cocoanuts, designed to be used in prohibition states. A freak patent which at one time had a very large sale is that of a flask with a cover like that of a neatly bound book.

Impossible devices are classed under the general title of "whimwhams to grind smoke." Their inventors would be objects of pity were they not sustained and soothed by the conviction of their own genius and the hope that the world must some day render them their just reward.

FADS OF COLLECTORS.

An odd collection is to be sold at auction soon in Paris. It is a collection of cigars, including several hundred brands and all varieties of shapes, qualities and prices. There are cigars in it from 2 cents to $, and ranging in size from tiny cigars to be smoked between the courses of a dinner, to some as big as a man's arm, made for show purposes. The specimens are kept in air tight glass cases and the total value is appraised at several thousand dollars.

The announcement of the sale has led to a general discussion of queer collections in Paris. The Gaulois tells of one man who has a collection of trousers buttons, representing every noted tailoring establishment in every great city in the world.

Another collector makes a specialty of announcements of deaths—the circulars which in continental countries are sent by mail to the friends of the deceased. His collection embraces many departed celebrities and many varieties of form in expression and typographical style. To complete the array, he has his own death notice in proof ready for the dates to be filled in.

Collections of visiting cards are not uncommon. An Italian nobleman is said to have one of 20,000 pieces, including practically every celebrity of the last century.

Railway tickets, theater coupons, and street car transfers are also preserved by many. Playbills are, of course, kept in France by enthusiasts for the stage, as they are elsewhere.

A ghastly collection was that of Diebler, the last executioner of Paris. He kept the coats thrown over the shoulders of his victims as they took their last short walk to the guillotine. All were neatly labelled in red ink, with a brief account of the crime and any characteristic incident of the execution.

Some Germans collect the smaller denominations of paper money, not with reference to the rarity of the issue, but to variations in the tin of the impression. There are rooms papered with fractional currency as well as with postage stamps, used and unused, arranged in patterns, according to color.

The French poet, Georges Courteline, collects pictures. That does not sound unusual, but his collection is. His whimsical fancy is to gather all that he can find that is worst in painting, etching and engraving. He takes great joy in his treasures as the most remarkable display of human bad taste and ineptitude in the entire world.

Baron Oscar de Watteville also plays a variation on a common air. He collects pipes, but not from a smoker's point of view, since he smokes only cigars.

His pipes are either relics of celebrities or else they have some historic or anthropological suggestions. He has pipes taken from graves, pipes dug up on battlefields, and pipes of all countries and races, as well as in every conceivable material. Some are ornamented elaborately, but that is a mere incident; a common clay pipe is as precious to him as a silver mounted meerschaum, provided there is something characteristic about it.

TEST OF AN EGG.

London Evening Standard: His Honor Judge Addison, who died this week, had once to deal with the problem "When does an egg become stale?"

The plaintiff suggested that in summer eggs became stale "about a week after they came to market," but the judge declared that the real test of an egg's staleness was the moment it became fit for use at a contested election.

Addition to White City Zoo.

The immense bear, one of the largest in captivity donated to the park by Otto Hartman, was installed in his new home today. The active board of directors were called upon to write a name for him and enclose it in an envelope to be opened the day he arrived. The name selected as best suited was "Lonely," given by President Silberstein, as this name especially fits his condition and location which is at the far end of the park, where he can do no harm to the two cubs.

Fire Causes Panic.

A fire started about midnight in some papers which had been left near the cook stove in the kitchen and drove about a dozen boarders in the Ralston boarding house out on to the street in attires which, had it not been for the reasonably warm night, would have been decidedly uncomfortable. No damage was done and after remaining on the sidewalk for a few minutes they all turned in for the night again.

McDaniel Funeral.

H. E. McDaniel, who died very suddenly Sunday night, was buried yesterday afternoon, Rev. M. S. Rice officiating at the services in Durkan & Crawford's undertaking rooms. Mr. McDaniel had lived in Duluth for over thirty years, and operated the first undertaking and furniture establishment in the city. He was something of a mechanical genius, devoting his time to the perfection of a perpetual motion machine. He gave this up after a time, however, and of later years has been devoting his time to a study of economics.

Reinhart-Mullery.

The wedding of Miss Mary M. Reinhart of St. Paul and Valentine J. Mullery of this city took place last evening at the home of the bride. The wedding is of much interest here as the groom is well known. He is connected with the William O'Brien lumber concern and with his bride will be at home in this city.

In the pool tournament at the Ideal pool hall, Charles Westberg last night defeated Roy Nabs 100 to 80. Mike Murich will play Guy Cummings tonight.

Asks Damages for Leg.

Martin Smeder has filed a suit for damages against the Superior Shipbuilding company, in the district court of this county. He demands $8,450 for injuries alleged to have been received in an accident last fall while he was working on one side of a huge steel plate suspended in the air. Smeder says one of the links in the chain holding the plate broke and the mass of steel fell on his leg, fracturing and crushing it.

DIAMOND MINING.

The story of the Kimberly diamond mines began two generations ago, when two bands of Boer immigrants fled out of Cape Colony to escape British rule.

One of them, says a writer in The World Today, settled on a patch of gold forty miles in extent which has since become the famous Rand and yields a hundred million dollars every year in the precious metal.

On the other hand, Burgher Jacobs offsaddled on a hundred acres of diamonds, and his little claim today contains an absolute monopoly in these gems.

His children used to play in the sand with bright pebbles for marbles. Neighbor Schalk Van Nelkirk saw one with the remark that it might be valuable, and the following year it was on show at the universal exposition at Paris as a magnificant diamond of twenty-one carats.

Two years later old Van Nelkirk himself picked out of the mud plaster of neighbor Du Toit's hut the famous star of Africa, which sold for $56,000. That was the beginning of the diamond mines which today employ 15,000 Kaffirs and 4,000 Europeans.

The pits run in tubes or funnels many acres in extent, evidently forced up ages ago by volcanic action. At first a yellow ground was found, and men left the blue below this severely alone. But the era of open workings soon came to an end, although thousands of independent diggers made huge fortunes in a few months.

Today you will find depths of 3,000 feet in the diamond mines, and the bottom of the blue funnel has not yet been reached. Both blue and yellow earths, studded with diamonds like a geological pudding, are supposed to be volcanic mud.

Holes for blasting are drilled, and after the blasts are touched off the crushed blue ground is conveyed to the mine shaft, 1,500 feet from the tunnels. Here the ore is dumped into buckets on wheels and drawn out of the mines by powerful engines. You will see thousands of men, mostly negroes, earning $1.25 a day, perched upon the blue ground rock in the tunnels, patiently drilling with hammer and chisel.

Great stretches of ground known as the floors are marked off like tennis courts to receive the precious ore; for air, rain and sun will do the work of disintegration as no costly machinery could do it. One mine alone has five miles of dumping floors. Upon their smooth surface is spread the blue clay to the depth of a foot, and after several months it crumbles and releases the indestructible crystals within, such as diamonds, garnets, olivines and other stones of lesser value usually found associated with the most precious of all gems.

The disintegration process is helped by harrowing with steam ploughs; and all such ground as remains obdurate goes into the crushing machine. The washing gear as a marvel of ingenuity; and as the dirt and gravel pass down its plane the diamonds are arrested by a tallowy coating. This fat is then scraped off and melted in a caldron, in whose bottom the diamonds are found like precious grounds in a gigantic coffee cup.

They are taken from here to the general offices of the monopoly and sorted according to value and size. Stones worth $500,000 have been washed in a single day.

But even the waste earth is not yet done with. This is specially treated lest tallow and machinery alike should have overlooked anything of value. That the precaution is worth while is seen from the fact that diamonds worth $1,400,000 were recovered from these tailings last year.

A London syndicate contracts to take the entire output of the mines; and all cutting is done in the continent of Europe chiefly in Amsterdam and Antwerp. The stones vary enormously in quality and fetch in the rough from $1.50 to $200 a carat.

There is very little leakage, considering the stupendous scale on which the diamond mining is done. One year, however, a negro sorter was found to have swallowed $3,500 of stones, but a colleague broke this record by swallowing 348 carats of diamonds, worth $5,300.

The Kaffirs are constantly devising new modes of smuggling. They will load their pipe bowl with small diamonds under a layer of tobacco and vigorously puff smoke to divert suspicion.

Leaves of books have been so cut that no one would think diamonds were concealed between them. Other smugglers have gone so far as to inflict serious cuts upon themselvs and stuff valuable stones into the wounds.

DUTHEY IS ON TRIAL

Testimony Being Taken in Case of Wife Murderer.

Defense is Attempting to Prove Duthey's Insanity.

Late yesterday afternoon, a jury was finally secured to pass upon the plea of insanity entered by the attorneys for Edward Duthey, who has been granted a new trial on the charge of murdering his wife. The men, who are to decide whether or not, in their opinion, based on the testimony, Duthey was insane on the night of the murder are: Fred York, grocer; N. L. Gill, grocer; Louis Lee, milkman; W. H. Mullen, saloon keeper; A. L. Hornaday, teacher; George W. Kane, alderman; J. W. Briggs, railroad switchman; Magnus Chalman, carpenter; Gustave Liljander, street car motorman; Albert Morres, baker; Oscar Carlson, farmer; E. McCumber, farmer.

The introduction of testimony in the case was begun this morning, Triphon Wassenhove, Mrs. Duthey's brother, in whose house the murder was committed being the first witness called to the stand. He testified to Duthey coming to his house the night of the murder, putting his head through the door and saying, "I am not allowed in here," and firing the shot, which resulted in Mrs. Duthey's death. On being questioned by Attorney Copper for the defense as to the appearance of Duthey when he fired the shot, the witness said he did not see the man long enough to judge whether there was anything unusual in his appearance.

Victor Vens, who was in Julius Blyenburg's saloon, when Duthey shot Blyenburg before shooting his wife, was the next witness called. He told of the shooting of the saloon keeper and the flight of Remi Langreet, who was also in the place. He was still on the stand, when the court adjourned for the morning and his testimony was resumed this afternoon.

The present hearing is merely on the plea of insanity entered by the defense. If the jury decides that Duthey was insane on the night of the murder, the case will be ended. If the verdict is that Duthey was in full possession of his faculties, the second trial granted the convicted man, will be held.

REBUKES COUNCIL.

Mayor Says Aldermen Are Not Acting in Good Faith.

"The council has not been acting in good faith toward the people of Superior in keeping up this fight over the municipal lighting plant. I am going before the people and tell all I know about it, and I will not give up until the wishes of the people have been met in this matter."

These words by Mayor Linley proved a bombshell when delivered at the meeting of the council last evening, and the discussion which followed was lively and heated. Aldermen McGinnis, Erbelding and Chadwick, who have been leading the opposition to the lighting plant, assured the mayor that they "represented more people that he did," and they resented the implication that they had been acting in bad faith. They said that they had never been shown the saving which a municipal light plant would insure.

Alderman Morrisette pointed out that the aldermen, being in closer touch with the people, knew their wishes better than the mayor.

Alderman Crumpton condemned the mayor's plan of causing the people to pay for the plant in one year. He said that the money might be better applied to pay the city's indebtedness.

Mayor Linley assured the council that the administration would be even more strict in the matter of administering the liquor laws than it was last year. He vigorously condemned the practice of sending children to saloons for liquor for their parents, and the legal department was instructed to look up the statutes on this question to see whether the point was covered.

The clerk reported that because Paul Hendricks, the saloonman, was out of town, the notice for him to appear before the city council to show cause why his license should not be revoked, had not been served. The mayor's appointment of J. H. Holman as member of the board of education from the Fourth ward was affirmed by the council.

PASTOR TO WED.

Rev. W. H. Gable to be Married in Pennsylvania Next Week.

Rev. W. H. Gable, pastor of St. Mark's English Lutheran church of Superior, left last night for Williamsport, Pa., where, on Wednesday, June 26, at high noon, he will be united in marriage to Miss May Harman of that place. Following the ceremony, Mr. Gable and his bride will go to Catawissa, Pa., where they will visit relatives for a short time before returning to Superior. A brother, Charles Gable, of Philadelphia, will attend the groom at the wedding. During the pastor's absence, Rev. J. L. Murphy of St. John's church of Duluth will fill his pulpit.

Was Badly Slashed.

Andrew Neam, Andrew Guthrie and Gust Hill were arrested last evening charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. The three men are charged with cutting Eljas Pohpanen, who appeared with a badly slashed head and face and made complaint against the three men. The case is the result of a drunken row.

Held to Circuit Court.

Olof Aalen, riveter in the Superior shipyards, was bound over to the circuit court, yesterday, on a charge of shooting Dan Nesbit, a fellow worker, on the evening of May 8. He was released on $5,000 bail, furnished by Supt. Williams of the shipyards.

Nesbit was one of the principal witnesses at the hearing. He said that Aalen was standing in a doorway, near Third street and Hughitt avenue, with George Smith, and when he came along Aalen summarily shot him. He said Smith had warned him that Aalen was going to shoot, but that the warning came too late. The defense did not offer any testimony.

A number of the shipyards strikers occupied seats in the courtroom. The shooting was said to have been the result of a strike controversy.

RATES BOOSTED.

Gogebic Range Roads Demand More Money for Carrying Coal.

Bessember, Mich., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Announcement is made of a boost in coal carrying rates by the railroads of the Gogebic iron range. The charge per ton in carload lots has for years been 55 cents from Ashland, the receiving port, to the range towns, a distance of some forty miles or more. Commencing July 1, the rate will be 75 cents, which is more than the boats receive for conveying the coal all the way from Lake Erie ports.

UNIVERSAL COINAGE.

E. W. Perry in Moody's Magazine: Should a single unit or measure of values be adopted by the chief countries of the world, its fractional or smaller parts or coins may well be even, perhaps decimal parts of the value of that unit, or of its value. Multiples also of that unit may be even, as two, three, four times the value of the unit.

For all purposes of international trade, each coin of any one of these proposed denominations may well be accepted and adopted by the people of countries, as of equal value with any other coin of like denomination, no matter by which of these nations that coin may have been issued, and its quality and weight guaranteed. Uniformity of weight and fineness, with economy in manufacturing, might be further promoted by coining all in one or two mints.

Such coinage would have the merit of bearing an unchanging, logical and easily understood relation to that unit of weight which has been most widely accepted an dadopted by the people of the world. It would possess the merit of having a constant, reasonable relation to the metal which those peoples have agreed to take as their standard by which to measure values. Such coinage need never alter in value while gold remains the standard.

Most civilized nations have accepted the metric system as being the most easily learned, simple and convenient of any in common use. If the coins of the proposed system should have uniform shape, size and design, excepting only the imprint of the nations by which they might be issued, the task of learning to use the money of all nations would be reduced to the lowest degree.

Policeman Arrests Youngsters Who Were Minus Swimming Suits.

Gave Them Good Scare and Turned Them Loose.

The last few warm days, in spite of the cold weather which preceded them, have opened up the swimming season with a vengeance and in every possible place along the bay front the kids may be seen sputteringly endeavoring to persuade themselves and each other that "the w-water's f-f-f-fine."

As a result the first arrest of the season for bathing without suitable and approved covering was made yesterday afternoon. Fifteen youngsters ranging from 8 to 12 years, spent the afternoon bathing in costumes of the "invisible" variety on Park Point about Sixteenth street, and they caught the eye of a copper passing on one of the Park Point cars.

The big man with the brass buttons had been a boy himself once and a boy's heart still beat under those same brass buttons, so that, as he expressed it, he "hated to do it" but, after a moment's hesitation, he raided the bathing place and gruffly ordered the boys to don their clothes.

The frightened kids obeyed without a murmur and were marshalled on to the Park Point car without mishap. The policeman then hered the crowd, by this time badly frightened, on to the aerial bridge and they were taken across the canal. On the north pier the copper got his little group together again and was just meditating what to do with them.

"S-s-say, m-m-mister," chattered one little fellow still shivering from the effects of the long swim, "W-what d-d-do you think they'll d-do with us?" The pitiful way in which the question was asked and the frank fear of the heavy hand of the law which was written upon the boyish upturned face, were too much for the copper.

"Say, you kids, run along," he advised, "but you get a pair of tights every one of ye, before ye come down here agin, see?"

The fifteen boys gave a howl of delight and with a yell of "What's de matter wid de cop. He's all right," they tore up the avenue toward their various homes.

WIFE OF JUSTICE SKIPS THE TOWN

Des Moines Woman, Arrested for Disturbance, Goes to Minnesota.

Chicago, June 19.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Des Moines, Iowa, says: Mrs. Scott Ladd, wife of Judge Ladd of the Iowa supreme court, failed to appear in police court yesterday to answer to a charge of disturbing the peace by strange religious meetings, at which persons are worked into a frenzy. Instead, she slipped out of the city and is at Fairmont, Minn. Judge Ladd issued the following statement, last night, giving his views of his wife's mania:

"No one can more profoundly regret these matters than I do. While I believe in absolute freedom of thought and religious belief, I also endorse the sentiment that the latter should be exercised without infraction of the law.

"I have not lent the mission my support, financially or otherwise, and if Mrs. Ladd has participated in rendering the place obnoxious to the neighborhood no one can be more determined to correct this condition than I am. I shall investigate thoroughly, and I need not further assure the public of the rectitude of my purpose."

The services conducted by Mrs. Ladd have been held without interference for more than a year. It is her belief that she has been ordained to spread the gospel by what she terms "The gift of tongues."

M. & I. ROAD EXTENDING.

General Manager W. H. Gemmel Pleased With Outlook for Early Completion.

Brainerd, Minn., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—General Manager W. H. Gemmel and Supt. W. H. Strachan of the Minnesota & International road, who returned here Sunday from their trip to International Falls, where they looked over the progress of work on the extension of the road, said they were pleased with the amount of work being done. It was expected that the rails would be laid to Littleforks by last night, and a pile driver was sent from here Monday to drive the piling for the bridge. It is expected that the bridge will be completed by the first of July, and the laying of rails on the fifteen-mile stretch to International will then commence. The grading is well out of the way of the rail crew. He condently expects that the trains will be running to International Falls by Aug. 1.

Messrs Strachan and Gemmell took the steamboat at Littleforks and made the trip to International Falls, remaining there over night. They took a trip on Rainy lake in the steamboat Mr. Strachan is enthusiastic over that portion of the country and over Rainy lake as a future summer resort. He says it is a magnificent body of water, studded with beautiful islands and having many fine beaches. He also speaks of the water power at International Falls as something wonderful and predicts that the town will become a large city.

The town, however, is not exactly in the Sunday school class. Koochiching county is said to be the only one in Minnesota in which the lid has not been put on gambling, and all the gamblers of the northern part of the state are said to be gathering there.

RAILROAD MEN GET INCREASE

The Freight Handlers and Clerks Are to Have an Advance.

Chicago, June 19.—Five thousand freight handlers in the employ of railroads in Chicago probably will receive wage advances amounting to $250,000 annually within the next few days. The St. Paul road yesterday offered its men 7 per cent increase in pay, and other roads are expected to follow the example.

The St. Paul employes at a meeting last night practically accepted the wage offer, although it is less than the advance demanded by the union, which was about 12½ per cent. This makes the second increase received by freight handlers within the last year, and advance of 1 cent an hour having been granted by all roads last September.

The settlement, if participated in by the other roads, will tend to clarify the local labor situation, since the freight handlers had threatened to strike on July 1 unless a satisfactory agreement was secured.

Announcement also was made that all clerks in the freight houses of the St. Paul and Northwestern roads will receive an increase in pay amounting to 10 per cent, beginning July 1.

Harrison Ladd was the lucky mortal. He was just about to raise from his task when there was a deafening crash and the cow sank upon him with a groan. Ladd felt a blinding sensation but immediately regained his senses only to learn the cow had been killed while he escaped death.

TO SHOW FARMERS.

Work on Roads With Split Log Drag Being Demonstrated.

Crookston, Minn., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Crookston Commercial club has started a series of practical experiments with the split log drag for the improvement of the public highways leading into this city. The work is being done under the personal supervision of Secretary Brown and it is intended to keep these highways in good repair all summer as an object lesson to the farmers to demonstrate what can be done with the split log drag. It is the further intention of the club to furnish the farmers with the drags free any distance from the city if they will agree to keep a certain distance of road in repair.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Apricots, 75 cents a basket.
Watermelons, 85 cents each.
Gooseberries, 2 cents a box.
Mint, 5 cents a bunch.
Lemons, 40 cents a dozen.
Coast fish.
Pickled pigs' feet, 10 cents a pound.
Smoked whitefish, 15 cents a pound.

Nice little yellow apricots are in the market and because they are fresh and fruit, and one doesn't have them the year around, they meet with a certain amount of approval but as for taste they much resemble a tender little concoction of outing flannel.

The law of supply and demand, one of the most annoying things encountered in political economy, arranges that lemons, just at the time of year when one wants them, are at a more or less prohibitive price. To buy winter clothes in the summer time and summer clothes in the winter time, somebody has said is the first step on the road to wealth. One might also add to this primer for would be millionaires, to drink your lemonade at Christmas time. The lemons are 10 cents more a dozen than they were, but the preversity of human nature makes the demand for hot chocolate in January and lemonade in July.

Smoked white fish are very good, so the market man said.

MRS. ACKERS' EXPERIMENT

By Mabel Gifford.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Mrs. Ackers was very cheerful, very willing, but it is rather bewildering to remember the exact degree of sweetness and saltness, of brownness and whiteness her husband demands. She has always done her best, and spiced it all with her bright smile.

Last night at supper Mr. Ackers had remarked: "I like pork and beans much better than beef. The beef has not that good taste, that relish."

This is what Mrs. Ackers was thinking about:

"Doesn't have that good taste," she repeated, shutting her white teeth over her lip to cut in halves a too hearty smile. "Oh, these men; these foolish men! Frank is just as notional as the rest of them, I am afraid. I used to think him one of the most reasonable; he seemed to agree with me in everything. Now, well, it seems as if he liked everything a little different, no matter what it is, politics, parties, religion, dress, or—beans."

Mrs. Ackers had ordered pork for today, and she tucked it well under the beans with a queer little smile.

Somehow the sweet, patient face of Mrs. Ackers was unusually present in Mr. Ackers' mind that day. Though there was no reproach in it, yet it reproached him. He need not have been so short with her at supper last night; he knew it hurt her, though she would not allow him to see it. She was a dear, little woman, and must have her failings like other women—he did not say, "and men."

He feared she was narrow-minded, too domestic, not intellectual. But she had redeeming points; she was patient, cheerful, an excellent housekeeper, and tried hard to please him.

He prided himself on his refined and intellectual taste, and truth to tell, looked down a little on his dear little housekeeper.

He stopped at a friend's to inquire about his health, he having been confined to the house for some time with a severe cold.

The sight of his friend's wife as she answered the ring, turned the current of his thought. Could this woman in a ragged and soiled calico dress, with frowsy hair and dull, sullen face, be Mrs. Edgar, the president of the literary club, the beautiful, entertaining brilliant Mrs. Edgar?

He had always envied his friend his prize, and wondered how he could be so moody and indifferent. Now he followed her in a dazed way to the sitting-room, disorderly, cheerless, stuffy and smelling strongly of medicines. Bottles, papers, refreshments an sewing materials adorned the table, the floor was strewn with litter, the walls crowded with knick-knacks; books, wearing apparel and other things indistinguishable filled the chairs. This was not madam's reception day.

"How are you, old boy? Glad to see you have pulled through the worst of it," said Mr. Ackers, heartily, shaking the white, nerveless hand of his friend, and smiling cheerfully into the pale face with its lack-luster eyes and hollow cheeks.

"Oh, he hasn't had the worst of it yet," said the sick man's wife, dolefully, "if he has a relapse it will be worse than ever, and he is sure to have a relapse."

"I shall not be good for anything for a long time yet," said the man, feebly.

"Oh, you will pick up fast, once you get out. You ought to be out today; it's a glorious day, warm as summer."

That accounts for James' feeling so weak this morning; warm weather is so enervating."

"It will be cold again tomorrow," muttered James, disconsolately, "snow and ice, like as not."

Mr. Ackers left the cheerless house, thinking that what ailed Mr. Edgar was principally Mrs. Edgar.

He shrugged his shoulders, and then began to glow with a comfortable, soothing warmth, like a person sitting beside a cheery fire after a chilly walk, as he thought of Mrs. Ackers.

"One woman can't be everything, I suppose; if a man must choose between a society woman and a domestic woman, give me the domestic." He was more contented with his wife that noon than he had been for a long time.

At night as he was leaving the store, one of the clerks held out a note and asked him if it would be too much trouble to leave it at his door.

Mrs. Wells would insist on his coming in.

"Do come in, just for a little chat. I want to ask about Mrs. Ackers. I haven't seen her for the longest time!"

Ah! this is Mr. Acker's ideal of a wife and a home. This woman is not only cheery, but polite. Her gracious, respectful manner is charming. Her house besides being in perfect order is delightful to the eye, and satisfying to the mind. There is a combination of the useful and the refined intelligence that Mr. Ackers loves.

How delightfully Mrs. Wells conversed! How well informed she must be. He did not take note that he did most of the conversing; that she only introduced topics, asked questions, and listened with interest.

He passed a most enjoyable half hour; here was all he missed in his own home. Here was a woman who knew how to use both her hands and her brains. Happy Mr. Wells!

"But you have not told me about your wife yet; where have you kept her all this time? I haven't seen her for an age."

Mr. Ackers began to feel disagreeable as his thoughts reverted to his wife. If Lizzie wasn't quite so domestic, so—old-fashioned, so commonplace!

"Oh, she is busy most of the time. Does not have a chance to run out much!"

"The idea! I go out every day; unless it is decidedly stormy. Frank says it makes people dull to be shut up in the house all the time. I take time. There are only two of you; there can't be such a mountain of work."

"I don't know how it is; some women do not seem to have the faculty of turning off work. Lizzie is always grubbing."

A girl appeared at the door. "Please, ma'am, shall I put the supper on the table?"

"Oh, excuse me. I forgot to tell you Mr. Wells will not be home until 7. You need not wait. I am sorry I kept you."

Mr. Ackers stared. He was in the habit of being late when he pleased, and did not expect it to be remarked by his wife. Here was Mr. Wells sending a note to his wife because he should arrive an hour late, and here was Mrs. Wells apologizing to the help for the delay.

"So you keep a hired girl?"

"We don't 'keep' her exactly. She comes in whenever I need her. Baking, washing, ironing and sweeping days, every week, and other times when I want help. We pay her $2 a week, and Frank says that is the cheapest investment he ever made. I used to do all of the work, and did not have time to do anything else, or was too tired if I had time. Now I read, or go out every day. I make calls, and have some company; Frank says sociability improves people. We have joined a 'Lend-a-hand club.' One reason I called you in tonight was to tell you about the club, and beg you and Mrs. Ackers to join. Our aim is to improve ourselves and everyone we reach.

"Speaking of the help, of course we have to economize considerably in other directions. We eat plainer food and we wear plainer clothes, but Frank says it is worth it; it is more like living. He wishes his wife to be his companion, and not his kitchen girl."

Mrs. Wells nodded her head in a satisfied way as she watched her guest depart. "I have made an impression. He will take the hint. Poor little Mrs. Ackers is slaving herself to death for that finicky husband, and he is blind as a bat. I think I have opened his eyes a bit."

Mrs. Ackers met her husband at the door with her usual bright smile.

"This has been a glorious day, Lizzie; been out?"

"Mercy me! no; how do you think I can find time to do all Saturday's work and walk out? And besides when I do get through I am too tired to step."

Mr. Ackers frowned a little. "It does not seem as if there need be so much to do just for us two."

Mrs. Ackers hesitated, and colored a little. How hard to work all day and then have Frank think there was nothing to do. But that was just a man's way. She swallowed a bunch in her throat and told herself she must be more tired than usual, to mind so much. In a moment supper was on the table. Baked beans, smoking hot; how good they smelled!

What made Lizzie glance up at him in that fluttering way?

"Well, Frank, is the pork as much better as you expected? Are the beans just right this week?"

"Couldn't be beat, my dear. Pork goes ahead of beef every time. Pork for my taste."

Mrs. Ackers clapped her hands and laughed, though looking like a naughty child that is bold enough to be daring, yet fears the consequences. "Oh, Frank! it is beef in the beans. I mistrusted your imagination was stronger than your taste. Now I have proved it." Then in the next breath: "'Such a good taste,'" laughing again merrily.

Mr. Ackers looked queer, then incredulous, then his face began to darken ominously. What man enjoys a joke when he is the victim? and particularly when his wife is the perpetrator?

Mrs. Ackers had risen to her feet and stood beside her chair, tremblingly. She did not think he would be quite so seriously offended.

"There are some more; I baked some with pork too, so if you shouldn't like these."

Just at the moment she thought the storm about to burst over her head, Mr. Ackers walked around the table and took his wife in his arms.

"Lizzie, I have petted my taste until I have made a fool of it; now I am going to try petting my wife a little. I reckon my taste is acute enough, and I rather flatter myself it is of the right sort, but it needs common sense and thought for somewhat besides one's self to develop taste in the right direction.

"We will have pork or beef or anything you like. If I have grown to be such an idiot as I have proved myself tonight, it is time there was a change. This isn't the only thing I have been an idiot about. We will see if we can't find a girl to help you the busiest days. Go over and talk with Mrs. Wells and see how she manages. I want a companion as well as a housekeeper, and I have been fretting because you were not a better companion, while all the time my fastidious taste kept you planning and working in the kitchen. I wonder if I can shoulder the blame on the 'pig' I have eaten."

Mrs. Ackers has many a time congratulated herself on the success of her little experiment, but still more she blesses kind Mrs. Wells for jogging her husband's elbow and pointing his acute taste in the right direction.

ITALIAN GIRL STABS YOUTH

Organ Grinder Resents Playful Attack With a Stiletto.

New York, June 19.—Enraged because some roguish school boys had tumbled her over while playing a street piano in the lower West side yesterday, Philomena Castra, a young Syrian girl, drew a stiletto from the folds of her dress and fatally stabbed Charles McCarthy, a young man, in the breast. McCarthy will probably die. The girl was arrested with her companion, Theresa Christopher, who is held as a witness. Philomena was grinding out lively airs to the delight of a swarm of children, who were dancing to the music on the sidewalks. Theresa was collecting the competence from the crowd.

A boy was seen to playfully shove McCarthy, who was standing on the curb out into the street. McCarthy lost his balance and bumped into the girl, who was knocked down. Her face distorted with rage, Philomena leaped to her feet and drawing a long thin stiletto from her dress plunged the blade into McCarthy's breast. The two girls started to run, dragging their heavy street piano behind them, but the school children closed about them and hindered their progress until a policeman arrived.

The wounded man and the two girls were taken to the station house where Philomena again tried to stab McCarthy as he lay on the station house floor. The girls were finally quieted and taken to cells. Neither of them is over 20 years of age.

McCarthy was later taken to the hospital where it is said he would die.

$2,000,000 WEDDING IS "SIMPLE" AFFAIR.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 19.—Devoid of all display was the wedding here, yesterday, of Miss Edith McGorray, niece of Sheriff McGorray, and Edward H. Schwab, youngest brother of Charles M. Schwab, the steel magnate.

The ceremony was performed in St. John's cathedral by Father Cavanaugh, president of Notre Dame university. Miss May McGorray, a cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor, and the best man Arthur Funk of La Cross, Wis.

The only guests were the relatives and a few intimate friends of the bride and bridegroom. Whether or not the bridegroom received a wedding present of $2,000,000 from his brother, as has been said, he refused to state, but so far as known he has not yet given up his position of instructor in the Notre Dame university.

GAS EXPLOSION

Causes Panic in Duluth Dye Works Building.

An explosion of gas in the rear room of the building occupied by the Duluth Dye Works at 330 East Superior street yesterday afternoon resulted in a narrow escape for several young women in the place and a badly burned face and hands for John Peterson, one of the cleaners.

The gasoline and other materials used in the cleaning shop are kept in tanks in the back part of the room and the gas which had generated was sufficient to fill the room with flames almost immediately. Peterson managed to get the girls out without being burned but he himself sustained some rather painful injuries. The fire department succeeded in confining the flames to the back room of the building and as most of the clothing was in the front part and was removed before the smoke had time to do any serious damage but little of it was injured. The damage to the building which is owned by W. M. Prindle is about $3,000, and to the dye works plant about $500.

No insurance was carried by the owners of the dye works as insurance companies refuse this class of risks, but the loss on the building is fully covered. The fire did not interrupt the company's business materially.

NO HOPE

For Any Boom Except Roosevelt's, Says Governor Cummins.

Pittsburg, June 19.—That United States Senator Knox, with his Pennsylvania indorsement for the presidential nomination, must step aside for the Roosevelt rush, is the contention of Governor Albert B. Cummins of Iowa, who passed through Pittsburg en route to his old home, Waynesburg, Pa., where he is to speak at a college commencement.

In part Governor Cummins said:

"The people of the West are strongly in favor of the renomination of President Roosevelt, and I believe that when the next national convention meets he will be the nominee, and the campaign to follow will result in his triumphant election. I believe that the regulation of corporations, not tariff, will be the paramount issue.

"While I feel that Senator Knox is well qualified to discharge the duties of president of the United States, and notwithstanding the fact that he secured the endorsement of the Republicans of the great Keystone state, the people at large are so pronounced in their views for the retention of Theodore Roosevelt that I feel that state will have to fall in line and help make the thing unanimous."

CALLED.

Chicago News: The comedian boarder who owed five weeks' back pay was in one of those facetious moods.

"Madam," he chuckled, spearing a green strawberry and holding it above his saucer, "I understand that you entered the boarding house business merely to save enough money to become an actress. Am I right?"

The landlady stared at him coldly.

"Yes, Mr. Highball," she responded in rasping tones, "I am boarding beats at present so that I may be able to beat the boards later on."

And then the comedian boarder left the table without even finishing his dessert.

Thomas Trever, superintendent of the H & S. Pogue company, and Alfred Trever, of the same company, were killed in an automobile accident, at Cincinnati, Tuesday night. The chauffeur, name unknown, is seriously injured and may die. The accident resulted from trying to avoid running down a colored man and the car was dashed into a telegraph pole.

Eight persons were killed by an explosion of gas at the Johnson colliery at Priceburg, Pa., late Tuesday afternoon.

How to Exercise the Bowels

YOUR intestines are lined inside with millions of suckers, that draw the Nutrition from food as it passes them. But, if the food passes too slowly, it decays before it gets through. Then the little suckers draw Poison from it instead of Nutrition. This Poison makes a Gas that injures your system more than the food should have nourished it.

The usual remedy for this delayed passage (called Constipation) is to take a big dose of Castor Oil.

This merely make slippery the passage for unloading the current cargo.

It does not help the Cause of delay a trifle. It does slacken the Bowel-Muscles, and weakens them for their next task.

Another remedy is to take a strong "Physic," like Salts, Calomel, Jalap, Phosphate of Sodium, Aperient Water, or any of these mixed.

What does the "Physic" do?

It merely flushes-out the Bowels with a waste of Digestive Juice, set flowing into the Intestines through the tiny suckers.

Cascarets are the only safe medicine for the bowels.

They do not waste any precious fluid of the Bowels, as "Physics" do.

They do not relax the Intestines by greasing them inside like Castor Oil or Glycerine.

They simply stimulate the Bowel-Muscles to do their work naturally, comfortably, and nutritiously.

They are put up in thin, flat, round-cornered Enamel boxes, so they can be carried in a man's vest pocket, or in a woman's purse, all the time, without bulk or trouble.

The time to take a Cascaret is not only when you are Sick, but when you first suspect you need one. Price, 10c a box.

Be very careful to get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC." All druggists. 739

WILL ARREST TRESPASSERS

Chairman Patterson Will Put Stop to Injury to Trees.

Chairman E. M. Patterson of the county board says that if thet rees on the new courthouse site are not let alone there will be some prosecutions for trespass.

Mr. Patterson's ire has been aroused by the practice of boys, and even of women, who have been robbing the crab apple tree, near the postoffice building, of its blossoms. In their efforts to secure the blossoms people have broken many of the branches, and the tree is assuming a dilapidated condition.

Yesterday Mr. Patterson caught a boy who was breaking off branches in the effort to get blossoms, and the youngster was given a severe lecture and told to keep away in the future if he did not care to get into trouble.

"It takes about twenty years for those crab apple trees to get the start this one has," says Mr. Patterson, "and it makes me provoked to see boys and women, especially the latter, stealing the blossoms and breaking the branches. They seem to think that just because the land belongs to the county they have a right to commit any act of vandalism they please there and nobody will say a word. As a matter of fact, we intend to preserve, as far as possible, every tree on the location that has been purchased. It is practically certain that the new building will not interfere with that pretty little crab apple tree, and I am going to see that the public lets it alone, even if it requires a half-dozen arrests to impress it on the minds of the people."

ELEVEN YEAR OLD GUILTY OF MURDER.

Baltimore, Md., June 19.—The youngest murderer in the history of local criminal courts, was tried yesterday and convicted of manslaughter. He is Sidney Hollis, colored, 9 years old. He shot and killed William H. Griffith, another negro lad of 11 years on June 1, after a quarrel over a game of marbles. Hollis did not display the slightest concern in the court room during the trial. He fell asleep several times in the course of the proceedings. Sentence was suspended.

"KIDS" SING "OLIVETTE."

Juvenile Bostonians Please in the Old Comic Opera.

That tuneful piece, "Olivette," was the bill which the Juvenile Bostonians offered to the audience at the Lyceum theater last evening.

The prima donna role was in the hands of Babe Mason and she acquitted herself nobly. The other members of the cast and the chorus gave her excellent support.

This evening, the children will present "The Gipsy Girl," which is said to be one of the best things they do. Babe Mason will sing the role of Cheesi and the other principals will be happily cast. The Juvenile Bostonians wil remain at the Lyceum all the week.

Isador Silver's illustrated song, "Pawnee," is making a great hit at the Bijou this week. The rest of the program is fully up to the high standard set during the last two or three months, during which time the weekly bills have been exceptionally good.

SUIT FOR SEPARATION

Brought by Wife of August T. Post, the Millionaire Banker.

New York, June 19.—As a sequel to the sensational charges of cruelty and neglect which she made two months ago, Mrs. Augustus T. Post, formerly a society leader in New Orleans, has brought suit for a separation from her husband, the millionaire banker, motorist and aeronaut.

Mrs. Post demands $500 a month alimony.

At the same time she is preparing to bring a suit for $100,000 damages against Mr. Post's sister, Mrs. Clappward of Locust Valley, L. I.

When this case comes to trial, as Mrs. Post is determined it shall, one of the most remarkable stories ever heard in a New York court, she says, will be told.

"I do not want a divorce; I shall never again marry," she said.

"Brain-storms have been so plentiful in my experience with the Post family that they are no longer phenomenas.

"My husband, after going up in a balloon, said: 'Well, now I've been to the heights of the heavens.' After going down in a submarine boat he said: 'Now, I've been as far down as I can go, this earth hasn't anything on me.'"

It is not upon any alleged eccentricities of this sort that Mrs. Post bases her application for a separation and allmony.

THIRD REGIMENT MEN ON RANGE

Revolver Practice to be Feature of the Camp Work.

Camp Lakeview, Lake City, Minn., June 19.—The men of the Third regiment lost no time in getting upon the rifle range. The work was commenced as early as 6 a. m. yesterday and will be pushed to the utmost during all the days of the encampment. Some excellent scores are being made.

The weather yesterday was all that could be desired by the men, who are entering all phases of camp life with much enthusiasm. Rain the previous afternoon interfered to some extent with the work, but Maj. Person succeeded in holding a small battalion drill.

The First battalion is in command of Maj. Person, the second in command of Maj. H. V. Eva of Duluth, and the third of Capt. A. F. Pratt of company B, Anoka.

Capt. Pratt was the first officer of the day, and Lieut. Whitaker, company A, and Lieut. McCorquodale, company H, were officers of the guard.

For the first time in the history of the guard there will be official revolver practice by the officers. Heretofore the men have indulged in informal shooting, but this year each officer will be issued 120 rounds of ammunition and will follow the "dismounted course" as laid down in the firing regulations for small arms. Firing will be done at 15, 25 and 50 yards.

There will be three kinds of firing. One score will be fired at slow fire, without time limit, at each distance. At timed fire at each distance, the five shots to be fired within thirty seconds. In both cases the target used is 4 by 6 feet, with an eight-inch round bullseye. In rapid fire a disappearing target is used. It is 4 by 6 feet and the object is a black silhouette of a man standing.

The following daily routine was put into effect immediately upon arrival at camp: First call for reveille, 5 a. m.; reveille, 5:15; assembly, 5:20; sick call, 5:25; mess (breakfast), 5:30; first call for rifle practice, 5:50; assembly, 5:55; rifle practice, 6; fatigue, 6:40; assembly, 7:50; mess (dinner), 12 noon; first sergeant's call, 1 p. m.; officer's school, (battalion), 1:30; inspection of quarters, 4; mess (supper), 6; first call for parade, 6:40; assembly, 6:50; adjutant's call, 7; to the color, 7:10; officer's call, 7:45; band concert, 8; first call for tattoo, 9:50; tattoo, 10; taps, 10:30.

CHINA TO BE RELEASED

From Payment of Full Indemnity for Boxer Outrages.

If Congress Will Consent to Plan of the President.

Washington, June 19.—The state department fully confirms the statement of the Chinese minister that it is the intention of the president to release China from the payment of all but the actual expenses to which the United States was put by the Boxer uprising of 1900, provided that congress shall give its consent. The fact that the indemnity is being collected under the terms of a treaty makes it impossible for the executive to act alone in this matter. But upon the reassembling of congress, next winter, the president, in his annual message, will recall the facts connected with the assessment of the indemnity, and will suggest that the payment of more than the amount actually expended be remitted.

By the terms of the treaty, China was to pay to the United States a sum slightly less than $25,000,000, in annual installments, running through a period of thirty-nine years, with interest. So far there has been collected the sum of $8,000,000, and out of this has been paid all of the claims of American missionaries for property destroyed and lives lost in the uprising, amounting to about $2,000,000, leaving free on hand $4,000,000.

A careful estimate has just been completed of the expense to which the United States government was put by the military operations in China, the naval expenses and the losses suffered at American consulates. These aggregated $9,000,000, so that all of the indemnity that should really be charged against China is $11,000,000, and at the rate the payments have been made, it is expected that the total will be met in the course of four or five years more. The plan is to then give China a release in full. The saving to China is far greater than would at first be supposed, for as heavy interest was to be charged for the total amount of the indemnity awarded to America by the international commission that met in Pekin in 1900. It is estimated that the total sum of money that China would have been obliged to pay to the United States in the course of the thirty-nine years through which the payments were to run, would be no less than $59,000,000.

Mr. Iverson says he is pleased with the results of the spring sales of state lands, and as a result of these sales a large number of people who have seen Northern Minnesota are pleased with the natural advantages offered the settler.

Three thousand eight hundred acres were sold here at an average of $7.25 per acre. The highest price was paid by Anton Zibbert of Farley, who paid $24 per acre for eighty acres of land.

He was standing right over it at the time and the flaring powder struck him full in the face, burning the hair and eyebrows and scorching the skin terribly. His hands were also badly burned. Medical attendance was secured and there will be no lasting results from the accident.

TO LEARN FROM THE EUROPEANS

Gen. Sharpe Goes Abroad to Investigate Subsistence Matters.

Washington, June 19.—A study of the methods in vogue in branches of European armies corresponding to that of subsistence in the American establishment, is stated to be the object of a trip of Brig.-Gen. Henry G. Sharpe, commissary general of subsistence, will start on Saturday next. He will sail from New York to Dover, Eng., starting his investigations in that country. He will also visit Germany and France for the same purpose. It will be the first time that an officer of the commissary bureau has gone to Europe on a mission of this character. Gen. Sharpe thinks that a thorough inquiry as to European methods of purchase, preparing for use, and transporting subsistence may be useful in many ways for the information of the subsistence department in this country.

HARD FOUGHT CASE.

Treasurer of Locomotive Firemen is Accused of Embezzling Funds.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The trial in the district court of Barney Zitur of Larimore, who is charged with embezzling the funds of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, while treasurer, is developing into one of the hardest flought battles seen in the courts here in months.

The railway men of Larimore have taken a great deal of interest in the case, and many of them are anxious to secure the conviction of Zitur. On the other hand, he has a number of friends who are anxious to see him cleared.

The first clash came when the case was called for trial. S. J. Cowley of Larimore appeared as special assistant in the prosecution of the case, and the defense objected. After extensive arguments on the question Judge Templeton made an order appointing Attorney Cowley special counsel in the case.

REVENGE ON NEIGHBORS

Woman Reports Their Failure to Pay Dog Tax.

Fifty Warrants Have Been Issued for Delinquent Owners.

Because the neighbors made fun of a resident of one of Duluth's suburban districts for taking warning from the arrests of dow owners and paying her dog tax, there is likely to be a number of arrests in that same suburb within the next two days. This morning the irate woman called up Capt. Resche at police headquarters in high wrath.

"The neighbors out here are making fun of me because I paid my dog license," she informed the police officer.

"Well," returned the captain, "I don't see how we can help you on that. I'm sorry, but we can't arrest them."

"Yes, but they have dogs and haven't paid their licenses," the indignant suburbanite announced, "and their names are——"

"I can't get that over the telephone," said the captain. "You give me your address and I will send an officer out to see you."

The woman complied, and the licenseless dogs in that particular district are likely to bring trouble upon their various owners. The woman said there were at least six dogs in her immediate vicinity which had not secured their licenses as yet.

Nearly 1,500 dogs have now secured licenses, some 600 having come in after the police began their campaign of arrests. More than fifty warrants are now out, and while a large number of them have not yet been turned over to the police for service, some of the owners are being sought today. The police figure that about 500 more are still to come in.

JURY WILL FIX PRICE

Appeals From Awards in Wisconsin Central Cases Are Heard.

John J. Murphy Claims Terminal Property Selected Has Value.

The appeals from the awards made by the commissioners appointed to appraise the property sought by the Wisconsin Central Railway company, under condemnation proceedings, are now being heard by a jury in Judge Dibell's room in the district court.

The cases under consideration today are those of John J. Murphy against the railway company, both having appealed from the award of the commissioners, Mr. Murphy claiming the award was too low and the company contending that the award was too high.

The property in question in the two cases now being heard, comprises lots 108 and 110, Block3, Duluth proper, Third division. It is located on the lower side of Superior street between Sixth and Seventh avenues west.

A number of the prominent real estate men of the city have been subpoenaed to give expert testimony on the question of values of property in the vicinity of that taken by the railway company for its passenger terminal, and it is anticipated that some very interesting testimony will develop before the case is submitted to the jury.

Mr. Murphy, who is a resident of Woodstock, Ill., was on the stand as an expert real estate witness in his own behalf, this morning. He stated that he is a banker, merchant, real estate dealer and farmer, besides being the owner of a quantity of railroad and industrial stocks and being interested in other large financial enterprises.

Some eighteen or twenty years ago, according to his testimony, Mr. Murphy began investing his money in property at the Head of the Lakes. He bought a considerable amount of centrally located property on Superior street in Duluth and Superior. Among the first pieces of Duluth property that he purchased was the corner where the Burrows building now stands. Another early purchased property which he still owns is the Superior street corner occupied by the Lenox hotel.

Mr. Murphy says he rather lost sight of Duluth for some years, but that about two years ago he again turned his attention here and has since purchased quite a little centrally located property, including 210 and 212 West Michigan street, a 100-foot corner at First street and Sixth avenue west, 50 feet at Twelfth avenue west and Superior street, and 75 feet just east of the Seventh avenue west incline railway.

He testified that his property holdings include not only Duluth lots but lands in Chicago and other places, and farms and acres in North Dakota and Canada.

The witness claimed that he gave his personal attention to the purchase of Duluth property and, as a result, has kept pretty well in touch with the real estate situation and is well posted on values. He claimed that during the years past he has also given much time to the study of depot sites and the question of their central location in a city for the bearing it has on convenience and facilities offered.

Some time was spent this morning by William Harrison, Mr. Murphy's attorney, in getting the witness qualified to pass his opinion on the adaptability and value of the two lots in question as a depot site. Objections were made by Frank Crassweller, who with Francis Sullivan represents the Wisconsin Central Railway company, but the court held that Mr. Murphy was competent to give his opinion.

It is Mr. Murphy's contention that his lots, with others in that immediate vicinity, have a great value as a depot site by reason of their proximity to the hotels and business part of the city.

There are a number of other appeal cases awaiting disposal as soon as the Murphy cases are out of the way.

This is the second appeal case heard by a jury. In the first case the jury reduced the award of the appraisers.

OPPORTUNITY AND DUTY.

Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota received an uncommon honor when he was asked to make the commencement address at the University of Pennsylvania, and as his speech, which is given in full elsewhere, will show upon reading, the results have proved most creditable to his state and to the perception of those who invited him.

It would be a splendid thing if every young man and young woman in the land could hear or read that speech. It strikes a lofty note of optimism, points the way to splendid opportunity, and gives the students to which it was addressed sound and practical advice upon the life of activity and usefulness that lies before them.

Opportunity is the keynote of the talk; opportunity and its accompanying responsibility. He shows that what is often called genius is simply determination, persistence and hard work. He points this with four splendid examples of achievement in the Northwest. He shows that the name of Mayo stands for skill in surgery that is miraculous; that the name of Hill stands for railroad achievement that is almost without parallel; that the name of Cole stands for grasp and control of mineral development that has been uniformly successful; he shows that the name of Kellogg stands for achievements in the broad field of law that have won a national fame.

More to the point, he shows that these four men gained their eminence by hard work; that they had humble beginnings, but that they won their way to the top in their several branches of endeavor by persistent application and an unrelenting determination to know and to do all that there was to be known and to be done.

He told the students to whom he spoke that they owed the people a debt which it was their duty to pay by enlightened public service; by work for the common good and against greed and selfish power. He told them that education is not everything; that manhood and womanhood, honor and character, must always be the foundations for human achievements. He told them that the boy just out of school and looking for a location where he may begin the career which is to lead him to success finds all the good positions gone and the good locations filled. He showed them that it has always been that way, and that yet there are always as good positions and locations to be made or found, by those who possess the energy and character and courage needed to win them.

Speaking of the rich and fruitful West, he said: "But rich as it is, even in opportunity, it is no place for the sluggard or the dissembler. The best positions go, as they have always gone everywhere, to the best men: to courage, honor, self-reliance and the genius of unremitting toil."

It is a fine, manly, hopeful address, sounding a high note of manhood and womanhood, pointing the way to real success in life, and showing the glory of achievement by the might of the hard work that men call genius.

JUST BEING SQUARE.

When the powers, including this country, had to intervene in China to stop the Boxer outbreak in 1900 and to protect the lives and property of foreigners living in that lotus kingdom, it cost them some money, of course, and after it was all over they got together and decided to make China pay handsome damages.

Our share of the spoil came to something less than $40,000,000, which China has been painfully paying on the instalment plan, as she has done with her toll to the other powers involved.

But since it happened we have been checking up our accounts, and we find that the actual damages amount to $27,000,000 less than the award, so President Roosevelt, with the consent of congress, has just informed the Chinese minister that this country can get along without that extra tribute of $27,000,000, and China is that much ahead.

Of course this is a very pleasant thing to do, and it is rather unfortunate that it is so abnormal an incident. It is nothing we need pride ourselves upon too much, however, for it is only the "square" thing to do. Nations must be honest, or their people can hardly be expected to be honest.

It will be rather embarrassing to the other powers that are raking in instalments on equally padded awards. If they don't follow suit they will occupy a very embarrassing position, and as none of them has ever done such a thing before, the arms that extend the returned portion will creak rustily, no doubt.

FAMILY TREES.

The federal census bureau is doing a service to historians and particularly to genealogists and those interested in 'family trees" by bringing out copies of the census returns for 1790, giving the names of heads of families in some of the states then a part of the newly-created union.

The bureau has issued such reports for Vermont, New Hampshire and Maryland, and when it gets more money it intends to produce similar volumes covering other states. Some, unfortunately, are unavailable. When the British burned the capitol during the war of 1812 the returns for Delaware, Georgia, Kentucky, New Jersey, Tennessee and Virginia were destroyed, though Virginia has returns of her own that may be used. The bureau had just money enough to put out the returns from the three states mentioned, which it is selling at a dollar apiece, and it hopes through this means and through further appropriations by congress to be able to print the other volumes later.

Congress did this at the request of patriotic societies and persons interested in early American history and genealogy, and the work is worth its while.

Many people affect to scoff at those who search out their family trees and try to bring upon themselves some distinction through the reflected glory of a long or noted ancestry, but there is no harm in the fad, so long as its followers do not content themselves with this distinction in lieu of seeking to make themselves worth while by their own achievements.

There are numerous patriotic orders to which those of the earlier native stock may belong, as follows: Society of Mayflower Descendants, to which lineal descendants of those who came over in the first immigrant ship are eligible; the Huguenot society, composed of descendants of Huguenot ancestors; the Society of Colonial Wars, descended from those who fought in wars prior to the battle of Lexington; the Order of the Founders and Patriots of America, descended from those who settled in this country prior to May 13, 1657, and whose succeeding ancestors fought in the Revolution; the Society of the Cincinnati, composed of descendants of officers in the Revolution, but first, when founded in 1783, limited to officers and their first sons; Sons of the Revolution and Sons of the American Revolution, composed of descendants of Revolutionary soldiers. Then there are the women's societies: the Colonial Dames, The Daughters of the American Revolution, the Daughters of the Revolution, and the Dames of the Revolution.

These orders, while deriving their principal attraction from the distinction of ancestry, are all designed to inculcate patriotism, and they serve a useful purpose.

Any attempt to create an aristocracy of birth in this country, through these means or others, must fail, because the public will not recognize the aristocracy even if it is claimed by the members. To do them justice, however, it should be stated that this has not been the tendency of any of these societies thus far.

STATE ADVERTISING.

In his interview with The Herald, published last evening, John H. Clark, United States commissioner of immigration in Montreal, told about the steady stream of desirable immigrants that is flowing into Canada, and explained how it happens that they are coming. The reason is this:

Canada advertises.

"Canada is spending a vast sum of money," said Mr. Clark, "to attract new settlers, and is succeeding in bringing thousands of aliens to America. A good many of these make their homes in Canada, but there are also many who ultimately reach the United States, attracted by high wages and generally prosperous conditions."

This country needs to spend no money in advertising for immigrants, because it gets plenty of them, but the Northwestern states do, and Canada's example should be profitable to them. It is not alone in Europe that Canada is advertising. Her advertising investment includes this country, and thousands of American farmers are seeking homes on the Canadian prairies because Canada advertises, and they are passing over Minnesota because Minnesota does not advertise enough.

This state spends a little money in a feeble way, but if it went at it in the same business-like way that Canada employs, it could draw from the congested cities of the country thousands of settlers that are needed to make its idle acres productive.

Where this country gets one settler by diversion from the stream of Canadian immigration, Canada gets fifty American farmers who have been attracted by the skillful advertising campaign that the dominion has under way.

WOMAN AND A CAREER.

The Boston Institute of Technology, familiarly and affectionately known as "Tech," this year graduates two young women as bachelors of science, one in architecture and the other in geology.

These young women have spent four and five years respectively in their studies at this school, after their years of preparatory work in the public schools, and they are said to be not only most efficient students, but attractive to look upon in their more human capacity of being just young women.

These two young women are now facing the world, equipped as well as native ability, hard work and an eminently sound and practical system of education can equip them.

Two main paths lie before them. One way is to follow the lines of work toward which their education has been directed: one to become an architect and the other a geologist. The other way is to marry and raise a family.

From the fact that they put in several years, during which many young women are idling or pursuing the will-o'-the-wisp of social distraction, in qualifying themselves in special lines, one would judge that their intention is to make practical use of their specialties. Of course this is not absolutely a bar to marriage, though perhaps it ought to be, because the noble profession of wife and mother can hardly be followed at the same time as the profession of architecture or teacher of science without one or the other being neglected, or both being but poorly done. If it is their aim to cut matrimony and pursue independent careers, that is their privilege, and no doubt they will do well at it. Here's hoping they will, anyway.

On the other hand, the fact that they are attractive young women will doubtless bring them many temptations to forsake the search for independent careers for the more normal careers of marriage. They will be called upon to choose, when they are offered the positions of companion and helpmate for life of attractive and promising young men, between these two ways.

Whichever they choose, the chances are, judging from the spirit they have shown in continuing their studies after many young women would have been content to call their educations completed, that they will make no mistake. The energy and industry that have shown in their school work should make them splendid wives and mothers, if they choose that way. The accomplishments of their school course as shown by their degrees, should qualify them for successful careers in the lines they have selected, if they choose to follow them further.

Aside from speculation as to the future of these two interesting young women, their diligence and their enterprise form pleasing examples to others of their sex, and their story furnishes a lesson for those who may be tempted to fritter away their youth in aimless subservience to inclinations which usurp the place of ambitions.

Good thing they named that "peace" conference at The Hague, so we would know what it is all about.

Maybe some time armaments will be limited by the refusal of the plain people to pay taxes for any more.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"The problem of regulating the speed of motorists in Greater New York is the most complex the police department has ever been called upon to deal with," said A. R. Cooper of New York, at the Spalding. "Recently Commissioner Brigham adopted a clever scheme for catching offenders against the law. It is the game played by the policemen chauffeurs of his department. These city chauffeurs, when they are not driving on city business, go on a man hunt along the avenues and park boulevards.

"The only thing that distinguishes the police moter from the car of any other of the same make is the sign on the back, with the letters P. N. Y. D. When the copper chauffeurs go hunting they leave their signs behind them, and as they wear a civilian outfit, there is nothing to mark the car from the hundreds of others in the city. Frequently a member of the bicycle squad in civilian attire is taken along.

"A few days before leaving New York this last time I heard an account of one of these hunting trips, on which two men were engaged. They went down the ocean parkway, where the policemen had reported some reckless driving. The policeman chauffeur had hardly hit the driveway before he spied a big touring car ahead spinning toward Coney as if it were taking part in the Vanderbilt cup race. The pair in the city auto set sail after the scorcher and were beginning to overtake it when the driver heard a rattle behind.

"Coming along in the dust of his car was another chap who evidently was of the opinion that the two cars ahead were racing, and he had decided to take a hand in the game, too. When Bingham's chafteur saw he was gaining on the man ahead and had him practicaly at his mecy, he swung the commissioner's car out into the middle of the boulevard and let the man behind come up level with him. Then when he had both cars between him and the curb he steered his machine across at a slight angle, compelling them both to crowd into the curb. Then the second policeman stood up in the car and showed his badge to the racing enthusiasts. It was the police station and bail for them."

"A number of theaterical houses through the country are changing their class of attractions from legitimate to vaudeville, and people generally seem to think this is a step down," said R. Franklin of Chicago at the Lenox. "Vaudeville is a form of entertainment decidedly in the ascent, and in its higher aspects is well worthy of a place in the best houses. This fact is recognized by all intelligent persons who patronize it. There must be something to it, for we find the very best artists of the legitimate stage entering into it.

"The vaudeville stage, instead of pandering to sensuality, as it may have done years ago in the beginning, is an important adjunct to the work of the legitimate drama, and gives at moderate prices an opportunity to the masses that they would never have otherwise. In many of the vaudeville stunts we find a valuable educational aid.

"A short time ago I heard selections from grand opera in vaudeville, and also heard a most interesting lecture upon a scientific subject, illustrated with a fine set of views. Vaudeville is to the stage what the newspapers are to the reading world. A man picks up a newspaper and reads it when he hasn't either the time ner inclination to read a magazine or book, and when he does have time to indulge in the latter, and also the inclination, he further takes time to persue the pages of the daily newspapers."

THE WEATHER.

After another summer day, when the thermometer rose to the comfortable altitude of 78 degs., the wind switched around to the northeast last evening and brought a sudden burst of coolness, which gave an added zest to the evening. This morning it was clear and bright and charming, but the breeze kept it cool and pleasant. Last night's lowest temperature was 48 degs. The weather man says it will be fair with comfortable temperatures tonight and tomorrow, and with northerly winds.

A year ago today ten days of fine weather was followed by cloudy, damp and threatening sultriness, the thermometer reaching 79 degs.

The sun rose this morning at 4:12 and sets tonight at 8:06, making 15 hours and 54 minutes of sunlight, just the same as yesterday and tomorrow.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Showers fell during Tuesday or last night over the Western Lake region, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Utah, Saskatchewan and Atlantic states due to low pressures over Arizona and Atlantic coast districts. Pressures are high throughout the Northwest and West attended by generally clear weather, but the Dakota-Nebraska high pressure has caused cooler temperature in the Lake region, Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys. Southerly winds in the Northwest are attended by rising temperatures in Montana, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Mostly clear weather and comfortable temperatures may be expected in this locality tonight and Thursday."

"Mine," said the lawyer's bride, proudly, "is a bad bar gain."

Philadelphia Press: "Hello!" exclaimed the first traveling man, "still in your old line, I suppose?"

"No," replied the other.

"No? What are you in now?"

"Hard luck."

"Yes," he said: "I'm waiting for it now; I'm married to it."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Does your son 'commence' this month, Mr. Smithers?"

"No, he failed. He'll have to commence over again next fall."

Washington Star: "It is a very peculiar summer."

"Yes," answered the man whose mind is always on figures. "It is the first summer I can recall when the beef trust was putting up prices instead of the ice trust."

Philadelphia Press: "Is Sue Brette married yet?" asked the returned traveler.

"Of course," replied the native; "give her a little time, will you?"

"Why, what are you talking about?"

"Why, the wedding only took place six weeks ago."

The Man Who Wins.

The man who wins is the man who does,
The man who makes things hum and buzz,
The man who works and the man who acts,
Who builds on a basis of solid facts;
Who doesn't sit down to mope and dream,
Who humps ahead with the force of steam,
Who hasn't the time to fuss and fret,
But gets there every time—you bet.

The man who wins is the man who wears
A smile to cover his burden of cares;
Who knows that the sun will shine again,
That the clouds will pass, and we need the rain.
Who buckles down to a pile of work
And never gives up and never will shirk
'Till the task is done, and the toil is sweet,
While the temples throb with red blood's heat.

The man who wins is the man who climbs
The ladder of life to the cheery chimes
Of the bells of labor, the bells of toil,
And isn't afraid that his skin will spoil,
If he face that shine of the glaring sun
And works in the light till his task is done;
A human engine with triple beam
And a hundred and fifty pounds of steam.

She Must Have It.

She may have grace, she may be fair,
She may be gentle and refined;
She may have talents that are rare,
She may possess a noble mind;
But in the background she must stay
Unnoticed by the strong and brave,
If she has not found out the way
To do it in a Marcel wave.

Who cares for soft, bewitching eyes
Or for a finely chiseled nose,
Or shell-like ears or luring sighs
Or cnecks the color of the rose?
Who cares how sweet her voice may be,
What matter how she may behave,
If she neglects to swillfully
Arrange it in a Marcel wave?

In Peace Prepare for War.

New Orleans Times-Democrat: Peace with honor is to be had with the aid of an adequate navy, and it is not to be had in any other way. Until human nature changes to retreat from danger is to invite attack.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: The Rush City Post gives out the ultimatum that Bob Dunn has all kinds of friends and that there will be no harmony in the Republican ranks in Minnesota until Bob has been given a full and complete vindication. That looks pretty good for some more Democratic successes in this Republican state.

Roseau Region: And still the talk of "Bob" Dunn for next year will not down. It is becoming generally realized now that Dunn received about the shabbiest treatment at the hands of his party that any man ever did, and that base ingratitude was shown him. "Bob" is yet to be reckoned with.

Virginia Virginian: Two Harbors has organized an outing club that will endeavor to protect game. If similar clubs were organized in communities where there is good hunting the poachers would soon be a thing of the past.

Hibbing Tribune: The state of North Minnesota is mostly a state of mind and you might tag it something wilder than brain storm.

Walker Pilot: It's a shame that the vivid imagination of the chronic kicker and town gossip doesn't drive them insane. Then we would have them all where we could handle them.

St. Hilaire Spectator: By the way the railroads have been acting lately it is evident that they did not get all they had coming and it will require another legislature and some drastic legislation to bring them to their senses.

Crookston Times: A most astonishing respect for law is becoming apparent among city administrations in all parts of the state, and many a mayor is standing with his foot in his hand while the supreme court decision on the "lid" case stalks majestically by. Duluth, Detroit, and Rosemount are among the converted that will close their saloons at 11 p. m. on weekdays, and all day Sundays. Next?

Carlton Vidette: Now that the steel plant at Duluth looks like an assured fact, Carlton county lands are rapidly raising in price.

Grand Rapids Independent: It is pretty late in the season, but all the same it will be a good speculation to plant potatoes in every little bit of ground you can spare. Spuds will be as good as wheat next fall, and it would not be very surprising if they chanced to be better.

Cass Lake Times: We have no doubt that there is rottenness in both factions but that Haywood and his fellows ever advised the killing of Steunenberg as detailed by Orchard we do not believe and do not imagine a jury of twelve men "good and true" will ever so find. Orchard's story is too barefaced, too horrid for belief, and if the jury may doubt one part of it they may doubt and discard the whole.

The Presidential Handicap.

New York Press: Here is the result furnished to us by the dopers, tipsters and handicappers:

Entry.	Probable odds.	Remarks.
*Taft	6-1	Too much weight for this one.
*Knox	6-1	Only the stable pacemaker.
Hearst	15-1	Is better in the mud.
Cannon	250-1	Like a Daly horse.
Fairbanks	40-1	Has early speed, but no class.
Cortelyou	1000-1	No chance on his dope.
Williams	500-1	Does not figure.
Cummins	200-1	Does not like the distance.
Foraker	150-1	A bad actor at the post.
!Daniel	300-1	Outclassed in this company.
!Parker	300-1	Last race was poor.
Cleveland	25-1	Has run some fair races.
Davis	100-1	Outside chance for the place.
Bryan	4-1	Was short last time out.
Roosevelt	5-1	Doubtful starter.
Hughes	7-5	The natural favorite.
La Follette	2-1	Looks like the contender.

*White House stable entry, coupled in the betting.
!Belmont-Ryan entry.

No Prejudice Against Cash.

Pittsburg Dispatch: Concerning those Japanese officials who are coming to this country to purchase $10,000,000 worth of manufactured supplies, it is a safe bet that they will not discover any race prejudice among the people who have those supplies for sale.

How Lovely!

A boat and a beach and a summer resort,
A man and a maid and a moon;
Soft and sweet nothings and then at the real
Psychological moment a spoon.
A whisper, a promise, and summer is o'er.
And they part in hysteric despair.
(For neither returns in the following June,
For fear that the other is there.)
—NELLIE PARKER JONES in June Lippincott's.

Nature.

As a fond mother, when the day is o'er,
Leads by the hand her little child to bed,
Half-willing, half-reluctant to be led,
And leave his broken playthings on the floor,
Still gazing at them through the open door,
Nor wholly reassured and comforted,
By promises of others in their stead,
Which, though more splendid, may not please him more:
So Nature deals with us, and takes away
Our playthings one by one, and by the hand
Leads us to rest so gently that we go
Scarce knowing if we wish to go or stay,
Being too full of sleep to understand
How far the unknown transcends the what we know.
—H. W. LONGFELLOW.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Lake Crystal Union: "Make your own sunshine by the exercise of a little cheerful pallosophy," says the Duluth Herald.

This is good advice but just try it and see how many times in a day you will be bumped. To lend cheerfulness to the shadows of human existence means a whole lot. Good advice is heeded if it is compatible with our desires, but if it runs contrary to the grain, it takes something of a hero to heed it and come up smiling every time he is slapped in the face.

Stillwater Gazette: The Duluth Herald says: "It is reported that the word 'thousand' is misspelled in the new $1,000 gold certificates. Look over your spare change and see if it is so." All of ours are all right.

Sleepy Eye Dispatch: A writer of ancient times warned us not to "look upon the wine when it is red" and now the Duluth Herald sounds the dangers of looking on the absinthe when it is green. There isn't much left for the thirsty ones except the amber fluid with foam on.

Pine City Province: Duluth is in the public eye more than any other city in the state. And its two excellent daily newspapers are doing more to put it there than any of us ordinary mortals are able to comprehend.

Anoka Herald: A snobbish army officer up in Duluth is crusty as the dickens because a lot of citizens in plain clothes failed to kowtow to his gilt lace. The wrath of the distinguished officer is very diverting.

Princeton Union: Duluth is to have a big steel manufacturing plant. Articles of incorporation of a ten million dollar company have been filed with the secretary of state. Now watch Duluth grow.

Virginia Enterprise: Duluth has acquired a "lid" agitation. And while the mayor at the head of the lake refuses to admit that his feet are getting chilly it is a safe bet that those who get a Sunday jag in future will not acquire it in a saloon.

Hibbing Tribune: Duluth certainly beats 'em all; even its kidnapings are the best.

Sleepy Eye Dispatch: A man up in Duluth was arrested and fined for beating his wife's grandmother "without sufficient provocation." It must be a hard matter to know just how far your wife's relations are to be allowed to go before the Duluth judge will get you.

Ortonville Herald Star: A year ago today we nominated Mr. Cole for governor at Duluth. This reference is only for the purpose of calling attention to the fact that in about a year hence we will be gathering in St. Paul's elegant new auditorium for the purpose of naming the next governor of Minnesota. Duluth is a nice city but the Republican party shivers as with a political ague when it recalls the fate of its candidate named there a year ago. That Spalding House vote is too uncertain a quantity.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: There would be fun in even going to church if it was a scandal.

A woman has a good time going shopping unless it's to buy something.

A man who owns an automobile would think he was rich if he didn't.

Bank accounts are very useful to make you wish yours wasn't so small.

A girl likes to blush so that maybe you will think it's her regular complexion.

Don'ts for Brides.

Did you ever bake a cake?
Did you ever fry an egg?
Have you ever stuffed a turkey with tomatoes?
Can you broil a sirloin steak?
Did you ever brown the leg
Of a mutton and then serve it with potatoes?
If you know these things by heart
Just forget them if you're smart,
For if hubby should find out that you can do them,
He will keep you busy baking,
Cooking, broiling, biscuit-making,
And it's better for you if you never knew them. —Chicago Journal.

MAHONEY WAS VERY RESTLESS

Talked All Night and Kept the Prisoners Awake.

Daniel P. Mahoney gave the prisoners of the county jail little opportunity to sleep last night. The jailers claim that he talked or shouted all night, calling continually on the Virgin Mary or spirits to come to his rescue.

Since his outbreak of yesterday, when he attempted to escape from the officers while on his way from the jail to the courthouse to be examined as to his sanity, Mahoney has been quite well behaved. He told the jailer yesterday afternoon that he had no intention of running away when he started off the jail steps, that he simply wanted to get out on the courtyard lawn and make a speech. He claimed that he had enough friends who would come to his relief, if they only heard him make a speech.

It is believed that the excitment of yesterday has made Mahoney's mental condition a little worse and he will be taken to the state asylum at Fergus Falls as soon as the papers can be prepared.

LAUNCH FOULED A STEEL HAWSER

Official Report on Disaster Which Caused Death of Middies.

Washington, June 19.—Admiral Emory, commanding the Fourth division of the Atlantic fleet, arrived today with the report of the naval board of investigation, which has been looking into the circumstances surrounding the loss of the launch of the battleship Minnesota on the night of June 10. The board found that the launch had fouled a steel hawser, with which the big tug Crisfield was towing a barge carrying a number of loaded freight cars from Cape Charles to Norfolk. No criminality is attached to the officers of the Crisfield, who were in ignorance of the disaster.

Norfolk, Va., June 19.—The bodies of two of the eleven men who perished when the launch of the Minnesota went down in Hampton Roads in the early morning of June 11, were today still unrecovered. They are the bodies of Midshipman Henry Clay Murfin, Jr., of Jackson, Ohio, and Seaman Frank R. Plummer of Mabton, Wash.

The plan to bury the body of Midshipman W. C. Ulrich in the cemetery on the naval hospital grounds here today was not carried out, a telegram having been received from the mother of young Ulrich in Milwaukee, requesting that the body, instead of being buried here as she first asked, be sent to Annapolis and interred with naval honors there. The body will be sent by steamer tonight to Baltimore and from there will be forwarded to Annapolis for burial tomorrow.

The body of Seaman Hurley Loyall Vandorne, son of C. L. Vandorne of West Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is still being held at the naval hospital awaiting advices from the parents of the deceased, as also is the body of Midshipman Herbert Leander Holden, son of Susan A. Holden of Portage, Wis.

HEAD BLOWN OFF IS MINERS' FATE

Premature Explosion of Blast Probably Caused the Fatality.

Iron Mountain, Mich., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Matt Rentamaki, with the top of the head blown off, was the ghastly find made by fellow workmen of the victim at the Great Western mine at Crystal Falls. The miner had been killed, doubtless, by the premature explosion of a blast. The body was horribly mangled.

Riding to surface in the skip, and jumping to prevent being carried up to and dumped into the ore pocket in the shafthouse, John Berg, a prominent young Scandinavian resident of Crystal Falls, son of a mining captain, met a violent death at the Dunn mine, at which he was employed as timekeeper.

ARRESTED AGAIN.

Police Swear Out Second Warrant for Transient Rug Man.

For the second time within a week W. A. Alden, the original rug merchant was arraigned in municipal court today charged with operating as a transcient merchant in the city of Duluth without taking out a license, a violation of the city ordinance. Mr. Alden pleaded not guilty, and the hearing was set for the same date as that of the hearing on the first warrant, next Friday morning.

Mr. Alden, who is represented by John Jenswold claims that the city ordinance regulating transient merchants is invalid and will not hold in the courts. He furnished an additional $50 bail this morning to insure his appearance.

He is operating under an autctioneers' license taken out by his auctioneer W. D. Gordon. The charge upon which Mr. Alden was arraigned this morning is identical with the one on which he was arraigned Friday.

Cromwell, Minn., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The board of education has elected the following teachers: August H. Rohlf, principal for a third term, and Miss Rosa Malogna as first assistant. The people of Cromwell are much pleased that Principal Rohlf has been re-elected. He has given entire satisfaction for the past two school years of which the board of education was well aware.

STRAY BULLET WOUNDS.

Washburn, Wis., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A reckless hunter and his weapon came near taking the life of Mrs. May Greenwood, librarian of the Carnegie library, who was accidentally shot yesterday afternoon by a stray bullet. She was standing by the window at her home when she screamed and fell to the floor. Her relatives rushed to her assistance and found her bleeding from a wound in the back of the head. An examination showed that a bullet had struck her, but as it was evidently a spent bullet it did not penetrate her skull.

CANADIAN GIRLS COMING

Twelve Prize Beauties Will Spend Two Days in Duluth.

Twelve of the most beautiful young women from that garden spot of Canada, Southern Ontario, will be in Duluth early in August.

They are among the prettiest in that section because the St. Thomas Journal editor says so. He has been conducting a beauty contest there, with the ulterior motive of increasing the Journal's subscription list, and he got away with it, without having the Journal's office torn down. The twelve successful ones will have a trip to Duluth, coming up on the steamer Huronic. They will remain in Duluth two days, and that ought to be sufficient to create a flutter in the hearts of Duluth's susceptible young men.

Dickinson in person by the governor's private secretary.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Two Drunken Men Had Revolver Practice in West End.

Woodsman Fell Through Window on West Michigan Street.

Mrs. John Nelson of 2109 West Fourth street does not consider that her back yard is the proper place for revolver target practice, especially when the "men behind the guns" are decidedly the worse for liquor. In consequence she called up police headquarters about 8:10 last night and excitedly informed them that two men were shooting at a tin can on a stump from her back yard and that one of them was so drunk he staggered. They hadn't hit the can, she said, but she wasn't sure what they might hit and she wanted the rumpus stopped right away. It was twenty minutes before Officer Setterquist could be reached, and he was sent up there at once.

When he arrived, the men had departed, but not only Mrs. Nelson, but several of the neighbors said that the two drunks had been firing at objects about the neighborhood from shortly after 6 until about 8. They had just gone.

The policemen spent about half an hour in the locality hoping that they would return, but they did not do so.

Sound asleep on the tile floor of the hallway in the Torrey building, William Ritchie was picked up by Officer Cater about 6 o'clock last night. He had evidently been drunk, but was sufficiently sober when arrested, his sleep having had a decidedly good effect on him.

In consequence he was arraigned this morning charged with trespass and was given a five-day sentence to impress upon him the impropriety of picking out such places to sleep.

Edward Milks, a Canadian lumberman, was picked up by Officer Grandmaison about 9 o'clock this morning in decidedly bad shape. He was drunk and had fallen through one of the windows on Michigan street across from the Union depot. In falling he cut his wrist on the glass, severing an artery. The blood was flowing in great spurts, and Milks was rapidly losing strength. Grandmaison sent in a hurry call for the patrol wagon and after being taken to the station Milks was sent to St. Mary's hospital. The patrol wagon and the station steps were liberally smeared with the blood of the injured man.

DOCK COMPANY ASKS DAMAGES

Claims Dredge Concern Should Have Borne Expense of $4,871.

The damage case of the Boston Coal Dock & Wharf Co. against the Lake Superior Contracting & Dredging Co. is being heard by a jury in Judge Cant's room. The suit involves a claim of nearly $5,000 which the coal dock company alleges is due it by reason of the expense it was put to in the deepening of a channel near its Oneota dock that is said to have become partially filled with a deposit of sand and material by the dredge company while it was constructing an addition to the coal dock some time ago. The dock company claims that the dredging company has failed to pay for the expense of deepening the channel and placing it in as passable a condition as it was before the addition was built to the dock.

HOMESTEADER HAILED TO COURT

Hearing in Land Office Interrupted by Hand of Law.

The appearance of the hand of the law, in the shape of the tall form of Court Officer Jensen broke up proceedings in a land contest case which was in progress at the land office, yesterday afternoon, before Register Engle.

Carl A. Grosse and Joseph McGregor were contesting a homestead claim, near Beaver Bay, in township 57, range 9, a township which has earned the title of "battle ground of the north shore," because of the many homestead contests instituted within its boundaries. Grosse was basing his claim in prior settlement, and McGregor on first entry. The hearing of the case had hardly commenced, and the officials were just getting settled in their seats, when Mr. Jensen appeared and announced that he had a warrant for McGregor's arrest, and the protesting homesteader was led down to municipal court by the officer.

The warrant, which was sworn out by Grosse, charged McGregor with having threatened to shoot the complainant on the street in Duluth on Monday last, and asked that he put under bonds to keep the peace. McGregor pleaded not guilty to the charge, and his trial was set for 10 o'clock, July 2. Bail was fixed at $50, and I. Grettum, who was to have been McGregor's attorney in the land case, went on his bond to appear at the trial. It was too late to proceed with the land hearing by this time, however.

PEACE CONFERENCE

Holds Short Meeting and Does But Little Business.

The Hague, June 19.—Today's session of the peace conference lasted only an hour. Publicity for future plenary sessions was unanimously adopted. The only unexpected feature was a proposition submitted by Baron Marschall Von Bieberstein, Germany, for the creation of a high international prize court for the settlement of difficulties arising from the judgments of the local prize courts. This was referred to a committee. Great Britain and the United States supported the proposition. The remainder of the session was perfunctory.

TYPE OF SMALL STEAMERS WHICH ARE BECOMING NUMEROUS ON INLAND LAKES

RAINY RIVER NAVIGATION COMPANY'S STEAMER PLYING BETWEEN LITTLE FORT AND INTERNATIONAL FALLS.

THREE BIG CARGOES.

What the Morgan, Mather and Phipps Did at Ashland.

Three ore carriers, the J. Pierpont Morgan, the William G. Mather, and the Henry Phipps, took from the Ashland docks Saturday and Sunday, considerably over 30,000 tons of ore. The combined value of these three vessels, is over a million dollars. Their combined cargoes carried from this port on this trip, are worth about $125,000. The average sized screw for vessels of this class, is about twenty-five. While they carry the ore belonging to the companies owning the vessels, they earn about $20,000 in freight charges, or about $7,000 per vessel on one trip down. The Morgan cleared from Ashland a week ago Sunday, and again loaded at Ashland Sunday, making the round trip to Chicago in less than seven days.

ENGINEERS COMPLAINING.

Say Wind Blows Oil From Bridge Over Their Premises.

Every time there is a wind from the south or west, the workers in the government engineers' building on the pier are loath to go outside, and when they do, it is with many harsh exclamations about the aerial bridge.

There is a reason, as the advertisements say. It seems that every time there is a wind from the south or west, it blows oil, which is plentiful about the mechanism of the bridge, over on the government engineers' building, sidewalks, lawn, and their persons, if they happen to be coming or going out of the office.

The board of public works has tried to remedy the nuisance by hanging tin pails along the edge of the car. But the government men say that the oil still flies.

LIGHTHOUSE TENDER HERE.

Captain Cummings of the Marigold Reports Some Changes.

The United States lighthouse tender Marigold, Capt. Cummings, commanding, is now in port, awaiting the arrival of Congressman Tawney and a number of members of the lighthouse board, who will make a tour of inspection on Lake Superior.

The Marigold is just in from a cruise, during which, the markers for mariners were placed in position and inspected. The bell buoy at the Point Abbaye shoal, at the entrance to Keweenaw bay, has been carried away so often that a can buoy has been substituted. The winter markings have been mostly left in place, to be of service in case the regular seasonable markings were carried away.

Capt. Cummings reports the following changes to Capt. Swenson of the local hydrographic office:

Manhatten wreck, red gas buoy; Point Abbave shoal (N), black can buoy; Point Abbaye shoal (S'), red nun buoy; Magdalene island, red spar buoy; Marina shoal, red spar buoy.

show that the defendant had through these articles, contributed anything that might lead to the murder of Governor Steunenberg. He admitted that some of the articles were intemperate in tone, but were nothing more than "primary newspaper abuses."

Mr. Richardson quoted from the record of the case "Spies vs. The People," and the ruling as to the admission of newspaper articles. In the case of the Miners' Magazine he said, the articles did not compare in tone with the violence of the articles in the Spies case. Richardson read at length from the evidence in the Spies cases, the letters from Herr Most to Spies and other violent matter published at the time.

Throughout the letters and other matter, force, dynamite and murder and wholesale revolution was consulted. Mr. Richardson pointed out that these letters were printed in Anarchist newspapers published by the defendants in the famous Anarchist trials resulting in conviction and execution.

The prosecution yesterday secured the admission of four letters tending to show that Haywood, during the fall of 1905, when Orchard swears he was engaged on various crimes for the federation's leaders, had participated in a plan to deceive Mrs. Orchard, the second, of Cripple Creek, as to the whereabout of her husband.

Over a variety of protests from the defense Orchard was allowed to testify that early in the summer of 1905 Haywood told him that Mrs. Orchard was writing him for information as to Orchard's whereabouts. Orchard swore that he proposed that he should write his wife a series of letters that were to be falsely dated and delivered to Mrs. Orchard by agents of the federation.

He said that he first wrote two letters which he dated at San Francisco, and had them delivered through Paddy Mullaney, who represented the federation at Cripple Creek. Orchard identified the two letters, and, overruling all objections of the defense, Judge Wood admitted them.

Next Orchard swore that he wrote a third letter, purporting to come from Nome, Alaska, and that under the general arrangement he had made with the federation officials, Marian Moore carried the letter to Nome, where he went as organizer of the federation, the date of Nome, Aug. 5, 1905, was produced, identified and admitted as evidence.

Orchard then identified a letter which Haywood wrote to Mrs. Orchard and that, too, was admitted in evidence and handed to the jury. It was as follows:

"Denver, Nov. 18, 1905.—Mrs. H. Orchard: Dear Madam and Sister—I have not heard a word since I saw you. The last information I got was from Alaska. I think Fairfield was the name of the place. I see that awful conditions prevail among the law and order element. Yours very truly.

"WILLIAM D. HAYWOOD."

The three letters written by Orchard were commonplace and contained practically nothing bearing on the case or Orchard's testimony except references to the arrangement which Orchard says he made with the federation officials for the care of his wife while he was absent.

The defense attacked the letters and Orchard's story about them when it got a chance to cross-examine the witness, but Orchard held to the story he told about them. The witness successively denied that he had made an arrangement for the delivery of the letters to Pinkerton agents; that the letters had only made their appearance since he left the stand last week or that he had invented the story because his wife had Haywood's letter in her possession. He swore positively that Haywood had agreed to write the Alaska letter and that Pettibone and Moyer knew of the arrangement.

Besides the four San Francisco-Alaska letters the state secured the admission of a certified copy of an unsigned letter which Orchard got at Caldwell jail and which Orchard swears was in the handwriting of Pettibone. The letter was as follows:

"Dec. 30, Friend Tom: Your letter received. That was sent to Jack. December 21 for you. He should send it so that you ought to have it by this time. Will not write any more this time. Write me as soon as you get to your new field."

The letter was postmarked at Denver on Dec. 30, the day that Steunenberg was killed, and it is claimed by the state that the "Jack" mentioned was Simpkins and that the "that" referred to was $100 which Orchard swore he asked Simpkins to secure for him when he was leaving Caldwell.

DROWNING OF WOMAN

boat was towed ashore and the police notified. A policeman was sent to Evans' home where he was found in bed. His wet clothing was hanging over a chair.

He was taken to the lake and when asked for an explanation of the affair said that he hired a boat and started for a row with Miss Vennell. When near a place called Piney Point the girl wanted to row and in changing their positions the boat sank with them. Evans said he had great difficulty in freeing himself from his companion, who, he said, was screaming for help, while she held him tightly about the neck. They had gone down twice, Evans said, when he freed himself and swam ashore. He ran all the way home and did not tell anyone of the drowning of the girl. Her body was found today in four feet of water. The body showed several bruises and there are cuts on the face.

The police say they have been unable to find anyone who heard the girl's cries, if she made any. The shores of the lake were lined with people at the time of the drowning and there were many boats on the lake in the vicinity of where the girl lost her life.

NO MONEY FOR NAVAL MILITIA

To Practice Target Shooting Provided by Last Congress.

Washington, June 19.—A dissappointment is felt among the officials interested in the naval military organizations of the country over a recent ruling of the judge advocate general of the army. This was in effect that the naval militia is not specifically mentioned, and in consequence is not entitled to share in the allotment of the appropriation for target practice made by congress for the national guard, the army and the navy and the marine corps. Naval organizations from some of the states already had given notice of their intention to compete in target practice. The decision is now in the hands of the judge advocate general of the navy and if that officer feels there is any question as to the correctness of the attitude of the army, an appeal will be taken to the attorney general. The contest for the national trophy this year is to be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, instead of Sea Girt, N. J., as heretofore.

Washington, June 19.—The gunboat Don Juan de Austria, now in New Hampshire waters, is the war vessel which the state department is making an effort to have located on the Great Lakes as an additional ship for the use of the naval militia in that section of the country. She is of 1,130 tons displacement, has a speed of over twelve knots an hour, and has fourteen guns under four inches calibre. Every effort is being made to epedite the transfer of the vessel to the Great Lakes, but it is hardly expected this can be accomplished before autumn because of the roundabout diplomatic methods which have to be made in securing England's consent.

ON THE IRON RANGES

MESABA CO. SECURES IT

Awarded Franchise for the Proposed Traction Line at Virginia.

Company Has Eighteen Months in Which to Accept.

Virginia, Minn., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Mesaba Traction company being the only bidder for the street railway franchise, offering $100 therefor, the city council last evening awarded the franchise to that concern. The company has six months in which to accept and eighteen months thereafter in which to construct and place in operation the first mile of track. It will have two years in which to complete and operate the line from Virginia to Mountain Iron and Eveleth, provided that it receives franchises from the latter two places. Neither the Northern Traction company nor any other concern had representatives present or offered a bid besides the Mesabe Traction company. President F. B. Myers was over from Biwabik and Attorney Robertson from Minneapolis. The latter stated that the company would gladly reimburse the city for the fee of publishing the former ordinance that had been rejected by the company and any other like expenses connected threwith.

Bids for construction of the proposed new fire hall were read by the clerk as follows:

Andrew Grande (complete except wiring), $12,501.

A. Nelson (complete), $15,992.

M. O. Habgner (complete), $13,214.

Virginia Hardware company (plumbing), $655.

A. Thayer (heating plant), $1,000.

James Sampson (except heating, plumbing and wiring), $11,130.

The bids were laid over until this evening that the architect might be given opportunity to figure out the lowest bid. Although the advertisement called for bids on the building complete there is a disposition to divide up the work if it can be done legally.

NEITHER LIKES THAT FRANCHISE

Traction Men Tell Eveleth Council It Must be Changed.

Eveleth, Minn., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council was informed last night by F. B. Myers of Biwabik, representing the Mesaba Traction company, and A. M. Robertson of Minneapolis, representing the Lowry interests that neither concern would accept the street railway franchise in its present form. They said they would prepare a suitable franchise and present it to the council for consideration.

It was the sense of the council that Judge Prince should require his clerk, Miss Sadie Murphy, to furnish a bond. The latter demurs to this, however, contending that as the judge handles the money, she should not be held responsible. The city attorney is quoted as saying he will prosecute her if she does not furnish the required bond. The city's rights in the ball park were assigned to the baseball association. Bids for curbing on Grand avenue were opened but not acted on.

As the city has no firemen's relief association as contemplated in the law giving such association 2 per cent of the premiums paid on losses and such money has been received by the city the question of what to do with it was freely discussed. It appears that two years ago Former City Clerk Lee Larson certified to the state that such an organization did exist, and accordingly the local department has received a sum of money yearly from the state. Ed Skell, present city clerk, received this money for last year from the state about six weeks ago, but knowing that it was obtained illegally he turned it over to the city treasurer. City Attorney J. McGilvray said that the money could not be used by the local department. The question of the way the firemen are paid was also taken up. A lump sum is appropriated monthly by the council which is distributed among the firemen. It was decided to pay the men individually by order upon the city treasurer.

The question of furnishing the firemen with a shower bath at their quarters was freely discussed, the mayor opposing the idea on the ground that the city could ill-afford the expense and declaring he would refuse to sign a warrant for such payment.

ORE LANDS IN DEMAND

Unusual Amount of Purchasing and Exploration on Vermilion Range.

Considerable Activity in a Mining Way in That Section.

Tower, Minn., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—There has been great activity on the Vermilion range during the past thirty days, particularly between Tower and Ely. Many options for mining leases have been taken and several new explorations started. Outsiders are arriving on every train to look over lands and the explorers are reaping quite a harvest in locating and livery men profiting likewise, as it is necessary in most cases to hire rigs to go back and forth. Owners of land that have any kind of a good showing of iron ore can easily sell the fee or make a lease on a royalty basis.

Capt. Whiteside of Ironwood, Mich., has commenced explorations on section 16-62-13. Some St. Paul parties commenced explorins about ten days ago on a state lease on section 16-62-14, and a lease has also been made to an eastern furnace company in section 15 in the same town.

Capt. Ebener of Duluth had two different experts look over his land in section 16 last week and the Queen Iron company is pushing explorations in section 22-62-13. The surface showing of ore and jasper on these tracts are very promising and if the parties doing the work will be governed by the experience of others and sink exploratory shafts instead of diamond drilling they will no doubt be rewarded by finding a mine as has been the case in every instance where a shaft was sunk.

None of the old-timers on the range have any confidence in the diamond drill work, for it has proven a failure for twenty years and was the cause of condemning every piece of property on the range that is now a shipping mine, and many that will be on the shipping list in the very near future.

A well posted diamond drill man recently explained the cause of the unsatisfactory results of diamond drilling on the range by stating that the ore formations on the Vermilion range stand on their edges the same as the Marquette range, and is exceedingly hard, and most all holes are drilled on an angle and whenever the drill encounters a soft material such as slate or soapstone, that it will follow this streak no matter where it goes. A couple of instances of this peculiarity was found in the following cases: Dan McDonald, now of the firm of Cole & McDonald, set a diamond drill in the village south of the Soudan hill and commenced a hole at an angle of 45 degs. to the north with the intention of cross cutting the ore body in the Minnesota mine several hundred feet below where the ore was being taken out, but to the great surprise of everyone there, the drill came up in the drift where the men were working. Another time Capt. Hall set a diamond drill in one of the levels of the Minnesota mine and started to drill a hole about 75 feet distant to another drift, in order to let the water out, but the drill never reached the drift and they never did find out where the hole went.

This explanation and the instances noted tend to strengthen the belief that shaft sinking is necessary on the Vermilion ranges and more clearly shows the fallacy of diamond drilling.

STILL MANY LOTS IN NEW TOWNSITE

Eighteen Are Disposed Of First Half of Day's Sale.

Virginia, Minn., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lots in the new town of Wanan Lake, south of McKinley and Elba, were placed on sale Monday, at the office of J. R. Krogdahl, one of the townsite owners, and by noon eighten lots had been disposed of. A number of Virginians went out yesterday afternoon to look over the townsite, with a view of purchasing lots.

The town of McKinley will have to be moved some day, in order that the ore underneath may be mined, and the owners of Wanan Lake have hopes that the people of McKinley will prefer to move to their town. It is situated on the shore of a charming little lake, and the Missabe road cuts across one corner.

The sale of lots in the new town of Costin, adjoining Mountain Iron, is also heavy, and the outlook is that the plat will be all sold out in a short time.

ORE DOCK NO. 5 SOON BE READY

Increased Ore Handling Facilities at Two Harbors Port.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The work of putting the ore spouts on new No. 5 ore dock was commenced Monday, and it is expected to have part of the dock in use in another week and all of it in commission by July 1. Ore business is already near the record mark, but the increased ore capacity given by the new structure there will be a decided increase, and shipments should exceed all previous business.

The contract called for the finishing of the dock mentioned by May 1, but the delay to timber caused by the blockade on the coast roads during the winter set the work back two months.

There are now about thirty-five train and engine crews in the ore service between here and the ranges, and more will probably be added when No. 5 dock is put into commission.

GRAND STAND DROPS.

Some Slight Injuries to Occupants May Cause Damage Suits.

Virginia, Minn., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a possibility of several actions for damages being brought against the Virginia Baseball association, or Contractor Grande, because of the collapse of the grand stand during the opening game between the Big Duluths and the Virginia club, on Sunday afternoon. The grand stand was not quite completed, although the seating was all finished and was occupied by a large crowd. Shortly after the game started the props gave way and the stand fell to the ground. Very fortunately there was no one seriously injured, but Judge J. M. Martin had a finger broken, while a little daughter of Landlard Mitchell of the Hotel Mitchell was severely squeezed. A number of ladies had their clothing and shoes torn, while there were a number of minor bruises received.

In one day the Hull pit loaded and shipped 24,500 tons, which required 490 cars, over 1,000 tons per hour, a record that is said to have never been equalled in shipments from any mine before.

WARFARE UPON WILD MUSTARD

Troublesome Weed Will be Attacked in Scientific Manner.

St. Anthony Park, Minn., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota Agricultural Experiment station wil undertake within the next ten days a number of experiments, on a large scale, of killing wild mustard by spraying the field infected with a solution of sulphate of iron. The American Steel & Wire company of Chicago has donated for this purpose 60,000 pounds of sulphate of iron which is now at Grand Forks, N. D., and an especially designed spraying machine imported from Germany, which has been shipped to Crookston.

Experiments will be conducted at Tenney, Georgetown, Ada, Crookston, Warren and Kennedy. It is proposed to begin work as soon as the mustard is sufficiently advanced, by shipping the material and machine to one of the points named, spray a large field that had previously been selected, load the material and equipment on the first train and ship to the next point and so on until all fields are sprayed. These fields will be carefully watched and visited by experts several times during the summer, and the conclusions based on the observations distributed among the farmers of the state. Since wild mustard is a serious menace to the growth of cereals in many places, these experiments will be watched with great interest.

TORNADO DOES MUCH DAMAGE

BAD INDIAN IS ARRESTED

Caught in Upper Peninsula for Crimes Committed in Wisconsin.

Charge is Taking Liquor Onto Reservation Near Odena.

Houghton, Mich., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Kenoshum, a full blooded Chippewa Indian, has been arrested by Deputy United States Marshal Mosher at an Indian habitation between L'Anse and Pequaming on order from the federal authorities from Wisconsin on the charge of taking liquor on to the reservation near Odean, Wis., and is here in jail.

He is a young, intelligent looking Indian. It is charged that a few months ago he introduced into the Bad River Indian country in Wisconsin some alcohol which he sold to the Indians. Later he fled and was finally located where he was captured.

An interesting phase concerning Kenoshum, according to Mr. Mosher, is that some time ago Kenoshum sold a valuable homestead, for which he received betwen $3,000 and $4,000, and this money the government is now paying him in monthly installments of $10. The charge against Kenoshum is a serious one, and if proven, it will go hard with him, as the government is exceptionally severe with persons caught violating the rule against disposing of liquor within its Indian reservation. A number of Indian witnesses have been subpoened and it is believed there is a clear case against the accused.

Valley City, N. D., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Winkler has returned from Moorhead, Minn., with Tom Noavak, an Austrian, who has been working on the section here who is charged with forgery.

It appears that Noavak found a pocketbook containing $25 and a number of checks aggregating in all $624.01. He had the pocketbook and the checks when arrested, but the $25 was gone. He declares that there was no money in it when he found it. He went to Moorhead and tried to cash an $11 check at the saloon of Fredericks & Anderson. As the check was not endorsed, and he did not appear to be the proper man to endorse it, he was arrested and the local authorities notified. This particular check was drawn by Frank S. Towne. The accused had checks signed by Robert Anderson, Ambrose Wall and the Stacy Mercantile company. Noavak was arraigned yesterday morning in Judge Smith's court and the hearing continued. It is possible that if he returns the $25 and pays the costs that he will be released with only thirty days in jail, as he appears to be ignorant and simple.

MARKSMEN IN COMPETITION

One Armed Man, Does Work in Amateur Events.

Chicago, June 19.—Three hundred and forty-five marksmen took part in the opening day's shoot of the Grand American handicap tournament yesterday at the grounds of the Chicago club. L. J. Wade of Dallas, Texas, and Lee Barkley of Chicago, were high for the day with totals of 99, while W. H. Heer of Concordia, Kas., W. O. Stannard, Chicago; George Volg, West Toledo, Ohio, and J. A. Flick, Ravenna, Ohio, divided honors for amateurs, with 98 each. Flick is a one armed man, 56 years old.

The preliminary handicap for amateurs only, at handicaps allotted in the grand American, will be held tomorrow. Entries closed for the grand American today.

VICTORY IS SURPRISE.

Lion Woods, 100 to 1 Shot, Wins Race at Gravesend.

New York, June 19.—The surprise of the racing at Gravesend yesterday was the victory of Lion Woods, a 100 to 1 shot, in the fifth race, and Eugene Woods, the well known politician, had $100 three ways on the Flambeau gelding, winning $16,000 on his victory. J. S. Hay, the owner of the gelding, did not bet on him. Lion Woods has been racing here since the season opened but had never shown anything in his races to which a play on him and he has on several occasions been quoted as high as 150 to 1.

POOR JOE WALCOTT.

Ancient Champion is Beaten by Mike Donavan.

Brazil, Ind., June 19.—Mike Donovan of Buffalo, N. Y., was awarded the decision over Joe Walcott of Boston, at the end of ten rounds of slow fighting here last night. The decision of Referee Hugo Kelly did not seem to meet the approval of the crowd. The men were fresh at the end, and neither bore a mark. The bout was somewhat tame on acount of threatening interference of the sheriff, acting on orders from Governor Hanly. The fight was finally permitted when assurance was given that it would be kept within the bounds of the law.

CULLED FROM THE SCORE BOOK.

Thank goodness!

We won one of the series.

* * *

Mr. Creighton is all right.

The fans are rather anxious to see him.

* * *

It was too much Terry on the Winnipeg side.

* * *

"The pitcher that goes to the box, etc.," applies to Terry.

* * *

The Sox have won but three of eleven games from Winnipeg. No wonder the Maroons are at the top.

* * *

Terry won three straight games previous to that which he dropped last evening.

* * *

Judging from the number of beatings Houghton is handing out to the Aristocrats, Roy Newcombe's charges are due to strike the bottom with a bump before many mons have rolled over the earth.

Incidentally, it would help a good deal, if Houghton would hand out a few beatings to the 'Peggers. The Canadians will be getting as chesty as Cox if this winning keeps up.

* * *

The Sox open a twenty-game series at home tomorrow and they ought to win a majority of them on their home grounds. If they don't, good-bye pennant. We'll send the rag to Canada.

* * *

Calumet and Houghton play at Athletic park today. They will present vastly different nines from those which appeared here early in the season.

* * *

Our old friend, Thomas J. McGraw, is due to arrive today and he will probably handle the indicator here in the coming series. Tommy looks good to Duluth fans, even if he doesn't make many mistakes and he keeps the players on the move.

* * *

The Calumet and Houghton teams are now under different managers. Percy Selbraa is leading the Giants, and Roy Newcombe the Aristocrats.

Denver, June 19. — Freddie Weeks of Cripple Creek was given the decision over Bantam Weight Champion Jimmy Walsh of Boston in a 10-round go at the Denver Athletic club last night.

PET DOG CARRIED

Deserted Wife's Appeal to Missing Husband, But All in Vain.

New Brunswick, N. J., June 19.—Use of a pet dog as a messenger to effect a reconciliation between an estranged wife and her husband is one of the incidents related in the report of the special master in chancery recommending a divorce in the suit brought by Mrs. Ellen Smith, of this city, against her husband, Frederick L. Smith. Mrs. Smith brought the suit on grounds of wilful desertion.

The Smiths were married in this city April 15, 1903, and lived together until September 8, 1903. Smith left home that day without telling his wife he was going.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith owned a pet dog. When Smith left home the dog accompanied him. On several occasions the dog returned alone to the house. This led Mrs. Smith to believe that her husband was not far off. After failing in other methods of communicating with her husband Mrs. Smith wrote a letter and tied it to the dog's collar with the idea that when the animal returned to his master he would receive the appeal from the deserted wife. This strange method of winning back her husband proved unavailing, so she brought suit for divorce.

BIG LINER PICTURED

In the Air to the Passengers of Another Steamship.

New York, June 19.—The American liner Philadelphia, in from Southampton and Cherbourg, found almost dead ahead of her on Friday morning the dim smoke trail of a liner. Capt. Mills suspected that the invisible ship was the swift French liner La Torrane, and a few minutes later his conjecture was verified by a conspiracy of the spirits of the air.

The sea was of the millpond variety and the sky was gray and sunless. At 8:30, as recorded in the log, the French liner appeared upside down in the air many miles ahead. Wireless messages flashed between the ships and showed that they were more than twenty-five miles apart, or hull down to each other.

Capt. Mills had seen mirages before, but none of the passengers ever had observed one of such distinctness. No sea simulacrum ever looked so real as the topsy-turvy French ship. Voyagers on the Philadelphia neglected their breakfasts to gaze at the vision, which lasted about an hour and a half. The French ship's passengers, like flies walking on a ceiling, were seen as distinctly as if the real ship were only a few miles away. The officer on La Torrane's bridge was particularly conspicuous, and one of the Philadelphia's observers said he could almost make out the brand of cigarette the officer was smoking. A transition in cloud effects destroyed the illusion, and all hands went back to breakfast.

PRESIDENT WROUGHT UP

Glass Nails the Calamity Stories as Unfounded.

Says League Will Certainly Finish This Season.

A number of calamity stories have been going the rounds of a change in the seedule of the Northern-Copper Country league which will take practically all the remainder of the games away from Calumet and Houghton and transfer them to Duluth and Winnipeg because the first named towns are said to be such poor proposition as baseball town, says the Calumet Evening News. That there was any probability in this change, dreamed out by enterprising dope writers, was quite strenuously doubted this morning by Dr. Percy Glass, president of the league, in an interview with the News. "To my knowledge," said Dr. Glass, "there has been no official mention of such a change, and as there will be only one more trip of the western teams to the Copper country anyway it would be hardly advisable to cut that out. The two teams are here for only nine or ten day on the trip and then return to play to Duluth and Winnipeg crowds.

"It is almost certain," continued Dr. Glass, "that all of the unfortunate features that marred the appearance of these teams in the Copper country this time will be entirely eliminated before the next trip, in fact steps are being taken at the present time to bolster up the two local teams so that they will be more than matches of the others on the occasion of the next meeting here. As to the salary limit, while I would hardly ascribe Calumet's poor showing to the fact that she did not exceed this amount, I am quite firmly convinced that one team in particular in the league is exceeding the amount stipulated. Calumet, and Houghton as well, were handicapped by the lateness of the opening of the season, not only because of the fact that there was little time for them to work out and get accustomed to each other, but also because there was little opportunity for the management of the Calumet team to get a line on its players, practically all of whom were entirely unknown as to their abilities. The result was that when it came time for the weeding out process, it was so late in the season that it was difficult to pick up new players offhand to take the places of the ones released and there has been considerable friction and dissatisfaction on this account. But even with the addition of White and McMorey, who have appeared in Calumet uniforms in the last two games, we are still scouting for likely players and we intend to make the two Copper country teams as strong as the others."

League Will Stick Together.

When asked in regard to the statements sent out and given wide circulation in the press to the effect that the league would soon break up, Mr. Glass said that next year the controlers of the various teams would decide for themselves whether or not they wished to continue under the present arrangements, but so far as this year was conderned, it was improbable that any of the teams would draw out. The western teams suffered severe losses in their recent visit here, but this will be largely made up for, it is believed, on the next trip when the Copper country teams will both be in shape to put up gilt edge games and draw the crowds. Duluth went behind, it is said, about $400 in her two weeks here, and Winnipeg even more.

FULL SERVICE IS RESUMED

Traction Company Has Power Plant in Full Working Order.

The street railway company was able to resume its full car service at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, following the damage to its power plant by fire and water Monday evening. Although crippled somewhat yesterday morning because the big engine was out of commission leaving the power to be furnished by the two small engines, the company had all but six of its regular cars in service. The work of drying out the machinery and making repairs was pushed as rapidly as possible and the full service was resumed in a surprisingly short time considering the damage done.

The belt, which was dried out by last evening was found to be in a serviceable condition and there will be no necessity of checking down the big engine. The minor repairs that will be needed can be procured from the Twin Cities within a day or two.

GAVE HIM THE SIGN OF DEATH

Italian Witness Refused to Testify in Blackhand Case.

New York, June 19.—Ignazio De Leonardo and Pietro Pampinellia were yesterday convicted of kidnaping and employing "Black Hand" methods of extortion. De Leonardo was first found guilty and at once offered to turn state's evidence, in the hope that through confession he might secure a lighter punishment. His offer was accepted. At the moment he took the stand Pampinella placed his hand on his temples and brought them down slowly until they met at the throat. The effect of De Leonardo was startling. The witness turned deathly pale. Then he managed to say:

"I am sick. I cannot testify."

"Why?" demanded Judge O'Sullivan.

With an effort De Leonardo replied: "Pampinellia has just given me the sign of death. It is the Black Hand. I will not testify."

The witness was removed from the room and given a chance to recover himself. Later he was returned to the stand, only to collapse when his eyes met those of his partner in crime. Finally he positively refused to give evidence. Pampinellia was, however, convicted. De Leonardo had been convicted chiefly on testimony of 7-year-old Salvator Siatta, who was stolen from his home last winter and held a prisoner in a house on Staten Island, while "Black Hand" letters demanded from his father, a prosperous barber, a ransom of $10,000. The boy's death was threatened. The youth was eventually released, though the father denied that he had settled with the abductors.

He Fired the Stick.

"I have fired the walking-stick I've carried over 40 years, on account of a sore that resisted every kind of treatment, until I tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve; that has healed the sore and made me a happy man,' writes John Garrett of Nerth Mills, N. C. Guaranteed for piles, burns, etc., by all druggists. 25c.

UNITED AFTER TWENTY YEARS

Mother, Who Thought Children Dead, Locates Them in California.

New York, June 18.—Mrs. Charles W. Foster left Sunday for Los Angeles to rejoin her two children, whom she has not seen for twenty years. The mother believed them dead until Christmas, when a marriage notice in a California newspaper led to an inquiry, and resulted in the unfolding of a remarkable romance.

Twenty-five years ago Mrs. Foster ran away and married August J. Hill. Her husband deserted her after five years, leaving her with Floyd, a son, 3 years old, and Caroline, a babe of 15 months.

The young wife accepted the suggestion of her husband's family that they relieve her of the burden of caring for the children until she could obtain employment. When she had saved enough money, she paid her husband's family a visit, but their attitude had changed, and they did not receive her kindly. She was told that Floyd and Caroline were spending a few days with relatives, but was not informed of their whereabouts.

Mrs. Hill returned to her work, still determined to make a home for herself and her children. She worked for a year, inquiring frequently of the Hills as to the health and welfare of her son and daughter. The replies were vague and unsatisfactory. Finally she announced her intention of bringing the children to her home. Three days later she received a letter, which said the children had died of scarlet fever.

Frantic with grief the mother wrote asking particulars, but her letter was not answered. She communicated with the postmaster of the village and was informed that the Hills had sold their farm and gone West. She went to the village and made inquiry as to where her boy and girl were buried, but no one knew. The records were searched, no death certificates were found and no one could give her any information beyond an uncertain rumor that the little ones had died of scarlet fever.

She never heard of her husband again and obtained a divorce. Nine years ago she was married to Charles W. Foster, who took up the search for the children. Detectives were employed, but without result. Advertisements inserted in newspapers brought no replies, and Mrs. Foster finaly gave up hope.

Last December a friend of Mr. Foster's in California sent him a Christmas present, with a copy of the Los Angeles Times wrapped around it. Mrs. Foster looked over the paper, and a marriage notice announcing the wedding of Miss Caroline Hill to Robert W. Sturges caught her eye. The name was that of the daughter she believed to be dead. She wrote to Mrs. Sturges, and told the story of the mysterious death of her babies twenty years ago.

She received a nanswer, and to her amazement the bride said she had a brother Floyd, two years older than herself, and that they lived in New York state many years ago.

For five months letters passed, and little by little the children, who believed they had lost their mother, and the mother who believed she had lost her children, came to know the truth. Mrs. Foster's daughter is the bride of a prosperous business man, and her son has grown to manhood and has a promising career before him.

S.S.S. A CERTAIN SAFE TREATMENT

Even if mercury and potash could cure Contagious Blood Poison the condition in which these strong minerals leave the system would make the "cure worse than the disease." But they cannot cure the vile disorder; they can only cover up the symptoms for awhile or mask the disease in the system, but as soon as the treatment is left off the hideous symptoms return. Mercury and potash eat out the delicate lining of the stomach and bowels, produce chronic dyspepsia by drying up the gastric juices, cause the teeth to decay, and often completely break down the constitution, and where they are used in large quantities, the bones become affected, while the disease for which one has so long taken this destructive treatment has not been cured. Contagious Blood Poison is a disease it will not do to trifle with. It is a vile, dangerous and destructive disorder. When the blood becomes infected with its virus the mouth and throat ulcerate, hair and eyebrows come out, glands in the neck and groin swell, copper-colored spots appear on the flesh, and in severe cases sores break out on the body, the finger nails drop off and the sufferer is diseased from head to foot. S. S. S. is the only known antidote for Contagious Blood Poison—the one remedy that is able to get to the root of the disease and force out every particle of the poison so that there are never any signs of its return. It is purely vegetable, made entirely from roots, herbs and barks of known curative value. Instead of leaving bad after-effects as some medicines do, S. S. S. tones up every part of the system and puts every part of the body in perfect health. It will also remove any lingering effects of former mineral treatment while eradicating the poison from the circulation. Special book on the home treatment of this disease and any medical advice desired furnished free to all who write.

TWO STILL HOLD VIGIL

Antti Sakari and Andrew Thompson Wait for July 1.

Men Living in Corridor Near United States Land Office.

Sleeping, eating and waiting in the corridor on the second floor of the federal building, two men are keeping patient vigil for July 1, when the Duluth district's allotment of land in the Fond du Lac reservation will be opened for settlement.

The men are Antti Sakari and Andrew Thompson, both of Duluth, and thus far they are the only men who have taken up positions in the line, which will surely grow before July 1 comes around. Sakari has provided himself with an ordinary steamer chair, with canvas seat and back, and Thompson has a cot, and there throughout the day and night, they hold their positions.

Sakara appeared at the land office June 7, placed his chair near the door entering the land office and put a ticket inscribed "No. 1" on the wall near his improvised bed. Four days later, June 11, Thompson arrived and set his cot directly behind Sakari. Since then, the two men have lived in the federal building, never leaving it for a moment, for fear that some one will come and usurp their places. They have their meals carried to them by messengers and they make their own beds.

The two men have taken upon themselves an unenviable task in their three weeks' wait, but they appear cheerful in the face of it. They sit or lie on their beds all day, troubling neither the employes about the building, nor the callers on business. When addressed, they speak cheerfully and optimistically of their wait, and their affability has won kindly greetings from the regular visitors to the building. Thompson whiles a portion of his time away by reading, but Sakari, who is less versed in English, idly dreams and sleep intermittently throughout the day.

The lands to be opened July 1 are well located and of good quality. The allotment to the Duluth office is approximately 2,000 acres, to be entered upon under the homestead act only. Each man may enter on 160 acres, for which he will pay $1.25 an acre. The land is also subject to any drainage charges the government may see fit to assess. The first to file papers will have the pick of the best land and in order to be on the ground floor, Sakari and Thompson took their positions early in the game.

It is expected the line will have a few additions this week and by next week or so, it will begin to grow. By the opening, there should be a good crowd in line and a merry chase for the choice bits of land is in prospect.

Remarkable Rescue

That truth is stranger than fiction, has once more been demonstrated in the little town of Fedora, Tenn., the residence of C. V. Pepper. He writes: "I was in bed, entirely disabled with hemorrhages of the lungs and throat. Doctors failed to help me, and all hope had fled when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. Then instant relief came. The coughing soon ceased; the bleeding diminished rapidly, and in three weeks I was able to go to work." Guaranteed cure for coughs and colds. 50c and $1.00, at all drug stores. Trial bottle free.

DOLLAR FINE,

And a Year in Europe the Sentence Imposed on a Millionaire.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 19.—Until October 1, 1908, Dawson Hoopes, millionaire club man, who emptied the contents of a shotgun into a heavy overcoat covering Charles A. Newhall, iron magnate and close friend, last February, will be in the shadow of the prison. If on that date he appears with a clean record the ban will be removed.

Judge Swartz, in the criminal court, passed sentence on Hoopes, who on June pleaded guilty to the charge of assault and battery. The full text of it is a fine of $1,000 and one year's imprisonment, or $1 fine and one year in Europe. The latter proposition will be accepted, and Hoopes entered bonds for $6,000.

Hoopes' mind has become unbalanced from excessive use of intoxicating liquors. His attorney said that if sentence was suspended Hoopes would sail this week for Europe and spend a year on the continent.

HOOSIER COUPLE

Were Isolated Because They Had Only One Child.

Charlotte, Tenn., June 19.—President Roosevelt can find no fault with the town of Charlotte, Tenn., and its surrounding territory in the matter of "race suicide."

The family of J. N. Parrott here numbers sixteen sons and two daughters. The family of Alexander Cunningham has fourteen members, the sexes being evenly divided. Britt Powers has twelve children and a baby. There is not a family in the whole country surrounding Charlotte that has less than eight members. An Indiana man, John Nabb, who removed from Mt. Vernon, Ind., to this place, had only one child, a little girl. The Nabbs were made to feel their isolation to such an extent, it is said, that they only remained in Charlotte for three weeks, moving from here to Millan, Tenn., where race-suicide feeling is not so extreme.

BOARD HAS ORGANIZED

John Miller is President of New Courthouse Commission.

Meetings Held Hereafter Will be Open to the Public.

The courthouse commission met yesterday afternoon at its rooms in the Providence building and organized with John Miller as chairman, and George H. Claypool as secretary.

This was the first meeting of the commission under the new law, following the supreme court decision that the old commission was invalid because the appointments were made by the judiciary.

The commission is comprised of John Sundeen, Neil McInnis, P. J. Ryan, of the county board, and John Miller and W. C. Agnew. It was anticipated that Mr. Agnew, who was president of the first commission, would be re-elected, but as his business affairs are especially pressing this summer, and as Mr. Miller is the member of the board who is here in the city all the time, the change was effected with a full understanding among the members of the commission.

JOHN MILLER,
Chairman of the New Courthouse Committee.

The session held yesterday was executive in nature, but the commission passed a resolution that its meetings hereafter, which will occur regularly preceding the county board meeting each month, will be open to the public, except as the occasion may arise when a premature publicity of the plans of the commission might be detrimental. By holding the meeting the day preceding the county board meeting the members from the range will not be greatly inconvenienced.

Considering the fact that it was the first time that the commission has been together for a long time, good progress was made yesterday and it is anticipated by the members that from now on each month will witness a substantial progress in the plans and work on the new courthouse.

Steps were taken yesterday to submit the plans as far as they have been prepared for expert opinion.

TRAGIC CHAPTER IN GIRL'S LIFE

Recalled by the Engagement of Miss Gwendolyn Carey.

Uniontown, Pa., June 19.—The engagement has just been announced by Mrs. William H. Playford, one of the wealthiest women in Pennsylvania, of her granddaughter, Miss Gwendolyn Carey. In the second week in July, in her father's home in London, Eng., Miss Carey wil be married to Francis Potter, secretary of the American legation at Lisbon, Portugal, and a nephew of Bishop Henry C. Potter of New York city.

Miss Carey, though she is now only 19 years of age, was fifteen years ago the central figure of a romantic episode, which cost her grandfather, William H. Playford, a famous lawyer and a state senator, his life.

Her mother, Pauline, Senator Playford's daughter, was just as beautiful when she was a girl as Miss Carey is now. She was sent to a fashionable boarding school in Baltimore, conducted by Mrs. Carey. There she met and fell in love with Mrs. Carey's son, J. S. Carey, who was penniless, but of good family. They were married and soon a baby girl came, the young wife giving up her life for that child.

The Playfords asked for the care of the baby, and Carey allowed them to take her because they were better able financially to rear her. But when she was 4 years old Mrs. Carey's aunt died in England and left him a fortune. He decided to return to the old country and demanded his daughter.

Senator Playford refused to give her up, and his son-in-law insisted, so the old man kidnaped her and held for five weeks in a cabin in the mountain fastnesses of Fayette county, while men searched the county for them. Carey finally gave up all hope of recovering his daughter and went alone to England.

The five weeks' exposure was too much for Senator Playford, and it killed him. After his death Carey allowed the child to remain with the lonely grandmother, and she has lived with her ever since.

Miss Carey met Francis Potter in the East two years ago. At the request of her father, who still lives in London, the ceremony will be performed at his home there.

HOME OF THE CARY SISTERS

To be Preserved as One of the Literary Landmarks.

New York, June 19.—Among the vanishing landmarks which have been deemed worthy of illustration for preservation in Manhattan is the home of Alice and Phoebe Cary, at 52 East Twentieth street. When the sisters left the home of their childhood, in the Miami valley, in Ohio, they came, before 1856, to reside in this house, which is now a private residence. Here Phoebe wrote her beautiful and familiar hymn, "Nearer Home," and here also Alice wrote her sweet lines, beginning:

"Of all the beautiful pictures
That hang on Memory's wall,
Is one of a dim old forest,
That seemeth best of all."

This Edgar Allen Poe declared to be one of the most perfect lyrics in the English language. The many and varied poems of Alice Cary, beside her prose writing, caused her to be known everywhere.

The house in Twentieth street will ever be memorable for the literary receptions and Sunday evening "teas," held within its parlor. It was a center of cosmopolitan talent, where ideas were interchanged, books and poems discussed, and where politics, religion, literature and society were all blended in a sweet harmony of thoughts. The brightest minds, the ripest culture, found there a congenial atmosphere; and, it was said, "If the morning was for mirth, the evening was for money."

One would have gladly lingered long in the parlor, admiring the exquisite, home-like furnishings, with its delicate, embroidered lace curtains looped back amid folds of pale green broccatelle, with white silk linings, gold frames, altar pieces from an old church at Milan, a large oil painting of "Sheep," tall, ruddy glass vases, and books, an oil copy of Guido's "Aurora," beautiful Madonnas, choice vases and rare paintings, with velvet cushioned sofas and chairs covered in different colors.

THREE STORIES

Are to be "Sandwiched" in the New York Cloud Tickler.

New York, June 19.—A queer feat in architecture has been begun at the Singer building, a skyscraper at Liberty street and Broadway. Its top is to be sliced off and three extra stories are to be sandwiched in between the seventh and eleventh floors. A large force of men will work night and day on the job. The undertaking will be confined to the original corner building, which will be part of a new forty-one-story structure, the tallest office building in the world.

According to Ernest F. Lagg, the architect, the four top floors and the mansard roof will be moved in sections to the ground. The eighth, ninth and tenth floors will then be built, after which the four floors and mansard roof will be replaced section by section. Tenants on the lower floors will not be disturbed by the operations.

LAWSUIT OVER SPRING

Where Washington Slaked His Thirst According to His Diary.

Wheeling, W. Va., June 14.—A suit involving a spring of historic interest came up in the supreme court here last week on appeal from Wood county. The case was that of Nannie K. Johnson against Julius Katrenhein, and the contention is that the latter had shut off the water supply from the fornier, their properites adjoining at the spring. The case was argued orally and submitted.

The spring is situated about one mile north of Parkersburg. Here Gen. Washington ate his dinner and slaked his thirst under the large poplar tree whose branches overhang the spring as recorded in his diary of his trip along the Ohio River valley.

The spring is one of the finest in the country and supplies the residents for miles around, as well as a large percentage of the populace of Parkersburg.

HE KISSED GIRL PUPIL

And Sent Others Post Cards, But Denies Improper Actions.

Steubenville, Ohio, June 19.—Prof. G. W. Walker, whose re-election as Latin teacher has deadlocked the school board, due to rumors and charges against him, has come out in a letter of explanation in which he defies his detractors, who, he says, are local educators, in a conspiracy to drive him from the schools and his profession. He demands a hearing, and says the charges are about trival matters, none of them improper, which have been magnified. Prof. Van Cleve will not recommend him for re-election, because of bad blood between the two, and Walker cannot secure four members of the board to elect him anyway.

Many people are siding with Walker in demanding fair play. Walker asks that his record be investigated at New Dover, Mt. Victory, Degraff, Sidney and Kenton, where he has taught. He admits that in his exuberance he kissed one girl on the forehead in the presence of others for excellent work in a drama as she came off the stage. He says he has in the past shown affection to girl and boy pupils in the presence of parents and others. Learning that he was being criticised for so doing, he quit these caresses one year ago.

He admits sending burlesque post cards to girl pupils when asked to for their collections. The parents saw them, and neither they nor the postal officials considered them improper. Ninety-four pupils, all in his Latin class, have signed a petition for his re-election.

TAX LIST

Of Bellows Falls Greatly Reduced by Hetty Green's Removal.

Brattleboro, Vt., June 19.—Mrs. Hetty Green has ceased to be a resident of Bellows Falls. This announcement is made by the tax lister of that town, who has just returned to the town clerk the figures for the grand list.

The richest woman in America will no longer contribute toward the maintenance of that corporation, except through the meager taxes which she pays on her real estate. Heretofore she has paid taxes in Bellows Falls on personal property amounting to $110,000.

By reason of her withdrawal as a resident the personal list has fallen off $25,000, whereas if she had remained it would have increased $85,000.

MESSAGE OF OPPORTUNITY IS PRESENTED BY GOVERNOR

development and wide theater of national activity.

Again, as the honored head of the state of Pennsylvania, your provost may have had in mind, and still rightly, that the North Star state, for which I am here to speak, may have a message of fraternal greeting and friendship to the great Keystone state, because of the ties of blood and kinship, and because of the industrial relations and historic traditions, which forever unite the two commonwealths.

You may remember that the territorial governor of Minnesota, during its pioneer formative period, afterward governor of the state during the stirring ordeals of the Civil war and United States senator during the days of national reconstruction, that stalwart and veteran statesman, the late Alexander Ramsey, was a son of Pennsylvania, born in your capital city of Harrisburg, of that splendid combination of sterling Pennsylvania stock, Scotch-German; twice your member of congress in the national capitol, and that his queenly wife, a daughter of Pennsylvania, spoke with the traditional "thee" and "thou" of her Quaker ancestry, as a descendent of the followers of Penn. The state of Minnesota, which during the half century of its prosperous development as a member of the Union, has been so deeply indebted to the labor, foresight and wisdom of Alexander Ramsey and his Quaker wife, today welcomes the sons and daughters of Pennsylvania to a home where Pennsylvania stock and Pennsylvania principles have so long been established that they are sinew of our sinew and bone of our bone.

Ancestral Tie of Kinship.

There is another ancestral tie of kinship between the two states, which almost antedates recorded history. You know of the Upper Mississippi valley today as the principal seat of the Scandinavian race in America. Two and a half centuries ago the home of the Scandinavians in America was the Delaware valley. The Swedes were the earliest permanent settlers, not only of Pennsylvania, but of Delaware and Western New Jersey. Before he fell on that battlefield of Lutzen, Gustavus Adolphus had outlined to the Swedish government a plan for a New Sweden in America, which should be the asylum of all who sought religious and political freedom, and the charter of 1634 for the colony of New Sweden on the Delaware was in pursuance of his dying will. From Delaware bay up the river beyond this city as far as Trenton, the Swedish pioneers bought from the Indians the land on both banks of the Delaware, nearly a half century before the grant to Penn. They built numerous forts and villages, establishing the city of Wilmington in 1638, over sixty years before Penn gave the charter to Philadelphia; and on an island, just below the city, they erected the capitol of their colony. In 1653 the colony of New Sweden was absorbed by force of conquest by New Amsterdam, which in turn by force of English conquest became New York; but the Swedish settlements continued to flourish until the grant to Penn made them the nucleus of the Quaker and German immigration which founded Pennsylvania.

It was to these Swedish pioneer settlers and the Quaker and German neighbors who soon joined them, that Penn issued that epoch-making proclamation of 1681, with its famous guaranty—"You shall be governed by laws of your own making."

William Penn's proclamation was the democratic forerunner, if not the historic parent, of the great historic document of 1776, of 1787, and 1789, which were the foundations of this republic at its creation, are its living spirit today, and I believe will stand as the beacon light of freemen in every clime and on every shore from this day forevermore.

Were I today, as a humble descendant of the followers of Gustavus Adolphus, to issue to you, the descendants of the followers of Penn, a proclamation of greeting and good will, welcoming you to the good soil and inviting opportunities of the commonwealth of Minnesota, as indeed I am prone to do, I could not write a greeting more appropriate to the occasion and more fitting to the subject, than which Penn wrote to the pioneer followers of Adolphus on this spot, the site of your alma mater, 226 years ago, in the following language:

"My friends, I wish you all happiness here and hereafter. These are to lett you know that it hath pleased God and His Providence to cast you in my Lott and Care. It is a business, that, though I never undertook before, yet God hath given me an understanding of my duty and an honest heart to do it uprightly.

"I hope you will not be troubled at your chainge of the King's choice; for you are not fixt at the mercy of no Governor that comes to make his fortune great. You shall be governed by laws of your own makeing, and live a free, and, if you will, a sober and industrious people. I shall not usurp the right of any, nor oppress his person. God hath furnished me with a better resolution, and hath given me his grace to keep it. In short, whatever sober and free man can reasonably desire for the security and improvement of their own happiness, I shall heartily comply with.

"I beseech God to direct you in the way of Righteousness, and therein prosper you and your children after you. I am your true friend.

April, 1681. WILLIAM PENN."

The only time Penn ever interposed to object to the kind of government his colonists framed in this "Holy Experiment," as he termed it, was when he wrote them from London three years later: "For the love of God, me, and the poor country, be not so governmentish;" which proves that Penn was one of the original Democrats of America.

Minnesota in the Civil War.

But the great civil conflict of 1861 cemented the bonds of Minnesota and Pennsylvania by a still closer tie, the flag of the Union and the blood of sacrifice. When the shot was fired on Sumter, Minnesota was an undeveloped pioneer state, not yet three years old with Oregon and Kansas, that were just admitted, one of the infant members of the Union. Yet, the first regiment tendered to Abraham Lincoln to aid the cause of the Union was the First Minnesota; and of a total census population of 172,600 souls, 24,000, or 14 per cent of all, enlisted in the cause of their country.

This week, forty-six years ago, was the great commencement week of the body of the First Minnesota. It was the class of '61, Minnesota boys in blue, eager to enter upon their soldier career. Most of them were about the age of this class of '07, University of Pennsylvania—plain young men, sons of the frontier, that was yet a class with noble lineage—descendants, on the one hand, of Miles Standish and the Pilgrims, and on the other, of the Southern cavaliers, the Carrolls and the Harrisons of Maryland and Virginia; sons of old Erin and Scotia, and descendants of Pennsylvania Quakers and New Amsterdam Dutch; descendants of soldiers who had throunched on the Rhine, and of the followers of Adolphus, who had marched to the sacred battle-hymn, "A Strong Fortress in Our God," at Lutzen.

It may interest you to know that the money in the first instance to equip this First Minnesota regiment was raised by Governor Ramsey among his Philadelphia friends.

Forty-six years ago last Thursday that class of '61 received their sheepskins in the shape of orders from Simon Cameron, again a son of Pennsylvania, Lincoln's first secretary of war, to proceed to Harrisburg, your capitol, subject to further orders.

Forty-six years ago today they were passing through your state; and enlisting Pennsylvania boys in blue shouted to them along the route, "Go for them, boys of Minnesota, go for them; we'll be with you in a few days."

The brave aspirations of the Minnesota men were soon put to the test. Scarcely two years later, July 2, 1863—You know the story. It was the second day at Gettysburg. Sickles' forces, defeated in the peach orchard, were fugitives before the superior forces of Longstreet and Hill. Eight companies of the First Minnesota, 262 men in all, stood guard over a battery on the hill at the Union center. Gen. Hancock rode up at full speed, and after vainly trying to stop the fugitives, spurred up to the spot where the First Minnesota stood firm.

"What regiment is this?" asked Hancock.

"First Minnesota," answered Col. Colvill.

"Charge those lines," shouted Hancock.

With fixed bayonets, first at double quick, and then at full speed, in the face of the concentrated Confederate fire, the brave 262 charged down the hill, broke through the first Confederate line, driving it back upon the second, thereby stopping the whole Confederate advance; then under cover of rocks and stumps held their ground in the dry creek below, until the Union reserve gained the position above and turned Gettysburg unto Union victory.

Their duty done, the First Minnesota marched back victors to their position; but not the 262. There were forty-seven survivors—213 dead or wounded on the field—not a man missing.

In the charge of the Light Brigade at Balaklava, there was a loss of 247 out of a total of 673, or 37 per cent. In the charge of the First Minnesota at Gettysburg, not on horse at a blind gallop, but on foot into flame and death, the loss was 83 per cent.

Col. Fox, in his work on "Regimental Losses in the American Civil War," speaks of the sacrifice of the First Minnesota as "without equal in the records of modern warfare." Gen. Hancock, who issued the command to save the day, has declared of the achievement of those young men, "There is no more gallant deed recorded in history."

If the young men and women of this class of 1907 of the University of Pennsylvania desire from Minnesota a sign, a spirit of inspiration, a token of the qualities that command victory and success on earth, or an example of the achievements of fame and glory that may be won by high purpose and great resolve, I point you to the Minnesota class of '61, whose blood, shed for you and for all, has been a part of the soil of Pennsylvania now for over forty years.

Message of Opportunity.

It is not my purpose or hope to instruct you; but anticipating the wish of your respected leader I do bring to you the message of encouragement and opportunity. I would not dwell upon the past, your courses of study, or your associations. These, in a sense, are at an end. Your college life has closed, and whatever the successes or failures, they are over. That the years just past have been of benefit there can be no dispute, for every man and woman is to be sincerely congratulated who has been given a college or university education. Some there are who argue that it is of little or no value; that Lincoln was not a college man; that Dartmouth did little for Webster, and that the latter would have been great had none of his life been passed under the shadow of a college wall. Possibly, and still Webster was a college man. What he might have been under other conditions, who can say? Lincoln, it is true, gained what knowledge he had in the university of all men, but who knows at what sacrifice to himself, and who will say that he might not have been greater with the added advantage of college training? It is a great thing for a country to have assembled in many centers, many men of great learning, who can and do disseminate the wisdom of the ages. It is a great thing in any age to have men who are willing to sacrifice themselves, that they may become the torchbearers of progress and keep aflame the lamp that radiates the light of the best thought and the highest ideals of the race. Lincoln, and any other man who has burned the midnight oil, simply gleaned from meager sources through his own unaided efforts, that which comes to you in far more complete and available form through the aid of teachers, libraries, laboratories and all modern aids to intellectual research. Education, it is true, is in the main simply the cultivation of the talents with which you have been naturally endowed, and the acquirement of the methods and principles which will enable you to unlock the doors of science and the chambers of wisdom.

The dean of one of our university departments said that boys did not learn anything at college; that they were simply taught how to learn. This is to some extent true; but the secret of the how, what and where of knowledge, and the discipline which gives the power of concentration, and a broad, true and logical grasp of the world's problems as they arise in life, are the most valuable assets in a world where brains hold scepter.

The non-college man who seeks a parity with college men, in any avenue, realizes the absence of college training in himself, and even though not willing to admit it, he will acknowledge to himself that there are few things material or otherwise which he so greatly envies.

In college life, I imagine, wealth, or rather, the absence of it, causes its usual share of grief. The poor boy on his tedious way through school has felt the handicap in favor of his more favored rival. But from commencement day on the handicap will change, and the boy who may have had to work his way through school will find it no new thing to work his way through life, while he to whom hardship was a stranger, may find the world a galley which will weary the body and torture the mind. The great law of compensation thus rules even student life. To recall the wasted opportunities of the past with ceaseless regret serves no purpose. Conscience carefully attends to this, and to those of you who have been unfaithful to yourselves, the penalty will be duly inflicted. If, in the retrospect, you find much left undone, and some things better were they left undone, there is the remedy of future correction. What I would most desire in this personal message which I address to each of you on this commencement day of your career in the world's campaign is to impress the responsibility which rests upon you from this day on into the future, and to reveal to you the opportunities which belong to every man and woman who has been favored with academic life.

Great Responsibilities.

Opportunity and responsibility in life's career go together. The capital equipment and the opportunities measure the responsibilities; and upon the university graduates of this land great responsibilities rest, as great opportunities are given. Of the 85,000,000 people of this nation, over 17,000,000 are enrolled in school work. Of the 17,000,000 who attend schools, less than 1,000,000 receive the secondary education of high school and academy training; and of the 1,000,000 who attend high schools and academies, less than one-fifth go to the college and university; while of these again only a minor fraction graduate with a thorough university training. You, therefore, are a part of the favored and select remnant chosen to do the world's most exacting brain work. You are the handful selected for the nation's most trying ordeals.

And do you realize that you owe the people of this country a life-long debt? The total permanent trust fund of the nation invested in its educational plant represents billions of dollars of the savings of the many, the vast majority of whom receive their return on the investment only through the blessings of your achievements and the influence of your lives upon the nation and the human race. The national government alone has donated to education lands valued at upwards of $300,000,000. National, state, and municipal support to American colleges and universities runs into the millions. Your own institution expends near a million and a half a year to turn out its annual product at commencement day. Your debt to the state and its taxpayers, your responsibility to the nation and the world, are therefore vast, as your equipment is thorough and your opportunities broad and inviting.

To the equipment of training and learning given you, there are additional qualities which you only can supply. Manhood and womanhood, honor and character, are inborn. Education may help burnish them, but the native metal must be in the person, or not at all.

A man is a man before he has had training, and no amount of schooling can inject honor and backbone into the creature that is born spineless.

Education has done more for civilization than perhaps any other one factor; but it cannot produce the men the big heart and the high ideal which command the love, respect and confidence of men, without which true and great success is unattainable and no success is worth having. The world wants educated men, but first of all it wants men—men of honor, men of character, men who are not prone to dethrone their own reason by excessive indulgence in those things which tear down and destroy, rather than those things which build up and create. We hear much in these days about overproduction; but there never has been and never will be such a thing as overproduction of good men and they will always command attention and find their places awaiting them. The law of supply and demand always applies here as elsewhere. In this as in all other fields you will find an eternal law which is as inexorable as the law of gravitation, and it is a moral law which is primarily a necessity to success.

He who has measured up to every moral requirement will find a wide field of opportunity in every section of the country. The West is the mecca of mankind, but it demands honest, pure, vigorous and courageous men as much as any other section of the earth. To the commonplace man it offers commonplace opportunities, and no more. It winnows the grain from the chaff, and its rich harvests go to the farmer. Opportunities lie open to all alike, but fortune favors that man.

"Who if he rise to station of command
Rises by open means: and there will stand
On honorable terms, or else retire
And in himself possesses his own desire;
Who comprehends his trust; and to the same
Keeps faithful with a singleness of aim;
And therefore does not stoop, nor lie in wait
For wealth, or honors, or worldly state."

Golden Chances Numerous.

The boy just out of school looks first for a location where he may begin the career which is to lead him to success. He finds all the good positions gone, all the good locations filled. They always were. The places which are purely sinecures never existed, or, like the best fishing holes, are just a little farther on, and when you go farther on, they are still farther ahead. And yet the world never presented so many glowing opportunities as today. The great West, which a half century ago was a wilderness governed by savages, is literally filled with golden chances for anybody with brains, character and industry. In less than two decades there have been uncovered in Minnesota the most wonderful iron deposits the world has known; today producing one-half the iron ore of America and one-fourth the annual product of the world.

From Montana south to the Rio Grande, exploration of the hills by intelligent men has converted a desert as bleak and barren as Sahara, and brought forth a teeming industry which adds to the world's wealth, besides millions of dollars worth of gold and silver, a quarter of a billion dollars worth of copper annually. Great as the developments have been, the work has just begun and still treasure hidden and concealed by nature in the most mysterious places awaits the genius of the young man who is not afraid to put his engineering skill against subtle nature, and who has a resolution that will not be denied. Along the fertile valleys of the Father of Waters and its tributaries lies a region unequalled on any continent either in agricultural results achieved or in undeveloped agricultural opportunities. Agricultural science, engineering science, a proper amalgam of industry and brains, here find their exhaustless opportunities. Although the harvest fields of the Mississippi valley already contribute to the nation three-fourths of its cereal wealth, only a minor portion of the surface is yet tilled and in the Far West barely a fragment. Modern science applied to farming processes, engineering genius applied to irrigation and drainage, progressive ideas and scientific skill devoted to good roads and forestry will quadruple the agricultural wealth of our great western empire within the lifetime of those I now address. And your country turns to you, class of '07, and your fellow alumni in the other great university laboratories of the land, to improve your opportunities, and at the same time advance the nation's car of industrial progress and solve the world's problem of subsistence.

But, rich as is the West, even in opportunity, it has no place for the sluggard or the discredited. The best positions there as elsewhere on this revolving planet, go only to the best men, to courage, honor, self-reliance, and the genius of unremitting toil.

Foremost among our opportunities, as well as among your duties, are those which relate to the nation—the good of all. As all have sacrificed for you, so it is now your opportunity and privilegd duty and destiny to achieve for all. For this career there is no training, no atmosphere, no historic ideal, no patriotic inspiration, like that which goes with, fills and pervades the American university; and here at your own alma mater, graduates of the University of Pennsylvania, in this capital city of the American colonies and of the republic in the days of the fathers, you have the four-fold inspiration not only of training and environment, but of historic precept and example. Here was the homestead of William Penn. Here were the camps of Washington and his yeomanry. Here Adams and Jefferson, Lee and Sherman, Morris and Franklin spoke. Here was assembled America's colonial congress, and here was located the government of the first presidents of the republic. Here was planned, framed, and established by the most glorious galaxy of patriotism in history's great political drama, those pillars of our national faith and cornerstones of our national existence—the declaration of independence, the ordinance of 1787, and the constitution. Here still hangs old Liberty Bell, and here the pioneers of the United States patriots of three centuries look down upon you as you take up the cause of freedom and equality, which to you they blessed and bequested. Do you ask if the field is ripe for great civic achievement?

Loyal Soldiers Needed.

Do you think for a moment that the nation's political problems were solved in the days of Washington, of Webster, or of Lincoln. The world's civic problems are never solved, and never will be so long as greed and selfish power can find political scepters to grasp, and so long as servile placemen can find special interests to gratify. Never was the battlefield of government for the people more deeply in need of loyal soldiers than today, and brighter were the opportunities for glorious achievement. Edward Burke declared that on questions of political reform the general mass of men were fifty years behind hand. That is to say, it takes the good part of two generations to educate men out of their political ruts of self-interest and prejudice. It is your opportunity to reduce that fifty-year period to twenty, ten, five and perchance one. Do not think this achievement easy. Remember that the road of political progress from the birth of the early Greek and Roman republics down to these days of spoils, machinery and protected billion-dollar trusts is paved with the bones of patriots and lined with the wrecks of reform. Lowell has pointed out to you the danger and the resource of political reform in the stanza:

"Right forever on the scaffold,
Wrong forever on the throne;
But behind the dim unknown
Standeth God within the shadow,
Keeping watch above His own."

Do you ask for a catalogue of patriotic opportunities? Do you ask to have the problems of the republic, the enemies of the people, labelled and marshalled for your inspection? You will find them on every hand among the hosts of special privileges, wherever a public law, a public right, a public trust, the public treasury, the public property, powers and privileges, are devoted to a private end, or whenever the public interest is subordinated to that of a class.

You will find them in the great question of trust domination, giant-born and flourishing under a conflict of law which, at one and the same time prohibits its existence and yet protects and fosters its development. Or in the great problem of transportation with railroad corporations enthroned upon eighteen billion dollars of capital securities, endowed by the government with the sovereign power of eminent domain, collecting tolls now aggregating six billions of dollars per annum or over three times the aggregate revenue of the national government, and the nation only feebly and imperfectly able to control its means of transportation. Or again in the problems of the status and condition of the colored man, still, after nearly a century of argument and conflict, one of the most profound and vexatious problems since the days when the children of Israel contended with Pharoah. It took Garrison, Phillips, and their contemporaries to arouse America to a realization that slavery was not for America. It cost the country a war lasting five years and an expenditure of lives and money beyond calculation. The problem was not even then worked out to its final successful conclusion, for there is arising upon our national horizon this same question of the races. Its solution is being deferred because the master mind has not worked out the science of its law of gravitation, and America still awaits him. There are those who say that the solution of this great question is education; if so, it is one with which men of education are required to deal.

Our Colonial Possessions.

Demanding the best and most careful national thought is the question of our colonial possessions. This nation was born under the doctrine of the inalienable right of self-government, a protest against the theory of foreign possession and colonial rule; while today we are a mother country, denying to our colonial subjects even the rights and privileges guaranteed in our constitution, from which our government derives its powers, and denying that this constitution controls our scepter or follows our flag. It is of no avail now to discuss whether the war of the Philippines was just or unjust; whether the acquisition was wise or unwise. The condition remains that the Philippines are ours, both by right of conquest and purchase. The lands are today under the American flag, but it becomes America to deal with the people of that far-away country with the same fairness with which we treat each other. The theory of our government, yea, our own constitution, guarantees equality to all who are subject to national control. It may have been an error to have taken them, an error to have kept, but whatever the mistakes of the past, that the present condition cannot continue permanently is self-evident. It is our duty to bend every effort to bring the people of what are now called the American dependencies to such a condition that the blessings of constitutional government shall be enjoyed by them as by ourselves, and by conferring those blessings, win the love of the people.

America can less afford to rule by despotism than any other nation on the earth. It must rule by love and affection, and maintain to all the people strict equality before the law. Who knows but from those assembled here shall be chosen the man or set of men who are to work out a solution of this great national or international problem—international because it is bound in the years to come to involve the great question of the supremacy of the Pacific. In the Far East has arisen a great world power whose vision is broad enough to look with envious eyes upon the islands scattered in the course of the sun in its daily journey.

The whole question will afford to some man an opportunity to contribute a service to his country and to humanity which will give to him enduring fame and for the nations the preservation of American principles.

This desired end can not be realized through the narrow commercial view and in the theory that the Filipino was made for the legitimate prey of those who live only to fatten their purse.

It can only come to him who would dedicate himself to the highest governmental ideals, based upon the principle of equality of man in the sight of God.

Recently there has been promulgated the doctrine of greater centralization of power in the federal government for the curbing of some of the evils which threaten the public interest. Under our system of government the states are sovereign within their domains in regard to all domestic affairs of the commonwealth, and any departure from this theory would be, to my mind, dangerous; as dangerous as though one arm of the government were to assume the functions of another branch of the civil government, or that the states were to encroach upon the constitutional prerogatives of the national government. It occurs to me that the builders of our national structure built better than they knew, and better than we appreciate, and that our national safety lies in strict adherence to the organic law of the land. To so harmonize national legislation and state legislation, that the former shall include everything strictly national and interstate, and the latter cover all conditions which begin and end within the state, is one of the nicest problems of the future American statesman, and to your earnest study it is respectfully commended.

Protest Against Wrong.

It is your life-long opportunity and duty to protest against wrong and oppression wherever it may be found, whether it be in the fields of industry, in public affairs, or in commercial aggrandizement. The Boston tea party was put a protest against the encroachment of avarice and greed upon the rights of a people who felt that man had a right to be free. The Declaration of Independence was a formal declaration of the facts and principles upon which that protest of arms was based.

The Emancipation Proclamation was the fruit of a protest against wrong and against the worst form of human oppression. Most of us are apt to feel that had we lived in the past, we would have figured in the great movements which comprise in large part the world's history; that had we lived in Athens, we might have helped to shape the marbled columns which marked the civilization of 2,000 years ago; that had we lived in Rome we might have been of the Legions which trumpled over savagery; that had we lived in the days of the Romantic legion of France, we might have mingled the eagles of France with those of the snow-capped Alps; had we lived in the earlier days of our own country, we, too, might have suffered at Valley Forge or have cast our fortune with Marion or Warren; or had we been on the theater of the Civil war, we might have contributed our service to our country's common cause. But we didn't live then. Our faces are not turned to the past. Our country calls to us as much now as it called patriots then. It may not ask us to shed our blood or lay down our lives, but it asks us to live for it, and it demands, as it has a right to demand, that we give it the best that is in us for the uplift of humanity, and for the progress and glory of American institutions. Patriots died to preserve it for you and me. Innumerable headstones on Northern and Southern fields tell what it cost to preserve it to us; monuments stand to remind us that Americans shall never again oppose each other by force of arms and that the future holds for us the responsibility of the highest and best form of citizenship; a citizenship which believes in the majesty of the law of the land, which tells us that no one is greater than the law or has the right to violate it.

There has in the past been a tendency to evade and ignore the law, and this tendency to outlawry in America is fostered by public officials who have constituted themselves the discriminating power between public policy and the law.

When one man is privileged to set aside the will of the people expressed in law, or acting in a public capacity dares to usurp a function of government not vested in him legally, and this comes to be generally sanctioned, there is danger to American institutions. There has been abuse of authority in this direction in the past; there is, I hope, a growing tendency now to avoid that danger. If enthroned upon eighteen billion dollars of capital securities, endowed by the government with the sovereign power of eminent domain, collecting tolls now aggregating six billions of dollars per annum or over three times the aggregate revenue of the national government, and the nation only feebly and imperfectly able to control its means of transportation. Or again in the problems of the status and condition of the colored man, still, after nearly a century of argument and conflict, one of the most profound and vexatious problems since the days when the children of Israel contended with Pharoah. It took Garrison, Phillips, and their contemporaries to arouse America to a realization that slavery was not for America. It cost the country a war lasting five years and an expenditure of lives and money beyond calculation. The problem was not even then worked out to its final successful conclusion, for there is arising upon our national horizon this same question of the races. Its solution is being deferred because the master mind has not worked out the science of its law of gravitation, and America still awaits him. There are those who say that the solution of this great question is education; if so, it is one with which men of education are required to deal.

Our Colonial Possessions.

Demanding the best and most careful national thought is the question of our colonial possessions. This nation was born under the doctrine of the inalienable right of self-government, a protest against the theory of foreign possession and colonial rule; while today we are a mother country, denying to our colonial subjects even the rights and privileges guaranteed in our constitution, from which our government derives its powers, and denying that this constitution controls our scepter or follows our flag. It is of no avail now to discuss whether the war of the Philippines was just or unjust; whether the acquisition was wise or unwise. The condition remains that the Philippines are ours, both by right of conquest and purchase. The lands are today under the American flag, but it becomes America to deal with the people of that far-away country with the same fairness with which we treat each other. The theory of our government, yea, our own constitution, guarantees equality to all who are subject to national control. It may have been an error to have taken them, an error to have kept, but whatever the mistakes of the past, that the present condition cannot continue permanently is self-evident. It is our duty to bend every effort to bring the people of what are now called the American dependencies to such a condition that the blessings of constitutional government shall be enjoyed by them as by ourselves, and by conferring those blessings, win the love of the people.

America can less afford to rule by despotism than any other nation on the earth. It must rule by love and affection, and maintain to all the people strict equality before the law. Who knows but from those assembled here shall be chosen the man or set of men who are to work out a solution of this great national or international problem—international because it is bound in the years to come to involve the great question of the supremacy of the Pacific. In the Far East has arisen a great world power whose vision is broad enough to look with envious eyes upon the islands scattered in the course of the sun in its daily journey.

The whole question will afford to some man an opportunity to contribute a service to his country and to humanity which will give to him enduring fame and for the nations the preservation of American principles.

This desired end can not be realized through the narrow commercial view and in the theory that the Filipino was made for the legitimate prey of those who live only to fatten their purse.

It can only come to him who would dedicate himself to the highest governmental ideals, based upon the principle of equality of man in the sight of God.

Recently there has been promulgated the doctrine of greater centralization of power in the federal government for the curbing of some of the evils which threaten the public interest. Under our system of government the states are sovereign within their domains in regard to all domestic affairs of the commonwealth, and any departure from this theory would be, to my mind, dangerous; as dangerous as though one arm of the government were to assume the functions of another branch of the civil government, or that the states were to encroach upon the constitutional prerogatives of the national government. It occurs to me that the builders of our national structure built better than they knew, and better than we appreciate, and that our national safety lies in strict adherence to the organic law of the land. To so harmonize national legislation and state legislation, that the former shall include everything strictly national and interstate, and the latter cover all conditions which begin and end within the state, is one of the nicest problems of the future American statesman, and to your earnest study it is respectfully commended.

Protest Against Wrong.

It is your life-long opportunity and duty to protest against wrong and oppression wherever it may be found, whether it be in the fields of industry, in public affairs, or in commercial aggrandizement. The Boston tea party was put a protest against the encroachment of avarice and greed upon the rights of a people who felt that man had a right to be free. The Declaration of Independence was a formal declaration of the facts and principles upon which that protest of arms was based.

The Emancipation Proclamation was the fruit of a protest against wrong and against the worst form of human oppression. Most of us are apt to feel that had we lived in the past, we would have figured in the great movements which comprise in large part the world's history; that had we lived in Athens, we might have helped to shape the marbled columns which marked the civilization of 2,000 years ago; that had we lived in Rome we might have been of the Legions which trumpled over savagery; that had we lived in the days of the Romantic legion of France, we might have mingled the eagles of France with those of the snow-capped Alps; had we lived in the earlier days of our own country, we, too, might have suffered at Valley Forge or have cast our fortune with Marion or Warren; or had we been on the theater of the Civil war, we might have contributed our service to our country's common cause. But we didn't live then. Our faces are not turned to the past. Our country calls to us as much now as it called patriots then. It may not ask us to shed our blood or lay down our lives, but it asks us to live for it, and it demands, as it has a right to demand, that we give it the best that is in us for the uplift of humanity, and for the progress and glory of American institutions. Patriots died to preserve it for you and me. Innumerable headstones on Northern and Southern fields tell what it cost to preserve it to us; monuments stand to remind us that Americans shall never again oppose each other by force of arms and that the future holds for us the responsibility of the highest and best form of citizenship; a citizenship which believes in the majesty of the law of the land, which tells us that no one is greater than the law or has the right to violate it.

There has in the past been a tendency to evade and ignore the law, and this tendency to outlawry in America is fostered by public officials who have constituted themselves the discriminating power between public policy and the law.

When one man is privileged to set aside the will of the people expressed in law, or acting in a public capacity dares to usurp a function of government not vested in him legally, and this comes to be generally sanctioned, there is danger to American institutions. There has been abuse of authority in this direction in the past; there is, I hope, a growing tendency now to avoid that danger. If we are to go forward rather than deteriorate, there must be a common effort upon the part of intelligent men of America to get back to the foundation principles of government and abide with those constitutional fundamentals which are symbols of civil and religious freedom, and no set of men is better equipped for patriotic service in this direction than the intelligent college men of the country. There are evils in our body politic; evils, which, while they do not seriously threaten the life of the nation, are doing great injury to the many whose toil and earnings support it. The inflation of values, the creation of monopolies, the concentration of wealth in the hands of a few, conferring upon them the power to promote or destroy any industrial, transportation or commercial enterprise, are evils which must be removed, because to those who have been given this power has come the intoxication which sudden wealth too often produces. Riotous indulgence in these excesses must bring, if continued, eventual destruction. One of the Greek mythological tales relates how Helios, the sun, "rises in the morning from the ocean to guide the fire breathing steeds of the shining sun chariot through the sphere of Heaven and that at night he again sinks into the ocean in the West and rides in a golden boat around the north to the east where his gorgeous palaces lie. One day the son Phaethon, an ambitious youth prevailed upon his father to allow him to drive the chariot, but his arms were not strong enough to bridle the wild steeds, which tore along, now above the road scorching Heaven, then below it endangering the earth; until Jupiter in order to save the Universe from destruction was forced to kill him with a thunderbolt which descends with a crash and hurls him from his chariot into the river beneath.'

Money Power's Usurpation.

There is an application of the Greek tale to the present conditions. If intoxicated money power usurping the chariot reins of the nation, continues in its selfish and high-handed course, the American conscience, suppressed in the law and ballot of an outraged people, will be driven to heroic means to arrest the mad flight and restore the country to its industrial and social equilibrium.

What this country needs today is a national policy, free from the domination of class, section and special interest—a fundamental policy which stands for the liberty, security, growth and development of the whole country, by affording equal opportunity to all of its citizens to share in the bounty which nature has lavished upon America.

The right to enjoy property is guaranteed under the constitution, and it can be denied to no citizen. Just how far this right goes is open to dispute. Doubtless great achievements are rendered more easily possible by the aggregation of the wealth of many into one common enterprise, or corporation; but this done, the question arises, how far must the right of individuals be subordinate to the corporate power thus by law enforced? In the industrial and transportation realms there have been certain encroachments upon the rights of those who labor, as well as the interests of shippers and consumers, and to such an extent as to excite popular prejudice against capital and its corporate aggressions.

There must naturally be a happy medium, which will enable us all to share in the blessings of American opportunity and American institutions. Capital invested into enterprise must be given a fair chance to earn a fair return upon the investment. Men who have legitimately acquired much property must be made to feel that there is safety in the form of government under which it exists; but the people also must be secured in their rights, must stand exempt from monopolistic exactions, and enjoy the confidence that the law will not protect a man just because he is rich. Moreover, labor must be sure of fair and humane treatment and of a just and liberal reward. The sovereign power which permits a corporation to exist must reserve the right to supervise and regulate its acts, so that there will be honesty and justice, moderation and equality, in the discharge of the corporation's semi-public functions. Recent maladministration of trust funds of the insured, recent exposures of almost insanely dishonest conduct in transportation and finance; the refusal of corporate power to abide by the law of the land—all tell us that this republic cannot safely neglect to exercise every peaceful and constitutional prerogative enjoyed by a sovereign people in controlling the corporations it has created, in requiring observance of law and public interest from the money power which it fosters and protects, and in subordinating every special interest to the general welfare and constitutional rights of the people and all the people.

This is a government of the people for all of the people, and the sovereignty of the people must be supreme. No man, no interest, no class is greater than the law of the land, and if our republic is to endure, and it will endure, the power must reside equally in the sovereign many in accord with the fundamental principles of 1776 and 1789.

Class of 1907, in the last analysis your state, your nation, your country, is your alma mater; and the flag of the republic is your class emblem. You go forward to fill a high position in the world—to become part of the sovereignty of the greatest world-power among the nations. In no land, in no age, are greater powers, are greater liberties, are greater opportunities, are greater duties and responsibilities conferred the intelligent and morally responsible young men and women of the race, than this country, this commonwealth, this university confers upon you on this Twentieth century day in June.

What Is Success?

You look forward to success. What is success? That depends upon your ideal of life, upon the life-work you have chosen, upon the life standards you hold before you, upon the heart, character, purpose, and inspiration which guide your career and govern your destiny. Some of you go forward to amass wealth; others to achieve political fame or military renown; others to give professional or industrial service to humanity; others to add to the world's wealth of literature, science, and arts; others to build the home and bless its childhood and motherhood; and others simply and plainly to serve wherever and whenever the hour of duty may call. There are no set routes and no chosen goals, no prescribed place or time or condition. Success dwells alike in the palace and the hovel. As for the golden age, St. Simon assures you it lies before you.

Personally I would rather be able to write a book that would live one hundred years than be able to amass wealth that would enable those who inherit it to live for generations in luxury; and yet the amassing of wealth may be of vast industrial service to the country and to those who seek honest work and wages.

But wealth-getting becomes a crime when the man obtains it by sale of all his finer instincts, by the sacrifice of his character, by the violation of the nation's laws, and by trespass upon the rights of others to the pursuit of liberty and happiness. It is the spirit, and not the thing, which determines the nobility of a career and the degree of success. The highest victories may be what the world calls failures. Remember the life motto of the founder of your commonwealth, the author of "No Cross, No Crown." Remember that time and patient toil only can yield any great victory. Kippler did not learn to measure the stars in a night, but knowledge of the stellar world after a lifetime of research. The great soldier who emerged from the French revolution had the natural genius of selfish ambition but his war knowledge was the result of the most comprehensive study of war conditions from childhood to Waterloo. The Wizard of Menlo Park has given a life to research that the world may be enriched by a knowledge of that subtle fluid which seems to be the means of revolutionizing the world. In a small country town of my own state, a doctor of the sick has brought physical restoration to thousands who had abandoned hope. In his simple, unostentatious way he has gone about his mission with a singleness of purpose that has challenged the admiration of every surgeon of America. He didn't need the added advantage of these things which are always in the metropolis. His life was devoted to the study of science and the mastery of his profession. He had the genius of application and because no task was too severe, the name of Mayo is known wherever there are those who practice the medical profession.

The Genius of Hard Work.

I asked the great railway giant of our Western country to account for his genius. His answer was that there is no genius, except the genius of hard work—the genius which does not overlook the smallest details. This man controls over fifteen thousand miles of railway and knows the condition and the earning capacity of every main line and every branch line. He unlocked the door of opportunity by mastering the smallest details of his business and by being big enough to group all of the little things into one big thing. What was possible to him is possible to you.

Along the north shore of Lake Superior are imbedded the greatest and the richest iron deposits known to the world. Uncovered within a decade they have enriched the wealth of the world to the extent of a hundred million dollars a year. The one man who personally supervises this great region was a railway brakeman a quarter of a century ago, but he possessed the genius of hard work and he possessed the instinct of wanting to know more about mining than any any other man in America. He battered down and broke in the door of opportunity and made an example for the young men of his age.

A Western lawyer was recently chosen to represent his country in some of the most important litigation ever undertaken by the United States. The rule of his professional life has been that there were no big things in the law; that the fabric of jurisprudence was made of small details in the weaving of which endless toil and honest effort were essential.

These men all had humble beginnings and started in the world gifted with far less promise than that which the world holds for you. It shows you that success does not come in a day, in a month, in a year. It comes in a lifetime—a lifetime of high resolve and sacrifice.

May that success, the success of faithful service and earnest purpose, whether in works high or humble, accompany you. Remember that in your success, in the achievements of the high-minded youth of today, lies the destiny of your country tomorrow. Upon you, your manhood, your enthusiasm, your fidelity to truth, your loyalty to country and race, rest possibilities, responsibilities, opportunities and destinies, of which neither you nor I today may dream.

BREAKWATER PLAN IS GENERALLY ENDORSED

Is Only Solution of Harbor Question That Finds Favor.

Large and Representative Gathering at the Public Hearing.

Duluth and Superior stand practically solid in favor of a breakwater for the Duluth canal, according to sentiments expressed at the public hearing in the Commercial club rooms this morning, before the board of United State engineers who are at the Head of the Lakes to investigate the needs of the Duluth-Superior harbor. Out of fifteen speakers, only three favored the central canal, and of there three Capt. A. B. Wolvin was the only one representing any particular interest.

Large Attendance.

That Duluth is thoroughly awake to the vast importance of the subject under discussion was conclusively proven by the large attendance at the meeting. The assembly room on the third floor of the club building contained only about thirty men when the gathering was called to order, at 10 o'clock, but twenty minutes later all the chairs were occupied, and there were probably 125 men on hand. It was a thoroughly representative gathering. The lake and harbor interests were fully represented, and numerous business and professional men from Duluth and Superior were in attendance. Congressman J. Adam Bede of Pine City and Congressman Jenkins of Chippewa Falls, were there, and Congressman Bede, in particular, was active in assisting the board in its work, supplying the engineers with names of men who might be expected to throw light on the situation, and otherwise doing what he could to help.

The full board was present. It consists of Col. H. M. Adams of Buffalo, president; Col. C. E. L. B. Davis of Detroit, Maj. J. E. Warren, Maj. J. Taylor, Capt. Harry Burgess and First Lieut. Arthur Williams. They are acting in conjunction with Maj. Graham D. Fitch and Assistant United States Engineers John H. Darling and Clarence Coleman of Duluth. The visiting engineers refuse to express themselves as to any conclusions they may have reached regarding the requirements of the situation, and there is little chance that they will make public any such expression before their report is made. All indications, however, point strongly to a report favoring the building of a breakwater for the protection of the Duluth entry, to be located about one and one-quarter miles down the north shore.

George H. Spencer Speaks.

George H. Spencer was the first speaker called upon by Col. Adams, who presided. Mr. Spencer told of the urgent necessity of further protection for vessel and harbor interests. He said he had no suggestions to make relative to the form such improvement should take. That he left to the engineers who were in a better position to plan things along this line. He pointed out, however, that the central canal idea would be of absolutely no help, and that it would be only a useless waste of money to build it.

Argues for Breakwater.

Capt. Alexander McDougall was the next speaker. He covered much the same ground as at the previous hearing, strongly urging the construction of a breakwater, to be built out from the north shore for a distance of a mile or more, with its north end touching the land between a mile and a mile and a half from the canal. He ridiculed the idea of a central canal, but did not mention the subject until a later speaker brought it up. Capt. McDougall, with most of the others present, seemed to be of the opinion that all thought of a central opening through the point had been given up long ago. He could not see any way for complete protection other than the breakwater plan. He dwelt upon the very great importance of the local harbor, and said its growth during the next twenty-five years would be something tremendous. It is so very important that cost of any proposed improvement is of small consideration. A harbor made safe by the breakwater, he said, would pay interest on the money invested by the money saved in insurance, the rates of which would be reduced with greater provision for the safety of vessels. Vessel men were some of them opposed to the breakwater, he asserted, because those constructed at other ports along the lakes, years ago, when conditions were different, are now at times a menace to navigation. The situation at Duluth is different, and the construction of a breakwater would not hinder navigation in the least, or endanger the safety of vessels passing it in time of storm. In the worst kind of weather boats of the largest kind could easily round its end and make the anchorage in safety. He introduced charts showing the dangers of harbor breakwaters at Cleveland, Buffalo, etc., and then produced a chart showing conclusively that a similar structure could be built at Duluth with perfect safety, and which would guarantee the safe entry of vessels to the local harbor, and protection for the harbor interests.

W. J. Olcott Favors Breakwater.

W. J. Olcott, president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway, and vice president of the Oliver Iron Mining company, expressed himself as favoring the breakwater plan, as suggested by Capt. McDougall. He said he spoke as a private citizen, and not as a representative of the corporation by which he is employed. He told of the remarkable growth of commerce at this port, and spoke particularly of the iron ore business. The total movement of iron ore from Lake Superior in 1885 was 2,500,000 tons. Now more than that amount is moved over the Missabe road alone in one month's time. Twenty years ago the average tonnage of boats carrying ore was 1,800, and now it is 8,000 tons.

Mr. Olcott said Duluth would be an important manufacturing center, as well as shipping, and predicted a tremendous growth in the manufacturing line, particularly as relates to the steel industry. Something that will answer the increased demands fifty years from now is what the people want, he said, and not a mere makeshift protection. The speaker said he was not posted as to just what form the harbor improvement should take, but asserted that something in the way of improvement was urgently needed.

The Central Canal.

Capt. A. B. Wolvin argued for the central canal. He said he was firmly convinced that the central canal offered the only reasonable solution of the problem. He thought the vessels would be as apt to run on to the breakwater as they would be to hit the piers. He suggested that with the building of the central canal the other canals should be partly filled up, making them too shallow for large lake craft, but leaving room for enough current to prevent the ends of the harbor from being turned into cess pools.

L. C. Harris, attorney, and a member of the Commercial club committee, put up a strong argument in favor of the breakwater. He said it was the only remedy, and that people of Duluth and Superior were practically unanimous in agreeing on this point. The four questions to be considered, he said, are: The situation outside the canal, the situation inside, the remedy, and the cost of the remedy. He pointed out the danger to the inner harbor of a central canal 600 to 1,000 feet wide, as suggested by Capt. Wolvin, and characterized the undertaking as a piece of monumental folly. With such a canal, a breakwater would still be necessary.

Capt. John Monaghan, United States steam vessel inspector, and formerly a captain on the lakes, argued strongly in favor of a breakwater as suggested by Capt. McDougall. Hon. T. W. Hugo, speaking on behalf of the Commercial club, the people of Duluth in general, and the elevator interests, also spoke strongly in favor of the same plan. He wanted it to be understood that Duluth was bigger than the iron interest, or any other one interest, and that all interests should be given consideration.

Capt. James Leisk, a lake captain on one of Mr. Wolvin's boats, said a central canal looked good to him.

Mr. McGonagle Speaks.

W. A. McGonagle, vice president and general manager of the Missabe road, made one of the most convincing arguments of the day for the construction of a breakwater. Mr. McGonagle is himself an engineer, and is in a position to know whereof he speaks. He said it would be absurd to build a central canal, and do away with the canals now in use, which were built at such great expense. He believed the engineers who designed the canals were competent to judge the needs of the harbor, and that they did the best that could be done with the money at their command. Even with a central canal, he argued, the government would be confronted with the same problem of protection as now, only on a larger scale. A breakwater would have to be constructed there, and as it would be in the direct line of approach of vessels it really would be a menace to navigation.

James H. Whitely, an attorney, said that by building a central canal all the land on Park Point this side of the canal would be available for manufacturing purposes, and for wholesale houses. The building of wholesale houses would prove a protection to the inner harbor, he argued, by keeping off the wind. There would also be an opportunity to build a railroad down the point and thus provide a direct route to Chicago, he said. He asserted that the Marshall-Wells building already makes a fine windbreak for the harbor.

The Coal Interests.

James Ferguson, speaking for the Pittsburg Coal company, with its vast dock interests along the harbor, said he thoroughly endorsed the breakwater plan of Capt. McDougall, and that he was authorized to do so by his company.

Selon L. Perrin, president of the Superior Commercial club, said Superior was solid for a breakwater for the Duluth canal, if Duluth wanted it, but that Superior would not listen to any proposition to cut another canal through the Point.

"We are strongly opposed to any interference with Minnesota Point," he said. "Either leave things just as they are, or else build a breakwater. Superior will not stand for anything else."

H. B. Fryberger, as attorney for various dock companies, with millions invested on the harbor front, and representing these interests in his remarks, said he was instructed to heartily endorse the breakwater plan. Among the property controlled by these companies is 1,300 feet along Rice's Point.

L. O. Harris, speaking for Alger-Smith Lumber company, which owns ninety acres on the harbor, including fifty acres on Rice's Point, said he was authorized by the company to endorse the breakwater plan. F. C. Bryan, representing the St. Paul & Western Coal company, said he was instructed to endorse the breakwater plan.

The engineers seemed disposed to be fair, and gave everybody a chance to be heard. They showed no signs of impatience or uneasiness, but paid close attention to all arguments set forth from 10 o'clock this morning until 12:45 o'clock. Adjournment was taken only when those present had no more arguments to offer.

This will be the last public hearing, as there has been no wish expressed for another. The board will be in session this afternoon, considering the situation further, and will probably remain in Duluth until tomorrow afternoon, before leaving for the East.

CONSTITUTIONALITY

Of the New Mortgage Tax Law of Minnesota to be Attacked.

St. Paul, June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The constitutionality of the new mortgage tax law will be attacked. Statements were made to Attorney General Young that papers in a suit were being prepared, which will be brought against the state by parties not living in Minnesota. The grounds for the suit will be that the law permits double taxation. If the law fails the state will lose considerable revenue.

PITCHFORK BEN COMING

Senator Tillman Will be in Duluth Next Week.

On His Way East From the Yellowstone Park.

"Pitchfork Ben" Tillman, South Carolina's excitable United States senator will honor Duluth with a short visit next week. Fred Ober, city passenger and ticket agent for the Northern Pacific, this morning received a telegram to the effect that Senator Tillman and party would arrive in the city Monday or Tuesday, leaving for the East on the steamer Northwest Tuesday evening.

The Southerners are at present making a tour of the Yelowstone, and from there they will come direct to Duluth over the Northern Pacific. Probably they will arrive in the morning, and therefore they will be in the city all day. It is expected that local members of Senator Tillman's political faith will arrange some sort of a reception for him, and if the weather man is kindly disposed he will be given every opportunity to see Duluth's many attractions.

BALL PLAYER GETS LIGHT FINE

Sundheim Pleads Guilty to Assault in Municipal Court.

John Sundheim, the scrappy Houghton third baseman, who was arested last May 22 by Officer Cater for slugging one John Nolan, who attempted to umpire divers ball games at the Athletic park, appeared, under the chaperonage of Kid Taylor, in the municipal court this morning. He wanted the date of his hearing postponed again, as it is set for Tuesday, June 25, and the Houghton aggregation is not in Duluth again until June 27, but Capt. Reshce said that they could not secure another postponement, and that his bail of $50, put up by Kid Taylor would be forfeited if he failed to appear then. He expressed a willingness to take the case up before the game this afternoon, however, and entered a plea of guilty, when arraigned then. He was fined $15 and costs.

"ask her husband where their daughter was.

"'In the blunt end of the ship,' the husband answered.

"Still worse, though," Capt. Sealby continued, "was the nautical ignorance of a couple of landsmen who went sailing.

"These greenhorns had for anchor a lot of stones tied up in a burlap bag. When lunch time came the skipper called to his mate:

"'Cast anchor!'

"The other heaved the anchor overboard, but in the act the burlap split and the stones sank to the bottom, while the bag floated.

"'Skipper,' said the man, after watching the bag a little while, 'the anchor won't sink. What's to be done?'

"'Here,' said the skipper, capably, 'take this pole and shove her down.'"

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Active With Easier Prices, But Soon Rallies.

Chicago, June 19.—The wheat market opened active today and with easier prices. Cables were reported lower. Within a short time after the opening, however, the market rallied on a good demand by commission houses which was based upon damage reports from Kansas. Many of these dispatches declared that the yield per acre in that state will be very small. September wheat opened ⅜ to ½c lower at 93⅜c to 93¾c, sold at 93⅝c, and then advanced to 94¼c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 274 cars against 303 cars last week and 252 cars a year ago.

The market was strong all day, the high point for September being 95¼c. The close was strong with September up ¾@⅞c at 95@95¼c.

The corn market opened easier in sympathy with wheat, but later became firm because of light offerings, and local receipts which were below the estimate. September corn opened ¼@⅜c lower at 52¾c to 52⅞c, and sold at 53¼@53⅜c. Local receipts were 416 cars with 123 of contract grade.

The high point for September was 53⅞c and the market closed strong at the high mark of the day. The final quotation was ⅞c higher than the close of yesterday at 53⅞c.

The oats market was strong on a good general demand which was based upon reports of damage by green bugs in Illinois and Indians. September oats opened unchanged to ¼c higher at 36¾c to 37c and sold at 37⅜c. Local receipts were 71 cars.

The provisions market was quiet and prices were firm because of a 5c advance in the price of live hogs. September pork opened 5c to 7½c higher at $16.12½ to $16.15. Lard was up a shade at $8.90. Ribs were unchanged at $8.75.

Close: Wheat, July, 93¼c; September, 90@90¼c. Corn, July, 53⅝c; September, 53⅞c. Oats, July, 46¼c; September, 37⅞@38c. Pork, July, $15.67½@15.70; September, $15.87½@15.90. Grain Gossip.

Broomhall cables from Liverpool: Wheat was steady at the opening, with values ¼d lower. There was some disposition shown early to support the market, owing to bullish private cables from America. Later, however, prices broke rather sharply on the brilliant weather in America and the continued heavy arrivals at Liverpool, together with talk of larger deliveries on July contract. Prices at midday were ⅜d lower than the opening.

Corn was firm with values unchanged. There was a good inquiry for both American and La Plata cargoes, and this caused firmness among holders.

The Chicago Record-Herald says: "There is too much green bug talk from the Northwest to suit me, not being a bull," said a local. "I know how easily this wheat bulls, and I guess we might as well jump in and buy some wheat and get ready for it, as it looks as if the news will be coming pretty thick by tomorrow or the next day."

Logan & Bryan, Chicago, to Paine, Webber & Co.: The news from all quarters was bullish. The trade was in mood to respond to natural influences. On the bulges there was considerable selling in the way of profit taking but each setback was followed by a stronger upturn, until prices showed 1c or better over close yesterday. The most important news of the day came from South Dakota, where the green bugs are reported in great numbers. King, of Toledo, gives the Ohio crop one-third short. Believes the situation is bullish enough to justify buying on breaks like those which are recorded nearly every day after the opening.

ON BEING BORN POOR.

New York Sun: "Do you know what's bothering me now?" said a man who has made himself rich and is fast getting richer. "It's wondering what is going to become of my boys.

"I have four sons, all young men, and all wholesome, natural youngsters, but if I keep on making money the way 'm doing row I don't know what's going to happen to them when they grow ur. There's nothing like being born poor to give a man a real start in life, with his feet firmly planted on the ground, where they ought to be, and he learning to rely on himself.

"I was born that way, and I've always been grateful for it. If I had been born rich I think I should have been more or less of a no account. I had to get out and hustle and work to get along, and the habit of work has never left me since, as I hope it never will.

"But how is it going to be about my boys? They may come to think that they don't have to work, which would be the ruination of them, or would at least put them out of the running with self made men.

"I am sending them to public school, of course, they are there to learn a heap of things, besides what they get out of their books. They learn for one very valuable lesson that there are other people in the world besides themselves and that there may be plenty of people smarter than they are, and that they've got to work if they expect to keep their end up.

"Boys are democrats. You can't put on any lugs or airs if you expect to get along with the boys in a public school; if you want friends, you've got to be friendly. A good all round start in life it is for boys to go to a public school, and I hope my boys will profit by it.

"But I suppose in time they'll go to a private school, and then, if they want to, they'll go to college, and there, what with money, unless they should turn out to be very hard headed young men, they will come to train with other young men with money, and so separated from the bulk of their fellow students and begin to live sort of by themselves; and I can't imagine anything happening to a young man worse than that, his getting away from the mass of his fellow men.

"My boys have never known what it is to be poor. They have always had what they wanted, and, unless I should fail or bust up or something, which I don't expect to do, I don't see why they shouldn't always have things, because so long as I have anything I should be sure to keep them. That's human nature.

"And, you see, there's the trouble. They've got somebody to lean on, and a man that doesn't have to isn't apt to put out his own strength. The only way in which a man can ever amount to anything is by work, hard work.

"The man that doesn't work dwindles and comes to be of no account. And I do hope my boys will want to work. I don't care what they do if they'll only work at it, and work hard and faithfully. I think they're handicapped as if is; honest Injun I think it would have been better for them to have been born poor, but I hope they'll turn out to be men."

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Few Buying and Selling Orders Were in the Market.

Close Was Generally Dull and Lower, With Reading Higher.

New York, June 19.—Only a handful of stocks was dealt in in the first five minutes of trading today, Reading absorbing the bulk of the meager transactions. That stock advanced ½ point and Northwestern fell ¾.

Northwestern fell ¾.

A brief selling movement began simultaneously with the announcement of further gold exports. The general list was neglected, business centering in a half dozen stocks.

The market fell into profound neglect at about last night's closing level of prices. Fluctuations were insignificant but the undertone was heavy. Bonds were dull and irregular.

The tone of the market became weaker and a few of the active stocks sold lower than in the forenoon. American Express advanced 9 points and United States Express 5¼. Reading's uncertain movements were attributed to doubt as to the dividend action on the stock today. The stock was selling at 99½ at 1 o'clock.

Speculative operations practically ceased, the few buying and selling orders that were in the market making no impression whatever on prices. American Locomotive fell 2⅛ and General Electric 1½. Great Western preferred "A" was bid up 1½.

The market closed dull and lower. Reading hardened to 1⅛ over last night when it was reported that no action had been taken on the dividend at the director's meeting. Great Northern ore certificates declined 1½ and American Steel Foundries preferred 1⅜. Northern Pacific rose ⅞ and New York Air Brake 2¾.

Stock Gossip.

Logan & Bryan, New York, to Paine, Webber & Co.: The character of today's trading was wholly professional. At times it looked as though the buying power in the market was of the right sort. There was not enough trade during the entire session to make a favorable showing for one ordinary hour's operations. Do not look for material change in the market in either direction, but would sell stocks on all bulges.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: I think stocks are grounding on the bottom and should be picked up now. I advised the purchase of Utah Consolidation at 49½ and I still advise its purchase. I have strong information that the reports regarding Utah are false and that the mine is looking as well as ever. All the stocks are scarce, and I expect a moderate rally and believe Copper Range, Quincy and Utah can safely be bought for a turn.

• •

Boston to Vern R. Culbertson: Market opened up with prices steady. Trading was at a standstill and without feature. No one stock was active as most of the business was in odd lots. Margin accounts have been pretty well liquidated and until something new comes up we expect our market to be dull and narrow. Trinity moved up a couple of points and late in the day some of the prominent stocks showed small gains most of which were retained until the close. Utah Consolidated and Trinity being the leaders.

• •

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: Were it not for the strained condition of the money market and the gold exports, this market would rally on short interest alone. It has shown the last day or so that real liquidation has stopped and the bulk of the selling has been by the shorts. Even here in Boston there is a fair sized short interest in the coppers, and there are very few stocks pressed for sale. Should sentiment change here you would see a sharp rally in all the better class of coppers.

The Cotton Market.

New York, June 19.—The cotton market opened steady, with an advance of 6 to 10 points, in response to higher cables, Liverpool being 5½@10 points higher at the hour of the local opening, when due to come only 1@3 pints higher. Trading was moderately active. During the middle of the morning the active months were about unchanged to 1 point lower, with the tone of the market about steady.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., June 19.—Barrett & Zimmerman's report: Market quiet. Receipts light. Pawnee Bill of the Wold West show, purchased several teams of choice drafters. Few carload buyers were on the market. Numerous small sales were reported. Delivery classes show a decline of $5 to $10:

WOLF IN ITALIAN TOWN.

London Globe: It is not often that European eyes—at least in a town area—witness the spectacle of a wolf trotting leisurely through the streets in broad daylight, and with little apparent concern. Such an incident happened the other day at the Italian town of Annezzano, the animal sniffing first in the direction of one house and then of another as he went along.

Passing by the hospital, an attendant of sporting instincts saw the game, and rushing for a gun, gave chase. Before long he got a chance for a shot, which hit the wolf badly, and following this up with another, the beast was slain. Its presence in such circumstances is accounted for by the theory that the beast had been hunting over many away from his haunts, and after eating to satisfy and sleeping through the night, was making his way back to the lair.

PAINLESS OPERATIONS.

Pearson's Weekly: He was a mortal who was much to be pitied. For several days he had suffered a martyrdom from toothache, and now he had delivered himself into the hands of a dentist who largely advertised the "painlessness" of his operations.

After a busy five minutes the offending molar was drawn, and the victim was trying to ascertain the extent of the damage to his jaw.

"Is that what you call painless?" he asked.

"Certainly," smiled the wielder of the forceps; "it was entirely painless to me."

"Oh, was it? Well, this is what I call a painless punch," said the victim.

And letting his clenched hand dwell for a moment on the operator's nasal organ, he walked out of the house.

MIXER WILL BEGIN WORK

Contractor Ready to Lay Tar Macadam in East End.

The big tar macadam mixing plant which has for the past month been stationed in idleness at Twentieth avenue east and London road, is being adjusted and put in shape today, and by tomorow will probable be turning out the "dope," as it is applied to the roadbed. The mixer will be used by Contractor McDonnell on all three of the big paving jobs which he has cornered in the East end. Located midway between Twenty-fourth avenue and Sixteenth avenue, the mixture can be hauled very readily the four blocks either way, and as it is located but one block below Jefferson street, the biggest paving job of the year, it is in an almost ideal position for distribution there.

From the foot of Twenty-fourth avenue east, where Mr. McDonnell has been making a big rock cut and has had a rock crusher in operation for some time, a roadway has been constructed at an angle with London road providing a short easy means of reaching the mixer with teams hauling the rock from Twenty-fourth avenue out to the mixer.

By this arrangement the work on the three jobs will be pushed forward with great rapidity and dispatch. The rock for the Twenty-fourth avenue cut will form the bulk of that used on all thre jobs.

Lower Lake Marine Notes.

Cleveland—Capt. W. W. Smith of the Pittsburg Steamship company will tomorrow commence the work of releasing the steamers Nottingham and Smith which were thrown high and dry on the beach at Buffalo by the great storm of last winter. Captain Smith was successful in the work of releasing the vessels of the Pittsburg fleet that were blown ashore on Lake Superior. In the work on the Nottingham and Smith he will use the same outfit with which he released the Crescent City.

The steerage gear of the James Davidson broke while the steamer was leaving port today.

Detroit—The United States lake survey office today issued the following warning to vessel masters:

"The Lake survey steamer Search reports the discovery of a wreck lying in thirty feet of water 7¾ miles southeast one half south from Middle Island light house and 4¾ miles north by west, one quarter west from Thunder Bay island light house Lake Huron. It lies east and west with 19½ feet of water over it at the present stage. As the obstruction lies but a half mile to the westward of the main course taken by heavy carriers, it forms a dangerous menace and masters are advised to hold a little more to the eastward in that vicinity."

MINISTERS IN SESSION

Twelfth Annual Episcopal Conference Opens in Duluth.

Delegates Will be Tendered Banquet at Kitchi Gammi Club.

The opening session of the twelfth annual conference of the missionary district of Duluth was held this morning at Trinity pro-cathedral, opening with a religious service, the sermon being preached by Rev. C. C. Rollitt of Red Wing. Following the sermon and the communion service, the regular organization of the convocation was accomplished, with Bishop J. D. Morrison presiding. After the calling of the roll and preliminary routine business, the adjournment until this afternoon was taken. At the afternoon session the reports of the officers and committees were heard and regular business of the annual meeting disposed of.

The most interesting feature of the convocation will be the organization of a diocese of Duluth, which is planned for tomorrow's morning session.

Rev. Mr. Rollitt delivered a forceful address this morning, having for his subject the history and outlook of the church in Minnesota. Mr. Rollitt has been an active worker in the state for many years, and his account of the work accomplished and the opportunities awaiting the church was listened to with interest by the large congregation present. The speaker told of the development of the work of the Episcopal church from the time when the holy communion was celebrated by a little band of worshipers in 1849, up to the present time. He dwelt at length upon the promise which the great Northwest country holds out for progress in all lines, and the fact that the results yet known are but an earnest of what is to come, in political, industrial and religious work. The foundations for this great work should be laid slowly, wisely and truly, said the speaker, in order that the various peoples found in this country may be welded into one great people realizing the ideal of Christian character, the greatest ideal yet given the world. The problems confronting progress toward such an end are not easy of solution, but they are intensely interesting, and with patience and consecrated thought, can be solved to the glory of the workers and the church.

The delegates present at this morning's session were Bishop J. D. Morrison, Revs. A. W. Ryan, R. S. Reed, Arthur Wurtele, C. S. Parker, R. J. Mooney and Regnauld of Duluth; J. R. Aiten, Morris; H. F. Parshall, St. Cloud; F. W. Smith, Red Lake; H. M. Green, Mentor; F. M. Gaylord, Melrose; E. S. Murphy, Cass Lake; Frank Durant, Hibbing; B. Brigham, White Earth; E. Forsberg, Eagle Bend; E. T. Young, Moorhead; S. C. Colbaugh, Clopet; Albert Carswell, Eveleth; R. S. Hannah, Little Falls; T. C. Hudson, Paynesville; J. Munson, Detroit; J. Kimberly, C. T. Wright, Bena; J. Perham, W. B. Harmon, E. C. Kah-o-sed, Beaulieu; Louis Mannypenny, Onigum; H. J. Woiner, Royalton.

The delegates will be entertained to a banquet this evening at the Kitchi Gammi club and a program of toasts will follow. Rev. R. J. Mooney will preside as toastmaster and the responses will be as follows: "The New Diocese," Bishop J. D. Morrison; "Ten Years of Service," Rev. C. C. Rollitt of Red Wing; "The Three Hundredth Anniversary," Rev. Frank Durant of Hibbing; "Our New Men," by the rector of St. Vincent; "Before Our Diocese Was Formed," T. C. Wood of this city; "Reminescences," Rev. A. W. Ryan, Rev. Kah-o-sed of Leach Lake will speak of the Indian work.

At tomorrow morning's session the Duluth diocese will go into session and the first annual meeting held.

TELEGRAPHERS WILL STRIKE

Executive Board Approves and a Tax Levy is Ordered.

New York, June 19.—The general executive board of Comercial Telegraphers' union has approved a strike against either or both the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies. This announcement made today by Deputy President S. J. Koenenkamp of the union. The date for the beginning of the strike is left to President Small, but the first move is expected to take place in the next week or ten days.

Mr. Konenkamp said a tax of one day's pay per week has been levied against all the members of the union.

Notwithstanding the strike announcement, Commissioner of Labor Neill is continuing his investigations with a view to an adjustment of the controversy, and has today been in consultation with the officers of the Civic federation as well as with those of the telegraph companies and the union.

ENDORSEMENT OF CANDIDATE

For Presidential Nomination Issue of Kentucky Convention.

Louisville, Ky., June 19.—Interest in the endorsement of a candidate for president of the United States in 1908 overshadows all issues before the state Republican convention which meets here this afternoon. The lines have been so sharply drawn between the supporters of Fairbanks and Taft that in the interest of harmony it is said, no name will be decided on. There will be, however, an endorsement of President Roosevelt's policies and of a man who it is thought, would best carry them out.

Augustus E. Wilson of Louisville, will probably be nominated for governor by acclamation. Contests for minor officers with the exception of that of lieutenant governor are spirited. In every case there are two or more candidates, each with a considerable following.

Former Governor W. O. Bradley, will be permanent chairman. Judge William H. Holt was decided upon late last night for temporary chairman. His selection is regarded as a victory for the anti-Taft element of the party.

FRANKLIN'S SLAYER IS IN JAIL AT BEMIDJI.

Bemidji, Minn., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—M. S. Munn was brought to the city Tuesday from Warroad by Sheriff Bailey, and locked in the county jail on the charge of killing August Franklin at Spooner last Friday.

After the homicide lynching was feared, and Munn was taken to Warroad by the marshal to whom he surrendered after the shooting.

Coroner J. P. Lahr has returned from Spooner, where he conducted an inquest. The jury found that Franklin came to his death at the hands of Munn.

The principal witness examined at the inquest was Mrs. Franklin, who told of the events leading up to the shooting of her husband practically as printed in The Herald.

After firing the fatal shot, Munn ran into an adjoining saloon and told the proprietor what he had done. Together they went into the room where Franklin was lying and picked him up, but life was extinct. Munn surrendered himself to the marshal.

Sentiment in Spooner is somewhat divided, says Mr. Lahr, and while Munn will in probability plead justification, the fact that he armed himself for the affray, will be against him. There is said to be considerable criticism over the manner in which Munn and Mrs. Franklin have been acting.

The body of Franklin was buried at Spooner, Monday.

INFLAMMATORY ITEMS IN MINERS' MAGAZINE ARE READ TO HAYWOOD JURY

Judge Rules That Part of Them Are Admissible.

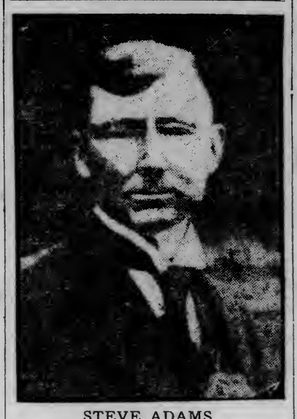

Policy of the Pamphlet Expressed in Various Ways.

Article by Debs Warns Steunenberg and Others.

Boise, Idaho, June 20.—When court opened this morning, Judge Wood announced his decision on the admissibility of articles in the Miners' magazine as evidence. He said the court was thoroughly satisfied as to the admissibility of the articles appearing in the magazine, showing the animus of the Western Federation of Miners during the period of the commission of the series of crimes confessed by Orchard, and alleged by him to have been incited by the officers of the Western Federation of Miners. Articles appearing after that period, the court said, would not be admitted.

Senator Borah then read from a copy of the first issue of the magazine the article written by Ed Boyce, in which he outlined the policy of the magazine as proposing to stand for the interests of the Western Federation of Miners, and in a general way

POLICY IS CRITICISED

National Administration Plans for Public Lands, Opposed.

Warm Fight Expected on Resolution to be Presented.

Denver, Colo., June 20.—This is the last day of the interstate convention called by Governor Buchtel of Colorado, for the purpose of discussing public lands' problems. In consequence of the controversy that arose yesterday over the basis of representation and method of voting, the report of the committee on credentials, which was sent back to the committee for revision, remained to be acted upon today. It had been agreed before the convention assembled today that to each state represented will be given ten votes and to each chamber of commerce or other recognized commercial organization five votes.

At the opening of today's session the delegates were looking forward to a warm fight on the floor of the convention over resolutions in favor of turning the public grazing lands over to the various Western states for local management and against "the inauguration of any policy that will result in the United States government becoming the permanent holder of the remaining public lands or the natural resources connected therewith."

The convention has been remarkable in that its discussions have been almost entirely confined to criticism of the national administration policy of handling the public lands. James R. Garfield, secretary of the interior, and R. A. Ballinger, commissioner of the land office, were heard on the first day but since there has been but one address in support of the administration. Conservatives, however, declare that the two sides of the controversy are really not far apart, as both contend they are striving for changes in the present policy that will make it easier for new settlers to acquire home sites and become an integral part of the great region lying west of the Mississippi river.

"YOU'D BETTER WATCH MAMIE"

Warning Found in Pockets of Girl Drowned at Bridgeton.

Bridgeton, N. J., June 20.—"You'd better watch Mamie." This warning contained in an unsigned letter to her brother, Harold Vennell, was found in a pocketbook on the body of Mamie Vennell, the 22-year-old Bridgeton girl drowned Tuesday night in Sunset lake on the outskirts of this city.

From what is said by Vennell and Mrs. Sadie Murphyne, with whom the brother and sister lived, the warning was fully justified. Vennell said today that his sister had complained to him she had been attacked by two young men while boating on the lake one evening last week. She had screamed "murder," and one of her male companions had tried to choke her. She was rescued from her predicament by persons in other boats. The girl's brother and Mrs. Murphyne declare that the girl's death was no accident.

Meanwhile George Evans, the young glass worker, who took the girl on her last boat ride, remains free in his parents' home, the officials seeming disposed to accept the accident theory, although they are investigating the case.

FAIRBANKS AT CHICAGO

Vice President to Deliver Graduating Address to Students.

Chicago, June 20.—Vice President Fairbanks arrived in the city today as the guest of Northwestern university. He was met at the depot by a committee, composed of members of the faculty of the university, and after breakfast at the Union League club, was escorted to Evanston. A reception in his honor was given during the afternoon.

Tonight, the vice president will deliver the address at the graduating exercises, which will be held in the Auditorium in this city. At the same time the new president of the university, A. W. Harris, will be installed.

PETITIONS POURING IN

Many Requests Made to Peace Conference for Relief.

Work for Next Month to be Done by Committees.

The Hague, June 20.—The various delegations to the peace conference met today and selected members to be assigned to the four general committees created yesterday. Under the rule each delegation has full liberty of choice in this respect. These assignments must be communicated to the burrough of the conference before 4 o'clock this afternoon, when the four presidents and M. Nelidoff will hold a consultation and arrange the days on which each committee will meet.

As in many instances, especially in the case of the smaller delegations, the same members will be assigned to two or more committees, it will be necessary for the committees to assemble on different days. The real work will be done by the committee.

A month is expected to elapse before the next plenary sitting, as the plan is to have the committee work well advanced before again calling a full conference together. This was the proceedure in 1899, when there was a period of twenty-eight days between the appointment of the committees and the presentation of the first report.

M. Nelidoff has received a petition from the committees of Armenian and Albanian organizations praying that the conference consider some measure for alleviating the deplorable position of these people. Similar petitions are pouring in on the conference from all over the world. The petitions are filed with the secretary and are acknowledged with a notification that the conference could not occupy itself with matters not presented by delegates.

A FOREIGN CORPORATION CONTROLS 97 PER CENT OF UNITED STATES TRAFFIC

To European Countries, Which Originates in Interior Cities.

Charges of Restraint of Trade Are Made to Commission

Which Will Commence an Exhaustive Investigation of Same.

Washington, June 20.—The interstate commerce commission has decided to institute a proceeding of investigation into the affairs of the Hamburg-American Packet company, which is charged by Peter Wright & Sons, general agents at Philadelphia of the Cosmopolitan Shipping company and the Cosmopolitan lines with pooling and maintaining monopolies in restraint of trade. The inquiry is expected to be one of the most stupendous ever undertaken and of a character different from any that ever before has engaged the attention of the commission.

The inquiry will have to deal with an alleged combination between railroads in the United States and the German shipping concern, and therefore interests every American producer, manufacturer or shipper, aspiring to introduce his goods to foreign consumers.

According to the complaint on which action was taken by the commission the Hamburg-American Packet company has built up a complete monopoly of the east-bound traffic originating in Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Minneapolis, Duluth, Cleveland and other manufacturing centers of the United States intended for interior points or places on the continent of Europe. The complaint reviews what it claims to be unfair methods in stifling competition.

The Cosmopolitan Shipping company of Philadelphia, which figures as the complainant, operates lines to Rotterdam, Leith and Copenhagen. The charges allege that an ironclad trust in trans-Atlantic freight carrying exists between the Hamburg-American Packet company, the North German Lloyd, Scandinavian-American line and the Wilson (Hull) line, and that

The startling announcement is made by Peter Wright & Co., steamship agents of Philadelphia, in a complaint to the interstate commerce commission that the Hamburg-American Packet company, a foreign corporation, controls absolutely 97 per cent of traffic to foreign countries originating in the interior cities of the United States, including Duluth, Minneapolis and all other great Western centers for foreign business. They say this great monopoly has been built up in violation of the laws. Pooling combinations and intimidations, approaching blackmail, are alleged and so strong are the conditions that competition has become a farce. Combinations with the railroads of the United States are alleged and every means used to stifle legitimate operations. The interstate commerce commission is to investigate the matter and the inquiry will be the most stupendous ever undertaken by that body.

Hamburg-American Company Has a Complete Monopoly.

Built Up by Pooling Combinations and Intimidations.

Combinations Are Alleged With Several American Railroads.

RUSSIANS VOTE AGAINST STRIKE

Social Democratic Conference Issues Proclamation Opposing One.

St. Petersburg, June 20.—The Social Democratic conference, which has just ended in Finland, adopted a resolution against the proclamation of a general strike on the ground that an attempt to walk out now would only play into the hands of the government.

Many of the Social Democratic deputies have returned to St. Petersburg, but several others, including A. G. Fedoroff of Ryazan and Mme. Fomicheff, of Tauride, have been arrested and incarcerated in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul. The fortress is crowded with high political prisoners, even the soldiers' barracks being given over to the prisoners' uses, tents being erected for the garrison.

Judging from the precedent of the signers of the Viborg manifesto, whose trials are announced to begin only next month, the recently arrested Social Democratic deputies are facing a long period of preliminary imprisonment. This, it is feared, will seriously affect the health of I. G. Tscheidi of Kutais, and A. L. Dzhaparidze of Kharkoff, who are consumptives.

The physician stated that the treatment was of very ordinary nature. Mr. Taft appeared perfectly well, and expressed himself as feeling fine. He said that the rest secured last night had done him much good.

COMMISSIONER NEILL ADJUSTS THE TROUBLES OF THE TELEGRAPHERS

Threatened Strike of the Operators Has Been Averted.

President of Western Union Sends Letter to Peace Maker.

Terms Are Satisfactory to All Parties in Controversy.

New York, June 20.—As the result of the visit of Mr. Neill, commissioner of labor, and following suggestions made by him an adjustment of the difficulties between the Western Union Telegraph company and its operators has been made and there will be no strike. This morning, Col. Clowry, president of the Western Union, addressed a letter to Mr. Neill outlining the position of his company, and this is admittedly satisfactory to all parties concerned.

Mr. Clowry's letter to Mr. Neill is as follows:

"Referring to the conferences held between yourself and me and other officers of the Western Union Telegraph company and having in view the possible grave inconvenience to the public following any general interruption of our business, I am glad to make clear to you the position occupied by the Western Union Telegraph company in regard to this whole matter.

Clemens) has accepted an invitation to attend a garden party at Windsor castle, June 22, when King Edward will entertain 8,000 guests as a wind-up to the Ascot race meeting. BIDS FOR WARSHIPS

Are Ready to be Opened by the Navy Department.

Provide for Construction of Two American "Dreadnaughts."

Washington, June 20.—The Newport News Shipbuilding company of Newport News, Va., with one bid at $3,987,000 and the Fore River Shipbuilding company of Quincy, Mass., with a bid at $4,377,000, were the successful bidders today for building the big 20,000-ton battleships.

Washington, June 20.—Bids were opened at the navy department at noon today for the construction of two American "Dreadnaughts," or what are officially known as battleships Nos. 28 and 29, each to be of approximately 20,000 tons displacement, the cost of each not to exceed $6,000,000 exclusive of armor and armaments. The total cost of each when completed is estimated to be $10,000,000. Responsive to the invitations of the navy department, and in accordance with the instructions of the naval board of construction, there were submitted various designs and sketches for the proposed vessels from shipbuilders and the naval construction board. These were in turn submitted to a naval committee on designs ,the head of which was Assistant Secretary Newberry, which board reported that the 510-foot design of the bureau of construction (with officers' quarters forward) was the most suitable. This board gave the opinion that a vessel constructed on this design would carry as heavy armor and as powerful armament as any known vessel of this class; would have a speed believed to be the highest practicable for a vessel of this type and class, and have the highest practicable readiness of action, with a total coal bunker capacity of about 2,300 tons, a speed on trial of 21 knots, a length

IMPEACHED, SAYS BEACH

The Prosecuting Attorney Makes Startling Remark to Wilson

Who Was on Stand in the Crop Leakage Case.

Washington, June 20.—"You are being impeached, Mr. Secretary."

The head of the department of agriculture, Secretary Wilson, was on the stand in the Holmes trial; Attorney Worthington was cross-examining, and the comment was made by Special Prosecuting Attorney Beach.

Witness Van Riper had been asked to stand aside at the beginning of the day's session today and the secretary had been recalled that he might be further questioned concerning newspaper interviews in which he had made predictions concerning the crops. He said with reference to some of the statements attributed to him that he could have made them because they did not indicate real conditions, but he corroborated most of the points by saying that while he did not remember making the statements accredited to him at any specific time, he had made such assertions openly and publicly, and had no disposition to contradict

BANQUET IS POSTPONED

Honor to King of Siam by France Countermanded.

Trouble in the South Districts Cause of Action.

Paris, June 20.—Owing to the fact that the censorship is in operation in the South only brief items of news from the scenes of the winegrowers' demonstrations had reached Paris up to early this afternoon. These, however, showed that the conflicts which have taken place between the troops and mobs were more sanguinary than at first suspected.

At Narbonne, three persons were killed and fully a hundred soldiers and civilians, including a score of women, are said to have been wounded, several of them sustaining fatal injuries. The troops who were ordered to fire in the air, shot straight at the mob besieging them in the court yard of the sub-prefecture.

A whole army corps has been put in motion to deal with the rebellious winegrowers, but the government claims that the forces now are so distributed as to isolate the different sections and render it practically impossible to effect a general mobilization of the disaffected people. Three of the arguilleurs committeemen who yesterday fled to escape arrest surrendered to the authorities today and were placed in jail at Montpellier.

It was announced today that the state banquet which was to have been given this evening in honor of the king of Siam has been countermanded in consequence of the blood shed in the south of France.

The president's decision created some excitement, as it emphasized the gravity of the situation.

The official announcement given out at the Elysee palace was as follows:

"Owing to the occurrences last night in the South of France, the president of the republic, after consultation with the king of Siam, has decided to postpone the festivities arranged in his honor and consequently the banquet arranged for this evening at the Elysee palace has been postponed until a later date."

The newspapers report another attempt to burn the sub-perfecture at Narbonne. A mob piled straw at the gates and then set fire to it. Gendarmes fired from the upper stories and the attackers fled.

It is also announced that there has been further shooting in the streets of Narbonne and many persons have been wounded.

Narbonne is described as presenting a remarkable spectacle after the night's battle. The paving stones used in the assault on the troops encumber the streets, the walls are marked with bullets, windows are broken and the cafes are wrecked, the furniture having been used for building barricades. Broken bottles used as clubs litter the streets everywhere. Many of the wounded are suffering from shot wounds and sabre gashes, or from fractured skulls or limbs.

There are no signs of the dangers abating but the overpowering military force keeps the people from assembling in large numbers.

Many winegrowers continued to pour into Narbonne from the country districts and threaten to set fire to the hotels occupied by the army officers. Fresh troops are arriving at the disturbed city.

DULUTH FIRMS BUSY FIXING ASHLAND HARBOR.

Ashland, Wis., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Merritt Brothers of Duluth, apparently have an all summer's job dredging among the docks of Ashland. They are at present dredging in the dock yards of the Co-operative Coal company. The company had two dredges here, but one of them has gone elsewhere. A Duluth concern is also doing the pile driving for this concern for the new coal dock, which will be completed this fall. Still another Duluth concern has the contract from the government for finishing the work on the Ashland breakwater.

Every Man His Own Doctor.

The average man cannot afford to employ a physician for every slight ailment or injury that may occur in his family, nor can he afford to neglect them, as so slight an injury as the scratch of a pin has been known to cause the loss of a limb. Hence every man must from necessity be his own doctor for this class of ailments. Success often depends upon prompt treatment, which can only be had when suitable medicines are kept at hand. ENOUGH FOR A COFFIN.

Philadelphia Record: The late Daniel S. Lamont was a strong temperance man always. Several years before his death he visited relatives in Scotland and returned with the following yarn, as recalled by one of the colonel's oldest friends at the Manhattan club recently:

"In a little town in Scotland the grave-digger had been induced to give up his habit of hard drinking and sign the pledge. At a public meeting he gave his experience. 'I never thought to tell ye,' he said, 'that for a whole month I haven't touched a drap of onything. I saved enough to buy me a braw oak coffin, wi' brass handles and brass nails—and if I'm a teetotaller for another month I shall be wantin' it!'"

A FISHERMAN'S LUCK.

Millvale Valley Journal: While out riding ex-Councilman John Welthaus saw his friend John Pschiner fishing for suckers in Little Pine creek. Invited to join in the sport, the ex-councilman, in the absence of fishing tackle, attached a bated hook to the lash of his whip, whirled it into the midstream and patiently waited and watched for something to turn up. His bobber never sank from view, his string of fish was out of sight, but suddenly there appeared on the water's surface an object with a bill instead of gills, with feathers in place of scales, and the graceful motions of a swan.

To cut the hook from the fishlash was but a moment's work; the next instant the long lash whizzed like a lariat through the air, circled around the neck of the strange floating object, and when landed on shore it was found to be a wild "dipper" duck.

ARE STILL IN SESSION

Engineers May Not Complete Investigation Until Friday.

Tug Men Stand Solidly for the Breakwater Plan.

This afternoon the board of government engineers, in the city to investigate the needs of the Duluth-Superior harbor, are in session at the government building near the canal. Capt. Vroman of the Union Towing & Wrecking company, together with some of the tug captains and other marine men, are being questioned as to their opeinions regarding the advisability of constructing a breakwater at the Duluth canal.

It is stated on the best of authority that there is not a tugman in the harbor who does not heartily favor the breakwater idea, as advocated by Capt. Alexander McDougall. Capt. Vroman at the hearing this afternoon, which is of a private nature, only memebers of the board being present, made a statement to this effect, and said no other plan was looked upon as reasonable or logical by the tug interests. He said a breakwater would be a simple solution of the problem, that it would not be a menace to navigation, but, on the contrary, would be a most decided benefit. The other tugmen present testified along the same lines, and so far as could be learned there was no sentiment expressed in favor of the central canal, which is considered as being a dead issue.

If the engineers get through in time they will leave this evening for the East, but the indications are that their work will not be completed until tomorrow. Probably they will not get away until Friday afternoon. They are making a very thorough investigation, and when they leave they will be in a position to make an exhaustive report, setting forth the situation clearly. While none of the members of the board will express himself, it is considered a foregone conclusion that a breakwater something along the lines suggested by Capt. McDougall will be recommended.

A BET ON A PRIVATE STILL.

Judge's Library: An inexperienced excise inspector, having been sent to the Blue Grass state from headquarters in Washington, stopped at a tumble-down hotel in a jerkwater village. He strolled into the barroom, and, seeing a few of the village worthies loafing around, ordered a drink all around. Being filled with ambition, and totally unacquainted with the surrounding country, he offered $5 to any one who would lead him to an illicit still, or a "private still," as they are called in that part of the state. A grizzled old woodsman stepped to the fore and proffered his services. Having received his fee, he led the inspector a lively chase over hill and dale, fording streams and tracking through swamps. After about five miles' tramp they came upon a dingy old cabin, with no life visible except a man working in the garden. The guide then said:

"Do you see that man?"

The inspector said he did.

"Well," said the guide, "that man is my son-in-law. He is an army man. He has been in the army for twenty years. He ought to be an officer by this time, but he isn't. He's a private still."

ROBBERY IN DAYLIGHT

About $400 Is Taken From Safe in Larson Store.

Nervy Robber Helped Himself While Clerk Was Busy.

One of the most daring robberies, which has come to the notice of the Superior police for some years, occurred this morning, when an unknown man opened the money drawer in the safe in the grocery store of E. Larson & Co., took about $400 in cash, and took his departure without being detected.

The man's nerve accounts for the success, with which he carried out his scheme and proves that he is no novince at the game. About 7 o'clock this morning, Mr. Larson opened the store, which is located at 430 Tower avenue. After remaining for some time, he left Martin Mattson, a clerk, in charge and went home to breakfast.

Shortly before 8 o'clock, a man entered, made a small purchase, and tendered a bill in payment. Mattson was compelled to open the money drawer of the safe to make change, the doors being left open by Mr. Larson. After the change had been given him, the man continued to look about, while Mattson was called to the front of the store to attend to another caller.

The stranger walked toward the back of the store, and it is presumed he had watched Mattson put the key away, for he evidently unlocked the cash drawer, extracted the cash and checks, and locked the drawer again. He walked out of the store without being molested, as the clerk suspected nothing.

The robbery was discovered as soon as the safe was visited again and a description of the stranger given the police, who went to work on the case. The checks taken from the safe, amounting to a couple of hundred dollars, were found in the woodshed back of the store, but $400 in cash was missing.

Thus far, three suspects have been arrested, but nothing has been discovered to connect them with the affair. The police are exerting themselves to discover the bold culprit and, as they have a good description of him, they have hope of succeeding.

THOUGHT DUTHEY INSANE.

Number of Witnesses Examined in Behalf of Murderer.

The hearing of the insanity plea of Edward Duthey, who was convicted of murdering his wife, and who has been granted a new trial, was continued this morning. Upwards of a dozen witnesses were examined, all testifying that they thought Duthey acted differently after his wife had left him.

Jailer Holland was called to the stand and he gave his opinion that Duthey was insane the Monday following the murder, which was committed on Saturday night. Duthey will go on the stand this afternoon and testify in his own behalf.

SAILOR IS INJURED.

Caught by Clothing and Whirled About Steamer's Screw.

Thomas N. Griffin, a sailor on the steamer Major, was severely injured and had a very narrow escape from death, yesterday afternoon, being caught by his clothing and whirled about the screw in the engine room. Griffin probably owes his life to the fact that his clothing gave way after he had been whirled about several times and he was dropped to the floor. The injured man was passing through the engine room on an errand while the boat was moving about the harbor near the Allouez ore docks. The wind caused by the whirring of the belting caused the end of his loose jacket to fly into the machinery and, in an instant, he was making revolutions as fast as the fly wheel.

Ball Game Scores.

Several ball games were played in Superior yesterday. The Treadwells took the Pease team into camp to the tune of 6 to 2, and the Broadways threshed the Wizards by a score of 9 to 7. The first game was between the two leading teams in the Commercial club league and was witnessed by a large crowd of people, at Hammond Park. The second game was played by two of the teams after the championship of the 17-year-old class. Next Sunday the Broadways will play the Allouez team.

Gets Pay for Wounds.

After Elija Bolyaneau had been severely cut up in a fight with three other Finlander companions on Lower Cumming avenue in Superior, yesterday, he got his wounds dressed at the police station, settled up with his assailants for $50 damages, and the four left the police station together, Bolyaneau stating that he had no further desire to prosecute. The police found Holyaneau lying in the gutter and bleeding profusely. His companions were soon rounded up by the officers. They admitted that there had been a free-for-all, and were willing to "make good" to Bolyaneau. The latter needed the money so he agreed to a settlement rather than a prosecution.

Old Town Will Celebrate.

The residents of the East end, at Superior, are planning on a celebration at their end of the city July 4 next. Arrangements have been made for a big parade, orations, recitations, reading of the Declaration of Independence, music, games and contests and fireworks.

River Gives Up Victim.

The body of an unknown man was found floating in the Nemadji river yesterday, a few hundred feet east of the Northern Pacific bridge. The body is badly decomposed and the fact that the man wore mittens when he went to his death indicates that his demise occurred some time during the winter. There was nothing in the pockets of the dead man to identify him, and his clothes, because of the soaking in muddy water, had reached a state where their original color and texture could not be told. The decedent was about five feet eight inches in height, weighing about 140 or 150 pounds, and was probably 35 to 40 years old.

Trout Fry Received.

About 60,000 brook trout fry were received this morning by Superior fishermen from the government hatchery at Duluth. They were immediately planted in the streams of Douglas county. The sportsmen pronounce the fry of excellent development, and they expect satisfactory results.

MRS. BAILEY'S MISTAKE

By Lillian Grey.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles).

One June afternoon there was a gentle knock at the hall door of a certain farmhouse in the back country.

"You go to the door, Dell," said her mother, "I do hope it ain't nobody to hinder us!"

The girl obeyed, and on opening the door found an elderly man standing in the vine-shaded porch.

"Will you be so kind as to tell me if I am on the direct road to Clifton, and also how far it is?"

"Yes, sir, and it's about three miles."

"Three miles yet? Dear me! And is there any hotel or place where I can get a meal on the way?"

"No, only one farmhouse like this."

"Well, can I get something here?" Even a glass of milk will be very acceptable."

"Tell him we don't keep a boardin' house!" called a sharp voice from the kitchen.

The girl's face flushed, and she replied:

"If you'll just wait a minute, I'll ask about it; we're very busy just now."

She went down the hall and pulled the door shut after her.

"We might give him a lunch, mother; he don't look like a real tramp, and he seems so warm and tired out."

The mother impatiently dusted the flour off her hands and stepped into the hall, followed by two older girls than Della.

"We ain't in the habit of givin' meals to strangers; we've got work enough besides that!" she said.

"I presume you are a busy woman, but I expected to pay for whatever I had. I beg pardon for troubling you!" he said, turning to go down the steps.

"Oh, hold on!" said Mrs. Bailey. "You can come in if you'll be sulted with a 25-cent lunch in the kitchen. We've got our dinner all cleared away, and we're fixin' for company, an' ain't got no time to fuss about anything else."

The man wiped his feet carefully and followed her into her room, which was filled with the pleasant odor of baking cake. She pushed a chair toward him saying: "Set down there till it's ready, and Dell, you set that little side table for him. You'll have to dip into a fresh pan of milk, I s'pose; we've used up one whole panful already today."

"Nice country 'round here," said the man.

"Yes, nice enough," answered Mrs. Bailey, "but us farmer folks have got too much to do to pay attention to scenery."

The young girl came crippling up the cellar stairs with a bowl of milk, a loaf of bread and a plate of golden butter.

"Shall I cut some of the boiled ham mother?" she asked in a low tone.

"No, indeed; git that piece of fried ham left over from our dinner, an' I guess there's a scrap of cheese in the cupboard, an' that's plenty enough for a lunch."

"But surely I can get a piece of pie?"

"You won't! I ain't a-goin' to have all my company vittles cut into like that."

The girl sliced some bread, and placing a chair, said: "Sit down, please;" then taking a sunbonnet from a nail, she hastily left the house.

Her sisters were busy seeding raisins, but cast many furtive glances at the stranger, and seemed to be enjoying a murmured conversation in which he caught allusions to the Wandering Jew and Rip Van Winkle.

"Are you lookin' for work?" asked Mrs. Bailey, after a moment or so of silence.

"No'm; I'm tired of work!" said the man, meekly, I was calculating to rest a spell."

"Tired of work? I want to know!" and she paused with a pan of cookies in her hand, and looked him over with a world of contempt in her glance.

"Yes'm; I've done quite considerable of it."

"You don't appear to have worked to no great purpose, or you could afford to ride when you travel. The stages goes over to Clifton twice a day from the station."

"So they told me; but I'm fond of walking."

"Well, I'd love to know where the world would go to if everybody stopped workin' soon as they got tired! I'm tired all the time, but all the same I keep at it; an' I don't know but it's easier to work than what it is to traipse around an' ketch one's meals anyhow an' anywhere, so shiftless."

"Yes'm; but I don't intend to do it any longer. I'm on my way to some friends, I expect they'll be very glad to see me."

At this one of the girls laughed outright, and said with a toss of her head:

"I'm tired of work, too, and I don't mean to do much more of it. We expect a rich uncle here, an' I'm plannin' to be his favorite nicece an' go an' live with him when he settles in the city, an' be his heiress. That's the kind of a life suits me!"

"He'll soon get sick of you an' choose me instead!" said the other girl.

"No fear of that. I'm the oldest, an' I mean to keep on the right side of Uncle Oliver. I've been half wild thinkin' of it."

"Just then Dell came in with a dish of garden strawberries which she had hurriedly picked and hulled, and covering them with sugar, placed them before him.

"They are of my own cultivation," she said proudly, and a bit defiantly; "they are lovely, and you are welcome to them!"

"They are beautiful indeed, and you are very kind to offer me such a treat!" answered the man, looking up at her sweet, flushed face and then at her sisters, whose countenances bore such unmistakable signs of scorn and displeasure.

"Dell is always such a fool!" said one of them in an audible tone.

The meal was finished even to the last strawberry, and the man arose and placed the silver quarter on the table beside his hostess, very politely expressed his thanks, and stepping over to the open door of the kitchen where Dell stood, placed a coin in her hand, saying: "Here's a trifle for your kindness in waiting on me, my little friend."

He strode hastily out and away, and the girl in her surprise let the coin slip from her fingers, when it went rolling across the door stone and out into the grass. They all dropped their work and came out to help look for it, and Kate, the eldest of the sisters, found it.

"Gold! as true as I'm a livin' sinner!"

All crowded around, and the mother reached out and took it in her eager hand.

"Yes, it's a ten-dollar piece. I do declare! You're in luck for once, Dell!" but the girl was flying down toward the gate. "Child! come back! Why, I do believe she's crazy enough to try an' give it back!"

That had been her first thought, but the wayfarer so newly rested and refreshed, had made wonderful speed and was out of sight.

"Oh, dear! he's got away over the hill, and he must have made a mistake. 'Here's a trifle,' he said. If I hadn't dropped it I should have had time to return it to him, but now what can I do?"

"Why, keept it, of course, you little goose!" said one sister.

"Oh, girls!" gasped their mother. "I do believe with all my heart an' soul that was your Uncle Oliver!" and in the shock of the terrible conviction she sat herself down on the kitchen floor.

"Good grashus, mother! you can't mean it?"

"I'm—I'm deathly afraid it was! an' if it's re'ly him, we're outdone forever!

"An' to think how I talked to him," moaned the mother, rocking herself back and forth.

"Well, Dell's all right; she was as good as pie to him—with her pet strawberries, an' all."

"Oh, dear! an' I wouldn't even let him have a piece of pie! Whatever will become of me!"

"Do you s'pose he'll come back again, mother?"

"Back? No, indeed! We've lost him forever—money an' all; an' what will your father say? He's sot sech store by his comin' ever sence we got that letter about it, an' so have I."

"Don't you think pa had better go over to the village and see if he can find him? I guess he could coax him to come back."

When Mr. Bailey came in the appearance of the stranger had to be minutely described again and again, and then he said:

"Yes, Uncle Oliver always was a dretful quiet, soft-spoken sort of a man; but yet I can't seem to think it could have been him—though I do suppose he might have grown round-shouldered an' gray in twenty year. But why didn't you ask him right in?"

"'Cause we never had a suspicion till he was clean out of sight, an' we see the gold piece he give Della; then we put some bits he said along with that; an' yet we don't know for certain, only we're afraid 'twas him."

Dell went out when her father was harnessing and handed him the gold coin.

"If you find the man, and he isn't Uncle Oliver, I want you to give him the money, for I know he must have mistaken it for a silver piece, and tell him he was perfectly welcome to the little I did for him."

Toward evening Mr. Bailey returned with the same person who had so unexpectedly called on them. The men came in the house together, and the duly-presented uncle, whom he proved to be, was very smiling and gracious, and seemed to all appearances totally oblivious of the fact of his previous call; but when Mr. Bailey went out to care for the horses, his wife began a profuse and abject apology, seconded by her two elder daughters.

But the good uncle begged them not to distress themselves, and said that he bore no malice, and it was partly his fault in coming in such a manner, though he had no suspicion at first that it was his nephew's house; and then, giving them no chance for further speech, he went on to tell how glad he wa, to see his nephew, and how many changes had taken place in the village, and so on, until Mr. Bailey came in, and then the mother and daughters proceeded to set the supper table, loading it with a profusion of good things, but it was a very subdued circle who sat around it.

But in the course of the evening he found a chance to slip again into Della's hand the ten-dollar gold piece, saying with a genuine feeling:

"It was no mistake, my dear child, although I was not positive that you were my niece until I made inquiries at the village; but you were kind and tender-hearted when you thought me a common wayfarer—as indeed I was."

SHERIDAN TWICE MARRIED.

London Standard: Gretna Green, of which we have been hearing again in the courts, keeps its jubilee this year as the Gretna Green at which the village blacksmith may no longer unite fleeing lovers in the bonds of matrimony. It was in 1857 that the Gretna Green marriages were made illegal. A glance at its registers may yet inspire the novelist of the future. One entry will be sure to puzzle. Twice within a few days occurs the record of the marriage of Richard Brinsley Sheridan to Miss Grant.

There was only one R. B. S., only one bride for the same gentleman. The double entries are not the result of any blunder on the part of the Rev. Mr. Vulcan. The parties were truly twice married at Gretna Green. Arriving on a Sunday they were duly wedded, and sped away to Edinburgh. There, however, Sheridan chanced to glance at a newspaper in which appeared the incubrations of a lawyer. In these plainly stated was the fact that no contract executed on a Sunday is binding. Clearly, then, the wedding was not legal.

Back to Gretna Green they scurried, to be remarried on a week day, and leave the dual record to perplex later generations of sympathetic searchers of the records.

U. S. DISPENSATORY

Describes the Principal Ingredients Contained in Pe-ru-na.

Are we claiming too much for Peruna when we claim it to be an effective remedy for chronic catarrh? Have we abundant proof that Peruna is in reality such a catarrh remedy? Let us see what the United States Dispensatory says of the principal ingredients of Peruna.

Take, for instance, the ingredient hydrastis canadensis, or golden seal. The United States Dispensatory says of this herbal remedy, that it is largely employed in the treatment of depraved mucous membranes, chronic rhinitis (nasal catarrh), atonic dyspepsia (catarrh of the stomach), chronic intestinal catarrh, catarrhal jaundice (catarrh of the liver), and in diseased mucous membranes of the pelvic organs. It is also recommended for the treatment of various forms of diseases peculiar to women.

Another ingredient of Peruna, corydalis formosa, is classed in the United States Dispensatory as a tonic. So also is cubebs classed as a stomachic and as a tonic for the mucous membranes.

Cedron seeds is another ingredient of Peruna, an excellent drug that has been very largely overlooked by the medical profession for the past fifty years. The seeds are to be found in very few drug stores. The United States Dispensatory says of the action of cedron that it is used as a bitter tonic and in the treatment of dysentery, and in intermittent diseases as a substitute for quinine.

Oil of copaiba, another ingredient of Peruna, is classed by the United States Dispensatory as a mild stimulant and diuretic. It acts on the stomach and intestinal tract. It acts as a stimulant on the genito-urinary membranes. Useful in chronic cystitis, chronic dysentery and diarrhea, and some chronic diseases of the liver and kidneys.

Send to us for a free book of testimonials of what the people think of Peruna as a catarrh remedy. The best evidence is the testimony of those who have tried it.

MARK TWAIN IS WELL RECEIVED IN LONDON.

London, June 20.—Mark Twain (Samuel L. Clemens) is receiving as much attention as would a European potentate. The newspapers are devoting columns to his sayings and doings, and he has been inundated with invitations and functions, many of which he has declined. His engagement book is already filled up with acceptance, chiefly for quiet luncheons and dinners with personal friends, while his afternoons will be spent resting and driving in the parks of London.

ON THE IRON RANGES

FEROCIOUS BEAR INJURES EDDY

Homesteader Near Nashwauk Has a Thrilling Experience.

Nashwauk, Minn., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Injured by a ferocious bear and then treed by the animal was the harrowing experience of S. E. Eddy, a homesteader living near here. Eddy was on the way to the homestead of Allen Rugbee to assist in shearing sheep and was passing through a piece of poplar timber when a huge bear rushed upon him. He seized the limb of a tree and drew himself up, but was a little too late; the animal succeeded in catching his leg, and dragged him down again. In the tussle which followed, he had three ribs broken, and was badly bruised, but the firaily managed to slip from the grasp of the awkward brute, and, rushing to the nearest tree, succeeded in getting out of reach before he was again caught.

The tree was a small poplar, about twelve feet high and proportionately small at the base. The bear made determined efforts to climb it, but was unable to secure a sufficient hold on the slender trunk. The animal left the tree from time to time, but made only short detours and from time to time rushed back, always coming forward on its hind legs with paws outstretched, and some times rushing against the tree with such violence as to make it extremely difficult for Eddy to retain his hold in the swaying branches above.

Looking about him, he soon discovered the reason for the bear's persistent fury; a small cub was perched in an adjoining tree, and he had been practically under this tree when the bear first rushed upon him. He called loudly for help from time to time, but hours that seemed like ages wore away before any one came within reach of his voice. Then Mr. Bugbee heard him, and started out to see what was the trouble. He saw him coming, and called to him to go back for his rifle. It was a heavy Winchester repeater, and once within range, it was evident that the life of the bear would be short. The animal was soon dispatched.

EVELETH RAISES COIN FOR FOURTH

Nearly $500 Already in Sight for Big Celebration.

Eveleth, Minn., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The success of the big celebration on the Fourth of July is amply assured judging by the encouraging reports presented at a meeting last night of the several committees that are working on the enterprise.

Over $500 has been subscribed, and it is expected $300 or $400 more will be available in ample time to warrant an adequate outlay for the celebration. The plans are being worked out, and a preliminary showing indicates there will be plenty doing here July 4. The sports and games committee has several good events in view, among them being a Cornish wrestling match, the participants to be selected later, a greased pig chase, two baseball games, one at Virginia in the morning and the other here in the afternoon, and various other sports.

There will be a meeting next Wednesday evening of all of the committees when it is expected more detailed reports will be presented.

FINE EXERCISES GIVEN AT TOWER

Commencement Exercises With J. Adam Bede as the Speaker.

Tower, Minn., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Commencement exercises of the Tower public school were held last night at the city pavilion. An interesting program had been prepared and great credit is due both the promoters and participants for the successful manner in which it was carried out.

Congressman J. Adam Bede was the speaker of the evening and delighted the large audience with his wholesome as well as witty address. He was accompanied by his wife and young daughter. This city was at one time the home of the Bede family and the couple found many old acquaintances and friends to greet them.

The Tower City band, together with a committee of citizens, met the party at the train.

The graduates were Miss Edna Keith and Hugh McLaughlin. Both received their diplomas, the same being presented by Rev. Turner. The pavilion was prettily decorated in green and white, the class colors. After the exercises a couple of hours' dancing was indulged in. The Soudan school holds its commencement exercises this evening. Mr. Bohannon of the Duluth normal will address the class there.

SAMPSON GETS VIRGINIA WORK

His Bid on the Fire Hall Accepted by Council.

Virginia, Minn., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Sampson of Virginia will build the new fire hall as the council last night accepted his bid of $11,130 for the building proper which does not include heating, wiring, plumbing and other work which will be performed by separate contract. Sampson's bid was not the lowest. The lowest bid was that of Andrew Grandy of $10,846, but as it was not accompanied by a check for one-fourth of the total cost of the building as the advertisement exacted, it was not accepted, although an effort was made by some members to accept the Grandy bid.

Some one proposed an informal ballot be taken on the acceptance or rejection of the Grandy bid. This resulted 4 for Sampson, 1 for Grandy. A formal ballot was then taken, 3 for Sampson, 2 for Grandy. The mayor discovered that no name was included in the bid accepted on the formal ballot. Sampson's name was accordingly inserted and the contract unanimously awarded to him. City Clerk Bickford was instructed to advertise for bids for extending the sewer system.

FINE PROGRAM BY THE PUPILS

Pleasant Event Given at the Lincoln High School.

Hibbing, Minn., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Before an audience that taxed the capacity of the Lincoln high school auditorium the pupils of the high school last night gave an excellent entertainment. The program, made up of literary and musical features, was as follows:

Recitation, "The Chariot Race," John Saylor; vocal solo, Alma Dennis; recitation, Ruth Bates; piano duet, Misses Audrey Miller and Donald A. Hoar; recitation, Ethel Giffin; recitation, "How Tom Sawyer Whitewashed the Fence," Julius Raymond; vocal solo, Audrey Miller; recitation, "Lasca," by May McGuire; recitation, "Death Bed of Benedict Arnold," George Cobb; piano solo, Beatrice Atkinson.

FOR RANGE LEAGUE.

Several Towns Seem Desirous of Going in the Scheme.

Hibbing, Minn., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Brady of this city is behind a movement for the establishment of a range base ball league to comprise this place, Virginia, Chisholm, Eveleth, Aurora and Coleraine. All have ball parks and are not wanting in baseball enthusiasm. Representatives from the several towns will meet in a few days to discuss the subject when something more definite may be known.

BLESS BELLS SUNDAY.

Impressive Ceremony Planned at the Chisholm Catholic Church.

Chisholm, Minn., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Unusually impressive and interesting ceremonies will be conducted at the Catholic church next Sunday afternoon when the three new bells for the church will be blessed, the ceremonies being conducted by Fathers Gamache of Hibbing, Dilbonn of Virginia and Tschoil the pastor of the church. The various Catholic societies that are to take part in the ceremonies will form in line on Lake street at 3 o'clock and proceed to the scene of the exercises.

RANGES IN BRIEF

Bovey—The 80-foot steel tower being erected by the city to hold about 50,000 gallons of water for fire and other purposes, is nearly completed.

Hibbing—There was an interesting ceremony here Wednesday night when the wedding of Benjamin Ledoux, a business man of Chisholm, and Miss Edna Kritz of this city was solemnized at the home of the bride, Father Gamache officiating. A reception followed at Close's hall participated in by 300 or more guests.

Chisholm—The business men have decided to take hold of the Fourth of July celebration here this year instead of the firemen who have heretofore had charge. Committees will be appointed in a few days and an effort made to have a successful celebration.

Virginia—A baseball game will be played here Sunday between the team of this city and that of Two Harbors. The Iron Range railroad will run a special train from Two Harbors for the occasion.

KILLS MANY FISH.

Wisconsin Man's Novel Method of Taking a Lot of Crap.

Fort Atkinson, Wis., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The story of the man who took fish easily by shooting them will have to give way to a recent achievement of B. A. Ralph of this city, who clubbed them to death. Ralph discovered a large school of carp in one of the small streams which feed Rock river, east of town.

With the assistance of his son, he cut off the escape of the fish and then with an oar, started the work of extermination.

In two hours he had killed 1,134 fish ranging in weight from six to sixteen pounds, the entire lot aggregating over 10,000 pounds. The fish will be shipped to the New York market.

LIKE OPIUM EATERS.

Coffee Drinkers Become Slaves.

"The experience, suffering and slavery of some coffee drinkers would be almost as interesting as the famous "Confessions of an Opium Eater," says a Boston man:

"For twenty years I used coffee at the breakfast table and incidentally, through the day, I craved it as a whiskey drinker longs for his morning bracer. I knew perfectly well that it was slowly killing me, but I could not relinquish it.

"The effect on the nervous system was finally alarming and my general health greatly impaired. I had dyspepsia, serious heart difficulty, and insomnia. When I would lie down, I would almost suffocate. My doctor assured me it was due to the action of caffeine (which is the active principle of coffee) on the heart.

"I persisted in its use, however, and suffered along just as drunkards do. One day when I was feeling unusually depressed, a friend whom I met, looked me over and said: 'Now, look here, old man, I believe I know exactly what's the matter with you. You are a coffee fiend and it's killing you. I drank coffee and it ruined my nerves, affected my heart, and made me a sallow, billous old man, but through a friend who had been similarly afflicted, I found a blessed relief and want to tell you about it. Try Postum Food Coffee, a grateful, delicious beverage, full of nourishment, that will satisfy your taste for coffee and fed your nervous system back to health, rather than tear it down as coffee has been doing.

"I took my friend's advice, and within a week from that time, my digestion seemed perfect. I slept a sweet, refreshing sleep all night, and my heart quit its quivering and jumping. I have been steadily gaining in health and vitality right along." "There's a reason."

TWO CASES OF ROBBERY

John Olsen Held Up by Two Men in Alley.

Albert Treff "Touched" on Street—Three Suspects Arrested.

Two hold-ups were reported to the police last evening, and three men charged with the crime were arraigned in the municipal court this morning.

John Olson was held up in the alley between Fifth and Sixth avenue west, behind the Denver lodging-house, and two men, who gave their names as Edward Smith and Joseph Adams are held for the offense. Olson was robbed of but 35 cents, which was all the money he had in his possession. The men attacked him in the alley, and a bartender, who witnessed the act, summoned Officer H. Mason, who appeared on the scene before the men got away and placed them both under arrest.

When arraigned this morning both asked for an examination, which was set for Saturday, and Judge Windom fixed the bail of each at $150.

Mike Burns was also arraigned this morning on the charge of going through the pockets of Albert Treff last evening on Superior street between Fifth and Sixth avenues west. Treff was intoxicated at the time, and did not make any resistance. The thief secured $4.

When arraigned this morning Burns entered a plea of not guilty, and his examination was set for Saturday morning.

NEARLY BLINDED BY EXPLOSION

Man and Boy Are Seriously Burned by Lime.

A painful accident, which might have had decidedly serious results, occurred Monday night of this week at the claim of J. Murphy near French river. Carl Hugh, an employee on the claim, was preparing a cask of lime for slacking. He had placed the lime in the cask, dumped one pail of water on it, and stuck a pole upright in the lime preparatory to stirring it. He then went to a well and got another pail of water and poured over the now steaming mixture.

In the meantime William, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Murphy had come up to the edge of the cask, and was gleefully holding his hands in the steam arising from the mixture. Hugh reached over and jerked the pole from its place in the mass of seething lime, and just as he did so the mixture exploded. A goodly portion of it flew high in the air and the lime was driven with great force into the faces of Hugh and the little boy. The stuff had formed into a sort of paste, which covered their faces obliterating every feature and filling their eyes, noses and mouths with the hot, burning, alkali. Their cries soon brought Mrs. Murphy from the house and she cleansed their faces and succeeded in imparting some relief. Unless their eyes are permanently injured by the lime, as is feared, no serious results will follow.

PUPILS GIVE "QUEEN ESTHER"

Closing Exercises at Cathedral School, of Much Interest.

A large audience was present last evening at the annual commencement exercises of Cathedral school, and the young graduates presented a program of much interest and merit. The feature of the evening was the presentation of a three act play, "Queen Esther," which relates in an interesting way incidents in the life of the beautiful queen whose name of the play bears. Each character was presented with faithfulness of portrayal and the play was a great success, each member of the little company deserving high honors for the commendable way in which the parts were taken. Michael O'Donnell assumed the character of King Ahasuerus, and Claude Ryan did well as Mordecai. Miss Mary Lydon made a pleasing presentation of the part of Queen Esther, and the character of Haman and Zeresh, and the friends of the queen and palace attendants were well acted by Michael Sullivan, Margaret O'Donnell, Elinor Dunsmore, Christine Carney, Anna Sullivan, Cyril Furlong, John Currie and Willard Campbell.

A program of recitations and songs was also given and much enjoyed. The chorus singing by the class was good and recitations and essays by the members were of timely interest, and listened to with close attention by the audience.

The address to the graduates was spoken by Bishop McGolrick, who gave the young graduates kindly words of advice and encouragement and good wishes in their future work.

Those receiving diplomas from the eighth-grade to the first year of high school were as follows: Misses Margaret O'Donnell, Anna Sullivan, Catherine Carney, Mary Lydon, Eleanor Dunsmore, Myrtle Casey, Agnes Brotherton, Lillian Monaghan.

Masters Michael O'Donnell, Michael Sullivan, Earl Quinn, Thomas Seabrook, Leo Tims, Frank Quinn, Edward McQuirk, Claude Ryan, Cyril Furlong, Gilbert Ryan, Willard Campbell, Herbert Blanchet, John Currie, Andrew Gowan, George Gowan, Harold Kelly.

Segerstrom, Bonnes & Co., Bonnes & Howe, and the Grand Forks Lumber company for trial; same against the Crookston Lumber company, dismissed; Ben Gerschkowitz vs. Pauline Gerschkowitz will be tried by the court; flowage case of John Klyve, Henry Sumner and J. E. Lane against the Mississippi & Schoolcraft Improvement & Boom company, dismissed.

The case of Goldie Blanche Mead against J. C. Stewart was the first jury case called, and probably the most important case on the calendar. The plaintiff brings suit against defendant to recover the sum of $10,000 as actual and pecuniary damages for wrongful acts of the defendant.

The cases of W. L. Beach vs. the Red River Lumber company and the state of Minnesota vs. the Duluth Logging company were continued by consent of parties.

Edwin C. Garrigus vs. D. C. Fuller et. al. This case will be tried by the court. The case of First National bank of Park Rapids vs. School district No. 53 will also be tried by the court.

J. R. Carpenter vs. S. T. Bell is a jury case and will be tried this week.

The grand jury has returned two indictments.

It is expected the term will close this week, as there are but few cases of importance for trial.

CONCERNING WOMEN

In addition to the classes in cooking the summer school of domestic science which is maintained by the Women's Council will this year add classes in sewing, and a teacher has been engaged for this branch. The members of the council and those interested in the progress of the summer school and its advantages, are pleased that the scope of the work is being enlarged. The teacher engaged is Miss Florence Holbrook of Ironwood. Miss Holbrook has been instructor in this branch of domestic science at the schools at Ironwood, and has had experience in the best methods of interesting the young workers in the sewing. It has not yet been decided where the classes in sewing will be held.

The classes in cooking will be organized Monday, July 8, by the instructor, Mrs. Emily R. McCurdy of Chicago, who will enter upon the third summer of her work with this school. Mrs. McCurdy will arrive in the city early in July, and the first session will be held the Monday morning following the Fourth. The school will be maintained for eight weeks.

Last year more than 100 young girls were instructed in cooking and it is expected that with the classes in the two branches, more girls may be reached, and the scope of the school work increased. At different times in this city sewing schools have been planned but aside from the Bethel Sewing school which has been maintained for several years there has been no other permanently established and in consequence women who are interested in this project are delighted that the Council has added the sewing to the branches to be taught during the summer.

THEATER PARTY

Much interest is being shown in the reception in honor of the young singer which will be held Saturday afternoon of this week, from 3 to 5 o'clock at the Commercial club rooms.

Elks Entertain.

The varied and delightful entertainment provided last evening by the Elks, in compliment to the young men and women who helped make such a delightful success of the presentation of "King O'Keefe," was enjoyed by nearly 100 guests. At 7 o'clock the guests left the lodge rooms in tally-hos for a drive around the boulevard, and after the return an informal dance was held until nearly midnight. The music was furnished by La Brosse's orchestra. A delightful feature of the evening was the trolley ride, which closed the evening's entertainment. After the dance the guests were taken for a trolley ride to Lester Park and back. At the informal banquet, which preceded the last feature of the evening, toasts were given by R. M. Edwards, A. E. McManus and Thomas P. Getz. The committee in charge of the affair were: Vernon Culbertson, W. T. Smith, D. H. Costello and Charles H. Goodrich.

The cantaloupes are in the market in greater abundance, and are steadily becoming cheaper, and the green vegetables are offered in profusion. A FOREIGN CORPORATION this pool apportions the volume of traffic each of its members shall carry, and from what port or ports each line shall make its sailings, thus involving the apportionment of traffic originating in Western cities—both as to character and amount.

In charging that the Hamburg-American Packet company in its almost absolute control of eastbound and westbound traffic between interior points of the United States and Hamburg is a monopoly in restraint of trade, the complaining company raises an international question. The allegation is made that the foreign corporation is backed by the German government, dictates terms, routes and rates to shippers all over the United States who forward goods to Baltic ports, diverts freight to and from American ports at its own will without regard to the national flow of trade, and uses coercive and unlawful methods to crush competition.

The statement filed by Peter Wright & Sons, says the Cosmopolitan freight services have no desire to suppress legitimate competition and adds: "We, therefore, do not seek to have ameliorated any of the conditions that fair competition may impose. We do believe, however, that pooling combinations and intimidations, the latter in certain instances, approaching blackmail, even under the semblance of competition, are not legitimate forms of competition. Pooling, combinations and intimidations in their worst forms have been encountered recently by the Cosmopolitan services. These are the unlawful conditions, masquerading under the guise of competition, that it is our purpose to endeavor to place before your honorable commission in a concise and chronological form."

The charges are summed up as follows: First, that the Hamburg-American Packet company is a monopoly in restraint of trade, exercising through its contracts the power to control traffic, both eastbound and westbound, between Hamburg and interior cities in the United States, and to determine the rates and routes of such traffic.

Second, that the "Baltic pool," of which the Hamburg-American Packet company is the controlling factor, is a combine in restraint of trade, dictating the percentage of traffic from interior cities of the United States to Baltic points, which shall flow through each of the North Atlantic ports mentioned, to the end that each of the lines composing the pool may receive its alloted proportion of the business and no more.

Four other charges are made, divided as follows: That the effect of the differentials that place American ports to an equality is nullified by the pool's arbitrary division of the traffic; that the acts complained of are in violation of the laws of the United States; that efforts to rehabilitate the American merchant marine are hampered and rendered abortive by this monopoly; and, finally, that there is little use in legislation for the benefit of the American shipping, "if at the same time we allow our present laws to be violated by an unscrupulous foreign corporation in its effort to suppress American competition on land and sea."

In connection with the complaint the Cosmopolitan line submitted copies of the combines rebate form of contracts, and it is alleged that these show that shippers are bribed and forced to submit to the monopoly. It is charged that the Hamburg-American Packet company's monopoly begins with the state owned railroads in Germany, which give the corporation rebates; and that the company forces all European shippers to sign an ironclad contract, providing for liberal rebates in return.

The Hamburg-American is able arbitrarily to control the import trade of the principal American seaports with Germany. This company dominates through its manipulation of rates the interchange of commodities between Germany and the interior of the United States.

The complainant asks the commission whether this domination is wholesome, and whether it is not such a menace to the trade of the United States as to demand supervision or recognition by the United States government. In like manner it is charged that the combination controls absolutely 97 per cent of the traffic from interior American cities to continental European points and that the combination by "prejudice or malicious policy can divert traffic to or from anyone or all of the ports of Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Norfolk and Newport News."

Continuing, the complainant says: "Not a pound of freight can move from any interior city of the United States via the six great Atlantic ports to Hamburg without the permission of the Hamburg-American Packet company. Thus a company, foreign in its control, dictates the rates, the line, the method, the routes and every other condition of trade and traffic to which the American shipper, manufacturer or producer must humbly submit."

The agreement for the division of traffic is said to include Hamburg-American, via Germany, 56 per cent; North German Lloyd, via Germany, 12½ per cent; Wilson (Hull), via England, 2½ per cent, and Scandinavian-American lines, via Denmark, 24 per cent.

The complaint alleges that when the Cosmopolitan established its Philadelphia-Copenhagen service last year, the "combine" demanded its withdrawal. The Cosmopolitan refused, and it is declared that an attempt was then made to drive the line from the field, and it is because of this attempt that an appeal was made to the interstate commerce commission for an investigation.

New York, June 20.—The reply of the Hamburg-American Steam Packet company to the charges preferred before the interstate commerce commission by Peter Wright & Sons, Philadelphia, agents of the Cosmopolitan Steamship company, will, it is understood, be in the nature of a general denial that a combination in restraint of trade exists between the defendant and allied lines.

Joseph H. Choate and Harrington Putnam of this city, who appeared before the commission in November last, when the general subject of trans-Atlantic and coastwise trade was under discussion, will again, it is expected, represent the Hamburg-American people as counsel in the coming hearing.

DIOCESE IS ORGANIZED

Step is Taken by the Episcopalians of the District.

Clergy and Laity Hold Banquet at Kitchi Gammi Club.

At the session yesterday afternoon of the clergymen and laymen in attendance at the annual convocation of the Episcopal churches in the Duluth missionary district, the last named body went out of existence, and in its stead was formed the diocese of Duluth, with Rt. Rev. J. D. Morrison as the first diocesan bishop.

This was by far the most important matter accomplished by the gathering at yesterday's sessions. The diocese was organized immediately after the committee on organization had reported that the district had fulfilled all requirements for admission into the church in America as a regular diocese.

The following diocesan deputies to represent the clergymen at the general convention and anniversary of the founding of the church in America, to be held at Richmond, Va., in October, were elected: Venerable Archdeacon H. F. Parshall, Rev. A. T. Young, Rev. Benjamin Brigham and Rev. A. W. Ryan. Judge Page Morris, H. B. Mallard, George H. Crosby and Dr. Beaty were elected to represent the laymen.

The following were elected to the diocesan standing committee: Rev. F. C. Coolbaugh, Rev. J. R. Alten, Rev. F. M. Garland, Rev. F. S. Murphy, Dr. Beaty, W. D. McKay, W. E. Magner and A. R. Brown.

Last evening the clergymen and laymen in attendance at the convention were entertained at an elaborate banquet at the Kitchi Gammi club. Rev. R. J. Mooney was toastmaster, and toasts were responded to by Bishop Morrison, who spoke on "The New Diocese;" Rev. Frank Durant, who spoke on "The Three Hundreth Anniversary;" Rev. Frank Smith, who spoke on "The Indian Work;" Rev. C. Alligren of Minneapolis, who spoke on "Swedish Work;" Rev. C. C. Rollitt, who spoke on "Ten Years of Service;" Rev. J. Kimberly, whose topic was "The New Men in the Diocese;" Judge Page Morris, who spoke on "The General Convention;" George H. Crosby, who spoke on "The New Cathedral," and Rev. A. W. Ryan, who gave some reminiscences. Rev. Frank Coolbaugh and Rev. J. W. Powell also spoke.

Among the things brought out by the speakers during the evening was the substantial growth of the church in this diocese. There has been an increase of 40 per cent in the number of confirmations during the past year and there has been a large increase in the amounts given for missionary work and for church work. Four new churches have been built and consecrated, and several rectories and missions have been constructed.

The banquet room at the Kitchi Gammi club was beautifully decorated. The decorations were in charge of the ladies of St. Luke's church. Among other features of the decorations were banners bearing the dates 1607, when the church was organized in America, and 1907, and a picture of Bishop Morrison.

This morning, services were held particularly for the Women's Auxiliary and a strong sermon was preached by Rev. C. P. Thurston, rector of St. Paul's church, Minneapolis.

This afternoon, the delegates are enjoying a boat ride about the harbor, and this evening there will be a reception at the home of Bishop and Mrs. Morrison.

BARS ALIEN WOMEN.

Immoral Foreigners More Easily Controlled Under New Law.

United States Immigrant Inspector William H. Dean has received department circulars to the effect that a change has been made in the law admitting alien women. Heretofore only women who had been leading immoral lives were barred, or who had been brought to this country for immoral purposes. The new law not only denies these women admission, but holds a ban over all women and girls for three years after their arrival in this country, by reserving the right to deport them at any time during this period that they go wrong.

The law also provides that any person supporting, maintaining or harboring the woman during the time, is subject to imprisonment of not exceeding five years and a fine of not over $5,000. The police departments throughout the country will be notified of this change in the immigration laws, and will be instructed to report to immigration officers on the conduct of alien women.

DISTRIBUTION OF BIG SURPLUS

By Adams Express Offensive to the Interstate Commission.

Washington, June 20.—Interstate commerce commissioners were amazed when they read of the Adams Express company's proposal to issue an interest-bearing bond dividend of 200 per cent. First, because the officials of the company thus publicly advertise that they have a large surplus on hand, and, second, that they propose to distribute the surplus in such a manner that future generations will be asked to pay rates high enough to pay the interest charges on dividends.

As individuals, commissioners talked about the effrontery of the express company officials in making such a proposal. Officially, they considered it their duty to say nothing because they will be called upon to pass upon the question of whether rates on express business are too high.

The general view among them is that the express company officials chose the most offensive way to distribute their surplus.

As outlined in the press reports, they are not pretending to be issuing bonds to make "betterments" or increase the equipment of the company. They are proposing to distribute a large surplus in such form that, in the future, they will be able to charge rates high enough to pay interest on a long-paid interest.

The proposal is regarded as more obnoxious than anything Harriman ever did or proposed to do.

It is believed that the determination of the company's officers to make the surplus division in the way proposed is prompted by the knowledge that on July 1 the commission will put into effect the uniform bookkeeping system devised by Prof. Henry Adams, which will classify the charges that may be made against capital account, operating expenses and maintenance of way. After the beginning of July, such a charge against the capital account for the purpose of distributing a surplus would not be permitted to pass without challenge.

QUARRELED, BUT ARE RECONCILED

Husband Would Not Let Wife Take Baby's Clothes.

Carrying a 7-months-old baby covered solely by a old shirtwaist hastily wrapped around it, a young woman applied at the police station for aid yesterday afternoon, and between sobs told Capt. Resche that she and her husband had quarreled and that when she threatened to leave the house and take their child "home to mother" he told her to go ahead, but would not let her take any of the child's clothing. One of her shirtwaists was the only thing she could find to wrap the youngster in.

Capt. Resche called Mounted Officer Stewart over the telephone and asked him to meet the woman at Third avenue west and Fourth street and go with her to her home. This the officer did, and he and the abused wife met the man of the house just coming down the steps. He gave an exclamation of pleasure at seeing her and said he had just started out to look for her, and that he was ready to admit that he was in the wrong. His wife, not to be outdone in generosity, said that she had been hasty, and it was in the midst of this happy reconciliation that the officer tapped his horse gently on the flank and slipped unnoticed down the street.

The police refuse to divulge the names of the pair.

SMITH'S ACTION AFFECTS OTHERS

Milwaukee Man's Suspension Looks Pretty Tough.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 20.—Ira B. Smith, a member of the wholesale grocery firm of Smith, Thorndike & Brown, which recently went into involuntary bankruptcy was arrested Wednesday afternoon on a warrant sworn out by Oliver C. Mason, a real estate broker. Smith is charged with obtaining money under false representation of his firm's financial condition. He went to the municipal court voluntarily and was admitted to bail in the sum of $6,000. In the schedule of assets of the defunct firm Smith was shown to be indebted to the firm to the extent of about $100,000.

Mr. Smith, for many years, has been one of the most prominent business men in the city. He was president of the Merchants & Manufacturers' association and has been a prominent clubman.

There are eight counts against Mr. Smith aggregating about $20,000. The complaint alleges that Smith obtained the money by representing that the firm of Smith, Thorndike & Brown was in a flourishing condition, and that the resources of Ira B. Smith and W. A. Brown of Marinette were ample.

The defendant is charged in four counts with having through those representations induced the complainant to loan him money on notes, and on the other four counts he is charged with having obtained an extension of each of the four loans through making similar representations.

The amounts said to have been loaned were as follows: $4,850, $4,850, $4,900 and $4,900. The complainant says that Smith placed the total asests of the firm at $658,006.85; the total liabilities at $357,275.80.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed against W. A. Brown of Marinette, president of the Smith, Thorndike & Brown company, wholesale grocers, by the Corn Exchange National bank of Chicago, the First National bank of Chicago, the Citizens National bank of Cincinnati, and the Citizens National bank of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, each having a claim of $50,000.

The act of bankruptcy given in the petition is alleged preferential payments to the National Exchange bank of Milwaukee and the Stephenson National bank of Marinette.

Deputy United States Marshal Rankel served the petition upon Mr. Brown in Marinette yesterday.

Mr. Brown was for some years vice president of the company, and managed the branch store in Marinette. When Ira B. Smith retired, Mr. Brown became president.

The hearing in the company's bankruptcy proceedings is set for Saturday before Referee Maxwell.

The first suit in the state courts arising from financial troubles of Ira B. Smith has been instituted by the First National bank of Racine, Wis., which demands $5,000, said to be due on a promissory note of the Smith, Thorndike & Brown company, with interest from June, 1907. Ira B. Smith and W. A. Brown, who endorsed the note are defendants in the suit.

AFFLICTION OF WIFE

Expected to Cause the Retirement of Baron Von Sternberg.

New York, June 20.—A Washington dispatch to the Times, says: Germany is expecting to substitute another ambassador for Baron Speck von Sternberg some time next fall or winter. A cancerous growth on the face, apparently, has ruined beyond repair a career full of promise and the social prospects of his beautiful American wife.

Then, soon after the return of President Roosevelt to Washington in the fall has brought the diplomatic colony here, it will be announced that Von Sternberg's health compels his resignation.

FATHER TOOK REVENGE.

Parent of Jilted Bride Takes Humiliating Vengeance Upon Fickle Lover.

Washington, Pa., June 20.—Securely fastened at the end of a rope and tied to the buggy of the irate father, whose daughter he had unfeelingly jilted almost on the day set for the wedding, Walter Edson, the fickle lover, was compelled to trot behind the rig driven by Henry Sheller, a distance of four miles, at a fast gait.

Edson was to have married Florence Sheller Tuesday. Last Saturday, after visiting his prospective bride and renewing marriage vows, he went to Pittsburg, where the same day he married Miss Mae Cole. He boldly brought her back home and boasted that he had no explanation to offer his promised bride.

Tuesday Sheller went to the saw mill where Edson was working, called him out, overpowered him and hitched him to the buggy. He then drove hurriedly to Edson's home, where he forced the young man to give up every letter written by his daughter, and every present give him by her to young Edson, and then made him taken an oath before a justice never to molest the girl or any member of the family.

"JACK KELLY," PUGILIST, YALE MAN IN DISGUISE.

Bridgeport, Conn., June 20. — Charles Fox, who fought under the name of "Jack Kelly" against Joe Rogers before the National Sporting club in New York city Monday night, and was defeated, is generally known here as a graduate of the academic department of Yale, son of Charles Fox, a prominent business man and extensive property owner.

Fox's entrance in the ring for pugilistic honors created a sensation here. He is prominent in local politics. He ran for county sheriff on the Democratic ticket last fall and was defeated by a small margin. He sits in the councils of his party on all important matters and has been a very liberal contributor to every campaign for the past six years.

Fox is the sole heir to his father's estate which is valued at about $250,000. His friends say that he has an ambition to be the champion heavyweight pugilist of the world. For his fight last night he secretly trained for four months and only a very few of his closest friends knew of his plans.

Fox has been an athlete since his college days and is the proud possessor of the Yale "Y." He is 31 years old, is married and has a family and lives in a fine residence in Fairfield. His defeat last night was a surprise to his Bridgeport and New Haven friends, who had wagered that he would put Rogers out before the termination of the ten-round bout. Fox says he will try again and is not dismayed at his defeat. He weighs 220 pounds when in fighting trim.

EXECUTIVE USURPATION.

When a president or a governor favors measures which he thinks are in the interests of the people, and goes so far as to use his influence in inducing the legislative body associated with him in government to adopt them, there is always an outcry about the executive usurping the legislative province, and a wail that the balance of our governmental policy is being disturbed.

Usually, perhaps invariably, this cry comes from interests whose greed is disturbed by the prospects of what will happen if the measures under consideration become laws. Even if the cry does not come directly from them, it may come indirectly, and anyway it is always worth while looking for the first source of it.

Nobody has gone farther in this line of endeavor than Governor Hughes of New York. Under a governor less determined and more neglectful of his duty, the New York legislature would have been pretty much the same old story this year. Under him, however, it worked very actively and very effectively for the people. The spectacle of a legislature passing measure after measure very much against its will, but forced to it by an energetic and forceful governor backed by popular opinion, has been a delightful and encouraging spectacle.

Yet even Governor Hughes has been charged with going beyond the proper functions of an executive officer, and in his recent address at Columbia university, he took occasion to reply to the charge. He said:

> To my mind it is the duty as well as the high privilege of the executive to state his convictions to the state, and when these convictions are stated and by force of public opinion are endorsed by the legislative branch, we don't have government by executive usurpation; we have government by public opinion after discussion.

President Roosevelt has endured the same charge in a much greater degree than Governor Hughes, and many have been led into a belief that the foundations of government had been endangered by his strenuous advocacy of reform measures. It must be admitted that congress would have done very much less than it has in the last two sessions if it had not been for the influence of the executive. Yet the president, in urging congress to action, was the mouthpiece of public sentiment, and when congress and the New York legislature were whipped into line they were made to do the work of the people instead of the work of the "interests," which they would probably have found more congenial.

There is no harm and much good in what has been called usurpation. Everybody concedes the right of the executive to suggest measures through presidential messages. Should the executive, having done this, go to sleep and forget all about it? Lawmaking bodies are notoriously laggard, and have been notoriously subject to the influence of selfish interests. When they balk, it is a good thing to have an executive to prod them into doing their duty.

THE NEW COURTHOUSE.

The people of St. Louis county are glad to note that the courthouse commission has harmoniously reorganized itself, and is now in a position to go ahead and build a courthouse.

There has been some impatience over the delay, but it should be remembered that part of this delay, at least, has been due to the discovery that the law under which the board was originally constituted was void, and that its acts under that law were therefore invalid. This necessitated the passage of a new law, and the reappointment of the old board under it, which has been done.

The commission, as appointed by Chairman Patterson of the county board, is a good one, and the people may rely upon its ability and integrity. Plans have been drawn for the courthouse by Architect Wangenstein, and he is to have the assistance of some good supervising architect whose large experience in the construction of public buildings will insure the best results.

All these preliminaries consume time, but they are nearly over, and before very long the public will be gratified by tangible evidences of work upon the new building which is so much needed, and to which St. Louis county has been looking forward for so long.

LEAPING INTO THE DARK.

Just how far a minister or a justice of the peace may go in inquiring into the circumstances of the couples that appear before him to be married is a serious question, no doubt, but there isn't the slightest question about the propriety of the action that a Chicago judge took the other day.

Before Judge Mack of the juvenile court of Chicago appeared a man and a girl who wanted to be married. The man was 22, the girl 17. The man had no job, no money, and no home to take his intended bride to. These facts the judge extracted by gentle and skillful questioning, and then he went further.

He asked the girl if she did not think she had better go back to her mother and let the man go back to his parents' home until there was at least a job in sight, and money enough to fit up a home.

With some reluctance, the couple agreed that perhaps they had been a little precipitous, and swayed by the judge's kindly counsel they agreed to postpone their plunge into matrimony until circumstances were more promising.

If young people, leaping into matrimony on the spur of the moment, and with as little thought as they would think necessary to plan an afternoon's diversion, will not stop and think, it is highly proper that the functionary before whom they come to be married should give them occasion to think. If there was more thinking about this vastly important step, and less heedless assumption of a relationship that should be a sacred and lifelong companionship, there would be less divorce scandal, and marriage would be a more highly honored and a happier condition.

Too many people who clamor about the evils of divorce fail to go back to the root of the evil, which lies in hasty and ill-considered marriages in a very large percentage of cases.

Where a couple, obviously ill-mated, and doomed as any thoughtful acquaintance can see to disagreement and unhappiness, are swept into a hasty marriage by the impulse of sudden passion or a whim of the moment, the divorce court looms ahead of them at the end of a rocky and troubled road, just as surely as death and taxes. Where a beginning so illy considered points so unerringly to an ending that will swell the percentage of divorces, it is absurd to lay the blame wholly upon the divorce evil. The trouble is farther back than that.

As to marrying without means, or with but small means, that is not nearly so dangerous as where a couple, well-equipped with money but poorly mated, marry without taking time to get acquainted with each other.

If the poor couple knows what it is doing, and the two are prepared to work together to better their fortunes, it may be a happy business partnership that will bring happiness to both.

A BREAKWATER NEEDED.

The result of the public hearing by the board of army engineers appointed to investigate the needs of the Duluth harbor is just what was to have been expected from previous expressions.

There is not the slightest possibility of doubt that the people of Duluth, almost unanimously, want a breakwater constructed a mile or so down the north shore for the protection of the harbor entrance from the northeast seas that have made the entrance often dangerous, and that have done great damage within the harbor on many occasions.

Not only is it evident that the people want the breakwater, but the expert opinions of those who are in the best position to know what is the proper thing to do have been expressed, and they are unqualified and positive. These authorities believe that the best possible plan is the breakwater plan.

Nobody at the Head of the Lakes wants a central canal, in any form. Talk about where the canal would be built if it were just being started is idle. The canal is where it is, and it is not going to be moved. The only question in issue is how the entrance and the harbor, as they now exist, can best be protected.

The army engineers will use their own knowledge and their own judgments in forming their conclusions and making their report, but they cannot fail to be influenced to a large degree by the convincing arguments of those who are best acquainted with conditions here and who should be best qualified from a practical viewpoint to say what ought to be done.

The outlook for the early construction of a breakwater for the protection of the Duluth canal entrance is good, and persistence in advocacy of any other plan can mean nothing but delay.

SENSIBLE VACATIONS.

Thomas A. Edison, who works eighteen hours a day and never gets tired, and who has not until recent years given the subject of vacations much thought, recently gave an interview in which he conveyed to the public his ideas about vacations, their use and abuse, and though they come from a man that has had little practical experience in either using or abusing vacations, they contain much sound sense and good, practical advice.

In the first place, he condemns in unmeasured terms the practice of spending vacations in summer resorts, where people plunge into gayeties and frivolities that are more tiring than the work they have temporarily abandoned. Such people return to their work more exhausted than ever, and with their vitality wasted instead of strengthened. They are tired and ill-natured for several weeks after their return, for they realize that they have not really had a good time. "It is like the dark brown taste of the morning after," said Mr. Edison, referring to another practice with which he has had little personal experience.

For those confined in offices and shops, he advises the country, and as absolute a rest as they can get. The clerk should go where he can get fresh eggs, fresh milk, fresh air and fresh scenes. He should get next to nature and stay there every minute of his limited holiday. On the other hand the farmer should go to the city and brush up against new scenes that are different from his everyday surroundings.

Working girls he also advises to go to the country, where they should take the rest cure for tired nerves. They should take along some light novels, and spend much time in a shady hammock. They should walk a little in the fields, and if possible row a little.

Change is one essential, and rest is the other. For the man who works with his brain physical exercise that is not too strenuous may be as valuable a rest as idling, for in idling the brain gets a chance to work on its own hook, and it is hard to stop it, except by distracting it from business cares by taking up something else.

Some people can work the year through without a vacation, but most people need it. But in too many cases vacations are used with little judgment, and prove more wearing than the same time put in at routine work. The scenes of the vacation trip should be quiet, restful, and different. The occupations of the vacation should be as different as possible from those of the office or store. The pleasuring should not be too strenuous, and it should be remembered that to a person unaccustomed to hard physical work, the hardships of a camping or exploring tour are often more injurious than helpful.

THE PASSING SHOW.

What has become of that Jap war scare?

The man that does not talk too much some time is dumb and unable to write.

If there is a lull in presidential politics, don't think it has been laid aside until next year. If you listen closely you will hear the busy rasping of political saws on political wood.

The Washington Star is discussing "Wall Street's Dark Horse." It will remain dark as long as Wall street can keep it so, after which the people will proceed to make light of it.

Congressman R. P. Hobson, of Merrimac fame, says that war with Japan cannot be avoided. Oh, yes it can, Richard, but that needn't prevent you from seeking to revive public interest in yourself by saying so if you choose.

A flapping coat tail disclosed a revolver in the president's hip pocket at a corner stone laying the other day, it is said, and now they are discussing the proper place to carry a gun. The proper place to carry a gun is locked up in a bureau drawer at home; better still, in the hardware store when you didn't buy it.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"The fact that the Jamestown exposition was hardly ready for the public during the first two or three weeks after its opening has called for a good deal of adverse comment from certain sections in the East," said C. A. Myers of Syracuse, N. Y., at the Lenox. "The matter has even been taken up in the papers, some papers maintaining that exposition managers have a license, just like a poet, to do things out of the ordinary, and that it is to be expected the opening will be late with affairs of this kind, while others sharply criticize the management.

"The private citizens were some of them pretty free in expressing their views of the situation in general, but not much was said in the papers until the Army and Navy Journal took a hot shot at Jamestown, saying the exposition management was using the navies of the United States and foreign nations as a side show to draw the dollars of the unsuspecting public to the pockets of greedy capitalists, whose one idea was to make money. It is a fact that the navy feature has been a strong drawing card, attracting thousands of people who would otherwise not have attended the fair, but it looks to me as if the management was sincere enough in its work. To the best of my recollection, none of the expositions in the past has been ready on the opening days.

"The whole trouble with the thing is that the exposition question has been overdone. What the public needs is a rest. After fairs the size of those put up by Chicago, St. Louis and Paris, smaller expositions appear altogether too small, but even a big one would not take well now. The people should be given a rest for ten or twelve years. I visited Jamestown, and must say that the exposition itself was rather disappointing, although I considered the naval spectacle fully worth the price. The low rates offer an opportunity to thousands to visit a section of the country they have never seen before, and that is something."

"A lot of new settlers are going into the farming districts of Northern Minnesota this year," said G. N. Mason of Cloquet, Minn., at the St. Louis. "The number has grown each year, and I think it will keep on increasing from season to season, as the productiveness of our soil becomes better advertised. The farmers now in position to cultivate Northern Minnesota land certainly are raising fine crops, and they are making good profits on what they raise, because the market offered affords them high prices.

"Timber is one of the handicaps that has prevented the earlier development of the Northern section of the state. No matter how fertile the land itself may be, there is a certain prejudice against settling on tree-covered land when, by going farther, the homeseeker may become located on a prairie country, where work of clearing away the brush and timber is unnecessary. This prejudice is one that has sprung up within the last few years, and is unreasonable.

"Some of the most valuable farms in the United States today are those which were hewn from the forests, and when the hewing occurred it was at a time when the timber had little or no value, where, now the settler can sell almost every stick of timber that falls a victim to his axe. Pine, tamarack, spruce, birch, elm, ash, hemlock, oak, cedar, etc., commands a ready sale, at fancy prices, and if the trees are too small for anything else they may be turned into posts and poles, or stove wood. In any event, as has often been stated before, the timber alone often pays for the land. To be sure there is work left in clearing away the stumps, but even at that profits are greater than where one settles down on the prairie sod and begins farming right away."

The Weather.

Now the vernal zephyr blows
For a minute, then it snows,
Then the sun comes out at last,
Then it's dull and overcast.

Then a gentle fall of rain
Wakes the wild rose on the plain;
Then starts up an icy breeze,
Till proud man must wheeze and sneeze.

Now proud man serenely scoots
Round in pumps and rubber boots,
And at morn together takes
Strawberries and buckwheat cakes.

First he dons his straw hat, then
Starts the furnace up again.
And the old snow shovel wide
The lawn mower sets beside.

Oh, these changes are the things
Which upset him till he wrings
In despair his hands and toots
"Overcoats or bathing suits?"

THE WEATHER.

The weather of yesterday and today has been typically Duluthian, with its fair skies, its genial sun, its cool and refreshing breeze, and its comfortable temperature. The breeze has blown from the lake, otherwise it would have been hot to the verge of discomfort. Yesterday's highest temperature was 68 degs. and last night's lowest was 46 degs. The weather man looks for warmer weather, with local showers and easterly to southerly winds.

A year ago today it was cloudy and showery, but warm.

The sun rose at 4:12 this morning and sets at 8:06 tonight, making 15 hours and 54 minutes of sunlight, just as there was for the last three days. Tomorrow there will be one minute more of sunshine, and it will be the longest day of the year.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Low pressure disturbances central over Alberta and Arizona caused light to heavy showers during Wednesday or last night in Manitoba, Oklahoma and Texas. Showery weather also prevailed in extreme eastern states. The barometer is highest off South Atlantic and North Pacific Coast states. The Alberta low pressure is causing warmer weather in the Dakotas. The easterly movement of this disturbance will be attended by local showers and higher temperature in this section tonight and Friday."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures, as recorded by the weather bureau:

Losing a Friend.

If you should come to me in dire distress
And ask me if I'd let you have a ten
I would accommodate you, friend, unless
I thought you'd want to pay it back again.

With joy I'd get my wallet and unload
And never feel the faintest pang of sorrow,
Unless you came to pay me what you owed
I'd feel rejoiced, if you would only borrow.

But you, unhappily, are not in need;
You always seem to be possessed of cash,
But you could have it freely, yes, indeed!
I'd let it go as if I thought it trash.

I don't say, mind you, that I have too much;
I haven't. When I get it, I earn it,
But I'm your proper subject for a touch,
Unless I had a notion you'd return it.

They say—I've heard it often—if you lend
Your money to a friend you may be sure
Of losing both your money and your friend,
But even that I'm willing to endure.

A ten-spot—I would make it even more,
The other way would be to maim or bruise you
For you are such a darned, persistent bore,
And as it is I find it hard to lose you.

Power of the Press.

Collier's Weekly: The newspapers of America have recently received three valuable tributes. Abraham Ruef says that they have ruined his career. The corporation attorneys at Albany say that it was hopeless to battle against the power which the press exerted in behalf of the public utilities bill. Mr. Root, in a speech, dwelt on the idle form of a diplomatist's work when the headlines took international problems in hand. The first two complaints need no further comment. But the third, from so high and fair a source, suggests a word. The only great war of recent times was caused by the czar's press censorship. Had Russia had as free a press as the United States, its columns would have been filled with the truth of Russian weakness by land and sea; and a drunken bureaucracy could not, to cover its trail of scandalous corruption, have led the people into a war in which they had no interest. Mr. Root in his pronouncement had in mind the recent school question in San Francisco, now happily and finally settled, with no rancor remaining, thanks to full and free discussion which revealed the real opinion of the country as a whole. Mr. Root is a great lawyer who ever holds a brief. Now it is for peace. As secretary of war he made one of the most sensational utterances of our time when he said that we must prepare to stop German colonization in Southern Brazil. A well-informed press told him at the time that he was being victimized by a cock-and-bull story of the military expansionists, whose untruth he must have found out for himself on his South American trip last summer.

Standpatters Jarred.

Indianapolis News: What's that? The loosening of tariff regulations expected to do much toward re-establishing the United States in the favorable regard of other nations? Up, standpatters, and at 'em!

Ode to a Straw Hat.

Here is my last year's straw—I must have found thee
Yet fit for service when I laid thee by!
The glamour of sweet memories hung around thee,
But now thou are not pleasing to the eye.
Thy crown is somewhat bulged, thy lustre dim,
And there is indecision in thy brim.

The Only Joy in Sight.

Chicago News: Though the cost of living has gone up to ridiculous figures, there are a good many persons who intend to keep at it.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1887.

A curious marine monster arrived here today in tow of the tug Favorite, called the Wahnipatoe of Bay City. She was built for the lumber trade exclusively, and was used last year to transport logs from Canada to Bay City, instead of towing, but has been chartered by the Emery Lumber company for the season. She is 52 feet beam and 270 feet in length over all, and has the enormous carrying capacity of 2,000,000 feet of lumber.

Patrick Carroll of Elmira, N. Y., was run over and killed last night by a switch engine on the St. Paul & Duluth track, near the cold storage.

Victor Hermanson, a Finlander, lost his life in Lake Superior, a few hundred feet from Minnesota Point, yesterday afternoon. He and two others were in a rowboat, and in attempting to change oarsmen, the craft upset. Hermanson's companions clung to the boat and were saved, but he went to the bottom at once and never rose again. He was 30 years old and unmarried.

Joseph Keane, a well known comedian, opens a week's engagement at the Grand tonight. "Rip Van Winkle" and "Mrs. Partington" constitute the principal pieces in the repertoire.

Miss Nellie Richeman, one week ago, left the boardinghouse of Mrs. Guenther, at 17 Second avenue west, wheres he was employed, and has not been seen since. She left all her clothing in the room. She went out with a man who frequently called on her, and said she would return within and hour, but no trace of her has been discovered. Her parents in Southern Illinois have been notified of the circumstances.

A conference of the Northern Pacific Congregational and Union churches will be held in this city tomorrow to consider and discuss pertinent subjects of the day.

President Fargusson today announced on the board of trade the suspension of the grain firm of W. T. Hooker & Co. All the trades of this firm were transferred to A. K. Shepherd & Co. The ssupension was caused by customers' failure to put up margins.

The firemen are proud of the new $750 hose cart which has arrived. It is built to carry 2,000 feet of hose.

John R. Meiming has started again in the tinware and stove business, at 16 First avenue east.

Capt. Minch, one of the best known vessel owners on the lakes, died today in Cleveland, Ohio, from Brights disease. He was 70 years of age, and owner of the Onoka, now in Duluth, the Chisholm, Gladden and other boats running into the Duluth harbor.

Sells Bros.' consolidated conglomeration of united colossal shows, ordinarily known as a circus, will be in Duluth in July.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

St. Hilaire Spectator: The crop prospects at present in Red Lake county are good—much better than an average at this time of the year.

Floodwood Broadaxe: Tariff revision may mean much, little, or nothing, but what the people want, is tariff reductions, all along the line.

Pillager Leader: It is a fine thing to have the convenient stockholder to dodge behind when a corporation wishes to deliberately lie to a whole state. The money power has no principles but to get money.

Albert Lea Tribune: The "unwritten law" is coming to be quite a fad. We expected to hear much of it in the South, where men's hot blood rule their impulses, but we now hear of it being made the defense for murder in Barnes county, North Dakota. What unwritten law of God or man can justify the murder of a fellow being?

Mankato Free Press: The law prohibiting the sale of giant crackers and other death dealing devices does not go into effect until Jan. 1, 1908. The legislature showed its weakness by not having the act go into effect at once and head off the slaughter this year. But there is no accounting for what a legislature will and will not do.

Warren Sheaf: Much is being said these days about checking swollen fortunes, but not quite so much about rehabilitating shrunken ones. We therefore offer the advice: Come to the Red River valley in Minnesota and secure a farm and you will soon be found in the "swelled" class.

Crookston Times: Some people believe the jury system is the biggest fake of civilization, says the Fargo Forum. And you never realize the bigness of the fake until you have served on a jury.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press: Robert C. Dunn denies that he's a candidate for governor. The Princeton man is receiving more favorable mention for the nomination than any other man in the state, however.

Mora Times: The Minnesota Steel company, a subsidiary company of the United States Steel corporation, has been incorporated. This action on the part of the Steel trust is proof that a large steel plant will be put in at Duluth. This stupendous industry will be worth millions of dollars to this section of the state and will be a material aid in the development of the agricultural resources of Northeastern Minnesota.

Barnum Star-Gazette: In this country where demands for roads are many and resources light the "get together" plan could be worked with the greatest efficiency. Help one another.

Crookston Times: In a recent issue of the "Appeal to Reason," Eugene Debs comes out with a forceful article in which he nominates William D. Haywood for the presidency of the United States. Debs has said a good many foolish things in his public career, and this is hardly unexpected. Haywood may be innocent of the charges against him, but the wrong kind of a man is attempting to play Boswell to his Johnson. This figure is used with apologies to both Samuel and John A.

Clamor.

Chicago Evening Post: Former Assistant Attorney General Beck's remarks before the New York University Law school would be more likely to move us if they were themselves not examples of the phenomenon they attack.

Mr. Beck declares that "attempts are being made with increasing frequency to break down or disregard the great constitutional limitations which were designed to safeguard the personal liberties of the citizen." Mr. Beck asseverates that "the reputations of a lifetime are swept away without court or jury, and sometimes without rhyme or reason. Trial by newspaper has nearly supplanted trial by the courts of law. Today the three co-ordinate departments of the government are the executive, the newspaper and the judiciary."

Mr. Beck, horror-stricken and amazed, has gazed upon the spectacle, at Washington and at Albany, of legislators voting "under the lash of public clamor for laws which are revolutionary experiments in state socialism."

These are important allegations, if true. Indeed, they are important allegations though not true, because Mr. Beck is more than a former assistant attorney general. He is a type.

It is true that legislatures vote at the behest of what they assume to be public opinion—sometimes. It is true that that which they take for public opinion in such cases expresses itself in "clamor." But "clamor" is merely excited demand, and Mr. Beck is in the psychological state which produces upon this occasion a very fair specimen of clamor himself.

Clamor is clamor only when it is the clamor of the other fellow. It is an outburst of righteous indignation, when it emanate from one's own lungs.

In fact, the voice of democracy is likely to be clamorous until, by the eve of millennium, all men, editors and former assistant attorney generals alike, have attained that habitual restrain, that openness of mind, that disinterestedness, that faith and hope which make clamor impossible.

But meanwhile we who still believe in democracy and have been in sympathy with its aims, if not always with its means or its manners, will refuse to be terrorized, though upon the head of Mr. Beck and his like each particular hair doth stand on end like quills upon the fretful porpentine. And as to those late events at which Mr. Beck is clamorous, their results must prove themselves the evils he dreams they are before we can join him in his clamor against clamor.

Thresh It Out.

Indianapolis News: In connection with that dollar-wheat scheme it might be worth the while of the American Society of Equity to form an offensive and defensive alliance with the Chicago board of trade—if it is willing to take a chance on being skinned.

LAUGHING GAS.

Philadelphia Ledger: "But," said the lawyer, "don't you think 'steen millions a little high as alimony?"

"High, nothing," responded the fair plaintiff, blithely. "I agree to keep away from him, don't I? Let him pay for his luxuries."

Baltimore American: She—There, you are so far out of your way by stopping to help me. You have lost fully a mile in your auto match.

He—Well, I've got you, and a miss is as good as a mile.

Philadelphia Press: "The only decent razor I've got," complained Gabbie, "is getting into very poor condition. I believe it's tired. You know, they say razors get that way."

"Ah, yes," replied Knox, with a yawn, "tired of your chin."

Washington Star: "So you are Ananias!" said the recently arrived shade. "There is a club on earth named after you."

"Yes; I have heard of it. But things have progressed. I don't believe an artless, uncultured prevaricator like myself could qualify for membership in it."

Chicago Record-Herald: "I can't understand why you say Washingham is enterprising. He has never succeeded at anything."

"But he has failed at more than forty things."

Washington Herald: "Ah!" said the doctor, "nervous dyspepsia. Is it a case of long standing?"

"Yes," replied the patient, "that may have something to do with it."

"What do you mean?"

"Long standing. I'm a motorman."

Cleveland Leader: "There is no such thing as perfection," observed Mr. De Lush.

"You're right," answered Mr. McSosh. "Even the best whisky, I understand, is more than 50 per cent water."

Chicago Tribune: "There never was a time in my life, fellow citizens," exclaimed the candidate, "when I hadn't the courage to call a spade a spade!"

"Yes," spoke up an old farmer in the audience, "and there never was a time in your life when you had the courage to take one in your hand!"

Baltimore American: Nell (scornfully)—I wouldn't marry a nonentity.

Belle (loftily)—My fiance, I would have you know, is a man of great deeds.

Nell—Indeed! What kind?

Belle (triumphantly)—Title deeds.

West Duluth Tennis Club Is Negotiating for Grounds.

Other News From the Western End of the City.

The fine June days have made the members of the West Duluth Tennis club restless, and something will undoubtedly be done soon that the wielders of the racquet may get into action. The officers of the club are negotiating for the leasing of a plot of ground and the installation of courts as soon as possible, and before the end of the month it is expected the grounds will be secured and ready for play.

It is not expected the grounds at Fifty-first avenue west and Ramsey street, formerly used by the club, will be available again this year. The officers have several other sites in view, on which longer leases can be secured, and where there will be no danger of the club being disturbed in the middle of the season by an order to vacate.

One of those sites will be settled upon as soon as the officers are able to weigh all considerations. The cost of installing the court and improving the grounds will be determined, after which a meeting will be called and the contract let.

The members of the club are chafing under the enforced inactivity, and any steps which will give them a court will be heartily agreed upon. There are few private courts in West Duluth, and in this weather the tennis players are anxious to get into action.

Will Discuss Poll Tax.

It is expected the proposed levying of a poll-tax on all citizens not paying personal or real estate tax will come up again for consideration at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club tomorrow night. Secretary Cruikshank of the club was instructed at the meeting last Friday evening to confer with the city attorney on the powers of the city to levy a poll-tax, and the method of procedure in such cases. It is expected that Mr. Cruikshank will be ready to report tomorrow evening, and a discussion of further steps to be taken by the club will probably result.

Tuesday evening of this week, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Haller entertained at cards at their home on Central avenue. The evening was very pleasantly spent by the guests. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. R. J. W. H. Northmore, president of the G. A. M. B. A. Y. C., has announced the appointment of the following committees to take charge of arrangements for the annual meeting of the order, which will be held in Duluth June 29 and 30:

Boulevard drive—H. Hurdon, chairman; S. F. McLeod, T. Moore.

Arrangements for the big event are running along smoothly, and the indications are that a record-breaking crowd will be in attendance. This will be the third meeting of the club, and the other two were such very great successes that everybody who can will make it a point to attend the one this month. Local members are hoping the present spell of good weather will hang on until the end of the month, or if there is any rain stored up where it is liable to leak out, that it will fall before June 29.

Practically every railroad of any importance in the country will be represented at the gathering. The membership of the club is made up for the most part of railroad representatives in Chicago, the Twin Cities and Duluth, but smaller towns at intermediate points contribute a good many members. The Isle Royale trip will prove a popular feature this year, and already numerous reservations on the steamer America have been made. The boat will leave Duluth Saturday evening, June 29, returning Monday morning, about 6 o'clock, so those going along will lose no time, so far as working days are concerned.

AFFAIRS SETTLED.

Details of Adjustment of Pere Marquette Matter Announced.

New York, June 20.—J. P. Morgan & Co. yesterday announced the details of the settlement of affairs of the Pere Marquette Railroad company.

The adjustment centers chiefly about the preferred stock, which as at present constituted, is not preferred as to assets. A large number of the preferred shareholders have agreed to subscribe to $5,000,000 five year 6 per cent debenture notes to the extent of 50 per cent of their holdings.

These notes are to provide for the payment of the company's floating debt to a similar amount, which is at present outstanding in the form of receivers' certificates. In return the preferred shareholders are to receive a new issue of preferred stock, with a bonus of new stock amounting to 15 per cent of their holdings. The new stock will be preferred as to assets and will be cumulative as to dividends of 4 per cent three and one-half years from next July.

The Pere Marquette has at present outstanding $16,000,000 in common stock and $12,000,000 in preferred. The terms of the settlement amount practically to an assessment of 50 per cent on the preferred shares. But in return for this assessment every holder of 100 shares of preferred, on payment of $5,000 obtains $5,000 in notes and 115 shares in new preferred stock.

It is stated that the Pere Marquette stockholders have furthermore agreed to cancel the lease of the road by the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad. This relieves the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton from paying the guaranteed dividends of the Pere Marquette common and preferred stocks.

When the stockholders at their next meeting vote in favor of this plan, the Pere Marquette will be taken from the hands of the receiver. It is reported that the Morgan interests will then make it a local Michigan company, to be run independently with several Michigan capitalists elected to the board.

INDUSTRIAL PEACE MEET

Will be Held in San Francisco July 18, 19 and 20.

San Francisco, June 20.—A call for a national industrial peace conference to meet in this city in July has been issued by the conciliation committee of San Francisco, with, it is said, the encouragement of President Roosevelt. The committee expects that this national conference will effect a condition of permanent industrial peace in this city, show to the East that the labor conditions here are not entirely hopeless, and that the rumors that the "town is to be tied up" are false. The provisional dates for the meeting are July 18, 19 and 20.

At this gathering it is proposed to organize a branch of the National Civic federation. The gathering will be attended by three members of President Roosevelt's cabinet, and by 1,200 delegates from California and the East. Many labor leaders are expected to be present, including Samuel Gompers and John Mitchell.

The cabinet members whose attendance is assured, are Metcalf, Straus and Garfield.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Prisoner Forgets Professed Ignorance of English—Found Guilty.

Charles Novack Fined for Stealing Drink of Whiskey.

A moment of forgetfulness sufficed to insure the conviction of Erick Mattson in municipal court this morning on a disorderly conduct charge. The evidence which fastened the crime of hurling a rock through the window of one of the resorts on St. Croix avenue upon him was rather weak, and would have been insufficient to insure his conviction, had he not forgotten himself and fallen down badly on a bluff he was playing.

Mattson tried to dodge being put on the stand and questioned by professing a complete ignorance of the English language, and upholding Polish as the only tongue in which he could convey his thoughts. After considerable delay a Pole who knew English was discovered, and the case went on. The evidence submitted, while it rather implicated Mattson, was far from sufficient that he was the man who hurled the rock, and a discharge was expected by all in the court room.

A sharp question from Judge Windom was Mattson's undoing, however.

"How long have you been here?" demanded the judge sharply, close to the prisoner's ear.

"Oh, about t'ree mont,'" responded Mattson, forgetting his ignorance of the language.

"Thought you didn't know English," asked the court.

Mattson stammered and colored and then tried to explain himself, but only made matters worse by saying in good English that he could speak a little but couldn't understand.

"Guilty," said Judge Windom, and he then imposed a fine amounting to $13.36.

Charged with having stolen some shaving materials, one razor, a shaving mug, brush and strop, as well as "15 cents worth of good rye whisky," as the complaint read, from his roommate in a Bowery lodging house, Charles Novack was this morning sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs in the municipal court. Novack said that Stefanich, his roommate, had borrowed $1 of him, and he only took the articles as security. The judge offered to let him off if he would return the whisky, but Novack couldn't produce it.

FIND FLOATER IN RED RIVER

Unidentified Body of Man, Badly Decomposed, Taken Out.

Moorhead, Minn., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Coroner Vincent and a jury are looking into the grim discovery made Wednesday in the Red river by J. L. Otterson, a farmer living on the Minnesota side, when the badly decomposed body of a man was found entangled in the drift wood at the Broadway bridge, north of the city, in about two feet of water.

The body was that of a large man, over six feet tall, of middle age, with slightly gray whiskers. He wore corduroy trousers and sheepskin moccasins encased in heavy overshoes. He wore no coat. In his pockets the only things found were an Elgin watch and two pocket knives. There was absolutely no clue to his identity. It is not known however, that it is not the body of Leonard Holm of Felton, who is missing. After considering the case a short time the jury decided to adjourn until 8 o'clock Thursday evening, so as to allow the knowledge of the finding of the body to become publicly known, and thereby possibly bring inquiries which might lead to identifying the remains.

It was necessary to bury the body at once, as it was in bad condition.

ESTIMATES FOR TWELFTH AVENUE

Engineer Figures That Paving Will Cost $11,972.

The board of public works has begun its examination of the petition for the improvement of Twelfth avenue east, and should it prove to be sufficient to secure the ordering of the paving along the street, there may be some warm discussion in the council next Monday evening. The engineer's estimate on the cost of the job was submitted to the board this morning. For a 24-foot roadway, from London road to Fourth street, approximately five blocks, with a sandstone curbing, the estimate of the cost is $11,972.

This morning three more signatures were added to the list of the kickers against the improvement, in addition to those which were included in the petitions submitted to the council last Monday night, and it is said that if the board finds the petition sufficient and reports in this way to the council Monday, there will be a delegation of the kickers there who will attempt to block the ordering of the work. They claim that the avenue is not in need of paving as yet, and that the traffic over it does not warrant the work being done.

A GREAT DAY FOR SOCIETY

Enormous Gathering at Ascot to See the Races.

Ascot, Eng., June 20.—This was the greatest day, socially, of the Ascot meeting. King Edward, Queen Alexandra, the prince and princess of Wales, and Prince and Princess Andrew of Greece went in state procession to the field. The weather was perfect and most of London society and many visiting Americans were in the royal enclosure. The display of handsome, gay colors surpassed former years.

The race for the gold cup valued at 500 sovereigns, with 3,500 sovereign specie in addition, for entire colts and fillies, two and a half miles, resulted in a dead heat between the duke of Grammont's Elder and Colonel Kirkwoods' The White Knight. J. A. de Rothschild's Beppo was third. Nine horses started.

The femorial stakes, of 10 sovereigns each, with 1,000 sovereigns added, seven furlongs and 192 yards, was won by Sancy; Polar Star second; Camlarg third.

The all-aged stakes, six furlongs, was won by Beckett; Bon Marche second; Desca third.

Prince William led until seven furlongs from home when Elder pulled away from the White Knight, who challenged on the stretch. The struggle resulted in a dead heat but an objection entered against Elder on the ground of bumping ond boring was sustained and the White Knight was awarded the race.

MISTAKE IS CLAIMED

Sarah Boley Sues C. A. Congdon for Reconveyance of Title.

Claims She Relied Too Much on Representations of Agents.

Claiming that she deeded away a strip of her land in East Duluth division of the city under the impression that she was simply removing a cloud from the title of adjoining property, Mrs. Sarah Boley has instituted a suit in the district court against Chester A. Congdon to have the title reconveyed and to recover her costs and disbursements. The papers in the action have been filed by Baldwin, Baldwin & Dancer, Mrs. Boley's attorneys.

Mrs. Boley, in her complaint, alleges that she was the owner of lot 15 and all that part of lot 14, block 38, East Duluth, which lies north and west of the right-of-way of the Duluth & Iron Range Railway company.

She alleges that Sept. 18, 1906, Mr. Congdon, acting through Little & Nolte, his agents, sought from her a quit claim deed to the lots mentioned, together with lots 10, 11, 12 and 13, which were represented to have been conveyed by her to Mr Congdon at a previous date.

Mrs. Boley alleges that Little & Nolte represented to her that in the former deeds she had intended to convey all of her interest in the described property, but that a question had arisen since the execution of the deed as to the exact line of the right-of-way of the Duluth & Iron Range Railway company across the lots mentioned, and that the true line of the right-of-way might be either two feet north or two feet south of the supposed true line.

Mrs. Boley claims representation was made to her that she did not really own any part of lots 14 and 15, and that the execution and delivery of a quit claim deed of the whole property to Mr. Congdon would have no other effect than to remove the doubt as to the true line of the right-of-way, and would not convey any property which she might own or claim to own.

Mrs. Boley claims that she relied on the alleged representations and executed the deed for the nominal sum of $25, the deed being recorded in the usual manner.

She claims that since the execution of the deed, both herself and Mr. Congdon have discovered that, through a mutual mistake, the deed conveyed from her to Mr. Congdon a strip of land two feet wide along the right-of-way, that is worth several hundred dollars. She claims that Mr. Congdon's agents have admitted the mistake, in writing, but that the defendant has refused her requests to reconvey the title and asserts that she has no right or title to the land.

He said: "Franklin threatened to kill me several times, I shot him in self-defense. He charged me with improper relations with his wife, which is a lie. KNOWING TOO MUCH.

Old Man Greenhut Proves His Theorie About Draw Poker.

New York Sun: "There is them," said old man Greenhut thoughtfully, as he looked at Joe Bassett, "what reckons they knows it all. You can't tell 'em nothin', an' when they 'm wrong, like they most gen'ly is, there ain't nothin' 't'll prove it to 'em short o' gettin' cracked on the nut hard enough for to put 'em where they won't never know nothin' no mo'.

"I knowed a man, name o' Rathbun, over in Green county, some years ago, 't made out he knowed all about mules.

"I says to him one day, I says: 'Rathbun, you sure do go too fur,' I says, 'when you claim fer to know it all, special in ref'rence to mules, which is ordained by a all-wise Providence for to upset whatever you'se a-reck'nin' on, don't make no difference what 'tis.'

"But he wouldn't listen. He says: 'Come 'round to my stable, Greenhut. I've got a mule there 't I want to show you. I bought him f'r almost nothin', beln' as he's got a bad name. He won't kick, but he's bit three niggers nigh fatal, an' they say he can't be kep'tied up. When I seen him I knowed what the trouble was, so I bought him, an' he's as gentle as a kitten now 't I've took care of him f'r a week. There is mules 't has to be licked like blazes, an' there is them 't shouldn't be beat. Some hain't no onderstandin' an' some you c'n reason with. Now, they'd made a mistake with this one, an' beat him when he wanted to be coaxed, so, beln' some high-sperrited, he nachully bit. He's playful, too, an' I ain't sure but what some o' the bitin' was meant f'r a joke. Just come 'round an' see what a change I've made into him in a week.'

"Well, I went with him, but while we was on the way I tried to teach him somepin. 'This yere mule may be trained, all right,' I says, 'but he's a mule. He's liable to do somepin' you ain't lookin' for.'

"But Rathbun wouldn't listen. He capered along to the stable, like he was goin' to show me a blue elephant, an' me with him, some interested. When he opened the door that mule stood munchin' his barley, contented as you please, in his stall, but he looked 'round, kind o' laughin' like, when Rathbun stepped in. Then, mighty sudden, 'thoughten a word o' warnin', he reached out his off hind leg, 'fore Rathbun had got nigher'n about eight foot f'm the stall, an' give him a rap side o' the head 't sent him all in a heap ag'in the side o' the barn. He never moved, an' when I got to him he were stone dead."

Joe Bassett was not the only listener, though he was, perhaps, the most interested, since it was told as a sort of reprimand for a declaration that the big sheriff had boastfully made that "no yap f'm up St. Francis way c'd come to town an' raise ructions, not while I m 'round."

Inasmuch as old man Greenhut was an avowed admirer of Bassett's prowess, it had been a little surprising to the others to hear the rebuke, and Jake Winterbottom, Sam Pearsall, Jim Blaisdell and Pete Kenney had also listened in some surprise, and, it must be said, with an air of not being thoroughly convinced.

Jake Winterbottom spoke first. "I don't see's you're trumpin' in or followerin' suit, Greenhut," he said. "Fur as this yere Rathbun is c'nccrned, 'pears like he didn't know so very much about mules, nohow, f he didn't reckon a mule's leg to be more'n eight feet long. More'n that, 'tain't certain but what the mule meant for to be playful. 'Pears like your story don't prove nothin', but 's fur's Joe bein' able to handle a yap f'm St. Francis, I reckon there ain't no argyment comin'."

There was a general murmur of approval, though no one felt called on to add to Winterbottom's remarks, and old man Greenhut looked inquiringly around from one to another. Seeing that they all appeared to be of one mind, he shook his head slowly and somewhat sadly.

Going to his favorite chair by the window, he put his feet on the sill and smoked for a long time in silence. Then he said, "Minds me o' Dave Dutton. There wa'n't no more promisin' youngster in Mississippi, on'y he had the same wailin' as some has, o' knowin' too much, an' it kind o' spiled him some.

"When he growed up, not feelin' 't he had no call f'r farmin' an' beln' some prejudiced about liquor, he decided to take up cards, so I says to him how it was some risky. 'O 'course it's good business,' I says, 'if it's follered rigat, but, there's a heap o' players 't goes broke.'

"He was cocky, though, like I said, an' he on'y laughs, 'Trouble with 'em,' he says, 'they don't know the game. I'm going' to study poker,' he says, 'til I know it from Genesis to Omega. If a man knows it all there ain't no such thing as gettin' the best of him.'

"An' I says, 'Dave, that's blasphemious. The good Lord never intended for a man to know all about draw pokar. You may learn a heap, an' I don't make no doubt you will, but you can't never learn it all.'

"But he on'y laughed ag'in, an' he says, 'I reckon I c'n do it.' An' he practised on his neighbors 'round Greenville till he sure was the best poker player in them parts. Then he took to the boats.

Then the old man turned his attention again to his cigar and smoked so long in silence that Joe Bassett at length said impatiently: "Well, what happened him? Did he make good or didn't he? What's all this about, anyway?"

"I haint never heer'd," said old man Greenhut. "He was doin' well the last I knowed. O' course he'll be come up with some time."

The sheriff spat on the floor. "Let's liquor," he said. "I've got to have somepin' to take the taste o' this outer my mouth."

There was a procession to the bar and the liquor was produced at the sheriff's expense. As the last man was pouring it into his glass the door opened and a good looking middle aged man stepped in and looked around inquiringly. Joe Bassett, seeing that he was a stranger, said heartily: "We uns was just takin' a drink. Won't you jine us? Pleased to have you."

"Thanks," said the stranger. "I don't care if I do," and then after that round had been disposed of he proved his knowledge of the etiquette governing the occasion.

By the time the second round was put away old man Greenhut's face cleared up. He had been watching the stranger with a look of perplexity, but suddenly he said: "I reckon I've saw you afore, stranger. 'Pears to me like you come f'om Green county, Mississippi, an' your name's Dave Dutton."

The stranger said he was right. After a little conversation he remembered Greenhut and expressed his pleasure at making the acquaintance of the others present.

After the acquaintanceship had been qualified with two or thre additional libations Jake Winterbottom said: "Likely I ain't mistook none when I take you f'r a man as I've heer'd on, name o' Dutton, what plays poker consid'able on the boats?"

Then, when Dutton had admitted that he was probably right, the veteran continued: "They do say as how you know a heap bout draw poker, an' if that's so I'm powerful glad you happened in. We uns plays same, an' takes some pride into our game, but we uns always glad to play with a man 't knows it all. There's a heap to learn f'm sich."

Even this the stranger accepted without seeming to perceive the irony, and complacently agreed when a six handed game was proposed. Accordingly, the entire party, excepting Greenhut, adjourned to the back room.

There was $90 in chips on the table and the game was table stakes, but for the first thirty minutes there was nothing notable.

Then Dutton opened a jackpot for the size of it under the guns and Winterbottom, sitting next, raised it $10. Bassett laid down and so did Kenney and Blaisdell, but Pearsall, the dealer, came back with $10 more.

Dutton studied his hand a while, but presently made good without raising. Winterbottom saw Pearsall's raise, going no further.

On the draw Dutton took two cards, Winterbottom three and Pearsall two. Dutton threw in a white chip and Winterbottom shoved $40 forward. At this Pearsall dropped and Dutton unhesitatingly threw down his cards. He had three fives. "I ain't playin' three fives ag'in three aces," he said, coolly.

"How 'd know I had three aces?" asked Winterbottom, as he raked in the pot.

"Well, I reckoned you wouldn't 'a' raised on less'n aces afore the draw, an' you took three cards. Then, you wouldn't 'a' raised ag'in two two card draws 'thoughten' you'd caught another."

"Shucks!" said Winterbottom, admiringly. "You sure do onderstand the game admirable. 'Pears like we c'd learn cerebly if we was to play with you in the game right along."

Dutton seemed pleased by the flattery. He did not realize, however, that Blaisdell was the most accomplished dealer in the Mississippi valley and was watching him closely. He said nothing, but in some way his friends seemed to know what he thought of the dealing, and one after another they all threw down their hands, until the dealer and Winterbottom, who had made the ante, were alone.

Dutton looked a little surprised, but he came in, ready to play even against one opponent. Winterbotton, however, pushed the blind over to him, saying, "I reckon I'll jack you. I ain't stuck on playin' ag'in one." So a jack it was.

The pot was sweetened on the three succeeding deals, and then Blaisdell dealt. After what he had seen Dutton do he had no conscientious scruples. Consequently there were some choice hands held.

Pearsall opened, seeing that it was hardly possible to do less on a flush, and Dutton raised it $25. Thereupon Winterbottom and Bassett dropped, but Kenney and Blaisdell stayed and Pearsall made it $25 more.

Dutton pushed his whole stack forward. At this Kenney dropped, Blaisdell carried the bet and Pearsall folded.

"How many cards?" said Blaisdell, but Dutton said, "Help yourself," and Blaisdell put the deck aside, leaving nothing to be done but a showdown. Dutton's was a straight flush, nine high, and Blaisdell's was a straight flush ten, high.

"Mebbe I hain't learned all there is to know about draw poker," said the victim, as he rose to go, "but I know enough not to play any more with this crowd. I ain't sayin' nothin' agin your manner o' dealin', but you're too all fired lucky f'r me." And he went away.

"You was sayin' this here man 'd get come up with some time, Greenhut," said Joe Bassett, mockingly. "How about it? D'you reckon losin' a hundred is beln' come up with?"

And when Greenhut shook his head Winterbottom said: "I reckon mebbe he knows more'n he thinks he does. I had a pair o' kings that time he sized me f'r three aces, an' I didn't better."

WORSHIPPERS CARRY FIRES.

Tit Bits: While seeing many people leaving the cathedral I entered to look around the interior of the fine chancel. Inside I saw numbers of men carrying huge wicker baskets filled with triangular earthenware dishes in each of which still smouldered some glowing embers in a bed of white ash. These they carried into the cloisters and emptied solemnly into great metal gins.

On re-entering the building the secret stood revealed. Owing to the extreme cold each member of the congregation hires for a doppeltjer, or the sum of 2d., an earthern dish with a block of glowing peat to put under the little wooden perforated footstools with which each chair is provided.

MONTE CARLO.

People Who Never Gamble Are Impelled to Play.

The fascination of Monte Carlo is undoubted; it even holds sway over the most austere anti-gambler. Men there are who have never been attracted by race meetings and have never registered a single bet; and yt have felt drawn toward Monte Carlo. There is something in the air, some secret charm that marks it from every other place where they gamble, says the Atlantic Cinstitution.

Why? Well; I think principally because it is El Dorado to most people; it conjures up the vision of wealth beyond the dreams of avarice. The thought of what a successful "coup" may do for you is sufficient to make the heart go quicker, to send the blood coursing through the veins in a tinge of excitement and anticipation. You have only to find the number, or a combination of numbers, three, four, or five times, and the whole of your holiday expenses are paid—how much more depends, of course upon your stake—and presently you have in your possession more money; in one great glittering heap, than you have earned by the preceding twelve months' labor. Is not that exciting? Does it not keep you on the tenterhooks of excitement?

I have revisitetd Monte Carlo these last few days—after an absence of some years—and I want to express my emotions. Much, very much, has been written of the metropolis of roulette, but most of the descriptions are inadequate and misleading. Then, too, there is one's mental picture of the place, founded on what one reads and imagines a gambling palace to be. Most people, I think, suppose the Casino of the little principality to be standing liftily in its own grounds, perched in solitary grandeur upon a promontory jutting far out into the blue Mediterranean.

But it is not so at all. The Casino stands high upon a cliff overlooking the sea, but so does the whole of the town. The gardens are by no means spacious. The famous terrace is a comparatively narrow strip, fronting the sea—this terrace upon which the suicides (such as there are) occur under the cold stars of heaven and to the soft murmur of the Mediterranean. It is a pretty garden, set with trees and shrubs and winding path or two, but it is not those deep, mysterious recesses with which popular imagination has endowed it.

Neither is the gambling house set upon a lonely hill; it is flush with the street; in front of it are restaurants, and flanking it, are hotels. A mob of pigeons fly about it, as if it were the royal exchange. In a sense it is, no doubt, for you can exchange your wealth for counters.

Before the Cote d'Azur rapide thundered into Monte Carlo with me amongst its passengers I had fondly imagined a wild scene of gaiety in the rooms, of the strenuous life of excitement on the very strenuous pitch. I had imagined Parisian cocottes in surprising hats and amazingly low-necked dresses. I had certainly expected to hear peals of strident laughter from painted Jezebels in the intervals of ogling men and stealing their winnings, there would be smoking, of course, by the two sexes, and every one would wear a desperate and feverish, if not a villainous air—the sinister glare of vultures busy with the carcass, or the dreadful look of the hunted beast.

All this I have certainly read about in the novels of the day, but what I saw was quite different. The whole atmosphere of the casino is solemn to a degree. You feel yo uare in a salon, not in a mere gaming place—a "place," aure the meaning of the act—and with the ceremoniousness of some old city bank about it. You are not admitted until you have produced your card. It is carefully scrutinized, and, if the result is satisfactory, a hexagonal pasteboard is presented to you authorizing you to enter and lose your money—as you are bound to do if you stay there long enough. Most people hope to get away before that happens.

They are very particular about your appearance; there must be no mud on your shoes, and your trousers must not be turned up. I suppose this latter rule had strictly to do with appearances until an old "habitue" enlightened me. "It is to prevent coins from being secreted," he said; "it is so easy to drop a coin down in the turned-up part." For the same reason, one cannot take in a hat or umbrella; both can so readily be converted into a money box.

Notices are prominently displayed intimating that tickets of admission can be withheld or taken away without any reason being given.

Having successfully obtained the ticket you pass into a solemn-looking hall, set with columns, and discreetly lighted from above. This might be the entrance to Lloyd's, or any great commercial institution in this country. It is eminently somber, respectable, and low-toned. With coat and hat deposited in the "vestiare" —they thoughtfully make no charge for this accommodation, so that if you lose your money you can still recover your chattels—you pass through green baize doors into the "salone des jeux."

It might be a tennis match that people are looking at; they are not more excited, outwardly, at least, than that. Some sit around the tables, others form an upright fringe. I expected to see wild plunging; except at the trente te quarante table there was practically no high play. The five-franc piece is the Monte Carlo unit at roulette. Only one or two players at a table will put their hundred francs or a thousand upon one number, or upon two. The great majority tempt fortune with five or ten francs or, at most, with a louis. No one appears to be unduly excited, or to take the adverse rulings of fate too much to heart.

The fact is, gambling at Monte Carlo is much less dangerous than in many other circumstances. It is ready-money betting. You cannot gamble away your next year's income or your patrimony because such assets as cheques and promissory notes are not considered at Monte Carlo. It is money down, and none other is accepted.

The real danger of the littoral is not Monte Carlo, but the multitude of so-called private gambling clubs, which have sprung up at Nice and elsewhere. The government has made efforts to suppress these "tripods" where cheating of the most outrageous sort goes on, but such pressure has been put upon the police that they have been obliged to desist. In consequence these spurious clubs—admission to which is the merest formality—flourish like the green bay tree. Deplorable are the results.

Local tradesmen; who are debarred entrance at Monte Carlo by the regulations, join these gambling clubs, which have merely to make a formal declaration to the Prefect to be immediately licensed for their nefarious operations. Often a villa is hired for the express purpose of turning it into a club. The public is attracted thereto and is speedily plucked of its capital. Bankruptcy follows. Many of these Southern resorts could tell a melancholy tale of residents ruined by the fatal green cloth spread for them in "sol-disant" private, social institutions. "Anti-social" would be nearer the correct label.

Monte Carlo on the contrary, is a place where one goes with the deliberate intention of risking a certain amount of capital on the tables. The great majority of people make the calculation beforehand: "I can afford to lose such and such a sum;" hence they are not tragically affected when they los eit.

There are of course, cases of the wildest plunging, but generally the player has lost the greater part of his money elsewhere, and he goes to the principality as a last resoucre.

EVA BOOTH'S POLICEMAN.

Hugh C. Weir, in The World Today: "You are under arrest! You are disturbing the peace!" snarled a policeman breaking off her first prayer in the streets of London. She was still in her early 'teens, a slight slip of a girl with no means of resistance, and, as the bullying officer tightened his grip on her arm, she was dragged shrinkingly with him.

But the action aroused the sympathies of the rough crowd as a lighted match fires a keg of powder. In an instant the policeman and his prisoner were surrounded, and, before the officer could raise his voice he was beaten to the pavement under a shower of fists.

It was the girl prisoner who, forgetting his rough grip and the cell to which he would have dragged her, appealed to the throng in his defense. When the crowd finally retreated the policeman was groaning with two broken legs and a mass of bruises from head to foot.

For weeks the little girl in the big Army bonnet paid faithful visits to the helpless man in the hospital, and, when he was released, a warmer friend Eva Booth and her cause could not have found in all England. To this day she receives letters in a rough scrawling hand, signed simply, "Your policeman."

TWO YEARS OLD,

But Not A "Little One"

It's two years to-day since the Columbia Clothing Co. superseded the former "Great Eastern", and the advertising man feels like writing what newspapers call a "puff."

When we entered the flourishing field of mercantile activity in the Zenith City, we told you, "Watch us grow!" If you did watch us, you may have noticed that our methods have somewhat revolutionized the entire clothing business of Duluth. Simply because these methods are simple. Too simple for "Get-rich-quick" concerns and too plain for fakes and fakirs.

Good merchandise and plenty of it—moderate profits on single sales and many of them—competent, first-class salesmen—perfect store service—liberal treatment of all customers and no special privileges to any—strictly the same price for all comers and advertising that tells "the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

That is all!

Merit wins.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

GIANTS WIN GOOD GAME

The Two Copper Country Teams Played in Duluth.

Kaiser is Wild, and the Giants Win Out, 7 to 6.

About 300 disinterested fans yesterday enjoyed the novelty of a game between two teams, neither of which represented Duluth. And they saw good baseball. The Calumet and Houghton aggregations engaged in glorious combat for nine innings and not until the Giants sent a man across the plate in the ninth was the result of the game certain.

Bill Kaiser, loaned to Calumet by Houghton, pitched against his former team-mates. He was shooting them over like cannonballs and they were breaking beautifully, but he had no more idea where they were going than if the ball were a piece of paper flying before the wind. He walked seven men in the nine innings and, with the ten hits the Giants banged out, they were enough to win the game. The Aristocrats played well behind Kaiser, who made the only error himself, and they did valiant work with the stick, but the wildness of the big fellow defeated him.

Pitted against Kaiser was Christy Egan, who went into the box without warming up and didn't have very much. He was rather easy for the Aristocrats, who bumped him for twelve hits and only beautiful fielding behind him saved him a couple of times. He seemed to work well in pinches, though, and except in the fourth inning kept the hits well scattered.

Houghton took a couple right on the jump. Sundheim walked and Brand was hit by a pitched ball. Olson singled and Sundheim scored, Brand scoring a moment later on a wild pitch.

But nine Calumet men faced Egan in the first three innings, but in the fourth, they got to him with a vengeance. Taylor and Oriet singled and Taylor scored, when Kid Taylor fumbled Wallace's grounder. Oriet and Wallace pulled off a double steal, Oriet scoring. Dolan and Lewis followed with singles, Wallace and Dolan registering. The next three men went down.

Houghton tied it up in their part of the fourth. Laughlin and Taylor singled and scored on Sundheim's two sacker after two were out. Calumet took the lead again in the fifth, a base on balls, Taylor's error and Wallace's single scoring one. In the fifth, Houghton added two to their score. Brand being hit by the pitcher, Solbraa and Taylor bingling and Laughlin drawing a pass to turn the trick.

The score went along that way until the eighth, when Biddy Dolan, the first man up in the inning, lifted one over the left field fence for a homer.

A Calumet man was nabbed at the plate in the ninth and it looked very much like extra innings, but Kaiser was his own undoing. He walked Sundheim and Brand in succession, Olson laid down a very pretty sacrifice to send them along and Meyers bunniped out a single for the winning score.

TWO BOATS ABOUT EVEN.

Marblehead and Chewink VIII Lead in Trials.

Marblehead, Mass., June 20.—The latest wonder class creations came nearer expectations yesterday in the second series of trials for the selection of three American challengers for the German emperor's cup. Still the racing conditions, at least in one of the three events, were scarcely satisfactory owing to the light and fickle winds, and the committee will hold another series of races today for some of the boats for the purpose of obtaining further data.

The victors in the three races yesterday were the Marblehead, built this year for W. H. Joyce and S. H. Proctor and sailed by the latter, and the Chewink VIII, another new boat, owned and sailed by F. G. Macomber, Jr.

The Marblehead won the two races over triangular courses, while the Chewink VIII captured the windward and leeward affair. Taking into account the places in which the seven yachts have finished in the six races they have been sailed, the Marblehead and Chewink VIII are now on even terms with sixteen points each.

"RENDER UNTO CAESAR."

Sawyer Won Both Games of the Double Header Monday.

Newspaper correspondents in Winnipeg evidently work on the theory that "When you don't know the facts, send something," judging by the manner in which the recent games between Duluth and Winnipeg in the Canadian city were covered for Duluth papers.

Tuesday, the Duluth papers were furnished with a story to the effect that Terry had pitched and won both games of a double header against the White Sox. When the official score comes along, it reveals the fact that Sawyer had pitched both games for the Maroons. Instead of Cummings pitching in both games for the Sox, Haney worked in the first and Cummings in the second.

Yesterday, the fans of Duluth were puzzled over the identity of the new pitcher, Creighton, who had been on the Maroons in the final game of the series. They were all anxious to see him that they may judge whether or not he is an improvement on the other pitchers. "Mr. Creighton" translated into the United States spells "Josie Krick." Creighton sounded much more euphonious to the Canadian correspondent than the proper name of the smiling boy, so he suited his own fancy and tacked the high-sounding cognomen to Josie.

That correspondent might do better covering Sunday school picnics. Accuracy is one of the prime requisites of efficient newspaper work and the fans like to know who is pitching, at least, before three or four days have elapsed. The correction is made that Sawyer may be given his due and "Mr. Creighton" may be shown up in his true colors.

Both teams played good ball.

• • •

Copper country teams are well matched.

• • •

But they're not in the class with Winnipeg and Duluth.

Sox are back on their own lot for a long stay, beginning today.

• • •

Calumet is the first victim to fall before Smith's men. Houghton and Winnipeg later.

• • •

Houghton looks good to get away with a few from the 'Peggers, anyway, and the Sox should slaughter Calumet all the way through.

• • •

And there's no Mr. Creighton after all. He's plain Josie Krick. Josie always did have it in for the Maroons.

• • •

Calumet and Houghton have stronger lineups than on their last trip. Calumets' new men are McMorey, Wallace, Ryan and Lewis. Houghton has Ducky Stewart, Billy Brand and Cy Laughlin.

• • •

"Slim" Lewis, in center field for Calumet, is the streak who captained and pitched for the University of Wisconsin a couple of seasons, a few years ago. Lewis is fast on his feet, and can cover a lot of territory in center field. He is strong on laying them down and racing with the ball for first. He gathered four hits yesterday, and three of them were bunts.

• • •

McMorey, the new Calumet catcher, works well. He appears to have a good head and his throwing to second bodes no good to the venturesome base-stealer.

• • •

"Ducky" Stewart is no slouchy backstop either. He's steady, and is an all-around improvement on Gibson, who caught for Houghton early in the season.

• • •

The Houghton infield is strengthened with Brand at second. Brand is one of the cleanest fielders in the league, and Taylor is an improvement over Bitting at short.

• • •

Cy Laughlin, playing center field for Houghton, gave a flash of the form which earned for him the distinction of being the premier outfielder of the league last year. In the fifth inning, with two down and men on second and third, Dolan lifted one far out toward the flag-pole. Without hesitating, Laughlin started to run back, and he grabbed off the fly while going at full speed. It was a great catch, and he drew a hearty hand-clap from the crowd.

• • •

A queer incident came in the first inning yesetrday. Brand was on third base and Olson on second, when Kaiser made a wild pitch. The ball bounded off the stand and back to the catcher before Brand could score, but the Houghton players claimed he should be allowed to score on account of the stand not being ninety feet back of the plate. McGraw couldn't see it that way at first, but when the rule book was brought out, he backed down and allowed Brand to score and Olson to take third.

• • •

Dolan's home run was a beauty, cleaning the fence by a good margin. The hit was the fourth home run of the season, in league games, all going over the left field fence. May 31, Crisp, the Winnipeg catcher, lifted one over and last Friday Al Cummings turned the trick twice in one game.

GOPHERS BEAT CROOKSTON.

Colored Men Had Easy Picking in Game Wednesday.

Crookston, Minn., June 20.—The Colored Gophers of St. Paul gave the Crookston team the worst drubbing yesterday afternoon they have ever received, winning 12 to 1, the lonesome run of the Crooks was made in the last half of the ninth inning with two men out and two strikes on the third man. The first man to bat for the Crooks that inning made a hit, stole second and scored on a fumble by the catcher. The game was so bad that it was good, and the packed grand stand after the first few innings rooted lustily for the colored boys. Score:

Gophers	1 0 6 2 3 0 0 0 0—12	8	2

POISON FOR BARRINGTON.

Sheriff Intercepts Strychnine as It is Sent Through the Mails.

St. Louis, June 20.—A capsule containing strychnine sent through the mails to "Lord" Frederick Seymour Barrington, confined in the Clayton jail awaiting execution on July 25 as the convicted slayer of James P. McCann, was intercepted yesterday by the sheriff.

An envelope marked "Personal" contained the five-grain capsule of strychnine and the following letter:

"Dear Lord Barrington—I have been informed that you are suffering from indigestion. The enclosed capsule will cure you without fail."

The letter was signed with the prefixed title of "doctor," but the name does not appear in the city directory, according to the statement of Sheriff Harpel, who declined to disclose it. The capsule was handed to a doctor to investigate. He gave a small portion of the contents to a cat and the animal died within a few minutes.

WILSON FOR GOVERNOR,

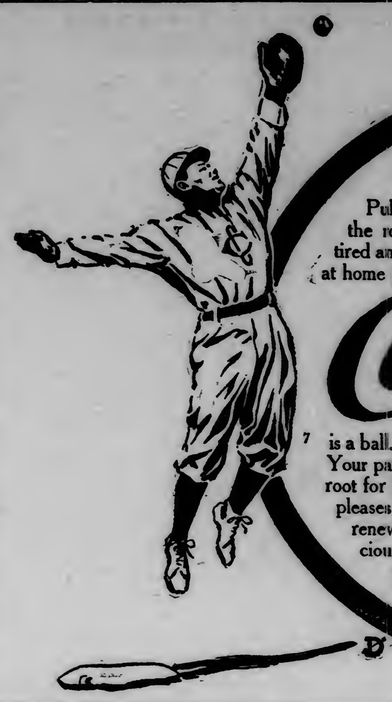

But Kentucky Republicans Express No Preference for Presidential Candidate.

Louisville, Ky., June 20.—After rumors of contests on the floor over the endorsement of a presidential candidate and the local option question, the Republicans of Kentucky in state convention last night selected Hon. Augustus E. Wilson of Louisville as their candidate for governor and adopted their platform without a dissenting voice. The contest between the adherents of Vice President Fairbanks and Secretary of War Taft in committee was warm, but there was but one report, naming no candidate and merely expressing a preference for a candidate who would faithfully carry out President Roosevelt's policy.

SPONGE IN HER BODY

Girl Suffered After An Operation in a Boston Hospital.

Convalesence Led to a Meeting That Resulted in Wedding.

Boston, Mass., June 20.—A surgeon's sponge left in the body of Miss Flora M. Pard, a pretty French girl, after an operation in a Boston hospital, has been the source of all kinds of trouble to that young lady, but has finally resulted in her marriage to Louis Rodderique in Lynn. The case is one of the most unusual ever brought to the attention of doctors, and that it didn't result in her death instead of bringing about her marriage is regarded as a miracle.

Miss Pard, as she was before her marriage, is the daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Pard of Bass Point, Nahant, and is well known among the French families of that town and Lynn. She is 21 years old, of good figure and very prepossessing. Some months ago her health began to fail and it was decided that she had a tumor and that an operation would be necessary to save her life. She went to a Boston hospital, where she was operated on by one of the best surgeons connected with that institution.

After she returned to her home, however, her condition became worse instead of better, and in a short time she was removed to the Lynn hospital. Here Drs. W. E. Little and I. H. Chicoine performed four operations on the girl in hopes of getting at the cause of her trouble. The first three seemed to do no good, and the doctors decided that they had not gone deep enough. During the fourth they made a very exhaustive examination, probing deep, and the result was the discovery of the surgeon's sponge, sewed up at the bottom of the original incision.

When the doctors found this their astonishment knew no bounds, and at first they could hardly believe their eyes. They decided that it should be kept secret, but Miss Pard was coming out of the effects of the ether, and before the doctors supposed she had recovered consciousness she heard them talking about it. Finally the doctors admitted to the young lady's mother, it is said, that they had accidentally found the sponge within her. There is little doubt that this was the cause of her illness and her intensely feverish condition directly after the first operation.

When finally the sponge had been removed, the girl's condition began to improve, but the many operations left her in very weak condition, and she was sent to stay with relatives in Berlin, N. H., in order that she might recuperate. It was during her sojourn there that she met Louis Roderique, of that town. Roderique greatly sympathized with the girl, and devoted much of his time to taking her on carriage drives and long walks, so that she could regain her health. As her condition rapidly improved, he continued his attentions, and finally became her accepted suitor.

Friday was the day set for Miss Pard to return to her mother's home in Nahant, and Roderique decided to return with her. They were married Friday night by Fr. Parent, of the French church in Lynn. They will live for a time in Nahant, and the whole family went to Boston to celebrate the wedding.

Miss Pard had at one time contemplated a lawsuit against the Boston surgeon because of the trouble caused her, but everything has now turned out so well she has decided to drop it. She consulted a lawyer some time ago, but her sister stated yesterday that she would do no more about it. The doctors in the Boston hospital had treated her very kindly during her stay there, the sister said, and leaving the sponge in the wound had been due probably to their overanxiety to perform the operation as quickly as possible. They had done their best to save her life, and now that all had ended well she would do nothing about the matter.

DIED TOGETHER.

Man and Woman Found Dead at Triangle Lake, Near Belleville, Ill.

Belleville, Ill., June 20.—Lying clasped in death embrace on the shore of Triangle Lake, near here, the bodies of James Bullock and Miss Cora Miller were found late yesterday afternoon. In the forehead of each was a bullet hole and the position of the revolver near the bodies indicated that Bullock killed the young woman and ended his own life. A note signed by both stated that they loved each other, but finding their love hopeless had decided to die together. Nearby lay a razor stained with blood. The only wounds on the bodies were the bullet holes in the foreheads, and the police are unable to account for the presence of the bloody razor.

FOR WOMEN WHO LABOR

President McDowell of Chicago University Discusses Subject.

Some Remedies She Proposes to Handle a Difficult Problem.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The thirty-fourth annual conference of Charities and Correction ended impressively at Plymouth church last night. Rev. Dr. Hallock of Plymouth church made the closing address. At its close President Butler introduced the new president, Thomas W. Muiry of New York. Addresses were made by Mary McDowell of the Chicago university settlement and Raymond Robbins of the Chicago tenement house work.

The general consensus of opinion was that this has been one of the most important sessions in the history of the conference. Resolutions were passed thanking Minneapolis for its entertainment.

The problem of women in industry, though not a new one, received serious attention at the session of the national conference of Charities and Correction last evening. Miss Mary E. McDowell, head resident at the Chicago university settlement, which is located in Packingtown, discussed the question of what could be done for or with the normal young working women.

She said in part that since women has entered the world of industry, she competes with man. She helps to flood the labor market with unskilled, unorganized and casual labor. She debases wages, and because she is a woman, the sister, daughter or wife of the workingman, she cannot be fought by militant methods. They expect little, and take whatever compensation is offered them.

At a recent industrial exhibit, held in Chicago, one legend read: "Women have always worked." Even in the dawn time of history, when men did the fighting, the hands of women made the home, secured food, raiment and shelter for the family. At the other extreme of the picture is the sweat-shop worker, with her foot on the treadle of the machine and her thin fingers grinding out the work, oftentimes holding the nursing child at her breast.

Miss McDowell described briefly the work of the women in such industries as kodak factories, twine factories, breweries, tanneries, founderies enameling works, telephone factories and in the packing houses. In fact, she said they are present in practically all industries, except in mining.

Continuing, she said: "Then we know the cities have thousands of women clerks, whose wages do not average as high even as the factory worker, and whose risks are less obvious and more subtle. Their wages vary from $3.50 to $8 a week. They must dress 'like ladies' and act 'like ladies,' which is expensive. If it is an independent working girl, she must dress herself, pay for her room, food, clothes and amusements, all out of $5 per week. She can't do it." The bitter cry from girls who know so would-be reformers is "Do not waste your time on us. Go down town and help raise the wages of the clerks who are trying to live on $5 or less per week." These girls have the same social instincts that all normal girls have. They want a good time, and they need it more than girls of leisure.

The remedies proposed by Miss McDowell were:

First. To gather all the facts about the working and living conditions of wage earning women.

Second. Legislation, prohibiting women from night work, long hours, from working in poisonous atmospheres, or at a speed that dehumanizes the worker.

Three. Technical schools, both public and private, for manual training, teaching of trades and domestic sciences.

Three. Women must be encouraged to organize to protect their own interests.

Miss McDowell suggested that it might be necessary to make a country-wide fight for a constitutional amendment to give helpless women protection from those extravagant claims to "liberty of contract," which no longer exists in reality.

BECHTEL IS FOUND GUILTY

Jury Returns Verdict of Grand Larceny After Long Deliberation.

Minneapolis, June 20.—W F. Bechtel, former president of the Northwestern National Life Insurance company of Minneapolis, was last night found guilty of grand larceny by a jury which had been out for twenty-eight hours. Sentence will be imposed Saturday morning by Judge H. D. Dickinson, at which a motion for stay of sentence pending arguments for a new trial will be made by the defense.

Bechtel was found guilty on an indictment charging that he entered into an illegal agreement with Fred Sackett, former treasurer of the company, whereby Sackett was to pay Rechtel the difference betwen his nominal and his actual salary.

The verdict is one of the last chapters of the sensational insurance scandal which shocked Minneapolis about two years ago, the outcome of which is that Dr. Jacob F. Force is now serving sentence at Stillwater and W. F. Bechtel is awaiting sentence. Indictments are also outstanding against Fred Sackett, former treasurer of the company, and Elmer Dearth, former state insurance commissioners for connection in some of the affairs of the company. Bechtel was acquitted on a former trial of another charge in connection with the company.

S.S.S. RIDS THE SYSTEM OF MALARIA

Malaria is an atmospheric poison which we unconsciously breathe into our system. The blood in its constant passage through the lungs absorbs the germs, and they destroy the rich, red corpuscles of this vital fluid and reduce it to such a weak, watery condition that it is unable to properly nourish the system, and disease gets a foothold. Then the symptoms of Malaria, such as pale, sallow complexions, weak vitality, poor appetite, deranged digestion, and perhaps chills and fever show that the trouble is affecting every part of the body. Malaria also affects the liver, producing a chronic state of biliousness, and often a long spell of fever follows when the blood becomes fully contaminated with the poison. Chronic Sores and Ulcers, boils, aches and pains, and skin affections of various kinds often result from this insidious disease if the poison is allowed to accumulate in the blood in sufficient quantities. Malaria must be removed from the system through the circulation, and for this purpose nothing equals S. S. S. This great remedy goes down into the blood and drives out all germs, microbes and poisons, and permanently cures Malaria, S. S. S. not only cleanses the blood of the cause, but furnishes it with the healthful properties it needs, so that instead of a weak, germ-infected stream, spreading disease throughout the system, it becomes a rich, red fluid, nourishing the body and enabling it to resist disease. S. S. S. is also the greatest of all tonics, and builds up and invigorates the entire system while ridding the blood of the germs of Malaria. Persons who are suffering from Malaria will be pleased with the prompt and pleasant results produced by the use of S. S. S., and can take it with confidence because it is an absolutely safe medicine, being free from harmful minerals of any kind. CHAIRMAN IS CHOSEN

J. B. McLaren Will Officiate at Big Dairy Convention.

Committee in Charge Is Pleased With Interest Manifested.

The arrangements for the big meeting of the dairy and agricultural interests of Duluth and vicinity that will be held in the Commercial club rooms next Thursday afternoon are fast being perfected, and the interest and enthusiasm that is manifested in the event is very encouraging to the local men who have been instrumental in bringing here so many of the best authorities in the country on dairying, stock-raising and agriculture.

J. B. McLaren of this city has been chosen as chairman of the meeting. Mr. McLaren is a breeder of Guernsey cattle and has a dairy farm near Wrenshall, Carlton county, that is considered one of the most advanced of its kind in this part of the country. All the cream produced at Mr. McLaren's farm has a Duluth market.

The committee in charge of the arrangements of which C. P. Craig is chairman, has printed and will begin mailing today several hundred invitations to people interested in dairying and stock-raising in St. Louis and adjoining counties, to attend the meeting. The notices will be sent mostly to farmers living near the range towns and other communities in the county. It is not to be understood, however, that the meeting is a strictly invitation affair. It is free to the public, and everybody who is interested in the development of Northern Minnesota along the lines of dairying, stock-raising, etc., is urged to participate. The committee has been able to secure the names of a number of farmers outside the city who might be interested enough to come if urged, and to these the notices have been sent.

The invitation reads as follows:

"You are hereby invited to attend a public meeting to be held at the Commercial club rooms in this city, Thursday, June 27, at 2 o'clock p. m.

"This meeting will be addressed by the following persons:

"Ex-Governor W. D. Hoard of Fort Atkinson, Wis., the man who has built up the great dairy industry of the state of Wisconsin.

"F. H. Scribner of Rosendale, Wis., the man who knows how, and who has demonstrated that a competency can be acquired by any intelligent man from eighty acres of land devoted exclusively to the dairy business.

"Dr. M. B. Wood of Mankato, Minn., who has repeatedly been selected as the expert judge of dairy cattle at most of the large exhibitions of dairy stock in this country. He will tell us how to select profitable individuals.

"Other authorities of a world-wide reputation will attend this meeting and will participate.

"Come prepared to ask such questions as perplex or trouble you. They will be answered by the highest authority.

"This meeting is called for the purpose of advancing dairy knowledge and is free."

The prominent dairymen and stock-raisers who will speak at the meeting are expected in the city next Wednesday morning. They will be the guests of Duluth friends and will be taken out to the Jean DuLuth stock farm, the Snively farm and the Tritanon stock farm Wednesday forenoon. In the afternoon the visitors will be taken on a trip about the harbor and in the evening they will be entertained at a supper at the Commercial club. The visitors are all men trained along lines of observation, and it is believed that the opportunities that they will have to see some of the stock and dairy farms already started in the county will be of advantage to them in the way of the knowledge that it will give them, together with talks with the local dairymen, of the local situation.

It is hoped and expected that the farmers in the outlying farms will make a special effort to attend the meeting, as the plans for the future contemplate the formation of numerous local associations of dairymen and a united effort toward a practical and progressive education along dairy lines.

THE PIG IRON MARKET DULL

Buyers Indifferent on Orders for Forward Delivery.

New York, June 20.—The Iron Age says: The Milliken failure has been a somewhat pronounced sentimental effect both here and abroad where its significance was not as clearly understood. The fact that the steel plant and rolling mills have been shut down and that the fabricating shop only will be operated to fill contracts, causes some displacements. Another steel plant in this district connected with structural mills has also stopped running. The Milliken shut down has caused the receivers to appear in the market for beams, angles, etc., to carry out contracts and it seems likely the tonnage will go to the Central West.

The pig iron markets are dull throughout the country and in some localities are distinctly weaker and it is particularly the premium of prompt delivery which are affected adversely. For forward delivery sellers are conservative and buyers maintain an attitude of indifference. The foreign markets have declined to the basis at which the Germans have been buyers during recent months in England. It remains to be seen whether now, they will put the peg lower.

Under more liberal offerings by steel works, east and west the steel market has weakened perceptibly. Some outlet has been found to Canada, because the Canadian steel works are unable to take care of the requirements of consumers. Before the end of the month the contract for 71,000 tons of rails for the Grand Trunk Pacific will be given out. This must go to the Canadian works to the extent of their ability to roll them, and therefore there is little chance that any part of it will go to our mills. However it may lead to a further diversion of billet business to this country.

The demand for steel rails for the delivery during 1908 from our own railroads has been to some extent held up owing to the uncertainty as to the new specifications. When that question is settled the problems will need a solution at what advance above the current prices the rail mills will accept the much more onerous conditions.

Thus far lake shipbuilders have booked orders for four boats.

In the lighter branches the volume of business keeps up well. The buying of hoops and bands for fall delivery has started and it is intimated that there may be a moderate advance in cotton ties on July 1. However the bulk of the season's business is now at hand. Among the larger orders recently taken by the makers of merchant pipe is 200 miles of four, six and eight inch line pipe.

The deadlock in the copper market continues.

Exporters of iron and steel deplore the high prices for copper since they have checked new construction in the electrical field in many parts of the world.

ROT AND PIFFLE, SAYS AUTHOR

Who Was Called Coward and Cad by His Wife.

Baltimore, June 20.—"Mr. Howard, your wife says you are a coward and a cad. What about it?"

George Fitzalon Bronson-Howard, author and magazine writer, flecked the ashes from a cigarette in his apartments at the Talbot and replied:

"That's a matter of opinion—merely a matter of opinion."

With reference to the charge that he gave out the story of his disagreement with his wife for publicity purposes and that the interrupted honeymoon would furnish the plot for a story, Mr. Howard said:

"That is all piffle. As to wanting publicity for my literary purposes, I don't need it. I am now 55,000 words behind contract with my publishers and have all I can do ahead of me to catch up."

"And she said, according to the papers, that you were very skimpy about giving her money."

"Also piffle—all piffle and rot. I spent about $2,500 with this little experience, and I've got enough. I did refuse to pay a lot of unreasonable bills, but I offered to send her back to Norfolk when she chose Miss Schenck in preference to me. She refused the offer and that's all there is to it."

"And she says, according to the New York reports, that you kept a pistol on the bookcase and threatened to kill her."

"That is piffle. I did keep a pistol on the bookcase—a revolving bookcase—but I never used it or threatened to use it, and I certainly never threatened her life."

"And she says you called her 'woman' and then 'thing.'"

"I can't be responsible for anything I might have said in anger," he replied. "I may have, and probably have something of a temper under conditions and I may have lost my temper. If I said anything harsh to her I don't remember it. In any event, I can't be held responsible for what I say when I am mad."

"And about your giving this story out yourself for publication?"

Mr. Howard put his hands in his pockets, took a few paces and said:

"That's a matter I'd like to have set right. I have been represented in the newspaper reports as more or less of a lightweight, without much responsibility, but I want you to let people know that among those with whom I associate in Baltimore, where they know me best, I am regarded as a pretty decent sort of a chap. I give you my word I didn't know a thing about the story until I reached quarantine."

"And your wife says that you talked in your sleep about having crucified a man in the Philippines, and she concluded that you are crazy."

Mr. Howard took another Turkish puff and said:

"Now, that is important—I wish you would make a full statement as to that. I may and probably do talk in my sleep, for I am very nervous and hard-worked, and these brain impressions may find audible expression in my unconscious state. I might even admit having talked about crucifying a man in the Philippines, excepting that I happen to know the facts. My wife got all that from a story I wrote called 'The Relentless One,' the theme of which is just exactly that experience. My hero does crucify a man, and all that sort of rot, and talks about it in his sleep because it is so fixed on his mind that he feels himself guilty of murder, although the act was justified and regular. That is where my wife got her story about the crucifixion."

GOOD NEWS

Many Duluth Readers Have Heard It and Profited Thereby.

"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of bad back sufferers in Duluth are glad to learn that prompt relief is within their reach. Many a lame, weak and aching back is bad no more, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. Our citizens are telling the good news of their experience with the Old Quaker Remedy. Here is an example worth reading:

Leander Sinette, rug manufacturer and carpet cleaner of 1701 Michigan street, Duluth, Minn., and living at the corner of Michigan street and Eighteenth avenue, says: "Some six years ago I gave a testimonial in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills because I felt so well pleased with the prompt relief from trouble with my kidneys and back which the use of this remedy brought me. I had been annoyed with constant dull pain across the loins and through the kidneys. To stoop or attempt to lift anything was sure to bring on sharp twinges of pain. The action of the kidneys was irregular. I tried many remedies until I got Doan's Kidney Pills, but found little relief and no permanent benefit. The treatment with this remedy completely drove out the whole trouble, and as six years have passed without any return of the complaint I consider my cure a permanent one."

BORED SAFE WITH EASE

Burglar-Proof Vaults in Capitol Prove a Farce.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 20.—Charles D. Montague, a metallic furniture expert, of New York, testified before the capitol investigation commission yesterday that the state had not only been grossly overcharged for the metallic furniture supplied by the Pennsylvania Construction company, under its $2,000,000 contract with the board of grounds and buildings, but that he had bored into the "burglar proof vault" in the state treasury in four hours with an ordinary eight inch breast drill. Mr. Montague said also that the four safes in the capitol for which this concern was paid $65,000 by the state were worth only $27,000 and that there was no chrome steel or steel rails in the vault, only ordinary steel which anyone could bore into with ease. As to the metallic furniture the expert said the state was charged excessive prices. He recited certain bills that were two and three times more than a fair trade list price without the customary discount. He said that the sub-basement contained one case that cost the state $1,182. The list price was $237.01 subject to discount. He said first floor metallic furniture cost $229,231.10 and was worth $132,103.-53.

WILL AMEND ORDINANCE

Enlargement of Cement Sidewalk District Was Too Sweeping.

Table of Cost Per Lineal Foot for Plank Walk.

In all probability the sidewalk ordinance passed by the council a week ago last Monday night will be brought up for revision at the next meeting of the aldermen. The ordinance in question is the one making a sweeping revision of the cement sidewalk district by making it include all paved streets in the city, the kinds of paving being specified, and also all streets with combined cement curb and gutter, a sandstone curb and gutter, a granite curb, or a rough stone gutter. It has been shown that in some cases this is too sweeping an extension and some revisions have been proposed. Alderman Haven was considering introducing the revision proposition last Monday but for some reason failed to do so.

It is claimed that the provision which includes streets with rough stone gutters in the cement district is bound to work a serious hardship upon property owners in the outlying districts of the city, many of whom are poor people who cannot afford the extra cost of the cement. In some places, too, this is impractical. On the lower side of Piedmont avenue west, for example, the wooden sidewalk now in place is built on "stilts" raised several feet above the ground for a distance of a number of blocks and to enforce the construction of brick arches and a cement walk would make a cost which amount to confiscation of the abutting property.

Another revision which has been asked for but which may meet with more opposition than the one just named is to omit streets paved with common or Telford macadam from the list. It is said that while cement walks are doubtless to be desired on many of the Telford macadam avenues of the city, it is not necessary in many of them, and it would be better to include such of them as may be desired in the cement district by special enactment.

The sidewalk question is giving the board of public works more trouble than usual this year. The tremendous amount of walk which has been ordered and the many complications which have ensued upon the council's somewhat erratic sidewalk legislation, have kept the board busy answering questions and deciding doubtful points for property owners.

The high price of lumber, combined with the sweeping enlargement of the cement district is causing an unusually large amount of cement sidewalks to be constructed even in the outlying residence districts where the cement sidewalks are not required, many of the property owners have elected to put them in as being more economical, in the long run, than the plank affairs. Their cost at first, is however, much higher.

On the whole it looks as if Dixon & Lowry, the successful bidders on cement walks, would have to hurry in order to get all the city work done this year and a possible shortage of material may also hinder to a certain degree. It is doubtful whether all the walks ordered can be laid this year for this reason.

The board is daily in receipt of questions from property owners who evidently are far at sea as to the method of procedure in these matters. After the walk has been ordered the board has nothing further to do with it, the width having been definitely and irrevocably fixed by the city council and the city engineer superintending the work of construction, so that aside from levying the assessment the board is through after the walk is ordered in. In spite of this they are in receipt of countless questions and requests daily which they are unable to answer.

One of the most frequent questions is as to the cost of the walk if the property owner decides to leave it to the city to build. The contractors' bids for lumber were made per thousand feet and this means comparatively little to the average property owner so the board has compiled some tables giving the cost of plank walk, per foot for the various widths. It is as follows:

Width—	East of Twelfth ave. west.	West of Twelfth ave. west.
Three feet	.22	.20
Four feet	.30	.26
Five feet	.53	.48½
Six feet	.59	.54
Eighth feet	.72	.66½
Ten feet	.92	.84½
Twelve feet	1.11½	1.02½
Fourteen feet	1.25	1.15

To these prices the board has heretofore added 10 per cent to cover the cost to the city of supervision, etc., but it is thought that this may be reduced to 5 per cent this year.

Dixon & Lowry's bid for cement walks was 16 2-3 cents per square foot which makes the price for each foot of six-foot walk, the usual width, just $1 as compared with the 59 cent rate on plank walks.

WOULD AVOID A COAL SHORTAGE

Strenuous Efforts to be Made to Get Fuel to the West.

Washington, June 20.—Strenuous measures have been adopted both by the government and by the railroads to avert a fuel famine in the West and Northwest, which is thought to be impending next winter.

Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, recently wrote to Commissioner Lane of the interstate commerce commission suggesting the probability of a fuel famine that might exceed in its serious possibilities the famine of last winter. He advised that every effort be made by the commission to induce consumers, including the government to lay in supplies of coal during the summer months, pending the movement of the crops in the early autumn.

Commissioner Lane immediately took up the matter with Secretaries Garfield and Taft, urging that coal supplies at all depots of the government be put in at as early a date as possible. The subject was considered at the last cabinet meeting held before President Roosevelt left for Oyster Bay and it was decided that the suggestion should be adopted.

Commissioner Lane has received from B. T. Stanton, chairman of the railroad commission of Montana, a circular which the commission has issued respecting an investigation into the subject of the coal supply now in sight and to be available for the use of citizens of Montana during the winter months of 1907 and 1908.

The inquiry shows that a coal shortage exceeding that of last winter is not only possible but probable, unless steps are taken to avert it, and the commission advises the people to put in their supplies of coal at the earliest possible date.

Commissioner Lane has been informed that the city of Los Angeles, Cal., has made arrangements to put in a full supply of coal during the early summer months, and he has learned that the railroads of the West and Northwest are placing at their various supply depots all the coal they can store conveniently.

HOLM CASE MYSTERIOUS.

Efforts to Locate the Missing Man Prove Unavailing Thus Far.

Moorhead, Minn., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The mystery attending the strange disappearance of Leonard Holm from the town of Dalton is still unfathomable. Otto Dahl, the merchant at Felton, for whom Holm last worked, has been here a few days trying to trace the whereabouts of the missing man.

Mr. Dahl says that the man found in the Red river does not answer the description of Holm. The floater was apparently a laboring man, and was dressed in overalls and winter underclothing, and wore a mitten on one hand. Mr. Dahl dropped further investigation along that line.

Holm was highly educated, and in Trondhjem, Norway, occupied a post similar to that of mayor's secretary in this country. He was an excellent penman, and conversed in several different languages, including English, which he also wrote perfectly. He left all of his belongings at Felton, including a balance of salary due him from Mr. Dahl.

HURLED FROM TRAIN.

Cross Lake Logging Road Employe Has Narrow Escape.

Brainerd, Minn., June 20.—Richard K. Thompson, son of William N. Thompson of this city, was seriously injured Monday by being thrown from a logging train on the Cross Lake logging railroad. He was in the employ of Del Holderman, who has the contract for supplying the wood for the engines on the logging road, was a member of a crew that was moving from Girl lake to Cross lake. He was sitting on a log on top of a car of logs and as the train went around a curve and down a grade at a speed of about thirty miles an hour the log rolled under him and he and the log went off the car. He lit on a pile of ties and among a lot of stumps, but was not missed until the crew reached Cross Lake. A train at once returned in search of him and took him to Cross Lake.

MINNESOTA

DULUTH MAN IS VICE PRESIDENT

H. A. Nolte Elected Officer of Local Fire Insurance Agents.

St. Paul, June 20.—The Minnesota Association of Local Fire Insurance Agents held it 1907 annual meeting here Wednesday.

President C. B. Wilson of Denver, and H. H. Putnam of Boston, made addresses

W. G. Strickland of St. Paul, presided and made an excellent chairman. He opened the convention at 11 a. m. with a brief address in which he told unvarnished facts about conditions in the St. Paul field. He stated that St. Paul is on the verge of a rate war, and that co-operation of the state organization is needed to avert this if possible. The work of the convention then followed, consisting of numerous address, mostly of an informal nature, in which the St. Paul trouble was the main subject. Relief was suggested in co-operation and fraternal action among the St. Paul agents for mutual benefits. President Wilson of the ntional association, thought the St. Paul troublo was mostly imagination; that little things were exaggerated.

Resolutions were adopted pledging renewed and undivided support of the Minnesota association for the national association of agents, assuring the insurance companies, however, that aid would not be given by the state organization to any measures that will not redound to the benefit of the companies. Officers were elected as follows: President, F. H. Wagner, Minneapolis, vice presidents, J. Q. Hats, St. Paul, H. A. Nolte, Duluth; A. C. Dixon, Winona; W. A. Marin, Crookston; secretary and treasurer, E. J. Forrester, Minneapolis. Chairman of the executive committee, J. P. Thompson; chairman of the grievance committee, Jacob Stone.

The convention will meet next year in Minneapolis.

TRAINMEN GOT SCARE.

Nearly Run Over a Man Who Was Using the Track for a Bed.

Crookston, Minn., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—An accident on the Great Northern between Ebro and Bagley was averted Wednesday by so narrow a margin that Conductor Joe Gould and his engineer and fireman all have a few more gray hairs than they had before. While going down a grade with a heavily loaded gravel train at the rate of about twenty-five miles an hour, Conductor Gould, who was riding in the engine looked ahead and saw what it was first thought to be a calf lying beside the track. In a few seconds it was seen that it was the body of a man whose head was resting on the rail. The engine was but a few hundred feet from the body, and going down grade it was impossible to stop. The enginer pulled the whistle cord and the screaching engine bore down on the object ahead. When within about twenty feet of the man the head was raised and the man rolled over off the rail and the train dashed by. A second more and he would have been sent to kingdom come and would have been have known what struck him.

WILL RECEIVE BOUNTIES.

Patient Residents of Defunct Columbia County Finally Rewarded.

Crookston, Minn., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—After a long and what seemed to be hopeless wait the residents of what used to be Columbia county will get their wolf bounties for which they have been waiting since April, 1903. County Auditor N. A. Hoffard yesterday received from State Auditor Iverson $315 to meet the claims.

The matter of paying the bounties in question has been delayed for over three years. The thirty persons entitled to bounties filed their claims in the period between January 1 and April 1, 1903, but owing to the fact that Columbia county had no money in its treasury payment could not be made until the bounties were sent in by the state. In the meantime the county was declared illegal by the state supreme court so that there was no agency through which the money could be secured. Polk county being unauthorized to make payment.

After repeated requests Auditor Hoffard took the matter up with Senator A. D. Stephens and asked him to exercise his influence with the result that an appropriation was secured. The individual bounties received range in amount from $5 to $45.

Harry Bingham Said to be Oldest of Telegraph Operators.

Marries Woman That He Knew When She Was a Little Girl.

White River, Wis., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The marriage of Harry H. Bingham and Miss Josephine Piniachowski of this place attracted no little attention from the fact that the bridegroom enjoys the distinction of being one of the oldest telegraph operators in the United States in point of service, while the wedding is believed to be the culmination of a romance begun a few years ago when the bride, who is considerably younger than the bridegroom, was a little girl. It is said that Bingham expressed sympathy for the bride when she was a child because she was lame, and that sympathy ripened into love with the passing years.

Bingham's record as an operator is unrivaled. He began the study of telegraphy in 1848 and has worked at the key ever since. He served under the late Col. J. J. Reed, who built the first line from Buffalo to Detroit. He worked beside the late Governor Cornell of New York, and DeWitt Woodford, manager of the many Vanderbilt lines, served under him as a messenger at Dunkirk, N. Y.

DAKOTAS

GRAIN MEN FOR DULUTH

Independent Shippers Favor Terminal Elevator at This Point.

Bankers Are Ready to Furnish the Needed Capital.

Valley City, N. D., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—A terminal elevator at Duluth or Superior is one of the objects sought to be attained by the Independent Grain Shippers who met here in annual convention Tuesday. The organization of a Grain Shippers Mutual Fire Insurance company and federal inspection of grain were also widely discussed.

The state law which gives to each elevator its proportionment share of cars without regard to the amount of grain it handles, was blamed for much of the discrimination between the old line elevators and the independents.

It was alleged that many local station agents had to be bribed in order to obtain cars, and train crews had to be pensioned by the elevator men to get cars set in.

Senator L. B. Hanna of Fargo on behalf of the bankers of the state, pointed out that the independent elevators are of inestimable benefit to the farmers, as well as to the business men of the state. He had been interested and he believed they would pay big dividends.

He said a large reserve should be accumulated to put them on a substantial basis. Mr. Hanna was enthusiastically in favor of a terminal elevator and pledged the bankers of the state to help raise the capital stock, $200,000. His address was received with much enthusiasm and the bankers of the state and Senator Hanna personally were thanked for their zeal in behalf of the shippers.

A committee was named to meet with the bankers at Grand Forks in July and consider a terminal elevator. E. Beisbarth, C. E. French and M. F. Swenson compose this committee. There was much talk of a commission house to be established by the organization, but no steps were taken in that direction.

The old officers were re-elected with the exception of president. C. E. French of Penn, being named.

Devils Lake was designed as the next meeting place, the last Saturday in June the date.

MARRIED IN FARGO.

Minnesota Couple Made Husband and Wife in Neighboring State.

Fargo, N. D., June 20.—The marriage of Miss Catherine B. Morttell and Thomas D. McGuire, both of Dundee, Minn., was solemnized at St. Mary's cathedral at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning. Father Lemieux read the service and the wedding was a very pretty one. The bride was dressed in white and carried white roses. Miss Mamie E. Mortell of Fargo, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and carried carnations. P. E. Solomonson of Twin Valley was best man.

The couple will make their home at Dundee, where the bridegroom is in the grain buying business.

DR. D. D. PEARSON AGAIN HELPS FARGO COLLEGE.

Fargo, N. D., June 20.—Fargo college, a Congregational school, has been made the beneficiary of a further endowment through the generosity of Dr. D. D. Pearson of Chicago, who has given the institution $20,000. This makes a total of $70,000 given to the college by Mr. Pearson. Like his first gife of $50,000, it is on an endowment basis. There is much rejoicing in college circles, as it will enable the trustees to complete Dill hall this year and accept the Carnegie library proposition.

LATEST IN GRAFTING.

Smoothe Holdup Game Being Worked on North Dakota Homesteaders.

Fargo, N. D., June 20.—One of the smoothest grafts in existence has just been reported from the western part of the state. It beats three card monte, stacked cards and loaded dice all to pieces. It is said that noting that a homesteader is advertising his final proof, the grafters write him a letter in classical language, notifying him that this writer will attend to the details of his final proof, loan money, etc. The farmer who bites then pays five dollars for the purpose of having someone show him to the door of the land office and introduce him to the officials. As the land office officials are always courteous and willing to attend to these details for the homesteader without charge, it can easily be seen that the homesteader is simply paying his money out with no value received.

BIDS FOR WARSHIPS

on the load water line of about 510 feet, and an extreme breadth of about 85 feet and 2⅝ inches. The armament is to be composed as follows:

Main battery, ten 12-inch breech-loading rifles; second battery, fourteen 5-inch rapid-fire guns, four 3-pounder saluting guns, four 3-pounder semi-automatic, two machine guns, caliber 30; two submerged torpedo tubes.

The hulls of the vessels are to be protected by a water line belt of armor eight feet in width, whose maximum thickness is eleven inches and whose cross section is uniform throughout the length of the belt. This belt armor gives effective protection to the boilers, machinery and magazine spaces, and, most important of all for vessels of this type whose centers of gravity are necessarily very high, affords, in connection with the casemate armor, extensive compartmental subdivision, a reasonable assurance of the maintenance of the stability of the vessel, under battle conditions. The side above the main belt armor is protected by armor 7 feet 3 inches wide and of a maximum thickness of 10 inches. This armor is likewise of uniform cross section throughout, and in length is only slightly less than that of the main water line belt armor. Above the main casemate armor, amidships, the side is covered by armor five inches in thickness, which affords protection to the smoke pipes, the major portion of the secondary battery of 5-inch guns, and the hull structure. Suitable athwartship and diagonal bulkheads are to be located at the extreme ends of the belt and casemate armor, and a protective deck of suitable thickness is provided throughout the length of the vessels.

The arrangement of the main battery guns is to be such as to permit a broadside fire 25 per cent greater than that of the broadside fire of any battleship built, or, so far as known, under construction. The average elevation of the axis of these guns is expected to be greater than that of any known battleship, thus affording a distinct advantage in long-range firing under all conditions of weather. The arrangement of the interior will be such as to give the maximum degree of protection to all vital portions of the ship by means of unusually effective compartmental subdivisions. The actual total weight of hull and armor in the proposed designs for the ships is approximately 3,000 tons greater than in the largest battleship so far built. The design contemplates an arrangement for the installation of reciprocating or turbine machinery.

them. Mr. Worthington was pressing him relative to an interview attributed to him in Chicago last May concerning the condition of the crops. "You want me to swear to something that is not just so," said the distinguished witness.

"No, Mr. Secretary," responded the attorney; "I am just laying the foundation for other witnesses."

It was than that Mr. Beach interjected his remark. It called forth a denial and a protest from Mr. Worthington, and an admonition from the bench to Mr. Beach for interfering.

Previous to this occurrence and secretary admitted the accuracy of statements attributed to him in an interview prepared for the Associated Press in June 1905, by Elmer E. Paine, in which the secretary had spoken of the impossibility of leaks from the bureau of statistics, some parts of which he had previously decided.

Mr. Beach asked only one question on redirect examination.

"Did you ever at any place or time give out advance of the date of official publication anything coming to you through the bureau of statistics?"

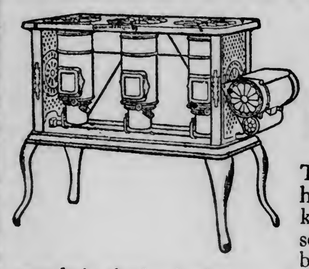

"Never," was the emphatic reply, and the secretary was excused.

Mr. Van Riper again took the stand and Mr. Worthington proceeded with his cross-examination.

The questions related largely to Van Riper's past history with the obvious intention of impeaching the character of the witness.

Van Riper's cross-examination was concluded at 11 o'clock and Mr. Beach immediately began his redirect questioning.

The redirect examination was very brief and Van Riper was succeeded on the stand by a number of hotel men and bank officials who testified to uninteresting details involved in the case.

STRUCK BY LARGE CAR

Messenger Boy Meets Terrible Death Under the Wheels.

Knocked Down by Bicyclist and Falls Under Fender.

Jumping from the tailboard of a wagon on which he had caught a ride, Theodore Androski, a messenger boy, was struck by a bicyclist hurrying home from work, knocked reeling in front of a rapidly moving street car, and ground to a horrible death shortly after 6 o'clock last evening. The accident occurred about 100 yards from the corner of Twenty-third avenue west and Superior street. The street was crowded at the time of the accident with the employes of the West end stores and shops, and several women and girls who were forced to witness the terrible sight and hear the lad's agonizing screams, fell in a faint on the sidewalk.

The car had gained considerable speed when it struck the boy. The motorman dropped the fender and threw on the air, but the boy, knocked prostrate on the track, passed under even the lowered fender and was caught by the truck and dragged some distance before the big car could be brought to a standstill. Death did not come instantaneously, and when the motorman leaped to the ground and a number of men rushed to the rescue, the boy was lying screaming with pain, with abdomen and leg pitifully crushed, but the upper part of his body practically unhurt. The body was wedged under the front trucks in such a manner that an attempt to back the car up would surely have been fatal and the only means of releasing the boy was by jacking the car off the rails. This, a rather slow process, was finally completed and the body of the little fellow released. He was still breathing but died a moment after being carried into a nearby store.

The victim of the tragedy lived within a short distance of the place where it occurred, and some of his playmates, recognizing him, hurried to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Androski of 2319 West Fourth street and told his mother of the occurrence. She arrived on the scene just after the body had been released from beneath the car. Before any one could stop her she made her way wildly into the store, and upon beholding the mangled body of her son collapsed with a scream, to the floor. She was revived in a few moments and taken home.

Lieut. Drannen, on duty in the West end, made a hurried investigation of the accident. The bicyclist gave his name as Joseph La Poine, and he said he was employed by the Red Cliff Lumber Co. He stated that the boy appeared so suddenly from behind the wagon from which he had jumped that he could not avoid striking him. Coroner McCuen later investigated the case and decided that none of the parties concerned were to blame for the accident.

granted by the telegraph company on March 1, last, has not been applied to all salaries of telegraphers, I desire to say that the telegraph company announced this increase in good faith, and is carrying it out in good faith, and that if any case can be found in which the increase was not granted it will be corrected at once.

"The statement also being made that the telegraph company is endeavoring to neutralize the 10 per cent advance by the application of a so-called sliding scale is without foundation. There is no such practice in effect, nor is there any intention of putting it into effect by the management of this company.

"The standard salaries for regular positions as established by the increase of March 1 will be maintained and the company will pay to any man appointed or promoted to any position the salary attached to that position after that increase, and will pay to extra men the salaries in effect for their work as of March 1 inclusive of the 10 per cent increase.

"This company has not discriminated against, nor will it discriminate against any employe of the company because of any affiliation or non-affiliation with any organization and if it can be shown to me that any subordinate has dismissed or discriminated against any telegrapher because of affiliaton with any organization, such telegrapher shall be restored to his position without prejudice.

"As evidence of the absolute good faith of the Western Union Telegraph company in its relations to its employes, I beg to say that if any telegrapher feels that he has any grievance under any of the foregoing conditions, and if he cannot secure a satisfactory adjustment of his complaint with the officers of the company, we will submit the matter to the arbitration of three parties, one to be selected by the telegrapher, one by the telegraph company, and the third to be selected by the two so chosen, and in the event that the two cannot agree upon the third arbitrator within one week, we will be very glad to have such third arbitrator chosen by the chairman of the interstate commerce commission, and the commissioner of labor acting jointly.

"As a further evidence of our entire willingness to deal fairly and preserve amicable relations directly with our own employes, any telegrapher who at any time has a grievance can take it up with his superior, either in person or, if he wishes, through any committee he may select from the other employes of the company in the same district.

"I have outlined above in brief the position the Western Union Telegraph company holds in regard to the matters we have discussed, and you are at liberty to make any use of this letter that you see fit. Yours very truly, for the laboring masses against the "predatory classes."

"R. C. CLOWRY,

The second exhibit, a letter from Eugene V. Debs and published in the issue of Feb. 1, was also read by Senator Borah. In the article Debs greeted the magazine and paid a tribute to the announcement of its policy by Boyce. He went on to denounce Governor Steunenberg and the officials of Idaho in the severest terms as "whelps who should go back to their native hell," and "who shall not escape the consequence of their crimes."

Debs compared there "vile official creatures" with Paul Corcoran, who was found guilty of murder in the Coeur d'Alenes and whom Debs called "an honest workingman standing magnificent in the strength of his righteousness." In conclusion Debs wrote: "Know ye, Steunenberg and others, that we have an account to settle with you."

The state yesterday made dramatic production and proof of the Goddard bomb, and beside offering further contributions of the testimony of Harry Orchard against William D. Haywood, secured a ruling under which a number of the denunciatory articles published in the Miners' Magazine, official organ of the Western Federation of Miners, will be admitted in evidence.

To Justice Luther M. Goddard himself fell the task of telling the story of the finding and preservation for use as evidence of the bomb with which Orchard tried to kill him. His appearance on the stand added another to the many dramatic scenes that have characterized the trial, and his testimony was clear and minutely circumstantial.

The veteran Colorado jurist testified that the first information that he received about the bomb came to him from Orchard's confession, which was shown to him at Denver on Feb. 18, 1906, by Detective McPartland. He at once returned to his home, and in his gate discovered the screw eye, which Orchard said he placed there. It was rusted and corroded by ten months' exposure. The witness said he examined the ground outside the gate where Orchard said he placed the bomb, and found a slight depression with the soil packed very hard around it.

The bomb was dug up the next day by Gen. Bulkley Wells, who used a pocket knife to cut the soil away and raise the pine box containing the bomb. There was a small phial on top of the box, and attached to the rubber cork of the phial was a piece of rusted wire.

CLEVELAND IS MUCH BETTER

Ex-President Passes Critical Point of Severe Illness.

New York, June 20.—Advices from Princeton, N. J., early today, announced that ex-President Grover Cleveland, last night, passed the danger point of another serious attack of sickness. He had been perilously ill for some days, and several physicians have been in constant attendance. The crisis has now safely passed, and Mr. Cleveland's recovery is looked for. Stomach or intestinal trouble was the cause of the attack.

Mr. Cleveland was stricken just after the beginning of the commencement exercises at Princeton university. He had planned to start for his summer home in New Hampshire on the day following the exercises, and he had counted on a vigorous outing.

So alarming did his condition become last Saturday that Doctors Carnochan and Bryant summoned in consultation Edward G. Janeway and Andrew J. McCosh, New York specialists.

Until yesterday, it is stated, Mr. Cleveland's condition remained very serious Then he took a turn for the better. Last night his physicians announced that the crisis had been passed and that there seemed nothing to prevent a speedy recovery.

Mr Cleveland will be confined to his home for some time.

GREAT DAY FOR THE MARKSMEN

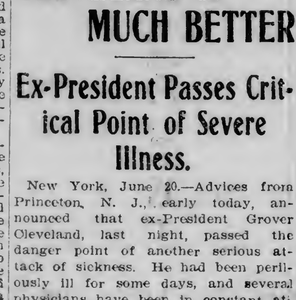

Trapshooters Gather at Chicago for the American Handicap.

Chicago, June 20.—Today is the day of the trap shooters of America have been looking forward to for months. At 8:20 o'clock this morning the first squad of the 496 eligibles for the grand American handicap commenced the contest on the grounds of the Chicago Gun club to decide who is the championship trapshooter of America and also the ownership of the much coveted trophy that accompanies the honor. Among the contestants are five of the former winners of this classic event, but so many of the amateurs have made such remarkably good scores in the preliminary rounds that the experts declare it would be no surprise to them if an amateur with a favorable handicap should be returned the winner tonight.

Each man will shoot at 100 targets and the handicaps run all the way from 16 to 23 yards.

Although the list of contestants in the largest in the history of the event, it is believed that with favorable weather the tournament can be finished today.

The prizes in the preliminary events which have been run off during the past three days will be awarded to the men with the highest averages for the entire tournament, including the scores in the main event.

KISSES HER TOO HARD

And Now Eighteen-Year-Old Girl Brings Grand Larceny Charge.

Chicago, June 20.—"It wasn't because he stole them that I had him arrested," said Miss May Ryan, 18 years old, referring to Thomas McCarthy, 53 years old and a number of kisses, "but because he was so rough."

"In what way was he rough?" inquired Municipal Judge Sadler, who was to decide what was to be done to McCarthy for the alleged grand larceny.

"Why, your honor, he kissed me so hard that my cheeks were swollen several days. Finally I had to go to a doctor for fear I had blood poisoning."

Further testimony indicated that the alleged larceny occurred June 14, when McCarthy was so emphatic in his protestations of innocence that Judge Sadler postponed judgment until he could interview the doctor who treated Miss Ryan for the kissing episode.

MARVELOUS RESOURCES

Of the United States Are Extolled by Ambassador Bryce.

St. Louis, June 20.—The annual commencement exercises of Washington university were held this morning, the baccalaureate address being delivered by James Bryce, British ambassador to the United States.

Ambassador Bryce spoke in part as follows:

"Ideals are as high in America as anywhere else in the world. You prize the things of the mind and the soul as being the things which make the truest greatness of a nation. You can the more safely do so because your material prosperity is assured by the marvelous resources at your command. All that can be measured in figures, be they figures of dollars, or tons, or bushels, or bales you have already. Happy is your lot compared with that of the states of Europe, for you have no external enemy to fear; you need no vast fleets or armies to protect you. In your industries and trade there will, of course, be ups and downs, but your soil and your minerals are more than sufficient to provide an ever-expanding employment, with an ever-increasing wealth. The unique mission which providence seems to have entrusted to you is to show the world how immense natural resources may be used, not in boastfulness or for luxury, but as a foundation on which to build up the highest form of natural life; to cultivate the delights which intellect and tastes open to us; to set the noblest example of a people not only prosperous and free, but enlightened, happy and contented."

THE RIGHT OF PUNISHMENT.

Brand Whitlock, in Everybody's: Some day, perhaps, we shall learn that, properly, we can have nothing to do with punishment. No man is good enough or wise enough to judge or to punish another man; no human soul can sound the infinite and mysterious profundities of another human mind; weigh the influence of heredity, environment, physical and psychic forces and phenomena; we have no psychologist great enough for that. Only Omniscence can plumb those mysterious and awful depths. Man's attempts to do so are profanations. All that society has a right to do is to protect itself by restraining those of proved dangerous tendencies; it has no right to hurt them while doing so; and its duty is to do all it can to help the erring, wandering souls back into the right path. We have lately made such a beginning in our juvenile courts, the principle of which, let us hope, is to be the pervading principle of all criminal courts in the future, when we shall have learned that our grown-up offenders and delinquents are but big children, who, like so many of their more fortunate—that is, lunceaught—brethern, have "lost the innocence, while retaining the ignorance of childhood."

THE ROAD TO FORTUNE.

New York Sun: "It's hard work," said the boss, "to get anybody to do even the simplest things really well and to keep on doing them so; and I do love to meet people who do the work they have to do, no matter what it may be, thoroughly, and who have, besides, the sense and nerve to keep at it that way steadily.

"It is a positive delight to me to find a boy that makes a good job of sweeping out the store, who is not satisfied with giving it a lick and a promise—sweeping one thick of it from the middle of the floor—but who digs into the corners and sweeps clean along the edges and makes a good, thorough, workmanlike job of it all through.

"Now, that sort of job of sweeping is a positive help to the business; it makes the store attractive, it actually gets into the atmosphere of the place and helps to have people who would as surely be repelled, if not driven away, by a store slackly kept. And now suppose this boy keeps right on so, unflinchingly; suppose he shows that he's really got the stuff in him; why, he gets the first chance there is for a step up, for the demand for men who can do things is greater than the supply, and then if he will only keep on doing things the way he began, he's got his future in his own hands.

"What is true of the boy sweeping the store is equally true of every other boy, in whatever work he may be doing, absolutely; for the whole secret of success lies in doing whatever your hands find to do well and faithfully.

"This is an old, old, oft told story I know, but there's a fresh crop of boys coming into the field daily, to whom, ever, it must be new, and if but one of each day's crop would take the old story to heart the world in general would be better off and the boy himself would profit by it greatly."

A Lively Chase.

Officer Albert Peters and some fifteen men employed on Lower Lake avenue spent a goodly portion of yesterday afternoon in endeavoring to catch an old white horse belonging to a rag picker, which developed decidedly youthful tendencies during the afternoon and, in spite of the rather restricted territory in which the chase was waged, gave the crowd in pursuit a rather lively time.

Several times the bridle of the old horse was in the hand of one or another of his pursuers and he reared and plunged more like a bucking broncho than an old cart horse. It was three-quarters of an hour after the chase began that the nag tried to break through the line of men with clubs which kept him corraled between them and the water front and Officer Peters fastened a hand on his bridle which could not be shaken off.

Bednuz Deported.

Joseph Bednuz, an Austrian, was yesterday taken in charge by United States Immigrant Inspector John Ingles of Sault Ste. Marie, and returned to New York, whence he will be deported to his native land. He has been a public charge on St. Louis county, owing to sickness, and, having been in this country but one year, is eligible to deportation.

It is an artificial foot, and evidently worked itself loose from an artificial leg.

Damage Case Not Finished.

Testimony is still being introduced for the plaintiff in the damage case instituted by the Boston Coal Dock & Wharf company against the Lake Superior Contracting & Dredging company. The company is calling witnesses who are familiar with the dredging business and operating expense, in the effort to establish its claim of nearly $9,000 for some dredging that it is alleged to have been compelled to do to clear the channel near the coal dock after it had been filled in with sand and debris pumped there by the dredge company, when it made a dock extension.

THE ATTORNEYS AGREE ON DATE

To Give Information, But Do Not Promise It.

Chicago, June 20.—It was agreed between the attorneys in the Standard Oil case today that the information asked for yesterday by Judge Landis relative to the financial condition of the Standard Oil company, shall be given by June 26.

Before this agreement was reached Attorney John S. Miller, acting for the Standard Oil company, said: "We do not desire to be misunderstood in this matter of agreeing upon a date. We desire to have it understood that we make no promises to furnish that which the court has asked from us and we reserve the right to oppose it. There is some question in our minds as to the materiality, relevancy and propriety of the court's action. Such an occasion as this has never come within our experience."

"For the information of counsel," said Judge Landis, "I will say that it has been the rule of this court to find out the condition of a defendant to be fined before imposing a penalty. Recently considerable time was consumed by this court in sifting out the financial status of the church and school furniture companies before the fines were imposed."

"We are unable to see," said Attorney Miller, "why the wealth or poverty of a defendant is material when it comes to deciding the guilt or innocence, or in fixing the punishment. Of course our experience is very limited in these matters and we may be in error."

"The court cannot presume to have greater experience than counsel," said Judge Landis, "but what I have just pointed out is a rule of this court."

The court directed that a subpoena be issued for F. E. Felton of New York, president of the Union Tank line. He is expected to furnish information regarding the ownership of the Union Tank line, Judge Landis having expressed a desire to know whether or not it is controlled by the Standard Oil company.

AN INVALID, BUT IS ARRESTED

Stens Marshall Charged With Beating His Sister-in-Law.

Can a man who just left the hospital, and who is in such shape that he cannot stand trial for two weeks, be guilty of assault?

That is the question the municipal court authorities will have to determine. Stens Marshall was arrested this afternoon on complaint of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mike Marshall, who swore that Stens beat and maltreated her.

Stens has a different tale, however. He claims that he left the hospital only a day or two ago, and that on his return his sister-in-law assaulted him, threw him down in the corner, and used him so badly that he will be unable to stand a trial for two weeks.

Mrs. Marshall had her husband arrested some time ago on the same charge.

MAN HOLDS UP HIS ATTORNEY

Client Takes Voucher for $2,000 Away From Lawyer.

St. Paul, June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—After his lawyer had received a voucher for $2,000 in settlement of a personal injury suit against the Soo road, Willie E. Grove injected a melodramatic element into the case by holding up the attorney at the point of a revolver in his office, taking the voucher and making a "getaway."

The attorney, who was the victim of holdup is William E. Dampier.

Grove's suit against the Soo road was compromised and settled Tuesday afternoon.

The attorney had just received the voucher and sent for Grove to come into his private office to talk over some minor claims. Grove came but presented a gun. "I'll take that," he said, as he grabbed the voucher.

Grove disappeared before the attorney could get a warrant for his arrest.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 20.—Frank E. Woller, clerk of the municipal and district courts, has been found to be short $20,000 in his accounts.

The shortage was discovered by expert accountants who recently made an examination of the city's books and reported the shortage to the city comptroller. Deputy Clerk of the Municipal and District Courts John W. Woller, a brother of the clerk, admits that a warrant has been issued for his brother.

Frank E. Woller is out of town and is said to be visiting at a summer resort on one of the inland lakes within a few miles of Milwaukee. It is said he is not trying to evade the law, and will return to Milwaukee as soon as word can be sent to him that he is wanted.

AILMENTS OF WORKERS.

The Many Maladies Peculiar to Certain Forms of Trade.

When man was a semi-ape and ranged the prehistoric hills he was a maladies that beset him were as few and as simple as those which afflict his simian brother in the African jungle today, says the New York Sun.

As a rule he died a death of primitive violence. A bear gobbled him, a snake bit him or a strange herb poisoned him. In time of plenty he ate too much and died of a terrific stomach ache; in hard times he starved to death. Instead of microbes and bad drainage he feared lions, blizzards, falling trees, swift rivers, reptiles, lightning and the men of rival tribes. He seldom died in bed.

But when civilization began to develop specialization and life grew complex, bacilli began to play a part in human affairs. The man who showed an unusual capacity for chipping flint arrow heads spent his whole time at the task, and his customers—the hunters and warriors—brought him his share of meat and drink.

By and by there were whole groups of arrow makers, and the constraints of their work began to tell on him. All day they crouched over their flints, breathing flint dust. And so, in the course of time, there arose among them a tendency to grow hollow chested and to spit blood, and the world was face to face with tuberculosis pulmonalis.

When the stone age melted into the age of bronze more diseases arose. Workers in copper began to be afflicted with soles: rich copper merchants ate too much and died of gout; vineyards were established and drunkenness was invited.

By and by there were hundreds of diseases and it was necessary for one whole class of men to spend their time combating them. Hence arose the early wise men, soothsayers, charm sellers, magicians and priests.

Their doses and decoctions, instead of destroying the old diseases, merely served to create new ones, and so we of today have inherited an illimitable store of ills. In modern Americans, it is a meek and lowly organ that cannot show two dozen fatal maladies peculiar to itself. The heart has fifty. The brain has a thousand.

All the while diseases are being evolved as civilization becomes more and more complex. Last year, for example, probably 50 men in America and Europe died of bends. And what is that? Simply a malady caused by breathing air at high pressure.

In building tunnels and excavating for piers it is necessary to send men down into caissons in which the air, instead of being at its ordinary pressure of fifteen pounds to the square inch, is at 50 to 100 pounds. Few men can stand this pressure long and even those that can ordinarily suffer alarming after effects. Coming out into the open air again their ankles and knees swell, they vomit and there are agonizing pains in their heads. Sometimes they sink into a comatose state and die.

Fortunately modern medicine tries to keep pace with modern maladies, and so it is usually possible to cure this disease It is due as a rule to the fact that the transition from the outer air to the caisson, or vice versa, is made too rapidly.

The body has too little time to adapt itself to the change. The cure, then, consists in giving it a better chance.

The man who topples over in agony after leaving a caisson is sent back and the pressure is reduced very slowly. In Europe the tunnel and bridge builders maintain special chambers for this purpose. As a result, the mortality in bends has been reduced to 3 per cent.

Unfortunately, there are other occupation diseases which present greater difficulties. Some of them in truth may be cured only by the patient abandoning his trade.

One of these is chalacosis, which is a malady of the lung. It is is caused by breathing great quantities of stone dust.

You have often observed, no doubt, that when a marble or stone building nears completion, men go all over its surface with sandblasts, cleaning and smoothing the stone. Well, these blasts send up a cloud of finely powdered stone, and the workmen are forced to breathe it.

At first their bronchial tubes make a brave effort to expel the dust and they cough a great deal. But by and by the little scavengers in the vestibules of the lungs are overcome, and the minute particles of stone begin to invade the lunbs themselves. The result is chalacosis, which is a form of pneumonokoniosis, which means a scarlike overgrowth of lung tissues.

Stonecutters, knife grinders, brass workers, coal miners and all other workmen who have to breathe dust of any sort day after day suffer from varieties of this disease. All city dwellers are its victims more or less.

The lungs and bronchial tubes of a countryman are bright and rosy in appearance, but those of a city man are usually dark and dull looking. A coal miner's are often as black as ebony. Strange to say, this condition does not seem to induce tuberculosis. Miners, though their lungs are always abnormal, seldom die of consumption.

Wind instrument players suffer from a malady called emphysema. The small air passages in their lungs are dilated so much and so often that the surrounding cells are mashed flat.

A secondary result is that the lungs themselves attain unusual dimensions and the patient develops an inflated chest, shaped like a barrel. This condition, however, is by no means peculiar to cornetists and horn blowers. It is a symptom also in various definite pulmonary maladies.

Workers in chemicals are subject to all sorts of unusual afflictions. Those who take part in the manufacture of rubber, for example, are often badly injured by the vapors of sulphide of carbon—an exceedingly ill-smelling liquid used to dissolve the elastic gum. These vapors cause headaches, neuralgia, a staggering gait and violent bodily pains, followed sometimes by delirium and mania.

Workers in aniline dye factories are subject to vertigo and other distressing ills. The cause here is the inhalation of aniline vapor. Fortunately it is possible to relieve these symptoms without much difficulty, and in the case of most men time seems to produce a sort of immunity.

It is a well-known fact that many persons are unable to take quinine because it causes a troublesome eruption to appear upon their skin. Among the natives of South America who strip cinchona bark (from which quinine is made) from the trees, and among the white men who handle the bark here in the United States, this same eruption is often encountered.

It takes the form of a host of small pimples and its general aspect is much like that of eczema. A holiday of a few weeks usually serves to make it disappear and after an individual has been cured he seldom suffers a second attack.

Weaver's tonsilitis is a malady frequently met with among the employes of cotton mills, due to the presence of minute fibres of cotton in the crypts of the tonsils.

These tonsils cause a chronic irritation and the way is thus opened for the entrance of stray germs. The malady yields to the treatment indicated for ordinary tonsilitis.

Tea tasters, despite the fact that hey seldom if ever swallow any of he tea they taste, commonly suffer derangements of various bidily functions. The poison in this case is the very powerful alkaloid to which tea owes its soothing virtues.

The most common symptoms are gastric disturbances, paleness and various local disorders in the mouth. The final effects are loss of memory, chronic anxiety and other evidences of a general nervous breakdown. A complete rest of a month or so ordinarily serves to effect a cure; but when the tea taster returns to his queer occupation his old disabilities reappear.

It is a commonplace of observation that the excessive use of any one group of muscles leads to a sort of local paralysis. This malady was formerly very familiar in the form of what was called writer's cramp.

It was thought that the triumph of the typewriting machine over the old fashioned pen would cause it to disappear from the earth, but it is now in full bloom as typewriter's cramp. Similar neuroses afflict telegraphers, violinists, piano players, cigarette makers and milkmaids.

Another form if this serious and troublesome disease incapacitates marine engineers. These men usually spend all their time awake and asleep, within a few feet of their beloved engines.

The constant vibration overworks certain of their muscles—particularly those of the legs—and the result is a good deal of pain. Sometimes this pain extends up the back and has distressing consequences. As a rule it is relieved by a few days ashore.

Workers in ship engine rooms also suffer from breathing hot, vitiated air and from constant stooping. Spasms, rigidity of certain muscles and various neuralgias and hysterical symptoms are sometimes encountered in such men.

In addition to those mentioned there are also special forms of palsy which afflict toe dancers, barbers, gold beaters, lapidaries, wood sawyers, drum players, clothing cutters and all other workers whose daily toil compels them to use one particular group of muscles to excess. The exhaustion which seizes the largyngeal muscles of singers, spellbinders, lawyers, preachers and others is an allied ailment. It is painful, no doubt to its victims, but the general public has no reason to complain of it.

Men who handle hides, wool or cattle are sometimes infected with diseases peculiar to the lower animals. One of these is anthrax, a malady common among all the herbivorius animals, and especially so among sheep and hoof cattle.

Anthrox is not normally a human disease, but men who come in contact with animals suffering from it sometimes take it and the result is almost always death. The United States government, in order to prevent the introduction of anthrax germs, requires all hides imported into the country to be thoroughly disinfected. Despite this precaution, the disease sometimes appears.

Besides anthrax, men who handle animals sometimes take other diseases, such as glanders and "big jaw." The former is caused by a minute organism called the bacillus mullei. It somewhat resembles the tubercle acillus, but is much more easily killed.

A "BELLED" RAT.

Julius Chambers, in the Brooklyn Eagle: Capt. W. Nephew King, formerly of the United States navy, occupies every summer a fine old colonial house on the south side of Long Island. When he went down on Saturday, a week ago, to have the place prepared for his annual advent, he found the building infested with large Norway rats. Some of them were the size of young cats. He set traps that night and on Sunday morning succeeded in catching one of the large gray rodents. His man, who had accompanied him from his home on the upper west side, Manhattan, suggested that the rat be "belled." In an upper room was a fancy dress costume, trimmed with small nickel and brass cymbals.

The question then arose as to who should take the rat out of the trap and hold him. Capt. King's man hails from Jamaica, where rats are familiar animals; and the Jamaican hadn't the least fear. He put on a heavy glove, and into the trap, seized the gray rodent, and brought him out. While he held the wriggling animal Capt. King tied a stout cord about the rat's neck, to which a bell was attached so that it hung under the animal's chin. About his girth a miniature girdle of sleigh chimes was fastened. Then the rat was released.

In an hour the companions of that rat could be seen running across the sand dunes in all directions.

They didn't have to be members of the society of psychic research to believe the house to be haunted. The tinkling of the bells followed them into their darkest recesses!

The idea worked like a charm. But the experiment had a very pathetic ending, as I learned when Capt. King returned to his brokerage office yesterday, after a second week's end at the shore.

The big trap was set again on Saturday night last, and was heard to spring about daylight. When it was examined, therein was found the "belled" rat.

The poor thing, shunned by all companions, had deliberately sought out the trap and walked into it. There was nothing left in rodent life for it, Capt. King describes the expression in the rat's eyes as the most pathetic he ever detected in a face that was not human. The rat besought relief from the odious badge of servitude—the bell. In choice rodent vernacular, the prisoner asked relief or death. He didn't want liberty unless the bells were removed.

This is to teach us that even rats have hearts that may be broken by persecution.

LARGEST BASS HATCHERY.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Eleven lakes in Forest Park, covering eighty acres, constitute the largest bass and crappie hatchery in the United States. The depletion of the streams and lakes throughout Missouri, caused by the increase in angling in the past few years, requires a large fish reserve. The purpose of the Missouri Fish commission has been assisted in its course by the co-operation of our municipal assembly in granting the state the use of Forest Park waters as breeding ground without compensation, and in the form of ten year leases, to be renewed at the expiration of the period for which the lease runs.

Notwithstanding the lack of sufficient labor caused by the need of funds, the bass and crappie crop for the last biennial year was the greatest in the history of the commission. From the Forest Park hatchery 65,368 black bass were transferred to the streams and lakes of our state, the total being 303,293, so we see the office Forest Park fills in the welfare of Missouri.

There were 153,694 crappie distributed, so the grand total is 406,694, with 138,000 on hand after distribution.

HE WON HIS CASE.

Judge's Library: An Irishman had to go to law, and in consultation with his counsel he was told that he had a good fighting chance. Paddy, who was anxious to win the case, was meditative for a moment, and then he said:

"Do you think it would be any good to send the judge a pair of ducks?"

"No, no; you mustn't do that," said his lawyer. "If you send him a pair of ducks he will be sure to decide the case against you."

A day or so later the case was heard, and Paddy won with flying colors. In the course of the congratulations, Paddy remarked:

"It was just as well I sent the judge them ducks."

"What!" exclaimed counsel. "Did you send the ducks?"

"Yes," said Paddy, quite pleased with himself; "but after what you said I sent them from the man on the other side."

The man who never tries to trade something he needs slightly for something he needs badly overlooks a ures in the answer.

MOST VALUABLE SWORDS.

Philadelphia Bulletin: The veterans riding in their flag hung carriage toward the cemetery talked of war-like things—cannon, guns, swords.

"The most valuable sword in the world," said the colonel, "belongs to the Gaekwar of Baroda. It is worth $1,125,000. It has been handed down from father to son for 700 years.

"The hilt and scabbard of this sword are encrusted with diamonds and rubies and emeralds so thickly that you can't see the gold-work underneath. All those jewels are miracles of bigness and purity.

"The shah of Persia owns a sword worth $50,000. Its ornaments are Orient pearls. The czar of Russia has a diamond incrusted sword, valued at $75,000, and the sultan of Turkey wears on state occasions a scimitar, whose hilt alone was valued by Polak of Paris at $118,000.

"In this country I regret to say, we have not a sword worth more than $3,000."

THE WHEAT IS EASIER

Declines Are Shown in All the American Markets.

July Flax Closes One Cent Higher in Duluth.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 20.—Wheat had a firm tone at the opening today, but went off immediately afterward and closed at lower prices in all of the American markets. Heavy selling was the chief cause of the decline. There was some bullish news, but it amounted to naught in the face of the downward trend of the market produced by realizing sales. Liverpool closed ⅞d to 1d higher, Berlin ⅜c lower and Budapest 1⅜c lower.

Argentine shipments of wheat this week are estimated at 2,800,000 bus.

The July option closed ⅜c lower in Duluth, 1½-⅝c in Chicago, ⅝c in Minneapolis, ¼c in New York and ¼c in Winnipeg. The closing prices were not received from the Southwestern markets, on account of wire trouble. The September option closed ½c lower in Duluth and Chicago, 1⅝-⅝c in Minneapolis, and ⅝c in New York. The October option closed unchanged in Winnipeg.

July corn closed ⅛-¼c lower in Chicago and was ⅜d to ½d higher in Liverpool. July oats closed unchanged in Chicago.

Car receipts at Duluth were 50 against 51 last year, and at Minneapolis 186 against 181 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 243 against 182 last year. Chicago received 16 against 7 last year. Winnipeg received 202 against 57 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 469,000 bus, last year 211,000 bus. Shipments 348,000 bus, last year 206,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 236,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 850,000 bus, last year 633,000 bus. Shipments 734,000 bus, last year 290,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 63,332.

Wheat was quite active at the opening of the Duluth market, but became quiet with an easier tone, toward the close. July wheat opened ¼c higher at 98⅜c declined to 98⅜c by 9:04, reacted to 98¾c by 10:05, went off to 98¼c by 10:35, rallied to 98⅝c by 11:20, declined to 98⅜c by 11:30, rallied to 98¾c by 11:42, went off to 87⅞c by 12:48 and ranged between that and 98⅛c until the close, which was 98c, a loss of ⅜c from yesterday.

September wheat opened ¼c higher at 99½c, declined to 99c, rallied to 99¼c, went off to 98⅜c, rallied to 99⅝c and ranged between that and 98½-⅝c until the close, which was 98¾c, a loss of ½c from yesterday. December wheat was inactive and closed at 96¾c, unchanged from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¼c lower and cash spring wheat selling at the July price for No. 1 northern.

Flax was active during the latter part of the session and closed at considerably higher prices. July flax opened unchanged at $1.26, declined to $1.23¾, reacted to $1.27, declined to $1.26½, rallied to $1.27 and closed at that price, a gain of 1c over yesterday.

September flax opened ¼c lower at $1.25½, advanced to $1.27¼, declined to $1.27 and rallied by the close to $1.27½, a gain of ¾c over yesterday. October flax opened unchanged at $1.23½, advanced to $1.24½ and closed at the price, a gain of 1c over yesterday.

Oats closed ¼c higher and the other coarse grains unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Higher Prices at Liverpool and Minneapolis Make Wheat Active.

Chicago, June 20.—The wheat market opened strong today and with an active trade, because of higher prices at Liverpool and on the Minneapolis curb. Shorts were active bidders and there was a fair demand from commission houses. The strength of the market, however, was brief and prices declined, on realizing sales, to the level of yesterday's close. September wheat opened ⅝@¾c to ⅞@⅞c higher at 95¾c to 95⅝c, and sold at 95c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 259 cars against 316 cars last week and 180 cars a year ago.

The low point for September was 91¼c. The market was unsettled until the last half hour, when it became steady. The close was steady with September ⅝@⅝c lower at 94⅝c.

The corn market opened active and with firm prices, which were based upon higher cables and the strength of wheat. Later the market eased off on selling by commission houses. September corn opened ⅛c to ¼c higher at 54c to 54¼c and sold at 53¾c. Local receipts were 450 cars with 126 of contract grade.

After selling at 53¾c, the market steadied. The close was firm and ¼c lower at 53⅝c.

The oats market opened strong on a good general demand but the advance failed to hold because of selling by cash houses. September oats opened a shade to ⅝@¾c higher at 38c to 38⅝s, sold at 38⅜c and declined to 38⅛c. Local receipts were 65 cars.

The provisions market was quiet and steady. September pork opened 7½@10c higher at 15.97½c and sold at $15.90. Lard was unchanged at $8.82½. Ribs were unchanged at $8.70.

Broomhall cables from Liverpool:

Firm opening in wheat with values ½d to ⅝d higher, being influenced by the firmness of American markets yesterday, and private bullish American crop advices. Offerings were light, and support general, and during the morning a further advance of ½d was made. There was a good demand for distant La Plata cargoes and the return of wet weather in the United States stimulated speculative support. The undertone was firm at mid-day.

Corn—The strength in American markets yesterday caused a firm opening with values about 3d higher. The market following the opening was dull, but there was a good inquiry for both American and La Plata parcels and thise assed light offerings and light disposition to sell.

The Chicago Record-Herald says: Ample illustration of the important position occupied by the Northwestern crop in the general wheat situation was furnished by yesterday's market. The news was of the sort that would have been classed as colorless and unimportant under ordinary conditions, but had quite an effect yesterday. When there is a suspicion of disagter or drawback to the Northwest crop it creates a very nervous feeling among wheat speculators. The spring wheat crop must go through without disaster to keep the wheat market a world affair instead of a domestic proposition. Anything tending to take this country out of the export column for the coming year of for any material part of it was eagerly looked for by the bull element, which was anxious to discount the effect. It was more in the air to bull wheat than to depress it, the accidents thus far coming often enough to give the bulls many opportunities.

• • •

Logan & Bryan, Chicago, to Paine, Webber & Co.: The result of the trading today in wheat was a disappointment to the bulls. There was plenty of bull news, but on any advance there appeared to be plenty of long wheat for sale. Late in the session when the market did not show any better response to the higher cables and very bullish reports from Kansas many smaller holders became discouraged and let go. The result was a soft market during the closing hour and last prices half a cent under final figures of yesterday. As thrashing returns come in and later estimates made the Kansas harvest outlook is poorer than before. Smiley, of the Grain eDalers' association, lowers the estimate about 15 per cent since observations were made for the last government report. Texas and Oklahoma millers claim they will want 25,000,000 or 30,000,000 bushels of wheat and it is doubtful if much Kansas wheat gets east of the river from this year's crop. At the first positive damage reports from the spring wheat country big buying will start in the wheat.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Heavy Selling of Rock Island Was the Chief Feature.

Trading Dull and Prices Dropped Under Very Light Offerings.

New York, June 20.—Quotations in less than a score of stocks were recorded in the first five minutes of trading and these showed no decisive tone in the market a rise of ¾ in Erie first preferred was the most conspicuous caange. Reading opened at an advance of ⅜ and then sagged ⅝.

Reading slipped back to 99¾c before the general demand arose which gave a strong tone to the dealings. Not much stock was on offer at the ruling prices, and the list rose substantially here and there, with Union Pacific and Reading leading. Union Pacific got up 1⅛ to 183⅛ and Reading rebounded to 101¼. Some of the other well-known railroads and specialties were quoted from ½ to ¾ above yesterday's closing. General Electric gained 1¾, allowing for the rights off, and Missouri Pacific, the Denver & Rio Grande stocks and Locomotive 1. Reading second preferred yielded 2 and Virginia-Carolina Chemical preferred.

Dealings were inconsequential and prices drifted slightly lower. Gains were recorded, however, of 1½ in Railway Steel Spring, 1¼ in Illinois Central and 1 in Norfolk & Western and Republic Steel. Allis-Chalmers declined 1⅜. Bonds were steady.

Profit-taking was the principal cause of the drop after 1 o'clock which ran to a point in Reading and about 1½ as much in other stocks. Atlantic Coast line advanced 1 and United States Realty yielded 1½.

The market grew distinctly heavier during the afternoon, but there was no increase in the amount of selling. Rock Island was conspicuously weak, falling from 2¼ to 20¼ and the preferred sold a point below yesterday's closing. Northwestern gained 1.

The market closed stagnant. Prices gave way under very light offerings, declines below last night's closing reaching 1¼ for New York Central and 1 for Chesapeake & Ohio, Missouri Pacific, Union Pacific preferred and Amalgamated Copper. Steel fell 6 and United States Express rose 10¾. There was no recovery in the general list.

Stock Gossip.

Logan & Bryan, New York, to Paine, Webber & Co.: There was absolutely no feature to today's market outside of the hammering of Rock Island by a prominent interest. The heavy selling in this stock caused a decline in the price of one point and a fraction. The rest of the list remained stagnant throughout the session and the volume of trade was frightfully small. There were no new developments of importance and we do not look for much change in the market until after the July 1 disbursements. Buy good stocks on any signs of strength, however, as the undertone to this market is still very heavy.

The Cotton Market.

New York, June 20.—The cotton market opened easy at an advance of 1 point to a decline of 8 points, July being relatively steady on covering while later positions were lower and shortly after the opening showed a net loss of about 7 to 9 points on the active months, under liquidation and bear pressure, encouraged by lower cables and private reports of rain in Texas. The market was not more than steady during the midde of the morning.

Cotton, spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 12.85; middling gulf, 13.10. Sales, none. Futures closed steady. Closing bids: June 11.50; July, 11.52; August, 11.38; September, 11.37; October, 11.37; November, 11.34; December, 11.40; January, 11.50; February, 11.55; March, 11.60.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., June 20.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Market slow. Receipts light. Few outside buyers were on the market. Local demand was the heaviest for some time. Heavy young drafters having the call. John H. Holbrooke, Aberdeen, S. D., came in with a mixed consignment. Following unsteady values rule:

Drafters, extra	$175@260
Drafters, choice	125@175
Drafters, common to extra	70@125
Farm mares, extra	160@265
Farm mares, choice	125@165
Farm mares, common to good	65@125
Delivery, choice	150@185
Delivery, common to good	110@150
Drivers	145@265
Mules, according to size	145@225

St. Paul Live Stock.

St. Paul, June 20.—Cattle, receipts, 425; steady to lower; trade dull and quotations unchanged. Hogs, receipts, 2,800; 5c higher; range, $6.85@6.05; bulk, $6.40. Sheep, receipts, 250; sheep, 10c lower; lambs, steady; quotations unchanged.

Treasury Balances.

Washington, June 20.—Today's statement of the treasury balances in the general fund exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve in the division of redemption shows: Available cash balance, $260,198,100; gold coin and bullion, $84,056,507; gold certificates, $60,358,890.

Copper Gossip.

Boston to Vern R. Culbertson: Our market opened steady at yesterday's closing prices, thus holding the rally which started late yesterday. Balaklala and Trinity were again strong and active, the latter advancing 1½ points from the opening, later selling back to about 22. Trading in the rest of the list was fairly good, and interest was more manifest in the market than for some time. There was very little pressure to sell. While we do not look for any big advance, we we expect the rally to go further.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market today, while dull, was fairly strong and showed signs of being pretty well sold out and would respond more readily to any improvement in New York market than it has heretofore. There is a steady demand for Greene-Cananea around 15½ and the floating supply around that price is not very large. Osceola and Tamarack advanced easily on small transactions. They meet for dividend action within a few days and we would not be surprised to see an increase in both. It looks now as if we might see some good sales of the metal next week and if they are made anywhere around 23 to 25 cents it will have a good effect on the market all around.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: At the metal exchange today a further reduction of 1c was made in all grades of copper making, Lake 23½@24, Electro 22¼@22¾.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: Trading continued today in the same listless and uninteresting manner which we have become so accustomed to. Trinity and Balaklala were the early features in the local market. The only reason given was that their sponsor was due to arrive home today from abroad. Most anything would be a blessing from this decided deadlock which we are now in. We believe if there would be a large sale of copper made, no matter what the price might be, that these copper stocks would rally. They have every appearance of being sold to a whisper. The people who are crying "Rotten fish" are the very same ones who were bulling them 25 to 30 points higher and bidding 2 per cent above money rates to have them carried, and are now around trying to borrow them flat. When Amalgamated was selling at 112 a friend of mine told me he had absolute inside information it would sell 150. I saw him yesterday and he told me he knew Amalgamated would surely sell at 60 or 75. This should be a mighty good tip.

CHANGE FOR A THOUSAND.

New York Sun: There is a story current in those circles wherein betting on horse races is spoken of freely and admitted without a blush, that concerns an old sport and a thousand-dollar bill.

It seems that same months ago the horses were not running well, or it took an ax to get into poolroom, or something of that kind, and Young Sport was hard up. There was among his acquaintances a little old man, commonly called Pop, who was always shabby and insignificant in appearance, but who, somehow, usually had the faculty of having a twenty in his pocket.

He had one on the day when Young Sport touched him with his hard luck story, and the twenty changed hands. On several occasions thereafter, Pop got unobtrusively in the way of Young Sport, but there was nothing doing.

Pop never asked questions, simple old soul; he just waited. Bennings opened up, and Pimlico, and Aqueduct, but Young Sport persistently guessed wrong, and Pop, if all is to be believed, despaired of ever seeing the twenty again.

Thus ends the prologue, and the first act opens of a recent evening in a dispensary of liquid recuperators on the Great White Way. Enter Young Sport who approaches the chief dispenser, an acquaintance, with a sheepish and yet highly pretended smile.

"Say, is my face good for a ball? You see, it's this way," hastens to add before the chief dispenser can commit the break of turning him down, "I hit the races lucky today—simply couldn't lose, and when I cashed in I took the bulk of my winnings in this form, see?" and he displays a thousand-dollar bill.

"The rest of it was enough, I thought, to carry me over till tomorrow, but I'll be hanged if I haven't run dry. Here I am with $1,000 and can't buy a drink, because it's too late to get this thing changed and it's not to be expected that there'd be all this money in any till on the Way."

The dispenser is so impressed that he forgets the all night bank where change might be had, asks the victim of too much prosperity to indicate his prescription and sets forth the phials accordingly. Young Sport helps himself with a many grateful compliment to the dispenser's discriminating judgment, promises to pay tomorrow and departs to be discovered shortly afterward the central figure in a group of horse lovers at the Hoffman house.

Thither hurries shabby Pop after happenning to overhear the aforementioned chief dispenser telling of the man and naming him who flashed a thousand-dollar bill before his dazzled eyes. Pop insinuates himself into the group of horse lovers and looks hopefully up at the central figure.

TESTIMONY BY EXPERT

Railway Specialist Says Wisconsin Central Selected Best Terminals.

George W. Ristine of Chicago Figures in the Appeal Cases.

The feature in this morning's session of the district court in the Wisconsin Central appeal cases was the appearance of George W. Ristine of Chicago, who has a national reputation as an expert on matters pertaining to railroad terminals and construction work, as witness on the question of terminal values, for John J. Murphy, the appelant property owner.

This is the first instance that an expert witness in the matter of railroad terminals has been called in the condemnation proceedings instituted by the railway company to acquire its right of way and depot location, and Mr. Ristine's reputation along railroad lines makes his presence here, and his testimony of special interest.

In qualifying as an expert witness Mr. Ristine stated that he began railroad work in the '60s, as a clerk for the Empire Transportation company; that in the several succeeding years he held respectively the position of superintendent, general freight agent, and general manager of the company and its auxilliaries, including the Anchor Line of boats that comes to Duluth. Mr. Ristine has held during his years of experience the following positions: Assistant to the presidents of the Denver & Rio Grande, the Colorado Fuel & Iron company and the Mexican National Construction company; assistant manager of the Denver & Rio Grande and the Rio Grande & Western lines; general manager of the Texas & St. Louis road; commissioner of the Transportation association, including all Pacific coast roads; traffic manager of the Atlantic Pacific; general manager of the Erie Dispatch; assistant and traffic manager of the Erie railway company; general manager of the United States Car company; receiver of the Colorado-Midland road, and president of the same road after its reorganization; chairman of the Western Passenger agreement; director of transportation at the St. Louis World's fair; president of the Ristine company and the Rowell-Potter Safety company, and consulting official for the Oklahoma Central Railway company, which is constructing lines through Indian territory.

Mr. Ristine said that for the past few years he has been engaged in making special reports on railway terminals and construction.

The witness testified that he is familiar in a general way with the railroad situation at the Head of the Lakes, of the freight and passenger business handled by the various roads, and has investigated carefully the proposed terminals of the Wisconsin Central road, between Sixth and Seventh avenues west, on Superior and Michigan street, in which block are the two lots owned by Mr. Murphy.

"I consider it a very desirable site," said Mr. Ristine, "from a construction standpoint, as well as for its proximity to the other railroads, to the viaduct leading over to the steamboat landings, the street car lines and the Incline railway. It is a site that gives ready access to teams from Michigan street, and passengers from Superior street. They will have no hills to climb and, in inclement weather, will not be exposed in getting from cars to the depot. I also consider its proximity to the hotels and the main business part of the city."

The witness claimed that, all things considered, he does not know of another location in the city that is so desirable for terminal purposes. He also said that any railroad company would consider the acquisition of the location in question, if its finances permitted, and that the traffic which would accrue to a road with such a location will justify an additional expense in acquiring such a desirable site.

Just before the noon recess of court Mr. Harrison, representing Mr. Murphy, sought to bring out the opinion of the witness as to the value of the Murphy property for railroad terminals, as compared with its values for any other uses, but Mr. Crassweller, for the Wisconsin Central company, was sustained in his objection, on the ground that the witness had not qualified sufficiently to answer.

Frank I. Salter, who has been in the real estate business in Duluth for a number of years, testified that the market value of lots in the block selected by the Wisconsin Central company for its depot, was from $900 to $1,000 a foot in November last. Mr. Salter claimed that the lots have advanced in value about $20 a foot this past year, and that during 1905 they advanced $200 to $300 a foot in value. Under cross-examination, Mr. Salter admitted that he had acted as agent for A. M. Miller, Jr., in the purchase of some property in the locality in question during the past few years. He thought, as a general rule, the value of the inside lots is 25 per cent less than that of corner lots, there being some exceptions.

George M. Smith, general agent for the Omaha road in Duluth, a witness called for Mr. Murphy, testified that in his opinion the depot site selected by the Wisconsin Central road is a most desirable one. Under cross-examination Mr. Smith would not admit that the Wisconsin Central road is likely to get more passenger business than the Omaha because of a better location, but he wished the Omaha road had its depot on the site selected by the Wisconsin Central company.

It was expected that other expert real estate witnesses would be called this afternoon.

WAR SPIRIT VANISHES IN JAPAN AND A CLOSER FRIENDSHIP WILL RESULT

Formal Announcement Made That Aoki Will be Retained.

Count Okuma and Others Fail to Have Him Removed.

Pressure From Abroad Brought to Bear on the Japanese.

Washington, June 21.—The formal announcement by Viscount Hayashi, the Japanese minister for foreign affairs, in a Tokio dispatch published today, that Ambassador Aoki is to be retained at Washington is regarded here as clearly establishing the fact that the present Japanese ministry, headed by Marquis Saionji, has assured itself of the support of both the Unionist and Conservative parties in its present attitude toward America. For a time there was some doubt about Washington even in the minds of the officials

PROHIBITION IS TO BE FOUGHT

Liquor Men to Raise Big Fund to Oppose Legislation.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 21.—Injection of anti-saloon sentiments into the platforms of both great political parties in the next national campaign was predicted at last night's sessions of the National Wholesale Liquor Dealers association convention in this city. Call was made for the federation of liquor interest in the United States, not only to meet the present sweep of prohibition agitation, but to prepare to check the movement in the presidential conventions of 1908, speakers declaring that growth of the crusades against liquor will force the party leaders to recognize the necessity of placing some "platform doctrine" dealing with the subject, before the people at the coming election. Organization of a great campaign fund to meet the new conditions was advocated by the protective bureau of the association and big contributions to this fund from every liquor interest were urged.

George Dierrle of Cincinnati, Ohio, was elected president of the association.

POWER IS INCREASED

Governors of Russian Provinces Given Greater Authority.

Can Perform Many Acts Without Recourse to Courts.

St. Petersburg, June 21.—An imperial ukase has been issued to the governors of the provinces of Archangel, Novgorod, Olnetz, Pskov, Ryazan, Smolensk, Tver and Yaroslav, according them special powers, empowering them to suspend newspapers, disperse meetings, banish undesirable persons and take other measures for the maintenance of public security by administrative process, without having to resort to the courts, and to inflict punishment up to three months imprisonment and $500 fine. These provinces include practically the entire area of Russia where some form of martial law has not already been proclaimed. The administrative powers of the governors correspond with those given under a state of "reinforced security." The step was taken to head off agrarian disorders, the possibility of which it is believed greatly increased the determination of the Social Democrats, Social Revolutionists and members of the group of toil to issue a joint manifesto to the nation, urging the people not to accept the "aristocratic regime contemplated by the new election law," but to defend the idea of popular representation by force.

The delegates of the railroad organizations have for several days been endeavoring to hold a conference in St. Petersburg. The police are closely on their trail and have made wholesale arrests, and house searches among railroad officials and employes. Several prominent leaders and many of the smaller cry have been captured. The railroad men contemplated declaring a general strike, but they are awaiting a more favorable opportunity.

NO HURRY AT THE HAGUE

Real Work of Committees Not to Begin Until Monday.

Friction Between Powers Has Been Relegated to Background.

The Hague, June 21.—The international peace conference is showing no haste to settle down to business. The members today are taking a holiday while the presidents and vice presidents of committees are holding meetings privately to arrange for uniform committee procedure as far as possible. Tomorrow three of the committees will meet to perfect their organization and adopt rules. The fourth committee will not meet until Monday. The real work, therefore, will not begin until next week.

With the question of the limitation of armaments out of the way, at least temporarily, whatever friction exists among the powers has been relegated to the back ground. The smaller European states are prepared strongly to second the United States in pushing the principle of arbitration, including a compulsory feature, to the uttermost limits.

President Nelidoff, at the renewed special request of the delegates will not divulge the text of any proposition submitted by the various governments.

CHILD PERISHES WHEN HOME BURNS

Other Occupants of Burning House Succeed in Escapng.

Marquette, Mich., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Death amid flames was the fate of the 9-year-old daughter of Mrs. Joseph Belleville, at Bovee, Schoolcraft county. Fire breaking out at an early hour in the morning, presumably from an overheated stovepipe, had attained such headway when discovered that the older occupants of the house escaped in the nick of time, clad only in their night clothing. Attempts to rescue the little girl were futile. Her charred remains were found in the ruins after a bucket brigade had quenched the embers. The dwelling was consumed, and with it its entire contents.

DAN HANNA'S WIFE GETS A DIVORCE

Second Spouse of Late Senator's Son Granted Separation.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 21.—Mrs. Daisy Gordon Hanna was granted a divorce from Dan R. Hanna, son of the late Senator M. A. Hanna, by Judge Phillips, in common pleas court today. Mrs. Hanna was given the custody of the only child. The alimony was privately agreed upon out of court.

Mrs. Daisy Gordon Hanna was the second wife of Dan R. Hanna, his first wife having been May Harrington Hanna, who obtained a divorce in 1898, and is now the wife of Edward K. Stallo of New York. The grounds for the suit for divorce were alleged gross neglect and cruelty.

Mrs. Daisy Gordon Hanna, prior to her marriage to Dan R. Hanna, was the wife of Walter Des Maud, an English army officer, from whom she obtained a divorce a few years ago.

HANCOCK KNIGHTS ARE HOT AFTER TROPHY.

Hancock, June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hancock Knights of Pythias' third rank team expects to carry off the silver trophy put up by the Upper Peninsula Pythian league at the annual re-union and tournament, which will be held in Hancock beginning with Monday. One of the most formidable opponents to the Hancock team, that from the Houghton lodge, will likely not be represented. The Soo team, outside of Hancock, is the strongest in the Upper Peninsula in the work, and has held the cup twice already. It is necessary to win the trophy three times in order to hold it permanently. Already the advance guard of the delegations expected to gather here are arriving.

BAKER IS WORSE.

Leavenworth, Kans., June 21.—The condition of Former United States Senator Lucien Baker, took a change for the worse today. The attending physician reported the patient as being barely alive.

NO ADVANCE; NO STRIKE

Sheet and Tin Workers to Accept Last Year's Scale.

Will Affect About 15,000 Men Throughout the Country.

Pittsburg, June 21.—There will be no advance in wages in the sheet and tin mills of the country this year, and no strike will follow the refusal of the manufacturers to concede the increase of from 6 to 16 per cent demanded at the annual convention of the association, last month.

As a result of negotiations carried on here all week between representatives of the Amalgamated association and the officers of the American Sheet & Tin Plate company, last year's scale will prevail.

President Bray of the American Sheet & Tin Plate company informed the workers' committee that if the advance was insisted upon, the plants would close down, or be operated by non-union men. The present conditions of the tin market, Bray said, would not justify an advance.

The decision to accept last year's scale affects all the sheet and tin workers in the country, about 15,000 men.

SULTAN GIVES SATISFACTION

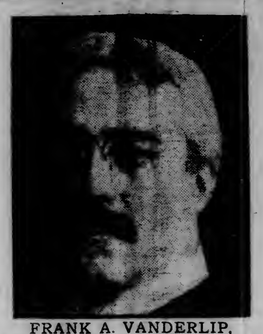

Comes to Time on the Last Outstanding Question.

Constantinople, June 21.—The porte has addressed a communication to the American embassy here giving satisfaction in the case of the last outstanding question between the embassy and the porte and thus removing the final obstacle in the way of America's adhesion to the 3 per cent customs increase which will follow in the course of a day or two.

Ambassador Leishman yesterday visited the ports after two months' absence, and today he will attend the selamlik, after which he will be received in audience by the sultan.

FORTY-EIGHT ARE CONDEMNED TO DIE.

Kiev, Russia, June 21.—The court-martial convened to try the mutinous sappers at the summer camp at Banievka, is said to have acted with promptness and severity. It is reported that forty-eight mutineers have already been condemned and shot.

FRANK A. VANDERLIP,
New York Banker, Who Says the Question of Business Depression Lies Entirely With the People.

LIES WITH THE PUBLIC

As to Whether Commercial Activities Will be Curtailed.

Problems Must be Worked Out With Fairness, Says Vanderlip.

Norfolk, Va., June 21.—Frank A. Vanderlip, vice president of the National City bank of New York, delivered an address this morning before the Virginia Bankers' association, in convention at the Jamestown exposition. He said in part:

"That the period ahead of us is one in which commercial activities will be curtailed, and manufacturers totals show a decrease, there is really little division of well-informed opinion. The question that is desirable to consider is only in relation to the extent of this recession. Will it be but a dip, lasting only a few months, giving us but time to catch our breath before we march on to renewed accomplishments in this most wonderful development of prosperity, or is there to be a more pro-

THREE LOSE LIVES.

In the Burning of a Steamer on Washademoak Lake, N. B.

St. John, N. B., June 21.—The steamer Crystal Stream was burned to the water's edge in Washademoak lake, last night and three members of the crew were burned to death, according to advices received here today. The men were in their bunks and were unable to make their escape after the flames broke out.

BOY GETS BAD BUMP

Struck by Lowry's Auto and Hurled Through Glass Shield.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy Was Riding With Street Car Magnate.

Minneapolis, June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Lowry's automobile, in which were riding Thomas Lowry, president of the Soo railroad and the Twin City Rapid Transit company, and his guest, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific railroad, ran into and painfully injured a small boy bicyclist, at Third street and Third avenue south, yesterday afternoon. The boy was hurled over the front of the machine and his head broke the glass shield of the limousine in front of the driver.

The accident is said to have been inevitable, as neither the chauffeur nor the boy saw the other until it was too late to turn. Bystanders assert that the automobile had turned onto the wrong side of the street. The boy was riding rapidly on his wheel, and could not turn after he saw the approaching car. One of the front lamps of the automobile struck the boy's wheel, and was crushed into fragments by the impact. The force of the blow sent the boy's body over the hood and crashing into the glass of the chauffeur's shield.

Physicians were at once summoned and the boy given every possible attention. A deep cut on the back of the head, caused by the broken glass, was his chief injury, although he was painfully bruised about the

CONFERENCE WITH TAFT

Held at St. Louis Concerning Dispute With Jesuit Fathers.

St. Louis, June 21.—Secretary Taft arrived today en route to Washington. During his stay of two hours, Festus J. Wade was in conference with him relative to the dispute between the Philippine government and the Jesuit fathers, concerning the ownership of $8,000,000 worth of property in the Philippine islands. Mr. Wade represents Archbishop Harty of Manila in endeavoring to secure settlement of the dispute. Secretary Taft stated, after the conference, that he would not render a decision until after his return to Washington.

THE STATE CLOSES ITS CASE AGAINST HAYWOOD FOR GOVERNOR'S MURDER

Important Testimony is Given by Handwriting Expert.

A Negro Witness Connects Haywood Directly With Orchard.

Attorneys for Haywood to Ask for Verdict of Acquittal.

Boise, June 21.—The state this morning made its last tender of evidence against William D. Haywood, on trial for the alleged murder of Frank Steunenberg, and the lead is now with the defense which will this afternoon ask for an instructed verdict for the prisoner.

Two important pieces of testimony were offered this morning.

Charles S. Kingsley, a handwriting expert, testified that the writing of the waivers on the money telegram sent from Pettibone's store in Denver in the names of "J. Wolff" and "P. Bone" to "H. Green" in San Francisco was done by the same hand that penned Pettibone's letter to John L. Stearns.

A stipulation by the defense admitting the fact that Haywood telegraphed money to Steve Adams at Ogden in 1903 and a ruling by the court denying the dissenting opinion in the Moyer habeas corpus case in Colorado, cleared the direct work of the prosecution and opened the way to the plea and case of the defense.

Not more than 100 persons occupied seats outside the bar today. Of these at least forty were witnesses. Haywood's mother and sister were the only members of his family present.

"Jim" Seahorn, a negro horsedealer of Denver, testified to the sale of a horse and buggy to Haywood in Denver. Orchard had testified as to the sale of the team to Haywood. He said the team was needed to get about in connection with their various undertakings. Seahorn said that Orchard came to him and with him he drove to Pettibone's place of business. Pettibone came out and together they drove to the place he described as the location of the headquarters of the Western Federation of Miners. Orchard went upstairs and came down with another man. The other man got in the buggy and said they would be back soon and they drove off together.

"Do you know this other man?" asked Mr. Hawley.

"Yes."

"Look around and say if you can see him here."

The negro looked over the defense side and pointed a finger at Haywood. "Yes, sir, that's the man," he said. There was a pause and silence broken only by a stir among the spectators. It was the first direct connection of Haywood with Orchard, and a strong corroboration of the Orchard story.

"How much did you get for the outfit?"

"One hundred dollars."

"Who paid you?"

"Mr. Orchard."

"You just got the money and gave Orchard a bill of sale?"

"No, sir, the bill of sale was made to Mr. Pettibone."

He described the horse as a little black mare and the vehicle as a top-buggy.

He said he met Orchard at the penitentiary after coming to Boise. He said he was summoned by Pinkerton detectives, and received his fare and expenses from them in advance.

Seahorn proved to be the last witness for the state.

Senator Borah stated that with the exception of proving the sending of a money order for $75 by the Western Union from Haywood in Denver to

"OBEY, OR KILL ME"

Orders Given to Mutinous Regiment by French General.

Battalion Deserts and Joins Insurgent Winegrowers.

Paris, June 21.—A battalion of the Sevententh infantry regiments stationed at Agde, in the department of Herault, has deserted with its arms and ammunition and joined the insurgent winegrowers at Beziers, the headquarters of the regiment. The mutineers, who mostly were recruited among the winegrowers, number about 400 men. They marched into Beziers, which has about 50,000 inhabitants, with drums beating and colors flying and are now camped in the principal square of that city, with stacked arms. The deserters tried to enlist the sympathies of the remainder of the regiment, stationed at Beziers, but failing to do so they promised to eject them from their barracks.

Early this afternoon the sub-prefect of Beziers notified Premier Clemenceau that the mutineers had offered to return to Agde on the condition that they were not punished. A little later they

DEFENDED HIS MOTHER

Felix Chiliki Slapped Woman Whom He Claims Assaulted Parent.

Another Dreaded "Goosetown" Case Due in Municipal Court.

One of the much dreaded "Goosetown" cases is due to come up in municipal court Monday afternoon. Mrs. Juliana Datka yesterday swore out a warrant for the arrest of 17-year-old Felix Chiliki, son of her next door neighbor, charging him with assault. Felix was arraigned in municipal court this morning, a few minutes after his mother had sworn out a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Datka, the original complainant.

Felix admitted slapping Mrs. Datka, but said that she had struck his mother with a club, in which were a number of nails, some of which had cut his mother on the arm. He offered the club in evidence and it was a rather dangerous looking weapon.

Mrs. Datka will be brought into court Monday afternoon to face the charge brought against her by Mrs. Chiliki, and the judge suspended sentence in the boy's case until that time, so that all sides of the case may be heard. Felix is an inoffensive looking lad, and told a very straight story of the affair. He said that he could not let Mrs. Datka hit his mother again with the dangerous club, and that he had only slapped her twice on the face.

MUST CHANGE THE SYSTEM

Council and Board Must Get Together on Moving Permits.

As the result of a ruling by Judge Windom in municipal court this morning in the case of Andrew Anderson, a house mover arrested on complaint of the board of public works, a change in the council's method of proceeding in regard to granting house moving permits will have to be made.

The ordinance provides that the house mover shall be granted permission to move a house by the council, but that the route shall be laid out by the board of public works. Anderson had the council's permit, but the route had not been laid out by the board. The judge held that this was not up to the house mover but up to the council and that they should refer applications to the board of public works to have the route laid out before granting the permit.

SEE HUGE MONSTER.

Wierd Tale Told by Men Working Along Ekstrom Lake.

Anoka, Minn., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual sea serpent story being due, the inland country is coming to the front with a weird tale, rivalling anything ever reported along the seashore in the sea serpent line. A letter received here from a man living at Nowthen, in this (Anoka) county, says men working on the ditch which is to drain the Ekstrom lake, near Four Corners, in Burns, have seen about eight feet of the back of a huge monster, the head and tail being submerged under waters; others claim to have seen the head and tail, the latter being like that of a dog. It is reported that glimpses of this "what-is-it" have been seen now and then for the past fifteen years.

A contrivance, equipped with a number of 1¼-inch steel hooks is being rigged up with a view to capturing the beast. At any rate, the "monster" will be landed not later than September, when the lake will be drained.

STRUCK BY AN IRON BAR

Italian Laborer Says Foreman Hit Him Blow on Head.

Was Stretched Unconscious by Blow During Argument Over Pay.

With a head badly swollen and swathed in bandages, an Italian workman named Royo was this morning looking for Assistant County Attorney Stevenson in order to swear out a warrant for second degree assault for the foreman on an East end street job. The foreman, according to Royo's story, hit him over the head with an iron bar and felled him to the ground, leaving him unconscious for several minutes.

The trouble, according to the laborer's story, arose over a pay check for only $1.75. He protested and after some words he said the foreman pushed him to the ground. He got up and went to look for a policeman, but failed to find one of the men in blue, and came back and renewed his argument with the foreman. The latter, without any provocation, according to Royo, picked up a heavy bar of iron and brought it down on the workman's skull, stretching him unconscious on the ground.

He was revived by some of his fellow workmen and taken down town, where a doctor attended to his wounds. Accompanied by an interpreter he started out on a still hunt for Assistant County Attorney Stevenson this morning, searching for revenge and a warrant.

SAND SAMPLES ARE EXHIBITED

In Damage Case of Dock Company Against Dredge Concern.

The damage case of the Boston Coal, Dock & Wharf company against the Lake Superior Contracting & Dredging company is expected to reach the jury by this evening, or by next Monday morning. The dock company alleges that when the dredge company did some dock extension it carelessly and negligently filled up the channel, near the dock with debris handled by the dredges; that the government ordered the dock company to remove the obstruction, and it did so at an expense of nearly $9,000. The dredge company is held liable for damages in that amount.

The dredge company claims that it performed its dock contract in a workmanlike manner, and that the deposit of sand and other material in the channel was a natural deposit by the St. Louis river rather than dirt dumped there by the dredges.

Among the exhibits in the case were some forty bottles of sand and silt. Officers of the dredge company picked out of the number four bottles containing samples, said to resemble the material dug out by the dredges in the dock work.

ANTIQUE WATCHES.

Considerable deception has been practised on the unwary by the sale of so-called antique watches. It is a common thing for the expert horologist to find ordinary modern watches set in manufactured antique cases. Some of these counterfeits are so ingeniously made as to deceive even the watch connoisseur, says the New York Sun.

There are certain marks, however, which serve as a fair guide to the authenticity of an antique watch, and the following hints will be useful in determining the age and value of old watches.

According to the authorities, the first watch was invented about the year 1500. The original pocket timepiece was cylindrical in shape and made entirely of iron, including the plates, pinions, wheels and pillars. Watches of oval form did not appear earlier than about 1550. Most of them date back to the period around 1600. It is probable that there were no watches decorated with enamel before 1632.

The balance spring was invented about the year 1658, but was not extensively employed until 1690. Repeating watches were not invented before 1676. Watches with alarm attachments were carried in the sixteenth century.

The minute hand was introduced only with the use of the balance spring, and consequently is not met with until the end of the seventeenth century. Notwithstanding the fact that the cylinder escapement was invented in 1710, it is found only in isolated cases in the eighteenth century.

Almost all timepieces until the beginning of the nineteenth century were vertical watches. Watches having chased cases did not make their appearance before the beginning of the eighteenth century.

"Quatre coleurs" cases are not found before the year 1700, watches with gongs not before 1780. Watches with movable figures on the dial and musical watches occur only around the eighteenth century. Watches set with pearls came into vogue in about the same period.

More or less valuable are the so-called egg watches, watches with but one hand, watches with fine openwork or exquisitely chased cases, gold enamelled watches, which are enamelled both inside and outside, watches in general which are handsomely decorated in any respect.

Those of less value are: Chased watches, whose figures are worn off; watches with painted tombac cases (copper enamels); watches with cases in "quatre coleurs" (the application of gold in four colors), unless they are beautifully executed and well preserved; watches which are uninjured, and finally all watches which are devoid of any artistic decoration, which includes silver and gold watches with plain cases and unembellished dials, irrespective of the kind of works they may contain.

CHOCOLATE AND COCOA.

Chocolate and cocoa are not likely to oust coffee and tea in the national affections but they are pushing hard. We are spending a million dollars a month for cacao, which is the raw product from which both cocoa and chocolate are obtained.

During the last ten years our importations of cacao have increased 200 per cent., while those of coffee have increased only 39 per cent. and those of tea have decreased 14 per cent. At the present time, cacao is gaining on its rivals at a more rapid rate than ever before.

Most of the cacao consumed in America comes from Brazel, the British Indies and the West Indian islands.

It is during the last three years, according to What to Eat, that the increase in cacao importance has been most marked. Manufacturers have been forced to make addition after addition to the capacity of their plants, to increase their working forces to enormous proportions, and still it has been almost impossible for them to fill all orders on time.

Importers of raw products from the tropics are doing the most rushing business of their lives, and importers of prepared cocoas from Europe must get busy to keep from being trampled under foot by American enterprise in feeding the "chocolate tooth" Uncle Sam has cut.

The cocoa bean possesses more nitrogen than wheat flour, and about twenty times as much fatty matter as wheat flour. One-half of the weight of cocoa is cocoa butter and one-third starch.

In Central America cocoa and maize cakes, comprising a large amount of nourishment in very small bulk, are used as food for travellers on long overland trips; a case is recorded of a man who attained the age of a hundred years who ate nothing but chocolate and biscuit for thirty years.

A CASE OF GREED.

Los Angeles Times: Mayor Weaver of Philadelphia was condemning the greed of a certain corporation.

"Really," he said, "their greed is so enormous as to be laughable. It is like the man in the barber shop. The barber, at the end of the shave, said to this man:

"Will you have bay rum, lavender water, eau de cologne, alum, magnesium, or powder on your face, sir?'

"'Any extra charge?' the man asked.

"'No, sir.'

"'Then I'll take all of them.'"

DEFENDED HIS MOTHER

Felix Chiliki Slapped Woman Whom He Claims Assaulted Parent.

Another Dreaded "Goosetown" Case Due in Municipal Court.

One of the much dreaded "Goosetown" cases is due to come up in municipal court Monday afternoon. Mrs. Juliana Datka yesterday swore out a warrant for the arrest of 17-year-old Felix Chiliki, son of her next door neighbor, charging him with assault. Felix was arraigned in municipal court this morning, a few minutes after his mother had sworn out a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Datka, the original complainant.

Felix admitted slapping Mrs. Datka, but said that she had struck his mother with a club, in which were a number of nails, some of which had cut his mother on the arm. He offered the club in evidence and it was a rather dangerous looking weapon.

Mrs. Datka will be brought into court Monday afternoon to face the charge brought against her by Mrs. Chiliki, and the judge suspended sentence in the boy's case until that time, so that all sides of the case may be heard. Felix is an inoffensive looking lad, and told a very straight story of the affair. He said that he could not let Mrs. Datka hit his mother again with the dangerous club, and that he had only slapped her twice on the face.

MUST CHANGE THE SYSTEM

Council and Board Must Get Together on Moving Permits.

As the result of a ruling by Judge Windom in municipal court this morning in the case of Andrew Anderson, a house mover arrested on complaint of the board of public works, a change in the council's method of proceedure in regard to granting house moving permits will have to be made.

The ordinance provides that the house mover shall be granted permission to move a house by the council, but that the route shall be laid out by the board of public works. Anderson had the council's permit, but the route had not been laid out by the board. The judge held that this was not up to the house mover but up to the council and that they should refer applications to the board of public works to have the route laid out before granting the permit.

SEE HUGE MONSTER.

Anoka, Minn., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual sea serpent story being due, the inland country is coming to the front with a weird tale, rivalling anything ever reported along the seashore in the sea serpent line. A letter received here from a man living at Nowthen, in this (Anoka) county, says men working on the ditch which is to drain the Ekstrom lake, near Four Corners, in Burns, have seen about eight feet of the back of a huge monster, the head and tail being submerged under waters; others claim to have seen the head and tail, the latter being like that of a dog. It is reported that glimpses of this "what-is-it" have been seen now and then for the past fifteen years.

A contrivance, equipped with a number of 1¼-inch steel hooks is being rigged up with a view to capturing the beast. At any rate, the "monster" will be landed not later than September, when the lake will be drained.

STRUCK BY AN IRON BAR

Italian Laborer Says Foreman Hit Him Blow on Head.

Was Stretched Unconscious by Blow During Argument Over Pay.

With a head badly swollen and swathed in bandages, an Italian workman named Royo was this morning looking for Assistant County Attorney Stevenson in order to swear out a warrant for second degree assault for the foreman on an East end street job. The foreman, according to Royo's story, hit him over the head with an iron bar and felled him to the ground, leaving him unconscious for several minutes.

The trouble, according to the laborer's story, arose over a pay check for only $1.75. He protested and after some words he said the foreman pushed him to the ground. He got up and went to look for a policeman, but failed to find one of the men in blue, and came back and renewed his argument with the foreman. The latter, without any provocation, according to Royo, picked up a heavy bar of iron and brought it down on the workman's skull, stretching him unconscious on the ground.

He was revived by some of his fellow workmen and taken down town, where a doctor attended to his wounds. Accompanied by an interpreter he started out on a still hunt for Assistant County Attorney Stevenson this morning, searching for revenge and a warrant.

SAND SAMPLES ARE EXHIBITED

In Damage Case of Dock Company Against Dredge Concern.

The damage case of the Boston Coal, Dock & Wharf company against the Lake Superior Contracting & Dredging company is expected to reach the jury by this evening, or by next Monday morning. The dock company alleges that when the dredge company did some dock extension it carelessly and negligently filled up the channel, near the dock with debris handled by the dredges; that the government ordered the dock company to remove the obstruction, and it did so at an expense of nearly $9,000. The dredge company is held liable for damages in that amount.

The dredge company claims that it performed its dock contract in a workmanlike manner, and that the deposit of sand and other material in the channel was a natural deposit by the St. Louis river rather than dirt dumped there by the dredges.

Among the exhibits in the case were some forty bottles of sand and silt. Officers of the dredge company picked out of the number four bottles containing samples, said to resemble the material dug out by the dredges in the dock work.

BADLY SCARED.

Launch Party Has a Perilous Experience on Lake Michigan.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 21.—An Evening Wisconsin special from Green Bay says: Eleven persons, including Charles Stejeskal of Milwaukee and his recently acquired Green Bay bride and Albert Stejeskal, his brother, were tossed about on Green Bay from 9 o'clock last night until after 5 o'clock this morning in a small gasoline launch, and were picked up by rescuers in a boat from this city. Four girls in the party were nearly prostrated from fright. The wind at midnight blew about fifteen miles an hour, and the occupants of the craft thought they would be sent to the bottom at any moment. The engine of the launch refused to work.

He says the animal aroused him from his sleep by prowling around his cabin and seizing his rifle he shot the animal dead at the first shot.

WANTS THE LAND.

Government to Begin Condemnation Proceedings for Flowage Rights.

St. Paul, June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The United States district attorney's office been just received instructions to begin condemnation proceedings to secure the flowage rights for reservoir purposes, of 387 tracts of lands in Cass, Crowing, Beltrami, Hubbard and Itasca counties, representing a total of 5,000 acres.

The government wishes to acquire the land for the maintenance, operation and construction of the Winnebigoshish, Leach Lake, Pokegema, Pine River and Sandy Lake reservoirs.

Conductor Stops Train.

After the engineer and fireman had jumped, believing their lives to be in danger, Conductor J. McNulty of the Missabe ore train which left Proctor yesterday afternoon at 1:45, succeeded in bringing the runaway train to a stop on the hill between Proctor and the ore docks in the West end. The engineer had tried to put on the air brakes and they failed to work, so he and the fireman jumped. Conductor McNulty went back to the caboose and tried working the brakes from there. They worked all right and the train was stopped. All the trains come down the hill with brakes on and when they failed to work yesterday, the trainmen got scared.

Technical World: More patents were issued during 1906 and more money collected by the United State patent office than any single year previous, with the exception of 1905, since the establishment of the patent office in 1836.

It is shown that the receipts reached a total of $1,790,921.38 for the twelve months, while the expenditures of the office were $1,554,891.20, making a net gain for the year of $236,030.18.

During the past year there were 56,482 applications for patents for inventions, designs and reissues, and a total of 31,965 patents were issued. The residents of New York state proved the most active inventors, submitting 4,642 applications, or one for every 1,565 persons. Illinois was second, with 3,107 patents. ANTIQUE WATCHES.

Considerable deception has been practised on the unwary by the sale of so-called antique watches. It is a common thing for the expert horologist to find ordinary modern watches set in manufactured antique cases. Some of these counterfeits are so ingeniously made as to deceive even the watch connoisseur, says the New York Sun.

There are certain marks, however, which serve as a fair guide to the authenticity of an antique watch, and the following hints will be useful in determining the age and value of old watches.

According to the authorities, the first watch was invented about the year 1500. The original pocket timepiece was cylindrical in shape and made entirely of iron, including the plates, pinions, wheels and pillars. Watches of oval form did not appear earlier than about 1550. Most of them date back to the period around 1600. It is probable that there were no watches decorated with enamel before 1632.

The balance spring was invented about the year 1658, but was not extensively employed until 1690. Repeating watches were not invented before 1676. Watches with alarm attachments were carried in the sixteenth century.

The minute hand was introduced only with the use of the balance spring, and consequently is not met with until the end of the seventeenth century. Notwithstanding the fact that the cylinder escapement was invented in 1710, it is found only in isolated cases in the eighteenth century.

Almost all timepieces until the beginning of the nineteenth century were vertical watches. Watches having chased cases did not make their appearance before the beginning of the eighteenth century.

"Quatre coleurs" cases are not found before the year 1790, watches with gongs not before 1780. Watches with movable figures on the dial and musical watches occur only around the eighteenth entury. Watches set with pearls came into vogue in about the same period.

More or less valuable are the so-called egg watches, watches with but one hand, watches with fine openwork or exquisitely chased cases, gold enamelled watches, which are enamelled both inside and outside, watches in general which are handsomely decorated in any respect.

Those of less value are: Chased watches, whose figures are worn off; watches with painted tombac cases (copper enamels); watches with cases in "quatre coleurs" (the application of gold in four colors), unless they are beautifully executed and well preserved; watches which are uninjured, and finally all watches which are devoid of any artistic decoration, which includes silver and gold watches with plain cases and unembellished dials, irrespective of the kind of works they may contain.

CHOCOLATE AND COCOA.

Chocolate and cocoa are not likely to oust coffee and tea in the national affections but they are pushing hard. We are spending a million dollars a month for cacao, which is the raw product from which both cocoa and chocolate are obtained.

During the last ten years our importations of cacao have increased 200 per cent., while those of coffee have increased only 39 per cent. and those of tea have decreased 14 per cent. At the present time, cacao is gaining on its rivals at a more rapid rate than ever before.

Most of the cacao consumed in America comes from Brazel, the British Indies and the West Indian islands.

It is during the last three years, according to What to Eat, that the increase in cacao importance has been most marked. Manufacturers have been forced to make addition after addition to the capacity of their plants, to increase their working forces to enormous proportions, and still it has been almos; impossible for them to fill all orders on time.

Importers of raw products from the tropics are doing the most rushing business of their lives, and importers of prepared cocoas from Europe must get busy to keep from being trampled under foot by American enterprise in feeding the "chocolate tooth" Uncle Sam has cut.

The cocoa bean possesses more nitrogen than wheat flour, and about twenty times as much fatty matter as wheat flour. One-half of the weight of cocoa is cocoa butter and one-third starch.

In Central America cocoa and maize cakes, comprising a large amount of nourishment in very small bulk, are used as food for travellers on long overland trips; a case is recorded of a man who attained the age of a hundred years who ate nothing but chocolate and biscuit for thirty years.

A CASE OF GREED.

Los Angeles Times: Mayor Weaver of Philadelphia was condemning the greed of a certain corporation.

"Really," he said, "their greed is so enormous as to be laughable. It is like the man in the barber shop. The barber, at the end of the shave, said to this man:

"Will you have bay rum, lavender water, eau de cologne, alum, magnesium, or powder on your face, sir?"

"'Any extra charge?' the man asked.

"'No, sir.'

"'Then I'll take all of them.'"

Contest Cases on Tax Amendment Are Not Yet Ready.

Ballot Inspectors Have Not Completed the Recount of Votes.

Affidavits and motions for continuances have been filed in the appeals of S. G. McConaughy and F. A. Watkins from the action of the state canvassing board in declaring the tax amendment to have been carried at the last general election.

The affidavits are filed by H. H. Phelps, attorney for the contestants, who claims that while the referees who have been appointed to make the recount of the votes cast for and against the tax amendment have finished their work in a large portion of the precincts of the state, they are now working in the counties in the southwestern portion of the state, and it will be some time before they complete the recount as far as it is wished to carry it.

Mr. Phelphs sets forth the fact that so far as the recount has been conducted errors and miscounts have been shown on the tax amendment and the good roads amendment in every county, reports of which have been filed from time to time with the court.

The case was to have been heard June 22, but Mr. Phelps asks that it be continued until such a time as the contestants are able to properly prepare their causes for trial.

It is quite probable that the court will grant the continuance asked.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Mademoiselle Rena Vivienne, prosperous prima donna, alias Rena Smith, has come.

She buoyantly stepped off the train from Chicago at 1 o'clock today and immediately began to announce that she was glad to be back. That was not for publication exactly. She said it promiscuously to everybody she kissed. There was a little group awaiting that honor and she passed around with dizzy rapidity doling out the precious salutations. A fat gentleman interfered, but Rena didn't mind and when she found that it was somebody she had never seen before she said prettily, "I beg your pardon, sir, but I'm so glad to be back."

To get to improtant details at once, she wore a shirt waist suit of golden brown foulard spotted with white. A large sailor hat in brown, tan gloves, and a little black silk jacket. She also had a shopping bag of mammoth proportion that looked bulging with prosperity, and she is not a bit too thin to be nice.

"I'm so glad to get back," she said. Urged for details as to stage life, she said: 'I love it, of course, I love it, and Mme. Butterfly was so nice that I have signed with Savage for next season's tour, and that by the way, is the first official announcement of my next season's plans.'

(The prosperous prima donna's press announcements.)

"Our tour will probably be in the South, and probably we will not come through this territory at all. I was fearfully disappointed at not being able to sing here at the time of the engagement and to add to the disappointment it hurt even more to hear later that Duluth people were thinking it was jealousy among the prima donnas, or that I was afraid to sing before the Duluth people, or something of that sort. But I have gotten over feeling badly about that."

It was difficult to get Miss Vivienne to talk of the success of the winter. She accepted it as an ordinary thing, quite to be expected. Monosyllables were about all that could be elicited in regard to the success of her acting and singing and portrayal of the tragedy of "Mme. Butterfly." She didn't mind being interviewed, she admitted, and as yet she had steered clear of the entanglement of automobile accidents, husbands, and having her mythical jewels taken. She would submit, if the occasion demanded it, to having her mythical jewels taken, and if the motor accident was only on paper, she might tolerate it, but she positively and irrevocably drew the line at husbands. She wouldn't have them, and that was all there was to it.

In speaking of her singing of the role of Butterfly, before Puccini and other musical notables before her engagement by Mr. Savage, she said: "I wasn't frightened. I never am. Concert makes me a little uneasy, but for real stage fright I have never experienced it. I shall be so happy to sing before the Duluth people that I don't expect to suffer a qualm. It will be pure, unadulterated joy. I hope they'll like it," said Miss Vivienne.

Mrs. E. W. Smith is with her daughter, and they are the guests of John B. Sutphin of Third avenue west. They will remain in Duluth for three weeks, visiting friends, and the plans for the remainder of the summer are not determined. Miss Vivienne's only appearance in Duluth will be in concert, next Monday evening, at the Lyceum.

CLOSING SESSIONS.

Reception and Women's Meetings of Annual Convention.

The twelfth annual meeting of the Episcopal diocese of Duluth came to a close last evening with the reception which was held by Bishop and Mrs. J. D. Morrison in honor of the visiting clergy and lay delegates and their wives. The affair was held at the bishop's home, 2131 East Superior street. The guests were received by Bishop and Mrs. Morrison, Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Ryan, and Rev. and Mrs. R. J. Mooney and assisting about the parlors were Mrs. Page Morris and Mrs. W. J. Suffel.

In the dining room Mrs. T. H. Green and Mrs. Sterling Smith presided, and assisting were Miss Lizzie Sharvey, Miss Rachael Caldwell, Miss Marion Cunningham, Miss Muriel Hobbs, and Miss Eleanor Riechert. The room was most effectively decorated in wild violets and ferns, and the candles in the candelabra were of a pale green color.

During the evening an informal musical program was given by Miss Jane Everington, Messrs. George Suffel and John Koneczny with Miss Elizabeth Morton as accompanist. Miss Mae Wylie gave two readings in a delightful manner and of special interest was the singing of a hymn by the Indian delegates who were present.

Nearly 200 people called during the receiving hours.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Watermelons, 85 cents each.
Cantaloupes, 15 cents each.
Blackberries, 25 cents a box.
Peaches, 40 cents a basket.
Plums, 65 cents a basket.
Cucumbers, 10 cents each.
Peas, 12½ cents a quart.
Broilers, $1.50 and $2 a pair.
Porterhouse, 30 cents a pound.
Shrimps, 35 cents a pound.

There is plenty of everything in the market. At 85 cents each, it is not taking the market man long to fill all orders for watermelons, and although the cantaloupes are as good as they will be, they are not so cheap as most people hope they will be and although there is nothing under Heaven so nice as an ice chilled melon for breakfast, most people are denying the flesh in that particular.

Shrimp wiggle for Sunday evening lunch might be good, and mushrooms and broilers are among the delicacies that the market affords and that most people want. Cucumbers are getting cheaper, peaches are not expensive; spinach and beet greens are to be had, and pineapples are very cheap. The market is really delightful.

CASES ARE SUBMITTED

Two of Wisconsin Central Appeal Cases Reach Jury.

Wolff Cases Are Next Appeals on Calendar for Jury.

The appeal from the award of the appraisers in the condemnation proceedings instituted by the Wisconsin Central Railway company to acquire John J. Murphy's two lots on the lower side of Superior street, between Sixth and Seventh avenue west, was to be submitted to the jury some time this afternoon. Both Mr. Murphy and the railway company appealed from the award, Mr. Murphy because he thought it was not enough, and the company because it thought the award too high.

The railway company rested its case this morning after testimony in its behalf by George Claypool and Franklin J. Pulford, two of the commissioners appointed to appraise the property wanted by the company, and one of the tenants. Their testimony related chiefly to the value of the leases on the property.

Yesterday afternoon the railway company called a number of local real estate men and others to testify as to the value on the property bounded by Superior and Michigan streets and Sixth avenus west, and the estimate ran from $500, $700 or $800 per front foot, while the estimate of the witness for the property owner ran from $900 to $1,500 a foot. Testimony was also given which in effect tended to show that the depot site selected by the Wisconsin Central company is not the only good location in the city for that special purpose.

George W. Ristine, the expert on railway terminal values was called to rebut the testimony of W. B. Patton, the local civil engineer who testified to the practicability of another railroad entering the city by way of Minnesota Point. Mr. Ristine declared that route impracticable. Objections to further rebuttal testimony by Mr. Ristine along this line were sustained by the court.

It is expected that as soon as the two cases of J. J. Murphy are disposed of, the appeal cases of Cornelia and Carrie Wolff will be taken up. The owners in the last two mentioned cases are Chicago parties and their property is located in the same block as Mr. Murphy's lots. It is understood that Mr. Ristine will remain in the city as an expert witness for the plaintiffs in the Wolff cases.

LEASES CHICAGO OUTER BELT LINE

Vanderbilt's Great Railroad Coup Drawing to a Finish.

Chicago, June 21.—The Record Herald today says: Final steps are being taken in New York to complete a $70,500,000 railway coup which the Vanderbilts have engineered to secure the lion's share of the tremendous traffic which originates in Chicago and the surrounding territory, as well as the great tonnage which passes through and around Chicago. The culminating financial transaction in this great traffic deal which William H. Newman, president of all New York Central lines, has been successfully playing in the interests of the Vanderbilts, is the leasing, with right to purchase of the outer belt line from Chicago Junction Railway company. Supplementing this is the leasing for a term of ninety-nine years of a part of the track of the Chicago Terminal Transfer Railway company, which forms the connecting link in the inner belt railway system which the Vanderbilts are securing.

PREVENTING SMUGGLING

Santo Domingo Has Four Good Boats for Revenue Service.

Some Recent Very Serious Battles Fought With the Outlaws.

Washington, June 21.—Santo Domingo has a revenue cutter service today superior in efficiency to that of many of the republics of Central and South America which exceed her in wealth and population. The permanent revenue cutter service of the republic was established early this year with four steel cutters built by an American firm under contract with the Dominican government. They reached Santo Domingo after a stormy voyage in mid-winter of more than 2,000 miles from New York without accident or damage and demonstrated to the satisfaction of the authorities their seaworthiness. They are substantially built of steel, 75 feet long, 10 feet beam, 3 feet draft, and propelled by fifty horse-power gasolene engines. Their average speed is twelve and their maximum fourteen knots per hour. Each is armed with one Hotchkiss one-pounder rapid-fire gun forward, and one Colt's automatic, thirty-calibre gun aft. Their cost delivered in New York was $14,289 each. The cost of equipment and delivery at Santo Domingo, including insurance and all other items of that expense, as well as return transportation of the crews, amounted to $16,449, making their total cost, ready for service in Dominican waters, something over $75,000.

Col. Colton, the retiring receiver of customs, reports that for revenue cutters of this size the gasolene engines adopted appear to have many advantages, especially in the tropics, where the absence of artificial heat in the engine room is most desirable. The very small space occupied by these engines without boilers permits of more commodious quarters for the crew than would be possible in steam vessels of the same size. He points out, however, as their most important advantage for this service the fact that while the vessels are always ready to start at a moment's notice no fuel is consumed except when actually running. This makes their operation much more economical than any other power that might be used in the irregular cruising work that might be required. Gasolene can be had for 20 cents a gallon delivered, and consumption of these engines is about .54 of a gallon per mile at full speed. Thus the fuel expense is less than 17 cents per mile. Col. Colton says also that with the use of this power a considerable saving is made in crews, as no firemen are required, and the work of keeping the vessels in proper condition is much lighter than would be with the use of steam. Each vessel is easily operated by one captain and one engineer, who are Americans, and three Dominican sailors.

Regulations for the revenue cutter service have been prepared by Col. Colton and published in about a dozen "Revenue Cutter Service Orders." For administrative purposes the coast of the republic have been divided into four coast inspection districts: (1) Monte Christi, extending from the Haytian line on the northeast to Puerto Plata; (2) Sanchez, extending from Puerto Plata east and south to Cabo Engano, the eastern point of the island; (3) Santo Domingo, extending from Cabo Engano south and west to Punta Palenque, upon the south coast and (4) Barahona, from Punta Palenque south and west to the Haytian line at Perdenals.

Col. Colton assigned one coast district inspector and a cutter to each of these four districts with headquarters and supply stations at the ports indicated by the name of the respective districs where they are in telegraphic communication with the capital. Their duties are to patrol the coast for the purpose of assisting in the enforcement of the revenue, navigation and coastwise trade laws of the republic and they should prove efficient agents, he thinks, in suppressing ordinary smuggling as well as in preventing the introduction of arms and ammunition. In this way they will also assist in maintaining the peace of the country.

When Col. Colton undertook the re-organization of the Dominican customs service he found it without water transportation of any kind. The long coast line of the republic was entirely unprotected and with its many bays and inlets offered excellent opportunities for smuggling. The effect of a more uniform application of the tariff law at entry ports and the closing of the frontier to smugglers by the establishment of the Frontier Guard, the efficient organization already described in this correspondence, was to stimulate and make still more profitable the illicit trade carried on between the coasts of the republic and the adjacent islands where duties are merely nominal. Col. Colton soon discovered that merchandise formerly smuggled over land from Hayti was now brought around the coast in small sailing vessels and the smuggling from the free-trade British group of Turk's islands, which had long been a regular feature of trade on the north coast, was noticeably increased. There was no way of intercepting it or preventing the introduction of arms and ammunition until about a year ago, when Col. Colton commissioned a temporary revenue cutter service. Four small sailing vessels were chartered and assigned to those districts which were suspected of harboring smugglers.

Almost immediately the effect of this service was observed in the increased demands for merchandise at entry ports from places formerly supplied directly from abroad. But it was soon found that the sailing vessels were not sufficiently dependable to accomplish their full purpose as revenue cutters. Their use only served to prove that smuggling by sea was appreciably affecting the revenues and that a permanent and efficient service was necessary to protect the coasts against illicit trade.

Recent reports from Santo Domingo tell of the effective work of the frontier guard in suppressing smuggling. "The progress made in securing the recognition of the law," says one of these reports, "in that wilderness of mountains and the arid plains stretching across the island from north to south along the western boundary of the republic which had rarely been traversed by foreigners and which no outside dominican enters voluntarily is due to the efforts of the American citizens who volunteered for that service and who have been immediately in charge of the work. They are men of the sort that penetrated the wilds of our own frontier. The result of their work and their saerifice cannot be measured in dollars. It is an offering to civilization."

Two of these men lost their lives at the hands of outlaws. This occurred in the center of a frontier town of 1,500 inhabitants who were so ignorant or so far intimidated that they did not try to prevent the crime or capture the criminals. One of these was Deputy Receiver Charles P. Thurston, late of the Philippine service, and the other, Inspector John Milburn, who came to Santo Domingo from Porto Rico, where he had been honorably discharged from the United States army after "excellent" service. Milburn left a wife and three children, to whom the dominican government has recently voluntarily paid a sum of money in final settlement of all claims for damages. This attack took place at Las Mats in the district of Azua and was led by two of the most notorious smugglers of the frontier. Immediately after committing the crime the murderers separated and secreted themselves in the mountains of Santo Domingo and Hayti. Two of the leaders have since been captured in Hayti and extradited across the border and are now in prison in Santo Domingo city awaiting trial. Owing to the wild character of the country in which they are supposed to be hiding the capture of the other criminals known to have been implicated in this outrage, has as yet proved impossible. But the word of the Dominican government is pledged that pursuit will not be abandoned until all have been brought to justice.

DAM BLOWN UP.

Obstruction at Mouth of Rapid River Removed for Passage of Fish.

Spooner, Minn., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dam at the mouth of the Rapid river, which empties into the Rainy river, was blown up Monday by Alec Clementson in order to permit the fish to enter the Rapid river. The settler up the river complained to the fish warden that the fish could not pass on account of the obstruction. Either the dam had to be removed or a chute put in. The latter being considered not feasible, the dam was blown up.

MAY SETTLE CONTROVERSY.

Minnesota Waterworks Co. Has Made an Offer to Brainerd City Council.

Brainerd, Minn., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council is considering a proposition from the Minnesota Waterworks company to settle the controversy between the city and the company and incidentally the question of power for the city electric lighting system. The proposition provides for the appraisal of the present water plant and its rebuilding by the water company, the latter to also construct a power plant at the Crow Wing river and supply the city with power for lighting plant, giving the city an option to buy both plants at the end of five years and paying to the city 25 per cent of the net proceeds. The rates to be charged for water are to be fixed by the appraisers.

Brainerd is to have a band concert once a week this summer. The first one was given Tuesday evening, and was a great success. The strets around the band stand were thronged with people, and all remarked on the excelence of the concert.

Stops earache in two minutes; toothache or pain of burn or scald in five minutes; hoarseness, one hour; muscleache, two hours; sore throat, twelve house—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, monarch over pain.

EPIDEMIC IS OVER.

Strange Cases at Brainerd of Meningitis Have Ceased Entirely.

Brainerd, Minn., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—All danger of an epidemic of meningitis is apparently over. The strange disease disappeared as suddenly as it came. Seven or eight cases developed within less than as many days and all but one proved fatal. They were entirely distinct, and no connection could be traced between any two of them. Not a case has developed now for two weeks. The cause of the strange outbreak is a puzzler to the best physicians here.

LONDON NICKNAMES.

The strets of London have been dotted lately with handsome new, red painted motor cabs, which ply for hire at the reduced rate of eight pence a mile. They are fitted with taximeters and have promptly been called "taxicabs."

London has a queer strait of humor in the matter of naming its public modes of transit, says the correspondent of Town and Country. The Central London railway, whose uniform fares are two pence, the first of the tube lines, was no sooner opened for traffic than some genius named it "tuppeny tube." Then came the Baker street and Waterloo underground, which no one dreamed of calling by any other name than the "Bakerloo."

The new Brompton and Picadilly line is known as "The Picadilly" and the Thames steamboats are known as the "kwhakis." The Trocadero resturant is generally dubbed "the Troc," the Criterion is the "Cri" (and no suburban youth would think of showing his ignorance of the West end by giving it its full name).

For years the St. James's restuarant, which was the center of all human activity so far as the gilded youth about town is concerned, was called "Jimmy's;" an dnow that it has been swept away to make room for the new hotel of the same name the ardent young men of town are already talking of the glorious times they will have when "Jimmy's" opens its door again.

The new motor cabs have, as aforesaid, been christened the "taxicabs" and the horse drivers are wild with rage at their success. They have sounded the death knell of the old time crawlers, which, aside from being slow and not altogether safe, have not been too cheap; though I do not suppose Americans who use them here on their summer holidays will agree with me on that point. The one thing that visitors from your side delight in is to sit in a hansom cab by the hour and drive aimlessly about, because "it is so cheap."

Of course, it is cheap when compared with the prices that the road pirates charge in American towns, but even there the shillings mount up into pounds after a few hours. The "taxicab" is altering the matter a good deal. The only difficulty from the public point of view, however, is that the eight penny fare is awkward, because there is no coin of the domination of eight pence and the public is so used to shillings that the drivers are benefiting undeservedly.

They are, in consequence, becoming high handed in their manner and refuse to take passengers unless they are assured of a strong pour boire, almost representing in size the amount of the actual fare. There is a law against this form of oppression, but the public is generally timid and does not like to take strong measures for stopping the imposition.

SOMETHING TO WASH DOWN.

Judge's Library: One day last July little Freddy and his mother went to visit the boy's cousin, Martha. The day being very warm, Martha served lemonade and cake. Freddie, who was very fond of cake, ate all of his piece before he had drunk any lemonade. Martha, noticing this, said:

"Freddie, drink some of your lemonade and it will wash the cake down."

Freddie drank a little lemonade and sat looking longingly at the cake on the table and finally said:

"Please, Martha, can I have one more piece of cake, so as to have something to wash down with this lemonade?"

THE DAYLIGHT MOON.

Los Angeles Times: Miss Corliss Babson, the champion woman high jumper, is very fond of children, and at a tea at Vassar the other day she repeated a quaint child saying:

"I was walking in Gloucester one morning with a little girl," she began, "and looking over my shoulder, I saw the moon —large and round and pale, as it is often seen—in the bright blue sky.

"'Oh, look at the moon,' said I. 'The moon in the morning!'

"The little girl looked at it and frowned.

"'Yes, that is the moon,' she said. 'Tain't lighted, though.'"

OFFICIALS FAVOR PLAN

Herald's Campaign for City Hospital Taken Up by Mayor.

Will Probably Submit to Council Views Concerning It.

Mayor Cullum has taken up The Herald's campaign to secure a city hospital for Duluth, and things look very favorable to an early successful termination of that campaign. The mayor submitted a request to Dr. Murray of the health department, asking for a detailed statement of the needs of the city along these lines, and the health commissioner has submitted a lengthy reply, setting forth his ideas upon the subject.

Dr. Murray's views have been presented to the readers of The Herald on several occasions, and there is nothing new in the letter. The Herald has called the attention of Duluthians to the needs of a city hospital in this city a number of times this spring, when cases of scarlet fever have had to be quarantined in the homes where the patients were taken sick, often endangering children and others who were forced to be confined with them.

That the city officials have taken this matter up with such promptness is exceedingly gratifying. In all probability the mayor will now submit a communication to the council, pointing out the need for the hospital, the communication will be referred to one of the committees, and probably a favorable report will be returned. If the condition of the finances permits it, the hospital is likely to become a reality in the near future.

Dr. Murray has suggested that a building be rented, if the funds are not sufficient to enable the city to purchase or erect a building outright. He would have it equipped with a number of private rooms, as well as the wards, where patients of means may, if they care to, be quarantined and attended by their regular physician. The wards would be for those of the city's poor who, when they are afflicted with contagious diseases, are not cared for by the county.

Smallpox cases would, according to the health commissioner's plan, be confined to the present detention hospital, near the poor farm, which, while in need of repairs, is in fairly good shape. Dr. Murray, with a committee of the aldermen, visited this hospital early this week and examined it with a view to making needed repairs. It is probable that the council will make an appropriation for this purpose Monday night.

IS JOHD D. "BROKE?"

New York Telephone Directory Lists Him as a Cashier.

New York, June 21.—"Rockefeller, J. D., cashier, 26 Broadway, 2220 Broad."

Tucked away at the bottom of page 601 of the new telephone directory, the above line was responsible for an assortment of stories that ran through the financial district as to the future movements of the Standard Oil pilot.

"I see the old man's gone back to work," remarked a curbstone broker.

"Who's that?"

"John D. Guess he's broke."

"Stock market got him at last, I suppose?"

"No. He's been losing heavily at croquet."

"What's he going to do now?"

"Why, the Standard Oil crowd took pity on him and gave him a job as cashier at No. 26. Young John has some junk left and he'll probably help his father to keep the wolf away from the hut."

Another story has had it that Mr. Rockefeller had made a wager that he could begin at the bottom of the ladder without a dollar and capture just as much money as he has at present. Sympathy was expressed on all sides for the believed-to-be billionaire whose strict application to the multiplication table had enable him to lay aside enough for a damp day.

"Mistake in the telephone book," said J. I. C. Clark, who runs the oleoginous literary bureau. "First time Mr. Rockefeller ever had his name in the telephone directory. And he's not going back to work."

"Bless you, no."

"And he's not going to start all over again?"

"Absurd. You know he is in comfortable circumstances and doesn't need to."

"Has that '68 John' in the next line any reference to Mr. Rockefeller's age."

"Absolutely none. That's a telephone number. Besides, Mr. Rockefeller is only 67."

Inquiry over the telephone elicted that Mr. Clarke was correct in his deductions. Mr. Rockefeller was not behind any wicker counting the gate receipts. Asked as to whether he had received the afternoon off to atttend a ball game the girl who answered the 'phone said she didn't know.

BIG FORTUNE

Will be Received by Ludington Man From Russian Government.

Detroit, June 2-.—Dr. Franklin Slocum of Ludington, Mich., has been notified that the czar of Russia has decided that he is entitled to the $1,000,000 fortune left by his father and confiscated by the Russian government. The Slocum estate was seized during the uprising of 1849, because its possessor, a Muscovite wholesale merchant, complained that the duties levied on his teas and china from China were too high.

LATE CAR MAGNATE IS HELD TO HAVE BEEN SANE.

Chicago, June 21.—The final word in the startling Wickes will contest—one of the most sensational in the legal history of Illinois—has been spoken by the Illinois supreme court.

The will of the Pullman car magnate has been upheld. He is declared to have been of sound mind.

His three children have been practically disinherited, and the bulk of his $250,000 fortune will go to charity.

ROAD BIDS TOO HIGH

County Board Considers That Recent Bids Are Exhorbitant.

Take Figures Until July 8 on Lavell Road Extension.

One of the important matters that will be taken up by the county board at the meeting to be held July 8 will be the opening of bids for the construction of a three mile extension of the Lavell road from the present southern terminus of the graded road, and the award of the contract should any of the bids be accepted by the commissioners.

This is the second time within a few months that the county board has taken steps to let the road work by contract and it is hoped by the commissioners that the second attempt will prove more successful than the first.

At the last meeting of the board two bids were opened by the board for a three mile extension of the Sturgeon Lake road in Commissioner P. J. Ryan's district. The bids were considered far too high and no contract was awarded, the board deciding to lay the matter over another month.

While no attempt has been made to get an egineer's estimate of the cost of building a good three mile extension, members of the board are confident that the county can go ahead and do the work at a cost much less than the bid submitted by any of the parties competing for the work.

It is said that there has been something of a tendency among the people residing in the district where it is proposed to build a road, for their benefit, to ask exorbitant prices for the work, as they figure outsiders will hardly attempt to compete with them. The county commissioners, however, while they are generally in favor of road work by contract, are not disposed to see the county held up by the people in the very district that would be benefitted by a road, and will perform the work in the usual way before any contracts will be awarded on the basis of some of the bids that have already been submitted for road work.

HOLDS UP TWO STAGES AT ONCE

Lone Bandit Makes a Good Haul Near Wawona, Cal.

Wawona, Cal., June 21.—Two of the regular stages from Raymond, bound for Wawona, were held up and sixteen passengers relieved of their valuables Wednesday by the "Black Kid," the famous lone bandit of this section.

The hold-up occurred Wednesday afternoon in the locality of his former successes. The man stood at the side of the road with an old rusty 44-rifle leveled at Archie Turner, the driver. He called to Turner to hold-up, and then commanded the passengers to put up their hands. The bandit waited until the second stage appeared, when he singled out Francis S. Eaton of Boston to pass the hat, demanding of the frightened passengers their purses and watches. After having made the collection Eaton was compelled to tie the wealth, consisting of jewelry and $250 in a handkerchief and pass it over to the robber. While the collection was going on the robber compelled Mrs. Eaton to stand behind him thus using her as a shield from any attack from the rear.

White waiting for the second stage, and when the collection was going on, the bandit talked pleasantly with the driver. Then when he had finished the general hold-up and replenished his stock of food he ordered the passengers back into the stages and commanded the drivers to go on.

TO WAIT UNTIL HUNGRY.

Man Who Fasted Twenty Days Now Looking for Appetite.

Belleville, Ill., June 21.—Dr. I. J. Eales, who began a fast for twenty days to test his theory that his health would thereby be benefited, completed the stipulated time at noon yesterday. He decided, however, not to eat anything until his appetite demanded food, and will continue his fast until he gets hungry. The fast has reduced his weight from 190 pounds to 170¾. Wednesday night he attended a banquet, sniffed the appetizing viands, and served the chicken salad himself, but ate nothing.

He Fired the Stick.

"I have fired the walking-stick I've carried over 40 years, on account of a sore that resisted every kind of treatment, until I tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve; that has healed the sore and made me a happy man," writes John Garrett of North Mills, N. C. Guaranteed for piles, burns, etc., by all druggists. 25c.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

John D. Rockefeller's automobile, in which Mr. Rockefeller was being hurriedly to his country home, was stopped by a constable at Elmford, and the chauffeur was subsequently fined $25 for exceeding the speed limit. Mr. Rockefeller paid the fine.

A movement to bring the employer and the employe closer together has been begun by the Marquette Club of Chicago. The plan is to model an association fashioned after the Industrial Association of St. Louis, and as a beginning in the step, James W. Van Cleave of St. Louis addressed the members of the club Thursday night.

W. D. Statum, a young man, traveled all the way from Texas to give himself up at Birmingham, Ala., Thursday, to stand trial for the murder of a man named Watts at Pinckney City, five years ago. He said he wanted to marry a young lady in Texas, but not before the charge had been cleared up. He was admitted to $1,500 bail.

W. R. Johnson of Tennessee, a dark horse, was elected president of the Travelers' Protective association at Norfolk, Va., Thursday night. The Iowa delegation at the last moment shifted its vote to him in an effort to prevent the re-election of President Howe.

Fire Thursday night destroyed a number of business places on Van Ness avenue, near Sacramento street, San Francisco. The flames spread through a number of the recently constructed buildings in the new business district and caused a loss that is estimated from $150,000 to $250,000.

Four Italians were killed and two others were probably fatally shocked while moving a boiler which became entangled with electric wires at Mariners Harbor, Staten Island, Thursday night.

John Zamne, aged 38 years, of Wilmington, Del., Thursday night shot his daughter Rose, aged 2 years, his son John, aged 6 months, attempted to kill his wife, and then turned the revolver on himself, blowing out his brains. The two children, the physicians say, cannot recover. Both were shot through the ead. Zamne, it is said, ad been drinking heavily.

SCHMITZ APPEALS TO COURT FOR RELEASE.

San Francisco, June 21.—Mayor Schmitz' attorneys late last evening applied to the district court of appeals for the release of the mayor on bail by writ of habeas corpus. Sixteen showings are made in the petition, and at least one of them is sensational. It is a declaration by his attorneys that the mayor is suffering from an incurable disease and that imprisonment in jail will cause his death. It is understood that the disease referred to is an affection of the kidneys and that it has been advanced to a serious stage.

LETTER CARRIERS.

Fifth Annual Convention Will Open in Duluth Saturday.

It is expected that about thirty delegates from the larger cities of Minnesota will attend the fifth annual convention of the State Letter Carriers' association, which will open tomorrom morning at the federal building. The Minnesota association, which is affiliated with the national organization, was formed in Minneapolis in 1903. Its purpose is to give the letter carriers an opportunity to meet and exchange ideas for the betterment of the service.

Life insurance, or a mutual benefit feature, is also attached to membership. This will probably be the most important meeting of the kind ever held in Minnesota. F. S. Trafton, chairman of the executive board of the national association, is expected to attend.

LETTERS THAT NEVER CAME

Package of Thirty-Seven Held in Mexico for Thirty Years.

Washington, June 27.—A package of thirty-seven letters, which had failed of delivery and had been stored away in a Mexican postoffice for upwards of thirty years, was received at the division of dead letters yesterday from the Mexican department of posts. Most of the letters had been written in 1875, 1876 and 1877, and were addressed to members of the crews of sailing vessels, which were expected to stop at the port of Minatitlan, Mexico. Doubtless by this time many of the writers of these letters are dead and the vessels to which the communications were directed have sailed their last voyages, but the dead letter division will endeavor, as far as possible, by corresponding with the postmasters at the points of origin, to return the letters to the senders, or to surviving relatives. One of the letters, which was opened in order to ascertain the address of the sender, was addressed to the captain of a schooner by his wife, and on a slip of paper inclosed was the following note, written in the familiar scrawl of a child:

"Dear Father: I love you and want you to come home. I shall be 6 this week—Robie." As the letter was written in 1877, the little lad who made this appeal is now, if living, is a man of 36.

YACHT QUEEN WINS.

Great Race Takes Place on Long Island Sound.

New York, June 21.—J. Roger Maxwell's schooner yacht Queen yesterday in the New York Yacht club's sixtieth annual regatta, met for the first time Morton of the Plants internationally famous Ingomar, and after one of the closest races ever seen on the Long Island sound defeated her by 1 minutes, 53 seconds. The boats sailed a triangular course of twenty-two miles, two-thirds of which was in extremely light airs. The windward work in the last leg of ten miles which took place in a fresh southwest breeze made fine racing for the nineteen yachts that started.

FILING COLLARS.

Milwaukee Sentinel: "The filing case for your collar and your cravat is about the latest we have put out," said Fred G. Markham. "Yes, when you get twenty-five or thirty cravats of different species and four or five dozen collars of different styles and names you naturally want to put your hand on them in a second, for nine times out of ten you're in a hurry when dressing.

"The valets of some men of fashion have their file of cards giving the name, size and description of collar and cravat. These cards have to be attended to by the man's secretary right along according to memoranda given him by the valet. The card tells where to get the particular collar or cravat in its particular compartment of the drawer files. Where collars are laundered or new ones purchased these must be labelled and located immediately.

"Some 'dashers' who run to a great rainbow variety of socks also have them inventoried and card and drawer filed. No, you really can't tell what it is likely to come to. Particular kinds of table and bed linen are likely to be scheduled in the same way soon and you may yet see shoes and entire wardrobes indexed for instant reference."

HOTEL CLERK'S JOKE.

New York Times: At a certain hotel much frequented by traveling men, and not far from Herald square, a laughable incident occurred the other night. A representative of a large Chicago firm arrived at the hotel and was effusively greeted by the room clerk, an old acquaintance. After assigning him a room the clerk said: "George, I am very glad that you came just at this time, for there is a very good friend of mine here from Boston. He is a mighty fine fellow, and I want you to meet him. When you come down for dinner I will have it arranged." "George" went up to his room and in due course of time came downstairs again and expressed his readiness to met his friend.

The clerk met him and said, "Now, George, there is one slight infirmity which Jack has, and about which he is very sensitive. He is quite deaf. So when I introduce you, raise your voice, and you will find no difficulty." In the meantime while George had been upstairs the clerk had seen Jack and told him the same thing reversed. At about 7 o'clock, when the dining room was crowded with diners, the clerk, with some ostentation, took George into the room, and there was Jack seated at a table. Walking over to the table, and speaking in perfectly natural tone of voice, he introduced the two men. Each man held out his hand and roared at the top of his lungs the pleasure he felt at meeting the other. Then, appreciating the joke which had been played on them, they sat down to realize that the whole dining room was enjoying their discomfiture. Deponent saith not what happened to the clerk later.

HORSES WORKED TO DEATH.

The horse is having his day in San Francisco, even though the day must inevitably close with his death. The cry of the California metropolis today is not for sympathy, nor for money, but for horses, horses—and more horses! Into the foundations of the new city is going the life blood of 15,000 superb horses, says Harper's Weekly. Deliberately 15,000 draught horses are being worked to death.

Removal of debris and hauling of material are jobs let by contract. The contracts have all sorts of premiums for time saved. The contractor reaps the premium by driving his horses to death. Half an hour's walk from Market and Kearny streets at any hour of the day will lead you to a dead horse—dead in the harness—worked to death. The vans that carry off carcasses are busier than the vans which carry drunken men to jail.

And the men whose business it is to bring in new horses to replace those who go out in the struggle are growing more and more desperate. The California corrals and the Oregon and Nevada ranches have been depleted of their surplus, and now the ranges of Montana and the states farther eastward are being called upon to yield horses and more horses.

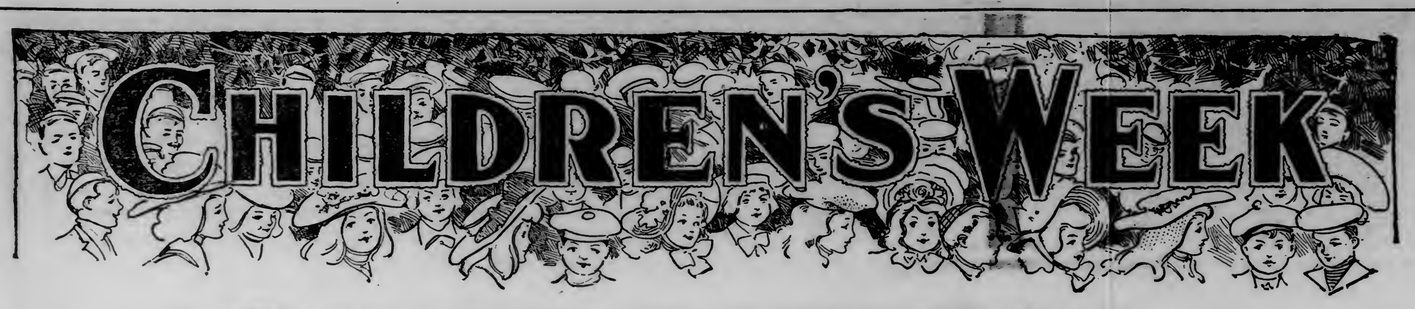

There is no fine quibbling over the price. The horses must be had. They are shipped to the San Francisco horse market, which, after the arrival of a fresh consignment, looks like a bull day in Wall street. There are 7,000 debris teams in the city now, but these 14,000 horses are insufficient for the task, and it is believed that 3,000 more teams will be added to the force before summer comes.

RAILROAD NEWS

TOURIST SEASON HAS OPENED IN DULUTH

First Big Party of Easterners Arrives in the City.

Railroads Anticipate Very Heavy Tourist Business This Summer.

The tourist season has opened. The first big party of Easteners arrived in the city today on the Tionesta, and this morning were to be seen standing in front of the Spalding hotel, shivering, and anxiously inquiring among themselves if such weather usually prevails here in June.

Railroads out of Duluth are looking for an unusually big tourist business this summer. Every year it shows an increase. For the last two seasons the travel has been heavy, and the indications are that records will be broken in 1907. Most of the tourists visiting Duluth come via the lakes, but a good many employ the railroad route, preferring that to possible rough weather on the lake.

Since the first of the month some pleasure-seekers from the outside have been arriving in Duluth, but yesterday's boat was the first to bring a typical summer list of passengers. Next week the North West will be in commission, arriving here Tuesday evening, and from that time on the season will be on in earnest. The North West will arrive weekly, every Tuesday evening, departing the same night.

The low rates east on account of the Jamestown exposition, and various national conventions which will be held this summer along the Atlantic seaboard, are attracting hundreds of people east via Duluth. The number of Westerners who visit Duluth this year will therefore be unusually large. The majority plan on taking the lake trip at least one way, and many travel via the lakes both going and coming

TO ENJOIN COMMISSION.

Western Roads Object to Low Rates Going Into Effect.

Carson, Nev., June 21.—Suit was brought yesterday in the United States district court, by the Southern Pacific, the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake and the Nevada, California and Oregon railways asking that state railroad commission and state officers be enjoined from putting into effect the rates named in the Syphus bill passed by the last legislature. The complaint alleges that the law is unconstitutional and is an invasion of the rights of the judiciary.

It further charges that the rates and charges prescribed are unjust, unremunerative and impractiable.

TO ANNUL AGREEMENT.

Suit Over Running Rights of Victoria & Sidney Railway.

Victoria, B. C., June 21.—Action has been commenced in the local courts by the corporation of Victoria seeking to annul the city's agreement for running rights of the Victoria & Sidney Railway, said to be operated by the Great Northern railway, in connection with a car ferry service across the gulf of Georgia, on the ground that the agreement made is not being complied with.

STATE ACTION BARRED.

Wisconsin Supreme Court Decision on Accounting From Railways.

Milwaukee, June 21.—The supreme court yesterday decided that the statute of limitation bars any action by the state for an accounting from the railways of Wisconsin for licenses previous to Feb. 1, 1899. The case in point was against the Chicago & Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway companies for alleged unpaid license fees for a period of twenty years prior to 1904. The railroads held that all taxes prior to six years ago were barred by the statute of limitations and that the law is unconstitutional and confiscatory.

REMARKABLE SAVAGES.

National Geographic Magazine: The Maoris are in many respects the most remarkable savages with whom the white man has come in contact.

Fifty years ago cannibalistic feasts, at which the flesh of their fallen enemies was served, were not uncommon. Today several members of their race are members of the New Zealand parliament, and Maori women, as well as the white women of New Zealand, exercise the right to vote.

When the English first occupied the islands, in the early part of the nineteenth century, it is estimated that there were about 100,000 Marois in New Zealand. They were divided into tribes, each having its own unwritten laws regarding land, cultivation and other social matters.

The English found that they had a genius for war, showing unusual ability in building, fortifying and defending stockades, and they experienced considerable difficulty in subduing them.

The Maoris were also skilled in several arts: They tilled the soil with great care; as carvers and decorators they were unrivalled in the execution of rock paintings and in carving the ornamental figures of their dwellings, their boats and sacred enclosures.

But the Maoris were also noted for their remarkable tattooing, which was designed to clothe as well as decorate the body. The Maori artist knew how to give endless variety to the curves of his drawings; the natural furrows, the movements of the countenance, the play of muscles—everything was made to enhance the charm of the design; and a hale young man certainly presented a fine sight, draped only in this delicate network of blue lines on the ruddy brown of his skin.

Whoever refused to undergo the protracted tortures of tattooing required at every important event of his life was regarded as a person by his own consent foredoomed to slavery. The men were actually depilated in order to increase the surface to be covered with ornamental tattooing, while for young women the operation was limited to the lips, whence the term blue lips applied to them by the English.

There are about 35,000 Maoris left. These have retired to the northern provinces of New Zealand, where certain reservations have been set apart as their exclusive property.

Schools have been established which the Maori children attend regularly. It is said that such of them as continue into the higher branches of learning are worthy rivals of white students. Some of the Maoris have become large landed proprietors; they are proud of their right to vote, and especially of the fact that their women obtained this privilege at the same time that it was given to the white women of New Zealand, in 1893.

THE SATED MILLIONAIRE.

New York Sun: "Terrapin is all right, and," said the sated millionaire, "I like lobster and canvasback duck, but still I don't believe I get half the pleasure out of the fine things I eat nowadays that I used to find in the plain food that we had yours ago, in the days when we couldn't afford anything else.

"I'd give a million dollars, er, er—er—hmm—ha, half a million, anyway, if I could have now such a breakfast as I used to have when I was a boy, if I could now have the same appetite to eat it with.

"We used to live in a house without any heat above the ground floor, and I slept in a room that was colder than Greenland, in a feather bed under about seven million patchwork bed quilts, and I'd sleep ten hours in a bed like that, as snug and warm and comfortable as anybody ever did under swansdown coverlets in a warmed room, and then I'd get up in the morning and go out and chop a few cords of wood before breakfast, and then come in feeling able to tear the world apart and with an appetite that nothing less than good, substantial food and plenty of it would satisfy; an appetite the satisfaction of which was a grand and stirring joy.

"For breakfast on winter mornings we were likely to have pork chops and buckwheat cakes, and such chops and such cakes! Not little, thin, dried-up, lean, half-cold, tateless chops from a kitchen half a mile away; but big, thick, fat chops of home-fed pork, fresh cooked and sizzling.

"And the cakes! Not half heavy, pasty-colored inside, thin, dull, lifeless and tasteless cakes, just warm; but buckwheat cakes light and fluffy and brown, and generous in dimensions, and all crinkly and crispy around the edges and good all through, and so hot and steaming when they came on the table that you had to look out and not burn your mouth when you began to eat them.

"And those chops and those buckwheat cakes we used to eat, with the pork gravy on the cakes! A breakfast fit for the very gods, though one must be a god, to be sure; he must be well and strong and fit to enjoy it.

"Grateful am I that I can bring back even in recollection the joys of an old-time breakfast of pork, chops and buckwheat cakes."

TIME'S RAVAGES.

Los Angeles Times: "The late Governor Higgins," said a New York man, was talking sadly, one Memorial day, about time's ravages among the poor old veterans of the Civil war. All of a sudden he smiled quaintly. He said he was reminded of a thing that happened once in Stanton, the Michigan town where he was in business for some years. He wished that this thing would apply slightly to our veterans, but it wouldn't.

"A circus man told him the story. The man visited Stanton in its early days, and in the midst of his performance a storm arose, the great tent was blown over, and thirty people were injured.

"'Well, twenty years afterward,' said the circus man, 'I returned to Stanton with my show. I remembered the accident that had attended my former visit, and I announced that all who had been injured by the fall of the tent would be admitted to the first performance free.

"'But alas for time's ravages,' the circus man ended, 'of all those thirty injured, only 270 had survived.'"

ALUMNI BANQUET.

Annual Affair of Fairmont School Saturday Evening.

Tomorrow evening at Gilley's hall on Central avenue, the annual banquet of the Fairmount School Alumni association will be held. The banquet will be an informal affair, and it is expected a large number of the graduates of the school will be in attendance.

The banquet will be served at 8 o'clock, and it will be followed by a number of inpromptu toasts. Music will then be furnished for dancing. The banquet tomorrow night is the first to be held outside of the school building. In former years, the school was available, but this year it was thought better to engage a hall outside, on account of the large crowds which gather, and the lack of room in the school. A number of graduates of Fairmount school from nearby points will be in attendance, and an enjoyable reunion will be held.

Large Crowds Attending Mission at St. James' Church.

Last night, as on every previous evening of the week, St. James' church was crowded for the special missionary service. This evening, Father Towle will preach. Tomorrow morning, the regular services will be held at 5 and 8 o'clock, but there will be no evening service. Masses Sunday will be at 8 and 10:30 in the morning and at the evening service at 7:45, the mission will be closed with impressive ceremonies.

Commercial Club.

The regular meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club will be held tonight and it is expected the poll-tax question will be the principal matter up for discussion, as Secretary Cruikshank will probably be prepared to give the city attorney's opinion on the question. The committee which represented the club at the public hearing held by the United States engineers on harbor improvements, will also report on the meeting and the club may pass some resolutions, declaring for one of the proposed plans.

TRESPASS CHARGE.

H. Keedy Not Guilty of Cutting Sod Without Permission.

Harris Keedy was arraigned in municipal court yesterday afternoon on a charge of trespass. Keedy is alleged to have arranged to secure some sod from a field in the East end, without securing any right to remove the same, and the residents of the district objected. One of them swore out a warrant.

When arraigned Keedy said that he had not done any of the cutting himself, but that his hired man had done the work. As it was impossible to deny this Keedy was released.

Whether or not the prosecution will be pushed against the hired man is doubtful.

MEN OF AFFAIRS

Need Proper Food to Supply the Brain.

A medical journal comments on the restless brain worker of our large cities and refers to the fact that he thinks he knows as much about the needs of the brain, when he is tired and shows brain fag, as a trained practitioner.

He is inclined to spur up the tired organs by some stimulant or perhaps quiet his complaints with some narcotic and this plan goes on until suddenly he collapses, for brain fag is a sure sign that the elements that compose the brain are being more rapidly used up than replaced by the food.

There is really a choice of but two pathways for an active brain worker—a man of affairs—when he shows symptoms of breaking down. Either he must quit work or he must have food that will replace the structure of brain and nerve centers as rapidly as they are used up each day.

Chemical analysis of the particles thrown out through the pores of the body shows that after continued brain work, a large portion of excreta contains phosphate of potash. It is known that when this element is furnished by the food in proper quantities, the system unites it with albumen and from that compound makes the gray matter that fills the nerve centers and the brain.

This is an especial feature of the food known as Grape-Nuts, a delicious, ready-cooked and predigested breakfast food.

A definite and well understood gain in brain power and physical strength will set in after Grape-Nuts has been used eight or ten days, and sustained and continued brain work can be carried on if a reliance is placed upon this food in connection with the ordinary food of the day.

TWO HUNDRED DOGS ON POINT

Irate Resident Wants Police to Make Some Arrests.

The man or woman who objects to dog nuisances, has an able weapon these days. Wednesday a woman telephoned to the police station and said that six of her neighbors had dogs that had not paid licenses and very obligingly gave the names of the persons in question to the police. The story was published in the papers and six licenses, from that identical neighborhood were taken out before warrants could be sworn out.

The second complaint of this kind came from Park Point. A man called up the station yesterday afternoon and said that there were 20 dogs on Park Point, and that about twenty of them were bothering him. He neglected to state whether the twenty were engaged in making life a burden to him just at that moment and refused to divulge his identity.

The police had no idea that the sandy island harbored that number of dogs and an investigation will be made of the district immediately.

ASSASSIN TO DIE.

Sebastopol, June 21.—The assassin of Col. Guesseckoffsky, the assistant harbor commandant at Sebastopol, who was murdered here June 16, has been condemned to death.

SUPPRESSED INFORMATION.

Kansas City Star: In a small town in the heart of the Blue Grass region of Missouri two veterans of the old guard were fighting again the battles of the sixties. The grenadier of the North was shy an arm, while the musketeer of the South used a crutch. The fact that they had fought on different sides made not the slightest particle of difference in their friendship.

The Union soldier frankly admitted that Lee was a great general. Not to be outdone in generosity, the Southerner warmly praised Grant for his persistence.

"Any other man but Gen. Grant would have committed suicide after the disaster at Cold Harbor," said he who had been a "rebel."

"But he kept at it until Bob Lee had to crawl back on Petersburg," returned the "Yankee," a trifle warm.

"Yes, and Grant paved the way with his dead soldiers!" said the Southerner, his eyes glowing animatedly.

"He got some few of you fellows while doing it," retorted the soldier of the North, grimly.

"What about Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville!—how many 'Yanks' bit the dust there, eh?"

"And how many 'Johnnies' at Vicksburg and Gettysburg?" asked the Union man, sarcastically.

"I don't care—take it altogether, we killed more of you fellers than you did of us."

"But we did whip you—you got to admit that."

"Yes, I guess you did," replied the Southern musketeer, slowly; "but if we'd a known how near you 'Yanks' was played out we'd a held on one more day, and then where'd you a been, I like to know? You kept it hid from us, you did, and that's the smartest thing you did in the whole blamed war!"

HER RELATIVES RECEIVE SHOCK

Conviction of the Kaufmann Woman Rather Unexpected.

Flandreau, S. D., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Guilty of manslaughter in the first degree was the verdict returned last night by the jury in the case of Mrs. Emma Kaufmann, wife of a wealthy Sioux Falls brewer, who was tried here on the charge of killing Agnes Poleris, her 16-year-old domestic, by torturing her.

The conviction of Mrs. Kaufmann was a great shock to the defendant, her husband, her son and her counsel, all of whom had confidently expected acquittal. When the fatal words fell from the lips of the foreman of the jury, Mrs. Kaufmann's head sank upon her hands.

Counsel for the defense gave notice that a new trial will be applied for. This will be argued before Judge Smith at Yankton, Oct. 10. Judge Smith fixed Oct. 21 as the date for passing sentence in the event a new trial should be denied. The bond of $25,000 furnished last June will stand and meantime Mrs. Kaufmann will be at liberty.

The case was submitted to the jury at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, immediately after Judge Smith had delivered his charge. It was nearly 3 o'clock when Attorney George B. Egan of Logan, Iowa, concluded the final plea for the prosecution.

CASS COUNTY SALE.

Over Three Thousand Acres of State Land Bought by Outsiders.

Walker, Minn., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Over 3,300 acres of Cass county state land were disposed of by Auditor Iverson at the state land sale held here Wednesday. The highest price per acre was $10. Bidding was not spirited, although the buyers were numerous, and most of the land went at the appraised value. This sale was a valuable one for Cass county, in that a majority of the buyers were Iowa and Southern Minnesota people, and they intend to make actual settlement upon their newly acquired possessions with as little delay as possible. One man, Frank Heilman, purchased over a section of land for his sons, and homes will be made upon the land right away. State Auditor Iverson is exceedingly pleased with the sale.

DISCUSS TRI-UNION.

Lively Debate is Had at the Central Minnesota Conference.

Sauk Center, Minn., June 21.—The Central Minnesota conference of the Congregational and Union churches, which has been in session here, had a lively discussion over the question of triunion, or a union of the Congregational, Methodist and United Brethern denominations, and decided to adopt the plan proposed by the Chicago conference. A committee consisting of Rev. Messrs. C. A. Billig of Little Falls, F. H. Oehler of Sauk Center and A. C. Washington of Big Lake is to prepare a resolution embodying the views of the conference and forward it to the general conference.

It was decided to meet next year in Sauk Rapids.

Rev. A. C. Washington of Big Lake was elected moderator and Rev. H. C. Payne of Monticello, scribe. Delegates to the next general conference were Rev. C. A. Billig of Little Falls and F. H. Oehler of Sauk Center; alternates, Rev. George W. Porter and F. C. Meade of Alexandria. A. M. Wells of Sauk Center was elected registrar for three years.

DOG CAUSES TROUBLE.

Is Subject of Litigation in Municipal Court.

Taken cold and starving from a stock car by one master, given a few days later to another, "adopted" again by the first master, after master No. 2 had paid his feed and keep for two months, "Gip," a black and tan dog, of no particular breed, and no considerale value, was the subject of litigation in municipal court, yesterday afternoon.

Master No. 1, who rescued the "purp" from a stock car in the Garfield avenue yards, is Peter Wood, a railroad man. Master No. 2, who swore out a warrant for Wood's arrest on a larceny charge for having stolen the dog, is John Sinclair, a butcher.

Wood gave Sinclair the dog after keeping him a few days, as he was boarding and had no place to keep the animal. Sinclair kept the dog, and besides paying for its sustenance, became quite attached to the little canine. When Wood claimed it again he, therefore, was decidedly wrathy. Judge Windom found Wood guilty of the charge and fined him $26.20. But Wood still has the dog and further litigation may result.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

Bicknell Young of Chicago Will Speak on This Topic.

Bicknell Young, C.S.B., of Chicago, who is to lecture at the Lyceum theater on Sunday afternoon on "Christian Science," under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Duluth, is one of the most prominent lecturers on the subject on the American platform at the present time. He has but recently returned from a lecture tour to England. While in London he spoke before an audience that crowded the great Albert hall, on St. George's day, and his message aroused the people to an enthusiasm seldom witnessed at a lecture on a religious topic. The recent controversy on "Christian Science" has caused an interest in that subject, and Mr. Young, being a duly authorized lecturer, will no doubt be able to present his ideas in an interesting manner. The lecture is at 3 p. m., Sunday. No admission is charged, and the public is invited.

PRAISES PEACE RIVER.

Former North Dakotan Likes Far Canadian Northwest Country.

Bathgate, N. D., June 21.—H. H. Lampman was here this week from the Peace River country to attend to various business matters and incidentally to visit for a few days with his family and friends here. He is a firm believer in the future of the Peace River country and that it will soon be attracting crowds of settlers who are anxious to get a chance at the last low priced land which will be offered on the northern part of this hemisphere. He tells of woods and streams and broad stretches of virgin prairie which are as productive as anything which the hand of man has yet cultivated and as inviting in every way. It is a great way north, but the warm winds from the Pacific come through openings in the mountains and temper the climate to that of this state or milder. Mr. Lampman went back to Edmonton and will open an office for the Development company of which he is the representative. He then expects to take in the first large body of settlers, which is now congregating at Edmonton, to that "land of rich promise," as he puts it.

VICTIM OF CUPID'S CHAIR.

Kankakee Man's Romance Adds to Relief in Strange Charm.

Kankakee, Ill., June 21.—Sweethearts in childhood, separated for over twenty-five years, John T. Moulton, a Kankakee business man, and Miss Nellie Wallis of Wales, were married in Chicago Tuesday. Miss Wallis having made the long journey to become a bride. Mr. Moulton had married once before, but his first wife died a number of years ago.

Recently on learing that his boyhood sweetheart was still living, he opened a correspondence with her that resulted in a proposal of marriage and its acceptance.

In Moulton's grocery is a cashier's chair that has been dubbed "Cupid's chair," because every girl employe that occupied it became a bride within less than a year. Several weeks ago the last cashier resigned to get married, and Mr. Moulton himself has since been using the chair while filling vacancy. His marriage strengthens the belief in the mysterious influence of the chair.

NAKED BOYS SHOCK ST. LOUIS

Young Swimmers Flee in Nature's Garb From Park Policeman.

St. Louis, June 21.—Fifteen naked boys scampering on front lawns and through back yards played havoc with the aristocratic dignity of Lindell boulevard, near Forest Park. Cries of indignation arose from mammas behind windows and mingled with shrieks of dismay from daughters sitting on the front porches of the mansions which face the park.

In full pursuit of the youngsters, all of whom were between 12 and 16 years of age, was Park Watchman Patrick Walsh, who had surprised them enjoying a swim in Murphy's Lake, reserved by the government as a hatchery.

Officer Walsh swooped down upon the hiding place of their discarded clothes and blew his whistle for re-enforcements. Only by shouting fervent assurances of immunity did Officer Walsh finally succeed in inducing the lads to return and don their captured street costumes.

GIVES GIRLS HIS ALL; DIES.

Old War Veteran Throws Coins to Children and Commits Suicide.

New York, June 21.—After playing for an hour with a score of little girls at Fort Clinton and telling them war stories, Philip Lahn, war veteran and real estate dealer, shot himself dead in Central Park.

His last act before pressing the muzzle of his revolver to his right ear was to plunge his hand into his pocket, draw out hundreds of dimes, nickels and pennies and throw them in the air.

As the coins came down on the grass the children scrambled for them, and while they gathered the dimes and nickels the old man fired the revolver and ended his life.

A NEW COAL PRODUCT.

"Coalite" Said to Give More Heat, With No Smoke.

Newcastle, England, June 21.—A good deal of interest has been centered in "coalite," and numbers have called at the exhibition here to see this coalite burning in the grate and hear about its remarkable properties as a house fuel. It is a bright, hard substance, very similar in appearance to the best coke, and in burning it makes no smoke and gives off, it is claimed, something like twice the heat of coal, while a coalite fire lasts 40 per cent longer than an ordinary coal fire. This coalite is produced by a process similar to that employed by the gas companies for the production of coke. In the case of the gas companies, coal is treated at a high temperature, the gas and by-products being collected and the residue being coke, but by the coalite process the coal is treated at a much lower temperature, with the result that the gas obtained is much richer. The by-products are also richer, and the residue, instead of being coke, is coalite, which can be easily lighted, and burns with great steadiness and economy.

For household purposes it appears to have a special value, in virtue of its cleanliness and its heating power. This is now fully recognized in London, where the prospect of abating the smoke and fog nuisance is hailed with no small satisfaction. The king has been impressed with its qualities and instructions have been given at Buckingham palace to have the cellars swept clear of all coal and nothing but coalite put there for the future. Out of a ton of coal about 70 per cent of coalite is extracted, but its calorific power being much greater, the ton may be said to have suffered no loss in value, while at the same time the gas and vast range of by-products have been extracted. The intention is to bring out a company in the course of a week or two, which will erect works at Barking, near London, and will possess rights for Great Britain. The new works are to be capable of carbonizing some 3,000,000 tons annually. The process, moreover, can be applied to all bituminous coals.

Once in a year you may find a good tenant by chance—through "happenstance." But a Herald want ad. will find him for you at the time you want him.

One of the three men arrested here yesterday as suspects for the robbery of the safe in the store of E. This afternoon the state expected to call Drs. Shehan and H. J. O'Brien as experts in rebuttal.

Repairing Winter Street.

After considerable delay by reason of legal technicalities raised through the courts, the work of repaving Winter street from Oakes avenue to Hammond avenue, was started this morning by the St. Paul firm that was awarded the contract recently. The street was formerly paved with cedar blocks, and is now being repaved with sandstone blocks. The contractors claim that they will push the work with all possible speed to its completion.

KNEW TOO MUCH.

Medium Spirits Told the Truth and Nothing But the Truth.

New York Sun: "Did you hear about Charles Jones?" said Joe Gish as he sat in Uncle Oak Maybee's general store and emporium at Coram, L. I., one morning last week.

"No, what about him?" asked Uncle Oak.

"Why, yisttiday he was drivin' home with his wagon full of paint pots, havin' finished th' day's work on Rob Apostrophe Castanette's new house, when along came a big tourin' car all painted green and white wallpaper stripes. They was two men in th' car besides th' chafter.

"Th' car jest grazed Charley's wagon by about an inch. Then it swung in right in front of his hoss. You know his hoss is mighty sperrited, an' th' car scared him so he reared.

"Those two men in th' machine turned around an' grinned and made some sassy remark which Charley didn't catch. But quick as a wink he up an' picked up a pot full of white paint an' fired it at 'em.

"Th' pot hit th' back of th' tun-no an' white paint was spattered all over those fellers till you c'd hardly see their clothes. They didn't stop either, jest hurried right on till they got to Yaphank. I hear they stopped there an' got some articles of clothin'."

Mr. Gish paused and laughed heartily. His cousin, Si Cornelium of Morleches, grinned and seemed about to venture some remark, an unusual proceeding for him, when Uncle Oak once more justified his reputation by changing the subject abruptly:

"Ef I live to be a hundred years old, like my wife's second cousin in Squiretown, I'll never have as much fun again as I did when the sperritulist was here," he remarked solemnly.

"You remember her bein' here last summer, don't you? Halicarnassa was her name, ef I recall rightly, an' she boarded with me an' my wife while she was givin' se-ances in th' town hall.

"I figure I've never told you about th' inside information I give her. I told my wife about it afterward an' she p'tended she was shocked through an' through.

"Mrs. Halicarnassa was always askin' me about th' people in town here while she was a-boardin' with us. All day long, meal time an' other times, she'd pelt me with questions.

"I answered 'em all good natured enough an' told her lots of things that I c'd see came in very handy at night durin' the se-ances. Everybody was surprised at th' marvellous information she displayed, derived directly from th' sperrits, too—everybody cept me.

"I c'dn't help grinnin' up my sleeve seein' th' hull town gapin' an' takin' on about Mrs. Halicarnassa's wonderful powers. Then suddenly it occurred to me—'Oakley,' I says to myself, 'you ain't havin' half th' fun you ought to be havin'.'

"Th' very next day I drew Mrs. Halicarnassa to one side an' put the matter clearly before her.

"'Mrs. H.,' I says, 'I know you want to make a first-class job of your se-ances an' to do that properly you ought to have real hot ; tips on th' people in this here town—an acc'rate idee of their mindworks an' habits of thought an' livin'. To get that you need some one like me that's lived with these people all his life an' knows 'em like a book.

"'Now, ef you're agreeable I'm willin' to let you in on th' ground floor respectin' some of our leadin' citizens. Then you can tell 'em all about themselves jest as plain as ef you c'd read their thoughts an' give 'em some good advice.'

"Now I will say this fer Mrs. H., she was a highly sensible woman. She grabbed a-holt of that idee with celerity.

"First, I up an' told her about Abel Mapes. I told her how Abel used to go barefoot to school when he was a boy, how he went into th' grocery business an' sold poor stuff at starvation prices durin' th' Civil war, how he bought a little land from time to time till he got a-holt of half th' township, how he foreclosed mortgages an', in short, how he was as fine a specimen of th' tightwad an' skinflint as you c'd find in a million.

"She jest hung on my words. When I got through she had as good an idee of Abel Mapes's character as if she'd had to live with him fer forty years.

"I took p'ticyar pains to attend the se-ance that night. Abel had been attendin' right along right after night an' it was a safe bet he'd be on hand. I made up my mind I was goin' to see some fun.

"When th' se-ance got nicely under way Mrs. H. sprung her little surprise.

"'Ah, I feel a strange sperrit movin' out of th' darkness,' she moaned most ghostlike. 'Ah, me, ah me, 'tis th' sperrit of a woman. She cries aloud to me: "My home is gone, my heart is broke; what shall I do?"'

"Mrs. H. moaned louder an' louder when she got that far. I set right next to Abel Mapes, an' he was a-starin' at her as ef his eyes'd pop out of his head.

"'Th' sperrit cries "Abe Mapes, Abe Mapes."' Mrs. H. moaned; 'ef Abe Mapes be present let him hearken to th' voice from th' dead. Yes—no—yes, it leaves a message fer him: "You are sellin' your soul fer th' almighty dollar. Every dollar you lay your hands on you put right out of circulation. Ef you would retain th' respect of your fellowmen cease to seek fere sordid gain.'"

"Mrs. H. certainly did herself proud. She expressed th' message most poetry-like without impairin' its forcefulness.

"Everybody in th' room was lookin' at Abel Mapes by this time an' he jest slunk an' cowered in his seat. He looked more ashamed than any man I ever see.

"I nearly bu'st out laughin' to see him. It was certainly a good joke, but my mirth was sobered an' tempered by th' thought that th' old skinflint was jest a-gettin' a good lesson, one he'd needed a long time an' had seemed in a fair way never to get short o' th' Judgment Day."

Uncle Oak paused and chuckled at the recollection. Joe Gish was listening with astonished interest. His cousin, Si Cornelium, was laughing unrestrainedly.

"O-ho, so that was how she come to know so much about folks 'round here, eh?" Mr. Gish commented. "Hy-guy, well I'll be darned!"

And he did not seem to be able to make a single other remark for the time being.

"Th' nexxt day," Uncle Oak continued, "I posted her all up about Anthony Fanning. Told her how he had always been a drummer an' a darn good one too. How his imagination, which is so necessary in th' drummer's trade, had run away with him till he'd got so he liped up an' down in th' most unnecessary an' distractin' fashion.

"I told Mrs. H. all about his gradually gittin' interested in th' copper minin' business—cheap swindles, all of them—an' how fer th' last year he'd been sellin' poor people who couldn't afford to lose their money bogus copper stocks at four cents a share with immediate dividends of 25 per cent. She got that down pat.

"When night came she handed out a line of warnin' an' good advice to Anthony Fanning that I guess he'll never forget to his dyin' day. She told him imagination was th' gift of God an' sh'd be used only on th' rarest occasions.

"When th' Lord invented imagination as a noble quality with which to bless man she said th' devil immediately went to work an' inpvented lyin' in all shades from cream white to a dead black. She told him that he must be-ware, be-ware lest he allow his gift of imagination to d'generate into th' blackest art of wickedness, namely promisc'ous lyin'.

"From that day to this Anthony Fanning has never so much as said th' word copper. It distresses him to have his wife ask him to buy a copper kettle. He sees a hidden meanin' in it.

"Yes, sir; he's returned to his old trade of plain, honest drummin' with imagination only an' no fiction on th' side."

"Good Lord, I can see th' whole thing now jest as plain as can be," Joe Gish exclaimed. "Well, well, Oak, I'd never given you credit fer half th' sense of humor you displayed. It certainly is funny. I wish you'd let me in on it at the time. Besides, I think you done a lot of good."

"Well, I ain't been able to see any harm that's come of it so far," said Uncle Oak reflectively "cept'n' to Mrs. Halicarnassa herself. She had intended to stay two weeks longer right here, but those two sessions with Abel Mapes an' Anthony Fanning was too much of a good thing.

"Th' third night she didn't have any audience at all. Everybody was scared away fer fear some unpleasant sperrit 'd show up an' tell th' truth about 'em, an' Mrs. H. had to move on down to th' east end of th' island and start all over again."

MOON MEN LIGHT.

Chicago Tribune: The average weight of man is 140 pounds, but the force of gravity on Mars is so much less than on earth that the 140-pound man would weigh only fifty-three pounds if transported thither. With such light weight, and still retaining the same strength, an individual would be able to run with the speed of an express train, go skipping over ten-foot walls, and do various other extraordinary things. On the moon a man would be even lighter.

But on the sun our 140-pound man would have his troubles. Instead of being an airy individual, he would weigh a ton and three-quarters. He probably would have the greatest difficulty in raising his hand, for that member would weigh 200 pounds.

According to scientific computation, a man who on the earth weighs 140 pounds would go to the other celestial bodies with the following weights: Moon, 23; Mars, 53; Venus, 114; Mercury, 149; Neptune, 123; Uranus, 127; earth, 140; Saturn, 165; Jupiter, 371; sun, 8,871.

A CLOSED INCIDENT.

The Brownsville inquiry is practically all over, and it does not appear that the Foraker attempt to discredit the president has been successful.

The Washington Herald, discussing the evidence, says: "It has not brought to light a single fact tending to discredit the administration. That the shooting up was done by a small party of soldiers belonging to the Twenty-fifth infantry has been shown by a mass of apparently irrefutable testimony, though there is not a syllable in the testimony pointing to the identity of the culprits."

The New York Tribune, in a review of the evidence, says: "Between thirty and forty of the negroes accused of shooting up the town have testified that they are not guilty and do not know who did the shooting. Between thirty and forty reputable citizens of Brownsville, some of them people of high standing, have testified that they saw the negro soldiers firing their rifles, some from the gallery of B company's barracks, others over the fort wall, and others in the streets. Some of the witnesses even counted the negroes as they passed through the streets. Expert testimony of an unimpeachable character has established beyond peradventure that the bullets found in the houses of Brownsville could have been fired from no other weapons than the new Springfield rifles which were in the sole possession of the soldiers."

The inquiry, and the agitation about the incident that preceded it, have not been so much with a view to securing justice as to raise political issues, to satisfy political grudges and to vent race prejudice.

There can be little doubt remaining about the justice of the administration's act in discharging the companies concerned in the outrage. It was unfortunate that the innocent had to be included with the guilty, but since the actual culpris were not known, and since those who did not take part in the row but must have known all about it have steadfastly refused to expose their comrades, that was the only thing to do in the interests of discipline. That the troops concerned are colored men makes not the slightest difference in the facts or in the justice of the war department's action, though it has made very much difference in the discussion that has followed. Had these soldiers been white men, the incident would have been closed long ago and forgotten. Even Massachusetts would have concurred in the necessity and justice of the discharge of the soldiers.

Senator Foraker's attempt to make a sensation out of it, in congress and through this investigation, was actuated by hatred of the president, and it has failed. The hearing has been full and fair and free, and it is time that the incident was declared finally closed.

OUTWORN EMPLOYES.

The realms of officialdom at Washington are more or less disturbed over the fact that they are facing a little more directly something that they have been facing indirectly for a long time—the problem of what to do with superanuated clerks.

It is reported that the general land office is about to drop several clerks who are old and inefficient, and as the departments at Washington are carrying along a pretty large number of such clerks, there are fears that if the practice of dropping them starts in one bureau it will spread to others.

It is a pathetic and difficult problem, but something will have to be done about it. The clerks, of course, want the government to start a pension fund for superannuated employes, which the government is unlikely to do, at least not with government money. It could, and perhaps should, make itself the custodian of a pension fund created by drafts upon the salaries of the government employes, but any plan of providing pensions for employes out of government money is certain to meet with bitter opposition.

In private employ, there is usually no such problem. Individuals and corporation do not commonly carry employes along after they have outlived their usefulness. When the eyes are dimmed, the limbs palsied, and the muscles stiffened by advanced age, employers manage to get rid of them some way, with more or less sympathy. But in private employ, some way clerks and others seem to think more about old age, and to make better preparations for it. In Washington, apparently, most of the clerks live without thought of tomorrow, and the result is that there are many employes too old to be useful, who are absolutely dependent upon the salaries they are now receiving from the government, and who are likely to become public charges if discharged. To be sure, many of them are practically public charges now, though on the other hand many of these aged clerks, by their long experience and their complete knowledge of departmental details, are worth the salaries paid them.

Government employes at Washington are well paid, as a rule, their salaries averaging more than those paid in similar work in private employment. Their work is much easier, too, and their hours shorter. If they once start to building up a pension fund of their own, they will be independent, but so long as the government keeps its superannuated clerks at work after they have ceased to give value received for their pay, there is no need of anybody making preparations for being retired because of age.

Helpless and dependent age is always pathetic, and government officials in this case are divided between their duty to the government and their pity for those employes who have lost their usefulness after years of service and who are now practically carried as pensioners.

If President Roosevelt ever writes a book on "Liars I Have Met" it ought to become one of the best sellers.

Nature Writer Charles G. D. Roberts, just returned from Europe, gets back at his eminent accuser deftly by admitting that he makes mistakes, as all nature writers do, and that he has made some the president hasn't discovered.

SQUARE DEAL BENEFITS.

There are two sides to the beauties of the square deal when it is in operation between the railroads and other corporations and the people.

One is, of course, the benefit there is to the people in knowing that everybody is getting the same treatment, that while the railroad stockholders are getting fair profits the patrons of the railroads are having their goods and their persons hauled at fair rates, and that no great and grasping monopolies are being built up by unfair rebates and discriminations.

That is the people's side, and it is so pleasant to think upon that it is small wonder that a public demand for it has spread over the nation.

The other side is the railroad side, and pictures the benefits that will accrue to the railroads and their stockholders when the square deal becomes the law and practice of the land. For one thing, railroads will be run by railroad men, in the interests of the public and of legitimate investors in railroad stocks, and not as playthings for Wall street hocus-pocus men. Therefore railroad securities will have a real and stable value, not subject to the breezes that blow in Wall street and to the tempests that the Harrimans of Wall street kick up occasionally.

Again, railroad interests will not be subject to the influences of public agitation, and there being no occasion for radical legislative plans, there will be none to blame for collapses in security values.

But, perhaps most important of all, the railroads will be divorced from the legislatures, and there will be no more corruption of public officials, expensive to the railroads, debasing to the officials, and menacing to the security of free government. The railroads will save lobby expenses, and the people will have more confidence in their lawmakers.

This is a very pretty dream, but it is more than a dream. It is a vision of a condition that is coming, and that is here in part already. The railroads have not withdrawn their lobbies from the legislatures; indeed, the railroad lobby was more than usually evident and more than usually effective in the Minnesota legislature last winter; but they have reduced their legislative expenses, and according to one railroad man who is quoted by a contemporary, the railroads of Wisconsin have surrendered to the square deal idea in that state. He says that where they formerly spent $200,000 or $300,000 at every legislative session, now they are not spending a cent. They find the people can be trusted, that they do not want anything that is not just, and they have, therefore, discovered that they have wasted a lot of money in legislative expenses in the past. This railroad man says a lot in the following words:

The railroads can trust the people with more confidence than they can the politicians and the professional lobbyists.

MEN AND THE CONSTITUTION.

It is strange indeed that men should hold the Constitution of the United States, much as we all revere it, to be a higher and more sacred thing than human life and human happiness.

Yet there are people that seem to hold that view, and they have not been backward of late about expressing it. For instance, when he spoke at Jamestown recently President Roosevelt pointed out the "extreme unwisdom of the railroads in fighting the constitutionality of the national employers' liability law, because no law is more emphatically needed, and it must be kept on the statute books in drastic and thoroughgoing form."

This has thrown the Constitution-worshipers into spasms of horror.

The New York Sun has had about the most serious attack of "conniption fits" over it. It throws up its hands in shocked horror, and demands to know if the president really means that the law should stay on the statute books "even if it is unconstitutional in form and essence."

Of course the president does not mean that if the supreme court holds the law unconstitutional the executive department should trample on the judiciary and enforce it anyway. He cannot mean anything like that.

What he does mean is that the law is very desirable, and that it is necessary, in order to give the workingman half a show and to prevent an ultimate overturning of society that will make Socialism look like a pink tea program, to compel the employer to undertake the risk of employment, instead of forcing it entirely on the dependent laborer.

And if such a law is so necessary and so desirable, this country is going to have it, Constitution or no Constitution. That is what the president means.

The Constitution was made for man, not man for the Constitution. It was drawn with reference to things as they then existed, with a remarkable degree of foresight that made it flexible enough to embrace many things that have come about since. But when new conditions arise that the framers of the Constitution, enlightened and patriotic as they were, could not foresee, then the Constitution must be altered to fit them.

Any doctrine that the Constitution must stand forever, just as it was a century and more ago, and that no matter what new conditions come about the people must be circumscribed by its provisions, even if they are pinched most painfully, is absurd and reactionary.

Let it be said again that the Constitution was made for man, not man for the Constitution, and that when unexpected growths and discoveries make any of its provisions inadequate or too binding, it is going to be changed. It may take time, but it will be done, for the people are not going to sit dolefully down inside of a fence called the Constitution, with their happiness just beyond their reach in the fields outside.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"School teachers who are ambitious in a financial way are always bewailing the fact that they cannot find profitable occupation during the summer months," said T. LeVan Hosen of Chicago at the St. Louis. "Whenever a girl makes such a complaint to me, I advise her to begin telling fortunes during her spare moments. Invariably she laughs at me, thinking I am joking. But I am always serious in giving such advise, but I never knew of a person to follow it out.

"Fortune telling is a legitimate method of coining money, and an easy one. I have been interested in carnival companies and other outdoor shows to a limited extent in the past, and have observed that the fortune teller has about as easy a time as any one. The art of fortune telling is easy to learn. A good imagination is sufficient capital, if a person is too lazy to study up on cards, palmistry, etc. It is necessary, usually, to be a fair judge of human nature, but this is an acquirement that grows on one.

"A girl stands a better show of doing a good business if she is pretty, but this is not a necessity. I would advise her to turn herself into a very pronounced brunette, with coal black hair, etc. The use of a little paint on the eyes and lips is permissable in the business, for it is something along the line of theatricals, and usually the fortune teller adds to the general effect by being in a slightly-darkened room, with lights so arranged that a little paint more or less will do no harm. Light complexions do not go well with fortune telling.

"There is something of a fascination and mystery about real dark people, or is supposed to be, at least, and they are the ones who make the most money in the business. Where a girl is really pretty it becomes a fad to see her when she strikes the small towns, and the young men, instead of hanging back when their sweethearts suggest that they take them to the fortune teller, accede very readily to the request, and even take to the initiative themselves. If she is discreet in it it is a good plan for the pretty fortune teller to flirt just a little with her men patrons, for that gets them all to talking about her, which means profitable advertising.

"The summer season, which is so lifeless in the legitimate theatrical world, is the most active one of the year for the more humble people of the amusement business. There are now opening the summer resorts, the park gardens, the fairs, the tent shows, and the multitude of other forms of open air entertainment."

Another sign that Duluth is taking on metropolitan airs is the fact that the lunch habit here has become an established institution. Just as it grows, the home habit loses. Formerly, dinner was the noon, and many people went home. But there is no rush hour for the trolleys between morning and evening now, most of the clerks and business and professional men who are too far from home to walk conveniently being found in the restaurants and hotels. Quick lunches are becoming popular.

One of the results of this, as a lounger in the lobby of the Spalding pointed out yesterday, is that indigestion gives science a chance to perfect its observations along the line of the inevitable. Another is that the home life during the day is changed. The housewife has an entirely different schedule of duties, ordering her day in an entirely different groove. In the old days her chief duty was planning for the noonday meal, but now it's a burden lifted in most homes, and having to cook for midday is considered sufficient grounds for divorce. For herself, she simply picks up a little snack of anything.

Definition of Slaughter.

Providence Journal: Mr. Cleveland says that the sheepman who kills for the sake of killing is a "game hog." It is a useful definition.

THE WEATHER.

Lazy breezes, mostly from the northeast, kept it comfortably cool yesterday and today, and today, after a brilliant morning, a thin haze of cloud covered the sky. Yesterday's highest temperature was 76 degs., and last night's lowest was 52 degs. The weather man expects it to be partly cloudy tonight and tomorrow, with possibly local thunderstorms. The winds he expects to remain easterly.

This is the longest day of the year, the sun rising at 4:12 this morning and setting at 8:07 tonight, making 15 hours and 55 minutes of sunlight. From now on the days will grow shorter, slowly but surely, until in December it gets down to 8 hours and 30 minutes.

A year ago today it was raining steadily and persistently.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The western low pressure areas have moved their centers from Arizona to Nevada and from Alberta to Western Manitoba respectively. The combined influence of these depressions caused showers or thunderstorms during Thursday or last night throughout Western Canada, North Dakota, Montana, Nevada, Utah, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Eastern Texas. Temperatures have risen over the Red River valley, but the weather continues chilly in the Rocky mountains and plateau region. Pressures are high off the Atlantic coast. Scattered showers are indicated for this locality tonight and Saturday."

SMILING LINES.

Yonkers Statesman: "You mustn't interrupt me when I'm talking, Ethel!"

"Why, that's the only time I can interrupt you, mamma!"

Washington Star: "Do you think women ought to vote?"

"I don't care whether they vote or not," answered Mr. Meekton, rather testily. "But in the interests of harmony they ought not to be encouraged to make speeches."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "There is no doubt that the president is a humorist."

"What has he done now?"

"Warned a gathering of newspaper men against the evils of swollen fortunes."

Philadelphia Press: Jigley—Woodby tells me he has been working on his family tree of late.

Knox—Yes; it seems to keep him pretty busy.

Jigley—Rather tedious work, eh?

Knox—Yes. I believe he discovered a hangman's noose on one of the branches and he's having some trouble sawing it off.

Chicago Tribune: "Borus, I haven't had time yet to read that last novel of yours. Is it ended happily?"

"No, Naggus; it ended tragically. The total sales were seventeen copies."

Washington Star: "When a man stahts in makin' trouble," said Uncle Eben, "he gits so he don' care 'bout de profits es long as he kin hab de satisfaction of workin' overtime."

Baltimore American: Young Wife—Tom does make such extreme statements.

Mother-in-Law—In what way, dear?

Young Wife—He says if we want to get ahead I must toe the mark if I expect him to foot the bills.

Philadelphia Press: Tom—I tell you, old man, Miss Gabble certainly has got a pile of money. Why don't you propose to her?

Dick—I've started to do it several times.

Tom—What's the matter? Lose your courage?

Dick—No, but I'm never able to get a word in edgewise.

The San Francisco Warning.

New York Times: The present state of San Francisco is a terrible warning to all other cities in like case. When the best elements in a population abandon government to the worst, Schmitz and Ruef and the boycotters and rioters of San Francisco are the natural products of this treason on the part of "the best citizens" to the best citizenship. Now that their apathy and their torpor have borne their natural fruits, there is talk of a new "vigilance committee" such as was the sole resource of the city in the earliest days, when it was but a mining camp and no justice better than that dispensed by Judge Lynch could be brought to bear. But it is not "spasmodic," it is "eternal" vigilance on the part of all good citizens in a democratic government that is "the price" not only of "liberty," but of all safe progress and of all well based prosperity. If the best citizens had been even decently good citizens in the past there would be no need of this extraordinary revolutionary proceeding in the present.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Crookston Journal: A Duluth man bought a quarter section of land at the state land sale in progress here under supervision of State Auditor Iverson for $40 an acre. Ten years ago such a thing would have caused the appointment of a commission in lunacy.

Albert Lea Tribune: Bryan thinks the people will never be likely to do to the railroads what the railroads have done to the people. But even such a promise may not be wholly reassuring to the railroads, because they know best what they have done.

Waseca Herald: There are men who believe in the "single tax theory"—that all taxes should be levied upon land—and they are honest, sensible men, too. And while we differ from them, believing that all men should be taxed upon actual income or in proportion to the value of all property, we admire their honesty in making an open, honest issue. But the men who are deceiving the people with the "single" open amendment, "pretending to be hunting for 'tax-dodgers,'" while they are planning to let bondocracy, the money-loaning fraternity and certain classes out of taxation, do not meet our approval.

Sleepy Eye Dispatch: Government officials have discovered that the skunk is one of the most energetic destroyers of grasshoppers in the state. Maybe some good use will be discovered for the member of the human family who occupies a position similar to the skunk's.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: It looks as if the supreme court was getting almost iconoclastic. The idea of a decision to the effect that a city mayor can be compelled, at the point, not of a pistol, but of a law, to do his duty! Why, if this sort of thing continues, nobody will wish to be a mayor except those who wish to obey the laws under which they are elected.

Madison Independent Press: With one swoop of the pen the editor of the Willmar Journal has—at least to his own satisfaction—disposed of Lord, Jacobson, Dunn, Eddy and Colling as gubernatorial possibilities and brings Heatwole and Hanson out into the center of the stage.

Fairmont Sentinel: The railroads of the state are not going to endear themselves to the people by their determination to resist the rate reductions demanded by the last legislature. Their conduct is especially reprehensible, after making a square agreement to abide by the reductions.

Paynesville Press: We do not believe Bob Dunn has an "unsatisfied ambition." If he has, he had better "cut it out." This remark is intended neither as an insult to Mr. Dunn nor advice to anybody, but the party harmony which is necessary to make any man a winner could never be brought about under his leadership.

Ortonville Herald-Star: A persistent admirer of Bob Dunn says the Republican party of Minnesota does not deserve to again elect a governor until it has righted the wrong committed against Mr. Dunn in 1904. If the Republican party really wants a Republican governor, Bob is the man it is looking for.

Beaver Bay Advocate: We learn that the name of Col. W. E. Culkin of Duluth will be presented at the next Republican state convention for governor, and it is a foregone conclusion that the Lake Superior country will be solid for that gentleman.

A Queer Tie-up.

American Elevator & Grain Trade Journal: A Superior paper says that, "H. J. Johnson has returned from North Dakota, where he went to secure funds to continue the legal contest for Wisconsin grain inspection. Mr. Johnson reports that the bankers of North Dakota have furnished sufficient funds to continue the fight to the end." In other words, the decision of the United States circuit court granting the Globe Elevetor company an injunction against the operations of the Wisconsin grain inspectors and weighers will be appealed. There can be no objection to this, of course; but the amazing thing to the initiated is that the North Dakota bankers should tie up to the Superior grain crowd at all. What can they expect from it? Superior is no market; its board of trade is now defending itself, and with the desperation of men in the last ditch, from outlawry as a mere bucket shop, its leading "house" being a notorious gambling concern recently kicked out of Canada, after making a forced exit from American markets as violators of the law. Whatever sympathy might have been felt for North Dakota shippers who imagined they were wronged in Minnesota has been drowned in contempt for their association with the rabble of Superior, which makes no effort to maintain its respectability by purging itself of its flock of black sheep.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON LOOMING.

St. Paul Pioneer-Press: The conferring by the University of Pennsylvania of the degree of doctor of laws upon Governor Johnson is a compliment to him which is gratifying to the people of Minnesota not only because of the honor paid to a popular governor but because of the indication it affords of the growing reputation of Governor Johnson beyond the borders of his own state. The plain truth is that, irrespective of party or of political views, the people of Minnesota are deeply interested in the possibility of Governor Johnson securing the Democratic nomination for the presidency. And it is safe to say that nine men out of ten who take an interest in the matter desire to see Governor Johnson nominated less for the honor which his nomination would bring the state than because of their liking for him and because of their belief that, in many respects, he would be a desirable candidate. To say that he owes his popularity more to his great tact and to his ability to make a favorable impression on individuals and on audiences than to any very conspicuous achievements in statesmanship is not to imply that he lacks the sounder qualities of intelligence necessary in the nominee of a great party. For Governor Johnson has given evidence of a breath of view and a soundness of judgment which has been lacking in many a man who has been conspicuous enough in national affairs to be mentioned for the presidency. It is very improbable that he would, if placed in a position of leadership, father a single vagary such as Bryan produces in profusion at frequent intervals. For Governor Johnson seems to be at least sane.

He is, however, to some extent handicapped by want of a broader and more intimate acquaintance with national questions. He has had neither the advantage of a term in congress nor the advantage of any administrative position at Washington. He has not been conspicuous even in this state for activity in matters of national policy. But unless Minnesota is much in the man, he will be found equipped when he is called upon.

There are a good many Minnesotans who do not take Governor Johnson's chances for the presidential nomination very seriously. He professes not to take them seriously himself. But there are many indications from all parts of the country that he has enthusiastic and widespread support. If his nomination is not at this time probable, it is far from impossible; and it is not unlikely that his strength will develop rapidly. He is, at least, a factor in the situation which it is worth while to watch; for such a man as he would be welcomed by the entire South as a relief from the quadrennial Bryan incubus. Nor is he offensive to either the radical or the conservative wings. He could not justly incur the hostility of either. Though a "Bryan Democrat," his cast of mind is not such that, as a leader, he would throw prudence to the winds and advocate half-baked remedies for evils real or imaginary. Of the candidates so far suggested Governor Johnson is the only one who would not antagonize one wing or the other of the Democratic party.

The Escape.

Oh, let us away to the countryside!
Away from the city's scenes of pride—
If pride it be that spurs the race
To toil and moil in maddest pace—
Away from the canons dark and deep,
Where tollers never stop to sleep,
Nor pause to rest, nor e'en to think,
But flit like specters on the brink
Of death and sorrow, care and pain,
All in the mad pursuit of gain!

Gain! Is it gain to fill the purse
With gold attaint with a demon curse?
Gain! Is it profit to pile up wealth
Got from an endless chain of stealth?
Gain, when we stop to count the cost
Of gold that's won through a soul that's lost?
Expense of brain, and brawn, and heart!
Conscience shredded and torn apart,
Cast underfoot in the mire and dust
Of the sordid chase of the money lust!

Oh, let us away to the restful scene
Where the air is pure and trees are green;
And men, like birds upon the wing,
Have not forgotten the songs they sing,
Where skies are broad as deeply blue,
And every rill has a story true
To breathe as on its way it flows—
Little romances of wild rose,
And daisy mead and clover dale,
And fox and deer along the trail.

Where every whispering of the breeze
That softly rustles through the trees
Brings health to others, man or elf,
Nor stops to think of gain to self.
Where every bee that hums its way
Through all the work of the summer's day
And every bud, and grassy blade,
That sees its master's word obeyed,
On mountain height, in lowliest clod,
Tells of the loving hand of God!

A CLOSED INCIDENT.

The Brownsville inquiry is practically all over, and it does not appear that the Foraker attempt to discredit the president has been successful.

The Washington Herald, discussing the evidence, says: "It has not brought to light a single fact tending to discredit the administration. That the shooting up was done by a small party of soldiers belonging to the Twenty-fifth infantry has been shown by a mass of apparently irrefutable testimony, though there is not a syllable in the testimony pointing to the identity of the culprits."

The New York Tribune, in a review of the evidence, says: "Between thirty and forty of the negroes accused of shooting up the town have testified that they are not guilty and do not know who did the shooting. Between thirty and forty reputable citizens of Brownsville, some of them people of high standing, have testified that they saw the negro soldiers firing their rifles, some from the gallery of B company's barracks, others over the fort wall, and others in the streets. Some of the witnesses even counted the negroes as they passed through the streets. Expert testimony of an unimpeachable character has established beyond peradventure that the bullets found in the houses of Brownsville could have been fired from no other weapons than the new Springfield rifles which were in the sole possession of the soldiers."

The inquiry, and the agitation about the incident that preceded it, have not been so much with a view to securing justice as to raise political issues, to satisfy political grudges and to vent race prejudice.

There can be little doubt remaining about the justice of the administration's act in discharging the companies concerned in the outrage. It was unfortunate that the innocent had to be included with the guilty, but since the actual culprits were not known, and since those who did not take part in the row but must have known all about it have steadfastly refused to expose their comrades, that was the only thing to do in the interests of discipline. That the troops concerned are colored men makes not the slightest difference in the facts or in the justice of the war department's action, though it has made very much difference in the discussion that has followed. Had these soldiers been white men, the incident would have been closed long ago and forgotten. Even Massachusetts would have concurred in the necessity and justice of the discharge of the soldiers.

Senator Foraker's attempt to make a sensation out of it, in congress and through this investigation, was actuated by hatred of the president, and it has failed. The hearing has been full and fair and free, and it is time that the incident was declared finally closed.

OUTWORN EMPLOYES.

The realms of officialdom at Washington are more or less disturbed over the fact that they are facing a little more directly something that they have been facing indirectly for a long time—the problem of what to do with superanuated clerks.

It is reported that the general land office is about to drop several clerks who are old and inefficient, and as the departments at Washington are carrying along a pretty large number of such clerks, there are fears that if the practice of dropping them starts in one bureau it will spread to others.

It is a pathetic and difficult problem, but something will have to be done about it. The clerks, of course, want the government to start a pension fund for superannuated employes, which the government is unlikely to do, at least not with government money. It could, and perhaps should, make itself the custodian of a pension fund created by drafts upon the salaries of the government employes, but any plan of providing pensions for employes out of government money is certain to meet with bitter opposition.

In private employ, there is usually no such problem. Individuals and corporation do not commonly carry employes along after they have outlived their usefulness. When the eyes are dimmed, the limbs palsied, and the muscles stiffened by advanced age, employers manage to get rid of them some way, with more or less sympathy. But in private employ, some way clerks and others seem to think more about old age, and to make better preparations for it. In Washington, apparently, most of the clerks live without thought of tomorrow, and the result is that there are many employes too old to be useful, who are absolutely dependent upon the salaries they are now receiving from the government, and who are likely to become public charges if discharged. To be sure, many of them are practically public charges now, though on the other hand many of these aged clerks, by their long experience and their complete knowledge of departmental details, are worth the salaries paid them.

Government employes at Washington are well paid, as a rule, their salaries averaging more than those paid in similar work in private employment. Their work is much easier, too, and their hours shorter. If they once start to building up a pension fund of their own, they will be independent, but so long as the government keeps its superannuated clerks at work after they have ceased to give value received for their pay, there is no need of anybody making preparations for being retired because of age.

Helpless and dependent age is always pathetic, and government officials in this case are divided between their duty to the government and their pity for those employes who have lost their usefulness after years of service and who are now practically carried as pensioners.

If President Roosevelt ever writes a book on "Liars I Have Met" it ought to become one of the best sellers.

Nature Writer Charles G. D. Roberts, just returned from Europe, gets back at his eminent accuser deftly by admitting that he makes mistakes, as all nature writers do, and that he has made some the president hasn't discovered.

SQUARE DEAL BENEFITS.

There are two sides to the beauties of the square deal when it is in operation between the railroads and other corporations and the people.

One is, of course, the benefit there is to the people in knowing that everybody is getting the same treatment, that while the railroad stockholders are getting fair profits the patrons of the railroads are having their goods and their persons hauled at fair rates, and that no great and grasping monopolies are being built up by unfair rebates and discriminations.

That is the people's side, and it is so pleasant to think upon that it is small wonder that a public demand for it has spread over the nation.

The other side is the railroad side, and pictures the benefits that will accrue to the railroads and their stockholders when the square deal becomes the law and practice of the land. For one thing, railroads will be run by railroad men, in the interests of the public and of legitimate investors in railroad stocks, and not as playthings for Wall street hocus-pocus men. Therefore railroad securities will have a real and stable value, not subject to the breezes that blow in Wall street and to the tempests that the Harrimans of Wall street kick up occasionally.

Again, railroad interests will not be subject to the influences of public agitation, and there being no occasion for radical legislative plans, there will be none to blame for collapses in security values.

But, perhaps most important of all, the railroads will be divorced from the legislatures, and there will be no more corruption of public officials, expensive to the railroads, debasing to the officials, and menacing to the security of free government. The railroads will save lobby expenses, and the people will have more confidence in their lawmakers.

This is a very pretty dream, but it is more than a dream. It is a vision of a condition that is coming, and that is here in part already. The railroads have not withdrawn their lobbies from the legislatures; indeed, the railroad lobby was more than usually evident and more than usually effective in the Minnesota legislature last winter; but they have reduced their legislative expenses, and according to one railroad man who is quoted by a contemporary, the railroads of Wisconsin have surrendered to the square deal idea in that state. He says that where they formerly spent $200,000 or $300,000 at every legislative session, now they are not spending a cent. They find the people can be trusted, that they do not want anything that is not just, and they have, therefore, discovered that they have wasted a lot of money in legislative expenses in the past. This railroad man says a lot in the following words:

> The railroads can trust the people with more confidence than they can the politicians and the professional lobbyists.

MEN AND THE CONSTITUTION.

It is strange indeed that men should hold the Constitution of the United States, much as we all revere it, to be a higher and more sacred thing than human life and human happiness.

Yet there are people that seem to hold that view, and they have not been backward of late about expressing it. For instance, when he spoke at Jamestown recently President Roosevelt pointed out the "extreme unwisdom of the railroads in fighting the constitutionality of the national employers' liability law, because no law is more emphatically needed, and it must be kept on the statute books in drastic and thoroughgoing form."

This has thrown the Constitution-worshipers into spasms of horror.

The New York Sun has had about the most serious attack of "conniption fits" over it. It throws up its hands in shocked horror, and demands to know if the president really means that the law should stay on the statute books "even if it is unconstitutional in form and essence."

Of course the president does not mean that if the supreme court holds the law unconstitutional the executive department should trample on the judiciary and enforce it anyway. He cannot mean anything like that.

What he does mean is that the law is very desirable, and that it is necessary, in order to give the workingman half a show and to prevent an ultimate overturning of society that will make Socialism look like a pink tea program, to compel the employer to undertake the risk of employment, instead of forcing it entirely on the dependent laborer.

And if such a law is so necessary and so desirable, this country is going to have it, Constitution or no Constitution. That is what the president means.

The Constitution was made for man, not man for the Constitution. It was drawn with reference to things as they then existed, with a remarkable degree of foresight that made it flexible enough to embrace many things that have come about since. But when new conditions arise that the framers of the Constitution, enlightened and patriotic as they were, could not foresee, then the Constitution must be altered to fit them.

Any doctrine that the Constitution must stand forever, just as it was a century and more ago, and that no matter what new conditions come about the people must be circumscribed by its provisions, even if they are pinched most painfully, is absurd and reactionary.

Let it be said again that the Constitution was made for man, not man for the Constitution, and that when unexpected growths and discoveries make any of its provisions inadequate or too binding, it is going to be changed. It may take time, but it will be done, for the people are not going to sit dolefully down inside of a fence called the Constitution, with their happiness just beyond their reach in the fields outside.

THE PASSING SHOW.

Duluth's "future greatness" is rapidly becoming her great present.

There's a new Dr. Johnson, Minnesota's governor having been honored by the degree of LL. D. by the University of Pennsylvania.

John D. Rockefeller has at last been apprehended by the officers of the law. His automobile exceeded the speed limit yesterday and his chauffeur was fined $25.

"Lawson is talking again," says a newspaper, and the Washington Herald thinks it is a preposterous statement because it implies that he stopped once upon a time. What the newspaper meant, no doubt, was that Lawson is talking yet.

The "best citizens," who have selfish ends, the "worst citizens," who thirst for money and have no scruples about how they get it, and the middle kind of citizens who let somebody else attend to their civic duties, are the worst enemies of republican government.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"School teachers who are ambitious in a financial way are always bewailing the fact that they cannot find profitable occupation during the summer months," said T. L. Van Hosen of Chicago at the St. Louis. "Whenever a girl makes such a complaint to me, I advise her to begin telling fortunes during her spare moments. Invariably she laughs at me, thinking I am joking. But I am always serious in giving such advise, but I never knew of a person to follow it out.

"Fortune telling is a legitimate method of coining money, and an easy one. I have been interested in carnival companies and other outdoor shows to a limited extent in the past, and have observed that the fortune teller has about as easy a time as any one. The art of fortune telling is easy to learn. A good imagination is sufficient capital, if a person is too lazy to study up on cards, palmistry, etc. It is necessary, usually, to be a fair judge of human nature, but this is an acquirement that grows on one.

"A girl stands a better show of doing a good business if she is pretty, but this is not a necessity. I would advise her to turn herself into a very pronounced brunette, with coal black hair, etc. The use of a little paint on the eyes and lips is permissable in the business, for it is something along the line of theatricals, and usually the fortune teller adds to the general effect by being in a slightly-darkened room, with lights so arranged that a little paint more or less will do no harm. Light complexions do not go well with fortune telling.

"There is something of a fascination and mystery about real dark people, or is supposed to be, at least, and they are the ones who make the most money in the business. Where a girl is really pretty it becomes a fad to see her when she strikes the small towns, and the young men, instead of hanging back when their sweethearts suggest that they take them to the fortune teller, accede very readily to the request, and even take to the initiative themselves. If she is discreet in it, it is a good plan for the pretty fortune teller to flirt just a little with her men patrons, for that gets them all to talking about her, which means profitable advertising.

"The summer season, which is so lifeless in the legitimate theatrical world, is the most active one of the year for the more humble people of the amusement business. There are now opening the summer resorts, the park gardens, the fairs, the tent shows, and the multitude of other forms of open air entertainment."

Another sign that Duluth is taking on metropolitan airs is the fact that the lunch habit here has become an established institution. Just as it grows, the home habit loses. Formerly, dinner was the noon, and many people went home. But there is no rush hour for the trolleys between morning and evening now, most of the clerks and business and professional men who are too far from home to walk conveniently being found in the restaurants and hotels. Quick lunches are becoming popular.

One of the results of this, as a lounger in the lobby of the Spalding pointed out yesterday, is that indigestion gives science a chance to perfect its observations along the line of the inevitable. Another is that the home life during the day is changed. The housewife has an entirely different schedule of duties, ordering her day in an entirely different groove. In the old days her chief duty was planning for the noonday meal, but now it's a burden lifted in most homes. And having to cook for midday is considered sufficient grounds for divorce. For herself, she simply picks up a little snack of anything.

Definition of Slaughter.

Providence Journal: Mr. Cleveland says that the sportsman who kills for the sake of killing is a "game hog." It is a useful definition.

THE WEATHER.

Lazy breezes, mostly from the northeast, kept it comfortably cool yesterday and today, and today, after a brilliant morning, a thin haze of cloud covered the sky. Yesterday's highest temperature was 76 degs., and last night's lowest was 62 degs. The weather man expects it to be partly cloudy tonight and tomorrow, with possibly local thunderstorms. The winds he expects to remain easterly.

This is the longest day of the year, the sun rising at 4:12 this morning and setting at 8:07 tonight, making 15 hours and 55 minutes of sunlight. From now on the days will grow shorter, slowly but surely, until in December it gets down to 8 hours and 30 minutes.

A year ago today it was raining steadily and persistently.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The western low pressure areas have moved their centers from Arizona to Nevada and from Alberta to Western Manitoba respectively. The combined influence of these depressions caused showers or thunderstorms during Thursday or last night throughout Western Canada, North Dakota, Montana, Nevada, Utah, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Eastern Texas. Temperatures have risen over the Red River valley, but the weather continues chilly in the Rocky mountains and plateau region. Pressures are high off the Atlantic coast. Scattered showers are indicated for this locality tonight and Saturday."

SMILING LINES.

Yonkers Statesman: "You mustn't interrupt me when I'm talking, Ethel!"

"Why, that's the only time I can interrupt you, mamma!"

Washington Star: "Do you think women ought to vote?"

"I don't care whether they vote or not," answered Mr. Mockton, rather testily. "But in the interests of harmony they ought not to be encouraged to make speeches."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "There is no doubt that the president is a humorist."

"What has he done now?"

"Warned a gathering of newspaper men against the evils of swollen fortunes."

Philadelphia Press: Jigley—Woodby tells me he has been working on his family tree of late.

Knox—Yes; it seems to keep him pretty busy.

Jigley—Rather tedious work, eh?

Knox—Yes. I believe he discovered a hangman's noose on one of the branches and he's having some trouble sawing it off.

Chicago Tribune: "Borus, I haven't had time yet to read that last novel of yours. How did it end—happily?"

"No, Naggus; it ended tragically. The total sales were seventeen copies."

Washington Star: "When a man stahts in makin' trouble," said Uncle Eben, "he gits so he don' care 'bout de profits es long as he kin hab de satisfaction of workin' overtime."

Baltimore American: Young Wife—Tom does make such extreme statements.

Mother-in-Law—In what way, dear?

Young Wife—He says if we want to get ahead I must toe the mark if I expect him to foot the bills.

Philadelphia Press: Tom—I tell you, old man, Miss Gabble certainly has got a pile of money. Why don't you propose to her?

Dick—I've started to do it several times.

Tom—What's the matter? Lose your courage?

Dick—No, but I'm never able to get a word in edgewise.

The San Francisco Warning.

New York Times: The present state of San Francisco is a terrible warning to all other cities in like case. When the best elements in a population abandon government to the worst, Schmitz and Ruef and the boycotters and rioters of San Francisco are the natural products of this treason on the part of "the best citizens" to the best citizenship. Now that their apathy and their torpor have borne their natural fruits, there is talk of a new "vigilance committee" such as was the sole resource of the city in the earliest days, when it was but a mining camp and no justice better than that dispensed by Judge Lynch could be brought to bear. But it is not "spasmodic," it is "eternal" vigilance on the part of all good citizens in a democratic government that is "the price" not only of "liberty," but of all safe progress and of all well based prosperity. If the best citizens had been even decently good citizens in the past there would be no need of this extraordinary revolutionary proceeding in the present.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Crookston Journal: A Duluth man bought a quarter section of land at the state land sale in progress there under supervision of State Auditor Iverson for $40 an acre. Ten years ago such a thing would have caused the appointment of a commission in lunacy.

Albert Lea Tribune: Bryan thinks the people will never be likely to do to the railroads what the railroads have done to the people. But even such a promise may not be wholly reassuring to the railroads, because they know best what they have done.

Waseca Herald: There are men who believe in the "single tax theory"—that all taxes should be levied upon land—and they are honest, sensible men, too. And while we differ from them, believing that all men should be taxed upon actual income or in proportion to the value of all property, we admire their honesty in making an open, honest issue. But the men who are deceiving the people with the "wide-open amendment," pretending to be hunting for "tax-dodgers," while they are planning to let bondocracy, the money-loaning fraternity and certain classes out of taxation, do not meet our approval.

Sleepy Eye Dispatch: Government officials have discovered that the skunk is one of the most energetic destroyers of grasshoppers to be found. Maybe some good use will be discovered for the member of the human family who occupies a position similar to the skunk's.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: It looks as if the supreme court was getting almost iconoclastic. The idea of a decision to the effect that a city mayor can be compelled, at the point, not of a pistol, but of a law, to do his duty! Why, if this sort of thing continues, nobody will wish to be a mayor except those who wish to obey the laws under which they are elected.

Madison Independent Press: With one swoop of the pen the editor of the Willmar Journal has—at least to his own satisfaction—disposed of Lord, Jacobson, Dunn, Eddy and Collins as gubernatorial possibilities and brings Heatwole and Hanson out into the center of the stage.

Fairmont Sentinel: The railroads of the state are not going to endear themselves to the people by their determination to resist the rate reductions demanded by the last legislature. Their conduct is especially reprehensible, after making a square agreement to abide by the reductions.

Paynesville Press: We do not believe Bob Dunn has an "unsatisfied ambition." If he has, he had better "cut it out." This remark is intended neither as an insult to Mr. Dunn nor advice to anybody, but the party harmony which is necessary to make any man a winner could never be brought about under his leadership.

Ortonville Herald-Star: A persistent admirer of Bob Dunn says the Republican party of Minnesota does not deserve to again elect a governor until it has righted the wrong committed against Mr. Dunn in 1904. If the Republican party really wants a Republican governor, Bob is the man it is looking for.

Beaver Bay Advocate: We learn that the name of Col. W. E. Culkin of Duluth will be presented at the next Republican state convention for governor, and it is a foregone conclusion that the Lake Superior country will be solid for that gentleman.

A Queer Tie-up.

American Elevator & Grain Trade Journal: A Superior paper says that, "H. J. Johnson has returned from North Dakota, where he went to secure funds to continue the legal contest for Wisconsin grain inspection. Mr. Johnson reports that the bankers of North Dakota have furnished sufficient funds to continue the fight to the end." In other words, the decision of the United States circuit court granting the Globe Elevator company an injunction against the operations of the Wisconsin grain inspectors and weighers will be appealed. There can be no objection to this, of course; but the amazing thing to the initiated is that the North Dakota bankers should tie up to the Superior grain crowd at all. What can they expect from it? Superior is no market; its board of trade is now defending itself, and with the desperation of men in the last ditch, from outlawry as a mere bucket shop, its leading "house" being a notorious gambling concern recently kicked out of Canada, after making a forced exit from American markets as violators of the law. Whatever sympathy might have been felt for North Dakota shippers who imagined they were wronged in Minnesota has been drowned in contempt for their association with the rabble of Superior, which makes no effort to maintain its respectability by purging itself of its flock of black sheep.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON LOOMING.

St. Paul Pioneer-Press: The conferring by the University of Pennsylvania of the degree of doctor of laws upon Governor Johnson is a compliment to him which is gratifying to the people of Minnesota not only because of the honor paid to a popular governor but because of the indication it affords of the growing reputation of Governor Johnson beyond the borders of his own state. The plain truth is that, irrespective of party or of political views, the people of Minnesota are deeply interested in the possibility of Governor Johnson securing the Democratic nomination for the presidency. And it is safe to say that nine men out of ten who take an interest in the matter desire to see Governor Johnson nominated, less for the honor which his nomination would bring the state than because of their liking for him and because of their belief that, in many respects, he would be a desirable candidate. To say that he owes his popularity more to his great tact and to his ability to make a favorable impression on individuals and on audiences than to any very conspicuous achievements in statesmanship is not to imply that he lacks the sounder qualities of intelligence necessary in the nominee of a great party. For Governor Johnson has given evidence of a breath of view and a soundness of judgment which has been lacking in many a man who has been conspicuous enough in national affairs to be mentioned for the presidency. It is very improbable that he would, if placed in a position of leadership, father a single vagary such as Bryan produces in profusion at frequent intervals. For Governor Johnson seems to be at least sane.

He is, however, to some extent handicapped by want of a broader and more intimate acquaintance with national questions. He has had neither the advantage of a term in congress nor the advantage of any administrative position at Washington. He has not been conspicuous even in this state for activity in matters of national policy. But unless Minnesota is mistaken in the man, he will be found equipped when he is called upon.

There are a good many Minnesotans who do not take Governor Johnson's chances for the presidential nomination very seriously. He professes not to take them seriously himself. But there are many indications from all parts of the country that he has enthusiastic and widespread support. If his nomination is not at this time probable, it is far from impossible; and it is not unlikely that his strength will develop rapidly. He is, at least, a factor in the situation which it is worth while to watch; for such a man as he would be welcomed by the entire South as a relief from the quadrennial Bryan incubus. Nor is he offensive to either the radical or the conservative wings. He could not justly incur the hostility of either. Though a "Bryan Democrat," his cast of mind is not such that, as a leader, he would throw prudence to the winds and advocate half-baked remedies for evils real or imaginary. Of the candidates so far suggested Governor Johnson is the only one who would not antagonize one wing or the other of the Democratic party.

The Escape.

Oh, let us away to the countryside!
Away from the city's scenes of pride—
If pride it be that spurs the race
To toil and moil in madded pace—
Away from the canons dark and deep,
Where tollers never stop to sleep,
Nor pause to rest, nor e'en to think,
But flit like specters on the brink
Of death and sorrow, care and pain,
All in the mad pursuit of gain!

Gain! Is it gain to fill the purse
With gold attaint with a demon curse?
Gain! Is it profit to pile up wealth
Got from an endless chain of stealth?
Gain, when we stop to count the cost
Of gold that's won through a soul that's lost?
Expense of brain, and brawn, and heart!
Conscience shredded and torn apart,
Cast underfoot in the mire and dust
Of the sordid chase of the money lust!

Oh, let us away to the restful scene
Where the air is pure and trees are green;
And men, like birds upon the wing,
Have not forgotten the songs they sing,
Where skies are broad as deeply blue,
And every rill has a story true
To breathe as on its way it flows—
Little romances of wild rose,
And daisy mead and clover dale,
And fox and deer along the trail.

Where every whispering of the breeze
That softly rustles through the trees
Brings health to others, man or elf,
Nor stops to think of gain to self,
Where every bee that hums its way
Through all the work of the summer's day
And every bud, and grassy blade,
That sees its master's word obeyed,
On mountain height, in lowliest clod,
Tells of the loving hand of God!

FEAST OF ST. PETER

Great Preparations at the Vatican to Celebrate the Day.

Archbishop Ireland Likely to be Made a Cardinal Soon.

Rome, June 21.—Great preparations are being made at the vatican to celebrate the feast of St. Peter, which this year falls on a Sunday. Usually the great Basilica dedicated to the saint is draped with red damask draperies, but this year the decorations will excel anything ever seen before. This is in consequence of an order from the pope, who wishes to make the celebration more impressive than usual in order to upset the controversies which have recently been made regarding the real place of martyrdom of the prince of the apostles and the authenticity of his tomb on the vatican hill. It is more than probable that the pope himself will on that day officiate in the great church, but nothing is definitely arranged as yet, because of the fear that the pope's health may not permit him to stand a function lasting several hours. Since the beginning of the year Pius X. can be said to have enjoyed perfect health, chiefly because of the vegetable regime he has adopted at the suggestion of his personal medical attendants, but within the past few days he has experienced a recurrence of gouty disorders. However, as has been the custom for centuries past with all his predecessors, the pope will pay a visit to the tomb of the apostle on the 29th of the present month and perhaps will be in such health as to admit many of the pilgrims, who are just now flocking to Rome from every part of the world.

The papal ville at Castelgandolfo is undergoing a renovation, in view of the impending vacation which the cardinal secretary of state will spend there. His vacation, however, will not begin until the first days of August, but the pope has expressed that in the meantime the other vatican prelates in attendance at the vatican shall take their turn at a sojourn in the country, at least for two weeks each. Most of the prelates connected with the vatican have their homes in Northern Italy, and they would be too far from Rome if they went to spend their vacations with their relations and friends, so that the arranging of apartments in the papal villa for their own use is considered by all a very wise and thoughtful move on the part of the pope.

The memorial ends with the general affirmation that the pope, although deprived of all temporal power, is still a sovereign in the full sense of the word, and that as such he has the right to submit to a congress of nations whatever grievances he may have against another government.

However, very few of the prelates connected with the vatican expect that the conference at The Hague will do more than express a vote of censure for what France has done toward the holy see. The powers represented at the conference have no authority to compel any nation to enforce the decisions adopted by the conference, and because of this action of The Hague conference regarding vatican matters will probably be limited to resolutions. It is considered here that Plux X. and his secretary of state have given proof of great political sagacity in having the matter submitted to the conference at all, and in finding nations like Austrla and Spain to undertake the presentation of it. If nothing else in a practical way should come of it, there will remain the fact demonstrated officially to the world that the holy see has not passively submitted to the measures adopted in France against the church.

It is the belief here that the transfer of the remains of the late pope from the church of St. Peter to that of St. John Lateran will be postponed until the fourth anniversary of the death of Leo XIII., which occurs next month. According to Roman custom, there is always a special funeral service held in many of the churches of Rome and in the vatican itself in commemoration of the latest pope on the anniversary of his death, and it is said that the pope wishes to make this fourth anniversary memorable by the transition of the remains of the late pope to their last resting place.

There is, however, a certain fear still prevailing in the minds of the vatican prelates that some disorders will be liable to occur in connection with the funeral transfer. Just now there seems to be a revival of anticlericalism in this city, and only recently the Republican and Socialistic bodies have organized an anti-clerical referendum all over Italy, in which 200 branches, numbering over 80,000 members, have expressed a wish to be represented. However, the Italian government will now allow itself to be made an object of contempt from other nations, and will do all in its power to preserve order on the day appointed. The ceremony will take place without any notice being publicly given, and it may be that the event will happen on an unprovised day so as to take the enemies of the church unawares.

The rumor recently spread abroad that some American millionaires had made to the pope an offer of $1,000,000 if Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul was made a cardinal is laughed at at the vatican, simply because the offer was never made. There have been in the past extravagant proposals made by rich American Catholics when visiting the pope. One once made was an offer of a mansion in Washington if the pope would consent to leave Italy and settle in the United States. Another one, made recently by a prominent Catholic millionaire of New Jersey, was to find a solution to the temporal power question by buying up a strip of land to connect the vatican with the Mediterrancan sea.

These and others have been turned down by the vatican, not because of any impropriety in them, but because of the impossibility of putting them into practical execution owing to political obstacles. As to Mgr. Ireland being promoted to the sacred college at an early date, there is hardly any one here who doubts the outcome. There is to be a consistory before the end of this month and another in December. As these will be given entirely to the nomination of foreign cardinals, every one is convinced that an additional American cardinal will be named and that he will probably be Mgr. Ireland.

WIFE BEATER,

Half-Drowned, Was Stripped and Then Lashed by Women.

Michigan City, Ind., June 21.—A mob of 300 angry men and women in the night attacked Joseph Geister, convicted wife beater and police court character, and inflicted punishment far beyond court fines and sentences.

Geister had knocked his wife unconscious with a brick, and his neighbors, who had long been exasperated with his conduct, beat him, and then immersed him in a creek until he was nearly drowned. He was then stripped and a crowd of women lashed him with whips. The culprit was then placed in the custody of the police, and next day limped into court to receive a jail sentence.

LONDON'S IMPURE MILK.

Profitable Trade That Kills Thousands of People Annually.

London, June 21.—The adulteration of milk is becoming more and more profitable every year in London. The present laws made to protect the purity of the supply are totally inadequate, and thousands of human lives are lost annually because nothing fundamental is done to insure a fresh supply of pure milk.

The legal proceedings under the sale of food and drugs act show that milk has been sold in London from which as much as 90 per cent of the original fat had been extracted. In another case milk in which at least 28 per cent of extraneous water had been added was offered for sale.

REFUSED BY A DUKE.

Then Aged Sultoress Sent Him Offensive Postal Cards.

London June 21.—The Duke de Pleneuf has at last been awarded $1,250 by the courts for slander and libel by Lady Rose Horton Clarke. The action was begun in the high courts, but the lady did not appear, and the case was finally remitted for the assessment of damages.

Counsel stated that the duke became acquainted with Lady Clarke some time ago at Prince's skating rink. She claimed to be a distant relative of his, and the friendship developed until it became disagreeable, owing to the fact that her layship, a woman of 60, and a strong-minded person as well, proposed to the duke, who was a young man of 26 years of age.

The duke did not quite see his way to accept such a proposal and a feeling of coolness sprang up between them. Then it was alleged Lady Clarke made slanderous statements about the duke and sent several offensive post cards. The duke demanded an apology and this being refused he instituted proceedings.

The duke in his evidence described the growth of the friendship and Lady Clarke's proposal.

"What did you say?" inquired counsel.

"I smiled and told her that I was already engaged, and that I thought she was a little bit too old," the duke replied.

"Was she very indignant?"

"She was—very."

SQUIRREL BESTS SNAKE IN FIERCE ENCOUNTER.

Carrollton, Mo., June 21.—The story of a battle between a squirrel and a large black snake is reported by John Withers, a prominent farmer, who lives north of Carrollton. Mr. Withers has some pet squirrels on his farm, and a few days ago when he went to feed them he noticed a commotion going on in the squirrels' nest. In a few moments a red squirrel emerged from the hole in the tree, dragging a black snake.

Both were fighting desperately. The snake was at a disadvantage, however, for the squirrel had a strangle hold behind the snake's head and shook his unwieldy antagonist much as a dog would a rat. The snake endeavored to encircle the little squirrel with its coils, but could not do so, and presently both the snake and squirrel fell to the ground, the squirrel still retaining his hold on the snake.

Mr. Withers stepped up and the squirrel released his hold and scampered back up the tree. The snake, which measured nearly 6 feet in length, was nearly dead, and was dispatched by Mr. Withers.

WEALTHY MEXICAN ROBBED.

Relieved of Money by Friendly Fellow Traveler.

Paris, June 21.—A wealthy Mexican named Serano has been chloroformied and robbed of jewels valued at $2,000 while on a visit to Paris.

According to his story which the police are still investigating he made the acquaintance of a Frenchman named Malvin and an American fellow traveler and Malvin who was very kind and considerate during the voyage offered to show the pair Paris upon their arrival. He conducted them to a quiet hotel near the fortifications where he introduced Serano to a handsome woman who was apparently his accomplice. At any rate according to the story it was while in her company that Serano was drugged and robbed. Fortunately, however, he had deposited $25,000 at the Comptoir d-Ecompte earlier in the day.

Though Malvin and the woman were arrested the American succeeded in making good his escape and the French police are still trying to find him for the purpose of helping them to solve some of the mysterious movements of the persons implicated in the entire affair.

DANCING AIDS MATRIMONY.

Statistics Prove Contention of the International Academy.

Paris, June 21.—"Dancing is the finest matrimonial agent in the world," says the International Academy of Authors and Masters of Choreography, and proves it.

"How did you meet your wife or your sweetheart?" was the question put by 3,096 dancing masters the world over to 1,067,503 benedicts, married or about to marry.

Among them 75 per cent replied that they had popped the question while sitting out the dances.

Taken by countries, the highest proportion of what, in the language of the academy, one may call the choregraphic engagements is found in Germany, where only 3 per cent did not meet their wives at dances. In France 83 per cent of the husbands were led into matrimony through choregraphy. In England the proportion is 65 per cent. Norway alone appears not to need dancing as an encouragement to marriage, for the percentage there is only 38.

The moral for bachelors who would flee temptation would appear to be, "Don't dance."

FIVE KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT IN ITALY.

Naples, June 21.—A most appalling automobile accident occurred at Cainello, about 100 miles from here, yesterday, five men being killed. The motor car, which was going at high speed, ran into a rock and was demolished. Among the killed was Prince Pescara, a members of the Italian nobility, and related to the Spanish royal house, on account of whose death the aristocracy of the whole of lower Italy will be in mourning.

MAN KILLS WIFE, THREE CHILDREN AND HIMSELF.

Jasper, Fla., June 21.—W. W. Barton, a carpenter, shot and instantly killed his wife, three children and himself at his home here Wednesday night. One victim, a child 5 years old, lived long enough to tell that Barton did the killing. Neighbors found Barton's body lying on the front porch, and that of his wife on the back porch. The children were found in a bedroom. Unhappy domestic relations are believed to have been responsible for the crime.

A BLACKBIRD SENTRY.

Baltimore American: Shooting men have been interested recently in the story of birds which, only slightly wounded, feigned death. The naturalist could give more interesting examples of cunning.

What, for example, could be more perfect defense than the device of the moorhen? She sinks herself in the water beneath an overhanging root or bank, leaving only her bill in sight. And that looks like a fallen leaf. You may stand within six feet of her and she will not move, so sure is she that her ruse will succeed.

A word for the common blackbird. A troop of them, with thrushes, came down to their accustomed feeding place, where their meal was ready spread. But in the border basked a cat, placidly digesting his dinner. To get the meal meant feeding within three or four feet of him.

One bird, the patriarch of the lot, took guard. The others went noiselessly up and fed, while the old bird, ruffling up his feathers, setting forward his wings and piping in his fighting note, sparred, so to speak, at the cat. The latter was not hungry. He blinked lazily at the enemy and never moved a paw while the meal was in progress.

SCARCITY OF BERRIES

Missouri Through Shipping and They Are Hard to Get.

Fish Scarce and Prices Higher Than Last Year.

Strawberries are scarce this week. They are hardly to be had at any price. There has been a break in the receipts. Missouri is through shipping, and Illinois is just beginning to send the fruit to outside markets. The crop there is light, and the season short, so no very large supply may be expected from there.

From now on there will not be many berries on the market until the Wisconsin crop is ready for harvesting, which will probably be the latter part of next week. Meantime one or two cars of the celebrated Hood River berries may be expected. Probably one car will arrive Saturday.

Receipts of California fruits are increasing. Peaches, cherries, plums and apricots are coming in in good shape, just in time to afford a substitute for strawberries, helping bananas relieve the situation. A fine quality of Florida pine apples also make a substitute for berries. Beginning this week the California fruits are coming forward in carload lots.

• • •

A few watermelons have been on the local market during the last few days, but no carload shipments have yet arrived. The first car will be in in a day or two, and from that on melons will come forward in liberal quantities, with prices that will soon be away down. The crop is a good one.

• • •

The warm weather has resulted in an increased demand for lemons. Late arrivals of Valencia oranges are taking the place of navels, the supply of which has been exhausted, at the usual difference of price, the Valencias being higher. While the price is somewhat higher than is quoted on the other oranges, the keeping quality is very much better, as the Valencia orange is adapted especially for the latter part of June, July and August trade.

• • •

The market is well stocked with all varieties of green vegetables. Prices on all common vegetables are within the reach of everybody. Radishes, green onions, asparagus, new beets, new carrots, new turnips, lettuce, parsley, cucumbers, pie plant, spinach, watercress, new peas, etc., are to be had in any desired amounts at the right prices.

• • •

New potatoes of excellent quality are arriving freely. Some of the old stock is still left. Texas tomatoes are being received in quantities. They arrive in fine condition, and there is a big demand for them.

• • •

The situation on bananas is practically unchanged. They are holding at about the same prices as they have been during the last several weeks. Receipts are just about heavy enough to supply the demand, and no lower prices are expected before the Fourth of July.

• • •

Butter and eggs are unchanged in price. Egg receipts are liberal, and butter receipts are ample, but not large enough to leave much of a surplus on the market. New cheese is arriving, but there has been no particular change in the cheese situation. Reports from country places are very much more favorable in regard to the increase of milk than they have been, also the butter is being able to show a much better flavor, on account of the cows being able to get grass. It will be a while yet before lower prices can be expected.

• • •

Receipts of poultry are liberal, and the prices this week are a little lower. The fish catch has been small for some reason or other, and fish prices are higher than they were last year at this time. This condition should not last long, however.

WALLPAPER AS TROUT BAIT

Made Fishes' Months Water and They Leaped to Get It.

Port Jervis, N. Y., June 21.—George Tidsell of Sparrowbush, N. J., returned from trout fishing with a basket filled with "speckled beauties" weighing half a pound each. His friends quizzed him as to where he caught the fish, so even in size, and how.

"Well, you see, last summer I was at the brook during the huckleberry time and was carelessly throwing some of the berries in the water and was surprised to see trout rise and eat them.

"I ran across a piece of wallpaper the other day having huckleberries printed on it. I went to the brook and pasted the piece of wallpaper on a rock just above a pool. Soon the pool was full of fish. They eyed the beautiful clusters of huckleberries with mouths watering.

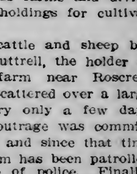

"It didn't take long for a trout to begin athletic jumps to get the berries, and as fast as they jumped for the luscious clusters and were stunned by the contact with the rock, I picked them up and put them in my basket until it was filled."

IRISH GRAZING WAR.

Fresh Outrages in the South and West of Ireland.

Dublin, June 21.—Fresh outrages in connection with the Irish grazing war continue to be reported from various parts of the south and west of Ireland, where the people, supported by the representatives of the Irish league, have, it is said, determined to break up the large grass farms and divide them into small holdings for cultivation.

Four hundred cattle and sheep belonging to Mr. Luttrell, the holder of a large grass farm near Roscrea, Tipperary, were scattered over a large extent of territory only a few days ago. A similar outrage was committed in April last, and since that time Mr. Luttrell's farm has been patrolled by a large force of police. Finally, however, the police were outwitted and the cattle were gone before the officers were even aware that anything was happening.

A serious case of horse maiming took place about the same time at Abbeylaix, Queens county. A horse belonging to a poor widow, who held a small grass farm on Viscount de Vesci's estate, was injured during the night and left to die. The woman's only offense, it is claimed, was that she refused to give up the farm which she and her husband had held for twenty-five years.

It is also reported that the flames on the side of Slieve Anterinn mountain were started by the mountainside tenants, in order to destroy all the young game during the close season.

VICTIM OF POLITICS

The Earl of Dundonald Tells Why He Has Retired.

Has Been Unfairly Treated, Says England's Famous General.

London, June 21.—"I have retired because the British authorities offered me no employment since I was turned out of the Canadian militia for paying attention to political corruption in the appointment of officers," is the published explanation made by the earl of Dundonald, whose retirement from the post of lieutenant general led to the recent promotion of Maj. Gen. Baden-Powell. Continuing, the earl says the fact that he was given nothing to do was not due to old age, because thirteen years remained before the old age clause affected his present rank, and that he considers unfairness and favoritism bound to destroy the efficiency and take the heart out of any military force.

The earl of Dundonald's reference to his being forced out of the Canadian militia calls attention to the controversy in which the British soldier and the Dominion authorities were involved in 1904. It so happened that Lord Dundonald, who was then general officer commanding militia of Canada, made a speech, in the course of which he complained that Mr. Fisher, the minister of agriculture, had struck out the name of a gentleman whom Lord Dundonald had proposed as an officer. We went on to state that he made Mr. Fisher's action public not on personal grounds, but on national grounds, and he added that "he felt anxious—profoundly anxious—that the militia of Canada might be kept free from party politics." The speech was described as an "indiscretion," and an indiscretion it undoubtedly was on the part of an officer in Lord Dundonald's responsible position. It was discussed in parliament, when Mr. Fisher practically admitted the truth of Lord Dundonald's statements. Sir Frederick Borden, the minister of militia, in whose stead Mr. Fisher, it appears, was temporarily acting when he struck out the name of the proposed officer, had given his support to his colleague earlier in the debate. R. L. Borden, the leader of the Opposition, deplored the event, but expressed the hope that it would induce politicians to leave the militia alone. Perhaps it was his intervention which nettled the prime minister. At all events, Sir Wilfrid Laurier made use of some hasty expressions in the discussion, declared that Canadians were not accustomed to "being dragooned," and even referred to the British officer who has been loyally helping Sir Wilfrid's government to build up the Canadian national force as a "foreigner." Though he immediately substituted the somewhat less unbecoming term "stranger," the slip was not overlooked. The government in cancelling the appointment of Lord Dundonald based their decision on the two-fold ground that Lord Dundonald committed a breach of military discipline and also of constitutional usage.

"In my efforts," he said, "I was constantly hampered by interference with my work. This interference began very soon after my arrival. Mr. Fisher's interest in the affairs of the Thirteenth Scottish Light Dragoons was simply the final incident in a long list of various phases of obstruction. My only reason for remaining in my post was to benefit the militia of Canada, but my efforts were so persistently blocked that I came to look upon the case as a hopeless one. I was forced to reflect very seriously upon what I could do to effect my object—the improvement of the militia. It seemed to me that, imperfect as is the training, great as is the lack of armament, numerous as are the faults of detail, there lies behind all these evils a far greater evil—the indifference of the men who govern the country to the welfare of the force. It seemed to me that the best way to help the militia of Canada was to let daylight into the working of the system.

"I realized, moreover, that the new militia bill would soon be discussed in parliament, and that it was my duty to give a warning of certain dangers before it was too late. A course offering many attractions was to resign and issue a public statement giving my reasons. So far as I personally was concerned, it would have been by far the easier and more pleasant course. The objection was that by so doing I would give neither the government nor the people of Canada any real opportunity to pass judgment upon the matter brought to their attention. My protest would have been made, it is true, but not in a manner that would have attracted attention to the evil.

"It seemed better to make a public protest and to leave with the government the option of heeding it or of upholding the system which is destructive to the efficiency of the national defense.

"I was in this frame of mind when Mr. Fisher's interference with the Thirteenth Scottish Light Dragoons came to a head. It precipitated my resolution to speak out, no matter what the consequences. I may now pass from the general aspect of the matter to a few particular instances, where not I, but Canada, has suffered from autocratic and unusual interference with the machinery which I was supposed to control.

"One extremely serious case of interference was the suppression of the important parts of my first annual report of the militia. After studying the situation with great care, I came to certain conclusions, and thought out certain plans. For convenience of reference I divided my report for the year 1902 into halves. Part 1 was a simple diary of events. Part 2 contained my description of the condition of the militia, and an outline of a comprehensive scheme for reorganizing the force upon lines suitable to the country. This part was fully intended by me for publication. It contained nothing that could be described as a military secret. It covered matter such as are constantly made public in Great Britain and the United States. In my judgment it was information as to the actual condition and possibilities of the militia which it was desirable for the people of Canada to know. This part of the report Sir Frederick Borden suppressed against my protest.

"Another instance occurred in connection with the organization of the Ordnance corps. The establishment of this corps was fixed at a colonel, a second in command—with the rank of lieutenant colonel—and three lieutenant colonels. This was a larger establishment than I would have recommended had I been unhampered; but Sir Frederick Borden was anxious to have a number of senior and highly paid posts, and the scheme which he desired was carried out.

"Soon after this I went to the Northwest. As soon as I had left Ottawa the minister of militia ordered the adjutant general to prepare an order increasing the number of lieutenant colonels to five, thus giving seven officers the rank of lieutenant colonel and upwards to a corps of about 100 men. The case of Colonel Gregory of the Second Dragoons, came up next. The excellent work done by him during his command showed itself in the fine state into which he had brought his regiment. I was anxious, for the sake of the regiment, for reasons into which I need not go, to extend his command for another year. Recently Maj. Glasgow was gazetted second in command. Immediately afterwards the minister of militia sent me a short minute to say that he did not desire Col. Gregory's command extended to another year. This was a most unusual procedure for a minister to adopt, as it was entirely within the scope of my duty to recommend to Sir Frederick Boden what I considered best in the interest of the Second Dragoons from a military point of view. The action taken by him certainly was not conducive to the interests of the regiment. That Mr. Fisher's motives were political he himself admitted in his speech in the house of commons. This admission, I may observe, was singularly at variance with his earlier speech, which was a prepared statement, he distinctly stated that his objections were of a military nature, and that his interference was not due to political motives. These few instances which I have quoted are sufficient to show how my reports have been suppressed or manipulated, how my hands have been crippled in my endeavors to promote the efficiency of the militia."

MONDAK HARD HIT.

Terrific Storm Plays Havoc With Town and Surroundings.

Williston, N. D., June 21.—A terrific hail and wind storm passed over Mondak Saturday afternoon doing an immense amount of damage to property and stock. Every pane of glass upon the west, south and north exposures in the town was demolished, and the houses were flooded with rain and hail. All the crops for two miles in extent, are utterly ruined. Great floods of water were seen issuing from the coulees upon the south side of the river, which has done inestimable damage without doubt, although no casualties to life have been reported as yet. The storm came from the southwest with such force and rapidity that very few were prepared when it struck us. Several buildings were overturned and the roof was entirely removed from one of the cars standing on the industrial siding, near the cold storage. Several people were caught upon the ferry boat coming in from the South side and were severely and painfully pelted, some of which may prove to be serious, if not worse. From here, the storm took a more northerly course.

FATHER AND HIS SON ARRESTED NEAR MANDAN.

Mandan, N. D., June 21.—A father and son have been arrested by Deputy United States Marshal Stout on charges of selling liquor to the Indians. They are Michael Pitzer and his 17-year-old son, Joseph. The offense is alleged to have been committed on the Standing Rock reservation, and the two were captured at Little Heart near Mandan. Each gave bail in the sum of $200 for their appearance. They have already been indicted.

EASIER FOR SURGEONS.

Much of Examinations for Patients Eliminated by Board.

Washington, June 21.—An essential feature of an amendment recently made to the regulations for the examination of assistant surgeons of the army is that which eliminates methematics, othorgraphy, general literature, grammar and the reading of easy Latin prose, from such examinations in the case of applicants holding diplomas from reputable literary or scientific colleges, normal or high schools, or of graduates of medical schools requiring an entrance examination satisfactory to the army medical school. Experience has demonstrated that applicants for these positions who have been away from their alma matters for some years and in the meantime have been in the active practice of their profession, are frequently rusty on some of the branches referred to, and consequently do not feel that they can readily pass the examinations. Consequently hereafter the diploma or certificates from the institutions referred to will be regarded as satisfactory in lieu of an examination along some of the lines by army medical boards. There are now twenty-two vacancies in the corps of assistant surgeons for which there are seventeen applicants. The next examination for the position will be held July 29.

COURT SCANDAL

In Germany Will be Investigated by Herr Bebel, Socialist Leader.

Berlin, June 21.—Herr Bebel, the great leader of the German Socialists, will inquire into the court scandals which have shocked civilization.

When the reichstag meets again Bebel will introduce a formal interpellation calling upon the government to state whether it is true or not that there is such a "knights of the round table coterie" as is reported to be headed by Prince Philip Zuelenberg and Count von Moltke.

Bebel's official curiosity, however, will be confined to the political side of the question.

DISASTROUS REPAIRS.

Los Angeles Times: "Such an article," said H. P. Judson, the new head of the University of Chicago, in declining a rather unusual interview, "would be not only futile, but even, in a mild way, harmful. It would be like the work of the careful housekeeper. There was an old general who had brought home from the war a splendid flag — a flag all torn with bullets, faded with fierce suns, and stained with the dust and blood of battle. This superb trophy hung over the mantle in his library. Well, one unlucky day, he engaged a new housekeeper, and the next week missed the flag. He rang at once.

"'Where is that flag of mine?' he said, pointing anxiously to the empty space on the wall.

"'I have been working on it, sir,' the housekeeper answered. 'I've washed it thoroughly, and sewed up all the rents and darned all the holes, and when I bring it back to you, sir, I'm sure you'll say it looks quite as good as new.'"

SHARP PRACTICE.

Los Angeles Times: Andre Autard, who makes John D. Rockefeller's wigs, is a plump and elegant Frenchman, with thin black hair, a rich black mustache, and black and sparkling eyes.

M. Autard has a shop in the best quarter of Paris. Here all the world goes to be shaved, undulated, massaged. And here an American talked to the great hair dresser about the exhorbitant duty that Mr. Rockefeller had to pay on his last wig.

"It was sharp practice," said M. Autard, in the fluent English that he learned in London. "To compel Mr. Rockefeller to pay such a duty was harly honest. Sharp practice it was—like the way I was treated in my apprenticeship.

"When I was learning barbering, I applied for a post in London. The patron engaged me at a certain wage, and at the end of our talk he said:

"'Of course, it is understood that you speak both French and English.'

"'Yes, sir,' I responded quickly; 'and Dutch, also.'

"'We have no dealings with Dutchmen here,' said he. 'Therefore, I will take one-third off that salary.'"

FOREIGN WHEELS.

Travel Magazine: Everywhere in the Old World the wheels of wagons and carriages are two or three times as heavy as those on corresponding vehicles in America and so appear clumsy and cumbersome of us. The explanation of the difference is that our wheels are made of hickory, a wood which is unknown abroad and which supplies the requisite strength in smaller mass.

VICTIM OF POLITICS

The Earl of Dundonald Tells Why He Has Retired.

Has Been Unfairly Treated, Says England's Famous General.

London, June 21.—"I have retired because the British authorities offered me no employment since I was turned out of the Canadian militia for paying attention to political corruption in the appointment of officers," is the published explanation made by the earl of Dundonald, whose retirement from the post of lieutenant general led to the recent promotion of Maj. Gen. Baden-Powell. Continuing, the earl says the fact that he was given nothing to do was not due to old age, because thirteen years remained before the old age clause affected his present rank, and that he considers unfairness and favoritism bound to destroy the efficiency and take the heart out of any military force.

The earl of Dundonald's reference to his being forced out of the Canadian militia calls attention to the controversy in which the British soldier and the Dominion authorities were involved in 1904. It so happened that Lord Dundonald, who was then general officer commanding militia of Canada, made a speech, in the course of which he complained that Mr. Fisher, the minister of agriculture, had struck out the name of a gentleman whom Lord Dundonald had proposed as an officer. We went on to state that he made Mr. Fisher's action public not on personal grounds, but on national grounds, and he added that "he felt anxious—profoundly anxious—that the militia of Canada might be kept free from party politics." The speech was described as an "indiscretion," and an indiscretion it undoubtedly was on the part of an officer in Lord Dundonald's responsible position. It was discussed in parliament, when Mr. Fisher practically admitted the truth of Lord Dundonald's statements. Sir Frederick Borden, the minister of militia, in whose stead Mr. Fisher, it appears, was temporarily acting when he struck out the name of the proposed officer, had given his support to his colleague earlier in the debate. R. L. Borden, the leader of the Opposition, deplored the event, but expressed the hope that it would induce politicians to leave the militia alone. Perhaps it was his intervention which nettled the prime minister. At all events, Sir Wilfrid Laurier made use of some hasty expressions in the discussion, declared that Canadians were not accustomed to "being dragooned," and even referred to the British officer who has been loyally helping Sir Wilfrid's government to build up the Canadian national force as a "foreigner." Though he immediately substituted the somewhat less unbecoming term "stranger," the slip was not overlooked. The government in cancelling the appointment of Lord Dundonald based their decision on the two-fold ground that Lord Dundonald committed a breach of military discipline and also of constitutional usage.

FATHER AND HIS SON ARRESTED NEAR MANDAN.

Mandan, N. D., June 21.—A father and son have been arrested by Deputy United States Marshal Stout on charges of selling liquor to the Indians. They are Michael Pitzer and his 17-year-old son, Joseph. The offense is alleged to have been committed on the Standing Rock reservation, and the two were captured at Little Heart near Mandan. Each gave bail in the sum of $200 for their appearance. They have already been indicted.

EASIER FOR SURGEONS.

Much of Examinations for Patients Eliminated by Board.

Washington, June 21.—An essential feature of an amendment recently made to the regulations for the examination of assistant surgeons of the army is that which eliminates methematics, othorgraphy, general literature, grammar and the reading of easy Latin prose, from such examinations in the case of applicants holding diplomas from reputable literary or scientific colleges, normal or high schools, or of graduates of medical schools requiring an entrance examination satisfactory to the army medical school. Experience has demonstrated that applicants for these positions who have been away from their alma matters for some years and in the meantime have been in the active practice of their profession, are frequently rusty on some of the branches referred to, and consequently do not feel that they can readily pass the examinations. Consequently hereafter the diploma or certificates from the institutions referred to will be regarded as satisfactory in lieu of an examination along some of the lines by army medical boards. There are now twenty-two vacancies in the corps of assistant surgeons for which there are seventeen applicants. The next examination for the position will be held July 29.

COURT SCANDAL

In Germany Will be Investigated by Herr Bebel, Socialist Leader.

Berlin, June 21.—Herr Bebel, the great leader of the German Socialists, will inquire into the court scandals which have shocked civilization.

When the reichstag meets again Bebel will introduce a formal interpellation calling upon the government to state whether it is true or not that there is such a "knights of the round table coterie" as is reported to be headed by Prince Philip Zuelenberg and Count von Moltke.

Bebel's official curiosity, however, will be confined to the political side of the question.

DISASTROUS REPAIRS.

Los Angeles Times: "Such an article," said H. P. Judson, the new head of the University of Chicago, in declining a rather unusual interview, "would be not only futile, but even, in a mild way, harmful. It would be like the work of the careful housekeeper. There was an old general who had brought home from the war a splendid flag — a flag all torn with bullets, faded with fierce suns, and stained with the dust and blood of battle. This superb trophy hung over the mantle in his library. Well, one unlucky day, he engaged a new housekeeper, and the next week missed the flag. He rang at once.

"'Where is that flag of mine?' he said, pointing anxiously to the empty space on the wall.

"'I have been working on it, sir,' the housekeeper answered. 'I've washed it thoroughly, and sewed up all the rents and darned all the holes, and when I bring it back to you, sir, I'm sure you'll say it looks quite as good as new.'"

SHARP PRACTICE.

Los Angeles Times: Andre Autard, who makes John D. Rockefeller's wigs, is a plump and elegant Frenchman, with thin black hair, a rich black mustache, and black and sparkling eyes.

M. Autard has a shop in the best quarter of Paris. Here all the world goes to be shaved, ondulated, massaged. And here an American talked to the great hair dresser about the exhorbitant duty that Mr. Rockefeller had to pay on his last wig.

"It was sharp practice," said M. Autard, in the fluent English that he learned in London. "To compel Mr. Rockefeller to pay such a duty was harly honest. Sharp practice it was—like the way I was treated in my apprenticeship.

"When I was learning barbering, I applied for a post in London. The patron engaged me at a certain wage, and at the end of our talk he said:

"'Of course, it is understood that you speak both French and English.'

"'Yes, sir,' I responded quickly; 'and Dutch, also.'

"'We have no dealings with Dutchmen here,' said he. 'Therefore, I will take one-third off that salary.'"

FOREIGN WHEELS.

Travel Magazine: Everywhere in the Old World the wheels of wagons and carriages are two or three times as heavy as those on corresponding vehicles in America and so appear clumsy and cumbersome of us. The explanation of the difference is that our wheels are made of hickory, a wood which is unknown abroad and which supplies the requisite strength in smaller mass.

Former Duluth Pastor Heads State Swedish Baptist Conference.

Other Officers Elected—Annual Reports Are Heard.

Rev. Magnus Larson, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist church, St. Paul, and formerly pastor of Bethel church in this city, was elected moderator of the Minnesota conference of the Swedish Baptist church, at the morning session of the conference today, at the Bethel Swedish Baptist church, Ninth avenue east and Third street.

Rev. A. Edstam, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist church of this city, located at Nineteenth avenue west and First street, was also honored by the conference. He was elected vice moderator.

Other conference officers elected to serve during the ensuing year were: Secretary, Rev. A. Paulson of Houston; assistant secretary, Rev. O. Erickson of Obstead; corresponding secretary, Rev. P. Lovene of Maynard; treasurer, Rev. V. E. Hedberg of Minneapolis.

Rev. Arvid Gordh of Minneapolis was elected a delegate to the general conference, which will be held in Boston in September.

Rev. Frank Peterson and Rev. Olaf Bodien were re-elected to the board of trustees. The terms of the other four trustees of the conference do not expire this year.

REV. MAGNUS LARSON,
Pastor First Swedish Baptist Church in St. Paul, Chosen Moderator of Minnesota Conference.

The delegates listened to some official reports during the morning session, the most important being that of the corresponding secretary, Rev. P. Lovene of Maynard.

The report showed that three new Swedish Baptist churches were organized during the past year, making a total of eighty-three churches for the state. The eighty-three churches in the conference represent a total membership of 6,129. Forty-two pastors conduct services for these people. Seventy-seven churches have their own meeting houses. Twenty-eight are without pastors at the present time.

The report showed that the conference had one general missionary in the state field and that twenty-one pastors were given partial support out of the missionary fund.

During the past, $3,547 was raised for missionary work in the state and $10,819 for missionary work elsewhere. The sum of $9,983 was expended by the churches during the year, for maintenance.

The ministers held a meeting this morning, from 8:30 until 10, when routine matters in connection with their state association were discussed.

The conference session was opened at 10 o'clock, by the retiring moderator, Rev. Olaf Bodien.

This afternoon, the reports of Rev. E. Bjerknulst, state missionary, and the missionary pastors, are being heard. Rev. Olaf Bodien also welcomes the newcomers in the conference, to the fold.

Sunday School Missionary E. S. Lindblad of St. Paul, and Rev. P. S. Person and C. E. Westin, in charge of the "missionary wagons," which tour the state, are down on this afternoon's program for short talks.

This evening, the Women's Home Missionary society will hold a session, under the leadership of Mrs. Olaf Bodien.

There will be sessions of the conference all day tomorrow and most of the ministers and laymen in attendance will remain here over Sunday. Many of the ministers will preach in local pulpits during the services Sunday.

AUTO CAUSES RUNAWAY.

Calumet, Mich., June 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—While Mrs. Andrew Berryman, her two children and a lady friend were driving down Fifth street Thursday morning their horse became frightened at an automobile belonging to Will Duncan and ran away. The occupants of the rig were thrown to the ground. The accident occurred in front of the Cable Piano company's store and Mr. Wilson rushed out to pick up Mrs. Berryman, who was first thrown high into the air. She received a serious scalp wound. The others escaped uninjured.

TRIVIAL ACCIDENT IS CAUSE OF DEATH.

Newberry, Mich., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Lloyd, a millwright, is dead at Germfask, the result of a comparatively trivial accident. His hand coming in contact with a saw, the thumb was cut in such a manner that amputation was necessary. The wound apparently was healing satisfactorily, when blood poisoning set in and death followed shortly. A family of seven survive.

SKIN SOFT AS A BABY'S AND WITHOUT A SCAR

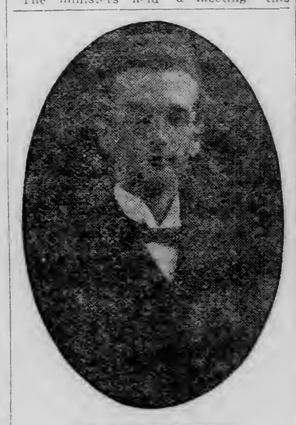

"I have a cousin in Rockingham Co. who once had a skin disease from her birth until she was six years of age. Her father had spent a fortune on her to get her cured and none of the treatments did her any good. Old Dr. G—— suggested that he try the Cuticura Remedies which he did. When he commenced to use it the child was almost in a solid scab. He had used it about two months and the child was well. I was there when they commenced to use your Cuticura Remedies. I stayed that week and then returned home and stayed two weeks and then went back and stayed with them two weeks longer and when I went home I could hardly believe she was the same child. Her skin was as soft as a baby's without a scar on it. I have not seen her in seventeen years but I have heard from her and the last time I heard from her she was well. That is where I became acquainted with Cuticura. I hope this may be of some service to you in the future. Mrs. W. P. Ingle, Burlington, N. C., June 16, 1905."

ORDINANCE SUSTAINED

W. A. Alden is Classed as a Transient Merchant.

Jenswold, Attorney for Alden, Will Appeal Case at Once.

The trial of W. A. Alden of the Aden-Keljik company, rug merchants, charged with operating in the city as a transient merchant without securing the license to do so, was held in municipal court this morning. After some heated argument by T. J. McKeon for the city and John Jenswold, Jr., who represented Alden, Judge Cutting sustained the city ordinance, and imposed the maximin fine of $100, amounting in all to about $150.

Mr. Jenswold argued that the city council had added to its powers without authority when it added to the definition of a peddler, hawker, and canvasser that portion of the ordinance which reads that "the terms peddling, hawking and canvassing are also intended to include, and shall include all persons who engage in a temporary or transient business in the city of Duluth, either in one locality or traveling from place to place within the city to sell goods, wares and merchandise." He said that while the council was, under the charter, given the authority to license and regulate hawkers, peddlers and canvassers, they had no right to extend their authority by the introduction of this definition into an ordinance.

"I will admit," said Judge Cutting in imposing sentence, "that I am prejudiced against this class of dealers, and I think justly so. They come into town and, without paying any of the assessments of our regular merchants, simply rake in the money. I do not say that this sale has not been conducted in a perfectly proper manner, however."

Mr. Jenswold at once signified his intention of appealing the case and it will go before the district court.

Mr. Alden was arrested a day or two after his first arrest, on a second warrant charging him with the same act, each sale constituting a separate offense. The trial on this charge is in progress this afternoon and the findings of the court, in as much as the case is exactly like the first, are likely to be the same. Mr. Alden was released on bail.

W. D. Gordon, the auctioneer who has been doing Alden's work was put on the stand this morning. He testified that Alden took out the lease for one month for the store at 24 East Superior street, and that a stock worth about $20,000 was now in the building.

B. A. Keljik, up to Christmas, a member of the firm who sold out just before the holidays, testified as to their methods of doing business and substantiated the fact that they were transient merchants.

At the close of the trial W. D. Gordon, the auctioneer, stated that there were likely to be some further developments.

"We haven't started the introduction to this case yet," said the auctioneer. "we have beaten similar ordinances on former occasions and we can knock this one out."

THREE NEW MEN.

Quite Notable Addition to the University of Wisconsin Faculty.

Madison, Wis., June 21.—The University of Wisconsin has just received three notable additions to its faculty by the action of the regents in electing Rossetter Gleason Cole to be director of the school of music, Orville H. Ensign head of the department of electrical engineering, and Mazyck Porcher Ravenel professor of bacteriology. Each of the new professors has won distinction in his chosen profession. Prof. Ensign has been chief electrical and mechanical engineer in the United States reclamation service for several years; Prof. Cole is well known as a composer, musician and musical writer, and Dr. Ravenel is one of the recognized authorities on bovine and human tuberculosis.

DO NOT WANT THE SYSTEM

Park Point Residents Think Sewer Will Cost Too Much.

Several Novel Features Will Make Contractors Fight Shy.

That there is a decided opposition to the installation of a sewer system costing $20,000 on Park Point this year, was a fact developed at a hearing on the advance assessment by the board of public works this morning. A delegation of about ten of the property owners from the point were present with petitions against the improvement. The reasons given for not wanting it done are varied, but with one or two exceptions they seem to be based on a reluctance to pay so much for a system this year.

Several of the residents have also pointed out that from now on the water is much higher than it is up to this time each year and that for this reason it would be economy to wait until early next spring before setting a contractor to work on the job.

There is a very great probability that the contractors will bid considerably higher than the engineer's estimate on the job, as there are several uncertain features which involve a great deal of risk, connected with it. The fact that the pipe will be laid under water for a good deal of its length will necessitate it being made absolutely tight or the sewer ejectors which will be installed, will be overworked and will cost too much to operate. This means that wet gaskett joints will have to be installed, and a special kind of pipe used, a situation with which local contractors have had very little experience and of which in consequence they will be a little bit shy. This feature of the proposition has very evidently appealed to the Park Point residents, and they are protesting in consequence. The board postponed the hearing one week in order that a protest may be submitted to the council Monday evening.

The Monday evening council meeting promises to be a warm one, as besides the Boyle liquor license proposition, kicks from property owners on Twelfth avenue east, and the Park Point sewer systems are about due.

SPORTS OF THE DAY

WIX WINS GREAT GAME

Treadway Let Calumet Down With Only Three Hits.

Sox Take First of Series From Aristocrats, 4 to 1.

After having pitched five full games and parts of two others since the season opened, without having a victory to his credit, Wix Treadway yesterday showed just what he can do by nailing Calumet to the wall handily. The score was 4 to 1.

Wix has always said that he is a warm-weather pitcher. The fans didn't look at it in that way, though, and no man who has worn a Duluth uniform this year was more severely, industriously and consistently hammered than Treadway. He was branded a false alarm without a ring, a busher fit only for a plow-handle, a dub not worth a job warming the bench, and everything else that might come into the knocking fan's mind. Yesterday was an ideal day for Treadway. The sun was warm and bright. The men behind were feeling right for baseball, and, with conditions all in his favor, Treadway came forward and showed that the warm weather plea wasn't a stall.

From the moment he pitched the first ball the fans could see he was in to hand out his best. He had speed of the smokiest kind, and his breaks were wicked enough to keep the fans in the grandstand gaping at the display. Only one thing he lacked—control. His wicked shoots kept flying dangerously near the anatomy of the Calumet batters, and after McMorey and Orlet had been laid low in the early innings, the Calumet batters didn't take any chances, but fled to cover when a doubtful ball came from Treadway's direction. He walked three men on balls, hit two others, and made one wild pitch, but his tightness with the hits more than made up for his inability to locate the plate at times. Only three times were the Aristocrats able to break open the bingle bag, and the swats were so widely scattered that they didn't do any particular damage.

Tread's wildness prevented him from scoring a shut-out. He handed the Aristocrats their only run in the third inning, when he hit Orlet after Taylor had been given a life by Helding's error. Wallace sacrificed, and while Dolan was batting, Wix let go a wild one, which bid fair to go over the stand, and Taylor landed.

Treadway didn't have any easy pickings bucking Roy Newcombe, neither. The new manager of the dandified boys was at his best, and Newcombe's best means something. One disastrous inning was his undoing. It was the second, and during his temporary weakness, or the home team's temporary batting strength, the game was grabbed off beautifully and tucked away in Smiley Smith's grip. McCormick went down in the first inning and Tracey started the pyrotechnics with a single. Leighty hit one to Newcombe, who failed to land Tracey at second, and two were safe. Smiley Smith came forward and cleared the sacks with a pretty double to right. Summers bingled to right and Smith took third. Frankie grabbed off second and both cantered to the wire in Livingston's shigle. Lewis threw wild in trying to head Summers off, and Livingston took third but died there. Treadway handed Newcombe's boys their lone one in the next inning, and from that on there was nothing doing.

It was a great game to watch. The warm day was the first on which there has been a ball game here, and it was a revelation to the fans to see the boys play as they did yesterday, after the indifferent form of the early season. Those who had said Duluth never did have a chance for the rag opened their eyes wide at the display of form. Everybody was on his toes from the jump-off. There was life at every turn on both sides of the fence.

After the second inning only one man saw the second sack. In the eighth Helding bingled and pilfered the midway station, but he had a close call at that. Three times Calumet men reached first, but they got no farther. Four of the twelve of white hose began the circuit, but Helding was the only one to go farther. Three were nipped in their attempted burglaries by McMorey.

Cincinnati, June 21.—Cincinnati won out in the twelfth inning by scoring a run on Mowrey's single, an out, Welmer's safe tap and Huggin's perfect working of the "squeeze" play with Mowrey. New York tied the score in the seventh inning, causing the retirement of Ewing. Seymour strained a tendon in his leg in the sixth inning, forcing him from the game. Score:

NEWT RANDALL IS TRADED.

Duluth Boy Goes to the Boston National League Team.

Newton J. Randall, the Duluth boy, who has been with the Chicago Cubs since the opening of the present season, was yesterday traded to the Boston Nationals. Randall and Infielder Sweeny were turned over to Boston for Del Howard, an outfielder, and it is presumed Murphy received a good slice of money in addition.

Boston has been after Randall since early in the season, but Murphy refused to give him up until yesterday. He did not show form to displace any of the regular Chicago outfielders, so he was finally let go. Randall has not played regularly and the fact may account for his having gone down in hitting, but with Boston, he will probably play in every game and his Duluth friends look for him to come back to his regular form with the stick.

NEALON IN SUBURBAN

Great Race at Sheepshead Goes to Rank Outsider.

Electioneer and Superman, the Favorites, Badly Beaten.

New York, N. Y., June 21.—Nealon, a Western horse, owned by S. E. Durnell, ridden by Jockey W. D. Dugan and quoted 20 to 1, won the great Suburban handicap at Sheepshead bay yesterday. Montogomery was second two lengths behind the winner, with Beason Light third. The time was 2:06 2-5. Electioneer, the facorite, and the heavily played Keene entry, Superman and Veil were badly beaten. Nealon is a four-year-old, by Sain, out of Sister Josephine, and was bred in Missouri by Barney Schriber. He was coupled with Faust in the betting, and his victory was a surprise to horsemen.

It was with a rare burst of speed in the stretch that Nealon flashed out of a flying field of sixteen horses and sped across the finish line while 20,000 people cheered him as the winner of the $20,000 prize and the highest turf honors. W. Dugan, who had the mount on Nealon, rode a clever race, allowing the stable mate, Faust, with E. Dugan up, to make all the running for a mile and then sending Nealon easily to the front in the last furlong. All New York—so it seemed—went to Sheepshead yesterday, and when boots and saddles were sounded for the first race, the grand stands and lawns were packed with a typical Suburban crowd—good natured and enthusiastic. A smart shower in the morning served to lay the dust and left the track lightning fast. August Belmont's five year old Blandy was the only entry withdrawn from the seventeen horses that were carded to face the starter's flag. The dollars of the crowd had been poured into the ring on Electioneer and James R. Keene's entry, Superman and Veil, and when the horses were to the post they carried the financial hopes of a greater part of the throng.

There was a long delay at the post. Nealon acted badly and could not be kept in line. Electioneer broke through the barrier and gave Jockey Mountain all he could do to keep him from running away. When Eelectioneer was finally brought back Running Water became stubborn. Mars Cassidy finally got them on a line, the barrier was sprung, and the suburban handicap was on.

Out in front came Faust like a comet and E. Dugan took him across to the rail position, with Superman running second, and the Vteran Cairngan third. Nealon got an indifferent start. As they swept past the grandstand in the first furlong there were cries for Superman, the winner of the Brooklyn handicap, who was running half a length behind Faust and just ahead of Frank Gill. Nealon had moved up to fourth, and as the horses swung into the back stretch the cry went up that Electioneer, the favorite had quit. Nearing the half mile Superman gave up the heartbreaking chase and fell back in the dust beclouded ruck.

"The favorites are beatein," roared the crowd. Faust held the lead with Frank Gill second, and the on-rushing Nealon third at the three quarters. On they came, and as they passed the mile post Faust fell back and W. Dugan sent Nealon out with a whirlwind dash and took the lead. Frank Gill fell away beaten while Montgomery who had been holding a steady stride, closed in on Nealon for a final stretch sprint. Nealon ran with great casy swinging strides, and Montgomery, whipped to the last effort, challenged him for the lead. W. Dugan touched big Nealon with his whip and the horse shot out, crossing the line an easy winner by two lengths, Montgomery was second, and Beacon Light, who had closed strong in the stretch, took third money by a scant head from Faust the other Durnell entry. Superman was eighth and Electioneer, the favorite, who had shown no speed in the race, finished fifteenth, next to last.

GIANTS DEFEAT MAROONS.

Rogers Holds Winnipeg to Three Hits in Seven Innings.

Winnipeg, Man., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rogers held the Maroons to three hits in a beautiful seven-inning pitchers' battle last evening and the Houghton Giants won the first game of the series by a score of 1 to 0. Glencke also pitched good ball, but Houghton bunched hits in the third inning for the only run of the game. Both teams played errorless ball in the field. Score:

Houghton	0 0 1 0 0 0 0	1	5 0

BOXING CLUB RAIDED.

Gustave Lenny, Boston Fighter, in Serious Condition.

New York, June 21.—Following a boxing bout in which the participated at the Long Acre club last night, Gustave Lenny of Boston, was removed to Bellevue hospital, where it was said later that his condition was serious and that he might die. He is suffering from multiple contussions of the head and body, and was unconscious for some time after being admitted to the hospital. When he regained his senses, he was placed under arrest and removed to the prison yard.

Lenny, according to the police, fought four fast rounds with Edward Smith of this city. No great damage was done, however, until the fourth round, when Lenny is said to have been so seriously punished that he had to be helped from the ring. Smith, the referee and the seconds were arrested at the club.

The club has been raided several times, but because it has, subsequently, won out in the courts, it has not recently been interfered with.

WILL PUTT FOR PRIZES

Interesting Contest for Ladies at Northland Country Club.

Second Round for Spring Championship Nearing an End.

Tomorrow afternoon, a putting contest for the ladies of the Northland Country club, will be held. The contest is the first of a series to be held throughout the summer, one each Saturday, and it is expected that a large number of the ladies will take part in the competition. The putting contests for the ladies are in the nature of an innovation, as they were not held before this year.

The contests will be held on the new putting green in front of the club house. A prize will be offered for each contest, the trophy tomorrow being presented by P. D. Day. It will become the permanent possession of the winning lady, a different prize to be offered each Saturday. The competition tomorrow will be 18-hole medal play. A week from tomorrow putting against bogey will be the play, and some change will be made each week to add to the novelty and attractiveness of the contests. For the further entertainment of the ladies, a bridge contest will be held the second Saturday in July, when a prize will be offered for the victor.

Tea will be served tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock at the clubhouse and in the evening, there will be music and dancing.

The first round in the annual spring championship of the club has been played and the second round is nearing an end. Yesterday afternoon, Towne defeated Crosby and Niblick defeated Taussig. Other contests in the second round will be played today and tomorrow.

The forfeitures in the spring handicap will be hung up tomorrow evening. There are over 100 entries in the handicap and a large number of the contests in the preliminary round have been played off. Those not played by tomorrow evening will be declared forfeited and the play in the opening round will begin next week.

THREE AMATEUR SHOOTERS TIED

Interesting Competition in American Handicap at Chicago.

Chicago, June 21.—Three amateur shooters are tied for the grand American handicap, and it will be necessary for them to meet today under the same conditions as prevailed yesterday to decide the ownership of the championship trophy. C. M. Powers of Decatur, Ill.; Jeff F. Blanks of Trezevant, Tenn.; and J. M. Maryott of Fort Collins, Colo., each broke ninety-six clay pigeons. Powers shot from the 20-yard mark, Blanks from the 17-yard, and Maryott at 18-yards. None of the five scratch men, who were professionals, got inside the money.

After missing but one target out of his first eighty, Powers seemed to have the event within his grasp, but he became nervous and went to pieces on his last tally and scored but seventeen targets. Two other men still have a chance for first place. Lem Willard of Chicago, president of the Illinois State Sportsmen's association, and Tom L. Graham of Ingleside, Ill., did not complete their five rounds of twenty targets yesterday. They have a score of seventy-six each for the first eighty trials.

The leading professional was J. R. Taylor of Newark, Ohio who made ninety-five and who is tied with M. C. Bolton of Gilchrist Ill., and Bert Waggoner of Lomax, Ill., for second money. Four hundred and fifty-seven men faced the traps, thirty-six of the entrants having forfeited. Every man on the 21-yard mark fell down so badly on the first trial that they were all out of the money and withdrew from the contest.

The scores of the first seventeen men follow: Jeff J. Blanks, Trezevant, Tenn., 95; J. M. J. Maryott, Fort Collins, Colo., 96; C. M. Powers, Decatur, Ill., 96; J. R. Taylor, Newark, Ohio, 95; M. C. Bolton Gilchrist, Ill., 96; Bert Waggoner, Lomax, Ill., 95; E. N. Gregg, Chicago, 94; F. E. Foltz, McClure, Ohio, 94; B. H. Black, Chicago, 94; George J. Roll, Blue Island, Ill., 93; W. S. Hoon, Jewel, Iowa, 93; F. Fuller, Chicago, 93; R. J. Hook, Ingleside, Ill., 93; Max Knessel Ottawa, Ill., 93; John Martin, Brooklyn, N. Y., 93; Fred Burnham, Lowell, Ind. 93; J. H. Hightower, Americus, Ga., 92.

The shoot off for first place will commence this morning at 10:30 o'clock. There will also be two other events today, both the amateur and professional meeting at 200 targets.

CULLED FROM THE SCORE BOOK.

That helps.

Treadway had everything but control.

• • •

Calumet takes a seat on the bottom step.

• • •

It's the kind of baseball the fans will be glad to pay to see.

• • •

Each team made one error. Houghton and Winnipeg didn't make any. All are now into the race in all their strength.

Helding's error yesterday was a hard chance. He looks good on third base.

• • •

Lewis made a beautiful catch in the first inning yesterday. Livingston poked one out and it looked like a Texas leaguer. Slim came toward second on a dead run and caught the ball while stumbling forward. He was given a hearty hand by the crowd.

• • •

Livingston is fielding better this year than he has formerly. And he's a safe hitter in a pinch.

• • •

Treadway's wildness cost him the only Calumet run. While he's pitching as he did yesterday, he can be wild and not lose anything.

• • •

Leighty, Livingston and Tracey ended up the game with a fast double. It was a nice finish to a good game.

• • •

One of Treadway's slants laid McMorey low in the second inning. It hit him in the kidneys and he wasn't revived for several minutes. He pluckily went on with the game in the next inning.

• • •

McMorey has one of the nicest throwing arms seen here this year. He heaves the ball without hesitation and caught four Sox trying to steal second.

• • •

Summers plays good ball in center field. He picked off a nice one from Newcombe's bat in the ninth inning.

• • •

Wallace's smash in the first inning was a healthy one to the left field fence. Coming then, it looked bad for Treadway, but it was the only good hit the Aristocrats grabbed off.

• • •

Lewis couldn't work his bunting game on Treadway. Wix was shooting them in too fast to "the silver" and keeping them close to the handle. Bunting is Lewis' strong point and he doesn't get many hits to the outfield.

• • •

Houghton's victory over Winnipeg yesterday raises the Giants to third place. Houghton has a good team right now and none would be surprised to see them get better than an even break with the Canuks.

• • •

Both Copper country teams are playing good ball. Calumet didn't lose yesterday by poor work but because the Sox played just a little better. The race is going to be closer before the season is over.

• • •

With a man on third in the first inning yesterday, Biddy Dolan came to bat and the fans looked for a hit. "Tread" had it on the big fellow and he whiffed, to the delight of the crowd.

• • •

McCormick is now over in right field, his rightful position, and the outfield looks better with him there, Goldsmith in left, and Summers in center.

• • •

Jim Haney is billed to do the throwing today. Cummings tomorrow and Krick Sunday. Koopman will probably throw for the Aristocrats today and Kaiser, the speedy wild one, tomorrow.

Hazelwood Want Games.

The Hazelwood Park baseball team wants games with nines in Duluth and Superior, the members not to be over 18 years of age. The Hazelwoods have a good record thus far this year. They are especially anxious to meet the Duluth Heights team. Those wanting games may call W. Swanstrom of West Duluth on the New 'phone, 3170. The team lines up as follows: Catcher, M. Norsted and W. Swanstrom; pitcher, J. Wicklund; first base, Johnson; second base, Carlson; shortstop, H. Gunderson; third base, B. Gunderson; left field, E. Norsted; center field, W. Swanstrom and M. Norsted; right field, S. Olson.

Aerial Juniors Won.

The Aerial Juniors yesterday morning defeated the Herald Juniors in the Mendenhall lot by a score of 28 to 13. The game is the second between the two teams, the Herald Juniors having won the first.

WHAT THEY ASK THE CAPTAIN.

Philadelphia Bulletin: "The annual rush of tourists back and forth over the Atlantic has begun," said a liner's captain, "and I am hardening myself to stand the usual ten tourist questions.

"There are ten questions that every tourist who can get near enough puts to me. You'll put them to me if you ever cross on my ship. I have been asked these ten questions 3,764,952 times. They are:

"'Were you ever shipwrecked?'

"'Any whales in this latitude?'

"'How deep is the water here?'

"'What tips are usually given, and to whom?'

"'How many times have you crossed the Atlantic?'

"'What is the best remedy for seasickness?'

"'Why are you always painting this ship?'

"'Well you let me come upon the bridge some time?'

"'Do you remember my cousin, who crossed with you in the spring of '95?'

"'I suppose the passengers ask you a great many stupid questions, don't they?'

HIGH PRICES FOR VEGETABLES.

Anaconda Standard: Ray Woodworth of Moscow, Idaho, has been visiting relatives and friends in Dillon during the last week. Mr. Woodworth was one of the early arrivals at Bannack, when the placer gold was discovered in Grasshopper gulch, and also moved near Virginia City and resided there when that famous placer field was in its glory.

Mr. Woodworth says that he came to Bannack from Denver in 1863 and took up a ranch near what is now known as Taylor crossing, between Dillon and Bannack. He brought a lot of garden seed along with him, believing that garden vegetables would be a delicacy so craved by the miners that they would pay handsomely for them and that he would make more money with his spade and garden rake than with the rocker and pan. He succeeded very well near Bannack, and when there took up a ranch in the Madison valley, not far from Virginia City, where he continued raising vegetables and selling them to the miners.

He raised the first wheat crop ever raised in the territory of Montana and sold his wheat for 28 cents a pound.

"I lost $2,000 on one load of rutabagas, and it was this way," he said. "I hired a freighter to haul a big load to Helena, paying him 4 cents a pound, thinking that that was high enough for them. A few days after he had left the ranch I heard that the vegetable was retailing at 50 cents a pound, and I sent a courier after him to tell him not to sell for less, but the messenger arrived at Helena a few hours after he had sold the load for 9 cents a pound. The dealer retailed them at 60 cents. I also lost some money on a load of turnips. They froze en route and I secured only 18 cents a pound for them. I sold many potatoes to the Alder Gulch miners for 35 cents a pound, after cutting all the eyes out of them to save for seed."

CITY'S LOST ISLANDS.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: St. Louis has lost three islands, though the names are as well remembered now as when the islands themselves were actually in existence. One is Bloody island, just opposite the city. The old-timers used to go there to fight their duels, and in those days the river channel ran on the Illinois side of the island, and except in high water there was only a slough between St. Louis and the duelling ground. The government and railroad works put Bloody island on the Illinois side, and now a good part of East St. Louis is built over the sand bar that was once a thicket of willows.

Arsenal island, too, used to be on this side of the river, and boys rolled up their trousers and waded across the narrow slough from a point a little south of the workhouse. The boats went on the other side of the island, but the channel began cutting into the Illinois farms at such a rate that the government threw up a dike just across from the arsenal, turned the river to this side, the island was joined to the Illinois shore, was finally purchased by the state of Illinois from the city of St. Louis, and the former bed of the river is now covered by farms.

Duncan's island was a big sand bar that began near the foot of Lami street and extended north to Geyer avenue. It was purchased by the Iron Mountain Railroad company, which wanted to locate its yards in that neighborhood, and filled up the site with earth from Picot's Hill in Carondelet. The names still live, for the people of East St. Louis make a difference between the "island" and the mainland, just as the farmers in the bottom still talk about Arsenal island and the switchmen in the yards south of Chouteau avenue tell one another that a certain car is down on Duncan's island.

A MARKET WEDDING.

London Daily Mail: Some quaint wedding festivities were witnessed in the Leeds market yesterday. The bridegroom was a market potato merchant and his bride the daughter of another potato merchant. Their wedding was marked by a free breakfast to more than a hundred poor people, dispensed from the bridegroom's stall, which was tastefully decorated and laden with sandwiches, buns and tea.

Two turnips and a saw formed the centerpiece on the stall, with potatoes and rhubarb arranged around them. The festivities proceeded while the bride and bridegroom were preparing for the wedding, which was followed by a journey to Morecambe for the honeymoon.

S.S.S. DRIVES OUT RHEUMATISM

The cause of Rheumatism is a sour, acid condition of the blood, brought about by indigestion, chronic constipation, and the accumulation in the system of refuse matter which the natural eliminative organs have failed to carry out. This refuse or waste matter ferments and sours, generating uric acid which is absorbed into the blood and distributed to all parts of the body, and Rheumatism gets possession of the system. One may also be born with a predisposition or tendency to Rheumatism, because like all blood diseases it can be transmitted from parent to child. The aches and pains of the disease are only symptoms which you may scatter or relieve with liniments, plasters, blisters, etc., or deaden with opiates. As soon, however, as such treatment is left off or there is any exposure to cold or dampness, or after an attack of indigestion or constipation, the wandering pains, sore muscles and joints, and tender places on the flesh return, and the sufferer finds that he has merely checked the symptoms while the real cause of the disease remains in the blood. Rheumatism can never be cured while the blood remains saturated with irritating, pain-producing uric acid poison. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism by driving the cause out of the blood. It thoroughly cleanses the blood and renovates the circulation by neutralizing the acids and expelling all foreign matter from the system. S. S. S. stimulates and invigorates the blood so that instead of a weak, sour stream, constantly depositing acrid and corrosive matter in the muscles, joints, nerves and bones, the body is soothed and nourished by rich, health-sustaining blood, which completely and permanently cures Rheumatism. S. S. S. is composed of roots, herbs and barks which possess both purifying and tonic properties—just what is needed in every case of Rheumatism. Book on Rheumatism and medical advice free. The Biggest Kind of a Change that Ever Happened to Any Magazine Has Happened This Month to

THE SCRAP BOOK

THE SCRAP BOOK for July is issued in two sections—two complete magazines, each with its own cover and its own table of contents. One of these sections is an ALL-ILLUSTRATED magazine; the other is an ALL-FICTION magazine. Each is a mammoth magazine in itself. The one presents an overwhelming array of human interest articles and illustrations; the other an enormous tonnage of fiction—160 pages of absorbing stories.

Ten years ago I created a new type of magazine—the ALL-FICTION magazine. Now I am creating another distinct type—the ALL-ILLUSTRATED magazine. This is the age of specialization. The conventional magazine, with its smattering of illustrations and its smattering of fiction and its smattering of special articles, doesn't contain enough of any one thing to make it satisfying. The ALL-FICTION magazine and the ALL-ILLUSTRATED magazine, joined together as a unit, strengthen each other, and make something really big and forceful and convincing.

The Only Way to Know a Thing is to Try It

The two-section magazine idea is brand-new to the world. It is not quite new with me, however, as I have given it, at odd times, four or five years of thought. It first came into my mind in response to a desire to couple, in some way, the strength of the all-fiction magazine with the illustrated features of the conventional magazine. It has been a difficult problem to work out. Now that the idea is perfected, I wish to see what there is in it. It looks to me to be very good, but the only way to know a thing is to try it.

Two Magazines for a Quarter—Easy Money

The price of this two-part magazine is twenty-five cents, which is equal to twelve and one-half cents a magazine. Most magazines which were selling at ten cents have been advanced to fifteen cents. THE SCRAP BOOK in two parts means two magazines for twenty-five cents against thirty cents for two fifteen cent magazines.

To Take No Risks of Explosives in Capturing Robbers.

Washington, June 21.—The merry yeggeman is now furnishing some divertisement for the inspectors of the postoffice department. He has been operating successfully in New England, and the government sleuths have set out to trap him when he undertakes his next job. The yeggeman belongs to the genius burglar and robber. His specialty this summer is country postoffice safes and cash drawers, and he blows his way into "Uncle Sam's" coffers by means of nitroglycerin or some other powerfully destructive explosive. Reports of his exploits have reached the department from Connecticut, and a series of profitable achievements has resulted in rousing the officials to a sense of realization that he is actually an undesirable citizen—to borrow one of the president's favorite epithets—and should be eliminated from the social life of the Nutmeg State and neighboring commonwealths. Consequently, some of the best inspectors in the service have been relieved of the tiresome task of detecting fraudulent uses of the mails and assigned to the more hilarious duty of bringing the yeggeman to book.

To capture a yeggeman by the usual rough-and-tumble methods that are employed in arresting ordinary crooks must be avoided. Violence of any kind must be avoided, for should one of his species be knocked down and pounded with a club he is likely to explode and blow up the inspector at the same time. It is even unsafe to lassoo him, because in the tautening of the rope a sudden and dangerous pressure might be brought to bear on enough nitroglycerin to efface a federal building from the landscape. It therefore has been necessary to put on the yeggeman's trail men of ingenuity and unusual resourcefulness who carry a large life insurance and have made ample provision for their families.

A few years ago a couple of inspectors had a novel experience while trying to ambuscade two yeggemen. It was over in the vicinity of Alexandria, Va. The inspectors got a tip that a postoffice was to be "yegged" and hid themselves at a convenient spot. Before the yeggemen had an opportunity to apply a hypodermic of their favorite explosive to the safe their olfactory sense detected the presence of peril, and they made a dash for liberty. One of them stumbled and fell to the ground. Simultaneously there was a terrific explosion, and the startled inspectors were almost literally showered with short ribs and sirloins of humanity. The charge intended for the cash-box had gone off without the yeggemen's consent and caused a tragedy.

"You see," said a department official today, "we must be extremely cautious how we trap such fellows, for we cannot afford to lose any of our good inspectors."

DEMENTED WOMAN

Would Sue President for $500,000 for Breach of Promise.

Aurora, Ill., June 21.—President Roosevelt will be defendant in a breach of promise suit if Mrs. Paulie Thompson of Lee, Ill., has her way about it. She went to Sycamore a few days ago to consult Attorneys Cliff & Cliff, whom she wanted to engage to collect from President Roosevelt the sum of $500,000, which she said was due her because the president had promised to marry her and has failed to fulfill his promise.

After State's Attorney N. Burrs had been consulted he called the sheriff, who kindly invited Mrs. Thompson to take lodgings at the hospital, where he conducted her with her satchel. She was delighted with the handsome quarters there, and her cordial reception, and at last reports was enjoying her sojourn. The sheriff is communicating with the authorities at Lee. She is a Swedish-American, about 65 years old. She says she has no near relatives, and that her husband deserted her some nine years ago.

Mrs. Thompson will probably be tried for her sanity and be committed to an asylum. When she applied for assistance at the attorney's office she was serious in her plea, but acted very much excited and agitated.

DESSERT CUT OFF

Because Bad Weather Made the Food Prices So High.

Baltimore, Md., June 21.—As a result of the continued high prices of practically all eatables, due to the recent cold and wet weather, the proprietors of downtown lunchrooms have curtailed dishes on their regular dinners, which amounts to practically an advance in price. One Baltimore street lunchroom has posted a sign that in future dessert will not be served with regular 15-cent business men's lunches. One proprietor said:

"We will either have to curtail the amount of food given to our customers, raise the rates for lunches or lose money. Prices generally this year are higher than at any time in my experience in the lunchroom business of Baltimore, a period of about twenty years. Meats are from 3 to 4 cents higher than they were last year, and some lines of vegetables are 100 per cent higher.

GREATEST INTEREST

Being Taken in Norway in Plans of Walter Wellman.

Aerial Journey From Spitzbergen to the Pole and Back.

Christiania, June 21.—The greatest interest is being taken throughout Norway in the airship experiments of Walter Wellman, the American who is contemplating an air ship dash to the North pole, a la Jules Verne. According to the present plans of Mr. Wellman during the first week of July there will be trials of the airship until it is demonstrated that the latter is ready for the voyage.

The start for the pole will be made on the first favorable opportunity afterwards, probably between July 20 and August 10, but if necessary Mr. Wellman is prepared to start as late as August 20. The members of the expedition are: Walter Wellman, Maj. Hearsey, executive officer and scientific observer, who has been sent over by the United States government; Chief Engineer Vannerman, Dr. Fowler, surgeon, and M. Gaston Hervieu, the aeronautical engineer and the only Frenchman on the staff.

About thirty men constitute the total expeditionary force, though, of course, some of these are sailors and mechanics and have nothing to do with the expedition besides aiding in handling the balloon, car, gear, etc., at Tromso and at Spitzbergen.

Discussing his plans the American explorer said:

"There was no question of last year's expedition having been a failure. An enormous amount of work had to be done at Spitzbergen, work which was found to be too much for one short Arctic summer.

"This year on arriving at Spitzbergen there is little work to be done in the matter of the erecting of buildings. We have constructed an entirely new airship with which we hope to accomplish the end we have in view, namely an aerial journey from Spitzbergen to the Pole and back.

"One of the most important changes we have effected has been the enlargement of the balloon of the airship. This has been made eighteen feet longer and its lifting power increased by 3,000 pounds giving a total lifting force of 19,500 pounds. The balloon is 164 feet long and fifty-two feet in its greatest diameter, its cubic volume being 265,000 feet. With the single exception of Count Zeppelin's airship this is the largest ever built.

"The next important change in our last year's equipment is that we have built an entirely new car and mechanical equipment, all of that used having been discarded. The car consists of a framework of steel tubing 115 feet long, 10 feet high and 8 feet broad. This is suspended close under the balloon at such distance that those standing on the top of the car can easily reach the balloon.

"The keel or backbone of the airship consists of a steel tank 18 inches in diameter and 115 feet in length, with a capacity for holding 1,200 gallons of petrol. The top of this tank will be really the deck of our ship. By this disposition we make the weight of the tank, which is about 1,000 pounds, do double duty, for it is not only a safe reservoir for our petrol, but at the same time gives rigidity to the structure of the ship. This tank is divided into fourteen compartments, to prevent the danger of explosion, and the petrol can be pumped from any section of this tank so as to trim the ship.

"The car is inclosed with tightly stretched silk, the two sides forming a vertical plane and the wide roof a horizontal plane, all constructed for giving stability to the ship in the air. At the stern of the vessel is a rudder of some 900 square feet in the form of a bicycle wheel, which, despite its great size, only weighs thirty pounds. A little forward of the center is placed a very heavy motor, built for endurance and safety, of 70-horse-power, and having a weight of 900 pounds, which is warranted to run constantly and steadily for as many hours as we wish.

"In this new airship the propellers, which are of the same type as those used in French military airships, are placed in the center of either side of the vessel. They consist of two blades of steel 11 feet in diameter and capable of 380 revolutions per minute.

"The living quarters of the airship are in triangular, bunklike spaces within the inclosed car. These are capable of accommodating ten or twelve men and twelve dogs, together with our provisions and equipment. Suspended from the roof of the airship and running on light rails is a tank containing 600 pounds of provisions, which, by means of a windlass in the navigating room, can be run the entire length of the car, so as to supply our food whenever necessary, and also to balance the ship.

"The total weight of the steel car and tank is 2,200 pounds. The motors, screws and machinery weigh 1,650 pounds. We carry in our tank 6,800 pounds of petrol, capable of running the motor for 150 hours at a normal speed of fourteen knots per hour, giving a total radius of action from the liquid fuel of 2,100 knots.

"The weight of the cargo we carry diminishes on an average of 600 pounds per day by the consumption of petrol for the motor, while the loss of lifting power by leakage of gas through the skin of the balloon will paobably not exceed 150 pounds per day. The net result of this is that we have on an average day 450 pounds to 500 pound of lifting force no longer required, and representing just so much gas to be disposed of and to maintain the equilibrium of the ship.

"Ordinarily the surplus gas would be allowed to escape through the valves, but inasmuch as hydrogen has a very high calorific power we have thought it a pity to waste good fuel, and by actual experiments we have found that we can burn the surplus hydrogen in our motor with the result that we have a further thirty hours of motoring from waste gas, giving a total of 180 hours at fourteen knots per hour.

"That is to say, we have a total radius of action of 2,500 miles, or double the distance from our base to the Pole and back again. If we can get but two-thirds of the value of these figures we shall still have 50 per cent margin over our needs for our journey from Spitzbergen to the Pole and back.

"It is our intention during our voyage to the Pole to be always in contact with the earth by means of a guide rope. We shall never ascend more than 300 feet to 500 feet, and our guide rope will trail over the surface of the earth. This guide rope is absolutely essential to the safety of our navigation and is of considerable weight.

"Instead of employing a steel line, we have made what I call a leather serpent fifteen inches in diameter and 140 feet long and weighing about 1,400 pounds. This is packed full of reserve food weighing 1,200 pounds and is suspended from the airship by means of a steel rope. It is covered with steel scales to protect the leather and to make the whole guide travel smoothly over ice and snow. It will also float on the sea.

"By means of the enlargement of the airship and food contained in the guide rope we are able to carry with us a total of 3,000 pounds of food, or enough to enable the crew of the airship to subsist on its own stores for a period of ten months without having recourse to game or outside supplies."

ITALIAN MONARCH

Interested in Crop Statistics and Establishes an Institute.

Object is to Collect Statistics of Worldwide Character.

Rome, June 21.—David Lubin, the New Yorker and Californian who induced King Victor Emanuel to take up the subject of agriculture as a state problem, continues a more or less international character. Mr. Lubin will be remembered as the man who in reality originated the International Institute of Agriculture. The main object of the institute which was founded in June, 1905, and whose permanent home is in the Borghese gardens is rapidly advancing towards completion, is to see that trustworthy statistics are furnished.

The principal business of the institute will be to collect, arrange and publish as quickly as possible full and trustworthy statistics on the state of the agricultural produce of the world. The different states which have joined or may hereafter join it will obtain this information in their own dominions in a systematic way and telegraph it here where the facts will be tabulated and whence they will be transmitted with all possible speed to the centers concerned.

The condition and prospects of the growing crops in the producing areas, the amount of stocks of the several kind of produce in hand and in transit are examples of the subjects on which the institute hopes to disseminate full, early and authentic intelligence. The fact which seems to have impressed the king of Italy is that in modern conditions farming has become one of the most speculative industries in the world.

When Mr. Lubin first suggested his plans of the king of Italy they were in a more grandiose and less practical shape. Mr. Lubin himself admitted that the extravagant extent to which speculation in produce is carried in the United States first turned his attention to the subject. In the Italian parliament a bill is shortly to be brought in to provide for Italy's contribution to the scheme. According to reports received here the German reichstag gave its unanimous approval to the plan and voted the necessary money together with a special credit of $15,000, for the cost of preparing the requisite statistics. Germany, it is quite generally admitted, is a land appreciating the value of correct and abundant information. Other powers have ratified their adhesion to the protoco or have promised to ratify it while Spain and Russia, both countries with immense agricultural interests, have gone furthest of all and have actually appointed their delegates.

There are, of course, very powerful interests opposed to the Lubin propositions as backed up by the Italian king. But the originators of the institute, or some of them, appear to be sanguine enough to hope that it may check the professional manipulators, or at all events the more luxuriant efforts of their fanciful imaginations. The aim is not, of course, to protect the imaginative persons who in turn seem so sensitive to the imaginings of others.

Duke Pompeo Litta, the last member of an historical Lombard family, settled down eight years ago in the ancient castle of his ancestor in Milan, having until then traveled abroad and had frequent intercourse with the chief leaders of German socialism, chiefly Herren Bebel and von Wolmar, by whom he was converted to Socialism. On his return to his castle the duke decided to put his new ideas into practice. He accordingly withdrew all his large estate surrounding the mansion from its former tenants and completely gave it up for cultivation to 137 families of his peasants, who formed an agricultural colony. The rent of $5,000 yearly was very small for such a vast estate. At first the experiment gave excellent results, and the economical condition of the laborers improved greatly. Latterly, however, they grew lazy and neglecting agricultural work began cutting down the woods which according to the agreement were to be left untouched. The experiment has now come to complete failure through the pernicious work of the Socialist leaders who have induced the peasants to claim ownership and refuse work. The duke is deeply affected and acknowledges that his dream has vanished. He is persuaded that the peasants' ignorance still makes collectivism impossible. The duke will apply to the tribunals to resume possession of his estates, though he is hopeful that his socialistic idea may triumph in the near future.

Now the pickax and spade have revealed the site of a church on the Palatine, the memory of which had been lost for five centuries; San Cesaro "in Palatio." The Villa Mills which for many years past has been a convent of Salesian nuns has fallen into the hands of the Italian government, and a few days ago the remains of an early Christian church, the inner walls of which were painted with frescoes, were brought to light. The newly discovered church was found to be constructed in rooms belonging to the house of the Emperor Augustus. Four centuries after the death of that great figure the Christians climbed into the palace of the Caesars and planted their church in the very center of the dwelling of Augustus.

The church of San Cesaro is supposed to date from the fourth century, and its frescoes are a couple of centuries later. It was the palace chapel of the Christian emperors who visited Rome during the dark ages, and Greek monks administered here at a later period.

INTERRED IN CORN FIELD.

The Administrator Found $6,300 Left by Frugal Decedent.

Fort Scott, Kan., June 21.—Sixty-three hundred dollars in gold was dug up in a cornfield on the Peter Zingrich farm, near here. The money belongs to the estate of Fred Zingrich, a nephew of the farmer, who was a boiler maker in the Missouri Pacific shops here, and was killed last week while repairing a boiler. The young man came here from Switzerland. He was very frugal, owned a farm and was supposed to have hidden treasure. Last night Paul Neubauer, administrator of his estate, and Christian Hahn, a business man, began digging where it was supposed he had buried his savings.

SHANTY OF AGED MAN,

Who Passed as Pauper, Was Filled With Hidden Hoard.

Omaha, Neb., June 21.—John Sweeney, formerly of Canton, Ohio, an aged man, who, for many years lived with his wife in a dilapidated shanty here, and passed as a pauper, disappeared several days ago. Officers found him in a demented condition and sent him to a hospital. The police searched his home and discovered thousands of dollars in gold hidden under loose boards in the floor and in other secret places. The money was taken to the police station for safe keeping. Mrs. Sweney is totally blind, and she did not know how much money he had. The couple subsisted on charity for years.

WINE GROWERS DEMAND LIFTING OF AFRICAN LID.

Cape Town, June 21.—The winegrowers' congress demands that the prohibition against the sale of liquor to natives be relaxed to the extent of allowing the natives to consume light wines. Mr. Kohler, the president, lately found that the natives are allowed wine by the glass in Portuguese territory. Such a step would be practicable, but the witnesses before the native commission and nearly all of the authorities agree that the prohibition of spirits to natives is a necessity, and that it would be difficult to prevent the introduction of fortified wines and spirits if the prohibition were relaxed. The farmers are urging, on the other hand, that they are greatly in need of a market.

KING EDWARD TO BUILD SUMMER VILLA IN SPAIN.

Madrid, June 21.—According to the Correspondencia de Espana, King Edward has decided to build a villa near Villagarda, on the western coast, half way between Cape Finisterre and Vigo. The villa is to be completed by next spring, and it is believed that his majesty will stay at Blarritz part of the time and at Villagarda part of the time.

King Alfonso will erect a summer residence, and, with Queen Victoria Eugenie, will spend several weeks there every spring during the visit of King Edward. There is an excellent harbor at Villagarda, and instead of a long journey by train, his majesty will probably be able to travel the entire distance by sea.

IN ISOLATED EMINENCE.

Germany's Journal Describes the Condition of Emperor William.

Berlin, June 21.—One of the most amusing and suggestive comments in the German press on the alleged rivalry between Great Britain and Germany is the following passage taken from the Rhenish-Westphallan Gazette, a leading German journal of aggressively patriotic views:

"Two players are sitting opposite to one another engaged in a stubborn contest on the European chessboard. One of them (Edward VII.) is a cool, calculating and quiet player while the other (William II.) is young, full of vivacity, the reverse of calculating, rich in ideas and fantastic imagination.

"There is no longer any doubt which of these players will gain the victory so long as the chessboard is confined to diplomacy. William II. is already checkmatec.

"None of all those princes and kings whom he visited in the earlier years of his reign and whose friendship he gained have remained true to him except the aged Emperor of Austria, Francis Joseph, and the proprietor of the greatest gambling hell in the world (the reigning prince of Monaco). All of the others have quitted their seats at the German emperor's banqueting table, some noisily and others polselessly, because so to speak the political cuisine offered them in Berlin is no longer suited to their tastes.

"All the marks of friendship, all the words of praise, all the presents, all the orders and the decorations which the German emperor has dealt out so lavish to forely and even his own passionate prayers have been fruitless and William II. now remains in isolated eminence."

DROWNS IN THE POPLAR

Mike Woloski Perishes Trying to Cross the Stream.

He Was Fleeing From the Advancing Forest Fires.

Grand Marais, Minn., June 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mike Woloski, a young Polander employed in the Lutsen Tie & Post company's camp, near Lutsen, this (Cook) county, was drowned in Poplar river Monday afternoon. He and several companions were driven from their work by a forest fire that swept over the vicinity. They reached Poplar river at a point above the dam, where the stream is quite wide and deep. The others started down stream to find a crossing, and Woloski, who was on horseback, undertook to swim his horse across. Reaching the deep water, he became frightened, and losing his hold, slipped from his horse. His companions ashore pushed a log out to him, but he seemed too badly frightened to realize that anything was being done for him, and after a short struggle he sank out of sight.

The body was recovered about two hours later, and the coroner was notified, but it was decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The burial took place yesterday in Maple Hill cemetery, this village.

Nothing is known here about the man's relatives, if he has any.

WILL BEGIN WORK ON CUYUNA RANGE

Shaft is to be Sunk by the Rogers-Brown Company.

Brainerd, Minn., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are bright prospects for the Cuyuna range. An interested party who has just returned from Duluth brings word that work will begin soon on a shaft on the property of the Rogers-Brown Ore company. This is the company which recently took an option on an eighty-acre tract from the Orelands company for $250,000, and they have a year in which to explore. J. Kruse of Houghton, Mich., arrived in Deerwood the first of the week to take charge of the development work of the Rogers-Brown Ore company, and has brought his family with him.

Cole & McDonald are setting up two more drills and there is more evidences of future activity on the range than at any time in the past year.

Parties owning a quarter section in the town of Klondike are reported to have refused an offer of $100 an acre for one eighty and $50 per acre for the other eighty, and are holding out for $100 an acre straight.

ROB POSTOFFCE, GET SMALL SUM

Yeggmen Steal Forty Dollars at Borup, Ada County.

Borup, Minn., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The yeggmen who have been operating in Minnesota recently breaking into the postoffices at Hawley and Twin Valley, got in their work here a few nights ago. The postoffice which is situated in Torske Bros.' store, was robbed of a small amount. Postmaster Torske was fortunate in not having a great deal of cash or stamps in the office, the greater share of this being in the bank. The robbers secured about $40 in money. No attempt was made to blow the safe, this no doubt due to the fact that the second story of the building was occupied.

HATPIN TELLS STORY OF CRIME

Is Found in Body of the Lover of Murdered Girl.

Little Falls, Minn., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The old adage that murder will out is soon to have a strange exemplification in this city when a patient at a local hospital recovers sufficiently to be told that during an operation to which he was recently subjected to, there was disclosed to the surgeons evidence of his having been implicated in a crime that was never cleared up. For the present the man's name is withheld.

About two years ago a girl, living at Randall, in this, Morrison county, who was employed as a servant here, was brutally attacked and killed while en route from the station at Randall to her home on a visit. In the struggle she had stabbed her assailant with a hat pin, which had been broken in the encounter. No other sign or clue was found, and repeated efforts to explain the mystery were futile. Now comes the strange denouement.

At the time of the murder the young woman had a lover, and the two were seen together shortly before the murder. The young man was most strenuous in his efforts to locate the guilty parties, and had accompanied the sheriff West to identify a couple of suspects. No one was more solicitous for the running down of the culprits than was he. Two weeks ago he was taken with an attack of appendicitis. He was removed to a hospital at Little Falls and operated on. While digging around in his abdomen the physicians found the broken end of a woman's hat pin.

The unfortunate young man is still at the hospital recovering from the effects of the operation. His arrest by the sheriff as he leaves his cot will be the first intimation he will have of the discovery of the broken pin.

CAPTAIN'S FIRST VISIT.

Lieut. Col. McDerby's Successor Looking Over Some Dams.

Brainerd, Minn., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. E. H. Schulz of the engineers corps of the United States army, who succeeds Lieut. Col. George McC. Derby as engineer in charge of the government dams in Minnesota, was in the city Wednesday, on his way from the Pine river dam to the Sandy lake dam. This is Capt. Schulz's first visit to the dams under his jurisdiction and he expresses himself as well satisfied as to the conditions he finds. Capt. Schulz also has charge of the Missouri river improvements at Sioux City, Iowa. He is recently from Guantanamo, Cuba, where he has been in charge of work on the fortifications of the United States naval station. He says the climate is not so bad and the people are all right as long as Uncle Sam sits on the lid, but they do not seem to be able to learn to abide by the results of an election but want to oust the other fellow by means of a revolution.

FRAUD IS ALLEGED.

Crookston, Minn., June 21.—John Conneran, a well known farmer of Fisher, has been arrested at Grand Forks on complaint of the Waterloo Threshing company, the charge being that of obtaining property under false pretenses. It is claimed that the defendant brought a complete new threshing outfit from W. H. Higham, agent of the threshing company, four years ago in Grand Forks and signed his father's name to a contract, claiming he had authority to do so.

A year later Conneran, Jr., went through the bankruptcy court. His father repudiated the debt to the threshing company and when Conneran was found in Grand Forks yesterday he was arrested.

Sonneran's home is in Fisher, and this is the first time he has been over on the Dakota side for a long time.

MINNESOTA IN BRIEF

Stillwater — Property owners on a number of streets in the residence portions of the city have been notified to build new cement sidewalks immediately, otherwise the city will do the construction and assess the cost against the property.

Minneapolis—Instant death resulted from a boyish prank on the part of 14-year-old Stirling Gouldthrite, 3114 Fourth street southeast, by touching a live wire at the Taylor Falls Power company at Thirty-first avenue and Fifth street southeast.

Montevideo—At a hearing before the village council H. C. Miller, proprietor of the saloon in the Riverside hotel, was found guilty of selling liquor to minors and his license was revoked.

Fergus Falls—News has been received here of the accidental drowning of P. J. Radke at Little Pine lake, in the northern part of this county. Mr. Radke was fishing with a friend, when their boat capsized. The other man succeeded in reaching shore, but Mr. Radke sank in deep water. He leaves a wife and three children.

Crookston—Two men and a boy were seriously injured by the premature explosion of dynamite with which they were blowing up stumps on the Isaiah Orser homestead, near here. Orser and C. M. Rose, a neighbor, received injuries which will cause them to lose an eye apiece, while Orser's young son was badly shocked, but is not believed to be permanently injured. The injured were taken to a Duluth hospital for treatment.

Wadena—A colored man was removed from the top of train No. 5 at daylight Thursday with the top of his head taken off, probably while passing under a viaduct coming out of St. Paul. A letter in his pocket bore the address of John Boker of Altamont, Ky.

Brownsdale—The forty-ninth anniversary of the meeting of the Central Baptist association, comprising thirteen churches, is meeting at the Baptist church here for a two days' session. Upwards of seventy-five delegates and visitors are in attendance. Among the outside speakers are: Rev. Orlo J. Price, Ph. D., of Freeport, Ill.; Dr. O. A. Williams and Rev. E. Fagenstrom, of Minneapolis; Rev. R. Sayles of Austin, and Rev. Briggs of Owatonna.

Brainerd—The pay roll at the Northern Pacific shops this month was larger than last month. There were more men on the pay rolls than ever before, but owing to the laborers being a portion of them out on a strike a portion of the month cut the total to a trifle more than last month. It will figure over $67,000. Indications are good for a large pay roll in June also.

TILLMAN IS NOT WANTED

Appleton People Seem to Have Boycotted the U. S. Senator.

Erratic Character Will Not Address the Chautaugua.

Appleton, Wis., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fox River Chautauqua association has decided to cancel its engagement with Senator Benjamin Tillman of South Carolina for a lecture. A regular boycott seems to have been placed on the erratic statesman from the Palmetto state.

Senator Tillman was engaged to deliver a lecture at the Chautauqua on July 10. The first opposition to him became known a few days ago, when the Chautauqua, began selling tickets in advance for the eleven days' program. Many people, it was found, had agreed not to purchase a ticket if Tillman was to be allowed to remain on the program.

Rather than sacrifice enough money to bankrupt the Chautauqua, the management has taken Mr. Tillman off the list and secured another speaker.

BRING NEW INDUSTRY.

Immense Cedar Yard to be Established at Washburn, Wis.

Washburn, Wis., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fleet & Thompson recently purchased about 3,000 acres of timber lands from the Akerley Lumber company in the town of Bell, and, together with the Pittsburg & Superior Iron company, will open up an immense cedar yard in this city.

IRON MINES MAY BE DEVELOPED NEAR PORTAGE.

Portage, Wis., June 21.—It is authoritatively stated that extensive iron mines will soon be opened in what is known as "Dog Hollow" in the town of Caledonia, about six miles west of Portage.

For the past two or three years much prospecting has been done in that locality, and options secured on all the available farming lands. E. L. Evenroad, representing Louisville, Indianapolis and Columbus, Ind., capitalists, recently closed deals on about 500 acres, paying several times the ordinary valuation of land thereabout.

His purchases were made for the opening of a sheep ranch ostensibly, but it now develops that the land is rich in iron ore. A spur track will be built from this city to the mines.

A Picturesque Spot Has Been Selected for Camping Purposes.

Grand Forks, N. D., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Upon the picturesque shores of Gnat lake the third annual boys camp of the Y. M. C. A. of this city will be held from July 5 to 19. Gnat lake is beautifully situated in the famous lake region of Northern Minnesota, and the shores are wooded with Norway pine and birch, all in its primitive state. The banks are high, with very little swamp, and the fine white sand beaches extend out into the lake for over 100 yards. All members of the boys' section of the association are eligible to attend on payment of the camp fee. As in the past, the purpose will be to provide a healthful vacation in the open with the environment that will tend to the development of strong manly character.

The lake selected for the location of the camp is the finest of several lakes situated in this region. It is about three miles long and from one-half to a mile and one-half wide, and is about five miles from Lake Bemidji; and the camp itself will be about ten miles from the city of Bemidji. By means of rivers and streams, entrance by water can be had to at least ten other lakes in the vicinity. The water is clear, and the bathing facilities unexcelled. Fishing is good, and pike, pickerel, bass and other fish abound.

A MILLION IN COPPER

Vast Fortune Lying on Houghton Docks Awaiting Shipment.

Repairs on Portage Lake Waterways Making Good Progress.

Houghton, Mich., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the present time the Copper Range docks at Houghton are heavily loaded with copper for shipment to the lower lake ports, all of it being refined and in ingot, pan or bar form or in barrels. It is said that the copper now piled on the docks at Houghton represents over $1,000,000 and this is but a tithe of what is carried away from this port every season. More is being shipped in daily, however, from the Michigan and other smelters, for shipment by water. The rate by water is much lower than that by rail and means a great saving to the shippers and, consequently, more dividends for the sharcholders in the mines.

This season an unusually large amount of copper is being shipped to the East and South via the lake route. The lines of package freighters, excepting the Booth line, all carry away copper on every trip here, taking it from Houghton, Hancock, Ripley and Dollar Bay. The Calumet & Hecla boats, the Flagg and Warriner, and one or two others, carry ore from Lake Linden and Hubbell to the Calumet & Hecla smelter at Black Rock, Buffalo.

United States Junior Engineer George H. Banks, in charge of the Portage lake waterways at Houghton, reports to The Herald correspondent that the work of repairs to the damage caused by the heavy storms of last winter and the early spring and by the collision of boats with the various piers and revetments along the canals, is progressing rapidly. The tug Circle, brought down from Duluth into last fall to take care of the government work in Portage lake, and the big government derrick scow, brought down this spring, are being used to carry stone from the entry, thirty miles away, to the other extremity of the waterways, the canal, to repair the breakwaters. This work, it is expected, will be well along towards completion before the end of the present fiscal year, June 30. It is planned to get as much of the work done inside the appropriation for this year as possible.

At the present time the maritime trade through the Portage lake waterways is light. Only the lines of boats that operate regularly to Portage lake ports, the Anchor, Western Transit, Chicago & Duluth and the U. S. & D. T. company or Booth line, are running into the Portage lake ports this year, with the exception of the regular coal boats. The big lake steamers plying between the lower lakes and Duluth or other Lake Superior ports do not stop at the Portage lake ports, as a general rule, and do not pass through the waterways excepting in the stormy seasons of the year. Therefore it is expected that the monthly government report of the tonnage carried through the waterways during the present month will be light. In the fall, however, beginning with the first of October, more of the big fellows will seek the shelter of the canals while passing Keweenaw, and the reports will show a larger tonnage.

WORK COMPLETED.

Board of Government Engineers Have Left for the East.

Work in Duluth of the board of government engineers who came to the Head of the Lakes to investigate the needs of the local harbor was completed late yesterday afternoon, and the engineers left on the 5:15 Omaha train for the East. They will meet later at Detroit upon the call of the president of the board, Col. Adams.

As was expected would be the case, the men refused to say anything concerning what their conclusions might be, but they expressed themselves as pleased with the reception they received here, and with the facility with which they were enabled to gather valuable information. It looks very much as if their report would favor the breakwater plan.

Loss Is Adjusted.

Hancock, Mich., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. Kidd of Duluth, this week adjusted the loss sustained by the steamer Mascotte during her submergence below the waters of Portage lake at the Cleaves dock on the Hancock shore. The loss is said to be a small one and the boat is in first-class condition. She is now being cleaned up and put into shape for the season's work. J. W. Wright, one of the owners of the boat, and wife, of Duluth, are in Houghton at the present time. Nothing has been said regarding the plans for the boat for the summer, but it is not expected that she will be kept here as her operations last year hardly paid her expenses.

WAR SPIRIT VANISHES

at the Japanese embassy, as to the power behind the demand of Count Okuma for the substitution for Aoki at Washington of a "strong man," by which term it was understood he meant a Japanese committed in advance to the policy of demanding from America full rights of citizenship, of residence and of immigration for the Japanese.

Aoki had realized early the impossibility of securing all of these rights at this time, because of the inability of the national government to dominate state administration. His reports to his own government to that effect with the plain intimation that it was advisable to seek, instead of unlimited rights only those that might reasonably be expected to be conceded at this time—an opportunist policy—at first caused a disagreeable impression in Japan. The successful outcome of the recent war with the natural inflation of Japanese pride tended to make the ambassador's policy of doubtful popularity.

It is quite certain that the Saionji ministry was for a time somewhat taken aback at the ebullition of popular indignation evidenced in the publication in the opposition newspapers in Japan and it even is surmised that there was a slight weakening and a disposition to make some concessions. But soon after the agitation had reached its height, the Japanese business interests began to feel a very strong pressure from abroad, conveying a clear warning that a quarrel with America would leave Japan friendless and certainly would discourage the investment of foreign capital in Japanese enterprises.

With this favorable influence the Saionji ministry found little difficulty in securing adhesion of the two great parties in Japan to its policy, and the announcement made from Tokio through the Associated Press relative to Ambassador Aoki's tenure is regarded as convincing evidence that Count Okumas onslaught has failed and that the settled policy of Japanese from now on will be to discountenance "Jingo" agitation, as directed against America and to endeavor to strengthen the friendly relations between the two countries.

Secretary Root left Washington today for his summer home near Utica, N. Y., and Ambassador Aoki intends to remain at Buena Vista, Md., during the heated term, so that it is not to be expected that there will be any important diplomatic exchanges between the governments at Tokio and Washington in the near future.

Hibbing, Minn., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—If the offer of the Buffalo & Susquehanna Mining company is accepted this city will be assured of cheap water and thereby dispose of a vexatious problem that has long confronted the city. The company offers to pump the water needed charging only the cost of pumping.

At a cost of about $100,000 it was decided to build a pumping station at the abandoned Penobscot mine near here. The work will not have to be completed for about two years as the water supply at the Buffalo & Susquehanna mine at the east edge of the city will easily last that length of time.

It is expected the offer of the Buffalo & Susquehanna will be accepted by the city council in which event the mine owners will run a drift 250 feet from the shaft toward the town. The water will be pumped by a 1,500 gallon pump.

BIG TELLTALE SCORE.

Thirty Six to Ten In Favor of Buhl Was Result of Game.

Buhl, Minn., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—There can be no question about the decisiveness of the defeat of the Mountain Iron ball nine by the Buhl Juniors at the second game between the nines, the telltale score of 36 to 10 in favor of the locals needing no enlarging upon.

The Mountain Iron boys appear to have gone to pieces when good work was most needed.

The Virginia baseball team will meet the Mountain Iron club at Mountain Iron at 6:30 o'clock Saturday evening. Following the game a dance will be held. The Mountain Iron boys have been practicing hard for the game and are confident of victory. Next Sunday afternoon the Mountain Iron team will play the Burt office team of Hibbing at Mountain Iron.

FAMILY ROW AIRED.

Two Harbors Man Pleads Guilty to Striking His Step Father.

Two Harbors, Minn., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The troubles of the family of John O. Cable were aired in the court of Judge Andrews Thursday, and the windup was that William Agnew paid $15 fine and $18 costs for striking his step-father, John O. Cable.

Cable moved his effects from the family home to the high school where he is janitor. This appears to have angered his step-son, who followed him to the school, and during a wordy discussion struck him. Agnew pleaded guilty to the charge of assault.

WILL PLAY GOPHERS.

Hibbing Bssebale Nine Will Tackle a Colored Ball Nine.

Hibbing, Minn., June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lovers of the great American game are promised plenty of amusement Sunday, Monday and Tuesday when the local nine will play the Gophers of St. Paul, a colored nine.

The Lake Linden team will play at Hibbing, June 29, 30 and July 1. Manager Brady of the team has obtained a new pitcher from the Pacific coast. He is said to be a good one.

RANGES IN BRIEF

Eveleth—August Peterson of the Mudhen River district, has suffered the loss of a $200 horse in the swamps. While pasturing Sunday he got away and was found mired Monday. An unsuccessful effort was made to save the animal.

Chisholm—Next Sunday afternoon the Chisholm and Eveleth baseball nines will cross bats here.

The bush fires near the Shenango mine are still burning and some alarm is felt lest the flames reach the powder house in that locality, but those fighting the fire assure the public such a contingency is hardly likely.

Hibbing—L. L. Baskins has been appointed plumbing inspector of Hibbing. The new plumbing ordinance will become effective July 1, having been recently passed by the council.

Eveleth—R. B. Green, formerly chemist here for the United States Steel corporation, has resigned a position with the Oregon Smelting & Mining company at Sumpter, Or., and is located at Tacoma, Wash., where he is associated with the Tacoma Smelting company.

Eveleth—J. E. Isatola will represent the Finnish Temperance society at a national convention of Finnish temperance societies to be held the latter part of next month at Calumet, Mich. An effort will be made to have the next annual convention held in this city.

Sparta—Peter Cosgrove and Alrich Olson are soliciting funds for the Fourth of July celebration, and the intention is to make the day glorious from early dawn till midnight. A parade of societies will be the feature of the morning and in the afternoon there will be races and aquatic sports at the lake. Prizes will be offered for winners in all doings of the day.

LIES WITH THE PUBLIC.

tracted and serious disturbance?

"I believe the answer to that lies wholly in the public mind and temper. There is no inherent reason in the conditions of agriculture, trade, industry and finance in the United States that would make necessary a period of further disturbance and depression. There are 1,000 influences that should lead toward continued prosperity and renewed accomplishments throughout the fields of industry and commerce. The business of the country will turn into one of these, solely as the result of whether or not the house and the public's legislative representatives are wise and patient, or are hasty and inconsiderate. If the intricate problem of railway regulation is worked out in a spirit of fairness and intelligence; if the vastness of the problem is recognized; if the involved relationships encountered are taken in account, and the far-reaching effects of paternal regulations, when applied to so great and complicated a network are reckoned with, and if an intelligent understanding of the complications will lead to a patient attitude toward results, then I believe we will resume the road toward further prosperity. The moment that investors have become convinced that the problem is to have fair and patient consideration in its solution, we will start on that road again with full measured pace.

"But if we are to have legislation based upon political advantage, if we are to adopt Socialistic theories, which will amount to the confiscation of property rights; if we are to have reprisal for past wrongs, no matter how real; if action is the one thing wanted first, and the consideration of the intelligence and fairness of such action is to come afterward, then I believe it is possible that the whole business structure may be facing a danger, the proportion of which will be measured by the same vast figures as have been the totals that have marked the extent of our prosperity."

"OBEY, OR KILL ME"

renewed their demand to be allowed to reoccupy their former barracks at Beziers. M. Clemenceau curtly replied that he refused to parley with deserters or consider any proposition but unconditional surender, adding that he was determined to utilize all the government's forces if necessary in order to suppress the uprising.

Details of the mutiny show that a battalion of the Sevententh infantry regiment, sent from Beezirs to Agde on account of the soldiers' sympathy with the local winegrowers, mutlined there this morning, raided the magazine, filled their pouches with cartridges, and, with fixed bayonets and with flags flying, marched out of Agde and entered Beziers. When notified of the mutiny, Gen. Croisade, commanding the Sixty-first brigade, met the mutineers at Villeneuve, and attempted to persuade them to return to duty.

"Soldiers," he commanded, "kill me or obey me——"

The soldiers replied that they had no desire to kill the general, but were determined to return to Beziers.

A detachment of gendarmes tried to bar the road, but after the mutineers had fired a volley in the air, they were permitted to pass.

The mutineers, although without officers, marched into Beziers in perfect order at 6 o'clock this morning, the cheers of the local crowds mingling with the rolling of the drums and the strains of the bugles. After stacking arms the deserters announced their intention to remain on the square until allowed to reoccupy their barracks, from whence they recently were transferred.

The people gave the winegrowers a fine reception and furnished them with ample provisions and supplies of straw, upon which the tired soldiers threw themselves after posting strong pickets and proclaiming their determination to defend their lives in the event of being attacked.

The news of this momentous defection of troops together with reports of other mutinous eruptions at various points in the revolting provinces, reached the government this morning and caused deep concern. Premier Clemenceau immediately summoned a cabinet meeting.

At the ministry of the interior at noon inquirers were informed that the reports from Narbonne and Montpellier showed that both cities were comparatively quiet.

At 9 o'clock this morning it was announced that the government's watchword remained "the law must reign."

Interior Minister Briand indignantly denied the rumors that he has resigned. He said he was not such a coward as to desert his colleagues in the present circumstances.

body. He was taken to his home in the automobile. Efforts were made to suppress the story of the accident, and the boy's name was not disclosed last night.

Before being taken to his home, one of the attending physicians asked the boy whose fault the accident was?

"I guess we were both to blame," he said, "we neither of us saw the other until it was too late."

Last night Sir Thomas Shaughnessy said it was a miracle that the boy was not killed by the impact, and both he and Mr. Lowry expressed sorrow over the accident. It was reported that the boy would recover rapidly.

THE STATE CLOSES

Steve Adams in Ogden, Utah, in 1903, the state's case was closed.

Mr. Richardson, for the defense, said that they would agree that the state could file the telegrams as soon as they were received. Senator Borah said the telegrams would be in Boise by this evening.

"With this exception then, your honor," said Senator Borah, "the state is ready to close its case."

There was some wrangling over the reading of a long opinion delivered in the Colorado courts and which the defense said should be read as it had been offered as evidence. Judge Wood looked over the opinion and denied the motion that it could be read to the jury. This closed the state's case, and at 10:25 the court adjourned until 1:30 p. m.

The prosecution suceeded yesterday in again showing a direct connection with the store of George Pettibone in Denver and Harry Orchard at work on the Bradley crime in San Francisco, and promised to make the connection with Pettibone personally by handwriting experts who will be called later. With the local winegrowers, mutlined there this morning, raided the magazine, filled their pouches with cartridges, and, with fixed bayonets and with flags flying, marched out of Agde and entered Beziers. When notified of the mutiny, Gen. Croisade, commanding the Sixty-first brigade, met the mutineers at Villeneuve, and attempted to persuade them to return to duty.

MADE GAME FIGHT AGAINST A CAT

Robins Try Desperately to Defend Their Offspring.

Robbed of their offspring, two plucky robins made a desperate but unavailing fight against an East end cat yesterday afternoon, the battle continuing until the cat, with its prey, finally found a place of refuge under a sidewalk. The robins had their nest in a tree on Greysolon road, where they hatched out a family. The old birds had taught all but one of the fledglings to fly about and take care of themselves. By some means the nest with the one remaining young robin became dislodged and fell to the ground. A cat prowling about the neighborhood pounced on the young robin, when the parent birds came to its rescue. For two blocks the old robins flew at the cat and struck her about the head in the effort to make her drop the young bird, but tabby was determined, though sore beset, and when she ducked under the sidewalk it was all off with her feathered victim. The pursuit and fight was witnessed by a number of people who reside along the road.

RUSH SEASON; BREAK LEG.

Some West end youngsters rushed the season yesterday by engaging in a game of football and so strenuous was the contest that one of the lads suffered a broken leg. His name is Iver Stepnes, and he resides with his parents at 222 Twenty-third avenue west.

Young Stepnes was in the thick of the game all the time. There were some flying wedges, mass plays, end runs and all the stunts pulled off by the big fellows. At the conclusion of a particularly enthusiastic rush, however, young Stepnes found himself under a score of his companions, with a broken leg.

He was removed to his home and a physician called. The fracture was set and Iver will probably be able to play again in a few weeks.

BENEDICT ARNOLD'S MANSION.

Mount Pleasant, in the East Park, near Columbia avenue entrance, which is almost equally well known to park visitors as Arnold's mansion, is to be the headquarters of La Moriganta Klambo, the newly formed organization of fashionable women motorists, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Few buildings in the park equal Mount Pleasant in interest, and none is older. It is one of the few well preserved country mansions built in this country in colonial times. As a specimen of architecture modeled upon the style made popular by Sir Christopher Wren, it is one of the half dozen or less which remain in this country.

The house which John Adams—who dined there in 1774—declared was the most elegant in Pennsylvania, was built for Capt. John MacPherson in 1762. In 1779 MacPherson grew tired of the place and sold it to Gen. Benedict Arnold, who had married Peggy Shippen. In its time the mansion has borne three names. MacPherson called it The Hills and also Clunie, and subsequently it was known as Mount Pleasant.

Capt. MacPherson was one of the most original men in the province. If he had not been immensely wealthy he probably would not have been tolerated; but as a privateersman in England's wars with France and Spain before the Revolution he was lucky and came home with a genuine gold galleon. He had two sons, was an officer in the British army, but resigned his commission on the breaking out of the Revolution and became a major in the Continental army. The other son was with the colonists from the beginning of the struggle and was killed at the attempt to take Quebec, being the first Philadelphian of importance to give his life for the cause.

Old Capt. McPherson made himself known to congress, begging for command of a ship, but did not gain his desire. He published the first directory of Philadelphia in 1785. This book is really one of the curiosities of literature, for the captain canvassed the city himself and printed the replies he received at each door in answer to his request for names. He died in 1792 and lies in St. Paul's churchyard.

When Arnold married Peggy Shippen, daughter of Edward Shippen, subsequently Chief Justice of Pennsylvania, he bought Mount Pleasant and settled it on himself for life, with the remainder to his wife and children. At the time Arnold was military governor of Philadelphia, and Judge Peters, who occupied Belmont, the seat across the Schuylkill from Mount Pleasant, accused the general of having converted $50,000 to his own use and of having used this toward the purchase of Mount Pleasant.

Arnold did not long remain at Mount Pleasant. After his treason he of course had to leave the country, and the state of Pennsylvania confiscated his life interest in the beautiful estate. Baron de Steuben became the next tenant of the place and Arnold's life interest was sold to Col. Richard Hampton for $850.

In the Shippen correspondence, published a few years ago, there are several references to Mount Pleasant. In 1785 in a letter from Mrs. Arnold to her father it appears that Arnold had an idea of privately getting title to the property for his family. He changed his mind, however, and suggested that the place be sold at public sale for as much as it would bring. In 1796 Mount Pleasant was sold, but for barely enough to satisfy the mortgages upon it.

Gen. Jonathan Williams, a Revolutionary patriot and commercial agent of the United States in France from 1777 to 1785, bought the country seat and lived there for years. The property remained in his family for many years and was purchased by the commission by virtue of the act of 1867, which permitted the acquisition of what are now park properties.

BACK TO THE OLD HOME

By Elizabeth Robbins.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Miles Torrey had not written when he was coming home, for he dearly loved a surprise, and so there was nothing for it but to walk the two miles from the railroad station.

When he reached a certain rise in the "swamp" road he paused to take an observation. There, over across on the "Bridge" road, was the old Torrey homestead, looking exactly as it had always looked. Farther on were the Gilsons' boots, then the Witherells' chimneys, and away beyond the unpainted corner of something that must be the little new chapel his mother had written about. On the nearer side was the Harwood place, and nearer yet the Caswells' barn, which, from this point, he remembered, shut off the view of the house.

Miles continued on his way with a feeling of lively satisfaction in finding so few changes after five years' absence, so when he had turned the corner and come to where the Caswells' house ought to be, and there beheld only its blackened timbers lying on the ground, he was a good deal shocked.

"When and how did it happen?" he asked his mother, after he had enjoyed to the full her astonishment at seeing him, and each had inquired after the other's health.

"It was three months ago, in September, just after that last letter I sent," Mrs. Torrey told him. "Dr. Burrell came along one day and said old Jed Washburn had been sick, all alone there in his out-of-the-way, tumble-down place, and they packed up sime things and started right off to do what they could for him."

"Aunt Mary and Uncle Nathan, all over!" exclaimed Miles.

"They think the chimney must have been burning out, and somehow set fire to the woodwork inside," Mrs. Torrey went on. "At any rate nobody saw the smoke in time to save anything, and everything was flat when they came back."

"Too bad, too bad!" said Miles. "I suppose they went to live with the boys?"

"Yes, though I couldn't find out from their letter which one they're with. Neither Mary nor Nathan were very much for writing."

"Perhaps they'll build again."

"Oh, they can't! They were too good hearted ever to save much, and there was no insurance."

"It isn't likely that Ed nor Gib can help them any." Miles reflected. "They are two as good fellows as ever lived, but they were never money-makers. I would have stopped to see them as I came through the city, if I hadn't been in such a hurry to get home. But I'm going again soon ,to talk with an architect."

"An architect?" Mrs. Torrey's face flushed. She had always wanted a new house—one in which the south side was not almost wholly taken up with entries and stairways and closets—a house with a bathroom and bay windows, and possibly a little conservatory. Was her wish to come true? or was Miles thinking of getting married?

"Yes, mother. I've made my pile out there, and you're going to have your house."

"Where are you going to have it?"

"Where the house is now is the sightliest spot on the farm, isn't it?"

"Yes, I think so. What will you do with this house?"

"Tear it down, I suppose,' he answered slowly, "though I kind of hate to."

They were both silent for several minutes, then Mrs. Torrey cried out suddenly: "Oh, Miles! Why couldn't it be moved over to the Caswells?"

He was alert in an instant. "That's so!" he exclaimed, "and not let them know anything about it till 'twas all ready for 'em. Wouldn't it be great!"

"But could it be moved, with this big chimney and all?" Mrs. Torrey asked anxiously.

"Pshaw, yes! I'd risk Andrew Hale to move anything on top of the earth."

"Then that's settled," said Mrs. Torrey happily.

"But, mother!" Miles laughed in the midst of it. "Maybe they don't want to come back. Likely as not they're better suited with the city than they ever were with the country, and wouldn't come back for anything."

"Maybe so," she assented, doubtfully. "But you will be seeing them pretty soon, and can find out all about it."

"Did they say anything about coming back?" Mrs. Torrey asked Miles on his return from a visit to the Caswells.

"Uncle Nathan did, after we left Aunt Mary's. They want to come and camp out in their barn next summer, he to work for the neighbors. I guess the boys don't think much of it, by the way he brightened up when I said 'twas a good scheme and we'd lend 'em the furniture for it. I made up my mind then and there that they must have this house. We'll give 'em the biggest kind of a surprise."

In March came Miles Torrey with an invitation: "Mother wants you both to come out and stay over Easter Sunday; the new chapel is going to be dedicated then. And I am going to take you there in my new automobile."

The journey was interrupted half-way by the rain, and Miles and his guests had to spend the rest of the afternoon at a hotel. At nine in the evening, how-they started once more. The air was warm, but there was a great deal of water standing on the road, and that and a dense fog made it necessary to proceed at a snail's pace.

Aunt Mary and Uncle Nathan's cheerfulness was unimpaired, but Miles was disappointed and disgusted. This was all so different from what he had planned.

Then suddenly the fog suggested an idea. He would still let them think they were going to visit his mother, and let the situation reveal itself as it would. He could not be a witness to the surprise, but wouldn't it be tremendous!

"Here we are at last," said Miles, bringing the automobile to a stop. "And it is as I feared; everybody is abed."

"Don't wake her up!" they both besought him earnestly. "You just show us to our room, and we won't make a bit more noise than we can help."

"Perhaps I'd better do that way," said Miles, with a show of reluctance. "Mother won't like it, of course, but she such a shy sleeper — she probably wouldn't go to sleep again at night—and she's been pretty nervous lately. You wait here, and I'll see if I can get in myself."

In a few minutes they heard him slip the bolt in the front door, and then he came out to them with a very dimly burning lantern.

"Somehow or 'nother I can't make it seem at all natural here," said Uncle Nathan, when they were on the ground. "Miles has be'n talking so interesting about that mining country that I'd no idee we'd come anywhere near so far, and I've let myself get turned 'round completely."

"No wonder, with the fog so thick you can't see your hand before your face," laughed Aunt Mary. "I was thinking there was a little more of a rise up to Ellen's front door," she added meditatively.

Miles uttered an exclamation. Something had happened to the lantern and it had gone out just as the door was reached.

"Never mind," whispered Aunt Mary. "You jest lead the way and we'll follow."

So in the dark he conducted them to their room, where he presently brought them a lighted lamp and left them.

"Why, Nathan Caswell" his wife cried, as she gazed about her. "Jest see what Ellen Torrey has done! She's gone and fixed this room up exactly as ours used to be."

"Why, so she has!" said Uncle Nathan. "That old chest of drawers—and the high-post bed—and the looking glass; they be the very image of our'n."

"But the wall paper, Nathan—and the chairs and straw matting! Ellen must have done it a-purpose. 'Twas dreiful kind of her, I think."

A Sabbath quiet brooded over the house when they awoke in the morning. Outside they could hear birds singing—chickadees, bluebirds, a robin, a nuthatch.

They talked awhile in whispers, then Uncle Nathan said: "Don't you s'pose we could get up real still and slip out and over to the old place? Seems 'sif 'twould make it seem more like Sunday somehow."

"I don't see why we couldn't," Aunt Mary answered. "I wonder if we can see it from here."

She got up and went to look out of one of the front windows.

"Why!" She held the curtain farther aside and looked harder. "Why, I can't —make it—seem right. Why, Nathan!"—as the sun burst forth—"the sun is rising over across the road in the west, or else I'm losing my mind!"

Uncle Nathan sprang out of bed and stated out over her shoulder. "It ain't the Torrey place," he said, slowly. "Miles has been placing some joke on us. If I didn't know it couldn't be, I should think—"

He went to a window on the other side. "Mary—come quick," he cried, excitedly. "It's our elm tree, and our barn; the Torrey place is over there, and their house is gone!"

Aunt Mary sank into a chair. "What does it mean?" she asked weakly.

"I don't know," he answered, beginning to dress in feverish haste. "Hurry up, and we'll go somewhere and find out."

They were both dressed, when a large piece of paper, half under the door, caught their attention. As Uncle Nathan's name appeared on it, he opened and read it.

"Mr. and Mrs. Caswell: This house and everything in it is yours, a free gift from your many friends."

"They moved the Torrey house over here and fitted it all up for us," said Uncle Nathan in an awed voice.

They looked at each other as if stunned for a moment, then Aunt Mary threw herself into Uncle Nathan's arms, and they cried together.

He was the first to recover. "How ridickerlous for us to stand here a-weeping!" he said. "Come—let's explore."

Aunt Mary wiped her eyes and followed him into the kitchen.

"Just like our old one, for all the world!" said Uncle Nathan. "And the woodbox full of kindlings, all ready to start a fire."

"They went over the house together. "I see how 'twas," said Aunt Mary thoughtfully. "As long as the house itself was like the old one, they thought they'd make the rooms as near like as they could, and everybody helped. That grandfather clock must have come from Jed Washburn—you know his and our'n was jest alike; the sitting room carpet is the one Susan Witherell had in her spare room—we bought 'em off the same piece; the paper is some Silas Crane had left on his hands when he failed up five years ago; Dr. Burrell give that old desk —why; I can tell where 'most every single thing come from'"

Then with grateful hearts they walked along the road they had traveled so many times before, to meet their old neighbors and join them in the Easter service at the new chapel.

WANTED REAL MONEY.

Sabetha Herald: The National Bank of Sabetha gets its paper money from the government in large sheets. After the bills are signed by the officers of the National Bank of Sabetha each bill is cut off with a pair of scissors and the paper becomes currency.

Some time ago Jason Waltman went over into Missouri to buy a farm. Desiring to have the money in convenient form, he got the bank bills in the large uncut sheets. He went to Missouri and everything went smoothly. Negotiations for the farm with the old farmer were soon completed, and when it came time for Waltman to hand over the money he pulled out a couple of sheets of bills. Getting a pair of scissors from the farmer's wife he began to cut off the bills with which to make the purchase. The farmer looked at the operation, mouth open and eyes bulging. After Waltman had cut off a few of the bills the farmer stopped him.

"Now, hold on here, brother," he said, "I want you to know that I take the Jasper County Farmer, an' I've bin readin' about them gold bricks an' things. I don't want none of yer Sunflower money that ain't got the ink dry on it yit. Excuse me, but I'll have to have some real Missouri money that's got some dirt and grease on it."

The payment was soon made in another way, and Waltman brought the sheets back to Sabetha with him.

The man who never tries to trade something he needs slightly for something he needs badly overlooks a ures in the answer.

OPERATORS AT FRISCO TO STRIKE

Will be Purely Local and Not to Affect Eastern Offices.

San Francisco, June 21.—Telegraphers in the employ of the Western Union and Postal companies in San Francisco and Oakland will strike today.

This strike will be purely local, and will not affect Eastern offices. President Small of the Commercial Telegraphers union is in conference with the local committee. He has seen the statement issued yesterday by President Clowry of the Western Union Telegraph company, but says that it will make no difference so far as the situation in San Francisco is concerned.

President Small said the calling of the strike depends upon the treatment accorded the union committee by the telegraph officials here. If the companies will give the men a satisfactory statement or agree to arbitration there will be no strike. If they decline to receive the committee the men will walk out.

For the present only the San Francisco and Oakland offices of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies will be affected.

DECISIONS BY SUPREME COURT

Complainant of Street Car Advertising Gets No Relief.

St. Paul, June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the supreme court today, a decision was filed affirming the order of the Ramsey county district court in its refusal to give relief to James H. Burns, owner of the St. Paul Herald, who seeks to enjoin the St. Paul City Railway company from carrying advertising in its cars. The court holds that Burns' alleged injury is too remote for consideration.

Mr. Burns, in his complaint, alleged that because of the advertising in the cars, needed revenue was being diverted from the St. Paul Herald. His point was that the company's franchise did not permit it the advertising side line.

The court, in its decision, does not pass on the question involved. It simply denies the right of Mr. Burns to bring the suit, and hints if he wants relief the attorney general is the one to apply to.

Other decisions were:

Wilfred Berneche, respondent, vs. John W. Hilliard, personal injury suit, St. Louis county. Reversed and new trial granted.

Wulf C. Krabbenhoft, appellant, vs. Christian H. Wright, respondent. Boundary line dispute. Clay county. Reversed.

The supreme court today refused to interfere in the case of Jacob Touri, sentenced from St. Louis county to Stillwater for manslaughter in the first degree. Touri claimed to have killed his man in self-defense. He asked for a new trial following his conviction and this was refused. Order affirmed.

THE TWO DAVISES.

Chicago Record-Herald: A number of years ago there were two men in the employ of the Santa Fe who were named Davis. One was James A. Davis, who was then in charge of the railroad's industrial department. The other Davis was in charge of the railroad's refrigerator line. James Davis was a "hot air" artist whom the company always selected to "jolly" state legislatures.

The other Davis was also a genial fellow, but owing to the fact that he had cnarge of the iced goods which went over the road and could not hold a candle to James A. when it came to talking things out of people, he acquired the reputation of being somewhat chilly.

One day the president pushed the office boy's bell button and the young autocrat hastily put in an appearance.

"Boy," said the president, "tell Mr. Davis that I would like to see him right away."

The boy started for the door, hesitated, thought a moment, and then turning to the president he said:

"Mr. Davis, sir?"

"Yes, Mr. Davis."

"Hot or cold?"

HOW HE WAS IDENTIFIED.

New York Globe: "There's a queer case," remarked an Upper Broadway statue as a man passed and nodded to him "That chap is a twin, and I've known him two years, but I'm blessed if I can tell at this minute whether it's Jack or Jim. They are as alike as two peas—and they always dress alike."

The twin entered a nearby cafe, and some minutes later emerged and retraced his steps.

"Hello, Jake; how are you?" said the Broadway statue, grasping his hand. "Glad to see you. How's Jim?"

"Thought you couldn't tell 'em apart?" said the statue's companion.

"I couldn't then. But the minute he went through that door I knew him. Jim never drinks."

ILLINOIS DELEGATES

Received With Enthusiasm by Western Federation of Miners.

Denver, June 21.—Duncan McDonald and Frank Farrington, messengers from the United Mine Workers of Illinois addressed the convention of the Western Federation of Miners today. The opinion expressed by Mr. McDonald that the arraignment of the federation officials at Boise had done more to consolidate and organize the miners than any combination of circumstances in the past, was applauded.

He stated that unions should establish great daily papers and unfair reports of the Boise list would probably result in the Chicago papers being placed on the unfair list. A vote of thanks was given the visitors by the convention. The only matter of importance before the convention was the discussion of the amendment to the preamble to the constitution which was proposed yesterday.

PONY EXPRESS MAIL.

One of the most romantic institutions of the old West, the pony express, has been revived by Col. J. C. Miller of the 101 ranch, which is now giving an exhibition at the Coliseum as the result of a wager. The extraordinary tales of the prowess and endurance of riders and mounts in the days when the mail was carried at the saddle horn on the back of a loping cayuse are being put to the test, with $3,000 as the stakes, says the Chicago Chronicle.

In a conversation with some stock yards men shortly after 101 ranch, which is en route for the Jamestown exposition, opened its local engagement, Col. Miller remarked in an offhand manner that the pony express standard of fifty miles a day for horse and man, week in and week out, was a splendid tribute to the stamina of the Western breed, man and horse. One of the stock experts laughed skeptically, and asserted that pony express stories were good enough for dime novel readers, but could not be swallowed by men of experience in horseflesh.

Thus challenged, Col. Miller offered to "make good" for the pony express by duplicating its feats. "I will send one of my men to ride advance of us from Chicago to Washington," he declared. "With only one horse he will make fifty miles every day, and will accomplish the distance of 900 miles in about eighteen days. And I would be willing to wager a small sum upon the result."

The stock yards man declared he would bet $500 that no one horse could endure the ordeal without dying under its rider. The colonel called him, and then asked for more money. The scoffer's friends put up $1,000 more, and the colonel took them on, for he doesn't bother himself about expenses, 101 ranch being as rich as a ducal estate.

Accordingly, "Jimmie" Bemis, on his pony "Pat," so named because he was born at 101 ranch on March 17, started from the city hall at noon last Monday to hit the long trail for Washington. He had a light camp outfit, and gave his word to sleep out every night if the weather permitted. Wrapped in oiled papers were personal letters from Col. Miller to President Roosevelt, recalling an old acquaintance and inviting the chief executive to attend the opening of the 101 ranch show at the Jamestown exposition, June 1. Bemis remarked, as he shook Col. Miller's hand in good-by: "I'll clatter up to the White House on the 18th day or bust trying." Then pony Pat went scampering down Washington street, turned south on Michigan avenue, and disappeared. Postal cards which Bemis sent back indicate that the fifty miles per day has been covered with faithful regularity all of this week.

If the men who made the bet with Col. Miller had taken the trouble to consult Charles F. Lummis, that authority on all Western matters, whether scientific or romantic, they would have secured data which would have caused them to hesitate about putting up their money so hastily. In an article called "Pioneer Transportation in America," he has written an accurate and thrilling history of the achievements of the pony express.

According to him, the world's record for organized and schedule riding was made and held by that institution. Never before or since has mail been carried so fast, so far, and for so long merely by horse power. The pony express carried mail from the East to California at $5 an ounce for about two years. It ran from Independence, Mo., to San Francisco a distance of 1,950 miles. Its time for the trip was ten days, and it never needed eleven. It employed 500 of the fastest and hardiest horses that could be found in the West, 200 station keepers, and 80 riders. The stations were from 65 to 100 miles apart, according to water locations. The riders were allowed only two minutes for changing mounts and mail at the stations.

The first starter from the San Francisco end was Harry Roff, who left San Francisco April 23, 1860. He made the first 20 miles with one change of mount in 50 minutes. The second station," 185 miles, which included the crossing of the Sierra Nevada mountains, with 25 feet of snow, was done in 15 hours and 20 minutes, the summit drifts being trampled down to make a path by a train of mules. On the same day that Roff left San Francisco Johnny Frey started from St. Joe, Mo., with the westbound mail, which went through in the same time. The weight of mail was limited to 15 pounds, and the salary of the riders was $125 per trip, with provisions.

"Buffalo Bill" Cody was one of the most famous pony express riders, getting his first job as a 14-years-old "kid" from the man who invented the system. Cody achieved a record which stood during the existence of the institution—a round trip, necessitated by the killing of his relief by a landslide—of 384 miles, without stops, except to change horses and to swallow a hasty meal.

Equally heroic, if not so well known to fame, was "Pony Bob" Haslam, whose record was a 250-mile ride through regions infested by hostile Indians, who had killed the man that went before him. After the telegraph system gave the pony express its quietus "Pony Bob" was a Wells-Fargo messenger, making a 190-mile round trip every twenty-four hours, his time on the road being ten hours. Then for six months he ran from Reno to Virginia City every day, using fifteen horses and doing the twenty-three miles in one hour. Jack Keetly, another pony express rider, made a trun of 340 miles in 31 hours. Jim Moore, another member of the small but celebrated band, rode 280 miles in 14 hours and 56 minutes.

It was the proud boast of the pony express service that in all its dangerous achievements it lost but one mail. Holdup men were to blame. Another accident came near doubling the list. The rider was waylaid by Indians, shot and scalped. But the frontier-bred horse broke away and came clattering into the next station with the mail pouch safe at the blood-stained saddle horn. The letters from California went through on time, even though the brave rider who carried them part of the way was an unburied and mutilated corpse stiffening in the desert sun.

ENDING FEUD FIGHTS.

Washington Herald: "The ancient feud of the Hatfields and McCoys has about died out and the members of the opposing factions are behaving in a very orderly way these days," said Frank Tyree, United States marshal for the southern district of West Virginia. "Only the other day I had a chat with Devil Anse Hatfield, who lives in my district, and who is ordinarily a quiet enough citizen. Some marriages that have taken place between young members of the feudist families went a good way toward placating their mutual hatred, but I should say that the chief cause of the decline of the troubles was the pressure of an advancing civilization. The encroachments of railroads and the increase of schoolhouses mean the death of the feud idea, and in a few years its practise will have entirely ceased.

"I can remember as a boy in my Kentucky home the greatest of all feuds this country ever knew, that between the Tollivers and Martins in Rowan county. That was brought to an end through the grim determination of the governor of the state, John Young Brown. He gave guns to a party of men and sent them to Moorehead, the county seat, with instructions that could not be misunderstood. The Tollivers had been running things for months in the county to suit themselves, and if anybody was bold enough to disapprove their acts he was promptly slain.

"The culmination of their outrages was the atrocious murder of two young boys, and it was that which led Governor Brown to take his apparently extreme course.

"Well, the posse found the Tollivers and went to work on them with Winchester rifles. The leader of the assailants was a young man close of kin to the murdered boys. He told his men to make a thorough job of the killing and they did. When they finally stopped shooting twenty-one of the Tolliver gang lay on the ground cold in death, their bodies riddled with bullets. This wholesale slaughter, while a desperate thing, was the only remedy of an intolerable situation. It put an end to the regime of lawlessness in Rowan county, and that particular feud was never resurrected."

EARLY CIGARETTE SMOKERS.

Reader: Who first introduced cigarettes into this country? They were first used in the streets here by the late Laurence Oliphant; and, curiously enough, the introduction of this method of smoking to the English people came as a result of the Crimean war.

Our officers in Russia, among other hardships, could not procure tobacco or cigars, and learned the use of the cigarette from the French, Italian and Turkish allies, and also from their stay in Malta and Gibraltar.

Introduced into London military and other clubs, the new custom made very slow progress. But its use steadily spread from 1870 to 1880, when the fashion was set by the golden youth of those days.

OXFORD NEEDS MONEY.

Outlook: The first public act of Lord Curzon as chancellor of the University of Oxford was the publication of an appeal asking for $1,250,000 to meet the pressing needs of the university, among which he enumerates the promotion of modern and scientific studies and the maintenance of the Bodleian library.

In many departments of science, he declares, Oxford is unable, for want of necessary funds and appliances, to supply a scientific basis for practical work and an electrical laboratory and provision for giving scientific training for the practical profession of engineering are greatly needed.

He says that the gift of Cecil Rhodes, the greatest benefaction which the university has received of late years, has brought with it a burden, adding, as it does, 200 men from all parts of the British empire, from the United States and from Germany to the body of undergraduates, and imposing upon the university the necessity of offering the newcomers all that is best in teaching, equipment and study.

To Americans it would seem as if this appeal from an institution so venerable, so venerated, so intimately associated not only with English scholarships, but with English literature and English history, would meet with prompt response. Unfortunate, so far neither the universities nor the Cathedrals have been able to make up by popular gifts for the great losses they have sustained by the shrinkage of incomes caused by the fall of rents during the last generation.

WHEAT HAS A DECLINE

Both Active Options Close a Fraction Lower in Duluth.

Flax One Cent Lower at Close of Quiet Session.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 21.—Wheat had weaker tendencies in the American markets at the openin gteday and despite a slight advance during the day on good buying and some bullish reports from the Northwestern wheat fields, the closing prices were slightly off in most of the markets. Prices were somewhat irregular, however. The cables were lower, Argentine shipments liberal and the Modern Miller was bearish, except concerning the Illinois crop. These bearish factors offset reports of damage to the North Dakota crop by worms and complaints of a lack of rain in the western part of that state. Spring wheat for Eastern shipment was in good demand in the Duluth market during the session. Liverpool closed 5d to ½d lower, Berlin ½c lower and Budapest 1⅝c higher.

The Modern Miller says:

"Numerous reports have been received, mostly from Illinois, of injury to winter wheat from too much rain when the plant was in the blooming stage and by the development of rust. The heads are reported as not filling well. Otherwise there are no complaints and conditions in general are considered satisfactory."

The July option closed ⅛c lower in Duluth and Winnipeg, unchanged in Chicago, New York and Kansas City, a shade lower in Minneapolis, and ¼c lower in St. Louis. The September option closed ⅛c lower in Duluth and New York, a shade lower in Chicago, unchanged in Minneapolis and Kansas City and ⅛c higher in St. Louis. The October option closed ½c lower in Winnipeg.

July corn closed ⅛c lower in Chicago and was ¼d to ½d lower in Liverpool. July oats closed ⅝c lower in Chicago.

Car receipts at Duluth were 55, against 36 last year, and at Minneapolis 155, against 190 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 249, against 226 last year. Chicago received 18, against 4 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 391,000 bus, last year 294,000 bus. Shipments, 498,000 bus, last year, 167,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 259,000 bus.

Argentine shipments of wheat were 3,312,000 bus, against 2,864,000 bus last week and 1,640,000 bus a year ago.

Primary receipts of corn were 749,000 bus, last year, 671,000 bus. Shipments, 706,000 bus, last year, 417,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 153,006 bus.

Argentine shipments of corn were 1,853,000 bus, against 1,551,000 bus, last week and 2,876,000 bus a year ago.

Wheat was quiet in the Duluth market except during the early part of the session. The closing prices were a little off from yesterday. July wheat opened ½c lower at 97⅞c, advanced to 97¾c by 9:40, declined to 97⅝c by 10:04, reacted to 98c by 10:45, went off to 97¾c by 12:22, rallied to 98c by 12:52 and closed at 97⅞, a loss of ⅛c from yesterday. September wheat opened ⅝c lower at 93¼c advanced to 93½c, declined to 93c, rallied to 93¾c, went off to 93⅛c, reacted to 93¾c, declined to 93⅛c and closed at 93⅝c, a loss of ⅛c from yesterday. December wheat opened unchanged at 96⅛c, went off to 95⅞c and closed at 96⅛c, unchanged from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¼c yower and cash spring wheat was selling on the basis of ½c over July for No. 1 northern.

It is estimated that the amount of wheat in store at Duluth will decrease 625,000 bus., this week.

Flax was quiet throughout the day and the closing prices were 1c lower. July flax opened unchanged at $1.27, declined to $1.26 and closed at that price, a loss of 1c from yesterday. September flax opened ¼c lower at $1.27¼, declined to $1.26½, rallied to $1.26¾ and closed at $1.26⅝, a loss of 1c from yesterday.

October flax opened ⅛c lower at $1.24, declined to $1.23¼, rallied to $1.24 and closed at $1.23⅝, a loss of ⅞c from yesterday.

Argentine shipments of flax were 632,000 bus against 512,000 bus last week and 152,000 bus a year ago.

It is estimated that the supply of flax in store at Duluth will decrease 50,000 bus this week.

The coarse grains were unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

FISHHAWK GAVE UP PREY.

St. Augustine Record: Aleck Canova brought a three-pound trout to the Record office this morning and gave a very interesting description of the manner in which it was caught.

His son, Frank, observed a big fishhawk swoop down on the fish near Bar creek, about a mile and a half north of town, and noted that the fish was of very respectable size. He watched the big bird until it hovered almost overhead but within close range, and he picked up a stone and with splendid accuracy hurled the missile at the hawk, striking it.

The bird dropped the trout and Frank ran forward and took charge of it. The head was torn open, but the body was uninjured except for the punctures made by the talons of the hawk.

PATCHES GAVE CLEW.

New York Times: Police business is usually a grim affair, but occasionally there is a bit of comedy in the day's work of the blue coat.

"I'll always remember the pursuit and capture of 'Hambone Charley,'" said Capt. Cottrell, now in command at the Leonard street police station. "It happened out in Flushing, where I cut my eye teeth as a police captain.

"Almost every day some irate citizen would come to the station house and complain that a roast or a joint or a string of sausage had been stolen from his ice box. But if there was a hambone in the refrigerator, it was always taken in preference to anything else. That's why we christened the unknown marauder 'Hambone Charley.'

"The old Mother Hubbard business of going to the cupboard and finding it bare is not a soothing experience to a hungry family. 'Hambone Charley' became the hated pest of Flushing.

"I put detectives on the case; but neither they nor any of the breaved citizens could get the slightest clew.

"One afternoon, after these ice box raids had been going on for a couple of months, a cook heard the kitchen door slam. She ran out into the back yard, and was just in time to see a pair of patched trousers disappearing through a hole under the fence. One patch was brown and the other was gray.

"A messenger was sent for me, and I hurried around with a couple of detectives. To use the cook recounted what she had seen of the thief.

"We then went a sleuthing for a man inside of a pair of patched trousers. And I can tell you that neither before nor since have I made such careful inspection of the rear facade of my fellow citizens.

"After three hours' searching a pair of trousers patched as per description, and with a colored gentleman inside them, was discovered in a ragtime dance hall.

"We lead the protesting wearer of the trousers to the station house. The cook was summoned, and then the accused was made to assume the attitude that he was in when last seen by the cook.

"'That's him!' said she.

"Those patches got 'Hambone Charley' a month in jail."

WIGS OF SPUN GLASS.

London Daily Mail: The enormous feminine demand for artificial coils and toupees is leading to a famine in human hair. Formerly Swiss, German and Hungarian girls supplied the world of fashionable women with luxuriant tresses of all tints.

But the governments of many countries are now making it illegal for a girl to sell her hair, or for an agent to buy it. The supply in consequence is running short, and thep rices of real hair are trebling.

A series of successful experiments point to spun glass as the most effective substitute for human hair. Wigs made from spun glass are wonderfully light and fine, and the texture soft and beautiful.

It is easy to produce any shade desired, while curls and waves can be manufactured at will to suit the fashion of the moment. The imitation is so realistic and true to life that it is impossible to detect the difference between it and real hair grown on the head.

CRAZY ITALIAN SHOOTS THREE MINNESOTANS ON TRAIN CROSSING KANSAS

T. P. Topp, a Tailor of St. Paul, Instantly Killed.

Mrs. Marion Olsen, a Bride From Marshall, Badly Hurt.

Her Sister, Mrs. Blakesley, is Shot in the Shoulder.

Denver, June 22.—In a shooting affray that occurred in a chair car of passenger train No. 5, westbound on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad late last night between Dresden and Selden in Western Kansas, a man was killed, and Mrs. Morris Oslen of Marshall, Minn., and her sister, were wounded. The shots were fired by John Bells, an Italian barber en route from Boston to San Francisco, who had boarded the train at Chicago Thursday night.

Before the shooting began most of the passengers were dozing in their chairs. They were awakened by frantic yells and pistol shots. Five shots were fired in rapid succession by Bell as he walked through the aisle from the front to the rear of the car, taking accurate aim at one passenger after another.

The first shot struck Mrs. Olsen, the bullet passing through the jaws and coming out through the left side. Mrs. Olsen's sister, Mrs. Harry Blakesley, sitting opposite her, was hit in the right shoulder with the second bullet. Their wounds are not fatal. After being shot both women rushed to the smoking car ahead, and a majority of the male passengers followed as quickly as possible, tumbling over one another in their haste to escape.

Bells' third bullet passed through the man's heart. He was found dead later in his seat. His facial expression was calm, and from his position it seemed that he was sleeping when shot.

By this time only two other men remained in the car, Charles A. Gilliat of Denver, an employe of the Griffin Wheel company, and D. R. Slawson of Pueblo. Gilliat closed in on Bells and wrenched his revolver from his hands, but not before two more shots had been fired, neither of which, however, hit anybody. Before being overpowered, Bells drew a razor, and with this he fought desperately. A negro porter from the tourist car, armed with a billy, finally succeeded in knocking the razor out of the Italian's hand, and Bells was then seized and bound by

FRAUDS IN COAL LANDS

The Government Brings Suit Against Prominent Oregon Men.

Sixty Indictments to Be Returned Against Colorado Capitalists.

Portland, Or., June 22.—The Oregonian today says that seeking to cancel six coal land claims in Lewis county, Wash., forty miles east of Chehalis, patented to Portland men, the government yesterday filed suit in the United States circuit court at Tacoma, charging that the patents were secured by fraud. The government alleges that O. E. Lytle, William Crooks, Joel M. Long and A. L. Mohler and others entered into a conspiracy to defraud the government out of titles of the aforesaid lands, and that they "believing said land to contain large and valuable deposits of coal, procured and obtained certain persons to make filings thereon."

The lands in question were patented in 1903 to stockholders of the Portland Coal & Coke Co., composed of nearly fifty men, nearly all of Portland. This company, the government alleges, is a "subsidiary of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Co.," meaning that it exists for the purpose of passing the land from the patentees to the Oregon Railway & Navigation Co. for whom it is charged the coal project has been promoted.

The complaint charges that the de-

POLICE HUNT FOR TUGMAN

Disappears in Chicago and Thought to Have Been Killed.

Chicago, June 22.—The police are today endeavoring to solve the mystery connected with the disappearance last night of Walter Scott, 30 years old, steward of the tug J. C. Evans. Officials of the company today notified the police that they believed Scott had been killed with a cleaver which was found covered with blood on the floor of the kitchen of the tug. The walls and floor of the kitchen were also spattered with blood. The body of Scott has not been found.

PUNISHMENT FOR AMERICAN PLAYERS.

Milwaukee, June 22. — President O'Brien of the American association, received a report today from Umpire Hayes, and in consequence suspended Manager Mike Cantillon of the Minneapolis club for three days for umpire baiting, in the game at Milwaukee, June 20.

He also fined Tip O'Neill and Capt. Dundon, of the Minneapolis club, for using profane language during the same game, the fines being $10 each.

LIEUTENANT ENDS LIFE.

Kiev, June 22.—Lieut. Wuyakhevich, who participated in the suppression of the recent mutiny of the sapper battalion, has committed suicide.

FOURTH VICTIM DIES.

Ironton, Ohio, June 22.—Mrs. George Thacker died yesterday, making the fourth from the tragedy of June 12. Mrs. Thacker was shot by her son-in-law, Charles Shafer, who also killed his wife and young son, whose body he tried to burn, and then committed suicide rather than be caught. Shafer's act followed the filing of a divorce suit by his wife.

TWO KILLED BY POLICE

Victims of Riot Are Buried Secretly to Avoid Trouble.

Lisbon, June 21.—The two persons killed by the police while suppressing a political demonstration against Premier Franco, which marked his return here from Oporto, June 19, were buried secretly by the police during the night in order to avoid manifestations.

There have been a number of clashes between the police, in which some of the latter were slightly wounded, and numerous arrests have been made, the prisoners being taken to the Caxias fortress.

It is said that the government intends to prosecute the leaders of the opposition who are accused of striking up a revolt against Premier Franco's attempts to introduce reforms in the government.

THINKS THE WORST OVER

French Premier Gives His Colleagues a Hopeful View.

Paris, June 22.—Premier Clemenceau was able to give his colleagues at this morning's meeting of the cabinet a generally hopeful report of the situation, the belief being that the worst is over. The minister decided that under the circumstances and in view of the bloodshed it would be out of harmony with his own and public opinion for President Fallieres to attend the coming festivities at Royan and Bordeaux, where he intended to review the fleets and attend a reception on board the United States armored cruiser Washington. The arrangements for the president's visits were therefore cancelled.

With the exception of the conflict between troops and rioters at Montpelier, where order was restored in the early hours of the morning, the night passed without any disturbances in the south.

ALL RAILROAD FARES TO BE BUT TWO CENTS A MILE

Presidents of Leading Roads Meet in Secret Conference and Decide to Abolish Old Rates on July 1.

Chicago, June 22.—The Inter-Ocean today says: Passenger rates on all railroads of the United States will be reduced to two cents a mile. The lowering of the price and complete abolition of the old three-cent rates will begin on July 1.

This was the decision reached in Chicago yesterday, after a long heated discussion by the leading railroad presidents of all the Western and transcontinental roads. It was not a formal agreement, but is equally binding, for two large roads doing a transcontinental business are said to have served an ultimatum to others that they would put the rate into effect immediately.

Following the meeting, officials of several of the roads admitted that they had been worried to bow to public opinion and anti-railroad legislation. They said that no further fight would be made on the two-cent laws already passed, and that the roads would accept the inevitable.

Among those who are said to have attended the secret meeting were: President B. L. Winchell of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific and President A. J. Earling of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Neither would discuss the report last night.

LITTLE TOWN WASHED AWAY

Swollen Rio Grande Wipes Out Hamlet of Guadalajara.

Albuquerque, N. M., June 22.—The Rio Grande, swollen by recent rains, in New Mexico, has passed the danger stage along the valleys out of this city, and thousands of dollars' worth of damage has been done. Guadalajara, a small hamlet of several hundred people, in Cocorro county, is reported entirely washed away, and the natives homeless. Great damage has been done in San Antonio, N. M., and at San Pedro and San Antonio, small native villages below San Antonio. A large force of men is at work building levees at San Antonio to keep out the water. At Guadalajara the river suddenly changed its channel, and the villagers barely escaped with their lives.

LAST LINK OPENED.

Charles T. Yerkes' Tube System in London Is Finally Completed.

London, June 22.—The last link of the late Charles T. Yerkes' tube system of underground railroads was opened today. The line, which connects the north suburbs with the heart of London, is eight miles long. It was begun in 1903, runs on an average sixty feet below the surface, and cost $25,000,000. A party of financiers and officials attended the opening ceremony, which was followed by an elaborate luncheon. The public were permitted to travel free during the afternoon and evening, and were given souvenirs of the opening of the road.

IS ACTING AS MAYOR

Schmitz Performs Many Duties While Confined in Cell.

Chief of Police Refuses to Recognize Acting Mayor.

San Francisco, June 22.—From his executive cell in the county jail, Mayor Schmitz returned to the board of supervisors, last evening, the municipal budget and a message, vetoing the appropriation of $720,000 for the reconstruction of the Geary street road.

Schmitz, beside opposing the appropriation for the Geary street railway, also objected to the levy of a special tax of 20 cents to raise revenue for the city government.

Acting Mayor Gallagher said last night that Schmitz's right to pass upon the budget was not questioned by the board.

The first actual clash between Chief of Police Dinan and Acting Mayor Gallagher came yesterday, when Dinan flat-footedly refused to recognize Gallagher's signature as that of the mayor of San Francisco. The signature was on a fight permit, issued to the Central Athletic club for a

BEEN IN COURT FOR MANY YEARS

Suit Involving Oregon Pacific Deal Won by Defendant.

New York, June 22.—One of the most complicated and long continued law suits brought in this juristiction for many years was terminated in favor of the defendants Thursday by a decision of the United States court of appeals of this district. The title of the suit was "Hogg vs. Coe and another." Named at intervals in connection with the action were John I. Blair, Rowland Hazard, S. S. Sands, Percy Pyne and George S. Coe. The basis of the suit was the socalled Oregon-Pacific deal, in which it was alleged upwards of $12,000,000 was lost. This suit was brought on assigned claims originally by subscribers to the syndicate fund againt the estate of George S. Coe, former president of the American Exchange bank, who was the trustee under a certain syndicate agreement formed for the purpose of re-establishing some of these railroad interests, and charged Mr. Coe with bad faith in the performance of his trust.

FREIGHT CLAIM AGENTS ELECT NEW OFFICERS.

Denver, June 22.—The American Freight Claim association yesterday concluded a three-days' session in this city by electing officers and selecting Atlantic, N. J., as the place of meeting in May, 1908. The officers chosen are: President, R. C. Richards, general claim agent of the Chicago & Northwestern; secretary and treasurer, W. P. Taylor. The association adopted laws in conformity with the Hepburn rate bill.

Strikebreakers Are Now on Their Way to Frisco's Relief.

Their Arrival May Cause Other Telegraphers to Go Out.

San Francisco, June 22.—The situation here in connection with the strike of telegraph operators is quiet. In all, about 200 men are out upon conservative estimate, and the service is now maintained in the offices of both companies by officials, including chief operators and wire chiefs, together with several men and women who have remained loyal.

General Superintendent Frank Jaynes of the Western Union, is accredited with the statement that the company hopes to be running fairly well in another week, when outside operators were expected to arrive to fill the places of the strikers.

It was learned last night that fifteen operators for the Western Union were on their way to San Francisco from the East, and had passed through Rawlins, Wyo. It is believed the company has had these men in reserve in anticipation of the strike and that it has arranged for others to follow them. Superintendent Jaynes has refused to make any definite admissions about the strike-breaking operators the company intends to import. As to whether the strike shall be ordered to extend to other cities remains to be determined. The Postal and Western Union officials insist they will hold no conference with the officials of the union. If they remain obdurate other cities may be called out thus tying up all telegraph business of the West.

The telegraph operators struck at 3:30 yesterday afternoon. Three short blasts from a police whistle gave the signal and at the sound the operators of the Western Union and Postal companies arose from the tables, put on their coats and quit their jobs.

Both the Postal and Western Union main San Francisco offices are located close together in the Ferry building. Since the fire the main relay office of the Western Union has been at West Oakland, where about 150 men and women are employed, and at outside branch offices about twenty more. The Postal company has sixty operators in the main San

SHOCKS THE LONDONERS

Mark Twain Appears in Public in His Bathrobe.

Crosses Street With Bare Legs in Full View.

London, June 22.—Mark Twain exhibited himself as an eccentric Thursday, and every staid Londoner who witnessed the exhibition fairly gasped for breath. Twain appeared in the foyer of Brown's hotel garbed only in a blue bath robe and slippers, with about three inches of bare legs showing.

The sight of an elderly man with bushy white hair in this unconventional costume startled the patrons of the hotel and worried the employes tremendously, but Twain coolly surveyed the people who were staring at him and then, accompanied by his secretary, R. W. Ashcroft, walked out the front door of the hotel into Dover street.

The sidewalks were thronged with shop girls on their way to work, who stopped short and gazed in astonishment at the American humorist as he made his way toward a bath club nearly opposite the hotel.

After his bath, Twain returned to his hotel in his three-piece costume and had the pleasure of making a lot more people open their eyes wide.

The manager of the hotel was aghast as he saw Twain enter the hotel, but didn't make a fuss. His feeling was that a great man like Twain must be allowed to do as he pleases.

Twain himself professed wonder at the excitement he had caused.

"I simply wanted to take a bath," he said, "and did the same thing I'd often done at the seaside. London is a sort of a seaside town, isn't it?"

RUSSIAN OFFICIALS HOT AFTER THE PRESS.

St. Petersburg, June 22.—The government's repressive campaign against the Liberal press to prevent hostile criticism of the disolution of parliament and the electoral law, continues vigorously. Dispatches from many cities report that papers have been fined from $500 to $3,000. The Radical papers have been suppressed, entirely, and the creditors in several instances fled, among them being M. Gorshkoff, who was a member of parliament from Yelizavetgrade. The fines inflicted at Moscow yesterday amounted to $7,200. Such representative organs as the Russkaya Viedomosti and the Russkoe Slovo, were fined without explanation.

ROCKEFELLER HEIR SCARED

Grandson of John D. is Thrown From His Pony Cart.

New York, June 22.—Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and her son, John D. Rockefeller III, were thrown from a pony cart in which they were riding in Tarrytown yesterday, but fortunately both escaped injury. A man suddenly emerging from behind a hedge frightened the pony, and he ran away, and when the cart struck a curb, Mrs. Rockefeller and the heir to the Rockefeller millions, were thrown out. Mrs. Rockefeller landed in a sitting position on the sod, with her boy clasped in her arms. The coachman, who was also thrown, was badly bruised.

FUNSTON ANGERS SAN FRANCISCANS

Says He is Loathe to Let Troops Parade on Fourth.

San Francisco, July 22.—In reply to an invitation requesting the participation of the United States troops in the Fourth of July parade, Gen. Frederick Funston sent a communication that has caused much discussion among the members of the committee having in charge the coming celebration.

While the members refuse to give out the letter for publication at this time, it is stated that one sentence used is responsible for the discussion. It appears that after thanking the committee for the kind invitation extended to the troops, Gen. Funston said he was loath to parade his men in the streets of San Francisco "to be" as he is quoted, "sneered at and jeered at by an unwhipped mob."

After considerable discussion, it was decided to appoint a special committee to consider the matter and decide whether any reply should be made. Supervisor O'Neil was appointed chairman and the Rev. Philip O'Ryan and Samuel Adelstein as the other members.
